

N-waste sites to be discussed

The possibility of placing nuclear dump sites in this area will be discussed at a meeting for elected officials and for the public at 9 a.m. Friday in the Dimmitt city hall meeting room.

Linda McClain of the US Dept. of Energy, (DOE) who is holding a similar meeting in Hereford tonight, will be the speaker.

The DOE has contracted core drilling tests at several locations in Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties in search of dumping sites for high-level nuclear waste. However, it is believed that no similar sites are being considered in Castro County.

The DOE tests have already drawn opposition through both petitions and citizens' meetings in Tulia and Hereford.

County joins highway push

The Castro County Commissioners breezed through 13 issues in a little over an hour Monday.

Highlight topic was highway funds — What can be done to keep them in the Texas Panhandle?

County Judge Mrs. M. L. Simpson told the commissioners about the meeting held last week in Amarillo concerning the growing need for an adequate highway system to transport products in the Panhandle.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee stressed the need to keep funds for repairs and for new highways in the area so that "we get our fair share," Mrs. Simpson said.

A coalition of area leaders and officials will be formed to present an appeal on Wednesday, Sept. 22, to the Texas Highway and Public Transportation Commission and to the state legislature. Sen. Bill Sarpalus will be the spokesman.

If enough people show interest, the Amarillo Chamber will probably charter a plane to go to Austin for the day, at a cost of approximately $40 per person, she added.

The commissioners said they will support the effort. Mrs. Simpson said she would let Amarillo know that Castro County will probably send representatives on the trip.

Vicki Jacobs of Panhandle Regional Planning Commission in Amarillo told the county board that PRPC will abide with the county's decision to keep the CETA program through Community Action.

"It is an excellent deliverer of services," she said.

The remaining question is whether the program will be delivered with PRPC or Balance of State administration. Apparently, the Dept. of Labor has assigned Balance of State in Austin to handle the program next year.

However, PRPC and Community Action leaders have met and would like to offer the program together in one system for efficiency, economy and greater local control, Ms. Jacobs said.

Mrs. Simpson asked Ms. Jacobs to let her know when the next meeting between PRPC and Community Action will be held.

In other action, the county governing board:

— Discussed the condition of Rhoads Memorial Library's roof. North Plains Roofing of Amarillo retopped the roof in July, 1980, providing a year's guarantee. Librarian Brick Autry said that he reported leakage before the year was up and that the roof continues to leak. An adjuster was to come to Dimmitt sometime this week to make an appraisal of the damage.

— Learned that two of the barns near the Expo Building were hit with lightning and that electrician Bob Murdock rewired them. Commissioners decided to wait until stock show time to turn on the electricity in the barns.

— Learned that two fans have been installed in the Expo Building. Commissioner Edd Wilson said that the 'Crime Line' being formed here

From now on, criminals in Castro County will not only have to be on the lookout for law officers. They'll also have to worry about all the eyes and ears that may see or hear about their crimes.

A group of citizens, who said they are worried mainly about a growing list of unsolved burglaries and thefts in the county, voted Monday night to establish a county-wide Crime Line and pay rewards to anonymous tipsters who help solve felonies.

The program, to be incorporated as Castro County Crime Line, Inc., will be governed entirely by private citizens — although it has the blessing of all the county's law enforcement agencies.

Local police departments and the sheriff's office will man the Crime Line telephone and act on tips, but the privately administered corporation will handle all the money and pay the rewards.

Here's how it will work: When a person calls Crime Line with information about any crime, he will be advised not to give his name. Instead, he will be assigned a number. After giving his tip over the phone, the caller will be told to call back at a certain time later.

Then the information will be relayed to the appropriate law enforcement agency, which will follow up on the tip.

If the tip leads to an "indictable arrest" for which a reward is offered, the law enforcement agency will immediately notify the Crime Line team, which will authorize cash payment of a reward and set up a "drop" site where the caller can collect it.

When the tipster calls Crime Line at the designated time later and identifies himself by number, he will be told exactly when and where to collect his reward. A member of Crime Line's "Drop Committee" will deliver the reward ahead of time to the designated place, then will leave and come back later to make sure the reward has been picked up. The "drop" point could be anywhere in the county.

Through the number-and-drop system, the tipster's identity remains unknown to law officers and Crime Line members, so he cannot be called into court later to testify. It will be up to law officers to use the tip to gain the evidence — and ideally, to obtain as confession — that can lead to an arrest. "A tip is sometimes all we need," said Deputy Sheriff Ron Jenkins of Hart. "Our investigations on thefts and burglaries have been ending where they start because nobody will tell us anything — nobody wants to get involved. We know somebody sees some of these crimes."

Eleven persons — men, women, business owners, farmers, professional people, salaried workers — volunteered Monday night to serve on the Crime Line Board. They're now drawing up a list of names of people from all points in the county to serve on a 25-member board of directors.

From this board, several will be chosen to serve on the "Drop Committee," and others will be appointed to the Fund Committee to solicit money, or to the "Grievance Committee," which will rule on any questions regarding payment of rewards — whether to pay in questionable situations, whether to increase the reward for certain crimes, whether to pay duplicate rewards, etc.

The Crime Line group wants to have all three cities and every crossroads community in the county represented on the board.

The governing board will meet only every month or two. The bulk of Crime Line's work will be carried out by the two committees and the local news media. Approximately 30 private citizens and law officers attended Monday night's meeting in Dimmitt's city hall auditorium. The group voted to form Castro County Crime Line, Inc., after hearing the coordinator of Lubbock Crime Line, Inc., tell of the success of the program in and around the Hub City.

Detective Sgt. Joel Nelson of the Lubbock Police Dept., who "answers the phone" for Lubbock Crime Line, Inc., said the program there was patterned after a successful one in Albuquerque. He added that Crime Lines are being organized in Floyd, Lynn, Deaf Smith, Hockley, Lamb and Dawson Counties.

"We've had several programs in Lubbock in the past — TIPS, and so forth — but the reason Crime Line works so well is that it is run by the citizens of Lubbock and Lubbock County," Nelson said. "They know what the city and county need."

Nelson reported that since [See CRIME LINE, Page 15]

Mustang All-Stars still alive

Dimmitt's Mustang League All-Stars are the city's last hope in the boys' baseball playoffs. All other local all-star teams have been eliminated from the Bronco and Babe Ruth playoffs. The Mustang All-Stars won their district championship and will play a do-or-die game tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in the sectional playoffs in Amarillo.

In its first game of the sectional tourney Monday, Dimmitt built an 8-3 lead over Amarillo going into the fifth inning, but Amarillo roared back with six runs to take a 9-8 win. The loss backed Dimmitt up against the wall, but still alive, in the double-elimination tourney. In the district tournament last week, Dimmitt lost to Hereford, 8-1, in their first meeting. But the Dimmitt lads made a comeback in their all-or-nothing second game and defeated Hereford 10-8 for the district championship.

In the Bronco League District Tournament played at George Howell Memorial Park here last week, both Dimmitt teams — the Whites and the Reds — lost their first games to Hereford teams. Dimmitt Red eliminated Dimmitt White 11-2 in the second round, but Hereford Gold knocked out Dimmitt's chances with a 12-10 victory in the semifinals.

But the victory was short-lived for the Hereford Golds. Hereford Blue wiped them out 17-0 in the championship game hitting six home runs in the title bout.

The undefeated Hereford Blue will begin play tonight in the Sectional Tournament at Hereford.

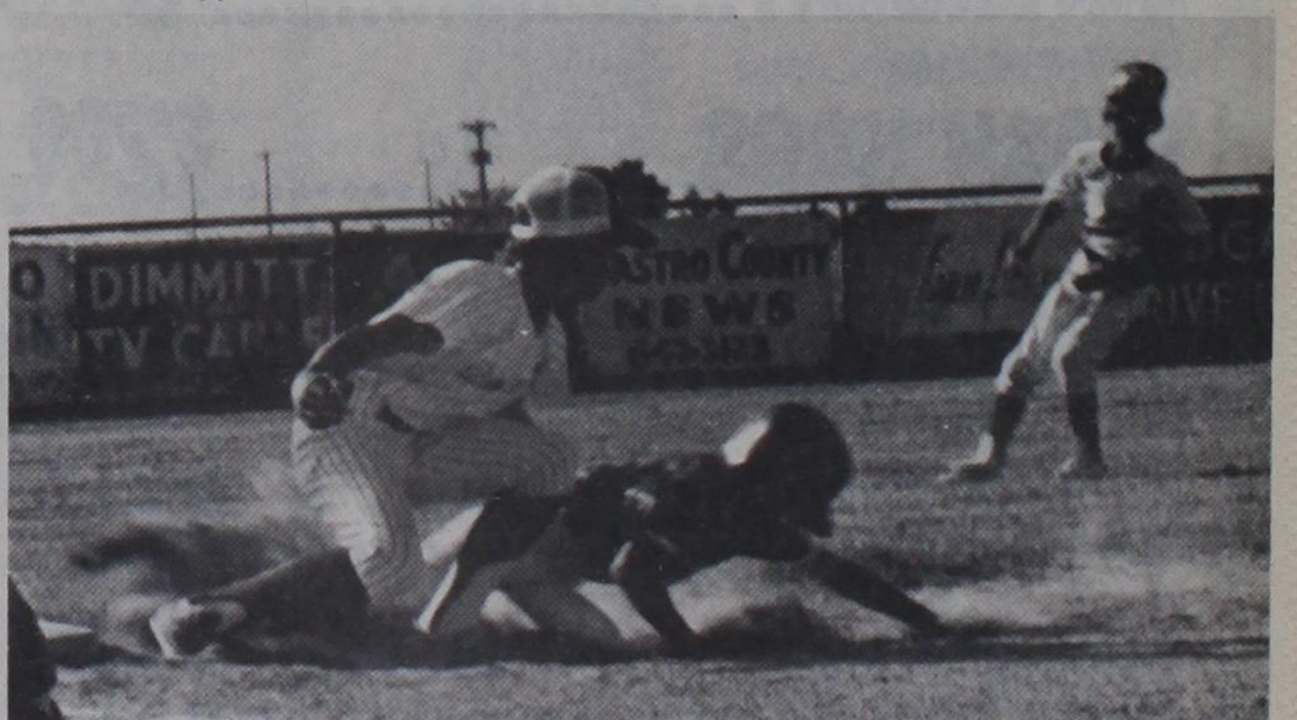

Bikers, beware

Kids, if you value your bicycles, you'd better keep them under lock and chain.

Three thefts of bicycles were reported to the Dimmitt Police Dept. during the last two weeks. One was taken from a residence on Northeast Third Sunday, one was taken from West Lee on July 20, and one was taken from Southeast Third on July 14 or 15.

Another report concerned parts removed from a bicycle.

Local officers caution bike owners to secure their bicycles before leaving them. All of the bikes reportedly stolen were taken from the yards or porches of residences.

CAUGHT AT THIRD—Kelly Howell is tagged out as he attempts to steal third during the Dimmitt Gold vs. Dimmitt Red game in the second round of the district Bronco League Tournament here last Thursday. The Gold eliminated the Red, 11-2.

Sheffy's Chatter

Maxwells tour, cruise on Gulf Coast

By Mary Edna Hendrix
It is summertime and folks are still on the go!
Dale Maxwell flew his wife Elsie, her daughter Traci Moore, and his mother Lewella Maxwell to Corpus Christi last week for a visit with his brother, Donnie Maxwell and family, Carol, Tonya and Terry. They all went out on the sightseeing ship, the Flag Ship, a new luxury three-decker, 400-passenger, paddle-wheeler, owned and operated by Captain Clark. They went down the coast and back. They reported it was a fun trip. The next day they went out on Padre Island, pulled off their shoes and cooled their feet in the water. When they returned to town they went to a restaurant named "Mexico," in Corpus and had a delicious Mexican food dinner. They also had a big fresh shrimp dinner at Donnie and Carol's home one day. They wanted to cook a rattlesnake dinner but Lewella said they didn't have an appetite for that.

Dale, Elsie, Traci and Terry flew to Harlingen one afternoon to visit Elsie's brother, Billy Cooper and his wife. Last of all they rode the ferry. Between all the going and eating, they reported it was the best vacation they had ever had. The Maxwells returned home Sunday.

Locals plan to attend Sul Ross

Kent Kirby and Jay Nelson both of Dimmitt, were among 143 incoming students to participate in freshman orientation at Sul Ross State University of Alpine in preparation for the fall semester.
They spent three days recently on the Sul Ross campus meeting university officials, visiting with faculty members and touring the campus. They also participated in career and educational planning sessions designed to help them select their fall classes and were treated to a get-acquainted party with other orientation participants.
Attending the parents' orientation sessions were Troy and Billie Kirby and Sandra Nelson, all of Dimmitt.

Alvin and Frances Frazier went to Fort Worth for the weekend and brought their granddaughters, Kendra and Traci, home with them to spend a couple of weeks. They are the daughters of Landol Frazier.
My granddaughter, Lauren Lankford, spent a few days with me while her mother, Mary Lynn, went to Glorieta, N.M., with her church group for Music Week. Ronna Lewis spent one night with Lauren while she was here.
Oleta Gollehon and her grandson, Ron Rankin, drove to Dallas last weekend to visit her daughter and Ron's mother, Kathy Poer in Plano. They saw several shows, including "Evita," a live musical comedy by the New York Company.

Flynt to stay on busy program

American Legion Commander Jack W. Flynt will attend a membership workshop in Indianapolis, Ind., today (Thursday) and Friday before traveling to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for an official visit.
He will give morning greetings Saturday to convention delegates and alternates, attend a luncheon for past district commanders and address the afternoon general assembly.
Flynt will spend the Hall of Fame Weekend in Cooperstown, N.Y., before flying on to Washington D.C. for meetings of the joint chiefs of staff.

Lynna, Kelley and Mikele Cloer, Lauren Lankford and I spent last weekend in Dumas visiting our cousins, Rev. Bruce and Mary Parks. Rev. Parks is the pastor of the United Methodist Church in Dumas. They have a lovely home and church where they serve. Bruce still likes to hunt rocks so he and Kelley went rock hunting on Monday morning in Plum Creek and he gave us all a "People Watcher" rock that he had made. Most of the Dimmitt Methodists have met the Parkses and their daughter and her husband, Melanie and Bill Beachy, as they have held services in the Methodist Church here.
I attended my 50th class reunion last Saturday in Tulia. We all met at the park for a barbecue dinner along with all the Old Timers. Tommy Stewart sang with a band for some of the entertainment. Tommy is probation officer for the youth and is in Dimmitt twice a week. I also saw Pat Elliott and Kay Gfeller from Dimmitt. Jack Hightower and Bill Sarpalius were there too. In the afternoon, members of my class met at the Willie Room at Swisher Electric Co-op and we enjoyed visiting with classmates and friends. Beral Hance came over for a few minutes and visited with Kahama T. (Morrow) Long, who is a mutual friend of ours, so I introduced her to most of my classmates. Saturday night we had a banquet and program at K-Bob's. 54 class members and their spouses attended.

classes had a picnic in the fellowship hall last Friday night. Joe Higgs and Bruce Ammons decorated the tables in red-checked tablecloths, red balloons and green plants. Some of the youth entertained with a skit, and the group that sings with the lveys and Fraziers sang several selections, along with Geneva Justice doing her impression of a crowing rooster. Special guests were Rev. Charles and Nancy Higgs and their daughter Andrea from Paris, Texas. Charles was educational director at First Baptist in Dimmitt several years ago.
My apology to the residents of Hart because I was unable to attend their Hart Days celebration because of a back injury that restricted me from driving that far.

Our sympathy goes to the Graham family on the death of their mother and grandmother Rachel Graham.
It was a beautiful evening for the Merritt-Parsons wedding. It was a lovely wedding and the reception was held inside as well as in the backyard. A band played for the enjoyment of everyone as they were served pickup foods and then went inside to be served either from the bride's table or the groom's table. I am sure the men enjoyed the unusual mints that were served from the groom's table. They were chocolate boots.
Debbie Murdock of Amarillo went to Grand Prairie to play softball. She is a member of the team, Nick's Chicks, and they are the No. 2 team in Amarillo. They won second in the Amarillo tournament. They played in the round robin tournament in Grand Prairie and won fourth place. I have known Debbie for several years when she lived in Dimmitt and she is very special to me.

Joe and Lois Scott have had out-of-town company. Lena Martin and her sister Agnes Shires from Abernathy visited with them and they came especially to visit with Jim Elder who has been in the hospital. They took Dorothy Elder out for lunch. Saturday night Joe's brother, G. W. Scott Jr., and friend Flo Mobley of Winters were visiting so they all went to K-Bob's for the evening meal. Others enjoying the occasion were the Joe Scotts and their son Ben and his wife Mollie and children Krystal, Anessa and Ben Jr., and Anna Lee Dobbins of Hereford.
Sue Kemp went to Weber Falls, Okla., for the funeral of her uncle, August Cox, who was buried last Saturday.
Louise Kemp is enjoying company this week - Ginger Ward and daughter Jessie from Atlanta, Ga., LaDawn Reichling from the San Francisco area and Sue and Carl Lee from Dimmitt. Louise said she was really enjoying cooking for them and she had already made two freezers of homemade ice cream.

Morgan and Geneva Dennis entertained Decimae and her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elmhorst, Kimie and Matt of Albuquerque, N.M. They took them to see "Texas," in Palo Duro Canyon and they all went to church Sunday morning. Mrs. Elmhorst taught school with Decimae on Okinawa.

Kimberly Peggram, daughter of Shirley and Jim Peggram, gave a mini-concert at First Baptist Church Sunday night. Some of her selections were "Give Me a Vision," "Thank You Lord," and "I Just Came to Praise the Lord." Shirley accompanied her daughter at the piano.
W. T. and Marie Johnson from Novato, Calif., have been visiting relatives in Dimmitt: Myrtle Behrends, Dora, C. J. and Omega Johnson.
Sunday afternoon Elizabeth Ayers of Anderson, Mo., visited her aunt Dora Johnson and family. Elizabeth had been visiting her father in Olton.

the game of bridge. Johnnie Vannoy was hostess. Ferne Dickey won high score and Alice Collyer was second. Others playing were Oleda Schumacher, Emily Clingingsmith, Betty Cartwright, Louise Mears, Josie Bradford and Rosalie Hawkins.

Growing...
Reaching new heights... each week growing a little more in stature. Each day increasing in knowledge.
Each year growing a little closer to manhood. All because he has been provided proper nourishment, training, and guidance.
Help him to grow in knowledge and stature with the Lord. Take him to church each Sunday so that he may have a well-rounded and full life.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

View from the library

By Brick Autry

For the last few weeks on the best seller table, one title in particular seems to have caused less than a furor.

'The One Tree' by Stephen R. Donaldson has not been a favorite item. One reason is that the cover looks funny. It looks like a child's book. It looks like a fantasy, and it is.

Actually the book is the latest in a whole set of fantasies by Mr. Donaldson. The fantasies began with a trilogy called 'The Chronicles of Thomas Covenant, the Unbeliever.'

In order to know about the second trilogy this writer has to investigate the first, which luckily, we had right in the library on the science fiction shelf.

down with leprosy and, because his case is so bad and so horrible to deal with, loses his fame, family and much of his self respect.

The most intriguing theme of the trilogy is Covenant's way of coping with his strange world. In one way, he loves his new-found importance. In another, he can't make himself believe in his own self worth, which is why he is called the unbeliever.

So this is the introduction to a literary personality which future readers will come to know much like we know Bilbo Baggins in 'The Hobbit.'

'He's awful!' they'll say. But Author Donaldson is a good enough writer to make us all read through six books about a modern man, an unbeliever.

And who knows? We may well be reading about ourselves.

letter to the editor Why shouldn't children work alongside parents?

[Editor's Note: La Nelda Goodin, president of the Peoples Telephone Co. of Coolidge, wrote the following letter to the program director of the CBS Sunday Morning show, in response to a segment that appeared on that program July 11. The segment was a repeat of one that was shown in the summer of 1981 on the living conditions of migrant workers in the Dimmitt and Hereford area. Mrs. Goodin forwarded a copy of her letter to the News.]

CBS Program Director for 'Sunday Morning' New York, New York

Dear Sir:

Your July 11 'Sunday Morning' program contained two segments that made me so angry that I could not eat my bacon and eggs.

The story about the high unemployment rate among black youths in which the reporter stated, 'We have created a permanent underclass,' was very irritating to one who CHOSE not to remain in the 'underclass.'

But the story about the children working in the fields in Dimmitt, Texas, is another matter. My impression was that the writer of that story (speaking for CBS) disapproved of the fact that the Carrasco family (except for the 2-year-old) worked together picking onions.

When I was a child, my family also worked together in the fields pulling cotton in Greer and Beckham Counties in Oklahoma, about 100 miles from Dimmitt. Until 1952, when I was 11 years old, my parents and four children lived in a three-room house with no plumbing. Besides pulling cotton, I remember helping to harvest feed crops and chopping weeds with a hoe. I don't know at what age we started WORKING in the field because babies were taken to the field and, at a very early age, started pulling cotton and putting it into a tiny sack about a foot or so long. Yes, it WAS hard work ('stoop labor').

I suggest to you that, in spite of that, we were both happier and healthier (mentally and physically) than many of today's children who sit or lie in front of a TV set for hours and days at a time while their parents work away from the home to provide them with designer jeans, video games and junk food.

Children who work side-by-side with their parents know they are an important part of the family unit. Children who sit at home or roam the streets while their parents work (or don't work) can hardly be expected to know that kind of relationship or closeness.

Children who work with their families are exposed to their PARENTS' values. Those values can reasonably be expected to be more work-oriented than the values offered in many TV shows. The popular Dukes of Hazard, for example, teaches youngsters that it is smart and glamorous to spend one's day and nights breaking the law and outwitting the poor, stupid law-enforcement officials.

Children who work with their parents are likely to see that, when they work, they receive a reward. Children who roam the streets while their parents collect welfare or unemployment payments or work and get paid far from the scene may have a harder time understanding the relationship between work and reward. Children who work with their parents will probably be hungry enough to eat simple foods and tired enough to sleep without drugs.

I am not suggesting that the children of migrant workers or of farmers have an idyllic life. They do not have many of the opportunities that are available to children whose lifestyles are different. However, I bitterly resent your implication that they are abused and deprived by being taught to work at an early age.

As I understood it, the Carrascos are first-generation Americans. Why don't you research second-generation Mexican families which came here as farm workers? I suspect you would find some very valuable citizens among them.

After giving the matter a lot of thought while writing this letter, I think your reporter was right, after all. 'We' do create a permanent underclass, by making it possible, easy and convenient for generation after generation to live without working.

I suggest to you, and hope you will suggest to your reporters, that the Carrasco family is happier, healthier and more valuable to society than the welfare families that 'we' have chosen to support with our tax dollars.

She is one of over 1,300 young horsemen and horsewomen, 18 and under, selected to participate in the show. Miss Howell will compete with her registered American Quarter Horse in the three-year-old gelding halter class. Each winner will receive a trophy belt buckle bearing the inscription "World Champion."

Tech prepares for football

Texas Tech is updating their mailing list for football releases in preparation for the 1982 football season. Those who wish to remain on the mailing list for the 1982 season are asked to contact Joe Hornady at 806-742-2770 or at the Texas Tech Athletic Dept., P.O. Box 4199, Lubbock, Texas 79409. August 15 is the deadline. After that date, the names of people who have not contacted Hornady will be removed from the list. Football season will officially open Aug. 13 when freshmen report for physicals. Varsity players will report Aug. 17 for physicals, and open workouts with two practices will begin Aug. 18. The Southwest Conference tour will arrive in Lubbock Aug. 31.

New chief talks to Rotarians

Police Chief Don Franklin told Rotarians Friday, "I'm here to do a job. I work for you people." The new chief of police had been on the job in Dimmitt four days when he presented the program for the Rotary Club. He said that Dimmitt residents will see some changes in the City Police Dept. including more professionalism, new uniforms and more involvement in community activities.

Local teams bring home golf titles

Betty Butler, Neva Hickey, Shirley Underwood and Audrey Shottenkirk, all of Dimmitt, competed last week in the Farwell Ladies' Partnership Tournament. The team of Underwood and Shottenkirk won first in the third flight with a score of 88-87 and with a total score of 175 for the two days of play. Local golfers also went to Borger to compete in the "Hit and Giggle" Couple's Tournament that was held on the Huber Country Club. Jimmy Jack and Betty Butler played on the team that tied for first in the first flight. Shirley Underwood competed on the team that won first in the second flight.

Two locals get honors from A&M

LaDonna Brockman of Nazareth and Scott Bagwell of Dimmitt have earned "distinguished student" status at Texas A&M University. Recipient of the honor must earn at least a 3.25 grade point ratio, out of a possible 4.0. Miss Brockman is a spring graduate with a degree in bio-engineering. Bagwell is a freshman veterinary medicine major.

VETERAN'S SERVICES

The following news release is from the May 1982 issue of the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission Journal: The U. S. Veterans Administration is now involved in the very serious matter of seeking payment on thousands of debts and overpayments existing in the accounts of veterans and their dependents and survivors. Many of these VA debts were created many years ago when veterans sold their GI loan homes which were later foreclosed due to non-payment of the mortgage.

In many instances, the VA made efforts to collect the debts years ago, and decided they were uncollectable at that time. Until such time as a legitimate debt to the Federal Government is paid in full or otherwise properly disposed of by waiver, etc., there is no statute of limitations.

In many cases at this time, veterans have long forgotten about the old educational overpayments or loan default debts. When such veterans now apply and are found eligible for VA disability pension or compensation, the monetary benefits are withheld until the full amount of the overpayment has been recouped.

When a person is advised of any overpayment in VA benefits, the initial action should be to be sure the debt is legitimately owed. If so, and there were any mitigating circumstances, perhaps a waiver of the overpayment should be requested. If the waiver is denied, such decision may be appealed if the claimant desires to go that route.

In many instances, debts are incurred administratively due to the lack of information or evidence. When such a case is encountered, local Service Officers should determine what evidence is required to clear the debt.

In no instance should a debt or overpayment be accepted without argument unless the claimant is convinced it was incurred through his or her own fault. All persons involved in these debts and overpayments should discuss their cases with their local Veterans Service Officers.

THE FIRST motion picture drive-in theater opened in Camden, N.M. in 1933.

YOUR CITY AT WORK

By PAUL CATOE
City Manager

In last week's article, I state that City personnel would work to clean up all City-owned property. I am happy to report that we are making some progress along these lines.

City personnel are currently cleaning up around City barns and warehouses, and they have almost completed their mowing at the airport.

We are also spraying herbicide on the weeds which have grown up through the asphalt in our streets.

City crews will also clean up the caked-on dirt which has accumulated on the City streets up next to the curbs. Recent rains have added to this problem by washing more dirt from the alleys into the City gutters. When this occurs, various types of weeds seem to sprout up and grow within the gutters, and this, if left unattended, can cause serious damage to our City streets.

The City recently purchased a new Elgin street sweeper from Environmental Sales & Service in Hurst. The planned delivery date is Tuesday. I believe that this new unit will help City personnel care for and maintain our City streets in a much more efficient manner, as our old sweeper has been out of operation for approximately six months.

City personnel are making every effort to clean up City property and maintain it on a regular basis. Therefore, we are requesting that owners of private property make the same type of voluntary effort. Last week our building inspector sent out approximately 13 notices to private property owners in regard to their neglected property. We hope to send out 10 to 15 notices each week to notify property owners that they are required to maintain their lots and homes within the City.

Last week we printed Sections I through V of the City's ordinance on the maintenance of private property. This week we are printing Sections VI, VII, and VIII:

Section VI. "From and after the date of article, it shall be illegal for any person owning or occupying any such lot, place or area in the City of Dimmitt, Texas, to maintain such nuisance, as hereinabove defined, on such lot, place or area, and upon conviction for maintaining such nuisance, as hereinabove defined, the owner or occupant of such premises shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Section VII. "Upon conviction for the offense of maintaining such nuisance, the owner or occupant of such lot, place or area shall be fined not less than $1.00 nor more than $200.00 for such offense, and each day that such nuisance is maintained shall be a separate offense."

Section VIII. "The City Health Officer, City Building Inspector, Fire Marshall, or any one of them is hereby authorized and empowered to notify, in writing, the owner or occupant of any such lot, place or area within the City, or the agent of such owner or occupant to cut, destroy and/or remove any such weeds, grass or deliterious, unhealthy growth, or other noxious vegetable matter found growing, lying or located on such owner's property or upon the sidewalk (or in the alley) abutting the same or to fill or drain such hole or place, or drain or remove such stagnant water, as the case may be. Such notice shall be United States mail, addressed to said owner, or agent of said owner, or occupant or his agent, at his last known address, or as hereafter more fully provided by publication of such notice. If the owner or occupant of such premises is unknown or his address is unknown, then such notice may be given by publishing the same two (2) times within ten (10) consecutive days in a newspaper of general circulation published in Dimmitt, Castro County, Texas.

I hope that by printing this information we can better inform residents of their responsibility to maintain their private property. I also hope that residents will contact me or our City building inspector if they have any questions about this ordinance.

letter to the editor

Parents should share player's joy, sorrow

Dear Editor:
Here's the situation:
Last of the 7th, our team is ahead by one thin run, there's two outs, but they have runners at second and third. A base hit now would end the game since both runners would score. The pitcher is ready.
Playing in left field is a young boy, not a super star, who loves to play baseball and gives it his best everytime. However, at this moment, he is silently praying that the ball is not hit to him, for if it is and he misses it (as he has sometimes in the past), he feels the team will lose because of him.
The pitcher starts his wind-up, throws the batter swings, the ball is hit. It's a hard line-drive to left field, the kind that curves and sinks at the same time (probably the most difficult of all hit balls to catch in any league). The boy, fighting off his natural fear of hard-hit balls, starts running toward the ball... fearing he will not get to it in time, and at the same time, fearing he will. The ball is dropping fast... he runs harder, reaching for the ball, almost falling - and YES, he catches it in the web of his glove just inches off the ground. (Reggie Jackson never made such a catch.) The team is cheering as they run out to congratulate him, and the fans marvel at the catch... a catch the boy will remember all his life.
The only sad part of this event if that his family was not able to be there and share in the joy of this moment.
Moments like this, you see, are the rewards for all the baseball mothers and fathers for shuffling their boys to and from inconveniently scheduled practices, complete disruption of the family supper hour, the rearranging of the hard-earned vacations and all those problems too numerous to mention, that playing baseball creates. But, believe me, the rewards are worth it.
So the next time your boy is at bat in the last of the 7th,

JERRY STUMP

Hereford man killed in car-truck crash

A routine disturbance call answered by Hereford police Tuesday afternoon led to a high-speed chase and the death of a young Hereford man in the collision of a car and tanker truck at Summerfield.

Alvin McMorris, 24, was killed about 6:30 p.m. in the collision on US 60 just inside the Castro County line.

Hereford police answered a domestic disturbance call at 6 p.m. Tuesday to a home near the country club. The police parked a patrol car to block the driveway and prevent anyone from leaving.

McMorris got into his Pontiac Grand Prix and backed into the patrol car. Then he drove across the lawn and onto US 385. He turned onto US 60 as three police units began to chase him, officers said.

Two highway patrol units joined the chase as the McMorris car headed southwest at speeds up to 120 miles per hour, officers added.

Police said the fatal crash occurred at Summerfield as the speeding car appeared to go out of control and crashed into an eastbound tractor-trailer tanker unit.

Debris from the crash was spread over a large area. Witnesses said a fuel tank on the car ignited, and the tanker truck came to rest in the ditch. No explosion occurred.

The cab of the truck was heavily damaged. The driver of the truck, Gary Hamar of Clovis, and his 12-year-old daughter, Carla, were treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital in Hereford.

Castro County Justice of the Peace Marshall Young pronounced McMorris dead at the scene of the accident.

McMorris had lived in Hereford a short time. Information on survivors and funeral arrangements were not available at press time.

The Docket had previously won third place in national competition.

Announcement of the Docket's first-place award was made Tuesday during the annual convention of the National Association of Legal Secretaries in New Orleans. Accepting the award for the Texas association was Karol McVay, PLS, CLA, of Odessa, TALS president.

MRS. KELVIN JOEL PARSONS
... The former Amy Carol Merritt

Merritt-Parsons vows are recited

Amy Carol Merritt and Kelvin Joel Parsons exchanged wedding vows Saturday in a formal, double-ring ceremony in the First United Methodist Church of Dimmitt. Rev. Marvin Roark officiated.

The bride is the daughter of John and Sue Merritt of Dimmitt. Parents of the groom are Nelson and Myrna Parsons of Lubbock.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a candlelight sheer chiffon gown featuring a Victorian neckline with an English net inset outlined in re-embroidered Alencon lace and in accents of silk embroidery. The Alencon lace basque bodice was detailed with re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques extending around to the back. The back was enhanced by a covered button closure. Bishop sleeves were covered with silk embroidery and were completed at the wrists with a cuff of re-embroidered Alencon lace accented with button-and-loop closures. A full skirt draped from a natural waistline and was completed by a border of scalloped re-embroidered lace which extended around the chapel-length train.

Her veil was a single-layer of silk illusion caught by a satin Camelot capulet outlined in re-embroidered Alencon lace and featuring Alencon lace appliques at the back of the head. The waltz-length veiling was edged in scalloped Alencon lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis. Matron of honor was Mrs. David Gregory of Abilene. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Lynn Keener of Amarillo and Dana Hottel of Richardson. They wore identical silk-finished ivory chiffon blouses that featured an embroidered front accented by an embroidered ruffle around the neck, and dusty rose taffeta floor-length A-line skirts gathered at the waist in a wide band and tied with matching belts. They carried bouquets of gardenias, camellia roses and blue statice.

Wyndel Culp of Lamesa, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Stevens and Bobby Stewart, both of Lubbock. Candlelighters were Lynnea Parsons of Lubbock, sister of the groom, and Melissa Lunt of Tucson, Ariz., niece of the bride. They wore floor-length dresses of pale blue taffeta accented with lace trim and wristlets of pink roses and blue statice.

Ushers were Lint Merritt and Johnny Merritt of Dimmitt, brothers of the bride, and Chuck Bartlet and Alvin Holder of Lubbock, brothers-in-law of the groom. A chapel arch with candles and magnolia, and candelabra trees with magnolia decorated the altar. The aisle was highlighted by hurricane lamps trimmed with magnolia. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of camellia roses, gardenias lilies, spider mums and daisies. Appointments of silver were used to serve the bride's cake, mints and punch. An arrangement of grapes was centered on the groom's table. The German chocolate cake, mints and coffee were served with brass appointments.

Refreshments were served buffet-style in the back yard, and entertainment was furnished by The Southwest Express.

The house party included Mona Merritt, Susan Merritt, Virginia Malone, Jettie Sheffy, Dorothy Sheffy, Shirley Stephens, Esta Vandiver, Anne Webster, Suzanne Lunt, DeNise Dobbs and Shirley Wise.

After a wedding trip to Colorado the couple will reside in Lubbock.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Dimmitt High School. She is currently an interior design major at Texas Tech University and plans to graduate in December.

The groom is a 1976 graduate of Monterey High School. He attended West Texas State University and is now a self-employed framing contractor in Lubbock.

Hawkins, Dwyer exchange vows

Lesa Hawkins and Glen Dwyer exchanged wedding vows July 17 in a formal, double-ring ceremony in St. Alice Catholic Church of Plainview. Rev. Peter Otto officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hawkins of Hart. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Dwyer of Plainview.

Mrs. Bryan Irons served as the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Hawkins, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Jerry Chambers and Mrs. Glenn Rogers, both of Plainview.

Dale Dwyer of Plainview, brother of the groom, was the best man. Groomsmen were Roy Dwyer, brother of the groom, Jeff Noel and Jerry Chambers, all of Plainview.

Ring bearer was Jeremy Hawkins, cousin of the bride. Shana Hawkins, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

Ushers were David Hawkins, brother of the bride, Glenn Rogers and Billy Huddleston, all of Plainview.

Pam Haney of Muleshoe sang "There Is Love," the bride's father sang "I Could Never Promise You," and together they sang a duet, "Author of Love." Organ music was provided by Bill Deardorf of Plainview.

Mrs. Ricky Cannon registered guests at a table decorated with white lace cloth and two brass candelabra with mauve tapers.

The altar was decorated with two large basket bouquets of pink gladiolas and burgundy carnations accented with baby's breath, both on brass stands. Two 15-branch spiral candelabras held dusty rose candles and were accented with greenery and bows. Aisle pews were decorated with bows and mauve flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of lustrous polyester knit with a modified V-neckline trimmed in Venice lace that extended across the shoulders to make cap sleeves. The fitted bodice, trimmed with Venice lace and pearls, was slightly shirred at the Empire waist. The pleated skirt extended to form a chapel-length train. Her walking-length veil of white illusion was trimmed with lace that matched the dress and was edged with floral appliques. The veil, made by the bride's mother, was attached to a white rose wreath.

The bride carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of mauve roses, orchids, lilies and burgundy apricot blossoms with mauve star flowers, baby's breath and greenery. The flowers were gathered in white lace ribbon tied with love knots. The bride's attendants each wore a dress of orchid with an old-fashioned skirt encircled with a flounce and offset by a soft-pleated camisole covered with a traditional cape draped over one shoulder. The waistline was accented by a small rose tied with a sash. Each wore a wreath of pink roses tied with ribbons that flowed down the back of her head.

Each carried white lace fans with lilies, roses, apricot blossoms and baby's breath tied in white lace ribbons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the reception hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace tablecloth belonging to the bride's grandmother, and featured dusty rose tapers in brass candleholders. A bouquet of pink gladiolas and burgundy carnations with baby's breath and one large fan shaped from the bridesmaids' fans centered the table. The bride's cake was three-tiered, with one section sitting on a mirror and decorated with mauve and burgundy flowers, mauve ribbons and bells. Under the top tier sat the traditional miniature wedding couple that had been used by the bride's parents on their wedding day.

The groom's table featured silver appointments. The cake was chocolate and was accented by the couple's initials and flowers that matched the bride's cake.

Assisting at the tables were Mrs. Dale Dwyer, sister-in-law of the groom, Dana Tomu, cousin of the groom, Mrs. Bill Huddleston and Mrs. Jack McGarr. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. J. V. Miller, Mrs. Marshall Kemp, Mrs. Leon Noel, Mrs. Davis Horn, Mrs. Leonard Noel and Mrs. A. H. Wieber.

The groom is a 1975 graduate of Plainview High School. He is employed at Energas of Plainview.

Community markets help growers and consumers

The thought of obtaining fresh fruits and vegetables at a reasonable price appeals to most of our palates as well as our pocketbooks — especially now when making ends meet is somewhat more difficult than it used to be.

On the other hand, weekend gardeners who wind up with more produce than their families can use generally would rather see it go to a good cause than watch it spoil.

Both of these elements have brought a rejuvenation of the local community market concept, pointed out Gordon Powell, an economist in fruit and vegetable marketing.

"It's a perfect marketing match," noted Powell, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Both parties benefit if there are a large enough number of people and small producers in a particular area. The consumer pays for a good product, and the producer finds an outlet for his surplus without going through a middleman."

Powell listed three major criteria for this type of market. They are produce growers who are interested in selling, an easily accessible facility and consumers interested in buying fresh farm produce.

Backyard gardeners should grow a wide enough variety of products to provide a good selection for consumers, suggested the economist. Growers generally rent their own stalls at the market and choose their own price and quality control committees.

"In the summer, many people buy vegetables in hamper lots to use in home canning and freezing. Therefore, growers should have various quantities of fresh produce available," advised Powell. "In addition, homemade cakes, bread, cider and any other items may be sold."

To boost sales, growers need to advertise effectively. More people can be made aware of the market with advertising spots on local television and radio stations and in newspapers.

One difficulty for a community in establishing a market is that it's sometimes hard to identify growers. Those who would be willing to participate are the small, weekend gardeners rather than the established bigtime producers, noted the economist.

Time is another problem. Someone has to sit with the produce to sell it, and this cuts into busy schedules.

"Economics and self-satisfying participation are the major thrusts behind the re-emergence of the community market concept," said Powell. "People enjoy having an alternative to merely accepting retail grocery prices. Plus there's the nostalgia trend. People seem to be going back to the old ways of doing things."

Community markets also have a social aspect. They enable people to get together, drink coffee and chat, as well as carry on their business.

Cheerleaders wanting old booster signs

They ask that anyone who has old yard signs please take them to the high school so that the signs may be repainted and used again this year.

Miss Frye studies government in D.C.

Shelly Denise Frye of Dimmitt was selected to attend a week-long Presidential Classroom in Washington D.C. that began Saturday.

Over 150 outstanding high school students from across the nation and abroad are participating in the intensive study of US government. They are to attend seminars with leading policymakers as part of an educational program designed to give the students opportunities for first hand examinations of the decision-making process.

They are to meet with many Washington notables, have appointments with their congressmen and attend committee hearings on Capitol Hill.

The Presidential Classroom for Young Americans was chartered in 1968 at the recommendation of President Lyndon Johnson. Since the inception of the Classroom, over 30,000 students have attended the program.

Two squares enjoyed the dances called by Johnny Gillenwater of Tulia at the regular meeting of the Dimmitt Promenaders last week.

Club sweetheart Myrna Langford rode on the float, "Summer Fun in Hawaii," at the Hart Days parade. The float won first prize in the unusual category.

The Promenaders meet first, second and fourth Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. On first Tuesdays, the club meets at South Hills Manor. On second and fourth Tuesdays, it meets at the building across from Farmers Supply.

Visitors are always welcome.

Running Water Soil and Water Conservation District

Clarence Behrends, one of the District Directors for the Running Water Soil and Water Conservation District, is shown presenting ribbons to the winners of the Conservation Poster contest at the Dimmitt Middle School recently. One Conservation poster from Castro County won first in the [52 county] Regional Contest.

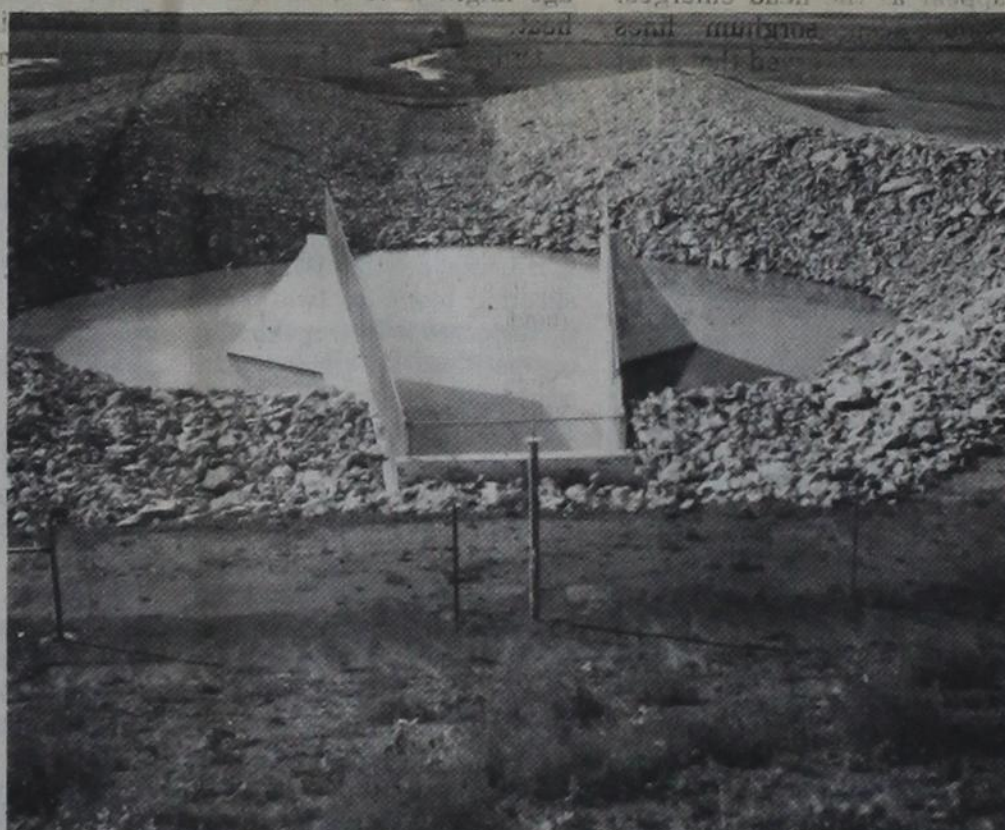

ONIONS — Onion crops are one of the major truck crops grown in Castro County. There are approximately 2,200 acres planted this year in Castro County. Shown is one field on the L.C.C. farm.

Quarterly Report — July 1982 —

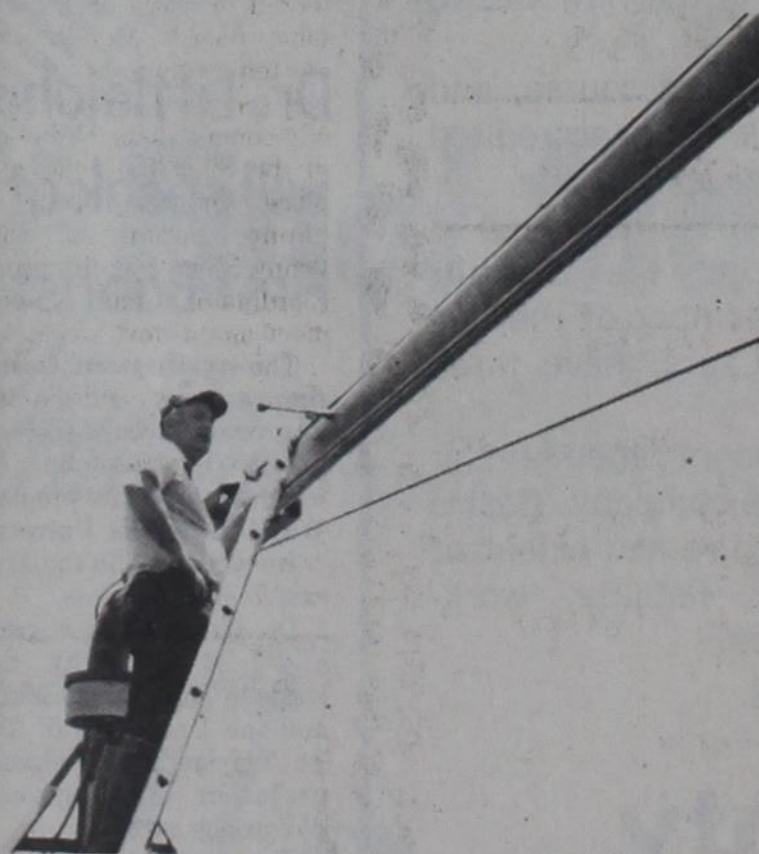

Gary Hunter, Soil Conservationist, is shown examining corn damaged from hail storms early this year. Approximately 20,000 acres of cotton was damaged, 10,000 acres of corn and 5000 acres of wheat.

The plunge basin on Site 1 Running Water Draw has had water collected in it several times this year. The dedication of the five sites on the Running Water Draw will be held in September. The Governors of both Texas and New Mexico have been invited to the dedication, along with Congressmen from the area. The Public will also be invited.

Furrow Diking seems to be working real well with cotton and milo. This year, with all the rain we have had, the dikes worked well and didn't silt up. Many area farmers are looking a lot closer at furrow diking this year.

Clayton Jobe, SCS Technician, is shown checking the Cox meter on Ben Holcomb's farm. This meter shows gallons per minute flowing through the pivot system. SCS personnel can help evaluate your sprinkler systems. If you feel that you need your systems checked, call the local SCS office.

Sandoval gets service honors

Airman First Class Emigdio Sandoval Jr. was selected as the 47th Supply Squadron Airman of the Month for June and was awarded the Air Force Achievement Medal for meritorious service for two years.

Sandoval established procedures that allowed fast and accurate establishment of pre-obligated due-outs and that led to the pre-obligation of over two million dollars. He was directly responsible for establishing, managing and revising the Budget Code Z (3080) program.

He implemented an intensive management program to eliminate repeated requisition cancellations and supply delays rendering effective supply support to the 20th Tactical Fighter Wing at Royal Air Force Base in Upper Heyford, England.

Richard gets Kiwanis award

Former Dimmitt Kiwanis Club President Charles Richard was presented with the Distinguished Club President Award Monday for 1980-81 by Cliff Burtz, former division lieutenant governor.

Burtz was the Kiwanis lieutenant governor of Division 33 while Richard was the Dimmitt Club president.

At the meeting, Burtz commented on the Minneapolis national convention. He explained that the dues had been raised from $10 to $15 to try and cut the large deficit of the organization. After one year, the dues will return to $10.

The Kiwanians plan to send two representatives to the state convention in McAllen. They are Bill Thornton and Charles Richard.

The annual governor's meeting with the club will be Tuesday, March 22, at West Texas State University in Canyon.

Population of spider mites is on the rise

CORN

Southwestern corn borer (SWCB) activity has been very light this week. A few eggs were found in two pest management fields July 22. Light trap catches of SWCB moths remain very low. Other reports also indicate that significant egg lay has not yet occurred in most fields. Corn borer moth emergence is underway, but mating, dispersal from infested fields, and egg laying will require several days. Egg laying is expected to increase about July 28-Aug. 1, but don't use this or any other date as a calendar spray date. Field scouting will be necessary to determine if the level of infestation justifies the cost of treatment.

Treatment is usually recommended when 20-25% of the plants have eggs or small larvae.

Furadan® 4F and 10G, Diazinon®, Sevimon®, Sevin® XLR are labeled for SWCB control. Lorsban® 4E and 15G recently received a federal registration for SWCB control in field corn. Both Lorsban® formulations have a 35 day pre-harvest interval.

Last year, Ambush®, Pounce®, and Pydrin® received a Section 18 registration for use in field corn for corn borer control. However, this registration has not presently been granted by the Texas Department of Agriculture for 1982. Pydrin® is federally labeled for use in corn in 1982, but has a 60 day pre-harvest interval.

Spider Mite populations have steadily increased during the recent week of hot, dry weather. Moisture stressed fields have particularly heavy infestations on lower leaves and small colonies can be found moving into the middle of the plants. Six-spotted thrips, lacewing larvae, and pirate bug nymphs are commonly seen mite predators.

Check for spider mite colonies and webbing by examining the underside of lower leaves. Remove the leaf and hold it in the sunlight. Mites will be evident as they move across the leaf. Dust and dirt often become trapped in the webbing and indicate mite colonies are present. Continue to check the underside of leaves higher on the plant for spider mite colonies and webbing to determine the extent of the infestation.

Damage appears as a yellow mottling where mites have fed on the plant cells. Treatment is usually justified when spider mites and webbing are present in the middle third of the plant before dent stage is reached.

Azodrin® again received a section 18 registration for spider mites in field corn for 1982.

Western corn rootworm beetles are present in many fields and are causing concern in those fields still in the early silk stage. Control may be considered if beetles average 5-8/plant and silks are being chewed back to within 1/2 inch of the ear tip. Once silks begin to dry, pollination is complete.

Fields not grown to corn last year can be infested with WCR beetles as the adults are attracted to silking fields and are strong fliers. Corn rootworm beetles lay eggs in the corn fields in late summer and fall. Fields which average one or more beetles per plant this season may suffer economic damage resulting from rootworm larvae feeding on the root system next summer.

SORGHUM

Corn leaf aphids are very abundant and causing concern in sorghum. In some fields, heavily infested leaves show pale green mottling where colonies have apparently been feeding, and occasionally leaf tips may be red or dying. Lady beetles and larvae are common and may help reduce infestations. Corn leaf aphids are not usually considered of economic importance on grain sorghum, and often disappear as the head emerges. Some seed sorghum lines have been observed that react to infestations of corn leaf aphids.

Greenbugs have not been a problem yet.

WINS DIVISIONAL HONOR—Kiwanis Past President Charles Richard is presented with the Distinguished President Award for 1980-81 by former Division 33 Lt. Gov. Cliff Burtz. The award was given to Richard at the Kiwanis regular meeting Monday.

Police calls

Local officers made 15 arrests this week including seven for driving while intoxicated, three for assault, two for public intoxication, and one each for criminal mischief, disorderly conduct and theft by check.

Bill Sava advised officers that two water hoses and a sprinkler, valued at $45, were taken from the south side of the post office either Monday or Tuesday.

Mary Lue Schmucker with Myrill Lynch Relocation Inc. reported a break-in Monday at 5:39 p.m. Entry had been gained through the back doors of a garage and of a vacant house. Nothing inside was damaged.

Also on Monday at about 3:40 p.m., Dennis R. Bell reported that he found a broken rear window in his 1980 Mercury. He thought the break was from a BB gun, but the officer thought the damage might have been due to heat.

Officers handled a simple assault complaint from a woman against her husband at 5:10 a.m. Monday.

On Sunday, at 11:39 p.m., Circle K clerk Tom Meeks reported that two males shoplifted three packages of lunch meat.

At 7:14 p.m., Sunday Jesse Vasquez reported a 10-speed bicycle stolen from the front porch of a residence on Northeast Third. It was valued at $150.

A woman reported that a man approached her and her husband on Northeast Second Saturday night. He was yelling, cussing and trying to start a fight with her husband.

A man was charged with criminal mischief Friday after his pickup struck a 10-year-old girl on a bicycle. He left the scene of the accident without checking into the condition of the girl.

Rita Vasquez complained last week that her son's bicycle was borrowed on July 15, and when it was returned, several parts valued at $20 were missing. The children involved were encouraged by officers to replace all the property.

At about 1:50 p.m. on July 20, Richard Jackson advised officers that someone stole his bicycle from his yard on West Lee. The bike, valued at $80, had been missing since July 17.

More about

Crime line ...

the inception of Crime Line, Inc., in Lubbock about two years ago, the program has had about 2,000 "good" calls that have resulted in more than 500 felony arrests and the recovery of more than half a million dollars' worth of stolen property.

"The program gets back much more than the dollar amount put into it," he said. He added that Crime Line's reward money comes from voluntary donations by businesses and individuals.

"Crime Line pays no salaries," Nelson explained. "The only cost of the program is the telephone and maybe $200 in paperwork."

The 11 persons who volunteered to serve on the Crime Line board Monday night elected a temporary chairman and secretary, designated the city-county dispatching office in the Sheriff's Dept. as the place for the Crime Line phone, appointed Sheriff Lonny Rhynes as the program coordinator, and voted to meet again next week.

County-District Attorney Jimmy Davis said he would file incorporation papers for the new program.

The names of members of the Crime Line board and committees will not be publicized.
