TO MARK GRAVE OF PIONEER VICTIM OF INDIANS

To locate the grave of Sebe Going, first white victim of the Indians in McCulloch county, and to mark it with a suitable monument, is a move now on foot, and which is sponsored by A. B. Reagan, postmaster of Brady, assisted by Warren Hudson, Jack and John Beasley of Mercury. Going was buried in Salt Gap on what is now the J. N. Craig place, in May, 1861, or over a half century ago. Warren Hudson of Mercury, now 80 years old, is the only living survivor of the seven men who buried the victim of the Indians, and upon him fell the burden of locating the grave Wednesday when the scene of the tragedy was visited by a party composed of himself, Jack and John Beasley of Mercury, and A. B. Reagan and M. S. Sellers of Brady. Mr. Hudson had not visited the spot since the burial, and because of his failing eyesight and the many changes wrought in the location by time, he was unable to locate the site. According to his description, the body was buried some little distance from a forked live oak and another tree. The ground was so rocky that the party was only able to dig a shallow grave about two feet deep. The body of the slain pioneer was fast decomposing when found and was hastily wrapped in a blanket and buried in the shallow grave. Nothing was left to mark the grave.

The Messrs. Beasley had visited the spot several times, but on account of lack of time Wednesday they were unable to definitely locate the spot. A. J. Beasley picked out what appeared to him as most nearly resembling the location, and J. N. Craig, who assisted the party, will make excavations here in the hopes of perhaps finding something that will identify it as the sought-for grave.

The story of the tragedy as recounted after all these years by Mr. Hudson, was that Sebe Going, in company with two others, had gone into the Salt Gap section to capture some wild horses in May, 1861. While they were there a party of Indians, skulking among the hills, kept them under observation, and about 11:00 o'clock at night swooped down on the party, killing Going, and wounding one of his companions, who, however, made his escape with the third member of the party. The two returned to the settlement on Richland Creek, near where Richland Springs now is, and gave the alarm. A party of seven, including Mr. Hudson, then 19 years old, journeyed out to Salt Gap, where they found the body of the slain man, scalped of both hair and mustache. The burial followed, and the party returned to their homes. Mr. Reagan has long had an ambition to locate the grave, and if he succeeds, he expects to interest the citizens in the erection of a monument to suitably mark the resting place of McCulloch county's first victim of the Indians.

D. AND ED SELVIDGE TO ESTABLISH AND OPERATE LAUNDRY AT ABILENE

D. Selvidge, who, for the past year or more, has operated the Brady Steam laundry, is arranging this week to move to Abilene, where he will join his father, Ed Selvidge, of Brownwood, in establishing and operating a laundry. The Messrs. Selvidge have purchased the laundry plant at Eagle Pass, Texas, which will be moved to Abilene for operation. Both are experienced laundry men, the elder Mr. Selvidge having been established in Brownwood for many years, and being one of the best-known laundries in the state. Operation of the local laundry will be continued by J. C. Selvidge of Corpus Christi, who arrived this week, and who has been acquainting himself with the local business. Mr. Selvidge is a cousin of D. Selvidge, formerly local proprietor, and is himself an experienced and thorough-going laundryman having formerly been connected with the Eureka laundry at Corpus Christi, and which was burned some three years ago.

Brady citizens will be glad to welcome the new Mr. Selvidge to citizenship, and will bid godspeed to Mr. and Mrs. D. Selvidge upon their departure.

MEMBERS BRADY ODD FELLOWS LODGE ASSIST IN CONFERRING DEGREES MENARD CANDIDATES

A party of members of Brady Lodge No. 257, I. O. O. F., motored to Menard Wednesday and assisted Menard members of the I. O. O. F. in the conferring of degrees upon several candidates. A splendid time is reported by all. Numbered among the Brady delegates were Messrs. C. G. Thornbloom, Matt R. Moore, Earl Cantwell, O. A. Schill, J. J. Mayse, Jr., J. K. Woosley, Elbert Davee and R. E. Willman.

ELECTION TUESDAY CARRIED BY VOTE 122 TO 78

The election Tuesday, when the citizens of Brady voted upon the adoption or rejection of the benefits of Chapter 11, Title 22, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, and which pertains to street paving, sewer construction and the like, passed quietly enough. An even 200 votes were cast out of a possible 500 votes. Many citizens forgot or neglected to inform themselves upon the question, and so failed to vote. Count of the ballots showed 122 favoring the proposition and 78 opposed. A majority only was required to carry the election. The adoption of the constitutional provisions does not necessarily mean that Brady is to have street paving or sewer construction under way at once, but merely provides the way for taking such steps in legal fashion and empowers the city council to apportion the cost of any such move in equitable fashion. As the city finances now stand, it will be necessary to vote bonds before street paving can be undertaken.

MAYHEW TO OPEN BRANCH HOUSE AT EDEN SEPT. 15

Wilson D. Jordan was up from Brady Monday and made arrangements for opening a produce and feed house at Masonic Hall building. This is an extension of business on the part of the Mayhew Produce Co. which has stores at Brady, Richland Springs, San Saba, Mason and Menard. The Eden branch is to be opened on September 15th, with Karl Steffins of Brady as manager. Mr. Jordan says they will do a general produce business, buying poultry, eggs, hides, mohair, wool and pecans, and we suppose, farm grains and feedstuffs that they can handle. Will stock feed, grain, flour, salt, coal, etc. We like to see Eden grow, in every legitimate way, and hope that their coming will help to develop our industries and encourage production, rather than to merely divide what trade we now have in this line. As yet we do not think that Eden is crowded in any line of business. A good live concern helps to bring more people and the town can grow. We would like to see the burned block on the west side restored and occupied by people engaged in helpful pursuits.—Eden Echo.

Mother Dies in Ballinger.

J. C. Hall was called to Ballinger yesterday morning by news of the serious condition of his aged mother, Mrs. W. M. (Grandma) Hall, who had been in feeble health ever since suffering an attack of the flu about three years ago. After Mr. Hall's departure from Brady a message was received by the family bringing the sad news of her death. Mr. Hall's sons, Rockett and Clyde, also left for the bedside of their grandmother before being apprised of her passing. Mrs. Hall had arrived at the advanced age of 81 years. She had made her home in Ballinger with two unmarried daughters for the past seven years. Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who had visited her only a week ago, apparently left her improved upon their return to Brady.

The body will be carried to her old home in Denton county, where it will be laid to rest besides that of her departed husband in Prairie Mound cemetery.

The sympathy of all is extended Mr. Hall and family in their bereavement.

Notice Confederate Veterans.

We are requested to state that the local camp of Confederate veterans will meet at the court house tomorrow (Saturday, September 9th) for the annual election of officers and payment of dues.

BRADY BAND TO PLAY CONCERT AT MENARD SUN.

The Brady band boys have arranged to go to Menard Sunday afternoon and render a concert there at 4:00 o'clock the trip incidentally combining an outing for the band boys with a demonstration of their musical ability and entertainment facilities. A large delegation of Brady citizens has arranged to accompany the boys on the trip and to enjoy with them their picnic and outing. Aside from giving our neighbors an opportunity to enjoy the band, the occasion will also be taken advantage of to tell about the coming County Exhibit next month, and to extend a cordial invitation to Menard folks to visit in Brady upon that occasion.

The Menard trip is the first of a series which is contemplated by the band, and which is expected to include Eden, Mason, San Saba, Rochelle, Melvin and other points. Quite naturally, the boys appreciate the interest taken in their enterprises by the Brady citizenship and will be glad to have all who care to accompany them on their outings.

BAD COTTON FIRE AT HALL TUESDAY NIGHT—48 BALES DESTROYED

A bad cotton fire was discovered shortly before midnight Tuesday on the railroad platform at Hall. When discovered all the cotton on the outside of the platform appeared on fire. The alarm was sounded but there was no means of fighting the fire, and nothing could be done towards saving them. The platform was destroyed and the switch damaged to some extent.

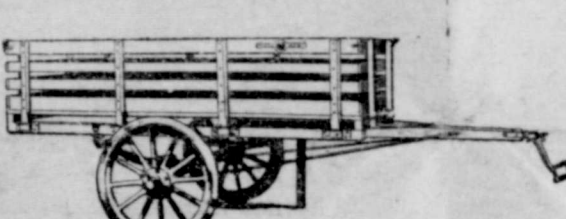

Will Hampton of Brady was included among the losers, having 23 bales in the lot. Other losses reported were:

- Wood Bros. . . . . 6 bales
  - M. J. Parker . . . . . 4 bales

A. B. STOBAUGH BUYS LAUNDRY AT BALLINGER

It will be learned with surprise and regret by the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stobaugh and family that they will remove from Brady the first of next week to Ballinger where they will make their home and where Mr Stobaugh will operate the Ballinger laundry. Mr. Stobaugh returned Wednesday night from Ballinger where he had completed a deal for the purchase of the Ballinger laundry, and also had made arrangement for a residence to be occupied by himself and family. Co-incidentally, Mr. Stobaugh has sold his Brady residence, located in South Brady, to Tom P. Wood, who moved here a week or so ago from Fredonia, and who will occupy the residence with his family next week as soon as it is vacated by the Stobaughs. The residence occupies a choice half block of land and was remodeled and rebuilt only about a year ago by Mr. Stobaugh, making of it a most comfortable and commodious residence.

In again taking up laundry work, Mr. Stobaugh is going back to his first love, and an industry in which he has achieved notable success. Consequently, Ballinger citizens are assured of first-class service by one of the best and most experienced laundrymen in West Texas. Mrs. Stobaugh has been an active worker in local social and civic circles, and she will be greatly missed by all her large circle of friends. Brady citizens commend this es-

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sellman Enjoy Trip and Visit in New Mexico.

Rochelle, Texas, Sept. 4.

Editor Brady Standard:

We are still in the midst of the drouth, no rain since July 1st and 2nd. While a rain now might not help the cotton, yet it would cool the atmosphere and fill the tanks that are now drying up fast. On account of the warm weather the water seems to just evaporate and we are certainly hoping for a rain in the near future.

Cotton picking began last week on a small scale but think this week it will begin in earnest; but will be of short duration, as the crop seems very light.

Feed is all cut and most of it is stacked, and such bright, nice feed, with not a sprinkle on it from time it was cut till it was put in the stack.

Corn is not yet gathered but will be very short when it is. However we are thankful that it is as good as it is, and cotton is turning out really better than was expected; but then, we will get only about one bale to every six to eight acres and this writer has several times seen it a great deal worse in McCulloch county.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hamilton of Dallas visited last week in the home of the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Price. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will teach in Dallas next term.

Miss Annie Cottle is just home from Abilene, where she attended the summer normal and reports a very pleasant time, but says the people who live there think this has been one of the most disagreeable hot summers ever experienced in that place, heat being only in the day time and nights cool and pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Pekvritz and baby, June, left last Monday, the 23th, on the north-bound Frisco, after spending three months with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith. This is her first visit home since her marriage and leaving with her husband over two years since for New York. Her friends as well as relatives enjoyed their visit home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haddow, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Buster Price, left last Tuesday, August 29th for California, going via Arizona, where they will engage in their former business of barbering, and the good wishes of this entire community go with those worthy young people.

Mrs. I. S. Guyton leaves this week, for a month's visit with relatives and friends in Coleman City.

Mont Guyton, accompanied by his brother, Burl, also his father and mother, spent a couple week this summer seeing the sights in Houston and Galveston.

Willie Sellman and wife, also the lady's sister, Miss Mollie Conely, left August 1st for a trip to Los Vegas, New Mexico, and after visiting with her brother, W. V. Conely and family at Ballinger a short time, they left for their destination via Sweetwater, Lubbock, Texico, Ft. Sumpter and on their arrival at Los Vegas, they found, besides Mr. Selman's sister, Mrs. Howard Cox, a younger sister, Mrs. Julia Selman, Condon and little daughter, also Amy Selman, who had visited her sister, Julia, in Colorado and made the trip together down to Los Vegas. All had a very pleasant time visiting the different places of interest, first of which was the Montezuma College, situated in the mountains—five miles from the town, with a cold mountain stream flowing close by; also the hot springs in front of the college. Then on up the scenic highway to El Poviner, which has church, hotel and many tourists houses for the accommodation of the traveling public, while they climb the mountains or fish for mountain trout. #### Pigs Is Pigs.

A judge, in delivering the charge to the jury, said: "Gentlemen, you have heard the evidence. The indictment says the prisoner was arrested for stealing pigs. The offense seems to be getting a common one. 'The time is coming when this must be put a stop to—otherwise, gentlemen, we shall none of us be safe.'—A. Petrino, Brooklyn.

No Worms in a Healthy Child.

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or digest the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. One per bottle.

***** INDIAN STORIES; EARLY-DAY REMINISCENCES. *****

Wonder, Ore, Sept. 1.
Chapter VII.

After leaving the Carpenter ranch where the Indian's head got off of his shoulders and walked away a few feet turned around, came back and got on his shoulders again—a rather extraordinary feat for an Indian's head to perform—my father and I returned to our home in Bell county without any more Indian excitement.

The next summer my mother not being in good health, she and my father decided to visit the sulphur springs at Lampasas to ascertain what curative properties the water might possess. My father being badly crippled took me along to attend to the team. Right here it might not be amiss for me to state how my father became a cripple. He fell from a scaly-bark hickory tree in Arkansas, falling a distance of fifty-six feet and alighting in a hard road. His mother was under the tree picking up the hickory nuts. We camped at the lower spring about a mile below the town of Lampasas, and, by the way, it wasn't much of a town then; only one general store kept by a German by the name of Markward, and let it be said to his credit he was in the right business. Here's why. You might buy quite a bill of goods and the moment you said, "that will be all," he would tell you how many dollars and cents it came to. Then you would look at him dubiously and he would take his pencil and set down each article and the price and add up the column and it would be exactly the amount he had told you. While we were in camp two weeks I caught an abundance of very fine fish of which sulphur creek was well supplied in those early days. And while we were there we looked at a 160-acre pre-emption about four miles north of Lampasas on Lucy's creek, but finding it too rocky, we took up one seven miles east of town on Mesquite creek in the Grizelle settlement.

We went back home and my father bought the best yoke of oxen I ever saw. Their names were Pomp and Red. Pomp was as black and shiny as a crow and Red was as red as blood. Pomp was called "the near ox, and Red "the off ox." You auto boys and girls of today never saw an ox yoke, did you? Well, you have certainly missed a sight! They didn't put bridles on oxen; they only used a whip. When they wanted them to go to the right they would say "back-gee!" and when they wanted them to go to the left they would say "wo-come!" Well we moved to our pre-emption and took our oxen and hauled elm and cottonwood logs to the sawmill at Lampasas and got them ripped up into boards to build us a little box house—which was cheaper than hauling pine lumber from Austin. Our new home was three miles west of the old Pickett crossing on the Lampasas river, at the upper end of the Pickett valley a few miles west of where Lometa now is.

"O. I. C. U. R. RIGHT."

Street Scene.

The crowd at the curb hung upon every word that the fiery street evangelist uttered.

"I tell you my brothers, that the woman of today is all wrong. Take our young girls—what are they doing? Their hair is bobbed, their noses are powdered and their lips—what of their lips? Their lips, my brothers, are painted, painted with red paint, paint which will eventually eat the skin and . . ."

Just then a flapper came along. "Don't take it so hard, old fellow. I'll put my lips up against yours any day!"

To the Tube Makers.

I damn the old inventive boob,
The first to think of soft tin foil;
I curse their little leaden tubes
Stuffed full of paste or oil.

I've cleaned my teeth with shaving soap,
Rubbed sticky tooth paste in my hair
Massaged my face with colored dope,
'Tis more than human soul can bear.

I'd like to sooth them with an axe,
Condemn them all to realms unseen,
Where they must shave with whisker wax
And dine on thickest vaseline.

BRADY, TEXAS, Sept. 8, 1922.

PAY-UP CAMPAIGN.

The McCulloch County Retail Merchants association will inaugurate a "PAY-UP" campaign October 1st to 15th, the purpose of which will be to get all possible indebtedness liquidated during the two-weeks' period, and incidentally to give everybody an opportunity to "wipe the slate clean" insofar as that desired goal may be possible. It is to be hoped that liberal response will be met with, and that the 15th will see McCulloch county merchants rejoicing over the good results of the campaign, and impressed with the thought that the extension of credit by them has not been misplaced.

There are many reasons why such a campaign should be given serious thought and hearty co-operation by the citizenship at large. Credit is a valuable asset to any person, and never should be abused. In other words, a man's credit remains good just as long as he keeps his obligations to the letter. When he becomes careless with his credit, he promptly loses it—and that through no fault of anyone but himself. Many people are amply able to discharge their indebtedness, yet fail to do so, either through wilfulness, or carelessness. In either event, it places an added burden upon the man who has extended the credit, and one which he should not be forced to bear.

There are others who are financially unable to meet obligations as anticipated. In every case, these parties should promptly confer with their creditors, who may be able to offer a reasonable way out, and who will, at least, know definitely just where he stands.

Credit and honor are two virtues that every citizen should always keep bright.

KAREFUL CROSSING KAMPAIGN

It has just come to light that the Railways entering Texas are active in furthering an organization of the K. K. K.'s (Kross Krossings Kautiously). It is learned from reliable authority that meetings are in session "Konstantly" and will be until October first. Every inhabitant, regardless of age, sex, or color may become a member if they will pass a satisfactory examination. Those presenting themselves for membership must be able to "THINK." Those using their head exclusively for a "Hat Rack" cannot become members. The admittance fee is one thought, which must accompany application.

The membership dues are one thought every time you approach a railway crossing.

The obligation is a very serious one and must be memorized before you can receive full benefits of the fraternity. It reads as follows:

1. (Your Name)—do most solemnly and sincerely promise that I will not approach, attempt to cross nor enter upon the tracks at any railroad "Krossing" in this or any other vicinity until by stopping or slowing down I have fully satisfied myself that no trains are approaching from either direction and that I may proceed to "Kross" in perfect safety to myself and those who may accompany me. I further more promise that I will not permit any member of my family to "Kross" a railroad "Krossing" until they have taken like precaution if within my power to prevent them so doing. I furthermore promise that I will talk to my neighbor and endeavor to influence him to take membership in the organization, apprising him of the danger in not doing so, reminding him that approximately eighteen hundred people are killed each year because they did not hold membership in the "Kross Krossings Kautiously" fraternity, and five thousand others sustain painful and crippling injuries. I furthermore promise that I will faithfully perform each and every duty falling upon me, as a vigilant and active member, that I will attend each session of the "Think" building, whether I shall be at or near or find it necessary to "Kross" a railroad "Krossing" on date of meeting or not.

To all the foregoing I must seriously and solemnly agree, binding myself under no less penalty than that of having the carburetor of my automobile refuse to feed gasoline to the engine, should I at any time or place become so reckless and inconsiderate of the safety of human life and limb as to "Kross" a railroad "Krossing" in any other manner than "Kautiously" or in any manner that chances on the safety of myself and those dear to me.

It is urged that everyone in Texas and adjoining territory get in as Charter members and before the admittance fee is raised from one thought to days, perhaps years of regrets. For information ask any railroad employe about the "Kareful Crossing Kampaing."

WHEN XERXES WEPT.

The great Persian King Xerxes, who came to the throne 486 years B. C., after he had conquered the world, sat high on his throne and wept. As Mr. Wells tell us in his Outline of History: "The Hellsopent was white with ships; the plains were covered with the greatest army the world had ever seen," yet Xerxes wept at the shortness of human life.

"Why should you weep?" his uncle asked. "You who have everything." "I have reckoned up," said Xerxes, "and it came into my mind to feel pity at the thought how brief was the whole life of man, seeing what of these multitudes not one will be alive when a hundred years have gone by."

THIS HAPPENED IN KANSAS.

In appreciation of the work of a Kansas editor for their community a bunch of citizens recently presented him with a bouquet. On the same occasion a quartet from a local church sang a few sweet songs and a minister made a little talk. After the minister's talk six husky men carried the popular editor from the house and placed him tenderly in a 1921 plumbed sedan, and the whole town formed in parade behind the editor's expensive car. After the parade the appreciative crowd returned to their homes serene in the thought of having provided one bright day in the life of their local news purveyor, even if they did wait until he was dead to do it.—The Fourth Estate.

NOVEL PRESENTATION OF TOM THUMB WEDDING AT M. E. TABERNACLE TONIGHT

One of the cleverest presentations by the little folks of the city will be the Tom Thumb wedding, to be presented tonight at the Methodist tabernacle, under auspices of the Parent-Teachers association. Between 60 and 75 Brady youngsters, ranging in age from three years up will take part. The presentation will faithfully depict in miniature a "swell" society wedding. The tiny bride will have her flower girls, bride's maids, matron of honor, and the bride-groom will have his attendants. The aged and decrepit parents of the leading characters, will be guests of honor.

The entertainment lasts about one and one-half hours, and is a continuous performance. It is interspersed with songs by the little folks. For instance, Grandma Thumb sings a solo, "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs," and Grandpa follows with, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Later Grandpa Midget sings "Silver Threads Among the Gold." At different parts of the evening, cousins of the bride sing, "O Promise Me," "When I Look in the Heart of a Rose," and "I Love You Truly." "I'd Love to Live in Loveland" is given at the last.

The preacher has a catchy little ceremony—not in any sense like the real one—but a funny little piece, made up for the occasion. On the whole, the entertainment is one continuous round of such clean, wholesome fun as only children can furnish, and everyone goes away refreshed and rested from witnessing it.

Characters in the play include: Bride and Groom, Best Man and Maid of Honor, four Bride's Maids, two Ushers, Aunties of Groom and Cousins of Bride, Minister and wife, Fathers and Mothers of Bride and Groom, two Grandfathers and Grandmothers, two Sisters of Bride and Bachelor Friend, several couples of guests, twelve waiters and six couples flower girls.

All the boys are dressed in long pants, low cut vests and full dress coats, while the girls are dressed in low-necked and short-sleeved dresses in full train. The bride in the usual white silk dress, with veil and flowers. At the close of the "wedding" a "wedding feast" of ice cream is served for the little ones.

Prices of admission will be 25c and 35c. Advance sale of tickets has been had, and a crowded house is assured.

BAGDAD

Al Maidan, a New Street Through Center of Bagdad.

PEOPLE are apt to be disappointed in Bagdad, but this is not unnatural unless one hears clearly in mind that what one sees today is a comparatively modern Turco-Arabian town and not the city of romance of Arabian Nights entertainments that one has probably imagined. That old Bagdad, or rather Dar-es-Salam as it was originally called, was built in the year 763 A. D. by Al Mansur, the second Abbasid caliph, out of the ruins of the city of Ctesiphon. It saw its palmiest days in the time of Caliph Haroun-al-Raschid, the fifth of the Abbasid line, who flourished from 786 to 800 A. D. The city soon after this came to its end.

The caliphate was for political reasons moved to Samarra in 836 and when it was brought back again to Bagdad in 862, a new city was built on the opposite, i. e., left, bank of the Tigris, a mile or two downstream from the old site. Of Dar-es-Salam nothing now remains but a few indistinct mounds, says a writer in the Times of India Illustrated Weekly.

It cannot even be said that the new capital of which we have just spoken is the Bagdad that we know today. The site has remained the same, but of the city there is now nothing above ground that can be identified as being nearly as old as 862. Bagdad has suffered more often and more severely from destruction and decay than European or Indian cities, even taking into account such incidents as the great fire of London or the sequence of events that has produced the seven capitals at Delhi, or the cheery habitation of the old Roman emperors of pulling down the buildings of their predecessors in order to build finer ones for themselves. Twice has Bagdad been sacked: in 1258 by the Mongols under Hulaku Khan and again in 1400 by Tamerlane. It has been besieged many times and flooded still more often.

Such a life would be bound to tell on the constitution even of a well-built city and Bagdad was not that. It was built with inferior building material and as often as not with inferior skill, and its sufferings have entirely changed it during the course of time.

Few Old Buildings Remain.
How thoroughly bad the construction of some buildings has been—more particularly in modern times—may be judged from the fact that two large minarets belonging to one of the mosques of the city, which were built within the memory of the inhabitants of Bagdad, have already lost their top stories. But this, of course, is an extreme example. On the other hand there is the Khan Aurtmah, a large brick vaulted building in the center of the city, which is, in its way, as wonderful a piece of construction as one can see anywhere. It was built in 1359 and is still in use and in excellent preservation. The Marjanlyah mosque, close by, and having as part of its endowments the income derived from the Khan Aurtmah, is another fine old building. It was built two years before the Khan and is of considerable architectural merit.

A few fragments of an earlier date are to be found in different parts of the city. Some portions of the old fortification of mustashir, for example, and the eleventh century minarets of Suqal-Ghazl and of the Qanariyah mosque and, at any rate, some of the walls of the old Mustansariyah college (eleventh century) may be mentioned. But there are no other old buildings as complete as the khan and the mosque.

Beautiful—From a Distance.
Apart from these few examples of an earlier period, the Bagdad we know today is of the seventeenth or eighteenth and succeeding centuries, which in terms of architecture is comparatively modern. Judged in this light Bagdad is not disappointing. It is, particularly for a Mesopotamian town, quite a delightful place. From the distance it presents a most attractive picture. From miles away in the desert one can see the green mass of Bagdad floating in the atmosphere and as one approaches nearer along the dreary, dusty track, its colored domes and gilded minarets can be distinguished showing above the palms and trees. As one enters the town most of this is lost to sight and one finds oneself in a narrow winding street. The walls on either side are usually very bare. Every now and then one passes a door, sometimes plain, sometimes quite ornate with jolly brass door knockers. Above, from the first floor are projecting oriel windows, these, too, varying from plain brick and timber to carved wood of great richness—with pierced screens, often of very beautiful design. But be they plain or fancy, they cast a pleasant shadow on the road beneath and incidentally block out from view except for a glimpse here and there, the domes or minarets which were so noticeable from outside the city walls.

Out of the maze of these narrow streets one would never emerge had it not been for the kindness of the Turk, who very thoughtfully cut a broad road right through the center of the town in commemoration of the fall of Kut. Now, in our day, we use it for the main stream of traffic.

But the most charming feature of Bagdad is the river front and this alone is sufficient to compel one's admiration for the city. Basra in comparison is all mud and shipping. Amara is pretentious with a row of buildings of uniform design facing on a promenade, which reminds one too much of a terrace on the "front" of a small seaside resort. Kut is picturesque too, but designed on a scale befitting its size and importance, and with its mosques and public buildings, the palms and the trees and more especially the numbers of delightful riverside houses, with their verandas and balconies and their exquisite little gardens overhanging the river, Bagdad has a character and a charm all its own.

OLD LONDON MADE MODERN

Circumstances Under Which the Traveller May See All That He Has Traveled Far to See.

St. Etheldreda, in Ely place, Holborn, London, is one of the old city churches about which Dickens declared a full half of his pleasure in them arose from their mystery. That they existed in the streets of London was a sufficient satisfaction to him, but possibly he would have added St. Etheldreda to the list of the three famous old churches whose names he admitted were household words, if, on his night walks abroad he had heard the watchman cry the hour, as Etheldreda's watchman does to this day. Old London, lurking by byways and round corners, is still to be discovered by the curious who carry the lantern of a certain knowledgeableness. The cry, "Past ten, past eleven," from the watchman of the church with the Saxons name, lying off Holborn with its asphalted pavements and motor buses, bears witness to the assertion.

Lawsuit Lasted 478 Years.

A lawsuit regarding Rhodesian mining rights, which has reached the house of lords in its fourth year, is quite a legal infant when compared with some that have preceded it. The Thellusson will case, for example, dragged out in the courts from 1797 to 1857. Another similar action at law, known as the Bishop-Demetra will case, lasted 122 years. Even this, however, is not a record, for in 1908 there was settled at Friema a lawsuit that had been in progress since 1430. The raising of a dam was the point at issue and it occupied the courts for exactly 478 years.

"Next Stop, the Azores"

Ponta Delgada, with NC-4 in Harbor.

ARMEN are preparing to make the Azores islands the aerial junction of the future. They predict that this garden spot of the Atlantic, with its mild climate and other health giving qualities, will become the stopover for all overseas travel by airplane and dirigible. They point out that the exploit of the United States navy in effecting a crossing has virtually put the islands on the map, as far as the general public is concerned; that for many years problems of construction will limit the overseas route to the Azores, where fuel and other supplies may be replenished, says the New York Tribune.

Rising to a height of more than 7,000 feet—as in the case of Pico—and at the lowest 350 feet above sea level, as the island of Corvo, the islands form an oasis in a desert of water and mist and heavy banks of clouds—clouds that rise off the water in the morning and blot out everything from view, narrowing the horizon to a few feet for the anxious aerial pilot and his navigator.

Already navigators are at work on instruments to eliminate these difficulties. They count on the Azores with all of its mists and clouds to furnish them with correct weather reports, radio stations and rescue ships in case of accident to the planes.

Pleasant Place for Stopover.
And a stopover at the Azores will not be in the nature of a hardship to overseas passengers. What would a tourist find, for example, if his plane dropped him at Ponta Delgada, the capital of St. Michael's? On approaching the islands he would find a great cloud of dense, gray mist resting on the horizon. Nearer it becomes a reddish brown dotted with moldy green.

Veering to the southeast toward Ponta Delgada he would see the city first as a formal white line, or, if the gaze could pierce the cloud, it would be a broken line extending back from the sea wall with a series of white splotches, small conical hills of bright green and stiff white houses edged with black trimmings.

The white lines would become walls the next instant, disclosing orange gardens, and the passenger would drop into a little harbor cluttered with tramp sailing ships of a half-dozen nations. The harbor is a busy one, far superior in commercial aspect to the town itself, which has been maintained in all its primitive state by the early Portuguese settlers. The admixture of Moorish and Flemish has not served to quicken the pace of the community, nor that of any other in the island groups, for that matter.

The clouds are most dense in the morning. Toward noon the humidity is a source of discomfort if one is in the city, but not so on the mountain slopes.

The thermometer has never been known to go below 48 degrees in January, the mid-winter month, and it never has risen above 80. The average is 72 degrees the year round.

Weather is Always Mild.

Some of the finest homes in the world have been built there by wealthy and often titled continentals, principally Portuguese. In the farming districts (and there are large farms among the various islands) many of the natives wear costumes entirely red—short jackets, vests and knee breeches, with gaiters buttoned over the feet, which are often bare. When anything at all is worn on the soles it usually consists of leather sandals.

These people are of retiring disposition, rarely visiting the communities for fear that some one will laugh at them and their dress. In the towns, however, German, English, Portuguese and American commercial visitors have introduced modern modes of dress and influenced social and business life.

The natives do not overwork, unless in caring for the many travelers who come over the sea in search of the health they always find, either climbing the volcanic slopes or bathing in the warm baths of Furnas.

As for scenery, where will one find pine and elm trees growing in the same neighborhood with oranges, bananas, citrons and pomegranates? Long known only as the little islands where there are no snakes, the Azores

TRAIN LOAD OF KASCH COTTON SEED SOLD BY FAMOUS BREEDER

The largest purchase of cotton seed for planting purposes ever made in the history of the planting seed business was made a few days ago when P. A. Stufflemer, sales manager for Ed Kasch, famous cotton breeder and cotton wizard of San Marcos, sold to P. S. Grogan, a prominent business man, cotton man and oil mill operator of Corpus for a consideration of $42,000, fifteen car loads of Kasch's Improved Pedigreed cottonseed—a solid train load—to be delivered between the 1st and 15th of November.

These seed will be planted in Nueces county next spring, where Kasch Cotton for the past two years has demonstrated its wonderful superiority over all other varieties, and this purchase is but another move by men prominent in the affairs of this noted South Texas cotton county to secure at all times the best there is for the farmers there. To quote the Corpus Christi Caller of August 23 in its report of this sale, "Kasch cotton is considered one of the leading staple cottons grown here and this purchase is looked upon by cotton men as one of very much importance to this county."

Mr. Kasch certainly deserves credit for such splendid showing. The success of his breeding work has been phenomenal and his reputation has gone in the last few years to all parts of the cotton belt it can be attributed to one thing above all others i. e., Kasch has always believed in a product that stands for the greatest amount of possible quality. Kasch cotton is known wherever cotton grows for its money making qualities and for the high standard of the business policies of the organization behind it—San Marcos Times.

$110,000 BONDS FOR AUDITORIUM AT SAN ANGELO

San Angelo, Texas, Sept. 5.—Acting upon an urgent petition from the Board of City Development, the City Commission next Friday will order an election to be held early in October, submitting a bond issue of $110,000 for the purpose of building an auditorium.

The election would have been ordered last week but for the necessity of drafting an ordinance specifying the life of the bonds, the interest they will bear and other details.

The auditorium will be primarily to enable San Angelo to entertain the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention next June and will strengthen San Angelo's position as a convention city.

The fire station lawn, adjoining the City Hall on the north and due east of the courthouse, has been suggested as a site for the auditorium.

THE BRADY STANDARD BRADY, TEXAS

Befogged in New York

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

It was just one of those trilling things that change one's mental attitude in times of strain. Jim Harper had been out of work for three months and had almost given up trying.

Jim saw a girl's face, pure, spiritual, sweet, almost against his own. And he heard the most melodious voice in the world say: "Oh, please excuse me! Is—isn't that the Sharp building over there?"

The fog was clearing away, and the fog cleared away from Jim's brain too. The "wide spaces" sank down into that region of dreams that must remain dreams if a man is to live and work in the world of men.

Three days later he was employed at a decent salary in the one place that he had never dared to tackle. A month later he was beginning to be rehabilitated. In three months he had opened a savings bank account.

All the while the little bag, his mascot, rested in a drawer in his room. Some day he meant to find the owner and restore it. Then—would he dare to explain, if those sweet gray eyes offered encouragement.

Sometimes he thought he would and sometimes he thought he wouldn't. But six months afterward he entered a train at the Pennsylvania terminal and went out to Jamaica.

Swayle avenue was depressing. It consisted of a double row of cheap wooden houses inhabited by a foreign population. Negro children swarmed in the street, slatternly negroes gossiped at their doors.

And 92 was the worst house in the row. A pleasant-faced young negro came to the door and grinned at him.

"Sure, I'm Miss Alice Richards," she smirked. "What can I do for you?"

With a leaden heart Jim produced the bag. Miss Richards had never seen it before.

"No, I don't know nothing about that there bag, Mistah," she answered. "I done never seen it befo' now."

"But look, there's your name and address inside it," protested Jim.

The girl took the paper and looked at it upside down.

"Mebbe," she admitted. "but, yo' see, I can't read very well, Mistah."

"Then I guess I'd better go," said Jim.

"I guess you had," admitted Miss Alice frankly.

Jim had reached an impasse. His inquiries had led him nowhere. It was absurd to ask Miss Alice whether she had a white friend with a pure, spiritual face and gray eyes who might have borrowed her bag.

And he turned—to see the girl of his dreams confronting him upon the step. And the girl's face turned from blush-pink to rose-red under his eager scrutiny.

"Why, that's my bag!" she exclaimed in wonder as Jim handed it to her. "Didn't I—haven't I seen you somewhere before?"

Jim was just able to find the words of explanation, and the girl broke into happy laughter.

"Why, Alice is my laundress!" she said. "A friend gave me her address and I was going out to see her on the day we met in the fog."

Somehow they found themselves walking down Swayle avenue together, chatting as if they had been old friends.

"It's fortunate for me that you happened to be coming here just at the same time I did," said Jim, "otherwise we might never have met."

LOCAL BRIEFS

Last Friday morning there was quite a bit of speculation as to the meaning of a mysterious "circle 40" that had been made on many windows, doors, sidewalks, and other places that gave a good background to whitewash. Some thought that this cabalistic figure was in some way connected with the K. K. K.

To Cyril Farmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Farmer of Fife, goes credit for having the best radio outfit in this section. To him goes the further credit of having installed and equipped the radio outfit himself.

BURLGAR WOUNDED MONDAY AT BANGS TEXAS, IS PAROLED LIFE-TIMER OF OKLAHOMA

Sheriff Pugh received a telegram today from Fred Switzer, warden of the Oklahoma penitentiary, at McAlester, stating that the man J. C. Wood, who was shot and seriously wounded early Monday morning, after he had blown a safe at Bangs, was a life-time prisoner in the Oklahoma penitentiary, having been put in during the year 1915, and was released on parole a short time ago.

The telegram did not state from what part of Oklahoma Wood was sent up nor did it mention the crime which caused his incarceration. It is probable that the prisoner will be returned to Oklahoma and permitted to spend the rest of his life in the penitentiary there.—Brownwood Bulletin.
