

Local Showers Fall In Spur Country

1.17 INCHES OF RAIN REGISTERED IN SPUR

Thursday afternoon more than an one inch of rain fell in Spur and surrounding territory, refreshing the withering crops and parched ranges, and giving inestimable benefit to the country covered.

Throughout the week local showers have been falling in different sections, covering a greater portion of the Spur country. Good showers were reported at Afton, McAdoo, Dickens, Croton and to the northeast of Spur. Thursday morning a good rain fell at Antelope, and in the afternoon it appeared from the clouds that a good shower fell to the east, north and northwest as well as in Spur. The rainfall here registered 1.17 inches at the Experiment Station.

While the general drought may not be considered broken by these local showers, yet they are of inestimable benefit and most encouraging.

THE ELECTION RETURNS CANVASS-ED AND THE NOM-NEES DECLARED FOR THE COUNTY

At the meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee Saturday at the County Capitol, the committee canvassed the returns, a complete official tabulated report of which appears elsewhere in this issue of the Texas Spur, and declared the following county candidates the regularly elected nominees of the party, the canvass having shown that they received a majority of the votes polled in the primary election held Saturday, July 26th, as follows:

For County Judge, O. C. Newberry.
For County Attorney, Alton B. Chapman.

For County School Superintendent, Mrs. Madge D. Twaddell, the count showing a difference of only one vote above that of her opponent, Frank Speer, the vote being 1368 and 1367 for each of the two candidates.

For District Clerk, Miss Virginia Worswick.

For County Clerk, Robt. Reynolds, he receiving a majority vote above his two opponents, J. V. McCormick and Homer Dobbins.

For County Treasurer, Mrs. Nannie Cobb.

For County Tax Assessor, A. B. Hogan.

For County Surveyor, H. H. Terry.

For County Democratic Chairman, Robt. Nickels.

For County Commissioners: Precinct 1, Austin Rose; Precinct 2, E. N. Johnson; Precinct 3, Walter Foreman; and Precinct 4, Lee Mimms.

For Justice of the Peace, Precinct 3, S. E. Roddy.

For Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, T. M. Green.

For Public Weigher, Precinct 1, C. P. Auflil.

For Constable, Precinct 1, W. D. Street.

Democratic candidates not receiving a majority vote in the July primary, but who received the highest votes polled, and whose candidacies will be again submitted to voters for a majority vote in the primary election to be held for that purpose on August 23rd, are as follows:

For Sheriff and Tax Collector: W. B. Arthur and M. L. Jones.

For Public Weigher, Precinct 2: J. H. Palmer and Fred Dozier.

For Public Weigher, Precinct 3: A. M. Shepherd and Fred Hisey.

For Constable, Precinct 3: E. L. Smith and J. M. Reese.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE TO TEXAS SPUR OFFICE SATURDAY

Saturday afternoon of last week the Texas Spur office came within an ace of going up in smoke, but by the presence of mind of Oran McClure Jr., who is now office foreman during school vacation and the business and financial depression, together with the prompt response and good work on the part of the fire department, saved the building and printing machinery and equipments with only a loss of not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars.

A season like the prevailing conditions is a very appropriate time in which to sustain a fire loss when properly covered by insurance—but the misfortune in this instance was in the fact that we were carrying our own insurance and therefore not in position to call on an insurance company to provide us with cash in payment of the damages.

Because of the tight financial situation, and the further fact that for twenty years we had paid insurance regularly and without intermission or loss, we decided to carry our own insurance at least until time to begin building fires again for the winter. Insurance, we find, may be a paying proposition provided fires occur frequently, but a losing gamble when you are careful and don't want to burn.

The fire originated from the wind blowing burning trash into the back door of the building, the flames not being observed until considerable headway had been gained.

We may decide to put on a "Jew Fire Sale" of subscriptions as well as advertising soon in order to recoupe somewhat of the loss sustained at a critical period.

Our limited force has been laboring faithfully in repairing damaged machinery in order to get out this week's paper, and it will be several weeks before we can possibly overcome the effects of both fire and water damage done—and in the meantime we ask our friends, readers and patrons to bear with us in our short-comings, and give us all the advertising and job printing possible—and we will do the work in first-class manner and appreciate your favorable consideration.

BAIN AND BRUMMETT IN RUNOFF FOR DISTRICT JUDGESHIP

In the race for district judge of this the 110th district, Judge Kenneth Bain of Floydada and H. A. C. Brummett of Dickens, were the two leading candidates, and since neither received a majority vote in the July primary, they will be in the run-off primary August 23rd.

This is the only district race in which a candidate failed of a majority vote.

In the race for Congress of this district, Congressman Marvin Jones received the nomination over his opponent, James O. Cade, both of Amarillo.

For Representative to the State Legislature, J. M. Claunch of Snyder received the nomination over Representative Johnson also of Snyder.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received up to the 15th day of August 1930 for 3 trucks for transportation in the Dickens Independent School District. Routes and requirements can be had from J. H. Meadows, president of the Board, at Dickens, Texas. Bidders will be required, among other things, to be residents of the District.

H. A. C. Brummett, Sec. of the Board.

ONE COUNTY AND THREE PRECINCT RACES IN RUNOFF PRIMARY 23RD

In the run-off primary election to be held August 23rd, there will be only one contest for county office, and three for precinct offices, aside from state contests and also that for district judge of this district.

A second contest for Sheriff and Tax Collector, between W. B. Arthur and M. L. Jones, will be had, while in Precinct two Fred Dozier and J. H. Palmer of Afton will make the second race for a majority vote for the Public Weigher's office, and in Precinct three Fred Hisey and A. M. Shepherd will contest also for the weigher's office, while J. M. Reese and E. L. Smith will take the bridge off in the second run for Constable of Precinct three.

The race for Sheriff as well as the three precinct contests in the county—along with that of "Ma" and Sterling for Governor, will be warmly contested and possibly more interesting even than was the first primary election.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbis Entertain With Family Reunion Celebration

It was a real pleasure and an evening of "joy unrestrained" to be one among the number at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Forbis when they entertained Monday evening with a reunion of members of the Green family, relatives and friends, the occasion being specially for Mrs. Virgie Davis who was here for the first time in fifteen years, visiting with her brothers and sisters and friends of earlier years in Dickens county.

Just before sundown the crowd began to gather at the Forbis home, and soon thereafter a "spread" was placed on the lawn, and individual plates were filled with fried and boiled ham, salads, cakes, pies, pickles and other good things, with iced tea.

As the evening progressed songs were rendered by young ladies; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bird furnished music while the others recalled and enjoyed the old time dance steps, including the "Virginia reel, heel and toe Scotchie, waltzes and other steps popular in days gone by. The old time square dance to the call of Bob Forbis was perfectly performed and enjoyed by some who had not been on the dance floor for thirty or forty years, and especially by Gill Green; Cliff Bird danced the clog while Wynell McClure "did the Charleston," Wynell McClure "did the Charleston." The evening was a real joy and pleasure to everyone.

Those present were Mrs. Virgie Davis of Los Angeles, California; Mrs. Forbis and Mrs. Nellie Davis and Gill and Duff Green, sons and daughters of Col. John A. Green who was a noted lawyer and honored citizen of Dickens county at the time and before its organization, and for whom the Dickens County ex-Confederate Camp was named, and in whose honor the family reunion entertainment was given; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis, John A. and Lewis Green Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Forbis, Frank Forbis, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Jones, Mrs. H. T. Garner, Miss Ella Garner, Dr. and Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. W. J. Elliot and Miss Virginia Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. Oran McClure, Miss Virginia Forbis, and Mesdames Green and children, and Miss Olive Meadors.

A. K. McAllister, of Afton, was in Spur Wednesday conferring with the "political heads" with reference to the run-off campaign. His services as campaign manager for some of the county candidates, is said to be very efficient and effective, and the inference is that in future campaigns his assistance will be sought by those anticipating a close vote.

Notice to Voters of Precinct Two.

I want to thank voters for the liberal vote given me July 26th, placing me in the August run-off for Weigher. If favored with the nomination in the 2nd primary I will give the office my very best personal attention and efforts, and in selecting an assistant in operating two cotton yards I will either select the most competent and trustworthy man available, or be guided by the wishes of a majority expression from patrons of the Weighers office. Again thanking you for the support given me and earnestly soliciting the support of all in the election August 23rd, I am yours to serve.—FRED DOZIER.

A FARM HOUSE ON THE GEORGE PLACE BURNED SATURDAY

A farm house on the A. C. George place in the Highway community, and occupied by Willie Reece and family, was totally destroyed by fire together with all household furniture and family effects, Saturday night of last week. The origin of the fire is not definitely known.

A subscription list was circulated in Spur during the week, and liberal contributions made to aid the family in the loss suffered.

Eugene Rogers Died Tuesday Following a Protracted Illness

Eugene Cullen Rogers, nineteen years of age, died Tuesday at the home of his parents west of Spur, his remains being interred Wednesday in the Spur cemetery, Revs. Parmenter and Vaughn conducting the funeral services at the Methodist church.

While Eugene Rogers had been ill and afflicted for many months, his death at this time was none the less sorrowful and unexpected on the part of members of the family and their neighbors and friends.

C. R. Edwards this week made a business trip to Sweetwater.

THE SPUR NATIONAL BANK

CAPITAL STOCK, $125,000.00

DEAR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS:

We would like to have a heart to heart talk with you. Not to extend sympathy, because that would not accomplish anything, but, to discuss ways and means of working out of this difficult situation.

When our barns are well filled and cotton is selling from 20c to 30c per pound, we can succeed without any special thought or effort. In other words, it is an easy thing to ride "the man of war into victory." But, the thing that concerns us most at this time, is what can we do with "Spark Plugs," or how can we best take care of our local situation.

It is not sympathy or self-pity that we need. It is something that will produce results. Inasmuch as we can not talk to you personally, we are going to broadcast a few ideas and suggestions gathered at random from observation and from some of our outstanding farmers who have weathered a number of droughts successfully.

Several of these men have suggested that, if every farmer in this trade territory would either dry plant some kind of early maturing grain sorghum on every available spot on his farm, which can be done in very few days at a nominal cost, or have a supply of cane and millet seed on hand to plant if it rains by September 1, it might be the means of keeping the livestock on our farms, which virtually means the salvation of our country.

This is not only common sense, it is fore-sight and "uncommon sense." These suggestions are fine, but, they will not be worth a dime unless they are acted upon. Please think it over.

G. F. Smith, of McAdoo, and several other farmers of that section, planted feed last year too late to head, but, it made enough roughness to supply their farms and a surplus to sell to pay their living expenses and keep them out of debt. This same thing can be repeated by hundreds of farmers this year, provided it rains within the next few weeks.

Mr. Dickson, at the Experiment Station, has already saved several tons of roughness from his premature maize and hopes to get a good sucker crop from the stubs. Not a bad idea at all to save every stalk of roughness, especially when it can be cut with knives at very little cost.

Another good source to turn to is to sow wheat in September or October. Several hundred farmers profited last year by doing this. W. F. Shugart, W. D. Spraberry, and many others, pastured their dairy cows and work stock on their wheat until April this year, then cut and baled enough wheat in June to finish their crops. You can readily see, from their experience, that we still have a chance to improve the feed situation, even if it does not rain before October.

If there is any one thing we would stress above all else, it is the importance of keeping your good cows. With a little special care and attention, they will pay their own way and help feed the family. With the present prospect for better cream prices and a good wheat patch, these old dairy cows will be life savers this winter and spring. It is folly to think of selling them at this time, because they will not bring enough to help and they are worth as much as they ever were. They will furnish as much milk and butter for the table, a cream check occasionally, and as much skimmed milk for laying hens as they did when they were selling for $75.00 to $125.00 per head.

Let us use good business judgment and sacrifice along some other line, if necessary, and keep the cows. It is the only thing to do, "Believe it or not."

It is up to each of us to do some constructive thinking and planning, in order to work out our own salvation. If we will co-operate closely (as someone has so aptly said, "Hang together to keep from hanging separately"), use some initiative, trim our sails to conform to the times, and sit steady in the boat, there is no question but that we will land safely.

Remember, the darkest hour is just before day. Stay right in there and pitch—it may be about daylight. A good rain would change things over night.

SPUR BOY TELLS OF BULL FIGHT IN OLD MEXICO

The following letter is from Weldon McClure who is now in the extreme southwestern point of the state, at Weslaco, and just across the line from Old Mexico. Bull fights are the National sport in Mexico, and of which he writes,

"At last I am able to tell you about the much talked of bull fights. The Valley offered such a varied array of attractions on the 4th of July, a rodeo at Falfurrias, a prize fight at Rio Rica, a big port event at Port Isabel, including boat races and snake catching contests, a carnival at McAllen, and the bull fight at Reynosa — that I hardly knew just what to do; but finally decided in favor of the national sport of Latin Americans and Spaniards. And, contrary to general opinion, I find it interesting and amusing.

Crossed over rather early in the afternoon and had a few cold bottles before the big performance which started at 4:30, and then on to the gala event, I had a complimentary press pass calling for the 'shady side' which seats sell at the premium price of five dollars.

The band was playing and the crowd cheering for action when we entered and on the release of the first bull everyone went wild, much as they do at the entrance of a squad onto the football field.

When the bull came through the gate a couple of brightly colored ribbons were pinned on his shoulders with little tarpoon darts. This marks the bull for death and sets right any illusions he might have as to what it's all about, and the battle begins. At first while the bull is fresh and makes such vicious lunges, one toreador can not engage him long at a time, and when crowded too closely these wily young men scamper over the wall or behind the sidings, sometimes even leaving their sashes behind. The crowd cheers the bull, of course, and another immediately engages him.

After a few minutes Mr. Bull tires of charging at the air and begins to scheme ways of outwitting the nimble toreador, and the real fight begins. Man and beast stare at each other across a few feet, the one planning a not too long delayed attack and the other alert and expectant, planning of course, to dodge.

These courageous little black bulls neverthink of giving up, and so clever are they that the fighters are hard put to dodge their charges and antics. However, the bull soon becomes tired and sullen and the toreadors who so recently were ignominiously climbing fences now become very pert and begin to taunt and to gaud the bull to further attacks—much to the amusement of the crowd.

After an interlude two picadors ride in on horses to engage the maddened and disappointed bull. The horses' chances at life are almost as slim as the bulls', and are chosen accordingly. The picador's position is also very dangerous since his poor mount can not hope to elude the bull, and he must keep his seat throughout the attack. The picador is armed with a long spear that has rather a blunt point with which he torments the bull and wards off his attacks. The bull, however, always breaks through the guard and gores the horse viciously, bringing him and the rider to the ground. The toreadors immediately come forward with their red sashes and lure the bull from the fallen horse and rider and on to the next where he goes through the same performance. The fallen picador is disentangled, and if the horse is able to rise he is lead out, otherwise a yoke of oxen drag him from the arena. This seeming useless slaughter of horses is probably necessary a part of a good bull fight, since the scent of blood and the sense of victory so encourages the bull that he is more confident than ever.

Following the picador episode, the toreadors again engage the bull, and one at a time abandon their red protection sashes and try their skill at plunging darts into the bull's shoulders as he charges them. These darts are about a foot and a half long and are decorated in bright colors. The perfect thrust is to pin the darts, one on each shoulder blade, at the height of the charge, and when this is done the successful lad is loudly applauded.

The matador then enters, with his red sash and lance, bowing acknowledgement of the applause always accorded him, and engages the bull for the final encounter. He very gracefully eludes the attacks and directs his toreadors to get the bull in a good position for the crowd to see. After the bull is worried down so that a fatal thrust may be made (and this is very difficult) he levels his lance and charges. The lance should enter between the shoulder and neck and pierce the heart—then the h—commences. A swarm of fighters surround the enraged and bellowing bull distracting his attention until he sinks to his knees in the last struggles. The matador then ends his life quickly with a heavy sword plunged immediately behind the horns. The flunkies clean the arena for the next encounter.

During the entire performance the pop boys peddled ice cold beer, and everyone drinks and chers. The band blares forth at each act of unusual cleverness or bravery, and the crowd goes wild.—And a big time is had by all.

One Mexican who sat near me, in his excitement was continually throwing his hat into the arena, as did several others, and it was very amusing to watch the expectancy and anxiety with which he awaited its return. It is quite possible that if these tokens of admiration were not so assiduously returned by the bull fighters thus honored, another old Spanish custom would cease to exist. However, this is quite beside the subject, and the fight is really exciting.

Four bulls were killed at this event, and it so happened that each succeeding bull was more vicious and bloodthirsty than the one preceding. The young matador killing the last bull had a hard time of it. He was not lacking in courage, but such fighter was his opponent, and possessed of such great endurance, that several thrusts were made before the heart was touched. It was during this encounter that a young toreador drew the applause of the entire crowd, and very probably assured for himself a future matador's title. After an imperfect thrust the lance was not thrown out, as usual by the bull's lunges, and the young fighter leaped in among the thrashing hoofs and horns, drew the lance clear and escaped without injury.

I am not sure that I have the names of everything correctly, but that will not matter so much if I have been able to give you an idea of what a bull fight is like. Sorry I did not get to write earlier in the week as usual, but since Saturday was also a holiday with me, nothing must do but that we go fishing down on the Rio Grande. Did not get any of the big ones, but had fairly good luck, bringing in six beautiful blue channel cats averaging over two pounds—and these are really more delicious than the big boys.

You will probably have to pay this letter out of the postoffice, so will not add more pages. Write often, and please attach more importance to the regular mailing of my Texas Spur.—Your loving son, Weldon McClure.

A WORD FROM E. L. SMITH
I take this means of thanking the people of Precinct 3 for giving me such a liberal support for the office of Constable in the July Primary. I trust you will see proper to stand by me in the second primary. To those who voted for others in the first primary, if you can see your way clear to support me this time, I shall appreciate it. If I get the office I want it upon merit and not through sympathy. I have no job, just working by days work to support my family, but honest toil brings home the bacon. If elected, I will do my best, and I think I can fill the office to both your satisfaction and mine. Again thanking everybody, I solicit your votes and influence in the second primary for the office of Constable of Precinct 3.

FORTY INCHES IN 40 YEARS
Erosion continues to wash away the soil resources of the Nation. A recent survey of a typical small valley in northeastern Kansas shows that 85 per cent of the land, comprising the greater part of the valley, has lost from 8 to 40 inches of soil since it was cleared 40 years ago. The United States Department of Agriculture reports, Thirty four acres had lost an average of 11 inches of soil. 45 acres had lost 18 inches. 10 acres had lost 21 inches, 2 1-2 acres had lost 23 inches and 1 1-3 acres had lost 3 1-4 feet of soil. The "yardstick" for measuring the losses was found in a few remaining patches of timber, where the soil was as nature originally built it—a mellow, rich silt loam almost black with spongy humus, and capable of producing 75 bushels of corn an acre. Now the land is very much less productive. Much of it is overrun with weeds.

In the meantime the washing proceeds.—Bureau of Chemistry and Soils.
