FOR CONGRESS

Senator Arthur P. Duggan

To the Citizens of the 19th Congressional District:

In announcing my candidacy for Congress in the new 19th Congressional District I am fully aware of the importance of that high office. Our country never needed serious, well-balanced, real thinking, hard working Congressmen as it does now in this time of national readjustment and uncertainty. The prosperity of the people; yes, the very existence of our Nation, is in the hands of Congress. The more wisdom and experience the man you elect to this office possesses the better it will be for YOU personally and each and every one of us.

Your Congressman certainly ought to know intimately your needs from close personal contact, be sympathetic with them, and be willing and able to actually strive to meet them. It is a fact that my life time spent in West Texas, my active and varied business, civic and Legislative experience in this district, for the past 30 years, and my association with all classes of the people have given me the best possible opportunity to learn their requirements. I state to you emphatically that no Congress-

Palace will Have Another Double Program

Manager Everts of the Palace Theatre announces another double bill for the New Year Holidays, the first picture "Another Language" with Robert Montgomery and Helen Hayes to be shown Saturday Midnite and Sunday Matinee only, is a picture which everyone will enjoy, especially young married couples who are smothered by in-laws. It is a striking tale of an interfering Mother-in-Law and if you have ever had family troubles you will want to see the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

The picture adopted for the famous play by Rose Franken, is truly an epic of the American middle class family and mother-in-law in particular. It has a moral you will like or dislike, but it is there just the same. . . that mothers who love their children can prove it by keeping out of their affairs after they are married.

Miss Hayes, as the young wife who finds herself smothered by her husband's family, gives the most moving performance of her screen career. Her spirited denunciation of the Hallams, one and all, is by far the finest scene this reviewer has seen in many a month. It is worth standing up and cheering.

Montgomery, as the ineffectual husband who finds his backbone in the right place when he springs to his wife's defense, is excellent. His portrayal of the part of Vickie will be remembered when some of his more flippant roles have long since been forgotten.

Edward H. Griffith directed the picture with an admirable restraint. He allowed the play to unfold itself smoothly and mounting tempo. His reaching of the climatic scenes added power and strength which few films achieve.

Louise Closser Hale is the selfish mother and John Beal repeats his brilliant stage performance in the role of Jerry. The splendid cast includes Henry Travers, Margaret Hamilton, Willard Robertson, Irene Cattell, Minor Watson, Hal Dawson and Mabel Turner.

"College Humor" with Jack Oakie, Richard Arlen, Bing Crosby, Burns and Allen will be the second picture and will be shown Sunday nite (New Year's Eve) at 10 o'clock also Monday matinee and nite.

This is another of the Palace Theatre's guaranteed programs and Manager Everts says you must like it or your money will be refunded.

Fitting the Education to the Individual

Once upon a time there were two artists. One of them went in for portrait painting and after 40 years became famous. But those 40 years were terrible.

The other went in for commercial illustrating and never became famous. But in 40 years he was rich and had his portrait painted by his friend. Meantime he always had money.

Probably every artist has to make this decision—whether to make money or strive for fame. I some measure everyone of us has to make the same decision.

We often think of this when we consider the problem of education of our boys and girls. Some college and university courses are designed to carry a boy or girl to the heights of professional success. Every boy and girl who has the intellectual and financial equipment would do well to take such courses, even though they require years.

But what about the young people who have to make a living quickly—who want to get ahead without long years of preparation? What should they do?

The solution of their problem is best provided by business training institutions of the higher type. Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration the Tyler, Texas, is one of these.

More than one graduate of the school at Tyler has become financially independent. Thousands have become successful business men and women.

In a comparatively short time. Let nobody think that a business training at a school like Tyler is an inferior education. These schools maintain the highest standards of teaching and business discipline. Graduates find that in the business world it is a distinct honor to be a graduate of such a school.

Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration publishes an interesting, well illustrated booklet entitled "Achieving Success in Business." Anyone interested may secure a copy by writing the school at Tyler, Texas, for it. It is free.
