That Bogota Affair

The bloody uprising which almost wrecked the Inter-American Conference at Bogota recently was headlined in the American press. Most observers thought it was just another South American political upheaval. looting, and the dynamiting had ceased, it was evident that this rebellion had something different. The new ingredient was the amazing precision of timing and the speed with which the events moved.

When American newspaper men who were in Bogota had time to think about it, they discovered that this "revolution" was pulled off with the same practiced techniques that European Communists have been known to use. It was also discovered, after the haze cleared, that our own State Department, including our Bogota foreign office, had received warnings out of Chile that something was afoot. Yet, nothing prevented the

"Mass" Action

First a liberal party leader was shot down on the street under circumstances that indicate the Communists may have killed one of their own, just to get things started. The assassin was stomped to death and mutilated so that identification was impossible. After that, just like clockgot busy. They grabbed radio stations and asked the "masses" to go forward to the attack.

The Communists then really took to their soapboxes. They openly identified themselves as Communists and called for comrades to raid any place that might have weapons. Other mobs attacked public buildings, including the famed Capitol where the Inter-American Conference was being held. Yet another mob dragged the assassin's corpse to the Colombian president's mansion, where it was flung across the doorstep for the rest of the afternoon Lawless Fanaticism

What happened to the police? They had disappeared. Nor did the army show up. The mob, therefore, went about freely burning automobiles and wrecking buildings. Though the army was said to be critically short of gasoline, yet plenty was available for the gangs. Plenty of dynamite also. While these things were happening in Bogota, key centers elsewhere were being burned and pillaged in the same manner.

Why am I recounting all this? I want to demonstrate that Communism is not a law-abiding political party. It is a lawless fanaticism. We have had a demonstration right here in this hemisphere which shows the type of terrorism and force Communists use to gain political power. What Communists have done in Russia and in European riots and uprisings, they will do again wherever they can, in whatever countries they find sleeping on the job.

America must not be lulled to sleep by the sweet words of misguided idealists, who are being used by revolutionists the world over. There are few real Communists in America. There are not many Americans that desire to join lawless mobs. But Communists will stop at nothing which will cause strife and division among our people. We must know the methods of Communists, for if we do not anticipate the harm that even a few of them can do, we stand to lose what is America.
