

S. J. Ousley Markets A New Type Of Farm Implement

A new type farm implement invented by S. J. Ousley has recently been placed on the market in this and other communities over Texas. The new machine is a combination cultivator and go-devil and sells for less than the standard makes of cultivators.

An added feature of the machine is that the go-devil knives may be lowered and raised at will and if it performs as well on all types of soil as the model has done in this section Mr. Ousley will undoubtedly become a noted manufacturer of farm implements.

Mother Morris Buried At Anson Christmas Day

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Morris, familiarly known to people of this community as "Mother Morris" passed away last Monday noon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred C. Neal, at Ft. Worth, Texas. She is the mother of Mrs. Birl Hight of this city and also the mother of the late Dr. J. E. Morris who spent a lifetime of service here, and Edwin Morris formerly of this city. Mrs. Morris was 85 years, 3 months and one day old at the time of her death.

Some weeks ago the aged woman fell on the stairway at the home of her daughter in this city, fracturing a hip and receiving internal injuries from which she never fully recovered and it is thought that these injuries as well as her senile condition were responsible for her death.

Funeral services which were held at Haskell last Christmas day were conducted by her minister the Rev. Carter, of the Haskell Methodist church. Mrs. Morris was converted to this faith at an early age and had lived a devout and exemplary Christian life.

In 1869, Mrs. Morris who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollonquist, of Gilmer, was married to C. P. Morris, at that place. To this union 10 children were born, five of whom survive. They are Mrs. Hight of this city; Mrs. Neal of Ft. Worth; Mrs. J. M. Woodson of Haskell; Mrs. C. L. Wright of Anson, and Edwin Morris of Eagle, Colo. Others were a daughter, Kate, who died in 1903; and Dr. J. E. Morris who died here in 1931. Three of the children died in infancy. Mr. Morris died June 4, 1908, and was

Mr. and Mrs. Morris moved to Jones county, Texas, in 1888 and made their home in this section of West Texas until his death in 1908 following which Mrs. Morris lived among her children spending a large part of her time in this community.

Woman Sheriff Makes Liquor Arrest In Co.

WIFE OF LATE SHERIFF STATES THAT SHE WISHES TO DEMONSTRATE THAT A WOMAN CAN MAKE AN EFFECTIVE OFFICER

Wednesday night of the past week, Mrs. W. B. (Bill) Arthur, wife of the late Sheriff of Dickens County played the leading role in a sleuthing job which resulted in making an arrest on charges of dispensing intoxicating liquors in dry territory.

According to Mrs. Arthur, she and her party, which included two other women besides herself and her brother, drove to a place where they had heard that liquor was being dispensed illegally. Before going to the place whiskey was poured over parts of the car to give it an aroma of alcohol and upon arrival, Mrs. Arthur lighted a cigarette and puffed jauntily to give the impression that the party was out to celebrate the holidays and make merry.

So cleverly did they play the parts of merry-makers, the woman sheriff states, that the man arrested suspected nothing and willingly delivered to them two pints of Ship Port liquor beautifully bound in holiday wrappings—and wished them a Merry Christmas.

Mrs. Arthur, who has been known as Dickens County's woman sheriff since the killing of her husband, the late Bill Arthur, stated that in making this expedition she felt that she was not only carrying out her oath of office but that women could make efficient peace officers as well as attend to the clerical duties of the sheriff's office.

Mince-Meat Pies

"Sit ye, Knights, with victuals nigh
A bumper of ale, and real Mynce Pie!"

AND right well does this knave deserve a feather in his cap if his ample tray is laden with this Christmas fare. From the early Anglo-Saxon feasts down to present-day dinner parties, mince pie has been the choice of Yuletide desserts.

When you gather around the family board this Christmas, have some variations of this time-honored dish. You will find it even more savory for the addition of choice pears for example, and far, far more digestible than was the early version. Those were the days of curves—not lines. Here are modern recipes with the old-time flavor:

Pear and Mince Pie: Line pie tin with pastry and cover the bottom with four canned pear halves cut in four slices lengthwise.
Sprinkle with two tablespoons brown sugar. Add three tablespoons pear syrup to the contents of one 1-pound can of mince-meat.
Heat and pour over the pears in crust. Cover with strips of crust to form a lattice top and bake in a 425 degree oven for thirty minutes. This makes one pie.

And Cookies, Too

Mince-Meat Herrits: Cream one-third cup butter and one-half cup brown sugar. Add one well-beaten egg. Add one cup canned mince-meat and one cup flour which has been sifted with two teaspoons baking powder. Drop by spoonfuls onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven—400 degrees—for eight to ten minutes.
This makes thirty cookies.*
