Black-eyed Peas

Black-eyed peas are considered cowpeas. If harvested for canning or processing, however, they are considered as a commercial truck crop, and are classed as soil depleting. Of course, farmers are allowed to harvest such peas for home feed, food or seed. In no case can diverted acres planted to these crops, be contracted to commercial concerns and products sold. In such cases blackeved peas take the same classification as soy beans sold to the crusher.

Dearest mother how we revere Her blessed deeds of love and cheer And could we call her back again We would strive much more to give her less pain.

The mother is our dearest friend To her good deeds there is no end. No matter how in sin we stray, She still for us will always pray.

We knelt down at our mother's knee, And said our evening prayers. She was the first our needs to see, And soothe our childish cares.

She heard our little groans at night, And bathe our aching head. She made the pillows seem just right

And tucked the cover on our bed.

The songs she sang of yore 'Twould make our heart with music

While embers glowed the reconstruction started

Before the flames had reached the telephone switchboard in the little Arkansas town - before the swirling wall of smoke had driven operators from their posts - plans for rebuilding the fire-doomed office were under way.

At a great warehouse in a distant city, men were loading a new switchboard, new telephone cable, new office equipment, into express cars. Nearer to the spot, cable splicers and workmen skilled in telephone construction were being taken from their jobs and rushed toward the office about to be destroyed by fire.

While embers still glowed in the fire-twisted skeleton of the old office, the work of reconstruction was under way.

One advantage of the Bell System's far-flung organization is this: When disaster flattens the telephone system, men and money and materials are instantly available for the prompt repair of the damage.

SPUR TELLS ABOUT ITSELF

A salute to the Chamber of Commerce of Spur, down there off the eastern edge of the South Plains! Recently it published a folder, for use in advertising the community and its environs. There is nothing new or startling, of course, in the publication of such things, but the subject matter of Spur's folder is startling indeed. We quote a few paragraphs:

"If you are one of those too numerous farmers, ranchmen or business men who is laboring under the delusion that the world owes every man a living, and if you are for an Eldorado country where there is a delivery system to bring it to your door, your had better stay away from this part of Texas.

"If you are looking for a country without any bad features, you are on the wrong track, because there has never been but one Garden of Eden.

"The Spur country has its faults-

"The water in every well isn't always good to drink and it is sometimes not as shallow as one would like it to be-

"We sometimes have drouths, but never so damaging as the tornadoes, insects, storms and floods of other sections which are never mentioned-

"Sometimes in some years we have sandstorms that blow for three days and nights, and the dust gets so thick in the air it hides the sun and the furniture-"

There is quite a bit more to the same tenor and effect, winding up with a concise presentation of the Spur country's advantages, particularly in regard to alfalfa growing.

What of the phychology of such advertising? Well, the books on advertisement-writing tell you that first requisite of an advertisement is to engage the reader's attention. By that rule, Spur's folder will be perused by everyone who sees it, while the over-written booster blurbs of other communities wouldn't get a second glance. Again, there will be those who read it who feel what is wrong with it must have a few good things right with it. We have no intention of moving to Spur, but this frank, engaging folder certainly does prepossess us in its favor. - Amarillo News Globe.

COURTESY

In this age of fast living generation, we seem to forget a few things that in the old days, were unforgivable.

Among these, courtesy demands attention, but sometimes we meet people who need more than a gentle reminder.

Did you ever speak to a person and have him look at you as if you were a plate glass window?

Have you ever jostled against a person in a crowd and heard him mutter?

Have you ever met a road hog?

Then, did you ever stop and ask yourself if you are guilty of any of these offenses?

Courtesy is a qualification for any job, and it is a technique of rare accomplishment. It is admired in any person, and it takes one of tenacious ability to acquire it.

In the January ssue of the "Reader's Digest, it quotes, "Courtesy is not the king of virtues, but it is certainly one of his noblest aides."

HOW MUCH IS A BILLION?

Some one has pertinently said that the human mind cannot intelligently comprehend how much is a billion dollars. It is helpful in trying to fathom such a stupendous figure by recalling that:

"If one saves $5,000.00 a year net it would require 200,000 years to save a billion dollars."

"Only in the year 1916 had there elapsed a billion minutes

DON'T BE SORRY

It's a good old world! The Thought's not new. Things go wrong, but they go right too! There are always friends, books, mountains and seas; Even empty purses can't destroy all these. Why not forget your grouch and live So you'll have something worthwhile to give? So all your days can be stood in a row For folks to see as they come and go? So they'll admire them and laugh a bit And maybe emulate some deed of grit. And if they want to laugh at you, Raise up your chin, and you laugh too! You're really not important, believe it or not. No honest man can be wholly forgot. Though every man has infinite power. His life is lived just hour by hour. You're a mighty poor fish if you can't make a try At a few perfect hours as they go rolling by. Whatever comes, for gosh sakes! Don't fear it! Be sorry for naught but a measly, small spirit!

Probably the most important of these, from the standpoint of visitors is the application of a preparation for eliminating the dust in the rodeo arena. This dust laying preparation is being installed at a considerable outlay and will add greatly t the comfort of rodeo spectators.

Grandstand No. 3 on the north side of the arena has been remodeled and comfortable seats of the type of the more recently constructed stands installed. The roof of this section has been extended to keep out the sun and a similar improvement has been made on the roof of the south grandstand to give better shade.

Other improvements include erection of a new grain house, tool house, additional stalls and the painting of all buildings, gates, and roofs of grandstands. Twenty-five shade trees - pecans, wild china, and bois d'arc - have been planted around the shore of the lake on the grounds, which is now brimful of water. Around the cowboy bunkhouse and about the chuck wagon area, 150 pecan sprouts and 50 lantanas have been planted.

STEEL MAKERS say—"Ford buys the best steel." Other suppliers of materials and parts will tell you-"Nobody checks up as closely on quality and price as Ford."

This means a great deal to you as a motorist. It is our way of safeguarding the interests of every purchaser and it leads to this—"The mechanical depreciation on a Ford is less than most cars, especially after the first year."

This is one sign of the extra value in the Ford V-8. Accuracy in manufacturing is another. (The Ford is made to unusually close precision limits.) And there is a long list of fine-car features that are exclusive with Ford in the popular field.

Have you a V-8 engine in your car? You pay $1645 for it in any other car but Ford. Does your car have Center-Poise Riding? Ford gives you this modern feature—"a front-seat ride for back-seat passengers."

Does your car have fool-proof Super-Safety Mechanical Brakes? The Ford V-8 gives you this proved design, with 186 square inches of braking surface.

Does your car have a genuine steel body structure? Does it have Safety Glass all around? Ford is the only low-price car that gives you this extra protection without extra cost.

You get these fine-car features in the Ford V-8 because of Ford manufacturing methods and low-profit policy.

Beauty Treatment Is Incomplete Without Care of Eyes

By Jean Prentice

THE fact that proper lighting enables us to see better should be ample reason for having it. But there's a further reason than that; proper illumination actually helps us to look better. Those eye wrinkles that come from continued squinting and eyestrain don't have much chance to form when the light is glareless and abundant.

The question is, however, how to obtain this kind of light conveniently and economically? Well, let's take a typical case; that of the attractive lady in the picture.

The numbers and lines on the illustration have been placed there to help you visualize the relationship between lamps, the position of the eye work and the amount of light as it would be shown by a light meter. By actual measurement it has been proved that when a good-sized table is used for a lamp beside a fairly large comfortable chair, there will be approximately 32 inches between the lamp and the eye work.

Utilize Light Effectively

When sitting in the average chair, the book or eye work is held about 30 inches from the floor. Under such conditions it is found that 150-watts, or two 75-watt bulbs are needed in the table lamp to obtain on the task the desired amount of light for average eye work - approximately 25 foot-candles. (The foot candle, you may of course be turned off when eye work gives way to conversation, and still hold the charm of this grouping.

The lamp shade, you'll notice, has a white lining, a very desirable virtue if we want to utilize the light most effectively. It is tall enough to throw a generous circle of light so that our lady doesn't have to hug close to the light for close eye-we
