

New Approach In Attempt To Solve Water Problems

NEW UNIFORMS—Shelia Mathis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Mathis, and Bill Minzenmayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Minzenmayer, model the new Winters High School Blizzard Band uniforms, worn publicly for the first time at the Winters-Clyde football game Friday night.

Cost of the 118 uniforms received by the band was $15,163. The Band

Boosters organization held a fund drive last spring to raise some of the money for the new uniforms, and collected $5,000. The school district provided the rest of the money. This is the first new uniform for the band members in several years. The school board also has ordered two new drum major uniforms, which will cost a total of $600. Staff Photo By Brenda Burton

Goal of $1300 Set In Current Campaign

The annual Salvation Army fund drive began with a kick-off dinner in the Winters Community Center Monday August 30, with approximately 50 volunteer workers attending.

A goal of $1300 has been set for the drive, which continues through September, Ted Meyer, chairman of the North Runnels chapter of the Salvation Army.

Workers will make an effort to contact all individuals and businesses in the area during the drive. Joe Eckols is chairman for this year's campaign.

Those who are not contacted may had or forward their contributions to Meyer or Eckols, or other workers in the campaign.

The biggest share of the funds collected in the local campaign will be used locally, to help those who need help, campaign leaders said.

Blizzards To Junction

The Winters High School Blizzards, with a close season-opener loss to Clyde on their record, travel to Junction to meet an unknown Eagle squad Friday night. Kickoff at 8 p.m. Not much is known about the Class

A Junction squad, except that they beat McCamey 23-14 last Friday night. The Brady Bulldogs beat Junction in a scrimmage session prior to the opening of the season.

There is a slight suggestion of a little light at the end of the tunnel in the long search for additional water sources in Runnels County, as an official long-dormant organization has taken over much of the leadership in the search.

The Runnels County Water Authority, created by an act of the Legislature in 1955, has been more or less dormant for these many years, but recently joined in the search for additional water supplies for Winters and Ballinger, and the rural areas of the county.

The Authority already had notified the Texas Water Development of plans to submit application for state assistance in building a water reservoir in the area. The application will be submitted to the state board at its October meeting, it was said.

The cities of Winters and Ballinger for several months have been working to develop some type of reservoir, and much of the ground work has been completed. The two cities would not cease their efforts in favor of the Authority, but would assist the Authority in attempting to obtain permits and assistance for the project.

The Runnels County Water Authority will act in the capacity of a water district, it was said. Without the Authority, it probably would be necessary to seek legislation for creation of a water district, which would take several months at the least, it was said.

Winters and Ballinger some months ago had employed Freese & Nichols, a Fort Worth engineering firm, to draw up feasibility plans for a joint water reservoir, and to recommend sites. The engineers located several possible sites for a reservoir, but recommended one site as most feasible for the project, on Elm Creek.

Recently a delegation of Runnels County citizens met with the Texas Water Development Board to ask for help in building a 20,000 acre-foot reservoir. The board agreed unanimously that a proposed reservoir on Elm Creek between Winters and Ballinger fits the eligibility requirements for state help.

Engineers estimate that such a project would cost $5,650,000. Eligibility for state help and getting it are two different things, it has been pointed out. And there are several hurdles to negotiate.

Mayor Homer Hodge, who met with the state board recently, along with other Runnels countians, said the Farmers Home Administration will be approached for a grant to pay for the transmission lines for the two towns.

If FHA assistance can be obtained, the amount to be requested from the state would be less. Hodge said the estimated cost of lines to Winters would be $900,000, while the estimated cost to Ballinger would be $600,000.

Another problem facing the county is what the federal government calls "mitigation"—meaning that wildlife who lose their home because of the reservoir must be provided with a new home. A study to determine the effect on wildlife could take as long as two years. Hodge said it is hoped that a study already completed by the Soil Conservation Service will be satisfactory to the federal government.

Hodge said the Runnels County

Water Authority would ask the Texas Water Development Board to build the dam, with plans for the two cities, to reimburse the state for water used. Also to be using water would be the North Runnels County Water Supply Corporation, which expects to be pumping water through some of their lines this month, from the Winters water system.

Another problem is a constitutional amendment to be voted on in the November election. The amendment would authorize an additional $400,000,000 in bonds for developing water supplies in Texas.

An original $400,000,000 in bonds was authorized earlier but $235,000,000 of that has already been taken by other water projects.

Hodge and others who are working on the development of water resources said it is hoped that West Texans will vote for the amendment in November. If the amendment is okayed it would assure that the Water Development Board would have enough money to loan the Runnels County Water Authority if the board approves of the plans.

Members of Board Are Appointed By Gov. Briscoe

Governor Dolph Briscoe some months ago appointed members of the board of directors of the Runnels County Water Authority.

The Authority was created by the Legislature in 1955, but has been dormant for many years. Seven new members were named to the board, and there are two vacancies.

For a six-year term to expire Jan. 1, 1977: Gene Yocham, Rt. 1, Ballinger (to replace Melvin Patterson of Ballinger, whose term expired); Ernest E. Thormeyer, Winters (to replace J. B. Dunnam of Winters, whose term expired).

For a six-year term to expire Jan. 1, 1979: Barney C. Puckett, Rt. 1, Winters (to replace A. L. Mitchell of Winters, whose term expired); George A. Ruppert, Rowena (to replace William C. Smithwick Jr., of Miles, whose term expired).

For a six-year term to expire Jan. 1, 1970: James J. Mueller, Ballinger (to replace John Bradley of Ballinger, whose term expired).

For a six-year term to expire Jan. 1, 1981: Ray Alderman, Winters (to replace Cloy L. Allen of Wingate, whose term expired); Arnold Frerich, Rt. 1, Rowena (to replace E. E. King of Ballinger, whose term expired).

Arnold Frerich is president of the board, and Ray Alderman is vice president.

College Tests To Be Offered Winters Students

The American College Testing program (ACT) will be offered to Winters High School senior students at the school Saturday, October 9, Mrs. Lee Harrison, school counselor, has announced.

This will be the first time college entrance exams have been offered locally, Mrs. Harrison said. The test is given five times a year, but it will be offered just this one time in Winters, she said.

The test is designed for senior students and adults in the community wishing to take college entrance exams.

Those wishing to take advantage of these ACT tests should pick up applications and register at the counselor's office at the high school before September 13.

POE'S CORNER
BY CHARLISIE POE

By Charlise Poe
Leaving Vancouver on the Sun Princess, the Reporter-News Tour group sailed the Inside Passage to Ketchikan, then to the Capital City of Juneau (here we saw the Mendenhall Glacier) and continued on to Skagway to debark and check in at the Klondike Hotel

In its heyday, Skagway was the gateway to the Trail of '98 and the Klondike gold fields. Once a city of more than 20,000, it is now a quiet town of 750 people.

It was interesting to see numbers of young people, with 30 lb. packs on their backs, getting ready to go up the Trail of '98—a favorite pastime.

A Gold Rush atmosphere prevails in Skagway where boardwalks, unpaved streets and frame buildings are reminders of the turbulent years at the turn of the century when streets were choked with gold-crazed stampedeers rushing to the Klondike.

The gold rush began when the steamship "Portland" reached Seattle on July 17, 1897, with a 'ton of gold' from the Klondike. The news electrified the world and soon boats loaded with freight and eager prospectors arrived at Skagway. Five thousand people alone landed in February 1898 according to Customs office records.

Thousands of miners crowded through Skagway to begin their journey to the interior gold fields, 500 miles away. Two parallel trails were used: the Chilkoot and White Pass. Both trails were steep and in some places the steps were carved out of solid ice. Unspeaking hardships were endured by the prospectors. Many men and animals lost their lives. Another trial faced the miners at the Canadian border, each must bring in a ton of supplies, which required many trips up the pass. (This was an effort to keep people from starving in the wilderness.)

Memories of those days are stored in the Artie Brotherhood Hall at Skagway. The entire front of the building is made of local driftwood and is the headquarters of the old prospectors who went up the trail, not many are left.

BROADWAY—The old wooden buildings which line the main street of Skagway, Alaska, date from the Klondike Gold Rush of 1898, when Skagway was the jumping off point for thousands of prospectors on their way over the White Pass. The Pack Train Bar, in foreground, was a saloon then, as now.

Other memorabilia are preserved in the museum located on the second floor of the first granite building constructed in Alaska. It was built by the Methodists to be used as a college, but while it was being constructed public school laws made the enterprise impractical and the building was sold to the Federal Government. It was used for decades as U.S. District court of Alaska No. 1. As the population declined, the court was abandoned and in 1956, the building was purchased by the City of Skagway. On May 27, 1961, the second floor of the building was opened as a museum.

The decor of the old U.S. District Court No. 1 has been preserved, including the Judge's bench and chair. The huge room (70'x40') which was originally designed as a chapel, has a high arched ceiling and gothic windows. Methodist Church services were held in the room 1900-01, and a Bible used then is on display.

The arts and crafts of the four native cultures (Eskimo, Aleuts, Athapascan Indians and Coastal Indians) are represented in the museum. One of the main exhibits is the Tlingit war canoe over 30 feet in length which is suspended from the ceiling. Included in other displays is a rare old Chilkat blanket woven from mountain goat hair and cedar bark.

Old court records have been preserved and the most interesting of these, viewed under glass, is Frank Reid's last will and testament and the legal papers disposing of "Soapy" Smith's estate.

While we toured the museum and the Gold Rush Cemetery, our driver-guide unfolded the story of Soapy. He was Jefferson Randolph Smith, a Southern gentleman who fell upon hard times following the Civil War and became an Indian fighter. He wanted an easier way to make a living so he came to Skagway and began some of his con games.

One of these games which earned him his name was wrapping bars of soap in bills of denomination form $5 to $100 and selling them for $5 a bar. Only a few of those who bought soap got any money and they were some of Soapy's henchmen, so he made a cleaning out of soap.

Soapy had two goals; he wanted to convince the town people he was not a crook and to convince the crooks he was one of them. Circumstances helped him out when he heard a man at the bar ask for his change. The bartender said "Drink your change!" And shot him in cold blood. Soapy testified that the bartender shot in self defense and this gained control of the criminal element without force.

To keep on the good side of the townspeople, Soapy had two rules: he would not rob a man who had just come off the trail, nor one who lived in the area. He had his own saloon called Jeff Smith's parlor which is still a museum in Skagway. Soapy also did a certain amount of public service and was honored by the governor and lauded by many at a 4th of July celebration and parade.

Just four days later a miner was robbed of about $2,600 worth of gold and Frank Reid, a surveyor, headed a vigilante committee which met at Juneau wharf that night to decide on a course of action. There was no proof that Soapy was guilty, but it seems he made the mistake of getting drunk (according to our guide) and was shot at the entrance to the wharf when he attempted to join the meeting, but he shot and mortally wounded Reid who died 12 days later.

Soapy went from hero to villain in four short days and was buried outside the cemetery so as not to desecrate the other graves. It was said that only one mourner, his mistress, attended the funeral. A simple wooden marker reads "Jefferson R. Smith. Died July 8, 1898. Age 38 years." While Reid who was practically unnoticed until the tragedy had a huge stone erected by friends which read: "Frank H. Reid. Died July 20, 1898. Aged 54 years."

PUBLIC NOTICE
SUMMARY OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

The fungus of "athlete's foot" is widespread in locker rooms. But the danger of contracting the infection is almost nil if the skin of your feet is healthy and unbroken. Blisters open the door to athlete's foot, as does scraped skin. Avoid blisters and damaged skin and you usually avoid the lingering infection of athlete's foot. It is best to avoid places of likely infection until the blisters and scrapes are thoroughly healed.

Proper Energy Management Can Save You Money!

Reddy's Helpful Tips For your Home Laundry

- Utilize the washer's full capacity. Wash larger loads — wash less often.
- Same goes for dryers: dry more than just a few items at a time.
- Use the washer's load selector to save on hot water when you must wash small loads.
- Use a cold rinse whenever possible to conserve hot water.
- For more efficient drying, clean the dryer lint screen after each load.
- If your dryer has an automatic cycle, use it to prevent unnecessary overdrying. Also, when allowed to overdry, clothes tend to wrinkle, thus require more ironing.

"Site 2" Would Provide Adequate Water

As indicated on the accompanying map, prepared by Freese & Nichols, Consulting Engineers, the watershed for proposed Site 2 would cover a big part of northeast Runnels County, and a big part of South Taylor County.

The proposed site, which is located on Elm Creek about 10 miles south of Winters, would need about 1,800 acres, it was stated. It is located below the confluence of Bluff Creek and Elm Creek, about the area where Mud Creek flows into Elm.

Site 2 would provide about four times as much water as Site 3, shown on the map, which is immediately below the present Winters Lake dam, and would create a lake about the size of Hords Creek Lake in Coleman County.

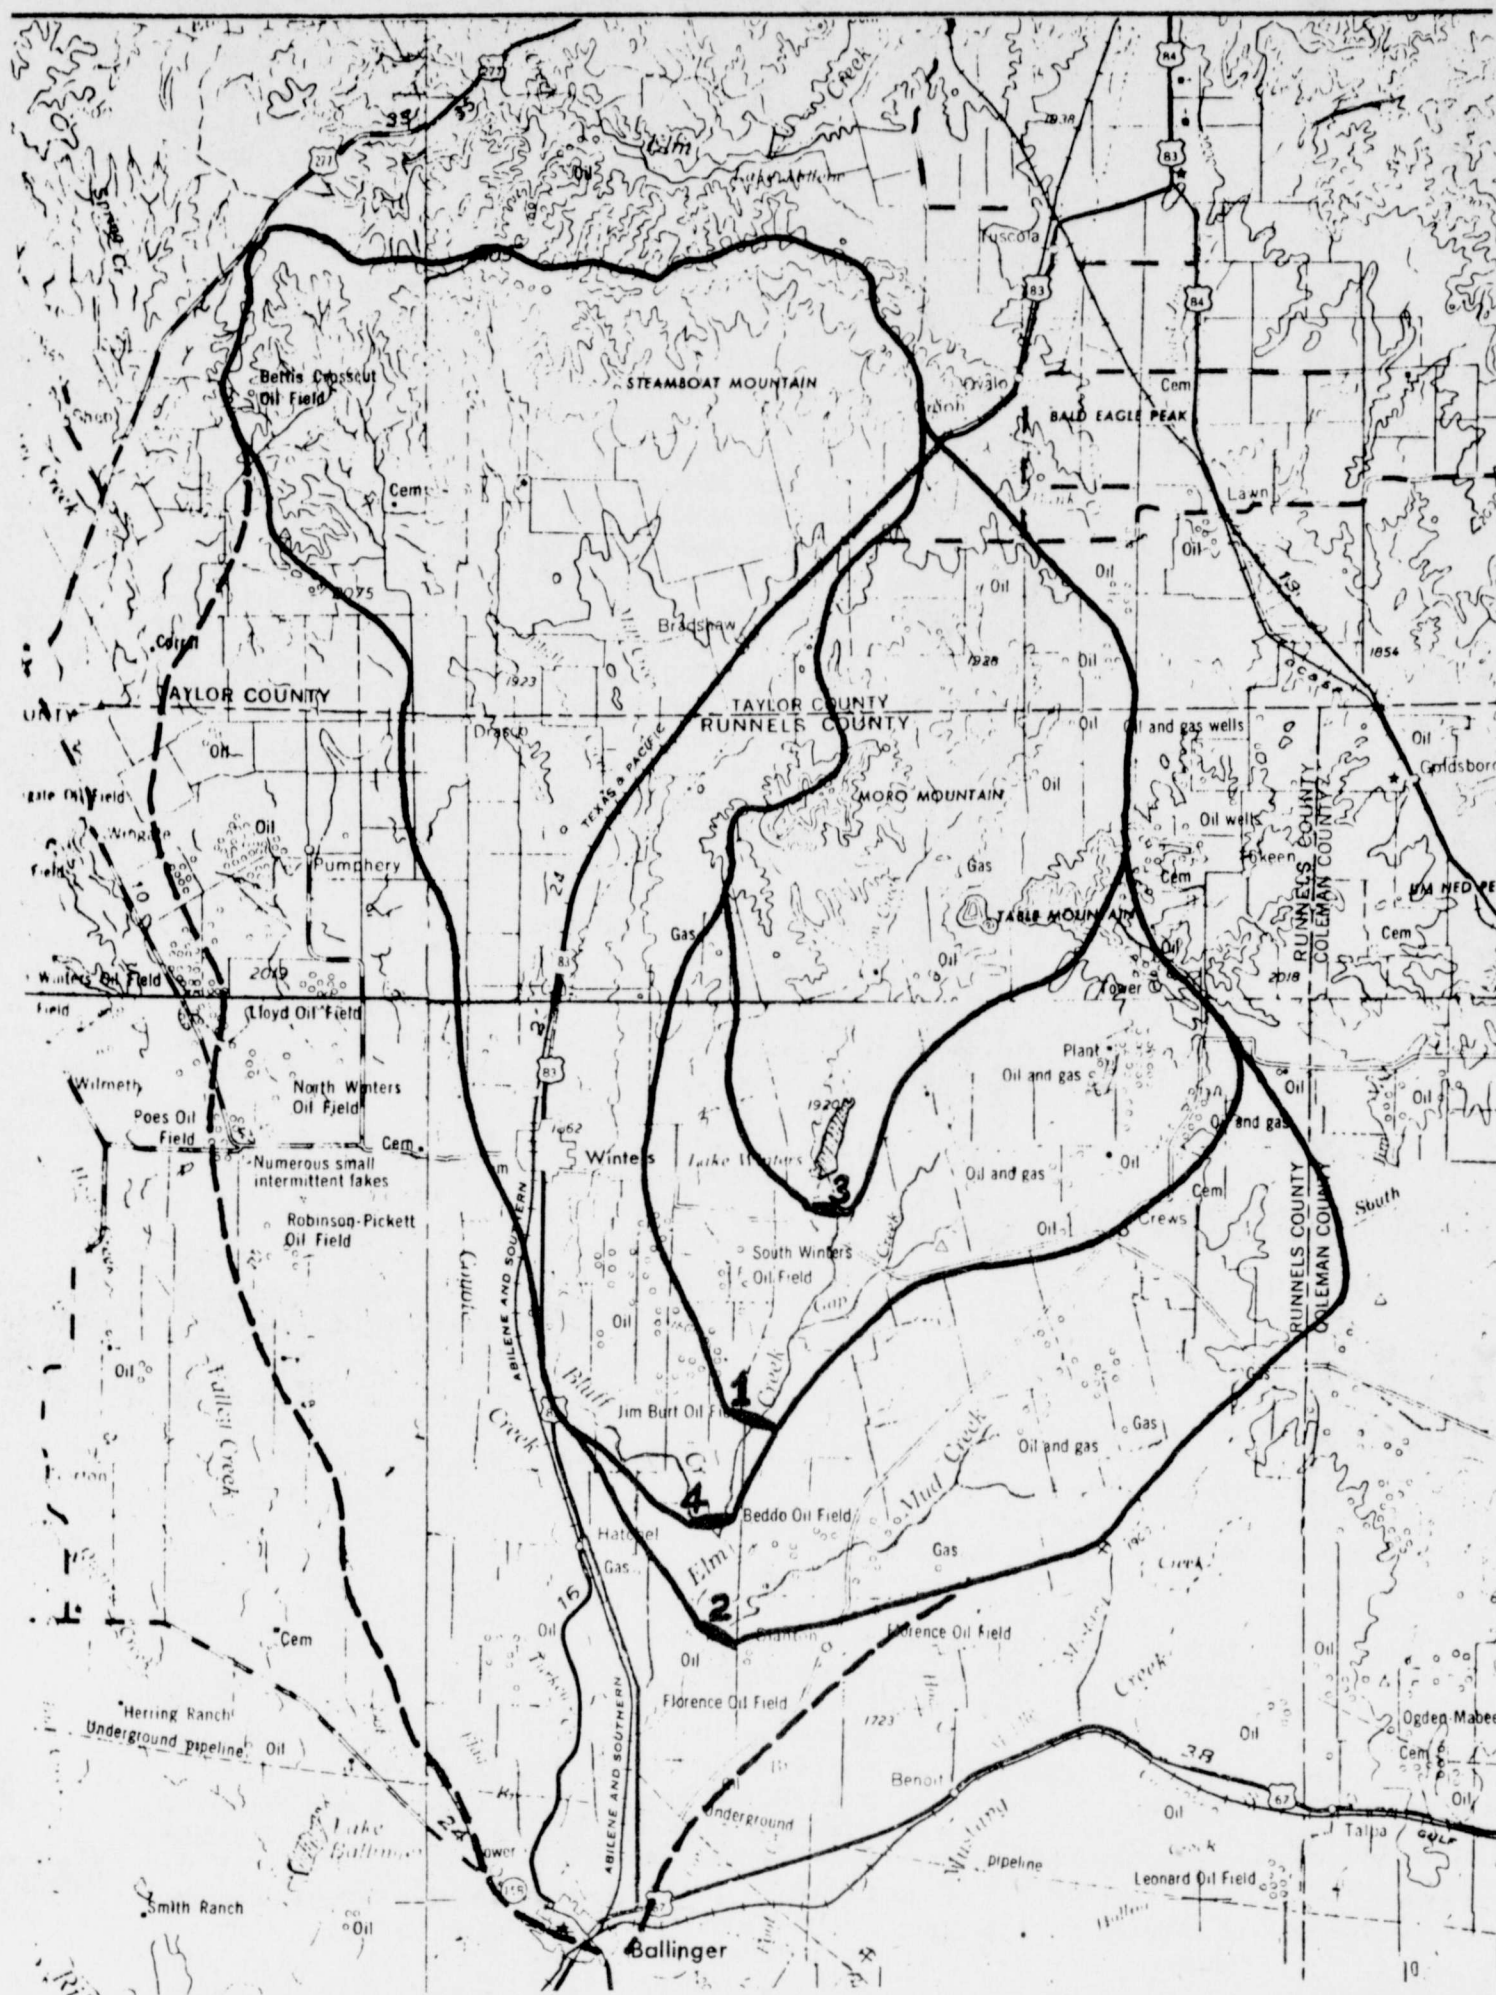

The Soil Conservation Service has done much work in surveying the area, for the Elm Creek Water Control District project, and it is hoped that much of the data can be used in the attempt to develop a reservoir, including the environmental studies the SCS made.

In their report to the cities of Winters and Ballinger, the engineering firm estimated that Site 2 would have a drainage area of 339 square miles, compared with 66 square miles for the present Winters Lake. A reservoir on this site would have an aptimum capacity, without silt storage, of 20,000 acre feet, compared with 12,000 acre feet of Site 3 (below the present Winters Lake dam). Average annual net inflow would provide 17,560 acre-feet of water, against 4,285 for Site 3. General water quality would be about the same for both sites, "fair," according to the engineers.

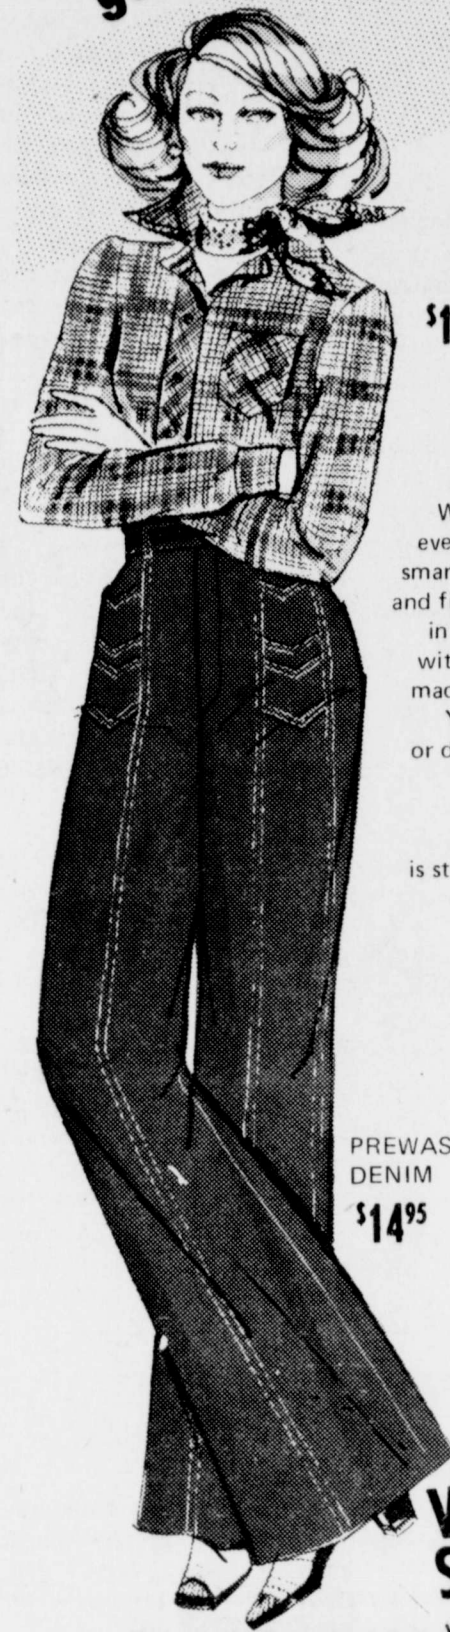

In making the surveys and reports for Winters and Ballinger, the engineers also described two other possible sites for reservoirs, No. 1 and No. 4, but did not recommend these sites, for various reasons. Sites 2 and 3 are the most feasible, it was said, with Site two the most desirable and most economical as to yield vs. cost.

It has been stressed that no definite conclusions have been made regarding the site. Everything hinges upon the action by the Texas Water Development Board after the board receives application for assistance from the Runnels County Water Authority, the entity now carrying the ball for the proposed project.

Blizzards Lost To Clyde 22-19

The 1976 high school football season got off to a rousing start in Blizzard stadium Friday night as the Winters Blizzards were inched out of a victory by the Clyde Bulldogs. The Bulldogs scored twice in the fourth period to beat the Blizzards 22-19.

Winters got on the scoreboard first when Jimmy Chapman scored on an 8 yard pass from talented sophomore quarterback Johnny Curbo with 7:48 left in the first quarter. Flent McNeill kicked the PAT making the score 7-0.

Bulldog Lonnie Dunn tied the score less than a minute later on a 54 yard pass from quarterback Alan Hamilton. Hamilton then kicked the PAT.

The most exciting play of the game came with 13 seconds left in the first period when Winters' senior halfback Marvin Moore intercepted a Bulldog pass on his own 5 yard line and made a remarkable 95 yard run for the Blizzards' second TD. A PAT kick attempt failed.

The only second period score came when Moore made a 9 yard sprint with 9:09 left. The PAT kick attempt failed again leaving the score at 19-7 going into halftime.

The Blizzards held their comfortable lead until the fourth quarter when Clyde's Lonnie Dunn scored on a 71 yard pass from quarterback Alan Hamilton with 8:11 left. Hamilton kicked the PAT to make the score 19-14.

Then with 1:15 left in the game, Hamilton connected again, this time with Buddy Moore, for a 32 yard pass to bring the Bulldogs from behind. For extra padding, Hamilton passed to Billy Dugan for the extra points and ended the game with a 22-19 victory.

Clyde's quarterback Alan Hamilton completed 8 of 15 passes for 235 yards to dominate the game in passing yardage.

The Blizzards picked up 266 yards rushing compared to 86 for Clyde. Leading rushes for Winters were Marvin Moore who carried 15 times for 140 yards; Jimmy Chapman with 21 carries and 63 yards; Flent McNeill with 5 carries and 40 yards; and Johnny Curbo who carried 7 times for 17 yards.

Outstanding linemen for Winters were Doug Rogers, and Phillip Colburn. Impressive showings on defense were turned in by Gary Schwartz, Colburn, Leroy Jones, and Kent McNeill.

Coaches graded Blizzard players for their action Friday night against Clyde, as follows:

AROUND THE 6-AA LOOP Former Superintendent Died At Denton Home

Only two loop members came out with wins on opening night of the 1976 football season. Merkel and Wylie, both new to the AA scene, won over opponents, while Coahoma edged a tie, and Winters, Stamford, Colorado City and Ballinger marked the red side of the ledger.

Merkel hit Baird 12-0 in their opener.

Wylie outplayed Jim Ned 24-15 in their curtain-raiser.

The Winters Blizzards were edged out 22-19 by a hard-hitting Clyde Bulldog team, in a game which could have gone either way at the drop of a helmet.

Stamford lost 13-7 to Hamlin, erstwhile district competitor.

Colorado City took on Slaton, and were outrun 21-0 on opening evening.

The Ballinger Bearcats, meeting an age-old opponent, went under 18-0 to the Brady Bulldogs.

This week will give another peek at the things expected to come, as 6-AAers fan out to take on non-district competitors in trials before UIL contest get underway.

An aside: The Winters Blizzards will be in mostly dog, cat and bird fights this season, with a badger thrown in. The Winters team will play four sets of Bulldogs—Clyde, Stamford, Wylie and Coahoma (they scrimmaged the Brady Bulldogs), and then the Colorado City Volves have to be classified in the dog family. Then the Blizzards take on two breeds of cats, Blue and Bear; and go bird watching against the Junction and Eldorado Eagles, in addition to one (Merkel) Badger fight.

Robert F. Christian, 50, a former superintendent of the Winters Independent School District, died suddenly about 6 p.m. Monday at his home in Denton.

Funeral services were held at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Pearl Street Church of Christ in Denton, with Jim Hance and Danny Hawk officiating. Burial was in Roselawn Memorial Park in Denton, under direction of Schmitz-Floyd-Hamlett Funeral Home.

Mr. Christian was born April 15, 1926, at Slidell. He received his bachelor and master degrees from North Texas State University, Denton.

He married Charlene Parish of Ballinger, June 21, 1953.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army. He was a member of the Texas State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa, and a member of the High Noon Lions Club of Denton.

Mr. Christian was on the Winters school faculty from 1950 to 1967, and was a coach, principal of the elementary school, principal of the high school, and superintendent of schools for two years.

He joined the Denton school system in 1971, and at the time of his death was administrative assistant in charge of personnel for the Denton Independent School District.

He was a member of the Church of Christ. While at Winters, he was president of the Winters Lions Club in 1965-66. Survivors include his wife; two sons, Kris Russell and Kevin Erwin; his mother, Mrs. B. D. Christian of Slidell; a sister, Melba

Christian of Slidell; four brothers, Ray Christian of Winters, Raleigh Christian of Slidell, and Charles and Hayes Christian of Decatur.

"Thank heavens, here's one bill we don't have to worry about anymore," said the bride to her husband. "It's marked 'Final Notice'."

A young man ordered a pizza for lunch, "Should I cut it into six or eight pieces for you?" asked the waitress.

His reply: "Better make it six—I'd never be able to eat eight."
