GOLDEN GRAIN—The milo pictured above already has been cut, but there is much more of the 1977 crop yet to be cut. Grain men have estimated that harvest is about 60 percent completed. Showers over the past few days slowed combining, but as of Tuesday, the cutters were back in the fields. Yield has been average to good, according to farmers and grainmen. Tuesday's market was $2.70, but most farmers were putting their grain in government loan, at $3.07 less deductions, expecting to net a bit more than the market price would bring.

Little Change In School Enrollment

There is little change in total enrollment figures for Winters Public Schools for the first day of the 1977-78 school year, compared with last year's first-day figures, school administration office said Tuesday. The first day of school was Monday.

A total of 520 students enrolled on the first day in the primary, elementary and junior high classes. This was 13 less than last year's first-day figures.

On Tuesday morning, the second day of the 1977-78 school year, eleven more elementary students were enrolled, to bring the total to 531.

In the high school, enrollment on the first day totaled 262, six less than last year.

Lots Of Season Football Tickets

Johnny B. Smith, school business manager, said Tuesday football fans still have a wide choice in reserved seats for home games this year.

Sale of reserved seat tickets for the 1977 Winters High School Blizzard football season started August 17, and books of tickets will be offered through Friday, August 26.

Sale has been on a first come, first served basis, but Smith said there are still many choice seats left.

All reserved seats in the east bleachers—the home side—will be between the 33 yard lines. Season tickets will be sold as a book of five and will be for all home games. Price per book is $7.50.

Fans can save money by purchasing a book of reserved seat tickets for the season, at $1.50 per game. After season tickets sales, reserved seats will be $2 each.

Throughout the season, tickets will go on sale each Wednesday at 8 a.m. and will be offered through Friday noon at the school business office for the game to be played that week.

IRMA GONZALES

To Represent Winters At Mexican Event

Irma Gonzales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gonzales of Winters, will be a candidate in a queen contest to be held during the Mexican Festival in Ballinger Sept. 17.

Miss Gonzales, a Winters High School sophomore, is the only announced representative from Winters.

Several other girls from Ballinger, Rowena, Paint Rock, and Miles will compete in the queen contest.

Three Candidates Signed For City Council

A three-way race looms for the vacant seat on the Winters City Council, to be filled at the election November 8.

Lloyd Gilbert signed for the seat the first of last week. E. J. Bishop had signed as a candidate for the seat some time ago, and Jimmy Hatler signed Tuesday of last week.

The place on the City Council became vacant some months ago when Clifton Poe resigned because of health reasons. This will be for an unexpired term to end with the regular city election next April.

Revival Set At Bradshaw Baptist Church

H. B. Terry of Temple Baptist Church, Abilene, will preach during a weekend revival scheduled at the Bradshaw Baptist Church, August 26, 27, and 28.

Winters Fails To Get Rental Housing Help

Even in the face of what is locally described as a critical need for additional low-rent public housing, Winters has been turned down on a request for assistance from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Some months ago, the Housing Authority of the City of Winters filed application for aid in developing an additional project of low-rent housing. Within the past few days, the Authority received word from HUD that the application had been reviewed and evaluated, and that the application had been turned down.

Gattis Neely, chairman of the Housing Authority board, said, he had contacted HUD, and had been informed that there were more applications for housing assistance than there were funds available. He said he was told Winters' application would remain on file against the time when additional funds become available.

The Winters Housing Authority at the present time administers a low-rent project which was completed four or five years ago. Oliver Wood, executive secretary of the Authority, said that all 46 rental units in the project were full at this time. He said he has a "legitimate" waiting list of approximately 25 applications, and any vacancies can be filled within a matter of days, as they occur. There is evidence, it was concluded, that there is a definite "market" for low-rent public housing in Winters.

Wood said of the 46 units he administers, 33 of them are occupied by one or two people per unit; the remaining 13 units have three or more occupants.

Poe's Corner

BY CHARLIE POE

This week, my first paragraph is reserved for an important announcement.

A very special lady observed her 99th birthday Wednesday Aug. 24. She is Mrs. Asa Cordill, the former Attie Grant, who is the only living charter member of the Winters Community Brass Band, organized by her brother, Charlie Grant.

Mrs. Cordill's ambition is to live to be a hundred years old.

If there are those who would like to send her a word of greeting and encourage her toward reaching her goal, her address is 401-9th St., Ballinger 76821.

Since my great-grandson, Matthew Jared, has been here on a visit from Hayward, Calif., with his parents, Cliff and Jeani Poe, I know you're expecting me to write about how smart and cute and sweet he is. But I'm going to tell you how tough it is to be a great-grandma.

First, it was tough having to wait five weeks to see him after he was born. As his parents live about 2500 miles away I had to be content with word descriptions and those first photographs that the grandparents received which don't help much.

All members of the Texas clan were elated when we learned that Matthew, now dubbed Matt, had been given the password by his doctor for a plane trip home with his parents on July 29, when he was one month and five days old.

What does a great grandma do while waiting? I surveyed the situation: Matt is the first grandchild for the Dennis Poes, first great-grandchild for the Loyd Comptons, and first nephew for three uncles, as well as having a large assortment of other relatives. My time was going to be very limited. The best thing for me was to have all of my chores out of the way so that every chance to see the baby could be taken advantage of.

It doesn't pay to look around. The yard was a mess and every closet in my house needed cleaning. By getting up early, working until late and engaging some outside help, I had things looking well enough that I hoped little Matt wouldn't be ashamed of it.

Another thought occurred to me, everyone would be comparing notes and asking who the baby favored. It so happened that I had been taking pictures and slides of my four grandsons, Cliff, Greg, Perry and Paige, ever since they were born. These pictures were stacked in drawers all over the house and had never been organized. By burning the lights overtime, I finished an album of baby pictures and the growing-up years of the boys. Now, Matt could see how his daddy looked when he was a baby.

My opportunity to hold Baby Matt came on the first Sunday the children were at home after a family dinner at my house. Also attending were my sister and her husband, the H. E. Swofords of Clyde, and their two sons, Gaston and Jerry with their families.

When dinner was over the women and girls wanted to see the Fashion Shop and they all left but me. The baby was asleep and he woke up crying. I didn't pinch him, honest! Anyway, I held him for sometime and he is just as plump and cuddly as my grandsons were.

Another difficulty arose when I tried to take the baby's picture. With camera loaded, I telephoned on several occasions, "Yes, he is awake. Come on out."

By the time I reached the Dennis Poes' house, Matt was always sound asleep and slept until it was time for me to leave. On second thought, it wasn't so bad, I wouldn't have had an excuse to go back the next day if he had stayed awake.

Finally, on the last day Matt smiled and cooed while I snapped him in many poses, but he blinked and frowned at so many flash bulbs for his grandmother was also taking pictures. She said he might as well get used to it.

The Cliff Poes needed transportation to see friends and take care of business in Abilene. I was quick to offer my car. They decided not to take the baby but Grandmother, Rhuenell, pulled a sneaky—she took Matt home with her and kept him all afternoon.

However, when the next trip to Abilene was necessary everyone was busy so Matt was left with me. Paige, the youngest uncle, also stayed. He's the only one I had words with. After all, what does a six-year-old know about a baby, even tho' Matt seemed to pay more attention to what he said. But I solved that problem by letting Paige go play with some friends.

The toughest part of being a great-grandmother began to loom larger and larger as the day of departure rapidly rolled around. I said goodbye the afternoon before, as they were leaving about 4 o'clock the next morning to catch the plane at Midland. So the worst part of all was left to the grandparents.

Dennis said that the children barely got on the plane just before the door shut, with grandma and grandpa still holding on to the baby's feet, no doubt.

Yes, it's tough to be a great-grandma but the rewards are far sweeter than I could imagine. What my parents always said is certainly true, "The further they go the greater they are!"

Merrill Nursing Home News

On Tuesday afternoon we had an "old settlers reunion". Plenty of lemonade and old fashion tea cakes were served and our program was based on Charlie Poe's book "Runnels Is My Country". Each resident answered roll call by naming an early day community in which they lived.

Members from the Ladies Bible Class from the Church of Christ brought ice cream and cookies and furnished the entertainment for our monthly birthday party. "This Is Your Life" theme was carried out and everyone enjoyed the occasion.

Our newest resident is Mrs. Avo Byers. She is the widow of the late C. A. Byers and the oldest child of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kirby. She was 90 years young last January and we have enjoyed her being with us.

Mr. R. C. Kurtz returned to us after spending several days in North Runnels Hospital.

We send our thanks to all of you who brought fresh fruit and vegetables to the kitchen for us to enjoy.

CARD OF THANKS

I acknowledge with deep appreciation the many acts of kindness shown to me, by relatives, friends and neighbors for the cards, visits, flowers and gifts, while I was in the hospital and after I returned home. A special thanks to Dr. Lee, Dr. Rives, and the staff of nurses. Your concern is deeply appreciated. —Mrs. L. M. (Nera) Eoff. 25-1tp.

Summer Water Management For Beef Cattle

With hot summer conditions continuing to persist, cattlemen should pay particular attention to water for beef cattle, points out C. T. Parker, Jr., county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Beef cattle should have an abundant supply of water at all times, and drought means water problems in areas where cattle must depend on surface water.

Cattle should have easy access to good water, contends Parker. A boggy, steep-banked water hole is a good place to lose weak cattle as they may become stuck in the muddy shallow water. When water levels are low, cattle should be observed more often in these watering areas.

When pastures still provide feed after the stock water has disappeared, ranchers may need to haul water to the cattle. Mature cattle will consume an average of about 11 gallons of water per head daily, with younger animals requiring proportionally less. Water requirement is influenced by several factors, including rate and composition of gain, pregnancy, lactation, activity, type of ration, feed intake and environmental temperature. The amount of water includes the moisture contained in forage plants.

At an average temperature of 40 degrees F., 0.37 gallon of water is needed for each pound of feed (dry matter) consumed. As the temperature rises, the water required per pound of dry matter intake increases by the following amounts: 50 degrees, 0.40 gallon; 60 degrees, 0.46 gallon; 70 degrees, 0.54 gallon; 80 degrees, 0.62 gallon; and 90 degrees, 0.88 gallon.

A dry cow weighing 800 to 1,000 pounds consumes 12 to 14 pounds of dry matter while on a maintenance ration. A cow in the same weight range and her three-to-four-month-old calf consume 20 to 24 pounds of dry matter per day. Using these figures a rancher can quickly determine how much water his herd consumes every day.

Summer Care For Roses
Despite the hot summer weather, roses can produce prize-winning blooms all season long with the proper care.

First of all, fertilize the plants each month, says C. T. Parker Jr., county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Check for iron deficiency, too. It shows up as yellowing leaves with green markings along the ribs and veins. You can correct the problem by applying iron chelate or iron sulfate, either as a foliar spray or dry material directly to the soil.

Dear Friend:

Today, I am announcing my intention to seek the Democratic nomination as Congressman from the 21st District of Texas.

Today's decision was not made lightly. The office of Congressman is a most important position, for it is through your Congressman that you have the opportunity to make your opinions heard not only in Congress, but also in the White House and in the offices of hundreds of federal agencies that have an impact on our everyday lives.

For the past five months I have been traveling throughout our district visiting with people from all heritages and walks of life. I have traveled over 10,000 miles and have been in all 32 counties. As I have visited with you and your neighbors, I have come to realize that we share several common goals and concerns.

We feel that the government should not act when people are able to solve their own problems. We want a Congressman who will pursue common sense solutions to the problems facing our nation. We want a Congressman whom we can trust to represent our needs and interests, and a Congressman who will fight to keep the individual liberties our forefathers won for us.

This is a serious challenge for any Congressional candidate. I am aware of the responsibilities involved and I am confident that I can fulfill these obligations to your satisfaction. I pledge my total commitment and dedication to the principles you and I so cherish. I ask to be your friend, your advocate and your voice in the halls of Congress. Please join with me in this campaign.

Sincerely,
Nelson W. Wolff

No Change In School Lunch Prices

In compliance with regulations governing the National School Lunch Program, the Winters Independent School District has adopted regulations providing more free and reduced price lunches for school children than have been available in past years.

Application forms have been sent to parents of all school children, and are also available at the principal's offices and the school business office. Families that were on free lunches last year will be required to complete a new application in order to be eligible this year.

Eligibility determinations will be made on a family basis, it was said. That is, all the children in the same family attending under the jurisdiction of the same school food authority, are to receive the same benefits, a free or reduced price lunch.

Letters of explanation of the program, along with a family-size and income level scale, have been sent to parents of all children enrolled in the Winters Public Schools.

The local lunch program is in full compliance with federal and state regulations and is to become effective immediately, school officials said. A complete copy of the policy governing free or reduced price lunches is on file in the school business office where it may be reviewed by an interested party, it was stated.

Free lunches will be provided children in certain family-size and income categories as noted below:

FREE AND REDUCED PRICE ELIGIBILITY INCOME SCALE

Family Size	Family Annual Income
	Free Meals	Reduced Price Meals
1	$0- 3,930	$ 3,930- 6,120

Coach Looks To Good Blizzard Season

The Winters Blizzards were given an opportunity last Friday night to test their mettle against outsiders, and came away from the testing grounds with approvable marks.

The Blizzards traveled to Comanche for a pre-season scrimmage session with the Chiefs, and although Comanche crossed the payoff line twice during the evening, while the Blizzards failed to cross, Coach Jimmy Stubblefield said the 12-0 "score" was not an indication of the real action on the field.

During the evening's scrimmage session, the Blizzards averaged more than three yards on each run, and prevented Comanche from mounting sustained drives. The two crossovers by the Chiefs came on long field runs, and were not the result of powerful drives. Although the Blizzards were "defeated" in this first come-out, Coach Stubblefield said he had been pleased with them; pleased with their execution of plays; and pleased with their defense tactics and determination. This year's squad has little depth, and everyone had an opportunity to get into the act.

The coach said he had been worried about his running backs, but had been "pleasantly surprised" Friday night, by the action of Pat Salas, whose tailback running was outstanding. Chuck Evans at quarterback, and Reggie Boles turned in good performances, too, the coach said.

Linemen turned out to play, also, the coach said, and Phil Colburn, Leroy Jone, and Gary Lett let their presence on the field become known. On defense, David Esquivel at cornerback, and ends Leroy Jones and Mark DeBerry stood out, as did Doug Bryan and Jim Bob Webb at tackle. Colburn, at noseguard, did an outstanding job, Stubblefield said, and Gary Schwartz at linebacker performed good.

Looking toward the season, which opens Sept. 2, Coach Stubblefield was optimistic. Although the Blizzards are short on reserves, and lack speed, the line is bigger than in any year since he came to Winters, he said. They are not dependent upon one or two men, but "hustle as a team," the coach said. Also, even though the Winters bunch has not been picked high on the rating lists, they "will win some games," the coach indicated.

County Agent Parker Retiring

C. T. Parker Jr., County Extension Agent (Agriculture) for Runnels County for the past 22 years, will retire Aug. 31, and will move to Rising Star.

Parker, a native of Rising Star in Eastland County, and a graduate of Texas A&M University, began his career in the Extension Service in 1945 as an assistant agent in Guadalupe County. He was transferred to Panola County as county agent in 1947, a post he held until 1954 when he resigned to become a livestock specialist with Burrus Mills.

On Nov. 11, 1955, Parker re-entered the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and move to Runnels County as County Agent.

In 1976, Parker received the Texas

Agricultural Extension Service Award for Superior Service. At that time, he was cited for his leadership and work in helping citizens of Runnels County overcome and control salt water pollution of fresh water sources in the county. He also has been active in assisting citizens of the county in seeking development of a dependable water supply.

Parker is also credited with developing one of the first result demonstration handbooks, and for a number of years worked closely with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to test new cotton and grain sorghum varieties.

Under his leadership, Runnels County developed the largest 4-H beef breed heifer program in the state.

Many of these heifers were the foundation for beef herds in the county today.

Parker and his wife, Sybil, are the parents of one daughter, Susan, who is a graduate of the University of Texas with a degree in pharmacy. Susan is married and resides in Austin.

The Parkers are currently building a new home near Rising Star, where they plan to farm and ranch.

TSTI To Offer Vocational Courses Here

Evening adult vocational classes in welding and basic office work will be offered this year by Winters High School in cooperation with Rolling Plains Campus, Texas State Technical Institute of Sweetwater.

An organizational meeting to form adult vocational evening classes will be held at 7 p.m., Sept. 1, in the Winters school cafeteria.

Punt, Pass, Kick Registration Will Begin

Local youngsters will be "dusting off" their footballs and loosening up their throwing arm soon for the 1977 Punt, Pass & Kick competition.

This year the local level of PP & K will be co-sponsored by Bishop Boys Ford, in conjunction with participating Ford Dealers in the area.

Courses to be organized include a 150-hour welding class and a 150-hour office cluster class, which will include basic and advanced typing and bookkeeping, and filing.

Interested persons should be present for this most important meeting. For additional information, call School Superintendent Bill Graves.

Nationally PP & K is celebrating its 17th anniversary. It is sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted more than 14 million youngsters—and participation this year is expected to top the 1,300,000 mark.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against others their own age. Any youngster 8 through 13 years of age, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register to compete in PP & K at any participating Ford Dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition.
