County Politicians Off and Running

Runnels County's political cauldron progressed from simmer to boil, in one area, during the hours of the final filing date Monday, as two more candidates for County Judge tossed their hats into the Democratic ring. Two hats already had been thrown in for the Demos, and one GOP candidate had come out, to make the grand total five.

Incumbent County Judge John Purifoy, who had announced some time ago that he would be a candidate for return to office, made it official Monday, and was joined in that race by a former county sheriff, Don Atkins.

Last week, Mike Murchison signed as a candidate for County Judge, as had Bill Stultz, seeking the Democratic nomination in the May primary.

Woodrow Hoffman is the lone GOP candidate, seeking the County Judge position.

Other incumbent county officers, all Democrats, who have paid filing fees and seek the Democratic nomination, are Frankie Berryman, county clerk; Myrt Jobe, district clerk; Otis Jacob, county treasurer; David Carroll, Commissioner from Prec. 2; Marvin Salling, Commissioner from Prec. 4; and Oliver Petty, Justice of the Peace for JP Prec. 1. These candidates will have no opposition in the Democratic primary.

School Board Politics

Only three places on the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District will be filled in the April 1 election, and there are already eight candidates—with the declaration deadline still more than two weeks away.

Late last week, Scotty Belew became a candidate for Place 3, joining Roscoe Morrison, incumbent, and Calvin Helm in seeking that post.

Also last week, Place 4 gained another candidate when Freddie Bredemeyer signed. He will be opposing Gary Pinkerton and Pam Connor for that post.

Thus far, there are only two candidates for Place 5. Wesley M. Hays, incumbent, will seek re-election. He will be opposed by Lynn Billups.

March 1 will be the deadline for signing for the school board.

T. A. SMITH
"Man of the Year"

Mrs. Campbell, T. A. Smith Named Citizens of Year

There have been "co-recipients" of the Winters Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year award in years past, but there had never been a woman named to receive this honor.

This traditional chain was broken Friday night, when a Woman of the Year award was presented to Mrs. Frances Campbell, recognizing her for her community service.

T. A. Smith, Winters druggist, was named Man of the Year.

LaDell Davis, the 1977 Man of the Year recipient, made the presentations. He explained that Mrs. Campbell has worked in several Winters businesses, and has owned her own business here, and has been active as a member of the board of directors of the chamber and of the Church of Christ.

Smith, who was honored last year for 50 years as a pharmacist, has been Winters' mayor and a city councilman, and was instrumental in building the City Light Plant and building the Winters Lake. He attended Simmons Academy and Baylor School of Pharmacy and has been active in numerous community and church organizations.

Retiring chamber directors Margaret Bell and Mrs. Freddie Bredemeyer were recognized by outgoing chamber president Mike Tuggle.

Tommy Lancaster, the 1978 president of the chamber, introduced the board members: Randy Springer, vice president; Mrs. Ray Alderman, treasurer; Mrs. W. L. England, secretary-manager; Rick Dry, Mrs. Marvin Dozier, Bobby Airhart, Dr. Tom Tribble, and the Rev. Fred Thomas, new directors. Charles Hudson, Jim Hatler, Mrs. J. W. Bahlman, Arnold

Thormeyer, Springer and Lancaster are holdover directors.

Cactus Pryor, Texas humorist and newspaper columnist, was the main speaker.

Banquet hall decorations were by the wives of board members.

Rural Water System Requests More Water

In an action which points more graphically to the urgent need to expedite the search for additional water supplies for this community, North Runnels Water Supply Corp. Monday night notified the Winters City Council that the non-profit distribution system will be requesting additional water supply quotas within the near future, to meet growing demands.

LaDell Davis, manager of North Runnels Water Supply Corp., told the council the distribution system is planning a Phase 3 project, which will add another 100 meters to the rural system. He said the non-profit corporation would request an increase of 150,000 gallons daily to adequately supply the additional meters. At present, the city is under contract to provide 180,000 gallons daily. The system also has a contract with the City of Ballinger for 60,000 gallons daily.

The planned additional 100 meters would build the total number of rural outlets to about 625, Davis said. About 30 of the outlets in the proposed Phase 3 project will be in South Taylor County, he said.

In discussing the prospective request by the rural water system, Mayor Homer Hodge said the action adds to the necessity of quickly obtaining additional water supplies. This also should help when final requests for grants and loans for a proposed new lake system are submitted, it was explained, because it shows the overall need for additional water supplies in North Runnels.

The mayor told the council he had been in contact with engineers employed last year to search for additional water sources, and they had informed him they would have preliminary plans within the next few weeks. Engineers were to have a report for this week's meeting of the council, but due to circumstances, the mayor said, they were not ready to make a presentation of proposals and alternatives.

Council Makes Housing Board Appointments

To meet requirements of the federal Housing and Urban Development administration, Winters City Council Monday night approved appointment, by term, of members of the board directing activities of the Housing Authority of the City of Winters.

Re-appointed to the board, by term were Ralph Lloyd and Gene Wheat, one year; Walker Tatum and Gattis Neely, two years; and Charles Hudson and J. W. Bahlman, three years.

It was stated at the council meeting Monday night that Winters has been notified that this city is qualified under HUD rules for additional low-rent housing, and federal funds may become available within the near future. It also was stated that Winters needs at least 20 additional housing units. There are 47 applicants on the waiting list for vacancies which come up in the present housing development, which was completed some years ago.

$1,200 TO LIBRARY

In other action, Winters City Council Monday appropriated $1,200 for the Winters Public Library for 1978.

Such an appropriation must be accomplished annually, it was explained.

ZONING BOARD

The mayor was authorized by the council to appoint, or re-appoint,

Winters Farmers Join March To Washington

Two Winters farmers have personally joined the march on Washington D.C., by the American Agricultural Movement, in continued efforts to call the nation's attention to the economic position of the country's agriculturists.

Bob Blackwood and Robert Parramore of Winters left Sunday for Washington, where they will join the thousands of other farmers and ranchers from most states in attempting to persuade the Congress and administration to take steps to head off financial disaster.

The two Winters men did not know what they would be assigned to do, or what officials they would talk to in the capital. Assignments were to be made after they arrived, they said.

Several local farmers joined the tractorcade held in Brownwood Saturday, and others from the county are expected to attend a giant rally at Harlingen within the next few days.

NEW LOCATION—G. W. Sneed, right, manager of Mansell Bros. in Winters, and Marvin Seals, parts manager, stand at the parts counter in the local John Deere dealer's new building on Highway 53 West. The company plans an open house and barbecue supper Thursday.

C-H-E-E-S-E!—Tommy Lancaster, incoming president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, obliged the cameraman as he spoke on 1978 plans for the chamber at the annual banquet Friday night.

Poe's Corner

BY CHARLISE POE

The marriage of Roy and Kat Young may not have always been a "ball", but it has certainly included a lot of ball games, mostly football.

When news of Denny Aldridge, their son-in-law, becoming quarterback coach at Virginia Tech came out in the newspapers, the Youngs and I did some reminiscing about football in Winters through the years.

The first year that Winters had a football team was in 1923, and Shorty McCombs was coach. Roy recalled that there were not enough suits—only thirteen—and they were of the cheapest quality, also we lost to Ballinger.

The next year was a different story. Roy was a freshman and played on the team coached by Joe Childers that beat Ballinger 33 to 13. The boys had new suits, of a kind, all sixteen of the players.

Kat was still in grade school, but she has a vivid memory of the winning game played on a field running east and west on the rocky hill back of the school house. All it had was two goal posts and people stood around the edges of the field to see the game.

There was no pep squad but Kat remembers that after the game the school kids had a snake dance downtown shouting "thirty-three to thirteen" until somebody made them go home. She also recalled that they had dug a hole, and using some kind of box, buried Ballinger in a ceremony at halftime.

Roy played football all four years and in 1925, we held Ballinger to a scoreless tie. Roy was captain during his junior year in 1926 when C. R. Smith was coach. We won over Ozona 99 to 0, but Ballinger beat us 9-0. This was the year the football field was moved to its present location. At that time it was a foot deep in dirt and covered with goat heads and grassburs.

Kat maintains a world record in attendance at Winters-Ballinger football games. Beginning in 1923, she had seen every game that Ballinger and Winters played until last year when the snow was about three feet deep and Roy thought it was too bad for her to go. That's a total of 53 years of ballgames! (If there is anyone who can challenge this record, speak now or forever hold your peace.)

We will forgive Kat for not going to the game last year since she attended two games with Ballinger in one year. Roy said it was the year that he persuaded the Gulf Oil Co. to provide the pipe for lighting the football field. The city furnished the lights and some of the pipe and progress was made. We also went from a field knee deep in mud to a first class field that year. The Presbyterian minister made a talk, the field was dedicated, and Ballinger came up for a skirmish game. The regular game with them was played later.

With six children, Kat and Roy hold another record that is hard to beat. For a quarter of a century, from 1940 until 1965, they had one or more children in school. All of them played in the band except one. The three boys played football. Two of the girls were feature twirlers and one was drum major.

For several years the Youngs went to ball games every Thursday night, as well as Friday nights. It was during the time when we had a training program through the grades under the direction of Gordon Wood and later Morris Southall. They also had a grandson, Bob Colburn, playing football.

Kay, the oldest, started to school in 1940. She served for six years as drum major in the band, from the sixth grade through high school. She is married to B. J. Colburn, president of the Winters School Board, who played football all four years in high school as did their son, Bob. Daughter Kathy, who graduated last year, was twirler in the band during high school days.

Sylvia was a feature twirler in the band. And Mack, the oldest son, who graduated in 1957, played four years of football under the direction of Coach Morris Southall.

Tommy, the next son, and the smallest in size, is the only one to play college football. This made it necessary for the Youngs to add college football to their agenda. Tommy played four years at Abilene Christian University and was one of two who made the All Southland Conference.

During the years from 1961 through 1964 were especially busy ones for the Youngs. The twins, Mary and Gary, were actively engaged in school activities. They graduated in the Spring of 1965. Mary was feature twirler in the band and Gary played football. Denny Aldridge, who later married Mary, was also playing football and graduated with the twins.

Kat recalls that all of the boys have played on teams that beat Ballinger and all of them have also played in district competition. Tommy and Gary were on teams that went to semi-finals one year and won district the next.

Before football days, all the boys played Little League baseball. Now, they play golf and go bowling for recreation.

Besides chauffeuring kids back and forth to all their many activities, Kat worked on twirlers uniforms, either making or mending them, for her children as well as for others. She recalls that once before a ball game the girls decided they wanted tassels on their boots. She ended up making all of them because no one else knew how or had the time. "My children were good at volunteering my services," she said.

One of Kat's friends remarked that if she had just lost her temper once in awhile, she wouldn't have so much of that kind of thing to do.

But there again, I believe that Kat had made another record for I never heard of her losing her temper.

Kat says she holds another record that no one seems to remember. She was the last parent, and the only one, to attend the last PTA meeting that Winters ever had. The teachers were required to go but since the parents didn't seem interested, the organization was disbanded.

Another record that Kat shares with Nina Bedford and Katie Minzenmayer is that they are the "three oldest band mothers", having had children in the band longer than anyone else.

Now that all of their children are out of school are the Youngs any less interested in football? I hardly think so as they went to see a double header last year in Mississippi when they were visiting Mary and Denny who was offensive coordinator at Mississippi State University. They saw Mississippi State and Alabama play, also LSU and Old Miss.

Roy is already planning to go to Virginia this year when Virginia Tech plays Auburn, Alabama.

By the way, Roy says that

Wallace Murray Reports Record Earnings

Wallace Murray Corporation has reported record earnings and sales from continuing operations in 1977. Income from continuing operations amounted to $22,618,000 compared to $17,575,000 in 1976. That is an increase of 29 percent. Sales from continuing operations for the full year amounted to $448,473,000 compared with 1976 revenues of $312,273,000. Earnings per share on a primary basis from continuing operations amounted to $6.70 in 1977 compared with $5.17 the prior year. Earnings per share on a fully diluted basis from continuing operations amounted to $4.57 versus $3.57 last year.

A provision of $3,300,000 after related tax benefits was made for the estimated loss on the disposition of the Company's Simonds Steel Division. On January 31, the Corporation announced the signing of a letter of intent for Wallace Murray to sell that division to a group of Pittsburgh investors. Net income for the year, including the operating results of the discontinued business as well as provision for loss on disposal, amounted to $19,547,000 compared to $19,277,000 for the year 1976. Net earnings per share on a primary basis after giving effect to this loss related to the discontinued business of 99 cents per share were $5.71 compared with $5.73 in 1976. Net earnings per share on a fully diluted basis after giving effect to this loss related to the discontinued business of 62 cents per share were $3.95 versus $3.92 the year before. Income from continuing operations in the fourth quarter was $6,558,000 compared with the $5,360,000 earned in the fourth quarter of 1976. Sales from continuing operations were $116,475,000 versus the like prior period of $86,457,000.

Earnings per share on a primary basis from continuing operations in the fourth quarter amounted to $1.95 compared with $1.61 the prior fourth quarter. Earnings per share on a fully diluted basis from continuing operations for the fourth quarter amounted to $1.32 compared with $1.09 the prior fourth quarter.

The fourth quarter and year-end record sales and earnings from continuing operations were achieved despite non-operating foreign currency translation losses which negatively impacted the full year's earnings by 27 cents per share on a fully diluted basis.

The inclusion of the Hydrometals operations acquired in February, 1977 added sales of $94,334,000 for the year. Hydrometals' net contribution to earnings approximated $4,000,000, equal to $1.28 per share on a primary basis and 81 cents per share fully diluted. According to Charles V. Myers, president and chief executive officer, the building products group made the largest contribution to improved earnings. This included the newly acquired U.S. Brass operation which had a record year. Cutting tools were relatively flat and power components were slightly off last year's pace.

BUSINESS OF THE MONTH—Western Auto Associate Store was chosen business of the month for February by the special committee of the Winters Chamber of Commerce. Accepting the traveling plaque from Edna England, right, secretary-manager of the chamber, are Wes and June Hays, owners of the business.

March is Nutrition Month

"Eat a balanced diet every day," says American Dietetics Association "Nutribird," the bird-person symbol for "March is Nutrition Month." A balanced diet includes foods from four basic food groups, according to Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Everyone needs the same nutrients, but some people need different amounts, the specialist explains. Nutrient needs—translated into food—are commonly known as the "basic four"—milk group, meat group, fruit-vegetable group, and bread-cereal group.

MILK GROUP
The milk group includes milk and dairy products. This group is especially rich in calcium, the specialist says.

The National Research Council Recommended Dietary Allowances for calcium are set at 800 milligrams for children and adults with an increase to 1,200 for adolescence, pregnancy and lactation. Infants need from 360 to 540 milligrams daily.

Children under nine years of age and adults need two cups of milk daily to meet these requirements.

Children nine to 12 and pregnant women can fulfill their increased calcium need during rapid growth by drinking three or more cups of milk daily, Miss Reasonover adds.

MEAT GROUP
The meat group mainly furnishes protein necessary for growth and repair of body tissue—muscle, organs, blood, skin and hair.

Two or more servings are recommended.

Two to three ounces of lean cooked meat, poultry or fish—without bone—count as one serving.

FRUIT-VEGETABLE GROUP

The fruit-vegetable group includes all vegetables and fruits.

This group chiefly contributes vitamins and mineral to the diet—especially vitamins A and C. Vitamin C promotes healthy gums and body tissue. Vitamin A is needed for growth, normal vision and healthy skin.

Four servings are recommended daily.

One serving includes: one-half cup of vegetable or fruit, or a portion ordinarily served such as one medium apple, banana or potato, half a medium grapefruit or cantaloupe or the juice of one lemon.

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP

The bread-cereal group includes all breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or restored.

Foods from this group help provide protein, iron, several B vitamins and food energy.

Choose four servings from this group, the specialist continues.

One serving counts as: one slice of bread, one ounce ready-to-eat cereal, one-half to three-fourths cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

VISITORS

Sunday visitors with Elsie Sanders and her sister were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gideon and daughter, Mrs. Eldon Anthony, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sanders of Abilene.

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot adequately express our deep appreciation for the many expressions of sympathy in our bereavement. A special thanks for our friends and neighbors. —Milt and Jolly Bunker. 49-1c.

Use your Refrigerator Wisely...

- * Open and close the refrigerator and freezer doors only when necessary. Several items can be removed at once to reduce loss of cold air.
- * Freezers and refrigerators operate most efficiently when filled to the correct capacity. Foods should be placed slightly apart on refrigerator shelves for correct circulation.
- * Cover all liquids stored in the refrigerator (especially frost-free models). Moisture is drawn into the air from uncovered liquids making the refrigerator work harder.
- * Be sure your appliance is standing level so that the door seals properly. By setting a glass of water on the top, you can see if it is level.

Tips For Consumers Insulating Their Homes

With energy costs high and another frigid winter expected, many consumers are insulating or re-insulating their homes, says Mrs. O'Connor.

She provides some information to assist consumers in purchasing an insulation product or enlisting a contractor's services.

Available in a variety of forms, home insulation can be purchased in blankets, in batts, in a form which is bagged and ready to pour, and in a form which must be blown in place by a contractor using specially designed equipment. Three basic types of products are most commonly used, according to Mrs. O'Connor, all having high insulating value if properly manufactured and installed:

-Mineral wool, which includes rock wool and fibrous glass. Both of these products can be poured or blown in place or purchased in blankets or batts with a foil or paper vapor barrier.

-Plastic foam/resin, which is made of polystyrene, polyurethane or urea formaldehyde can be purchased in pre-formed sheets or foamed in place by a contractor. Foam insulation can vary considerably in its flammability depending on the operator's skill, how various reactants are mixed, and the time allowed for curing.

-Cellulosic insulation, made of any ground cellulose product such as recycled newspaper, can be poured or blown in place.

An important performance characteristic to evaluate is flammability. Acceptable flammability standards for insulation, established through the American Society of Testing and Materials, include flame spread, fuel contribution and smoke development rates. An acceptable product may still be flammable and should not be installed adjacent to high temperature surfaces such as recessed light fixtures or furnaces.

Materials which are flammable should be installed within a flame retardant enclosure such as gypsum board or metal. The plastic foams and cellulosic products present the greatest fire hazard and are available with fire retardant treatments. Urea formaldehyde foams are less flammable than other foamed products but may present some odor problems unless properly formulated and applied.

Mrs. O'Connor points out that findings by the Federal Trade Commission show that deception of consumers is most likely to occur in flammability claims, either by misrepresentation or by no reference to its unacceptable flammability, and thermal resistance claims, either through generalizations without providing "R" values or exaggerations of the "R" values.

An "R" value is a number indicating how much resistance insulation presents to heat flowing through it. Generally, the higher the "R" value, the more effective the insulation. Consumers should pay only for a higher "R" value.

Mrs. O'Connor points out that findings by the Federal Trade Commission show that deception of consumers is most likely to occur in flammability claims, either by misrepresentation or by no reference to its unacceptable flammability, and thermal resistance claims, either through generalizations without providing "R" values or exaggerations of the "R" values.

B. Williams Graduates Pool School

Bodie Williams of Winters graduated from the Pool Company crew chief school Friday, Feb. 3. Williams, who works out of the Winters office, is responsible for the crew which operates Rig 225.

Chosen by Pool district and regional management to attend the intensive two-week, 144-hour training program, Williams was one of 16 graduates in the 1977 crew chief school.

Careful Shopping is A "Must"

Adverse weather is showing meat prices higher and affecting tender-vegetable quality, so careful shopping is a "must" at Texas grocery markets this week, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

"Highlight" items for economy and quality are eggs, grapefruit, root vegetables and several canned items, she says.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Grocery economy buys this week will be as follows:

FRESH FRUIT—Budget items are oranges, bananas and grapefruit.

FRESH VEGETABLES—Root vegetables, including carrots, turnips and rutabagas, have attractive prices—while potato prices are stable to slightly higher than last week.

Specials on dry onions generally are economical values. Also consider cabbage, broccoli, eggplant and sweet potatoes.

BEEF—Slightly higher prices are the result of adverse weather, which has caused a trading slow-down. Although chuck cuts have higher prices, look for a few budget-minded buys on sirloin, T-bone and rib steaks, ground beef and liver.

Pre-Nuptial Shower Honors Miss Bahlman

Miss Tonya Bahlman, bride-elect of Mr. Keith Benfer of Fort Worth, was honored Saturday with a bridal shower in the reception room of the Winters Housing Authority.

Mrs. Yung Kee Lee greeted guests and introduced the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Nelan Bahlman, the honoree, and the mother of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Edwinna Herron of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Greg Donica presided at the register, and Martha Armbrrecht and Mrs. Robert N. Clark presided at the bride-elect's table, where the chosen color of apricot was used. An arrangement of apricot and beige roses was used for the centerpiece with a brown cloth and a beige cutwork cloth draping the table. Appoints of crystal were used.

Other hostesses in the house party were Mrs. Doyle Cooper, Mrs. Won Joon Lee, Mrs. Charlotte Davis and Mrs. R. S. Cooper.

PORK—Prices are taking an upward trend—especially those on loin cuts. Any specials generally appear on Boston butt roasts, end chops, quarter-loins cut into chops, rib and loin-end roasts.

LAMB—Some stores offer feature on leg of lamb.

POULTRY—Eggs prices are much lower than a year ago making them an economical protein choice. Some features appear on fryers, parts and chicken hens.

ALONG GROCERY MARKET AISLES—Specials include canned peaches, fruit cocktail, pears and tuna fish.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: For meat economy this week, take advantage of "specials."

Krueger States Position On President's Tax Bill

(The following is a statement made Feb. 2 by Congressman Bob Krueger, 21st District, Texas, regarding the President's tax reform bill. Ed. Note.)

As we all know, President Carter has proposed a major tax cut. I agree with the need for it. But a tax cut is only half the necessary economic package. The other half required is a limitation on government spending that will restrict increases in the new budget to the rate of inflation, eliminating real increases in government spending. I will introduce an amendment to the First Budget Resolution to achieve that end, which I believe is desirable, realistic and achievable. Let me indicate why.

In 1970, the total gross national product, for the first time, passed one trillion dollars. On Jan. 17, 1978, it reached two trillion dollars. That sounds like good news - but it wasn't really, because almost two-thirds of the increase has been inflation; not new growth. In constant 1970 dollars, our total GNP is only 1.350 trillion dollars. And of that net overall increase, an ever-larger share of spending, during those years, came not from the individual decisions made by private citizens, but by government - federal, state and local. The direct share of government spending has risen so that one in three dollars is now directly spent by government.

Another source, indirect spending, is that required by federal regulations - the armies of accountants, attorneys and clerks who are on private payrolls to satisfy government regulations and requests for information. But many of their activities do not actually increase productivity of goods and services that individuals desire.

As the federal share of the budget goes up, there is a direct increase in federal vs. private employment. This federal employment increase can easily be traced in the plight of northeastern cities.

From 1966 to 1969, in thirty large northeast cities, private employment rose 5.9%. Government employment rose 1.8%. As economists know, this is the way orderly economic growth should take place. That is, an orderly balance between public and private sectors is in effect when the private sector contributes from two-thirds to three-fourths of the overall growth rate.

However, between 1972 and 1975, in these same Northeastern cities there was a net decline in private employment of 0.8%. Government employment increased 2.1%. This clearly indicates economic imbalance.

The corresponding figures for 35 large Sunbelt cities in 1966 to 1969 show a 12.5% increase in private employment and a 3.4% increase in government employment. This is a good balance, with the private sector contributing about three-fourths of the growth rate.

However, for 1972 through 1975, the figures shift. Private employment in the Sunbelt cities increased 4.9% and government employment increased by 2.9%. This still reflects economic balance—a lesser balance—but with an alarming Sunbelt trend toward Northeastern government employment increases. And the figures indicate that, without a reversal of this trend, the Sunbelt states may, in time, fall prey to the same Northeastern reliance on government, rather than private, employment.

The figures for six Texas cities (Dallas, San Antonio, Ft. Worth, Austin, El Paso and Beaumont) are even more striking. From 1966-69 private employment increased 17.8%, government by 3.8%. But by 1972-75 the figures were almost identical: 8.2% (private) and 7.8% (government). Were this trend to continue, Texas cities would soon suffer some of the same problems as those of the Northeast.

My travels around Texas make two things clear: (1) People want to decide for themselves how to spend their money; they prefer not to delegate those decisions to government; and (2) they do not want to see federal budgets and deficits continue to increase. We must reverse the trend.

Realistically, we know that a balanced budget will not be achieved in 1978. But we can alter the trend. We should begin now by saying that the new budget for fiscal year 1979 should not be increased beyond adjustments made for inflation. Therefore, I will introduce an amendment to the First Budget Resolution which will limit the federal budget to the increases resulting from inflation; the Congressional Budget Office has already prepared such a budget. This amendment would place a ceiling on overall budget spending. The Congress retains the power to modify expenditures within various budget categories.

If our government follows this policy this year, and continues it for several more, we will find that net increases in our GNP go to the people, not to the government. Establishing that new trend would, in my judgment, be strongly supported by the American people, and is achievable without any direct cuts in overall government spending. This approach gives us a principle by which we can effectively control future federal budgets.

This, coupled with a realistic tax cut, would place an increasing share of disposable income in private hands. The Kennedy tax cut of the early 1960's was one of the most successful in our nation's history. A similar across-the-board cut now, for business and individuals, is desirable.

Particularly needed is job-creating capital investment in the private sector.

One important stimulus for such investment is business confidence. Establishing the principle that future real growth in the economy would go to private individuals rather than government programs would help to create that necessary confidence for such investment. Investment, after all, only reflects our confidence at this time. A package that limits growth in government spending to inflationary increases, and that guarantees Americans that as they work more they will be able to enjoy more, would further that end.

President Kennedy, in introducing his tax cut years ago, said that nothing is more fundamental in the USA than the principle that if one works hard he should enjoy the fruits of his labor. The statement holds true today as well. Thank you.

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Fratris L. Duff, M.D., Commissioner

Because of their fast cooking speed, the use of microwave ovens has shown an accelerating growth throughout the state.

Hot sandwiches and soups, sold at vending machines in office and industrial buildings, are examples of the commercial use of the devices. And the use of microwave ovens in the home has shown a large increase also, especially in families where adults and children are always on the go and mealtimes are short.

"Microwave ovens may be a boon or a bust, depending on an individual's likes or dislikes, but—overall—they are considered a safe appliance if proper precautions are taken," says Ralph G. Griffin, chief of the Nonionizing Radiation Program of the Texas Department of Health. "They cook and heat food quickly and are great time savers. But like any new, modern device, people have to adjust to them."

Griffin and associate Joe F. Thiel work out of the Austin office of the State Health Department and monitor acoustic radiation, laser radiation hazards, and electromagnetic radiation from microwave ovens and radar units. "We work with and are assisted by personnel from the local health departments and people from the 10 public health regions in the state," says Griffin.

When the investigators for the health department find leakage around the doors of microwave ovens—some of it above tolerable levels—the appliances are removed from service until repaired. Periodically, mass surveys are taken to determine the safety of microwave ovens. The last survey showed that about 10-13 percent of the ovens used for vending machine operations were leaking microwaves and that 40 percent were found to be insanitary.

It doesn't take much of a gap for leakage to occur. It can be caused by doors getting sprung, by food particles or other substances being allowed to build up in doors, or by faulty gaskets, according to Thiel.

"Microwave ovens used with commercial food vending machines are subject to extreme product abuse and are subject to a high failure rate in comparison to those in home use," Thiel said.

Since newer federal microwave oven standards went into effect on October 6, 1971, a significant reduction in the percentages of leaking ovens has been noted.

It is possible to be burned by microwave ovens, but safety devices are mandatory in the form of interlocks on oven doors.

"We had a call in December from a man down on the coast who said he still felt warmth when he placed his hand in his microwave oven," Thiel said. "We went down there, inspected the oven and found a defective safety interlock relay. The oven had been made before the strict federal guidelines for manufacturing microwave ovens had gone into effect."

While a properly operating microwave oven is a safe appliance to use, repairs must be made correctly, said Thiel. They should be made only by individuals who are qualified to assure that the manufacturer's built-in safety is maintained after servicing.

If some accident prevents the oven from turning itself off, an individual should never reach inside. It's possible for a serious burn to occur. In the event of switch failure, the door should be closed immediately and the appliance unplugged from the power source.

Most of the difficulties he's heard of, said Thiel, have been related to improper techniques in preparing food or cooking in an oven. One example was the case of the individual who tried to softboil an egg in a microwave oven. It dramatically learned that due to fast cooking properties of the oven the egg exploded because of steam generated within the egg.

Microwaves cook differently than conventional gas and electric ovens, where the air is heated, causing the food to cook from the outside to the center. Through their peculiar properties, the microwaves interact with food and cause water molecules to vibrate and become hot. Since there are water molecules in nearly everything cookable, the microwave oven cooks more or less evenly from center to surface.

The Department of Health has these safety tips for microwave oven users: (1) Clean the oven thoroughly after each use, especially around the door seal. (2) Do not heat the oven when it is empty. (3) Do not tamper with interlocks. (4) Do not slam door or lean on it. (5) Use a factory authorized repair facility.

Two Candidates For Three Council Seats

Three aldermen will be elected to the Winters City Council April 1, and two candidates have already signed. March 1 is the deadline for candidates to sign.

Randy Springer, pharmacist with Smith Drug Co., late last Tuesday, signed as a candidate for one of the vacancies. Jim Hatler, incumbent alderman serving a short unexpired term, had already signed as a candidate for re-election. He was elected to the short term last November.

Aldermen whose terms expire in April are Buddy Miller, James West and Hatler. Miller and West have indicated they will not seek return to office.

Other members of the council, who have another year on present terms, are Mayor Homer Hodge, and aldermen Al Scates and Earl Roach.

Blizzards Seeking Play-Off Berth

The Winters High School Blizzards, with a second-half 4-0 District 6-AA record under their belts, were scheduled to hit the boards for the two final league games this week, in their search for district play-off honors to go against Wylie for the title.

Schedule called for the Blizzards to travel to Colorado City Tuesday of this week, and then to wind up the regular district play against the Merkel Badgers Friday night.

Last Thursday, Winters got an early 24-8 lead in the first quarter against Coahoma, and kept ahead to the end, to win 73-50.

In the game with Coahoma, scorers were John Hurt 22, Carey Jobe 14, Phil Colburn 16, Jeff Russell 7, Larry Walker 2, Leroy Jones 5, Mike Davis 3, Chuck Evans 2, Reggie Boles and Charles Hudson, 1 each.

Thursday night of last week, the Blizzards met the Ballinger Bearcats on the home floor, taking that contest 57-51. Winters claimed a 17-13 first-quarter lead, were 30-22 at the half, and 43-22 at the end of the third.

Scorers were John Hurt 18, Phil Colburn 12, Carey Jobe 12, Jeff Russell 9, and Larry Walker 6.

members to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. This commission has been in existence for several years, under authority of an ordinance passed in about 1967, but has never been active.

Mayor Hodge said he would re-appoint the following to the board: E. Z. Moore, W. E. Foster, Roger Robinson, Preston Barker, and Hal Dry, and would appoint a new member, Pam Connor, to fill an existing vacancy.

CTO REQUEST APPROVED

The City Council Monday night also approved a request by Central Texas Opportunities, Inc., to underwrite half of the cost of the rent on a building used by CTO for the Winters Multi-Purpose Center.

The council approved appropriation of $50 per month to help pay the rent on the building on West Dale Street. Runnels County Commissioners pay the other half of the $100 per month rental on the building.

Lanell Davis, of CTO, met with the council and explained that among other things, the Multi-Purpose Center is used for the Family Planning Program. She said about 300 people annually attend the Winters Family Planning Program meetings. CTO also operates a similar program in Ballinger, with about 200 people annually taking part, she said.

Quality child care has three major functions: it serves as an extension for the family, aids children's development, and is a way for society to intervene constructively when families and children need help, says Jenny Rienhardt, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Krueger's Kolumn

Spending more than you make just doesn't make sense, regardless of whether you are a homemaker, a businessman or the Federal Government.

Yet from 1971-73, the Federal Government's deficit totalled $62 billion and during the years since, has been so enlarged that in 1976, it totalled almost $70 billion.

And with government bureaucrats constantly thinking up additional ways to spend the taxpayers money, it may be even worse this year.

I have sought to work in a responsible fashion to reduce the national debt—not by casting the easy political votes that win short-term favor, but by thinking and acting in a way which will maximize the long-range good of the country.

Votes for tax cuts win easy favor. They look good in the Congressional Record and to the folks back home. But tax cuts, much as we all like to pay lower taxes, aren't the answer to the runaway inflation which plagues the United States—robbing the mature of their savings, the young of their investment in the future and all citizens of their confidence in the economic soundness of the country.

During my two terms in Congress, I have voted the hard way—against much federal spending and fiscally irresponsible tax cuts which did not effectively address the need for restraint in government spending.

I felt, and still do feel, that I needed to do so until we can legislate genuine tax reform and stimulate capital

Newborns' Personalities May Be Key to Understanding their Future Problems

Mitzi Duxbury, Ph.D. Director of Health Personnel Development The National Foundation-March of Dimes

The most underestimated members of our society are newborn babies. Parents often regard their baby as having an unshaped character, waiting to be molded by them. But researchers are beginning to realize that a three-day-old infant already shows powerful signs of individuality. Many also feel that a baby's personality may be a significant influence in shaping his relationship with his parents and siblings.

In the hands of a skilled examiner, a baby's reactions to different stimuli, no matter how subtle, can be evaluated. These tests can detect, for example, minimal damage to the central nervous system. Early identification of such problems can alert nurses, physicians, and parents to take appropriate action for treatment.

Brazelton's scale

One promising test to evaluate newborns has been developed by T. Berry Brazelton, M.D., chief of the child development unit at The Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston. Brazelton's test, called the Neonatal Behavioral Assessment Scale, is in use at over 220 centers.

As part of its mission to protect the unborn and the newborn, The National Foundation-March of Dimes has awarded funds to two medical centers for training health professionals to use the Brazelton Scale. One grant, to Dr. Brazelton at Children's Hospital, is to set up a training center on the east coast. The other grant, to Dr. Kathryn Barnard of the Child Development and Mental Retardation Center at the University of Washington in Seattle, is for a similar program on the west coast.

"It is very important that a newborn be evaluated in the early days or weeks of life," Dr.

A NEWBORN'S PERSONALITY may be strong enough to shape his relationship with his parents, according to Dr. Brazelton.

Brazelton says, "because abnormal signs which are present at that time may disappear, to reappear months or years later as abnormal functions."

Early evaluation of infants at risk may prevent a compounding of problems. For instance a hyperactive newborn may press a mother and father into a kind of desperation. This reinforces the problems of the child so that he grows up in an overreactive and hostile environment. Forewarned with the knowledge that their baby is hypersensitive, parents can make every effort to deal with the problem calmly.

By contrast, quiet, undemanding babies—once known as "easy" babies—often fail to receive the nurturing care they need because it is easy to leave these babies alone. For the baby to develop his fullest potential, parents must try to make his environment as sensually and intellectually stimulating as possible. Overstimulation must be avoided.

Behavior responses

The Brazelton Scale assesses newborn's psychological capabilities. Essentially aimed at formation in the private sector.

President Carter has proposed a $25 billion tax cut package which would decrease taxes by about 20 percent for a family of four with a $15,000 per year income.

His proposal may be feasible, but only if it realistically addresses the need for long-term capital investment, which in turn will create jobs in the private sector, and if we can hold the line on government spending.

We need both to foster new capital investment to regain our competitiveness with other nations and to encourage the continual retraining and upgrading of our work force so that our citizens can develop themselves to maximum advantage.

We need more jobs rather than government handouts. In our country, a person receives much of his or her dignity and sense of well-being through work.

The unemployed lack both the means for supporting a decent life and the opportunity to contribute fully to the strength of our nation. And over time, they lose even the hope of improving their position.

The private sector retains the greatest flexibility and resources for productive employment. Through tax incentives and work training programs, the government can encourage private employers to meet the challenge of high employment without its continually being the necessary employer of last resort.

The United States can achieve a balanced budget in the near future. But reaching that point will require fiscally-responsible and often politically unfavorable decisions on the part of our national leaders.

It will require statesmen in Washington, not just politicians.
