OLD MONARCH—John W. Norman, right, Winters attorney, received a gold 50-year "Old Monarch" certificate from the Winters Lions Club during the Ladies Night banquet program Friday night. Norman has been a member of the Winters Lions Club for more than 50 years. This is the first 50-year certificate ever issued by the local service organization.

Other special certificates were presented to W. M. Hays Sr., 25 years; B. D. Jobe, 15 years; and H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, 10 years. Jobe also was commended for the work he has done as chairman of the mop and broom sale for several years.

Sixty-three graduating seniors of Winters High School will receive diplomas during Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises at Blizzard Field Thursday evening, May 25, at 8:30.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be moved inside.

The Blizzard Band will play the processional and recessional, and Esmeralda Rodriguez, president of the Student Council, will give the invocation.

Randy Drake, James Fairey, Kelly Blackerby and John Pruser will play the National Anthem, and Larry Walker, vice president of the graduating class will lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Rev. Fred V. Thomas, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will give the baccalaureate devotional.

Jeff Russell will give the salutatory address, and Cheryl Bahlman the valedictory address.

Presentation of awards will be made by Tommy Lancaster, superintendent of schools. B. J. Colburn, president of the board of education will certify the candidates for graduation, and Delbert Kruse, member of the board, will

Skunks Have Been "Active" In Community

The threat of a more serious outbreak of rabies in this community, and in the county, becomes more evident, as more and more reports come in of daylight sightings of and encounters with skunks.

The fact of more daylight sightings of skunks in itself is evidence that something unusual is happening among the area's population of skunks, Dr. Jimmy Smith, Winters veterinarian, said. "Skunks are normally nocturnal animals," he said, "and daylight wanderings of these animals indicates that they are probably rabid. They are rarely seen during daylight hours, unless they are flushed."

At least two reports have been received of skunks attacking and killing litters of kittens, in the daylight hours. Also, a report was received of a skunk chasing a dog, also during the daytime. Three skunks were sighted by a group of young boys in the northeast section of town within the past few days.

Dr. Smith warned that if a rabid skunk should attack several of the many stray dogs in the community, the situation would become very serious. The veterinarian suggested that those residents who have dogs and cats have them vaccinated at once, and that pets be penned and controlled as much as possible to protect them, and the public. It has been suggested, also, that all animals be observed closely, and especially avoided if they begin to act strangely. Children should be warned to keep away from all animals, it was also suggested.

Dr. Smith also said that the practice of releasing puppies and kittens, just to get rid of them, is not only cruel to the animals, but a dangerous act. He said few days go by that such abandoned animals are picked up by him, or brought to his office, to be put to sleep.

Proposed Lake Site Would Impound 7700 Acre Feet

As proposed by the Winters City Council, a new dam, located south of the present dam of Lake Winters, would back water to the level of the spillway of the present dam, and impound an additional total of 7700 acre feet of water, with projected yield of 560 acre feet annually.

The new lake site is being proposed by the Winters City Council, and work is in progress at this time to obtain amendments to the city's present water permit, allowing impoundment of much more water than is available. The council last week gave engineers the go-ahead signal to begin preparations to apply to state agencies to have the water permit amended, and approved employment of legal counsel to draw up the permit requests. Engineers will have to prepare preliminary plans to accompany the application for permit amendment. It was not known how long this procedure would take, but if all goes well, application should be in the hands of the state agencies within a few short months.

In a meeting with engineers and a financial advisor last week, the council approved the plans, picking this site over other alternatives the engineers had offered. Some of the alternatives included piping water from Spence Lake, piping from Oak Creek, piping from Coleman Lake, and even searching for ground water supplies. The council expressed the belief that a new dam, to be located just north of FM 53, south of the present lake site, would be the most feasible.

In their report to the council, engineers presented water usage figures accumulated over several years, and also figures for projected demand within the next several years. They said that per capita water consumption in 1950 was 110 gallons daily; 1960, 180 gallons; 1970 140 gallons; and 1976 155 gallons. The lower 140 gallons per capita listed for 1970 was a result of a wet cycle, therefore causing demand to drop considerably. They projected that by the year 2030, per capita demand would be 250 gallons daily. Historical demand, in Winters, according to the engineers, has been .3 million gallons daily average in 1950; .58 million average in 1960; .4 million average in 1970, due to a wetter cycle; and .7 million average in 1976.

Additional demand to fill needs of customers on the line of North Runnels Water Supply Corp. will increase the daily average demand, engineers said.

The present Winters Lake had an 800 acre feet firm annual yield when constructed, the engineers said. Firm yield was described as the yield during a critical drought period. At the present, due to siltation, yield is estimated at only 500 acre feet, or about .4 million gallons daily average, according to engineers. Firm yield is expected to drop to about 338 acre feet, with the completion of the Elm Creek Water Control District projects, but with slower siltation.

While engineers and legal counsel are preparing applications for amendments to the city's present water permit, the city council is searching and studying means of financing the proposed project.

Eighteen Contestants From North Runnels In Pageant

At least 18 contestants from Winters and Wingate have been entered in the beauty pageants sponsored by the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce, to be staged June 2 and 3 in the Ballinger High School Auditorium. The local contestants are being sponsored by individuals and merchants.

The pageant is coordinated by Denna Mitchell of Arlington, who is with Universal Pageant Systems. Businesses or individuals may sponsor See PAGEANT Page 6

DRY LAKE, ALMOST—The long period without substantial rainfall on the water shed of Bluff Creek has left the old Winters lake north of town almost dry. The water has receded many yards away from the dam, and when this picture was taken last week, there was only about six inches of water left. Many people were noted taking fish from the shallow water by hand, and a big die-out of fish was expected as the water became more shallow. Even if full to spillway level, the water would not be very deep, because of the heavy siltation over the years. This lake has not been a source of domestic water for many years, however.

GUIDE DOG—Floyd Taylor of Winters decided some time ago to apply for Guide Dog training. The 71-year-old was accepted by the San Rafael, Calif., organization, Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., and is presently undergoing a four-week training course with Ronald, a Labrador retriever. Taylor and his 12 classmates will be officially presented their new canine partners in graduation ceremonies on May 27, marking the successful completion of the training. A former air conditioning mechanic, Taylor is pleased with his new independence and mobility and looks forward to getting around town with more confidence and safety. Both the valuable animal and in-residence training are provided free of charge by non-profit Guide Dogs. The school receives no federal or state funds and depends entirely for its support on voluntary contributions.

Ketta Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Walker, sponsored by Wingate Gin.

Tamela Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felton Jackson, sponsored by Taylor's #2 Restaurant.

Deadline for entries will be 5 p.m. May 26. Additional information may be obtained from Brenda Killough at the Fashion Shop, or the Winters Chamber of Commerce office.

Want To Help With Donations To Guide Dogs?

When Floyd Taylor of Winters decided some time ago to go to San Rafael, Calif., for in-residence training with a guide dog, the Winters Lions Club and the local unit of the Salvation Army decided to help with his expenses. Each organization contributed $50 toward his expenses.

expenses. The organization has not solicited contributions from local sources, but will accept contributions. The organization is a non-profit corporation. Because their work has been extended into Winters, some local residents may want to make contributions to the coporation. VOTE

Let me thank you again for putting me in the RUN-OFF and to state that I would like to serve one more term.

The office of County Judge is a rather important one, if not the most important elective office.

My concern is for the best interest of the majority of the people in Runnels County and my record in business in Runnels County should be such as to enable you to vote for me again because we are, more than ever before, in need of experienced, conservative, conscientious and dependable characteristics in our elected officials who have responsible positions in our government.

Therefore, your consideration, influence and favorable vote on Saturday the 3rd day of June 1978 will be sincerely appreciated by Ewing, also in the Brenham law school. He was admitted to the bar Oct. 28, 1879. His finances were exhausted but he had selected Runnels County as the place where he wanted to practice law. Undaunted, he took his few belongings on his back and barefooted, set out for his destination, a distance of 368 miles. When he arrived he went to work at once in surveying and running lines for the projected county.

On May 17, 1882 he was married to Lellie E. Carr at Comanche, the daughter of a well known merchant. Five children were born to the couple: Ralph in 1884, Arthur in 1886 and Zannatte in 1888. Two others died in infancy.

In 1891, after his last stretch as county judge, Willingham was elected to the state legislature and served four years. He then withdrew from public service and devoted himself to farming and raising cattle.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias and the Praetorians, as well as the Woodmen of the World. He was a member of the Christian Church. He died in 1934 and is buried in the Evergreen cemetery at Ballinger.

First Judges of Runnels County

While our attention is focused on politics, especially the county judge's race, it is a good time to review the record of the first two judges of Runnels who seemed to take it turn about for awhile.

Sylvester Adams was the first judge from 1880 to 1884, and was followed by Charles H. Willingham for a term. Then Adams served again from 1886 to 1888.

There was an intervening period when Wm. A. Procter was judge then Willingham took the reins for a longer period from 1890 to 1900.

When H. D. Pearce began taking biographical sketches of all the ex-soldiers of the Civil War who came into his post office it was fitting that the first one enrolled was the county judge.

Sergeant Sylvester Adams was born March 9, 1834 in Humphreys County, Tenn. and came to Texas with his father when he was quite young. He enlisted in the confederate service from Bosque County, March 8, 1862, as a recruit in Speight's Battalion Texas Infantry, then stationed at Virginia Point near Galveston.

He was at reorganization under the conscript law and transferred to Co. A 1st Texas Heavy Artillery and his Co. was stationed at Galveston during the entire war. He remained in service until the war ended. Adams moved from Bosque County to Runnels in 1879 and took an active part in organizing the county.

Judge Adams died at his home on February 3, 1899 and is buried in the Runnels cemetery. He left a wife and six children, three boys. His many friends had a large native stone monument erected to his memory. He was a Democrat of the old school and a Baptist.

Judge C. H. Willingham was born in Washington County, Texas, on Oct. 26, 1855. He was the son of A. J. and Martha Willingham.

His father was born in Georgia and came to Texas in 1838 as a soldier in the Texas army until 1856. He served in the Mexican war under General Taylor, as well as in the Confederate army. In the Mexican war he was taken prisoner at Black Fort, but was successful in escaping while nearly all the other prisoners were killed.

The oldest of nine children, five boys and four girls, Judge Willingham was deprived of any education at all until the age of eighteen, owing to the fact that there were no public nor private schools where he lived. But at that time he went to Baylor University where he worked his way and studied civil engineering. He then took a job with a railroad, working from Galveston to Ft. Worth and from Temple to Lampasas, for nearly three years. He spent the next six years with the same company locating their land certificates in the wilds of West Texas, also fighting Indians, wild animals and poisonous snakes.

Runnels County Named Disaster Area By SBA

The Small Business Administration has declared 102 counties in Texas disaster areas due to drought damage to the 1977 crops, according to U.S. Congressman Bob Krueger.

"Farmers who suffered crop damage and financial hardship in these as well as 82 adjacent counties may be eligible for SBS disaster farm loans," Cong. Krueger said.

In the 21st District, only Runnels County has been declared a disaster area by SBS. However, Coke, Tom Green and Concho counties qualify for loans as adjacent counties.

"Half of the money for which each farmer is eligible may be used to pay outstanding debts and for such operating costs as living expenses. The rest must be used for production costs in the new crop year, the congressman said. "I believe this will be of some assistance to the farmers of West Texas adversely affected by the drought. I want to express my appreciation to the SBA for its help."

Wolff Accuses Soviets Of "Proxy Warfare"

Democratic nominee for Congress Nelson Wolff has accused the Soviet Union of waging "proxy warfare" through Cuban involvement in South Yemen.

Wolff was referring to a report earlier this week that an estimated 500 to 600 Cubans are currently in South Yemen as civilian advisers and trainers of paramilitary forces.

"While the Soviets are not becoming directly involved militarily in the affairs of other nations, it is becoming increasingly obvious that they are using the Cubans as their intermediaries both in South Yemen and Africa," Wolff said. "This is particularly alarming in South Yemen, a nation that could threaten our access to the Red Sea and Middle Eastern oil supplies."

Wolff went on to say that he sees the presence of 500 Cuban advisers in South Yemen and 10,000 Cuban troops in Ethiopia across the Red Sea from Yemen as part of a large Soviet military build-up.

"We have been lulled into thinking that the Cold War ended with the emergence of detente. But the competition between the United States and the Soviet Union has actually intensified."

Wolff pointed out that over the past 13 years, Soviet defense expenditures have increased 40% while U.S. expenditures, when adjusted for inflation, have decreased 18% over the same time period.

"The Soviets are spending one billion dollars a year on civil defense as compared to 82 million dollars spent by the United States. This indicates to me that the Soviets are thinking in terms of surviving a nuclear attack as a viable nation."

Wolff said that there are several things that must be done if we are to reverse this trend.

"The United States must be prepared for conventional warfare as well as for strategic nuclear war. This means a strengthening of our NATO forces which currently fall far behind Warsaw pact forces in personnel and equipment. It is imperative that the U.S. and its NATO allies continue to integrate their weapons and communications systems.

"It is also essential that we continue the modernization of our ICBM forces and the development of the cruise missile.

"I am pleased to see the first real increase in the defense budget in thirteen years. We must make national defense our highest priority if we are to maintain a position of military leadership."

Consumer Food News

Bargain buys this week include poultry products, several canned items and fresh vegetables, one authority says.

Also, several dairy items are in the spotlight, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Quality and price trends are the following:

POULTRY—Good values are available on turkey parts, and eggs are an excellent bargain. Fryer supplies are reported "up" for the first half of the year, so consumers reasonably can expect particularly good values. Both whole fryers and mixed parts are on special in some markets.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES—Canned fruit items at economy prices are easing the low supplies of fresh fruit which will increase as more spring-summer items come to market.

Canned fruits at budget prices include applesauce, fruit cocktail and cling peaches. Other highlights include tomato products, peanut butter, pasta products and cooking oil.

Also dry milk is a "feature" item in most stores. DAIRY—"Spotlight" items include cottage cheese, low-fat milk, sour cream and yogurt.

FRESH VEGETABLES—Best buy are cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, potatoes and dry onions.

Lettuce prices may drop somewhat this week as more supplies come to market.

FRESH FRUIT—Good values include grapefruit and pineapple.

BEEF—Prices are still increasing, but chuck cuts offer some economy due to a surplus.

PORK—Prices are still high. Best values appear on Boston butt roasts, shoulder steak and liver.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Fight bacteria and food poisoning. Select meat and poultry at the end of the shopping trip. Take them home immediately and refrigerate or freeze them.
