To be eligible for kindergarten, a child must be five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1978.

"Lillie Marks Day"

At First U-M Church

Sunday, Aug. 27, has been designated "Lillie Marks Day" at the First United Methodist Church, honoring Mrs. Lillie Marks, who has served as the church nursery attendant for the past 30 years.

Mrs. Marks will be recognized during morning service at 10:30 Sunday.

The congregation will have a family night, beginning at 6 p.m., with a barbecue supper. Members attending are asked to bring a salad, vegetables or dessert.

As part of the special observance, Dr. Thomas Tribble, pastor, will play a 20-minute tape, "Focus On the Family." Resource person is Dr. James Dobson, a psychologist from California.

The church nursery will be open, and the public is invited to attend this special recognition program.

Farmers Union Meeting Set For Thursday

Runnels County Farmers Union will hold a pot luck supper and meeting Thursday, August 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Winters Community Center.

Each family is asked to bring two large dishes of food.

Thomas Hill, with the Farmers Home Administration, will be the speaker for the program. He will discuss the administration's current programs.

Members and others interested in the FmHA programs are invited to attend.

FIREMAN-OF-YEAR—Billy Joe Emmert, left, was named "Fireman of the Year" during the annual Firemen's Barbecue Thursday night. Marvin Bedford, right, Fire Chief, presented the plaque to Emmert. The "Fireman of the Year" is voted on each year by members of the Volunteer Fire Department. Emmert has been a member of the Volunteer Fire Department for 12 years. He is presently chaplain of the department.

During the presentation of the award, Bedford said that when Emmert joined the department 12 years ago, he was "a greenhorn." "At his first fire," Bedford recalled, "Joe was holding a nozzle, which was under about 250 pounds pressure. He had difficulty handling the nozzle, and before I knew it, he had it stuck in a pocket of my overalls. I was the one who was initiated at Joe's first fire."

Plenty of Good Seats For Football

Sale of season tickets—reserved seats—for all Winters Blizzard home football games started Monday morning, on a first come-first served basis.

Johnny B. Smith, school business manager, said sales have not been brisk, and that there are still plenty of good reserved seats for home football games.

Fans can save $2.50 a seat by purchasing a book of tickets for all five home games. Single game tickets will be $2.00 each after the pre-season sale is over.

Season tickets will remain on sale through Friday, Sept. 1. Thereafter, tickets will go on sale for single games on Wednesday of each week.

Microfilm Preserves Winters Area History

Fifty years of Winters area history are being preserved at Texas Tech University.

The Southwest Collection, located on the Tech campus in Lubbock, has microfilmed past issues of The Winters Enterprise.

A regional archives, the Southwest Collection is a center for research devoted to perpetuating the heritage of the American Southwest. In addition to newspapers, the repository houses books, periodicals, tape recorded interviews, maps, photographs and personal and business papers from throughout the region.

Because of the rapid deterioration of newsprint, the Southwest Collection is filming papers from West Texas in an effort to preserve perhaps the only records of the histories of the communities they serve, according to David Murrah, head of the repository.

"These issues are especially valuable for historical research as each contains many stories pertaining to the history of the community or region," Murrah said.

The repository now holds more than 400 Texas newspaper titles, including 66 microfilmed collections.

Loaned for copy by The Winters Enterprise, courtesy of Richard C. Thomas, the issues range in date from 1925 to 1975. The paper is published weekly.

Along with thousands of facts and figures of historical worth, the papers record such things as the words to the new state song, "Texas, Our Texas." Mrs. Gladys Yoakum Wright and William J. Marsh of Fort Worth, were awarded $1,000 by Governor Pat Neff in 1925 for the new song. The song was submitted with three stanzas, but the Texas Legislature combined the first and third stanzas.

While Texans sang their new song, Winters citizens in 1925 saw an Old Fiddlers Contest conducted at the Hollywood Theatre, a new barber shop open in town, and an ice cream factory make plans to build in Winters.

Prices were in the news, too. In 1925, three pounds of coffee cost $1.48; one gallon of fruit, 61 cents; two pounds of cocoa, 37 cents; one pound of pure pork sausage, 25 cents; one pound of potatoes, three cents; 10 pounds of sugar, 81 cents; and a box of crackers, 38 cents.

In health news, The Enterprise warned folks not to neglect colds because of a closer connection seen between influenza and colds. Also, Creosene was advertised for stopping sore and bleeding gums in twelve hours.

And on January 24, 1925, people in the eastern United States witnessed a total eclipse of the sun.

But perhaps of greatest interest to researchers, who can now view the papers at the Southwest Collection, are the accounts of birth, death, major events and human interest stories.

Other papers being filmed from this area include papers from Bronte, Robert Lee and Sterling City.

Breakfast Program Added

Something new has been added to the student meal program in Winters Public School. For a good many years, noon lunches have been available to students for a few cents a day, and in some instances, without charge.

Beginning this year, the school cafeteria will serve breakfast, with the first breakfast to be served Tuesday, August 29. Serving time will be from 7:55 a.m. to 8:25 a.m. each school day.

Students who are approved for free lunches will also be approved for free breakfast, according to the school administration. Students who are not on the free or reduced-price list may purchase breakfast for 30 cents. Employees of the school system may purchase breakfast for 35 cents, and visitors may purchase breakfast for 50 cents.

County Budget

The hearing on the Runnels County budget for the next fiscal year will be held at 10 a.m., Sept. 12.

Commissioners set the date for the required hearing during the last official meeting.

HISTORY—Winters area history comes alive for Becky Bryan, Texas Tech University student from Winters. Christine Valdez, student assistant for the Southwest Collection, shows Bryan the bound copies of The Winters Enterprise, which are being microfilmed. The Southwest Collection, a regional research center located on the Tech campus in Lubbock, is microfilming issues from as early as 1925 in an effort to preserve perhaps the only records of the history of the community. Bryan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Joe Bryan of Rt. 3, Winters. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Zack Isbell. Bryan is a physical education major taking classes this summer at Tech.

Johnnie Edgar Kissinger, 70, died at 2:10 a.m. Friday at his home, 405 Tinkle, following an illness of several years.

Local arrangements were made by Winters Funeral Home.

Mr. Kissinger was born July 21, 1908, at McKinney. It was there he married Bertha Jobe, Oct. 31, 1925. He was in the battery and service station business until moving to Winters in 1972.

COUNTRY MUSIC

It took a trip to the Country Music Hall of Fame in Nashville, Tenn., for me to learn that the latest in country music is the Austin Sound and it comes from Austin, Texas.

"What is the Austin sound?" I asked Randy Smith, one of the young men on the tour that we took with 93 other people, sponsored by KRUN of Ballinger. He explained that it was progressive Country, let's have a good time type, and was typified by Wayland Jennings and Willie Nelson in the song about Luckenbach, Texas. And another song by Jerry Jeff Walker, "Mamas Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up to Be Cowboys."

The first thing that is shown visitors to the Hall of Fame is a colorful chart tracing the origins of country music, including the influences, trends and innovations which have affected it.

Beginning with the roots of country music in blues and jazz, American popular song, English and American folk-song and American ethnic music, the chart traces the development of the different styles of country music over a fifty year period including cowboy song, Cajun, string band, western swing, the Nashville sound and the Austin sound.

Country music is as diverse as the many sources from which it has grown. Yet through all its changes, it has consistently been a music of the heart, a music which appeals strongly to emotions we all share.

Around the middle of the nineteenth century, two other musical forms began to influence country music. The first was the minstrel show, which not only produced songs like "Old Dan Tucker," but also introduced the five stringed banjo, a sound quickly combined with the lonesome mournful strains of the fiddle. The other influence was the popular music of the Victorian age, such as "Wildwood Flower," "Little Rosewood Casket" and "The Letter Edged in Black."

It wasn't until the turn of this century that the guitar and the mandolin were introduced to country music and these instruments immediately became popular.

Other influences of the time included ragtime, vaudeville and especially Hawaiian music which swept all across the country.

Our guide explained that country music could always be distinguished by the sound of the guitar or stringed instruments.

Vernon Dalhart, a former light opera tenor, brought country music to national attention in 1925 with "The Prisoner's Song". It sold several million copies. At the same time WLS and WSM began to feature country music on the National Barn Dance and the Grand Ole Opry.

Country music's first real stars, Jimmie Rodgers and the Carter Family were recorded by Victor in 1927. Others popular at that time were Uncle Dave Macon and Gid Tanner and the Skillet Lickers.

The 1930's, despite the depression, provided a wide variety of music styles. Gene Autry brought acclaim to the singing cowboy; Ernest Tubb refined honky-tonk; the Hackberry Ramblers carried Cajun music outside Louisiana for the first time; Bob Wills developed the Western Swing, an exciting dance music; while Bill Monroe and Roy Acuff forged new styles out of the mountain tradition.

Two old timers, Hank Snow and Roy Acuff, appeared on the Grand Ole Opry on the Saturday night we were there. Acuff sang "The Great Speckled Bird" for the first time there in 1938. He was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame as its first living member in 1962.

Others before him who were the first to be elected were Jimmie Rodgers, Fred Rose and Hank Williams in 1961, who were deceased.

There are only three women, Patsy Cline, 1973; Minnie Pearl, 1975; and Kitty Wells, 1976, who have received this honor.

The 1940's and early 1950's saw the rise of the individual singing star as Eddie Arnold, Kitty Wells, Red Foley, Hank Williams and others. But the star system was seriously disrupted in the 1950's by the arrival of rockabilly. It was composed of hard-edged country music and rhythm and blues. Its greatest proponents were Carl Perkins, Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash and, of course, Elvis Presley who is called the King.

We were much impressed by Elvis Presley's gold Cadillac limousine, the most striking exhibit displayed in the Country Music Hall of Fame and museum. This fancy 1960 Cadillac 75 limousine was the late singer's favorite. A gold-plated television set, gold refreshment bar, ice trays and six gold records attached to the ceiling are a few of the many features included in the custom interior. There is

Energy Bill "Insult" To Texans, Krueger Says

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger said Wednesday he will oppose the conference committee energy bill because it will "add a new insult to current and past injuries born by Texas gas consumers."

Krueger, during a 2 p.m. news conference here, cited four major "deficiencies" in the bill, which he said "lacks fairness of treatment between producing and consuming states," Krueger said.

"The draft legislation does not meet the promise of the May agreement to reduce regulation of natural gas producers and the attempt to wed the completely divergent positions passed by the House and Senate has resulted in a proposal which will produce too little gas at too great a price for the consumer."

"After careful examination of the materials released by the conference committee, and study of other opinions of the bill's probable impact, I have concluded that this legislation falls far short of that which is necessary to address the natural gas supply difficulties which have plagued us for the past several years, and lacks fairness of treatment between producing and consuming states," Krueger said.

"The draft legislation does not meet the promise of the May agreement to reduce regulation of natural gas producers and the attempt to wed the completely divergent positions passed by the House and Senate has resulted in a proposal which will produce too little gas at too great a price for the consumer."

Krueger, who supports the phased-in deregulation of new natural gas prices, said he favors instead a natural gas plan along the lines of one he proposed in 1977 which would have phased-in deregulation of new natural gas prices over a four-year period.

"That approach still offers us the best hope of putting the natural gas pricing issue behind us, while ensuring greater natural gas supplies in the future at the least possible cost to all American consumers," Krueger said.

The deficiencies in the committee bill, Krueger said, are:

—the increased costs for intrastate consumers, particularly Texans (a total of $7 billion additional in the next seven years).

"This would merely add a new insult to current and past injuries born by Texas gas consumers," Krueger said. "Texas consumers subsidized industrial gas-use and residential heating costs for those in other parts of the nation, and they were also responsible for providing incentives for all new gas production. . . . Now the conference committee asks us to bear further increased costs to provide new benefits to interstate consumers. I cannot support any such proposal."

—the possible decrease in supplies of gas for Texas consumers and industry.

—the inclusion of Federal Energy Regulatory Commission authority to approve dedications and abandonments of all natural gas.

—the committee's failure to remove the FERC's regulatory authority in respect to the Southland Royalty decision by the Supreme Court, which, at its worst, could endanger the present and future natural gas supply for the Texas intrastate market.

"Such a construction of the decision could rob the intrastate market of considerable portions of its present and future natural gas supply. . . . the continued regulatory burden upon gas producers presents a double threat of serious consequences to the welfare of Texas gas consumers and the health of the Texas economy."

"These major deficiencies, and a few minor points of lesser consequence, make it impossible for me to support the proposed gas compromise or to recommend that my colleagues in the House and Senate adopt it," Krueger said.

When rockabilly swept the nation, Nashville musicians reacted by developing a smooth, lush style of country music which came to be called the Nashville Sound. A style which developed its own stars like Jim Reeves and Patsy Cline. It also established Nashville as a recording center and many national firms moved offices, studios and publishing companies to Nashville, which came to be called Music City, USA.

Among modern influential performers are Loretta Lynn, Merle Haggard, Dolly Parton and Willie Nelson.

But the latest in country music is the Austin Sound from good ole Texas!

RECOGNITION—Gaylon Pitcock, left, customer service specialist in Winters with General Telephone Company of the Southwest, won second place for his contribution to the company's quarterly employee competitive awareness program. An award luncheon was held in San Angelo. Presenting the award was Marvin Moehnke, Ballinger, plant foreman.

CONSUMER FOOD NEWS

Best values at Texas grocery markets this week include eggs, melons, fryer chickens and several fresh vegetable items, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt.

Also, there are a number of "specials" at dairy and frozen food counters and along grocery market aisles, she says.

KRUEGER OF TEXAS

When I voted last week in favor of the largest defense budget—$119.2 billion—in the history of our nation, I could not help but recall with grave concern how much our military budget, as well as the rest of government spending, has grown in recent years.

But, unlike so many federal dollars, I am of the belief that allocations made to the defense of our nation are dollars essential to the very survival of our nation.

In studying this legislation and in witnessing the legislative maneuvering that took place during efforts to curtail military spending at a time when communism remains a strong threat to our nation, I feel it appropriate to also applaud Cong. George Mahon.

During this, his last year in office (he has announced his retirement) his record of understanding the necessity of a strong military, even in the face of honest opposition from those concerned with fiscal limits, is a tribute to the strength and accomplishments shown during his years as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

We have learned, through history, that a nation's security is based, not on its desire to live and let live, but only through a military capacity that is a clear message to those nations which would attempt to dominate or control others.

There will always be cause to closely scrutinize federal dollars allocated to the military because the sheer size of our defense complex opens the door for potential waste in the way of cost overruns and unnecessary weaponry.

But this budget, as gargantuan as it seems, is one I feel that is essential to the defense of not only our nation, but of the principles on which it was founded and which it seeks to preserve for all of mankind.

History, sometimes tragically, has clearly shown us that only through a capacity for strength does peace prevail.

That is why, after careful study, I voted for our defense appropriations bill without reservation and it is why I feel exceptionally strong about some of the provisions of this year's defense budget.

I worked and voted against the Yates Amendment, which would have deleted $2.1 billion for purchase of a Nimitz nuclear aircraft carrier, a carrier that will give us the sophisticated protection necessary to protect our seas.

Included in legislation for which I voted was also the Montgomery Amendment, which allocated additional funds for recruitment of military personnel.

Because our nation now relies on a voluntary force, it is more important than ever that military service offer enough incentives to attract our best young people, men and women.

Unfortunately, too many of us have not carefully studied reports showing that the calibre of soldier we train today is in grave danger of not living up to past standards and we must not allow that to occur.

Needless to say, I also opposed the Volkmer Amendment which would have cut military spending across-the-board by two percent. In fact, earlier this year I introduced an amendment that called for across-the-board containment of costs in all federal spending areas with three notable exceptions, a principal one being

School Lunch Program Provides Nutritious Meals

Since the beginning of the school lunch programs many years ago, the Winters school cafeteria has served nutritious lunches to students each day, at a cost which could not be duplicated at home. Students may buy lunches for 50 cents for grades kindergarten through grade 6, and 55 cents for grades 7 through 12. Students may now buy breakfast for 30 cents, with the beginning of the breakfast program this year. Extra milk may be purchased for 6 cents for one-half pint.

reduced price for lunch is 20 cents, and the reduced price for breakfast is 10 cents. If your income is greater than those shown, but you have unusually high medical bills, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of your income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses, your children may still be eligible.

To apply at any time during the year for free meals and free milk or reduced-price meals for your children, request an application form from the Winters School. The information given on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility for free meals and milk or reduced-price meals. Within ten days of receiving your application the school will let you know whether or not your children are eligible. If you do not agree with the school's decision you have a right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the Superintendent of the Winters School at Box 125, Winters, Texas 79567.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If you have foster children living with you and wish to apply for such meals and milk for them, please notify the school on the application. All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Milt Bunger Honored On 75th Birthday

SURPRISE—Employees of Mac Oil Field Co. Monday surprised their boss, Milt Bunger, with a birthday party, observing his 75th birthday. Employees prepared a barbecue dinner, rounded off with a big birthday cake. Bunger has operated Mac Oil Field Co. for 16 years. He moved to Winters in 1956 from Breckenridge, with Gulf Oil Co. He retired from Gulf Oil in 1961, and went to work for Mac Construction Co. In 1962 he bought the company and changed the name to Mac Oil Field Co.

But voting and working for additional defense allocations is not always enough. It is essential that representation in Washington never lose its grass roots understanding of the most basic backbone of our defense program, the presence of military bases throughout our nation.

Unfortunately, 11 military bases have been closed in Texas since 1965 and I am currently involved in several endeavors to make certain that no other bases are closed unless there is clear and undisputable evidence that, first, a base is not needed, and second, that all precautions have been taken to make certain that the severe economic impact of a closure has been negated to the extent that local businesses which have relied on a base's existence for their own are provided every possible bit of aid, hopefully negating long-range economic depression.

In years to come, there no doubt will continue to be a growth in federal government, not necessarily because our government is self-perpetuating, but because we are a growing nation, a nation enlarging not only its population, but its knowledge. And with knowledge, as John Kennedy so eloquently expressed it, comes new frontiers which must not only be confronted and dealt with but, as the challenge to man would have it, conquered.

SS Rep Sets Winters Visits

Garland Gregg, representative of the San Angelo Social Security office, will be at the office of Winters Housing Authority Monday, Sept. 11, and Monday, Sept. 25, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact Gregg on the scheduled dates.

Persons applying for social security numbers will need to submit two documents—one to prove their age and citizenship and one to prove their identity.

Avoid Insect Stings, Bites

Avoid insect bite or sting reactions by avoiding the bite or sting in the first place, advises a health education specialist.

- To avoid or at least lessen the chances of getting stung, follow these suggestions:
- (1) When wasps or bees are nearby, do not make sudden movements. Move away from the area slowly.
 - (2) Wear shoes and socks when outdoors to avoid stepping on bees or yellow-jackets—which love ground clover—while barefoot.
 - (3) Insects are often drawn to scents—so, avoid scented soaps, hair spray, perfumes and lotions.
 - (4) Bright colors and floral prints also attract insects, so avoid these.
 - (5) Certain foods can attract insects. When eating outdoors, cover food until ready to eat and clean up the area when finished.
- Insect stings and bites can cause serious problems, Carla Shearer explains. Estimates indicate that one percent of the population is allergic to certain kinds of insect bites and stings.

About half of those allergic are severely so—that is, an insect bite can produce a life-threatening situation, the specialist points out.

Ms. Shearer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Usually the reaction includes no more than a sharp pin-prick that may last for a few minutes with a red area forming around the site of the bite, however.

A welt may also form, but usually disappears or at least subsides within three or four hours.

The bite area may continue to be warm to the touch and itch, but most traces of the sting are usually gone within 24 hours.
