School Children Need Protection

One has to wonder about the thinking behind the decisions for captions of traffic signs on our highways and streets. Apparently, there is no basic system or method used, and whatever pops into the minds of those deciding to erect a sign, at the moment, becomes the rule for that sign.

For example, the picture to the left is that of a school zone speed sign on Winters' North Main St.—US 83—near the schools. During certain times of the day, the lights are set flashing, warning motorists to slow to 30 miles per hour. During other times, the posted speed limit in those few hundred feet—and on through town—is 35 miles per hour! Which means, actually, that most traffic during the "off" hours is upwards of 45 miles per hour, as traffic enters town from the north, until it leaves the city at the south limits, slowed only occasionally at the single traffic signal in downtown Winters! Southbound traffic enters Winters on the north, from the open highway, where legal speed limit is 55. More often than not, however, vehicles are traveling much faster than that when they hit the city limits, and many do not slow down until they are well into town. And even when the lights are flashing on the school sign, few drivers bother to notice or slow down. (This is not idle talk—check it out for yourself sometime!) The so-called "school zone" is only a few hundred feet long—a little over two-tenths of a mile. Crosswalks are painted on the highway in a couple of places, supposedly to allow children a place to cross, where motorists are supposed to stop. But do they? And is it possible for a child to enter the crosswalk and beat a big truck or an auto which has entered town at a fast clip and continues at high speed?

Now, take a look at the sign on the right. This sign, although it is not marked "school," is near a Sweetwater middle school, on a busy street—Hwy. 70—also a through-town highway. Near this speed limit sign is a traffic signal, and within four or five blocks are other traffic signals, to control traffic. And yet, this sign sets the speed at 20 MPH, because it is near a school.

Why the difference in the speed limits? Do the children of one town need less protection than those of the other town? Many people are beginning to ask "Why?" There already has been one accident in the area of the school—on North Main—since school opened a couple of weeks ago. Do we have to wait until a tragic event occurs before those who make the decisions decide more protection is needed? (The City of Winters has no control over traffic speeds on the highway.)

If you believe this does not concern you, then turn on over to the sports section and finish your cup of coffee. If you believe it does concern you, there are many avenues of correction available.

(See related letter elsewhere in this issue).

Stray Dogs Get New Leash On Life

Because of an unexpected delay in organizing an animal control department in the City of Winters, enforcement of the new control ordinance will be delayed a few days, it was announced this week.

An impoundment facility has been built at the city farm, but the city has not hired an animal control officer. The city is advertising for such a person to operate the department.

When the department is ready for operation, the licensing of dogs and pets will be done in the office which was originally used by the light plant in the street department building.

Alderman Randy Springer, who will coordinate the department for the council, said that as soon as a control officer could be hired, the department will begin operation. Meanwhile, he suggested that all persons who have dogs and animals which need vaccination prior to being licensed, have this done before applying for licenses, to save time. No licenses will be issued without the proper vaccination certificates, it was stated.

Announcement will be made as soon as the department is ready for operation, Springer said.

Blizzards Host Bluecats

Coming out of the Winters-Clyde fray with a few bruises—but no serious injuries—the Winters Blizzards go into their second game of the season Friday night, meeting the Coleman Bluecats on Blizzard Field. Kickoff at 8 p.m.

This will be one of three pre-conference games for the Blizzards, who will travel to Roscoe next week, and then get a week's layoff before meeting Stamford here the following week for the first 6-AA contest.

Coach Les Fisher, although disappointed by the loss and score in Friday night's game with Clyde, but not disappointed by the efforts of the team, said "we'll keep doing what we've been doing—and get better." He

Local Woman Injured In Auto Accident

Emily Hall, 20, of Winters, received severe injuries when the car she was driving was involved in a head-on collision with another vehicle near the intersection underpass of US 67 and US 83 on the outskirts of Ballinger Friday night.

Driver of the other car involved was Melford Eugene Mercer, 34, of Ballinger.

Ms. Hall received a broken leg, fractured ribs, and face lacerations, and is in Ballinger Memorial Hospital. Mercer received a fractured shoulder and is in a San Angelo hospital.

According to investigating officers, Ms. Hall's auto was southbound when it was struck head-on by the car driven by Mercer, who was northbound in the southbound lane. The accident occurred near the underpass and divided highway areas, about 10:40 p.m. Friday.

State Trooper Ed White investigated the accident.

said the boys' attitude has been good, and they "will continue to get established" as the season progresses.

The coach said he hopes to have Scott Hall back for Friday night's encounter with Coleman. Hall has been suffering with a severe groin pull, received in pre-season scrimmages, but is expected to be back this week.

Also, Coach Fisher said, Wayne Kraatz is expected to start as a noseguard on defense Friday night. He has been having back problems, but the coach said he has improved to the extent that plans are to field him Friday.

The coach said the team was bruised to some extent in Friday night's fight with Clyde, but not enough to keep them out of the game. "we should have everybody back for Coleman," he said.

The coach didn't anticipate major lineup changes for Friday's game with Coleman, except perhaps on the specialty teams.

COLEMAN

According to scouting reports, the Coleman Bluecats are the same old adversaries faced by the Blizzards for many years. They work from the "I" formation, and have two quarterbacks—a soph and a senior—who are good ball handlers. They would like to throw the ball, apparently, but threw only four times against Sonora in that standoff Friday night. Coach Fisher expects them to begin throwing against Winters this week.

The Bluecats make a lot of trials inside, with their tailback, a good strong runner. "We'll have to key on him," Fisher said. The Bluecats also run the veer out of the "I," and run power series off tackle. They also like to work outside with options and sweeps, and the Blizzards will be working this week to rush up on defense tactics against that type of attack.

On defense, the Bluecats use the 27 formation, and stack linebackers. Their cornerback does a good job supporting from outside, according to scouting reports, and the left linebacker makes a lot of tackles.

This game will not be for the district marbles, but a Winters-Coleman contest is always just that . . . a rivalry developed and fed through the years . . . and creates a lot of interest.

Reggie Boles Merit Semifinalist

Reginald Arle Boles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Boles, has qualified as a semi-finalist in the competition for Merit scholarships to be awarded in 1979. In order to qualify for this, Boles had to score in the top half of one percent of the state's graduating seniors taking the 1977 preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT).

Boles, a senior at Winters High School, is president of the Student Council for the second year. He is also on the varsity football team, is vice president of the Blizzard Band, and a member of the National Honor Society.

The National Merit Scholarship Corp. has announced the names of 15,000 semi-finalists in the nation in this 24th annual merit program. These academically talented students will have an opportunity to continue in the competition for about 4,100 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1979.

The 1979 competition is the 24th conducted by NMSC. In the 23 annual Merit Programs completed between 1956 and 1978, more than 54,000 students have won Merit Scholarships

Rabies Found In Skunk

Examination of the remains of a skunk killed in the back yard of the Jim Williams residence on the old Wingate Highway on the western edge of Winters showed positive rabies, it was reported this week.

Williams shot the skunk Monday of last week, and remains were sent to Austin for examination. The skunk already had a broken leg, it was said.

The rabid skunk may have come through town, and could have come in contact with pets, especially in the west part of town. Authorities warned residents to be cautious, and to watch their pets closely. Any skunk seen during the daylight hours "probably" has distemper, or more likely, rabies, it was said.

Group Concerned Over Safety Of Children

The following letter has been received from the Junior Culture Club. Because of incidents which have occurred recently—since the beginning of school—it has been deemed of great importance:

Dear Editor:
 As an organized group of concerned women in Winters, we would like to express our concern for the lack of safety measures around the school campuses. We feel that the neglect of our city to remedy these extreme shortcomings reflects badly on the city's care and concern for the safety of our children.

An immediate solution to these problems should be imminent. A delayed solution will be a gross neglect (for) the safety of every child in Winters.

We would like to recommend speed bumps on all streets crossed and bordering the school campuses. We also want to see a retired member of our community hired as a safety patrol officer at the crosswalk of Main (near the) Dairy Queen, to be on duty before and again when school is dismissed.

We do not feel that these recommendations are asking the impossible. We feel they are absolutely necessary!

The Junior Culture Club

Sub Deb Club In Md Drive

to the Winters Boy Scouts, who collected pledges, to the City of Winters for the use of the City Hall; and Mr. and Mrs. Woody Nix, who provided supplies and refreshments for club members during the 2½ hour phone vigil.

Club members participating were Cherie Krause, Kaylene McGuffin, Sherry McKnight, Tammy Terrell, Leigh Ann Hall, Debbie Nix and the club sponsor, Cindy Hatler.

KRUN

Office To Open Here

Dean Smith, president of Central West Broadcasting of Ballinger announces that an office and studio for KRUN AM-KCWB FM will soon be opened in Winters. The building at 108 North Main is currently being remodeled to accommodate a business office, which is expected to be open October 1, and a broadcast studio, which will begin operation in the next few months, allowing for the delivery of equipment.

Tentative plans call for the Winters studio to broadcast Winters/North Runnels County News, farm and school programs, and possibly some remote programs each day from the new Winters office location.

The manager of the Winters office will be Mrs. Pam Connor, who formerly worked for KRUN from 1973 to 1977. Mr. Smith stated that the purpose of opening a business office and studio in Winters is to have a closer contact with Winters area news sources and to provide service for the business advertising accounts. Construction and remodeling has been in progress about two weeks, with the formal opening and open house to be announced at a later date. Central West Broadcasting has served the Winters area with fulltime news, sports, and advertising service for the past 31 years, and is proud to continue to be a part of the Winters business community.

Five of the eight member teams of District 6-AA lost their openers Friday night against outsiders. Only Ballinger, Coahoma and Stamford came away from the football fields with first wins under their belts.

Phone Company Says Bills Will Be Lower After Oct. 1

Most Texas customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest will find decreases on their telephone bills beginning Oct. 1, according to F. E. Hightower, vice president - revenue requirements for the company.

Hightower said the Public Utilities Commission of Texas has approved the company's March request to lower extension telephone rates and to offset this revenue reduction by adopting a statewide multipart service connection charge.

The changes will result in an estimated $2,500 annual reduction in revenues. "The changes basically mean extension rates, which in the past have subsidized other services, were lowered to 85 cents for both business and residence," Hightower said. "Charges for new installation or changes of service, which have been subsidized by other services, were made uniform across the state to a level more nearly reflecting actual costs for the services and to recover the dollars lost through the extension reductions."

The vice president pointed out the net results of the changes will mean existing customers with extension telephones will share in a $2,614,560 annual revenue reduction as the result of the reduced extension rates. In addition, customers who provide their own primary telephone will receive an 85 cent per month credit.

Hightower said the extension rate reduction will become effective Oct. 1. Installation and change of service charges also will change Oct. 1. Installation of one residential telephone generally will range from a minimum of $35 to a maximum of $43. Likewise, installation of one business telephone would range from $48.65 to $59.15. For customers with existing service, changes in service charges generally will range from $7.50 to $22.75 for residence and from $7.50 to $34 for business, again depending upon the portions of the five-part service charge that are applicable to make the change or addition to the service.

However, Hightower added the new installation or change of service fees can be paid equally over a three-month period and customers will pay only for services required to establish or change service rather than paying a set fee regardless of the amount of work required.

Hightower said the PUC requested all telephone companies file plans on changes to bring tariffs in compliance with a recent Federal Communications Commission rules change. The rules changes make it possible for single line customers to purchase registered telephones from non-telephone company sources and to directly interconnect them to the phone company network.

"In addition to fulfilling the requirement of the PUC, we extended our filing to reflect a reevaluation of services and charges in light of the FCC rules change which requires competitive pricing," Hightower explained. "To offset the revenue loss by making extension charges competitive, our proposal approved by the PUC was to bring installation or change of service charges more nearly in line with actual costs and place this cost on customers benefiting from the service rather than making up the revenues through higher basic monthly service rates for all customers," Hightower said.

The company's five-part installation or change of service charge includes separate fees for: (1) paperwork in establishing records for billing, etc., associated with the account; (2) work performed to connect the customer's service to the telephone network; (3) premise visit; (4) customer initiated premise wiring, and (5) instrument handling charge.

Restraints Could Decrease Child Deaths

An injured child instinctively turns to the safety of mother's arms for protection. But in an automobile accident, even the strongest of arms are incapable of protecting a child from death and injury, warns the Texas Medical Association. Infants and children, due to their short legs and large, heavy heads, are much more likely to be thrown about the car upon impact than are adults. In a 20 m.p.h. collision, a 15 pound baby is thrown at a force equal to 300 pounds.

Automobile accidents are the leading cause of death in the U.S. for children under the age of 1 month. Approximately 1,000 children, 5 years old and under, are killed in auto accidents each year and another 100,000 are injured. Car seats and restraint devices could prevent

PUBLIC NOTICE
SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment" (H.J.R. 1)
H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homesteads of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons. If a person 65 years of age or older qualifies for this exemption, the total amount of public school taxes imposed on that person's homestead may not be increased.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons, and agricultural land; for personal property exemptions; for truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; for a redefinition of the tax base; for limitations on state spending; and for property tax administration."

NUMBER ONE (S.J.R. 50)
S.J.R. 50 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to delete an archaic reference to the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." The amendment would allow the State of Texas to purchase products and services done by handicapped individuals in nonprofit rehabilitation facilities without complying with bid requirements applicable to other state contracts. The amendment also would eliminate the formality of the approval of certain state contracts by the Governor, the Secretary of State and the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment deleting the archaic reference to the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum," allowing certain products and services of handicapped individuals to be used by agencies and departments of state government, requiring the procurement of other products and services required in the operation of state government to be made under bids awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, making all such procurement processes subject to laws enacted by the legislature, and eliminating the requirement that the Governor, the Secretary of State, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts of Texas be personally involved with such transactions."

NUMBER TWO (S.J.R. 55)
S.J.R. 55 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to permit local governments to issue bonds for the reconstruction or acquisition of facilities (land, equipment and improvements) designed to develop employment opportunities. These bonds would be payable solely from the revenue from the sale or lease of these facilities. The building or acquisition of such facilities must be determined by the local government to be necessary to develop employment opportunities.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to extend the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in civil cases."

NUMBER SIX (S.J.R. 45)
S.J.R. 45 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to expand the number of judges on any court of civil appeals. Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
 Fratis L. Duff, M.D., Commissioner

Parents should stay familiar with the revised immunization regulations adopted by the Texas Board of Health, even though school has already started.

Some new grace periods have been added for this year, and by next year at this time a history of mumps or measles must be verified by a physician. In addition, mandatory age limits for future generations will be expanded over the coming school years.

At present, children entering school in Texas must be immunized against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, measles and rubella. In September of 1979, mumps will be added to this list. All kindergartners and first graders will be required to have this vaccination.

One grade a year will be added until coverage is complete. A history of mumps in the child's medical history will exclude the child from the vaccine. This history must be verified by a physician.

As of September 1, 1978, all children between the ages of 18 months and 12 years were required to be immunized against measles. After this year, the maximum age of the child requiring immunization will be raised. Parental histories of measles will be acceptable until September 1, 1979, and after that must be verified by a physician's statement.

"Childhood diseases are an ever present danger to the health of our children even though they are not as prevalent as they were in the past," according to Euel Smith, Director of the Immunization Division of the Texas Department of Health. Smith cites the school law passed in 1971 as an important factor in disease reduction. Diphtheria cases are down from 234 in 1970 to four in 1977; measles down from 8,494 to 2,032; and rubella from 8,409 to 776.

Parents concerned about records need to keep a few things in mind. You need to have an up-to-date immunization record when your child enters school. It should be validated by a licensed physician or public health clinic.

Some new changes referring to grace periods have come about. A 45-day period is allowed for response to Form C-90 which is a note to parents concerning measles immunization. There will be a 30-day period allowed for the transfer of immunization records from one child-care facility or school to another. A polio or DTP/Td dose received during the month prior to, or of, the fourth birthday counts as a dose received on or after the fourth birthday. Last, but not least, a measles dose received during the month of the first birthday counts as a dose received on or after the first birthday.

Other immunizations those young scholars will be needing are as follows: three oral polio doses, one of which under the new regulations must be given on or after the fourth birthday. If inactivated (injectable) polio vaccine is received instead of oral polio, then four doses are required with boosters every three years.

The DTP/Td requirement will be the same as polio except that for children 12 years and older, a dose is required after the fourth birthday and within the past 10 years. Rubella, as in the past, is mandatory through age 11 years or the fifth grade.

If your child will be going to a child-care center, the requirements will be a bit more age specific. If a child is under two months of age, there is no requirement. At two to four months, a child needs to have one dose of DTP (diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis) and one dose of oral polio vaccine. At four to six months, a child needs two doses of oral polio and three shots of DTP. At six to 18 months, two doses of oral polio and three DTP's are needed. At 18 months to five years, a child should have at least three oral polio, three DTP, and one dose each of measles, rubella, and mumps vaccines. (Mumps required 9-1-79).

"It is imperative that all children be immunized. The childhood diseases have been dramatically reduced since immunizations have been enforced," emphasizes Director of Immunization Smith.

If you need further information concerning the new immunization regulations you should contact the Immunization Division of the Texas Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756. Information concerning what shots your child will need to enter school may be referred to your school district office.

Fall Brings An Increase In Pork Supplies

Not so long ago, fall marked an important and busy time for farm families. The last of the crops were gathered into barns and bins as insurance against the coming winter.

One of the major fall activities was butchering. Almost every farm family had fattened at least one steer and a hog for the winter.

Autumn brought to mind smokehouses filled with enough meat to last all winter.

Today, pork supplies increase seasonally during the fall, too, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Most baby pigs are born in the spring. They are fed all summer and reach market size in the autumn.

Reports by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service indicate pork supplies will be up 4 percent from last year. They should be 10 percent above the average pork supply of August 1975-77.

For several years, hog producers have been developing what is known as a "meat-type" hog. This animal has many characteristics that make it attractive to today's consumers.

The "meat-type" is long and lean. It yields 22 percent more protein, 57 percent less fat and 36 percent fewer calories than lard-type hogs.

Research carried out at Oklahoma State University showed that pork had less than 70 calories per cooked ounce. This is considerably less than many people believe.

An average serving of pork—3 1/2 ounces—provides an adult male with 40 percent of his daily protein requirement, 69 percent of his thiamine (vitamin B1) and considerable amounts of other vitamins and minerals, especially iron. It has less than 8% of his daily calorie allowance. These figures are based on recommended nutrient allowances by the National Research Council.

Pork has been popular on Southern tables since the earliest days of America. It was served both as a family meal and for the most festive of occasions. With all the Women's fall fashions focus on soft, touchable and layers, says Mrs. Juanita O'Connor, county extension agent.

Women's Fall Fashion Trends

Big shapes are evident with shoulder pads for a squared shoulder look of jackets, dresses, sweaters and coats.

Popular fabrics include soft crepe, challis, tweed, damask, Crepe de Chine, velour, corduroy and flannel, she points out.

Layering the new big look with last year's suit or dress provides the comfort factor needed for warmth and still retains versatility of the wardrobe.

Skirts are narrower, wrapped or with interesting waist detailing such as a higher front waist cummerbund, the agent says.

Lengths range from below the knee to mid-calf. This year's length is regulated by the proportion created with the top.

Watch for damasks or quilted silk vests worn with the big sleeve blouse.

Pants are shorter and narrower. They feature full trouser styling at the top, tapering to the ankle, she reports.

The Spencer jacket, the newest look worn with skirts, pants and vests, is short and fitted at the waist with slight shoulder pads for the squared touch, the agent explains.

BY CHARLES POE

Who but an old Texas boy would dream the impossible dream and stay with it until he made his dream come true.

This Texas boy is Alvis Jobe who had such experiences in the service from the time he was inducted into the Army at El Paso on May 27, 1941 until his discharge Oct. 23, 1945 at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, that he never forgot them nor the men with whom he served.

Immediately after his release from the service, Jobe returned to work at his welding shop in Winters, but always dreaming and planning for the time when he could retire and visit with the men from his Battalion. Many years elapsed while he worked at the forge until his retirement on Jan. 1, 1976.

From El Paso, Jobe's adventures began when he was sent to Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri for 13 weeks of basic training. He was then stationed at Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Little Rock, Ark., and sent to Ft. Ord, Calif. before leaving for Canada in the spring of 1942 with the 1st Battalion, 35th Engineer Combat Regiment for 18 months of duty on the Alcan Highway and Canal Project in Northern Canada.

The trials and hardships of those 18 months in the north woods became the topic of many a bull session in the months to come. Not a day passed without some mention of "Up on the Road." Although Jobe later spent some time in the European theatre of war, his most vivid memories were those of the Alcan Road.

"We built 375 mi. of Alcan Highway and three branch roads which covered 700 more miles," Jobe said.

"We started at Dawson Creek and went across the Peace River to Ft. St. Johns and had our headquarters at Ft. Nelson. Teslin, near Whitehorse is where we finished.

The men blazed a trail with a caterpillar tractor, one truck wide, over 360 miles. They pushed their way through the brush and trees and if they happened to hit a dead tree it would break in three pieces and the middle piece hit the driver on the head. One man was hurt in this way and later died. The first year 90% of the men took the yellow jaundice and no one knew why.

The Thaw came and the men put a pontoon bridge across the Celeto River in order to cross. They didn't know that the water came up on a six to eight foot rise everyday and this broke the pontoon in the middle, so they swung a bridge and built a permanent one across the Celeto River.

Jobe was the only trouble shooter for the 1st Battalion. He was driven out in a portable welding truck and repaired machinery on the spot. He had 24 D. 8's and 26 R. 4's to take care of.

On one of his first trips out Jobe had to go 12 miles to fix a tractor and it took 18 hours to get there. The truck ran into muskeg, decayed brush that was 30 ft. deep in places, and had to pull out with a winch line. From then on they built a corduroy road (logs laid side by side) before crossing.

There were five or six engineering units on the road besides the one Jobe was in and when the men were close enough they stopped at the unit kitchens—otherwise they had to cook their own meals. They carried their groceries. Water was boiled over a campfire in a five gallon can with the lid cut out and the cans of food were heated in the water then opened to eat. Their only bread was rations. The troops lived in tents.

Since Jobe was the only welding man they had he never got any time off. He did take a furlough in Feb. of 1942 when the road had been finished to Ft. Simpson. In June of 1943 he was sent to the hospital at Whitehorse and afterwards saw only limited service.

The 1st Battalion came back to Camp White, Oregon. Here the remaining 132 men left of the original 176 had their picture made. Jobe has this picture and he can name almost everyone of them. Half of the men went on furlough and later the other half were allowed to go.

"I got married on furlough, Jan. 31, 1944, to Lois Williams of Little Rock. I came from Oregon and she met me at Abilene," said

Jobe. "When I got back to Camp White I was never taken off limited service. They put me in charge of the Day Room while the others went out for 17 weeks training."

He was sent to Camp Shanks, New Jersey, and taught a welding school for ten weeks. His wife came and stayed with him until he was sent to England. After six weeks he was sent to Omaha Beachhead in France where the troops saw a Bob Hope show with Dinah Shore the next night after they got there.

They went across France to the Brest Peninsula. Here they gathered up 44,000 soldiers, supposed to be Germans . . . in German uniforms . . . but many of them were Russians. They were anxious to surrender and came out with their hands up, not a shot was fired. Trucks were brought in and the prisoners moved to various places.

"They finally got the Army mechanized and then General Patton ran out of gas," said Jobe.

"We went to Belgium for several weeks and moved on to Clervaux, Luxembourg and remained from September to December 1, and stayed in the vicinity until the Belgian Bulge. We were sacrifice troops.

"We went back through Clervaux after the Bulge was over. We had already crossed the Rhine where we lost 1/4 of our men. We put the infantry across the Koblenz River and moved on to Pausa, Germany. Here we stayed under command and removed guns and knives from the homes so that the citizens couldn't kill us."

"When this was over we went back to Salsburg to build a bridge and then headed to the Elbe River. While in convoy we were stopped. The war was over! We went back to Pausa for several weeks before going to Marseilles, France to be shipped home. I had to wait my turn and stayed there 7 weeks before leaving on the 4th of September.

"Came back to Camp Kilmer, caught a train and headed home. I went by Little Rock and picked up my wife and came to Winters, bought a house and lived in it 9 1/2 years before moving to the farm where I've been for 23 years," Jobe concluded.

Next week: The search begins.

Counselors Play Big Part In Students' Decisions

Will it be education or vocation after graduation?

An answer to that question and the subsequent planning for either school or job are facing Winters High School students, especially juniors and seniors, as they begin the 1978-79 school year.

Guidance counselors, parents, friends, and a national service called the ACT Assessment Program will play important roles in that decision-making and planning for many of the students.

Designed to provide extensive guidance information for education and career planning, the well known and widely used ACT Assessment Program is recommended for use by student applicants at nearly 2,700 colleges, universities, and scholarship programs.

Winters High School students will have five opportunities during the 1978-79 school year to make use of the national program, which consists of four tests and a two-part questionnaire. Students complete the questionnaire at home as part of the program's registration process, and then take the battery of tests at area test centers on any of five weekend national test dates, said Mrs. Lee Harrison, counselor.

The five 1978-79 national test dates (and corresponding registration periods) are: October 21, 1978; December 9, 1978; February 10, 1979; April 7, 1979; June 23, 1979.

At area test centers on those five dates it takes students about three hours to complete the ACT Assessment's four exams covering subject areas of English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. The October test only will be given in Winters. Other tests will be administered at colleges in Abilene or San Angelo.

Mrs. Harrison said the test scores provide an assessment of general educational development and the questionnaire section information focuses on academic and nonacademic accomplishments and interests, anticipated needs, as well as career and educational in-

In addition to being used by students and their high school counselors, the extensive information provided by the ACT Assessment is also used by colleges for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. The student's ACT Assessment reports are sent to only those colleges specifically designated by the respective students.

One of several educational services provided by The American College Training Program (ACT), the ACT Assessment Program is used each year by more than 900,000 students as part of their education and career planning.

director of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, will be the principal speaker. Spencer will speak at 12:30 p.m.

Guided tours will be conducted through the 90-acre center from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. The center is located on FM 1292, 2 miles north and 2 1/2 miles west of Knox City.

A barbecue lunch will be available on a prepaid basis at $3.00 per plate. Payment should be sent to Ms. Doris Crowmover, Chamber of Commerce, Box 91, Knox City, Texas 79529 by September 15.

Seed or rootstock from native plants that show potential for solving specific soil and water conservation problems are collected, then grown and evaluated at the Knox City Center. The more promising ones are then tested under field conditions on farms of soil and water conservation district cooperators under a wide variety of conditions. Selections which prove superior to commercial varieties are then released to seed growers. These producers then grow seed and sell it to the public.

About 9,000 pounds of seed were produced at the center last year, mostly for trial plantings across Texas and Oklahoma. Some 5,000 woody plant seedlings were also produced as well as 250,000 rhizomes of plants that have to be propagated by planting underground shoots.

Two new plant varieties—'Alamo' switchgrass and 'Aztec' Maximilian sunflower—were certified and released earlier this year as a result of work done at the center.

Krueger Co-Sponsoring Amendment To Balance Budget By '83

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger Friday, August 25, announced his decision to sponsor H.J. Res. 130, a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget within five years and total payment of the national debt in installments during the succeeding twenty years. "This 'Payment Book Amendment' can accomplish what the Congress has failed to do, setting a firm deadline for a balanced federal budget and paying off the national debt," Krueger said in a statement released from his Washington office.

This is not the first Krueger effort to reduce government spending. In May of this year, Krueger sponsored an amendment to the First Concurrent Budget Resolution which would have cut the federal deficit by $7 billion.

"The facts tell us that as the total national debt has increased to more than $800 billion in 1978, unemployment has risen, economic growth has dropped and inflation has run wild," Krueger said. "H.J. Res. 130 will provide us with an effective means of limiting inflation by phasing in a balanced budget over the next five years, and by requiring a definite program for retirement of the federal debt."

Krueger indicated that his experiences in Congress had led him to doubt Congress' ability to deal with increased federal spending on a program-by-program basis, leaving a constitutionally-mandated cut, such as H.J. Res. 130 requires, the only effective remedy for ever-larger budget deficits and runaway inflation.

Cattle Numbers Continue Decline

Cattlemen across the nation are continuing to reduce their herds, but some signs point toward a buildup by next year.

Dr. Edward Uvacek, Jr., livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, notes that recently reported lower cattle numbers mean producers are still in the liquidation phase of the

Limit Taxes And Government Spending

Determining economic policy in a financial world as complex as ours is a task not easily accomplished by even the most astute economists.

The business community, at one time, enjoyed freedom from governmental interference and our free enterprise system, for the most part, fostered a healthy and vigorous financial system in which prices changed only moderately from year to year, wage increases were geared primarily to merit and seniority, and profit margins were predictable.

Today, our nation's staggering rate of inflation, hearty demands by some labor groups, excessive price escalation by some large corporations, and constantly fluctuating profit formulas challenge not only the expertise of corporate America as well as the small businessperson, but also impact the average wage-earner in a very substantial way.

However, in 1978 a new "economic philosophy" has been offered—this time not by the politicians or so-called economic experts, but instead, by the people—a move I, for one, applaud.

The excitement of the people of California in passing Proposition 13 has triggered additional interest in economics and in our systems of taxation and government spending. A subject area that would have bored much of America in more constant times is now a common dinner table topic.

The merits and demerits of Proposition 13 will be debated and may not be particularly obvious for years to come. Recently backers of the Kemp-Roth legislative action hailed it as the answer to the problems of Middle America. However, what Kemp-Roth failed to include with their cut in federal taxes was a limitation of government spending.

As any fiscal conservative knows, our long-term economic stability relies heavily upon a realistic balance between supply and demand. When supply exceeds demand, an economic slowdown is imminent (note the severe recessions in the early '70s). When demand greatly exceeds supply, a rapid rise in inflation normally occurs.

Total cattle and calf inventories on July 1 were 7 percent below a year ago while beef cows were down 9 percent. The specialist says beef cow replacement heifers were also down sharply, but nine states reported an increase in such heifers and one had no change from last year.

"This, in itself, might be signaling a somewhat different attitude among cattlemen and may point toward a buildup by next year," contends Uvacek. "Thus it appears cattle production is ending the old cycle which began in 1967. If this prediction is correct, cattle numbers should increase during the next few years."

"This new buildup, however, may be extremely rapid and somewhat shortened," believes the marketing specialist. "I look for another peak in numbers by 1985 or 1986."

Uvacek says the calving rate is still extremely low. The 1978 calf crop is estimated to be 4 percent smaller and come from 7 percent fewer beef cows. Of course, this calf crop number is only a preliminary figure and will be finalized at the end of the year.

Feeder cattle and calves available for feedlots in the second half of this year are also down compared with a year ago. The specialist points out that while the feedlot demand probably won't continue at its present rate, these reduced supplies should still keep feeder prices favorable.

similar goals, an amendment that would have contained federal spending at its current level (except in a few essential areas) and would have diminished the federal deficit by $7 billion.

A tax cut is essential—but also essential is a cut in government spending.

Policy Outlined For Publication of Wedding Stories, Pics

Because of limited space and the costs involved, the following policy is in effect regarding publication of wedding stories and pictures in The Enterprise. This policy will also govern publication of articles on anniversaries and other similar events.

—Wedding information, along with pictures, must be received no later than Friday of the week prior to the week of publication. In most instances, this information, and pictures are available prior to the wedding date. It is our desire to publish the story and pictures in the issue immediately following the event.

—Simple details only, and no pictures, will be published in the second issue following the event. No wedding or anniversary story will be published in the third issue following the event.

—Only the main facts of the events will be published, and no pictures will be printed, for weddings or anniversary celebrations which take place out of town, except for immediate former residents, such as students, whose parents still reside in the area. Pictures of nieces, nephews, grandchildren, and other relatives, who have never lived in the area will not be published. Only short notices of the events will be published, and then no later than the second issue following the event.

—We solicit pictures of local weddings and anniversary celebrations, and will hold the original pictures for only one week following date of publication. We cannot return pictures by mail unless a stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies the picture.

—For weddings, we will publish only one picture. If an engagement picture is published, there will be no wedding picture published.
