Icy Hand of Winter...

Old Man Winter gripped the Big Country in icy fingers over the weekend, to put an emphasis on closing out the old year and ushering in the new. Freezing rain and sleet was dumped on the area—along with many other parts of the state—paralyzing traffic and putting a damper on most New Year activities.

The freezing rain and sleet hit North Runnels and Winters early Saturday night, and continued through the night into Sunday, and then some snow and a little more freezing moisture fell Monday.

Temperatures dropped to an official 6 degrees, registered Jan. 1. Although some reports indicated a lower temperature—sub-zero—the official reading, taken by Roy Rice, who is the official weather reporter for the Weather Bureau for Winters, was 6 degrees.

Rice said a total of .24 inches of moisture resulted from the freezing rain and sleet during a four-day period, beginning Dec. 29 through Jan. 1.

Icy conditions throughout the Big Country tied up traffic in most places, and cut holiday travel to almost nothing. Only a few vehicles were on the roads and highways, and those under dangerous conditions. Many reports of cars and trucks skidding off the roads were received during the two-day New Year's period. There were no injuries reported, although reports indicated quite a bit of damage done to vehicles. In Winters proper, traffic was at a virtual standstill, with only a few cars moving about Sunday and Monday. Streets became a little more clear late Monday afternoon, but conditions continued to be hazardous through Tuesday, and were expected to create some difficulty through Tuesday night and into Wednesday, as ice melted some Tuesday and then froze again in the night.

Street Department crews in Winters began Sunday to spread sand at some intersections downtown, to provide some mark of safety to those who had to drive. Sand also was spread Tuesday morning in some places in Winters.

Many stockmen had difficulty reaching livestock during the two-day period, to break ice and to feed animals. There have been no reports of extensive losses, however.

Stock Show Jan. 7-8

One of the biggest in its category, and most popular, livestock shows in the area will be staged Sunday and Monday in Winters, as the annual Winters Junior Livestock Show gets underway.

The annual show, for FFA and 4-H members within the Winters Independent School District, will begin Sunday afternoon with the lamb show. Cattle, swine and poultry will be shown and judged Monday. The show will be in the school livestock show barn north of the school.

The Junior Livestock Show is sponsored by the Winters Livestock Assn. The association has allotted $1851 to be used to pay judges, purchase ribbons, and for other expenses related to the show.

Additional money for cash awards has been raised by the Agriculture Committee of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, through a sale of "shares" in the show, to businesses and individuals in the area. "Shares" sell for $10 each, and this system has been used for a number of years to replace an old custom of auctioning off animals entered in the show. Edna England, chamber secretary/manager, said that as of noon Tuesday, a total of $2,250 had been collected to pay exhibit prize money, and some additional is expected before the show this weekend.

This year, according to spokesmen for the Livestock Assn., there will be more money for individual animals than has been paid in the past.

BARBECUE SUNDAY

The Livestock Assn. will sponsor a barbecue dinner Sunday, to be held at the Winters Community Center, prior to the lamb show which will begin in the afternoon. Cost for the dinner will be $3 per person.

At last count, entries in the annual

Junior Livestock Show included:

- 107 lambs
- 71 swine
- 13 steers
- 20 capons and rabbits

Entries were closed early in December.

SUPERINTENDENTS

The following persons have been appointed superintendents and assistants for the show and divisions:

Superintendent of Show: R. Q. Marks; E. B. Hope, assistant superintendent.

Steers: B. J. Colburn; Raymond Schwartz, assistant.

Hogs: Joe Pritchard; Richard Schwartz, assistant.

Sheep: Hollis Dean; R. T. O'Dell, assistant.

Chickens and rabbits: Frank Carter.

December Was Cold!

Roy Rice, official weather observer for Winters, reports that there were many days in December, 1978, which were cold, cold, cold.

For the month, Rice said, there were 20 days when the temperature registered below freezing. The lowest was Dec. 9-10, when the mercury dropped to 13 degrees.

First 1979 Baby In NR Hospital

Angela Marie Jeter, who will live in Coleman, made her appearance at 9:09 a.m., Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1979, the first baby in 1979 to be born in North Runnels Hospital, Winters.

Miss Jeter, who weighed 7 pounds 13 1/4 ounces, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jeter of Coleman.

Dr. W. J. Lee was the attending doctor.

RR Hearing Not For Closing

A meeting scheduled by the Texas Railroad Commission, in Abilene next Monday, Jan. 8, during which the Abilene & Southern Railway will be discussed, will be for the purpose of obtaining additional information on the economic impact of the railroad on the area served, and to receive comments from the public, and will not deal with any idea of abandonment of the line, according to information received from the Railroad Commission last week.

Earlier reports had hinted that the meeting, which had been publicized, would deal with requests by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. to abandon the line from Abilene to Winters. This was a misunderstanding on the part of some parties, it was learned. The Missouri Pacific had, more than two years ago, applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to close and abandon the line. However, in subsequent hearings by a federal law judge, the application was refused.

Next Monday's meeting, which will be held in the Committee Room of the First National Bank in Abilene, at 7 p.m., will be for the purpose of receiving comments from the public on "draft economic analysis of railroad line segments which have been designated for possible abandonment by railroad companies operating in Texas," according to information from the Railroad Commission. Studies have been conducted by the Railroad Commission in accordance with federal guidelines, and many railroad lines are affected.

Winters Keeps On Growing...

Faith in the future economic stability of Winters and the area, and expectations of continued growth, is evidenced in expansion steps taken by at least two Winters Industries.

Winters Welding Works is working on a new shop building, across the highway from the original shop, on Hwy. 83 south of town. The metal building, shown at the left below, will provide 11,484 square feet of working space for the manufacture of oil field equipment, and various other activities engaged in by the company. The building is expected to be completed by summer.

On the right below, is the new building being raised by Jedd Manufacturing Co., on North Main St.

The 40x100 metal building will be covered with sheet metal and insulation, with skylights in the roof, and will have evaporative cooling. The company manufactures utility trailers, and does major repair work on stock trailers and other types of trailers. James West, president of the company said construction work is being done by company employees.

CHRISTMAS MEMORIES

Rachel Seldon was feted with a birthday brunch Wednesday morning at the Senior Citizens Nursing Home. Billie Whitlow's specialty of rosetta, a Swedish confection, was served with coffee and juice.

Mrs. Whitlow paid tribute to those with birthdays this month (December) who were unable to attend. They were Nola Cooke and Ruby Carter. Also Cordie Kirby who expired on the 25th before her 99th birthday on the 31st.

Mrs. Kirby, the former Cordie Crow of Bradshaw, was the fourth person to enter the nursing home long before the new building was constructed. She was an avid reader and kept up with history as well as living much of it. Her husband, Sam Kirby, was appointed a special deputy sheriff of Taylor County by Sheriff Sid H. McAdams on Feb. 16, 1937. Then in March he was commissioned Constable of Precinct No. 4, Taylor County by James V. Allred, Governor of Texas.

The program for the brunch included singing "Happy Birthday" and special music by a trio: Darlene Sims, Patsy Rogers and Rev. Fred Thomas. Others who assisted with group singing were Mrs. Fred Thomas and Pat Russell. Rev. Thomas also spoke on three important dates, the physical, spiritual and eternal birthdays.

A surprise for the honoree was introduced with the words "Birthdays are like rose petals pressed in a jar. The more you have the sweeter they are." And the more beautiful memories you have.

Memories of last year's birthday party were presented from a tape recording of a debate on the subject, "It is better to be born the day before Christmas than a day after," by Mattie Cooke who was born Dec. 25, and Rachel whose birthday is Dec. 27.

"If I were a preacher I'd take for my text 'Anticipation is greater than participation,' which means it's greater to think about it in advance—I guess you knew that.

"I'd like to divide this thesis into three divisions. First, a prologue, then the spiritual and the economic side.

"In the prologue I'd like to tell you I was eight years old when I looked at the family Bible one day and discovered that there wasn't a Mattie Cooke in the family and I was very disappointed. My name happens to be Martha Cooke and that's what it is in the family Bible. I also found out that I wasn't a day older than Jesus. My birthday is the day before his and I thought I was a day older than Jesus, but my Bible says that 'Jesus was, is and always will be.' Well, I wasn't, I is, but I don't expect to be always. Something tells me I'm not.

"Ever since I can remember we've had a Christmas tree. Mother decided we put too much stress on Christmas when she asked my oldest niece, Nita, who was then 14 years old, why we had the Christmas tree and she replied, 'Because it's Aunt Mat's birthday.' So that night we started the custom of having the Christmas story read from the Bible before any of the packages were opened, and we've done it ever since, stressing the spiritual side of Christmas for us. Christ's birthday is why we have it. Have you wrapped your package for Christ's birthday yet? It should be the most important gift that you give. That's the spiritual side of it for me. Now let's get to the economical side.

"I have two sisters. One is eight years older than I am and the other is ten years older . . . and you talk about wearing hand-me-downs. I wore them until I got too big for them because both my sisters were slender. I have one sister who doesn't weigh a hundred pounds. We don't look much alike. And so, from the clothes standpoint it wasn't very economical. But I had a bed in their room and I could sleep on a single bed—correct that—I had a folding bed that I had to unfold and fix every night. We had a parlor with nice, slick matting on the floor but we didn't get to play in the parlor. Mother wove a rug for the family room, which was much larger than the other rooms, and it had a big fireplace. And we'd burn wood that the boys had chopped and brought in.

"I was born as primitively and as modern as anybody else at that time. There was a bed in that room, Mother and Dad's room, and a Christmas tree and six other kids. About 2 o'clock, it was a warm afternoon, here I made my appearance . . . gave them a living, squirming little doll for the Christmas tree. I don't know how they ever loved me for breaking up their party like I did—but that happened.

"Now, economically, I lived with the other sisters, but the economy has gone too far. I get a package, I got one this morning through the mail, which says 'Merry Christmas and Happy Birthday,' and that's the way they every one are fixed—so it's spiritually good for me and economically good for everybody else."

Rachel Seldon speaks:

"I think there's some advantages to being born a day after Christmas and there are some bad things about it. The good thing about it is you don't have to plan a Christmas dinner because I wasn't there. The family had it just before I got there so I just let them keep on doing it—I don't do it yet.

"The bad thing is, though—I'm just like Mattie—I never get a Christmas present. I get them both together—they give us just one thing regardless . . .

"Then getting here after Christmas, I didn't have to come down the chimney or be brought in a sack. I don't know how I did get here, but I did get here, and I don't think I came down the chimney.

"I know that I was a beautiful baby and a sweet little thing because my little brother, the one next to me, thought I was so pretty when I was born. He looked at me and said, 'Oh, mother, isn't her as booty. Let's call her Booty.' And I think that's how I got my name. They later shortened it to 'Boots'."

Rebuttal: Miss Cooke, "I'd like to ask my opponent, did she have an incubator and a pacifier and a nurse and pampers?"

"My mother was a nurse, and I'm sure I had pampers—because she had flour sacks," Rachel answered.

"I'll just bet, and took your temperature every few minutes. How often did she sterilize the bottles?"

"Oh, I was a breast baby. We didn't sterilize breasts."

The debate ended in a roar of laughter and was declared a tie with both contestants being presented awards of Christmas candles.

Eating rare ground meat is risky because the grinding process results in many surfaces on which bacteria may grow, warns a foods and nutrition specialist.

Frequent handling during preparation causes active bacteria growth if proper sanitation is not practiced, says Marilyn Haggard with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When selecting mass-produced furniture, avoid anything that claims to be what it's not, advises Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

CONSUMER FOOD NEWS

Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include several fresh fruit and fresh vegetable items.

Also, scattered "specials" offer budget buys, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dennis McBeth Transferred To Midland

Dennis H. McBeth, who has been with the Midcontinent Division, Exxon Company, has been promoted from maintenance specialist to drilling technician and transferred from the Bateman area, Midland District, to the drilling organization, Midland.

He joined the company in the Bateman area in February, 1978.

McBeth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester McBeth, is a graduate of Winters High School, and holds a BS degree in agriculture economics from West Texas State University.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank each one for the visits, flowers, cards and food while I was in the hospital, and since I have returned home. A special thanks to Bro. Tribble, neighbors and friends, and to Dr. Rives for services rendered. May God bless you. —Mrs. Julia Hinds. 43-1tnc.

IN EOFF HOME

Those visiting Mrs. Ted Eoff during the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Brad Winchester of Copperas Cove; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chism, Jill and Brad of Denton; Jo Nell Chism of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dumas and James of Midland and Donna Dumas of Lubbock.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

FRESH FRUITS—Apples are in excellent supply due to the vintage crop this fall and prices are moderate.

Grapefruit by-the-bag or by-the-pound is a first-rate choice—quality- and price-wise. Liberal supplies of tangerines and tangelos are available, too.

FRESH VEGETABLES—Yellow vegetables—carrots, rutabagas and squash—wear attractive price tags. Also, cabbage, broccoli, dry yellow onions and sweet potatoes.

Potatoes are in plentiful supply and many stores are featuring them at attractive prices.

GROCERY AISLES—Specials are scattered with primary emphasis on a variety of canned fruits and vegetables, sugar and canned tuna fish.

POULTRY—Egg prices continue to creep upward.

Turkey prices are higher than at Thanksgiving. Fryer chickens offer a less-costly alternative to turkey.

DAIRY—Skim milk, sour cream and a variety of cheeses are receiving emphasis.

BEEF—Meat prices continue a gradual increase. Some markets feature beef chuck cuts, ground beef and beef liver.

PORK—Several stores offer quarter-loin cut into chops, rib- and loin-end roast values.

Other suggestions are canned hams, along with bacon and roll sausage.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Serve baked potatoes as the main course. Offer several condiments—curry sauce, sour cream, grated cheese or yogurt—to have a delicious entree.

Don't use good knives to cut string or wire or as screw drivers or levers, advises Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The Rev. Vermillion gave the Christmas devotional.

Gifts were exchanged, and refreshments were served. Ladies of the church provided the pies.

County Child Welfare Board Discusses Child Abuse

Discussions on various ways of promoting an awareness of the extent of child abuse, and the current program for prevention, were held during a meeting of the Runnels County Child Welfare Board in Ballinger in December.

Also, members of the board discussed information which could be made available on becoming a foster parent. Suggestions were made to offer programs to local clubs, in local school homemaking classes, and to form groups of volunteers to help in homes where child neglect is apparent, according to members of the board.

J. B. McGuire explained the county's participation in the Child Welfare Program. It was pointed out that Runnels County does not fund the program annually, but in March 1975 disbursed $2,000 for the program, and in 1976, because it was said the state was slow in making state payments, the county again disbursed $1,000. It was stated at the meeting that the state is approximately $2,800 behind in payments for foster children.

Pointing out the problems of child abuse, members of the board were given a "Child Abuse Hotline Number—1-800-292-5000—to be used by the public if needed.

At the meeting were Nadine Bedford, chairperson; and board members, J. B. McGuire, Bonnie Hood, Shirley Hall, Mrs. H. H. Wagner, Pam Connor, and Linda Stubblefield. Also present were Janie Parker and Linda Cowart of San Angelo.

Care and safety tips for kitchen appliances

Chances are that once the flurry of wedding activities are over, you'll realize you are now the owner of a multitude of portable kitchen appliances.

These appliances will offer you many conveniences and save you valuable time and energy, if you use them safely and care for them properly.

To help keep your new kitchen appliances sparkling clean and in good working condition, follow these suggestions:

• A clean appliance will usually operate more efficiently than a dirty one; be sure to read the manufacturer's instructions for any special cleaning directions.

To quickly and effectively clean smudges, fingerprints and everyday dust and soil, keep a bottle of Glass® Plus® glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner handy.

Just spray this versatile cleaner on washable surfaces—refrigerator, countertops, glass, plastic, chrome and unplugged small electrical appliances—and wipe with a paper towel or lint-free cloth.

• Immediately repair or replace any frayed electrical cords, faulty plugs, or otherwise damaged equipment before using in electrical appliance.

To avoid receiving shocks from safe, well-kept electrical appliances, be sure to keep the floor and countertops around them dry.

Also, unplug any electrical appliance, such as steam irons and coffee percolators, before filling with water.

RR Hearing Not For Abandonment

designated by the Governor to develop a state rail plan, and information from this meeting, and others of like nature, will be used to record a complete analysis of the railroad community. The Railroad Commission already has a draft of a "rail plan" which includes the Abilene Southern line, and Monday's meeting will be used to correct any errors and to provide additional information to show the situation as clearly as possible, it was learned. Affected communities and users of rail freight transportation will be provided an opportunity to correct errors of fact or interpretation which might appear in the drafts. Information included in the drafts of the state "rail plan" will be used if an when a railroad company applies for permission to abandon any line, it was indicated. Railroad companies have, under Federal law, predetermined periods of time when they can announce intention of filing for permits to close or abandon lines or segments of lines, it was understood.

Local TV Weather Computerized

If you're on cable television, and have been a little confused—and possibly a bit irritated—because the local weather and time information has not been appearing on Channel 3 in the format which has been used for the past three years, take heart . . . you're still getting the local weather information.

Within the past few weeks, Texas Cablevision retired the old and familiar weather machine made up of dials and meters and a black and white camera. They have gone modern for the cable subscribers in Winters with a three-color display on the weather channel. Not only is it a weather channel, but a news channel with news from United Press International. In the very near future, the weather forecast for the Winters area will also be added. Units similar to the one recently installed for Winters customers have been in use in Ballinger and San Angelo for a number of years.

In the blue area of the TV screen will be UPI news, which is constantly updated as news stories develop.

On the bottom part of the screen, colored green, will be the latest meteorological information gathered by sensing devices and a miniature computer at the cablevision tower on Charles St. in Winters. The information provided in the green area includes the day, date, month, and the current time. Two items of data are displayed for five to six seconds. In all, five displays are offered covering current temperature, the high and low temperatures of the day, winds and direction, as well as the highest wind speed for each given hour. Humidity and barometric pressure are also a part of the display.

In the near future, according to Frank Settle, general manager for Texas Cablevision, the red area at the top of the TV screen will feature the regional weather forecast for Winters and the surrounding area. The National Weather Service Center near Dallas updates this weather forecast approximately three times each day.

Hostesses will be Melvina Gerhart, Rhea Parramore and Linda Priddy.

All members and visitors are invited to attend this program and meeting.

Wall Groupings Create Interest

Create an interesting wall grouping by combining several small unrelated objects, suggests a housing and home furnishings specialist, Sue Young.

Select accessories the right size and shape for the space the grouping will occupy.

Also, it should harmonize with the room furnishings so it appears to "belong" to the room setting.

Mrs. Young is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Locate the center of interest at eye level, she recommends.

Of course, eye level depends on location—people will view the grouping while standing in a hallway and while sitting in a living room.

As a rule, in a living room the lower edge of picture frames which hang over a sofa should come within six to eight inches of the sofa top, the specialist continues.

Place groupings over or near a piece of furniture unless it is large or important enough to stand alone.

Relate the grouping to architectural and furniture lines.

Zesty Roquefort dressing adds zip to all your salads

One of the challenges for the beginning cook is turning out meals with a gourmet touch without spending hours fussing with tricky sauces and elaborate garnishes.

A truly excellent salad made with only the freshest ingredients and coated with a tangy, homemade dressing can add prestige to a simple broiled steak and baked potato dinner.

The salad greens must be thoroughly washed and dried, using either a traditional wire colander or one of the newer spin-and-dry salad baskets.

Combine and contrast Since most gourmards think very little of iceberg lettuce, try a combination of other salad greens—romaine, chicory, bibb, Boston and spinach—for contrasts in flavor and color.

What goes into the salad besides greens? Thin slices of fresh or marinated mushrooms, slivers of red onion and homemade croutons add crunch and flavor. Tomatoes should not be added until the salad is about to be served since they wet the greens.

Roquefort cheese, in a homemade creamy, French or sharp wine-and-vinegar dressing, is another gourmet touch.

When buying Roquefort, always look for the Red Sheep Seal, a guarantee that it's Roquefort. Store the cheese, wrapped in foil or plastic wrap, in the refrigerator—never in the freezer.

Prepare in advance

The dressings can be made ahead and stored in the refrigerator, but the flavor is richer if the dressing is served at room temperature.

Life Success Depends On Self-Image

Success in today's world depends on a strong sense of self-worth, says a family life education specialist.

Two skills create self-worth: the ability to accept being the person you are and to feel good about yourself, Dorothy Taylor explains.

Miss Taylor is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

SELF-IMAGE—A TWO-WAY 'MIRROR'

How a person sees himself mainly depends on how others see him, respond to him, feel about him and interact with him.

Likewise, his self-image greatly determines how he approaches others or responds to them.

FAMILY TEACHES SELF-WORTH

People learn self-worth—they are born knowing nothing about their own worth.

Parents—and other family members—teach children self-worth.

Self-esteem starts with the parents' own self concept. Parents with high self-esteem usually have little difficulty finding good things about their children.

Below are guidelines for teaching—and for learning—self worth:

—be genuinely interested and concerned about each individual

—accept a person without condition

—recognize one's successes, even little ones

—give sincere praise

—be open, warm and affectionate —show a person that you like being with him, that he is missed during an absence

—recognize the special interests, skills, talents—and attitudes of every person

—be fair and be consistent. AVOID SELF-IMAGE 'HURTS'

A child's self-image suffers when parents or adults set standards too high to reach, when they ridicule or when they compare and criticize.
