TO BE OFFICE—This building, moved in from Goldthwaite, will be used as the Winters office of the Heart O' Texas Savings Assn. Moved in last week, the building is located on the lot just north of Winn's Variety, and will face east onto the parking lot of Winn's and Piggly Wiggly. The building will be remodeled, and a grand opening will be held in a few weeks, it was understood.

City Applies For EPA Funds For Waste Water

Final paper work was completed Monday night by the Winters City Council for a project which has been in the planning stage and on the drawing board for about six years, but which appears to be close to a reality.

City officials completed filling out application forms applying for a grant from the Environmental Protective Agency to build an entirely new waste water treatment plant. Planning and study on this project began about six years ago when state agencies told the city something must be done to remedy a bad situation at the present waste water treatment plant.

Cost of the project will be about $436,289, with the city to provide 25 percent and a grant from the EPA for 75 percent. The city would sell revenue bonds to cover its part of the cost, the mayor said.

Billy Jacob, of Yeatts & Decker, engineers from Abilene, has been working with the city on the project for several years, and will draw up final plans.

City officials said an increase of about $1 per month in sewer charges would be necessary to pay off the bond for the project.

Jacob told the city council Monday night that the city now has a high priority, and should be able to get the EPA grant within a few months.

The new system would allow clear water to drain into Bluff Creek, or to be used for irrigation, Jacob said.

S. S. Rep Sets

Visits In March

Garland Gregg, representative of the San Angelo Social Security office, has scheduled his March visits to Winters, on March 12 and March 26, at the office of the Winters Housing Authority, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.

Anyone who wishes to file claims for benefits, obtain information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration, may contact Gregg during his scheduled visits.

Elderly May

Get Help To

Pay Utility Bills

Central Texas Opportunities, Inc., has received a small grant to help elderly citizens, 60 years of age or over, pay their utility bills, and other emergency bills, it was announced this week by the Winters Multi-Purpose Center.

To qualify, applicants must not have received assistance last year, must be over 60 years of age living on a limited income, and must furnish proof of income.

Applications and additional information can be obtained by contacting Lillian Awalt at the Multi-Purpose Center, 142 W. Dale.

School Officials Return From National Meet

Three members of the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District, the superintendent of schools, and the high school principal, have returned from New Orleans, where they attended the annual national meeting of the American Assn. of School Administrators, held last week.

Attending the meeting were board members Roscoe Morrison, Billy J. Colburn and Delbert Kruse; Superintendent of Schools Tommy Lancaster and High School Principal Mike Grantham.

The Winters school district representatives attended small group meetings and clinics, where discussions were on energy consumption and conservation, testing, public relations, and learning leadership.

End of An Era—

Old Press Goes To Scrap

All present were aware of an air of sadness around the newspaper office last week, as an old press, which had served The Winters Enterprise without mishap for many years, was torn down and moved out—forever. The feeling was there because of the long and interesting history of the press, which had been located in at least two other newspaper plants before it was installed in Winters.

For the press, it was the end of the trail. The old ways must give way to the new ways . . . or else, the stoneage would have continued forever. The press was used to print newspapers by the letterpress method—from type, which was molded and inked. But this method is being used in very few places now—especially the weekly newspaper field. The offset process is now used for most every newspaper, and central plants with big presses take the place of many scattered smaller presses throughout the country. The Enterprise is now printed by the offset method—the type is set photographically in the Winters office, and then the newspaper is printed by offset in Sweetwater. So there no longer was a need for the old letterpress press.

The old press, a Model A Duplex, was manufactured sometime in the early 1930s, so far as can be determined. According to the best information which could be obtained, the press was installed in The Victoria Advocate, and was there until at least 1938. Ironically, if this history is correct, R. C. Thomas, now publisher of the Enterprise, worked next to this press in early 1938, when he spent a few weeks in Victoria. Then, so the story goes, it was moved to Paris, Tex., where it was operated until the late 1950s.

In October, 1963, the late George R. Hill and R. C. Thomas purchased the press from an equipment company, and it was moved into the Enterprise shop. It took the place of an old drum cylinder press, which had to be fed by hand. The Duplex was a step up, because paper was fed in to it from a big roll, and was printed on each side at the same time, and left the press folded and ready for delivery.

Roy Rice of Winters, who was associated with the Enterprise for about 18 years, also operated the Duplex; he is now in the ad composing room of the Abilene Reporter-News.

The tearing down of the old press was truly the end of an era . . . because there are few people in the weekly newspaper field these days who would be able to operate it . . . and within a very short time, such a piece of equipment will be an antique piece. But, to one who has been close to the old press for so many years . . . it was like losing an old friend, to see it go.

Three City Offices Seek Candidates

With only a few days left before the filing deadline, there still are no announced candidates for the three vacancies on the Winters City Council, to be filled in the April 7 city election.

Aldermen A. L. Scates and Earl Roach Monday night said they definitely would not be candidates for re-election. Mayor Homer Hodge had announced some time ago he would not be a candidate for return to office. Terms of office for the mayor and aldermen are two years.

By Tuesday of this week, no filings had been made with the City Secretary. It was understood that several persons had been approached by groups and individuals within the past few days, urging them to become candidates, but no announcement has been forthcoming.

Persons elected to the three vacancies will be faced with the task of continuing or completing many projects now underway. Foremost among them is the completion of plans to acquire additional water supplies for Winters and North Runnels. Applications have already been made for permits for additional water, and city officials, along with engineers, will meet with the State Water Commission this week to determine if the permits will be issued. Following the approval of permits, which is expected, the city then will apply for loans and grants from state and federal agencies to finance the dam and reservoir project, which is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $4 million. Also, the city is in process of applying for a grant to completely rebuild the waste water treatment plant, a project which has been under study and planning for about six years, and apparently is reaching the final planning stages at this time.

C-C Banquet Friday Night

John D. "Jack" Jackson, of Hurst, will be the guest speaker at the annual membership banquet of the Winters Chamber of Commerce, to be held in the school cafeteria Saturday evening, Feb. 24.

The "Citizen of the Year" is chosen each year by a secret committee named by the president of the Chamber of Commerce.

At the banquet, incoming directors, who were elected in December, will be introduced, and retiring directors and those who have another year in office, will be recognized.

GREATER PROSPERITY

Time rolled on again, and the pale faces conceived the idea of using the water from these wells to assist nature in the growing of their small gardens from whence came their vegetables. Little ditches were run out from the great tanks which carried the water in rivulets down the rows where were planted a few potatoes, onions, beans and sweet corn. The effect was magical. The plants spread out their leaves in a dark, rich green, and produced abundantly.

Again the Great Spirit whispered to these new settlers, and he said, "If you will dig yet deeper you will find more water, yea even greater than you can possibly imagine." So the pale faced people sent some of their folks again into the east where civilization was greater, and they brought back with them huge machines capable of digging into the ground, and so it was done. As these great machines bit their way into the loose rich soil they found it even so as the Great Spirit had whispered, for they finally went down to a depth where the water became so abundant it could not be kept down, and man

LVNs Attend State Meet In Austin

Several members of Div. 58, Licensed Vocational Nurses Assn. of Texas, plan to attend the statewide seminar to be held in Austin Feb. 23-24.

From the local division will be Mrs. Martha McAlister, Div. 58 president; Mrs. Marie Mills, state secretary; Mrs. Lois Dismore, Div. 58 secretary; Christine Murchison, Div. 58 program chairman; and Marlene Vaughn, Div. 58 CERP chairman.

Faculty members from Austin Diagnostic Clinic Nephrology Section will be on the program.

was elated. He clapped his hands for joy. The women and children too, were made happy, and they said, "Now will we enjoy all the blessings that was once ours beyond the fringe of civilization."

They brought forth their plows and horses, and planted larger gardens of greater variety than were ever planted before. Fields of many acres were laid out and planted to the crops they once raised in the eastern land from whence they came. Fruit bearing trees, and trees of shade, and many vines of grapes and berries of different sorts were planted.

A great contrivance that ran with a circular motion, was let down into the newly dug well, and a machine which drank a fluid called "gasoline" and which belched forth smoke and fire was hooked onto it, and when the man gave the word, behold the water leaped forth from the deep new well in a mighty gushing stream, so great that big ditches were necessary to carry it from the well which was like an oasis in this desert of sand. The men were busy with their shovels and spades directing the water onto the fast growing crops of food planted for man and for beasts, and they were very happy.

They sent word back to their former friends and neighbors of this wonderful country they had discovered, and they too came hither and dug wells, and gathered great harvests, and built happy homes and had great herds of animals grazing and growing fat for the markets where they would be driven. They would be sold for much money that would buy still other things needed for the comfort and happiness of these hardy pale faces who had braved the desert and conquered it. And the Great Spirit when he saw all that had been accomplished, was pleased within himself, said, "Truly, it is well that I relented, for these new people are a happy lot, and I will give them still greater blessings."

Friendly Helpers Club Met Recently

The Wilmeth Friendly Helpers Club met Wednesday with Mrs. Ira McNeill as hostess, for a Valentine party.

An aged Indian appeared to some cowboys caring for a bunch of cattle, he sat astride his pony and told them the story of his people who had been destroyed by the sand. Without lifting his head, he nudged his pony and moved away into the distance.

Later the cowboys found him reclining against a hackberry tree where he had died peacefully. They buried him and the hackberry tree became his tombstone and for many years afterwards people told the story of the old Indian who well knew the early history of the Sand Hills.

As if to completely blot out the past, a bolt of lightning struck the tree which marked the grave of the aged red skin, and today its location is not known, though a few pioneers can tell the story and point in the neighborhood of the spot where the old Indian lies buried.

The blessings heaped upon the present generation of people dwelling in the rich valley of Agua Nigra are abundant proof of the Spirit's complete forgiveness for that ancient sacrilege. The river still flows beneath the Sand Hills, and will doubtless continue so forever. But here and there its bosom has been punctured by numerous drills, and great wells, some them yielding as

By the year of 1933 the work of reconstruction had just begun. Since the day when that great typhoon of sand swept the Llano Estacado, mighty changes have transpired. Great battles were fought and the State of Texas came into being. Time passed on and the county of Bailey was organized. Then the town of Muleshoe, named after one of the early ranches, sprang up.

Several years later the Blackwater Valley was rapidly filling up with a happy and prosperous people, for the value of irrigation had long been proven, and more than 100 irrigation wells were lifting the sparkling liquid from the sunken river on-

Microwave Oven Questions

Consumers still question microwave oven safety and radiation factors—but these questions have not stopped the purchases, a family resource management specialist, Lillian Chenoweth, says.

Ms. Chenoweth is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She offers some answers to some common questions about microwave ovens:

• What effects do microwaves have on food?

Microwaves do not make food radioactive.

As in any cooking practice, microwave cooking has some effect on the nutritional value of the food.

Most studies, however, show no significant nutritional differences in food heated by microwaves when compared to conventional cooking methods.

In other words, the food is neither more or less nutritious.

• How can the consumer tell if a microwave oven is safe for home use?

All microwave oven models produced after 1971 present no radiation hazard if used according to manufacturer instructions, according to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

However, the consumer should obtain a statement from the dealer that the oven has been tested for radiation leakage.

Optimally, the oven is also tested after installation in the home.

• What regular safety checks or maintenance should be done?

The Texas Department of Health recommends checking the oven for radiation leakage whenever serviced or if leakage is suspected.

However, there are few offices of that agency with proper equipment to test home microwave ovens.

Consumers can check with their microwave dealer or regional Health office to see if the service is available.

• If no one locally can test a microwave, what can a consumer do?

Unfortunately, the relatively inexpensive radiation testers on the market are usually not properly calibrated and are inaccurate.

An owner can get a rough idea about the effectiveness of the seal by trying to pull a piece of paper through when the door is closed.

If the paper easily comes through, some leakage may occur.

A second way to check is to use a small fluorescent tube.

While such a tube is not made specifically for this purpose, it can provide a very crude approximation of the leakage present.

To test by this method, operate the microwave oven with some load in it, such as a cup of water.

Then, hold the tube at a 45 or 60 degree angle and pass it around the edges of the oven.

If the tube lights up, it does indicate a problem.

Both of these methods are very crude and should not take the place of checking with more accurate equipment whenever possible.

If any indication of leakage occurs, discontinue use of the appliance and contact an authorized serviceperson.

• What else can a consumer do to help insure safety?

One of the most important things is to clean the oven regularly.

Recent research with commercial vending services found only one out of almost 300 ovens to have leakage exceeding the safety standard.

The ovens that were termed "dirty" had about three times as much leakage as the clean

Spray Now To Kill Obscure Scale

It is time to apply dormant oil spray to pecan trees for the control of obscure scale. Normally, this spray is applied in January or February when the temperature is 55 degrees or above, says Allen Turner, county extension agent.

The obscure scale is a pest of considerable importance, particularly in arid portions of the state such as Runnels County. This tiny insect, under its scale covering, sucks sap from limbs and branches causing them to lose their leaves and die back from the tips, Turner said. The tree is so weakened by these insects feeding that it becomes vulnerable to wood borer attack. Tree heavily infested with scale often have dead limbs and branches.

The scale covering of a fully-grown female, about 1/8 inch long, is usually dark gray and closely resembles tree bark. In infested limbs appear to have been sprinkled with wood ashes.

The dormant oil spray which is applied, simply coats this insect and causes it to suffocate. The spray recommendation is 3/4 pt. of the 97% oil emulsion per 3 gallons of water, or 3 1/2 gallons of the 97% oil emulsion for 100 gallons of water. This same spray will control phylloxera (galls) also.

If you have any questions, call the County Extension office at 365,2219. Turner said.

Don't use too much detergent in the washer, advises Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Oversudsing makes the washing machine work harder and wastes energy, she points out.

Therefore, the precaution of daily cleaning the area around the door to prevent any burned-on food or crusted grease is recommended.

Potato Prices Plummeting!

Potato supplies rise; Food prices continue to rise generally, but have you noticed the price of potatoes lately?

It's worth taking a second look at the low prices and at what you can do with those plentiful, nutritious spuds!

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), the fall potato harvest is a record 319 million hundredweight—the largest crop in U.S. history. And reflecting the continuing large supplies, USDA fruit and vegetable market reporters say, wholesale prices are lower than the same period last year, and savings are being passed along to consumers.

Potatoes also are a good buy nutrition-wise. Penny-for-penny, they have more energy-giving value than any other vegetable. One medium potato (about a 1/2 cup serving) supplies only 90 calories, but contributes one-fifth of the vitamin C needed daily, worthwhile amounts of the B vitamins—thiamine and niacin—as well as the minerals—iron, phosphorus and potassium. Potatoes are high carbohydrate sources, too.

Market reporters say the quality of the fall potato harvest is good in all areas. And U.S. grade markings, showing that USDA experts have graded potatoes, are a further indication of their quality. Potatoes marketed to consumers are judged either U.S. Grade A (top) or Grade B. Each of these grades is subdivided on the basis of size—small, medium, medium to large, and large.

To maintain quality and reap their full goodness, follow these suggestions when purchasing, storing and preparing potatoes:

—Buy potatoes that are clean, firm, smooth and well-shaped. Avoid those with blemishes, decay and green sunburn.

—Store them at room temperature or cooler (60-70°F) in a dark and dry area where air circulates. If this kind of storage place is available, it's economical to buy in larger quantities.

Check often to remove injured or defective spuds to avoid further spoilage.

—Wash and remove sprouts or decay, when preparing for use. If pared, keep peeling thin. Precious nutrients are just below the skin.

—Boil in the least amount of water possible. More vitamins are retained when left whole. However, if time is a factor, cut into small pieces, and don't overcook. Although the larger amount of exposed surface tends to increase loss of nutritives this may be offset by shorter cooking time.

Now take a look at some delicious ways to utilize more potatoes while the prices are so low:

Salmon-And-Potato Puff

1 cup salmon (7/4 ounce can)
Seasoned 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. finely cut celery

2 tbsp. finely cut parsley
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion

1/2 cups hot or cold seasoned mashed potatoes

1/2 tsp lemon juice
3 drops tabasco sauce
2 eggs separated

Drain the fish, and flake it with a fork. Heat the butter or margarine and cook the celery, parsley, and onion in it until the onion is golden brown. Combine with the salmon, mashed potatoes, and seasonings.

Beat egg yolks well and add to the mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Pile lightly in a greased baking dish.

Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 hour or until firm in the center and lightly browned. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

A Good Sunday Dinner Sunday is usually the only day you can get the whole family together and plan mutual activities. So it's a shame to leave the fun for the kitchen to prepare supper.

What you need are some new, quick and easy ways to provide your family with hearty and nutritious Sunday suppers. Why not plan that meal around a family favorite—the potato!

Meals planned around potatoes are one of the

Senior Citizens Evening Meal To Be Served

The Winters Senior Citizens Nutrition program will serve an evening meal, Friday, Feb. 23, at 7 p. m., on a trial basis. Rosemary Benny, coordinator for the program, has announced. Entertainment will be provided by the Winters String Band.

Those planning to attend the Friday evening meal are asked to contact Mrs. Benny by 2 p. m. Friday. The meal will be served at the Activity Center, 601 Wood. Those 60 and over are invited to attend.

Council Okays Beacon For City Airport

Winters City Council Monday night approved installation of a "non-directional beacon" for installation at the Winters Airport, and will advertise for bids to purchase the equipment.

The new equipment will be purchased with funds granted by the Texas Aeronautics Commission, with the city providing in-kind financing. The TAC has granted as much as $4,000 for the project. However, city officials said it was expected that the total cost would be much less.

The NDB equipment is used by pilots to "home-in" on an airport in bad weather, and is considered a must for safe flying. Officials felt that installation of the equipment would make the local airport more readily available to aircraft, and that more and more companies are using the airport at this time, and traffic would increase.

Space shuttle gets UT engineers' aid

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Work done by engineers at The University of Texas has helped contribute to the solution of some of the problems of the NASA space shuttle.

A concept of solar system dynamics developed at UT Austin will be useful in predicting the behavior of the shuttle and its motion around earth, as well as its motion around its center of gravity. Other UT studies involve problems related to the intense heat the shuttle will encounter as it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

Another shuttle study at UT focuses on the dynamics of the shuttle's working arm, which is designed to reach out and manipulate satellites to be repaired or brought back to earth.

City Gets $8,189 From Sales Taxes

The City of Winters has received $8,188.99 from the State Comptroller's office, as the city's share of the local option one percent sales tax, for the February payment. This amount is up from the $5,968.07 received for the same period in 1978, and above the 1978 payments to date, which were $8,279.61. A total of $11,559.90 has been received during 1979, a 39 percent increase.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said rebates to Texas cities of the local option one percent sales tax are up a whopping 36 percent this month over the same period last year, for the entire state. More than 909 Texas cities will receive rebates as their share of the city sales tax.

The sales tax is collected by merchants and other sales tax permit holders along with the state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller's office.

Comparable collections for some of the other cities in this area are:

Anson	$ 3,618

Very Little Moisture

According to Roy Rice, official observer for the Weather Bureau, there was very little moisture received in the form of sleet and snow last Friday and Saturday. He measured only 0.03 inch for Feb. 17.

Total for February now is 1.17 inches, and for the year, 2.50 inches.

Medical Insurance Deductible

The Medicare hospital insurance deductible—the cost of covered services in each benefit period not paid by Medicare—has been increased to $160 for benefit periods beginning in 1979 from the 1978 figure of $144. Franklin H. Upp, social security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

The deductible is intended to be roughly equal to the cost of one day of care in a hospital. The increase was necessary, Mr. Upp said, because of the continually rising cost of medical care.

The deductible is the only amount a Medicare patient is responsible for during the first 60 days of hospital care in a benefit period for covered services.

The increase in the deductible also affects other 1979 per-day costs under hospital insurance, Mr. Upp said.

From the 61st through the 90th day of hospital care in a benefit period, hospital insurance pays for all covered services except for $40 a day (up from $36).

For each reserve day (there are 60 during a person's lifetime) hospital insurance will pay for all covered services except for $80 a day (up from $72).

For the 21st through the 100th day of care in a skilled nursing facility during a benefit period, hospital insurance pays the cost of all covered services except for $20 a day (up from $18).

Mr. Upp said that these increases apply only to benefit periods starting in 1979. They do not apply to benefit periods which began before 1979.

More information about Medicare covered services and costs can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214

Catchy 'heart' ads

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Some catchy ads which the American Heart Association will use nationally were designed by University of Texas students.

Advertising design students in a UT Art Department course generated ideas for the heart ads which range from small-space ones (using cartoons) that repeat the caution "Don't be a heart breaker" to larger ones that are headlines "There's more than one way to break your heart."

The course is taught by Dr. Leonard Ruben, a former creative director of a New York ad agency. His students form themselves into an "advertising agency" which goes by the droll name "Immaculate Conception."
