ON THE GROUND—As the 1979 harvest season opened, the elevators at Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co. started receiving the combined wheat.

Then . . . without warning, one of the grain tanks started collapsing, taking another with it. The company continued to take grain, however, as two dumps still were operative. The above picture was taken from the southside of the tank; the other picture was taken from the north side.

Grain Tanks Collapse At Alderman-Cave

About 15,000 bushels of new crop wheat were dumped on the ground when two grain tanks collapsed at Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co. Monday noon.

Two tanks were involved, according to Preston Barker, mill manager. One tank, with 12,000 bushels, gave way and pushed into the second tank, which contained about 3,000 bushels, he said.

No injuries were reported, although a side door of the company's retail store was broken in. The roof of a dump shed was destroyed, and conveyors in the immediate area were destroyed. The spilled wheat covered up a dump pit. Barker estimated damages in the neighborhood of $100,000.

The collapsed tanks were just a few feet away from the concrete walls of the company's offices. Barker said a loud popping sound was heard about 12 o'clock, and the collapse was complete about 12:15. He said he and Ray Alderman, general manager, stood in the mill yard with others and watched the initial slow-motion effects of the cave-in of the tanks. At the last, he said, movement increased until the crash was loud, and a huge cloud of dust rose from the site. Dust entered the retail store through the broken door, he said.

The collapse of the tanks came at a time when wheat was just beginning to come in from the surrounding countryside. It put one dump pit out of commission, but the two other pits will take care of the incoming wheat, he indicated.

This week saw the real start of the 1979 small grain harvest season, and the elevators are expected to be kept busy during the next weeks, receiving wheat from this area.

VBS Scheduled

At Wingate Baptist

Vacation Bible School will be held at the Wingate Baptist Church beginning June 18 and continuing through June 22.

Classes will be from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m., for children 3 to 12. All children have been invited.

Finalize Plans For Housing

Ground should be turned within the next ten days for a new 11-unit housing complex for Winters, being built by the Housing Authority of the City of Winters.

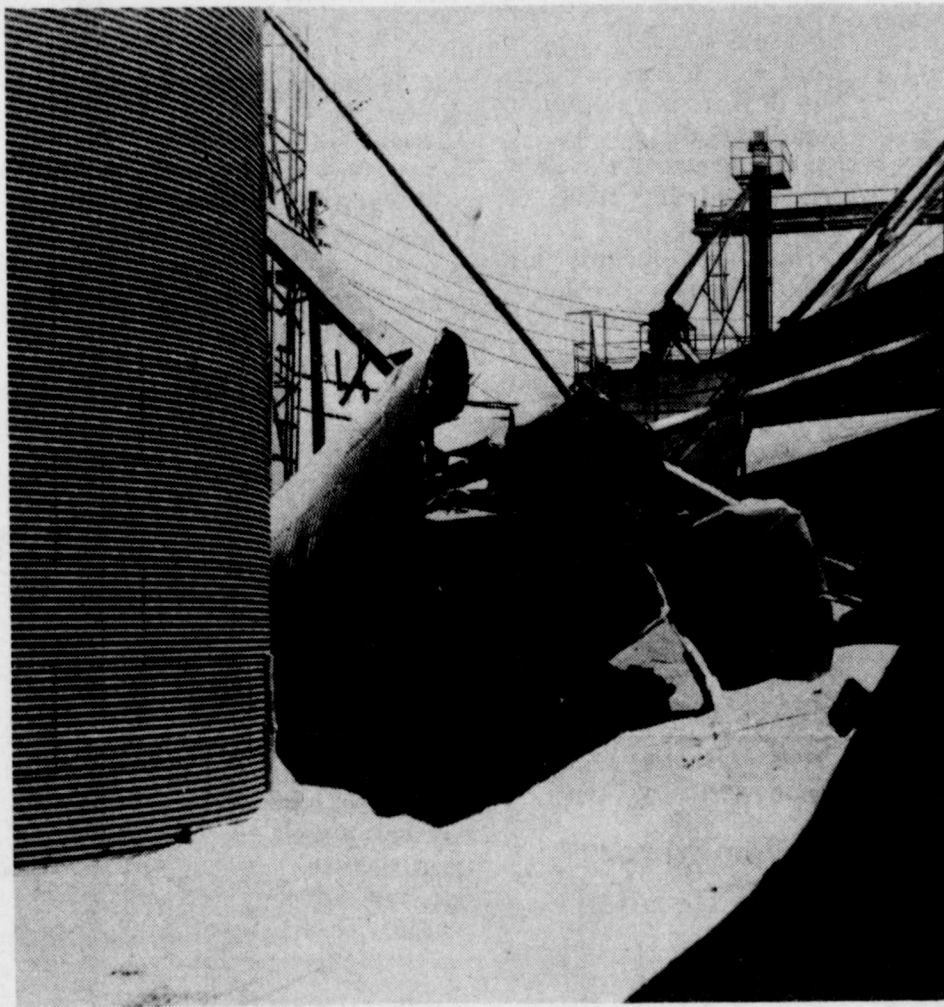

At a meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Housing Authority completed finalization of the planning for the complex, which will be built on East Broadway between Rogers and Meeks, in the southeast section of Winters.

J. W. Bahlman, chairman of the Housing Authority, said the project would cost $215,040 for the eleven units. The funds will come from the Farmers Home Administration.

Contractor for the project will be Hoover Construction Co., of Burnet.

Originally, plans called for 12 units; however, because of the time elapsed since letting of the contract, and finalization from the FmHA, inflation has caused an increase in the cost of the entire projects, so that only eleven units can now be constructed.

Dr. T. Tribble Returns To Winters U-M

Dr. Thomas Tribble, pastor of Winters First United Methodist Church for the past two years, has been assigned to the Winters parish for another year.

Announcement of the assignment was made following the annual meeting of the Central Texas Conference in Waco June 3-6.

Dr. Tribble will serve four congregations making up the Winters Parish, Winters First United Methodist, Crews, Wingate and Talpa.

Masons Elect Officers

J. A. Traylor has been elected worshipful master of Winters Masonic Lodge, for 1979-80.

Other officers elected at a regular meeting last Thursday night were O. J. Murray, senior warden; R. T. Duncan, junior warden; George Garrett, treasurer; John J. Swatchesue, secretary; and Chester McBeth, tiler.

Rabies Outbreak Feared

The threat of a serious rabies outbreak lays like a mantle over the entire Winters and North Runnels areas.

This is the opinion of several who have observed the circumstances which could serve to promote such an outbreak in the area, as several reports of rabies in wild animals have been received. The known and confirmed cases of rabies are only the tip of the iceberg, according to authorities; there are indications that the occurrence of rabies in wild animals is higher than usual for this time of year.

A rabid fox was killed on the Bill Bredemeyer place on the western edge of Winters last week, and a rabid skunk was found west of Winters. The head of the fox was sent to Austin by Dr. Jimmy Smith, Winters veterinarian, and the Austin laboratory did not wait to send a written report, but called Dr. Smith.

Dr. Smith said confirmed cases of rabies this year outnumber those reported last year, and there is a great danger of an outbreak if conditions remain the same.

Dr. Smith reminded everyone that they should have their pets vaccinated immediately, if they have not done so. He also said pet owners should pen up their animals. "One of these days, if we neglect to take all precautions," Dr. Smith said, "and if we don't cooperate with Winters' city animal control efforts, we will have an outbreak of rabies in this area, which will endanger the lives of many people."

Officials have indicated there has been a high degree of cooperation in the control of animals in the city by pet owners, but that there still is much to be done. Some people naturally resent being told to confine their dogs, it has been said, but the control measures now being taken are necessary if the community is to be protected. Pet owners again have been warned that there are stiff penalties for violation of leash regulations, and for failing to control pets. All efforts will be taken to carry out the intent of the animal control ordinances, it was indicated, to prevent an outbreak of rabies in the community, and to make the community a more pleasant place to live, it was indicated.

Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation Official

Following several years of hoping, and many months of intense planning, the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation is now a reality, and application for a state charter is being forwarded.

A steering committee named about two weeks ago and met Monday evening, and elected officers, and made plans to apply for a charter, and to begin work on an actual museum for Winters and the area.

The building on West Dale St., formerly occupied by the offices of the late Dr. Z. I. Hale, optometrist, has been donated to the fledgling foundation by Mrs. Z. I. Hale and her two daughters, to be used exclusively as a museum building. The newly organized Foundation officially accepted the building Monday evening.

Officers of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation elected Monday evening include Mrs. J. W. Bahlman, chairman; Don Reese, vice chairman; Mrs. Marvin Dozier, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ed Bredemeyer and Estella Bredemeyer, exhibit directors.

Marvin Jones was named museum curator.

Trustees named are Mrs. John Gardner, Mrs. Z. I. Hale, Homer Hodge, Rankin Pace and Mrs. Ralph Arnold.

The chairman immediately appointed a by-laws committee, and a research committee.

The board of the Foundation will meet each second Monday at 5 p.m.

IN THE FIELD—This is a common sight in the North Runnels country. Grainmen predicted this would be the best wheat year in many years, in spite of the fact that many hundreds of acres of grain were destroyed by hail a few weeks ago in the area.

WINTERS STATE BANK

The architect's drawing of the proposed new Winters State Bank building is a handsome structure and one of which any city could be proud.

History of the Winters State Bank throughout the years is interwoven with the people of Winters and Runnels County, emphasizing a firm faith in the future of Winters and the area.

Winters had no bank in the beginning and for a period of three or four years the Citizen's National Bank of Ballinger maintained a branch office here with Frank Pierce in charge. He had a dry goods and grocery store and managed a bank in the rear of the building. This branch closed in 1905.

Realizing the growing need of a bank, J. M. Johnson persuaded a young man named John Q. McAdams, who had gained his banking experience with the F&M Bank of Abilene, to come to Winters. The Winters State Bank was organized in 1906 with a capitol stock of $15,000. Mr. Johnson was the first president and McAdams served as cashier of the bank for seventeen years before becoming president.

First home of the bank was just south of the present location, where Naida's is now located. Probably the facilities in the back of Pierce's store were used as this was where his store also stood.

After three years, a new building was erected at the corner of Main Street and West Dale where the bank has been since 1909. McAdams remained as president until he resigned shortly before his death March 31, 1968. Woodrow Watts of Fort Worth succeeded him.

Another bank was organized in Winters in 1909 which was known as the Farmers and Merchants Bank, with W. E. Norton as managing head, located in the present Smith Drug building. A few years later the F&M was sold to F. W. Merrick and Associates, and was finally taken over by the Winters State Bank in August of 1913.

The following year, 1914, the Winters Banking Co. was organized with D. M. Hillyard as managing head, and out of this company grew the First National Bank, which was issued its charter in 1915.

At the death of Mr. Hillyard in 1921, Bert Low became head of the bank until June, 1927, when I. N. Wilkinson became active vice president, upon moving here from Ovalo.

The Winters State Bank purchased the assets of the First National Bank in 1937 in what was believed to be the largest financial deal in the history of the trade area, which totaled $324,675.50.

The bank of Bradshaw was consolidated with the Winters State Bank in 1942.

By 1924 the bank had outgrown the quarters of 1909, and the entire length of the building was appropriated to the banking space.

It was only a comparatively short time until there was need for further expansion and then came extensive remodeling of the entire building in 1954.

At the open house held on Oct. 9, 1954, people were privileged to view the modern banking rooms, drive-in teller's window, the night depository and other conveniences. The outside of the building is a dark granite base and Roman brick above. The fixtures are of a low modern type and include seven teller windows, four of which were in use and three to take care of future expansion.

Other improvements have been added since 1954, but once more the space has been outgrown and the bank will soon be in a new location.

Members of the board of directors are Kirby Robinson, chairman; T. A. Smith, chairman emeritus; A. L. Mitchell, vice chairman; J. W. Bahlman, W. F. Minzenmayer, Gattis Neely, John W. Norman, M. R. Williams and Fred Young.

Officers of the bank are Charles Hudson, president; Lee Harrison, vice president; Estella Bredemeyer, vice president; Lanny Bahlman, cashier; Mary Beth Smith, assistant cashier; and Margaret Bell, assistant cashier.

Those now working in the bank include Marlene Wood, Ruth Grenwelle, Kay Colburn, Cindy Smith, Teresa Hart, Ida Bruns, Barbara Heathcott, Melba Emmert, Jeanne Coats, Sherry Bahlman and Curtis Mayo.

To show something of the growth of the Winters State Bank, on May 15 an all time high was reached in deposits of $21,782,468.57. Capitol and surplus accounts now amount to $1,400,000 and on May 15 loans had reached $9,662,694.49.

The new building is scheduled to be completed in June 1980 and it is evident that the facilities will be quickly put to use.

Concerned Parent Calls For Help For Teen Center

(Ed. Note: Some months ago, when the idea was advanced to organize and build an activity center for the teenagers of the community, there was displayed a great amount of interest. However, during the past several weeks, that interest has faltered, for what reason, no one seems to know. One parent who was instrumental in the organization of the Teen Center has written a letter—really a plea for help—which is reproduced below.)

"Teen Center closing? It's a definite possibility! However, it is not due to non-participation on the part of the teenagers, although that could be improved. It is due to parents not participating as sponsors.

"Each and every parent in this town and community should be happy to donate one Friday or Saturday night a month to helping our youth. If everyone participated the time donated could be once every two or three months and that shouldn't deprive anyone of their time.

Don't sit and wait for someone to call and ask you to sponsor, but call Dianne Billups at 754-4271, Shirley Hall at 754-5291, or Pat McGuffin at 723-2360.

It is most unfair for two or three couples to sponsor several times a month for the whole town and community's children to have a place to go. However, our deepest appreciation goes out to those who have been willing to help.

"We are very late in doing so but we certainly wish to thank John Loyd for doing all the plumbing work for the Teen Center and all the men and women who worked so hard to make the center a reality. We also wish to thank those people and businesses who have donated the money to enable us to buy equipment that was needed. We have done our best to provide our youth with a place to go

The Loeffler-Leach Resolution

I have recently introduced a House Resolution which is designed to freeze the total number of House staff.

I was joined in introducing this legislation by Congressman Jim Leach, Republican representative from Iowa, who shares my concern with the rapidly growing size of the federal bureaucracy and the growing number of staff members.

The purpose of this legislation is two-fold. First, as you may know, I have been appointed to the House Select Committee on Committees — a reform committee charged with studying the existing committee system and proposing ways to streamline the present cumbersome maze of overlapping and duplicative jurisdictions. While this study is being carried out, I feel that an immediate freeze on the number of committee staff members is certainly justified.

Secondly, there is no question in my mind but that the overall number of committee staff is outrageously out of proportion with the requirements of these committees. In 1968, it cost $44 million to operate the House committees. In 1978, that same cost to the taxpayer had grown to over $167 million — almost a 400 percent increase. And, the number of committee staff members grew over 300 percent in that same time period, yet the number of bills and the amount of legislation considered and passed by these committees has remained virtually unchanged. Clearly, the growth in the size and cost of committee staff far exceeds any reasonable pattern.

The Loeffler-Leach Resolution, which will be followed up with additional appropriate legislative initiatives in the near future, is a first step in attempting to get a hold on the expanding bureaucracy, and we will fight with all our efforts to see this legislation become law.

Tip of the Iceberg

I think it is especially appropriate that we begin to control the bureaucracy here, in the House of Representatives. But this is only the tip of the iceberg.

In the United States, government employees, at all levels, receive $253.4 billion each year in salaries, which is roughly 12 percent of our Gross National Product.

And, economists have recently substantiated what I have suspected for some time: that, today, there are more people supported by tax dollars than there are workers in the private sector. Adding up government employees, the military on active duty, the disabled and unemployed, the retired and those on welfare, economists found a total of 80,655,000 tax dependents, compared with only 71,650,000 non-government workers.

In addition to the number of direct government employees, there are countless millions who are hired as semi-part time, part time and full time outside workers, many in the role of "consultants" to various government agencies.

This massive group of direct and indirect government employees makes up the complex, frustrating and infuriating bureaucracy which is so costly in money, red tape and agonizing time consumption and delays. This incredible, bloated bureaucracy is the root cause of excessive government spending patterns which is the prime generator of the double digit inflation we suffer.

The bureaucracy must be brought under control, and reduced. It is my hope that the Loeffler-Leach Resolution will be the first of a series of steps toward achieving that goal.

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Raymond T. Moore, M.D., Commissioner

Tornadoes are no strangers to Texas skies—as the recent disasters at Vernon and Wichita Falls attest—and judging from past history, Texas may be in for more of Mother Nature's temper tantrums.

While tornadoes may occur anytime, they occur with greatest frequency during the late spring or early summer. In the 25-year period from 1951 through 1975, nearly three-fifths of all Texas tornadoes occurred within the three-month period of April, May and June.

While nothing can be done about the time of year tornadoes are most likely to touch down, there are some common sense precautions that should be taken during this time, says the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

Before the numbing shock of April 10 twisters had worn off in Vernon and Wichita Falls, TDH physicians, engineers, food and drug inspectors, nurses, Emergency Medical Services personnel, sanitarians and others were dispatched to the scene. They helped in the massive efforts to guard against disease which can erupt from contaminated water, food, drugs and from disease-carrying vectors such as flies and mosquitoes.

The destructiveness of the whirling winds makes a person wonder how anything can be in the path of a tornado and survive. Although 43 persons were killed in Wichita Falls and 11 in Vernon, hundreds of people rode out the storm and emerged from the rubble of their homes unscathed or with only minor injuries.

There are several things which can be done to protect yourself in times of bad weather. First, become familiar with the warnings given by the National Weather Service over radio and television: "Tornado Watch" indicates the possibility of a tornado; "Tornado Warning" means that a tornado has been reported in the general area; and "Tornado Alert" means to act fast—that a tornado is known to be in the vicinity.

What can you do in the face of a tornado alert?

- If it's daylight, or if you can see the funnel advancing toward you, you may have time to move out of its path. If you have a storm cellar, you should move to it.
- If you can not get out of the way and you don't have a storm cellar, you can still protect yourself.
- In homes, open some windows and then keep away from them. Get to the center of the house or to a basement, if there is one.
- In schools, move to pre-arranged shelter areas. Post a lookout if it can be done safely.
- In shopping areas, go to designated shelter areas.
- In mobile homes, evacuate the area. If no shelter is nearby, leave the trailer park for low, protected ground.
- In open country, move away from the twister's path. If there isn't enough time, lie flat in the nearest depression with hands shielding your head. If heavy rains accompany the twister, be alert for flash flooding.

The greatest outbreak of tornadoes on record in Texas was associated with Hurricane Beulah in September 1967. Within a five-day period, September 19-23, 115 tornadoes were reported. Sixty-seven occurred on September 20, a Texas record for a single day. As a result of Hurricane Beulah, September 1967 had 124 tornadoes, a Texas record for a single month.

The greatest number in Texas in a single year was 232, also in 1967. The worst outbreak of spring tornadoes in Texas occurred in April 1957, when 69 were reported.

One of the most destructive tornadoes in Texas history struck Waco, May 11, 1953, killing 114 and injuring 597. On the same day, a San Angelo tornado killed 11 and injured 159.

Last year, 127 tornadoes were confirmed in the State. Luckily, however, only one death resulted. An average of 105 tornadoes touch Texas soil each year. The

Soil Testing Your Lawn For Phosphorus Levels

There is something about a beautiful lawn; it is almost as if the best part of spring spent the summer at your home. A bit poetic, but a lush, green lawn is still the result of knowing and keeping tabs on what you have done. More frequently, we are finding that some homeowners have lost track of what is occurring on their lawns, said Allen E. Turner, county Extension agent. As a result, these homeowners are beginning to learn new words such as chlorosis (yellowing and poor growth), iron deficiency and micronutrients. These conditions and the need for micronutrients can be brought about by excessive phosphorus levels in the soil. The very high to excessive soil phosphorus levels can be caused by naturally high phosphorus levels in the soil or from continuous over-utilization of fertilizers containing phosphorus.

A survey of the soil samples tested in 1978-79 indicated that 21 percent of West Texas homeowners with lawn problems have had very high to excessive phosphorus levels, reported Dr. Dale Pennington, Extension area soil chemist who supervises the Texas A&M University soil testing laboratory at Lubbock.

To address how and why this situation occurred, one can only guess. The first guess is that the homeowner did not realize how to properly apply the correct amount of fertilizer. The second guess is that the homeowner, over the years, failed to keep tabs of how much phosphorus had been applied each year. "Losing track" of applied phosphorus may have resulted in the phosphorus build-up.

A soil analysis prevents this phosphorus build-up from occurring and it also determines how much phosphorus should be applied. "If you feel you need a soil test; here are some tips that will help you obtain better results from you soil analysis," Turner stated.

Prior to taking small samples, scrape the litter from the surface; then, use a spade, soil auger or soil-sampling tube. To use a sharp shooter, dig a V-shaped hole and take a half-inch slice of soil from the smooth side of the hole. Repeat in 10 to 15 different places. We have soil probes available in our office for you to use.

Place subsamples in a clean container (plastic bucket, paper sack, etc.), mix thoroughly, and take out approximately one pint for the composite sample, Turner suggested.

"To aid in the interpretation of the soil test and in making recommendations, fill in Form D-494, 'Soil Sample Information Sheet for Lawn, Garden, and Flower Beds,' as completely as possible and submit with your samples" emphasizes Turner.

"Each soil sample

Loeffler Introduces Federal Employment Bill

Loeffler said the U.S. government employs "three times more civilian workers than the world's largest single private employer" and salary levels have grown since 1960 from $12.8 billion annually to $53.7 billion this year.

The freshman congressman said his bill would "gently and gradually reduce the size of the Federal government without affecting the abilities of the various agencies to perform their statutory duties. "And, while the major thrust of the legislation is to halt and reduce the size of the bureaucracy, there will be significant cost savings as well," he noted. Exact figures would be difficult to pinpoint, Loeffler said, but he estimated savings of "one billion dollars the first year in reduced expenditures for salaries alone, another billion dollars each successive year until, by 1984 and beyond, this bill will save some five billion tax dollars annually. "We must understand that big government is not necessarily good government, and that more employees do not automatically mean more services or better services," he said. "A bloated, inefficient bureaucracy such as we presently endure breeds inconsideration, self-perpetuation and an unnatural separation from the people it is supposed to serve. There is not one among us who has not experienced the frustration of being referred to at least six different offices within the same agency in search of a simple answer, only to find the last person not only ignorant of the subject, but indifferent to the request.

"With these reductions, we can trim the bureaucracy to a lean, efficient size, and convert agency heads into managers instead of proliferators," he concluded.
