Scene of Fire

Two men were burned, one severely, when fire broke out at this tank battery on the Norton road about 10 miles west of Winters Monday morning. Lawrence Wright of Lawn suffered burns on his face, shoulders, and both legs. He was treated at North Runnels Hospital and transferred to Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene. Allen Scarbrough of Abilene suffered burns on the left hand. He was treated and released. Both are employed by Lawn Tank Truck Co. Winters firemen extinguished the fire, which did an undetermined amount of damage.

Firemen's Barbecue

The annual barbecue of the Winters Volunteer Fire Department, a tradition in the community, will be held in the Winters Community Center at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 25.

Tickets for the barbecue may be obtained from any member of the fire department, or will be available at the door. Cost per ticket, which is a membership card in the Fire Department Assn., is $8, and will entitle the entire family of the member to attend the barbecue.

Following the feed, a calf will be auctioned off, with Col. Tex Herring of Lawn as auctioneer. The calf is being donated by Randy Bennett, operator of the Thurber Ranch Co. of Thurber. His wife is the granddaughter of Mrs. Shaylor Copeland of the Tad Richards Ranch located west of Winters in Runnels and Coke counties. If the person buying the calf at the auction desires, Jack Smith of Winters Meat Processing Co., will butcher the calf, fire department spokesmen said.

A dance will be held following the barbecue, for those attending the affair. The dance will be open to only those with barbecue supper tickets.

The Firemen's Barbecue has traditionally been held on the third Thursday of August each year, but the day was changed this year to allow more people from out of town to attend, it was explained.

Awards will be made during the program Saturday night, with the Fireman of the Year award presented, along with service and special awards.

Charles (Coot) Dry is president of the Winters Volunteer Firemen. Richard Hamilton is vice president, and J. C. Hodnett is secretary-treasurer.

Booster Club Will Meet Next Thursday

The Winters Booster Club will hold a homemade ice cream supper Thursday, Aug. 30, at 7:30 p.m., in the Winters Community Center. This will be the first meeting of the school year for the boosters, who will organize for the athletic season.

The WHS Blizzard coaching staff will be present, and all football fans have been urged to be present.

Lone Star Files For Rate Hike

Lone Star Gas Company's local manager, Mike Tuggle, has filed an application for a gas service rate increase which would raise residential customers' bills in the city of Winters about $2.77 per month during the summer and $4.77 per month in the winter.

The figures are based on typical residential usage of 8,000 cubic feet. Under the present rate, the average bill for that amount would be $20.73.

Tuggle said the company needs $70,582 of additional revenues to meet its costs of operation and to earn an adequate return on the company's rate base in the city of Winters. For the twelve months ended September 30, 1978, based on actual revenues and expenses, Lone Star had a net operating income deficiency of $16,253. Tuggle said rising costs are the reason why the company's earnings are deficient. These high costs include both the price of Total revenue for the year is estimated to be $1,216,969, from local and state sources combined. Expenditures have been budgeted at the same amount.

EMS Supervisor Was "Reinstated"

Although there are no written records available indicating they had taken official or public action requesting the resignation of the recently-appointed supervisor of the county's Emergency Ambulance Service, or on an alleged verbal resignation by the supervisor, Runnels County Commissioners in a called meeting Monday morning voted 3-1 to "reinstated" the supervisor.

Voting the motion to reinstate, made by Commissioner David Carroll, of Winters, Prec. 2, and seconded by Commissioner Pat Pritchard of Wingate, Prec. 3, were Carroll, Pritchard and Marvin Sallings of Miles, Prec. 4. Voting against the motion was Charles Bradshaw of Ballinger, Prec. 1.

During a discussion of the motion, which was open to the public, Louis Halford, an employee of Pool Co. of Winters, and a lay minister of the Assembly of God Church in Winters, presented a petition calling for the reinstatement of the supervisor, and signed by a reported 405 persons.

In a meeting two weeks ago, the commissioners had approved employment of Mrs. Juanita Baker of Winters as supervisor of the emergency service for the entire county. She had been supervisor of the Winters unit for about a year. She had been chosen over several other applicants for the position.

However, on the following Tuesday, during a regular session, commissioners went into a closed-door or executive meeting reportedly to consider a request that Baker submit her resignation, supposedly because she had several years ago been convicted of a felony and had served time in prison. No written record of that executive session is available, and minutes of the regular meeting do not reflect action by the commissioners, but it was reported by at least two county officials that the commissioners had "recommended" to Baker that she resign, and that she allegedly had verbally resigned at that time, and that a written resignation would be forthcoming. In the time between that Tuesday meeting and the called meeting Monday, a written resignation had not been submitted by Baker, according to county officials.

The "reinstatement" is effective from August 15, the effective date of the original appointment, according to county officials.

Following the called meeting Monday morning of the county commissioners, the special committee set up by the commissioners recently to administer the emergency service, met. In that meeting, according to information received, the committee accepted the resignation of Bob McDaniel of Ballinger, who had been supervisor of the Ballinger unit of the emergency service. McDaniel had previously submitted a bid to the commissioners to lease the service; his bid was not accepted. McDaniel also had applied for the county supervisor position, after the commissioners decided to retain the service.

Here's Those Bumps Again

Charles Grenwelge of the City Street Dept., smooths out a couple of the speed control "bumps" which have been placed on streets in the vicinity of the schools, as City Policeman L. C. Foster looks on. Speed control bumps were first put down seven weeks ago, but were removed because of size. City and school officials, and the police department said they believe the bumps will slow down the traffic near the school.

Bergama, Biblical Pergamos

We docked in the quaint port of Dikili on the Aegean shore of Turkey. Our motor coaches were waiting (not air-conditioned because air-conditioning is not allowed on vehicles in Turkey) to start a full-day of sightseeing. Other facilities were not modern either.

While we were ashore our storm tossed ship, which had been completely repainted the day before, sailed empty to the next port, Kusadasi, and picked us up there.

First we visited modern Bergama (Biblical Pergamum or Pergamos). Here we visited the Acropolis, the ancient hospital on the Asclepium, and the Red Basilica, (remains of the Church of Revelation in Pergamum).

At Obergama, we saw the most interesting of all finds. This is the Temple of Asclepius. What we actually saw was a huge hospital complex called the Asclepium where people were treated by suggestion and occupational therapy.

We think this is a modern way of treatment but the most famous period of the hospital lasted for 800 years, from 400 B.C. to 400 A.D.

On the remains of a monumental gate leading to the hospital is the following inscription: "In the name of the Gods Death may not enter here."

Starting at the Viran Gate, the half mile long road ends at the sanctuary of the hospital. This road was lined on both sides with colonades, pools and resting places.

The first think that catches the eye on entering the sanctuary is the Serpent Altar, so called because of the relief showing two snakes drinking from a bowl. This design is now known as the symbol of Asclepius, and this medical insignia is still used by the medical profession to this very day.

There is a legend stating that Galen the most famous doctor of his time, who was later termed the father of medicine, once refused to admit a patient. It is possible that the man was incurable, for the doctors at the hospital were specially selective. They shuttled off the obviously incurable because death was not supposed to enter and they didn't want to do anything that would cause shaking of confidence in their ability.

However, in later years excavations have shown a graveyard just outside a small door in the back wall of the hospital grounds.

After the man was refused treatment he was dejectedly returning home when he came upon two snakes drinking what appeared to be milk from a bowl and regurgitating it. He thereupon drank from the vessel hoping to poison himself and die quickly, but found that he was cured.

It is said that when the famous Galen heard of this miracle, he adopted the drinking serpent design as the symbol of the God Asclepius.

We entered the hospital like a person going for treatment. First of all we went down the main street to the Asclepium into the first temple area and down a colonnaded porch, or at least where the large pillows about stood, and into the Amphitheater which seats about 5000.

First of all the patient received an extensive lecture concerning what was going to take place and heard musical and dramatic presentations all designed to put him in a euphoric state so that basically he felt good about life before the cure ever started.

Mud bath massages were then given the patient and he was assured that it was a special curative mud. He was then bathed in a sacred pool. Over beyond in another compartment was a man who operated a valve that could either raise or lower the level of the water at will. The patient was told that if the water level began to rise while he was in the pool it was a sure sign that the gods had heard his prayers and he was going to be healed, and miracle of miracles the water level always came up.

So the patient was convinced that things were coming along well when he was made to walk along a dark tunnel with little square holes in the top where the priests whispered down as though they were the gods and once again assured the people that they would be healed. Then they were carried to a place where sleep was induced with the aid of hymns and the murmurs of softly running water, and possibly with drugs.

And in the temple there were thousands of harmless snakes slithering throughout the area. Information was given out that if one of these snakes crawled across you during the night you would be cured. When you finally emerged a couple of days later and were let out you were absolutely convinced you were well even if you were sick as a dog.

Next we headed for modern Izmir, the third most important city of Turkey, where we had lunch at the Grand Hotel Efes. Boys and girls delighted us with their Turkish folk dances.

After spending the afternoon in modern Selcuk, Biblical Ephesus, we arrived at Kusadasi where our ship was waiting with dinner prepared. What a hungry and thirsty group!

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

Turnabout's fair play—and often fun-play! Let your progeny prepare a formal meal for you, from soup to nuts, from shopping to clean-up. It's their show, so don't impose any restrictions.

Instead of a big Sunday meal, plan a smorgasbord. Have on hand cheese, cold meats, crackers, bread and spreads. Let the family eat what and when they feel like.

Many couples are finding a way to keep insufficient lubrication from diminishing their marital relations. A new product, ORTHO* Personal Lubricant has been tested and shown medically safe and pleasantly providing the additional lubrication that many couples need or prefer.

Parents often need time alone with each other and away from everyone else. From time to time, park the kids, enjoy yourselves—and don't feel guilty.

Blizzards "Excited"

"At this point, the Winters Blizzards are very excited about prospects of the upcoming football season," Head Coach Les Fisher said Monday, as the high schoolers went into the second week of pre-season tuneups. The coaching staff is "real pleased with the results we've had in the first week of two-day workouts," the coach said. "The boys' attitude has been great; they've been very attentive in drills, and we feel like we've accomplished a great deal in teaching fundamentals during the first week." Objectives of the two-day workouts was to go back to basic fundamentals and conditioning.

Brett Burleson. Four junior starters are returning to the lineup, Fisher said: Scott Billups, Scott Hall, Bryan Davis and Robert Johnson. The team will also have the services of four seniors up from the '78 JV to varsity in '79: Gene Bowden, Rusty Allen, Mark Whitlow and Adolpho Torres. Also, five '78 JVs, juniors, are moving up to varsity: Toby Gerhart, Tony Garcia, Rickey Torres, Tommy Davis and John Esquivel. Two '78 JV sophoms have been working with the varsity: Andy Smith and Joe Escolona. There's still a lot of work ahead of the '79 Blizzards team before they hit the field in regular game situations, the coach indicated, but he is looking at the season with an optimistic (spelled with a capital O) attitude.

For the smaller-than-average female, some sportswear manufacturers are adding a size two (2) to their lines, reports a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Others are adding petite sizes 6 and 8, Beverly Rhoades adds.

The green lasagne is flavored with spinach, she points out.

Agri-Business Short Course Aug. 27-28

Kenneth Wolf, economist and agri-business specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will present a two-night short course to the business men and women of Runnels County in the Ballinger Community Center, at 7:30 p.m., August 27-28.

Wolf will present "basic information in certain areas of management needed to operate their businesses more effectively and more profitably," Allen E. Turner, county extension agent, said.

Subjects to be discussed will center around customer relationship and labor productivity with a considerable amount of time being devoted to question and answer discussions, Turner said.

Wolf is an outstanding speaker and is recognized as one of the outstanding men in business management, and the public is urged to attend these sessions, Turner said.

Texas onions should continue at low prices through August and September, says a foods and nutrition specialist.

Consider drying them at home, and save for flavoring foods throughout the year, suggests Mary K. Sweeten with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Double batching" enables homemakers to get two dinners from one recipe—provided extra freezer space is available. Simply cook a double amount of a favorite recipe. Serve one batch, and freeze the other for later use.

To freeze, prepare the food in the usual way except double the recipe and cook it until almost done.

Frozen meats and vegetables easily become overcooked when reheated if they were completely cooked before freezing.

Season lightly during preparation, because pepper, cloves and synthetic vanilla tend to become strong and bitter when used in frozen foods.

Add more seasoning just before serving.

Add crumb and cheese toppings to the frozen food just before reheating.

Use proper freezing containers and follow recommended freezing procedures.

CRUNCH TOPPED CREAMED VEGETABLES

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ cups milk
- ¾ cup grated cheddar cheese
- 4 cups Vege Mix
- ½ cup bread crumbs
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
- Melt butter in 2-quart saucepan over medium tank ball. This last procedure forces the tank ball to seat more quickly than it normally would, thus allowing less water to leave the tank, Mrs. Granovsky adds.

The faculty for Winters Public Schools is complete for the new 1979-80 school year, following approval Monday night by the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District of employment of several people. The board also officially accepted resignations from three people who had been on the faculty. Approved for employment were:

- Richard S. Brown, coach-teacher
- Thomas Roach, coach-teacher
- Cynthia Rogers, elementary teacher

The school board also accepted resignations from Jerry Strickland, a junior high teacher; Beverly Hogge, high school teacher; and Linda Priddy, Title I Aide.

Conserving Water At Home

Water conservation begins at home, says Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Water becomes a precious commodity when it is scarce.

However, when water supplies are abundant, less thought is given to water-use habits, the specialist points out.

The American Water Works Association estimates over-all residential water use at 60 gallons per person per day, so even a 10 percent per capita reduction would result in a daily savings of a billion gallons.

A water-use study-conservation project revealed that water use was significantly reduced by 25.6 percent in households sampled, Mrs. Granovsky reports.

The reduction was attributed to the installation of toilet tank mechanisms designed to conserve water and to simple water-use changes adopted by households.

Eighty percent of the households reported making changes in their water-use habits. They mentioned the following changes:

- reduce amount of running water in sinks
- reduce lawn and garden watering
- used dishwasher only when full
- washed only full loads in clothes washer
- took shorter showers
- repaired leaks and drips
- flushed toilets less often
- turned off faucet when brushing teeth
- used less water in bathtub
- washed car less often

A conscious effort is required to change water-use habits, but repairing leaks and drips saves water without changing habits, the specialist continues.

Consider the toilet. Each toilet flush uses from five to seven gallons of water.

Check the toilet to see if water leaks after flushing. Two hundred gallons a day can seep from tank to bowl if there is a leak.

To check for a leak, put a small amount of food coloring into the tank. If the color trickles into the bowl, there is a leak that needs repairing.

In buying a new toilet, look for a "low volume" model, she recommends.

Reduce the amount of water used in an older toilet by placing a plastic milk or detergent bottle filled with water and extra weight like sand or gravel into the toilet tank. The amount of water saved will be the same as the volume displaced by the plastic container.

Bricks do not displace as much water, and brick particles can seriously damage valves.

Or, save water by adjusting the float level of the toilet so the tank fills with less water, or place a two-ounce lead weight on the left rod just above the

Milo harvest is upon us and we wish to remind you that you have several choices as to the way your crop can be marketed.

- 1. CASH SALE. We pay you top market price load by load as the grain is delivered.
- 2. GRAIN BANK STORAGE. Milo can be stored in our grain bank to be milled out to you later as cubes or mixed feed. There is no charge for this storage service.
- 3. COMMERCIAL STORAGE. The grain is stored in our elevator or forwarded to terminal storage for later sale. You have complete control of when this grain is sold and may sell all or any part of it at any time you wish. This method is superior to on-the-farm storage in that you are protected against shrinkage and deterioration of grade. We must know in advance of unloading if you want your grain to go commercial storage. Grain not so marked will be considered sold for cash.

A bridal shower honoring Mrs. Joe (Debbie James of Snyder) Tubbs was held in the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, Thursday evening, August 10, at 7 p.m.

The hall was decorated in the bride's chosen colors of blue and white. The table was laid with a blue cloth. The centerpiece was a floral arrangement of blue and white flowers in a white vase. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

A white cake with white icing topped with blue flowers, nuts, mints and punch was served by the hostesses. Mrs. Marie Tate served the cake and Mrs. Mathis Romine poured the punch. Mrs. Isaac Pate registered guests.

Animal Control—

Winters Will Stand Alone

Winters City Council Monday night concluded that the city's animal control facilities are being used to capacity, and would be inadequate to handle another city's dogs.

Ballinger's city commission recently had requested that the Winters council study two propositions, aimed at a cooperative arrangement for animal control between the two cities. One proposal was that Winters provide a man and facilities and furnish Ballinger with animal control. The other proposal was that Winters provide the facilities and Ballinger provide the personnel to work that city.

Winters' city council, which has been commended throughout this area for organizing and operating a much-needed animal control program in an effort to prevent rabies and to provide some sort of order in controlling stray dogs, said they felt that the present animal control shelter would be inadequate for the two cities in a combined operation. If the two programs should be combined, they felt, it would take additional capital expenditures to meet the demands.

Councilman Randy Springer, who has spearheaded the animal control program for Winters, told the council Monday that cost of confining a dog in the shelter is about $8 per day. Dogs are kept for a period of five days before they are destroyed if not claimed, or adopted. Councilmen are studying the possibility of reducing the holding period to three days.

Franklin O'Dell, Winters animal control officer, said some person or persons last Thursday night cut the heavy wire fence at the animal shelter, releasing at least four dogs which had been confined. The police are investigating.

Cut Your Utility Bill In Half—With Fans

Toss out your air conditioner and cool off with fans?

Absurd? Not if you want to slash your utility bill in half in some Texas areas.

Air conditioning accounts for up to 50 percent of all home energy used in some areas of Texas, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Fans save money, and they provide comfort, she says.

You can use them as "helpers" to your air-conditioning system—or in place of it.

Dr. Berry is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Here are two types of fans to start with—in deciding which will do the best job in your home:

CIRCULATING FANS

Circulating the air inside the home makes you feel cooler because it speeds up evaporation of moisture from the skin. These fans "help" air conditioning—or work alone.

Fans for this job include standard table-top fans, "box" fans that sit on the floor or a flat, steady surface, and the old-time ceiling fan.

VENTILATING FANS

Use ventilating fans without air conditioning—they need open windows.

Fans that ventilate do two things: they exhaust hot, stagnant indoor air to the outdoors, and they bring cooler outside air into the house.

They're most effective at night—or at times when outdoor air is cooler than air inside the home.

To use a ventilating fan, place it in an open window and seal up space around it. Also, shut windows near it for maximum drawing power. Then open a few windows on the opposite side of the area to be ventilated—that may be just one room or the entire house.

Texas is rediscovering the fan.

Many Texas residents already report that using the "right" fan lets them run air conditioning at higher settings—or simply turn them off—and still stay comfortable.

Research says that a fan makes an air-conditioned room feel six to eight degrees cooler.

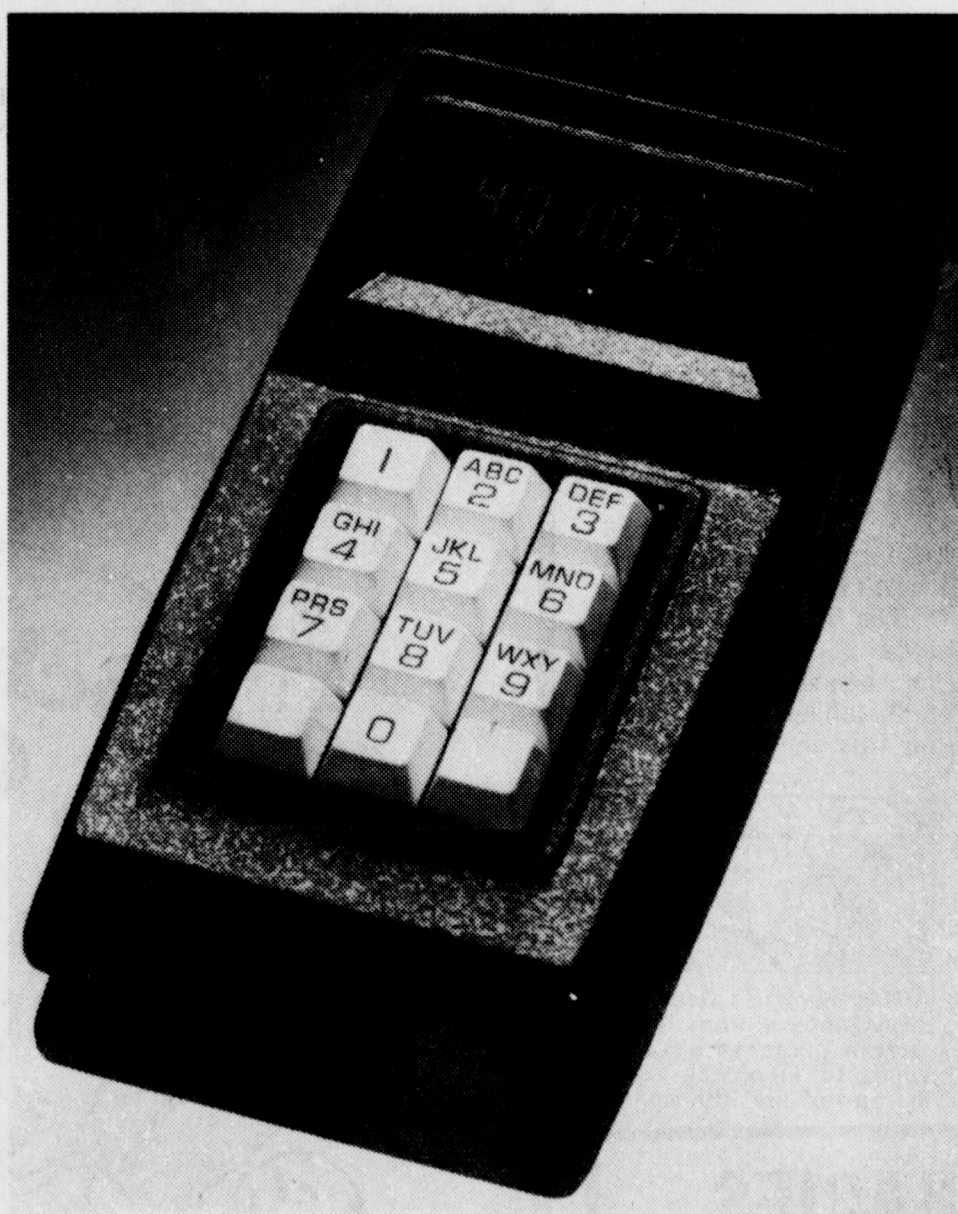

Fans use only about 150 watts of electricity or less, while a typical room air conditioner uses about 860 watts.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, neighbors and families for the kind words of sympathy, for the beautiful flowers, the memorials, for the prayers and for the food and to the ones that were so kind to offer their home to prepare and serve the food during the illness and at the death of our beloved husband and father. A special thanks to Rev. Burdette Hitt, Rev. J. H. Hallford, the Masons, and to Winters Funeral Home for their consolation and comforting services. May God richly bless each of you. —The Family of James Herley Hobbs Jr. 24-1tp

Summer rates for Lone Star customers will be in effect for consumption between meter reading dates in May and October.

They are designed to reduce the customer's cost approximately 25 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas used during that period.

(Under today's request, commercial customers would also have an increase in service rates.)
"Lone Star has long been dedicated to giving its customers the best possible service at reasonable cost. To maintain this commitment, Lone Star must be permitted to earn a reasonable rate on its investment in Winters. Lacking this, we and our customers suffer twice. First, we could ultimately be unable to maintain or expand our facilities in this area in response to customer needs. Second, those who depend upon us for natural gas service could experience year-round curtailments were Lone Star no longer able to compete successfully for important new reserves of natural gas," Tuggle observed.
Tuggle added that, despite recent cost increases to customers, natural gas is still, by comparison, the most economical energy used in the home today.
