Blizzards Go To Stamford Friday

The Winters Blizzards enter District 6-AA conference competition in slightly crippled condition, to say the least, with five first stringers expected to be out of action for this week's game, and some for additional time. Injuries extend from the Coleman game, the Roscoe game, and into an off-week workout period.

Brett Burleson, TE-DE, will be out for another week with rib injuries received at Coleman.

Scott Hall, TE, received an ankle injury in the Roscoe game, and will be out for this week's game, but may be ready for the Merkel game.

School Classes Will Dismiss Early Friday

Classes in Winters Public Schools will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Friday, so that buses can make regular runs and return in time to make the trip to Stamford for the Blizzard-Bulldog football game.

Gene Bowden, SE-SS, received a bruised wrist in the Coleman game, and will be out of action against Stamford.

John Esquivel, G-NG, broke a finger in workouts last Monday, and will be out of action this week.

Rusty Allen, QB-CB, bruised an elbow in the Roscoe game, and will see little if any action against Stamford.

Coach Les Fisher said last week's open date provided time for "getting healed and ready for district play." He said he will be playing some boys out of position to try to maintain some sort of depth, changes made necessary by the several injuries.

Coach Fisher described the Stamford Bulldogs as "an explosive team," with two fast running backs in Davis and Gardner, who are capable of breaking on long TD runs on any given play. Fisher said Stamford "could have the best throwing quarterback in 6-AA, Mike Cox."

Offensively, Stamford is a 50-50 squad, passing and running. "Their quarterback can throw from any place on the field."

The Bulldogs' Gomez, No. 48, has caught three TD passes in two games, and dropped one against Haskell last week.

Stamford's size is average in the line, but they are quick and well-coached and aggressive. They utilize veers, draws, and screens to get speed in the open field, Fisher said. Their biggest asset is their quickness.

Defensively, the Bulldogs are very difficult to get outside because of their speed. Their linebackers pursue the ball quickly, and nobody has hurt them on the outside. No. 33, Liles, strong safety on defense, lines up in different positions and makes throwing against them difficult, Fisher said.

In Haskell's defeat of Stamford last week, 41-28, the Indians scored more in that one game against the Bulldogs than Stamford had all last year, Coach Fisher pointed out.

Coach Fisher said they just may be the leader in the District 6-AA race. In the Harris poll, Stamford is listed No. 24 in State AA. Coahoma, picked early as the district leader, is listed at 98, behind Abilene Wylie at No. 42.

The game begins at 7:30 at Stamford.

Political Pot Simmers

Filing deadline for county elective officers is some months away, and election time farther down the calendar, but the county's political pot already has been set simmering.

Grady W. Campbell of Ballinger has announced he will be a candidate for County Sheriff in the 1980 election.

Campbell, 37, has filed as a Democratic candidate, and has already started his campaign. Candidate posters are already circulating, as the Ballinger man said he wanted to get an early start.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Mallie Campbell, he served in the U.S. Army for six years, and was stationed in Korea and Germany. He attended the police academy at Kilgore College and the fire fighters academy at Marshall, receiving basic certification in both areas.

Campbell worked two years with the Harrison County Sheriff's Dept. and for a year with the Runnels County Sheriff's Dept. under the late Don Atkins.

Campbell was Ballinger police chief from Aug. 3, 1976, until June 27, 1977, resigning for "personal reasons."

He moved to Ozona in July 1977 and worked with the Crockett County Sheriff's Dept. a year before moving back to Ballinger.

He and his wife, Lucille, have five children, Richard, 16; Robert, 14; Mabelle 12; Malissa 5; and Grady, 17 months.

Kenneth Slimp Hired As City Attorney

Kenneth Slimp, who recently joined the law firm of Grindstaff, Grindstaff & Reese, with offices in Winters, Monday night was employed by the City Council to serve as Winters' City Attorney.

Slimp succeeds Don Reese in that office. Reese submitted his resignation to the council Monday night, indicating that his practice had become so involved he did not have time to properly serve the city as city attorney.

New Bank

The steel reinforcing for the walls of one of the vaults of the Winters State Bank building now under construction gives the appearance of a multi-storied complex of some sort, or a giant wafer. Ground was broken for the new bank building on South Main in July, and construction is not expected to be completed before late next spring.

RSWCD Director Election Next Tuesday

A director to serve Zone 1 of the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District will be elected in a regular election Tuesday, Oct. 9, in the county courthouse, at 7:30 p.m.

Otto Gottschalk, chairman of the board, said that state law requires that a person to be eligible to vote in a soil and water district election must own agricultural land within the zone where the election is held, must live in the county, all or part of which is in the district, and must be 21 years of age.

Zone 1 of the RSWCD includes the southeast quarter of Runnels County, from U.S. 83 east, and from U.S. 67 south.

Current members of the board are Gottschalk, Ballinger, chairman; David Ocker, Rowena, vice chairman; Cone J. Robinson Sr., Norton, secretary; Douglas Cole, Winters; and Sam Faubion, Talpa.

City Council Will Study Ordinances

Winters City Council is now studying at least three proposed ordinances which will, if enforced, greatly reduce fire hazards within the city, provide additional health protection to Winters residents, and provide for a cleaner and neater appearance.

One of the ordinances will provide for disposal of old and run-down buildings which are not occupied, and which are havens for vermin and skunks, and are eyesores, in addition to being fire hazards. There are many such old houses within the city limits, which have been allowed to fall down, and weeds allowed to grow wild on the lots. The proposed ordinance would allow the city to require owners of such property to remove them, or to remove them and charge the expense against the property.

Also, at least one of the ordinances will provide for removal of junk automobiles which have been abandoned in many parts of town, and which also become breeding places for rats and skunks.

The council will receive the new and/or revised ordinances at the next regular meeting for study and action.

Will Review Applications For Position

Winters City Council Monday night received applications from several persons seeking the position of Animal Control Officer, but postponed hiring someone for the job until a subsequent meeting.

The position became vacant recently when Franklin O'Dell, who had been running the Animal Control Dept. since April, resigned to enter private business.

Reseeding

John McAdoo operates a grass seeder as Preston Barker, Jerry Sims, Leonard Smith and Pat Wood throw sand on one of the greens at the Winters Country Club golf course. The course has been closed for at least two weeks to allow the grass to come up. All the greens at the course have been in bad shape this season, along with greens of most every golf course over the area, because of the hard freezes of last winter and other damaging factors. Also working on the greens over the weekend but not in this picture were Louis DeLaCruz, John Dry and Alton O'Neal.

TRACING YOUR ROOTS

Since the advent of ROOTS on television, the tracing of family roots has become a popular pastime. So much so that workshops have become widespread in our country today. They are usually conducted by a genealogical society or a library and last from one day to as much as three days.

An all-day workshop was sponsored by the Texas State Genealogical Society and held on a recent Saturday in the Houston Harte Center at San Angelo State University.

Twelve people from Runnels County attended the seminar and heard David B. Gracy II, director of the Texas State Archives, and Michael J. Dabrishus, state archivist, in charge of reference service and information processing. They spoke on obtaining archival information by mail and rules and regulations governing the use of archival records.

The Texas State Archives is one division of the Texas State Library. Genealogy does not focus on Texas but on Texas state government. They are responsible for preserving all non-current government records of permanent historical and legal value which have been created or collected by Texas state government offices, departments and agencies. Only those county records required to be sent to a state government agency are retained in the files. All other county records such as deeds, wills and marriage licenses remain in the county courthouse. Federal records are retained in the federal districts or the national archives.

Archive holdings cover a period from 1729 to the present and include colonial, Republic and state records. The earliest census records are of Nacogdoches—Gateway to Texas 1827-34. There is also a fairly large collection of county histories catalogued in the Texas book collection. Confederate and Ranger Muster roles are a rich source of information. The researcher needs only to fill in the commanding officers name.

For the convenience of researchers the Genealogical Section remains open from 8 to 5, Monday through Saturday. For written information, the address is Genealogy Section, Texas State Library, Box 12927, Capitol Station, Texas 78711.

No fee is charged for staff research and although the state archives is limited, they search military records and existing finding aids for whatever information is available. The researcher should have a good idea about records and gather as much information as possible before writing. Records Search Forms are provided for greater convenience in requesting information.

There are other records not in the State Archives that are available for use. County records have been collected by North Texas State University at Denton and the researcher can write them in care of Texas County Records Project.

Texas A&M has majored on agriculture and the Southwest Collection, record of land companies, can be found at Texas Tech in Lubbock, housed in the old social services building.

Think what kind of activity the person was involved in and search records of organizations. If he was a member of the Masonic Lodge write Grand Lodge of Texas, Box 446, Waco 76703. A history of railroads in Texas may be found at the Houston Public Library and University of Texas in El Paso, also at the Railroad and Pioneer Museum at Temple. Baptists in Texas records are kept at Baylor University in Waco and the Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth.

Gracy gave some helpful hints for the protection of papers and stated the five worst enemies were light, especially sunlight and fluorescent; acid; man himself, folding and stashing away; insects; and changing atmosphere, paper is like us—it likes the same temperature.

To preserve the integrity of your papers keep everything that one person says together, and to take the best care of your research, unfold the documents, to continue folding attribute to deterioration. Don't mount it and put it in the light. Don't file documents with high acid content next to those of low acid, newspaper is highly acid. Maintain papers in constant temperature of 70 degrees. Keep material in a clean place and if placed in a filing cabinet, keep as tight as possible. Avoid pressure sensitive tape, especially cellophane. Lamination is helpful and further information can be secured from Document Conservation Center, 3099 Andrews Dr., Atlanta, Ga. 30305.

Perhaps you have never traced your family's roots and would like to know how to begin. Right in packs of old letters may be the answers to many questions about your family. An old family Bible may have the facts about births, marriages and deaths. The births and deaths are recorded in the office of Vital Records in the state where the event happened.

If you have not located dates of deaths, you can visit the cemeteries where your ancestors are buried and check the gravestones. With the date of death known, search for the issue of the newspaper that carried the obituary. Visit the library and prepare for a visit to the courthouse.

It is important to record or to "log" your findings in a simple and orderly way. Make some notes on your plans for getting to your family roots. And get on with it.

Miss Kruse and Mr. Slimp Wed Saturday

Mary Evelyn Kruse and Mr. Kenneth H. Slimp were united in marriage at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 29, in Fort Worth, in University Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Kruse of San Benito. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd B. Slimp, Jr., of Weatherford.

Mr. Slimp recently joined the law firm of Grindstaff, Grindstaff & Reese in Winters.

The wedding area was decorated with two seven-cup candelabra flanking the altar, fronted by palms, two floral bouquets, and two solitary candles on the communion table.

Mrs. Betty Boles, organist, played wedding music, and Laura Bennett of Anderson, S.C., was soloist. Mrs. Juanita Owen was church hostess.

Business of the Month

Nelan Bahlman, owner and manager of Spill Furniture Co., poses with the Business of the Month plaque presented by the Winters Chamber of Commerce for the month of September. The plaque is awarded to businesses which have added improvements.

Cancer Unit Met Recently

The North Runnels Unit of the American Cancer Society met in the office of the Winters Chamber of Commerce for a salad supper.

The 1979-80 goal of the local unit is "Better Our Best." The unit received a certificate for excelling their goals for the past 13 years.

Steve Thompson, field representative, presented the unit with a certificate of authorization issued by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Tom Tribble, president of the unit for some months, submitted his resignation. He is moving to Fort Worth.

A rummage sale is being planned for October, with the date to be announced.

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Raymond T. Moore, M.D., Commissioner

Although most spiders are harmless and are even beneficial to man because they eat beetles, mosquitoes and flies, there are two types to avoid in Texas—the black widow and the brown recluse.

The black widow's venom—15 times more powerful than that of a rattlesnake—affects the nervous system. Fortunately, the black widow's venom supply is small. She is called a widow because she often eats her husband after mating.

"The female black widow will spin a somewhat well-constructed permanent web in which she will remain while waiting to trap her prey," said Paul V. Fournier, of the Texas Department of Health's General Parasitology Branch. "Most cases of black widow spider bites occur when the victim inadvertently backs into or penetrates the web."

Fournier said exposure to this spider is generally outdoors in natural habitats such as tree holes or stumps, or abandoned rodent burrow openings. He said the black widow also lives in peripheral domestic locations such as garages, sheds, outdoor privies and water heater closets.

"In Texas black widows are frequently found under the eaves of residences, and under or inside mailboxes," Fournier commented.

Symptoms following the bite from a black widow spider are usually quite distinct and immediate. Some pain at the site of the bite may be evident, followed by acute stomach cramping, heavy perspiration, and difficulty in breathing. Treatment usually involves administration of the specific antivenin. According to the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Public Health Service, only five percent of those untreated die and there is no record of anyone having had antivenin treatment dying.

The black widow is easily recognized by its black, brown or gray globe-shaped abdomen and the red, orange, or yellow hourglass markings on the underside. Young females and males may have other reddish or orange markings on the upper side of the abdomen in addition to the hourglass, and unbanded legs as well.

The brown recluse spider is different from the black widow in many ways. Although its natural habitat is outdoors, it can readily establish an infestation inside homes. Unlike the black widow, the brown recluse will leave its loosely constructed web to search for food and this is when most of the bites occur.

"Very heavy infestations have been investigated in a number of Travis County homes," said Fournier. "In one case, an infestation of adults, spiderlings, and eggs was found thriving in springs of a living room sofa. Other infestations have been found in garages, yard buildings, cabins, and bedroom closets. Perhaps the heaviest infestation investigated so far was found in the attic of a house just outside of Austin. It was estimated that several hundred spiders were present."

Reports from central Texas physicians indicate that bites from brown recluse spiders may be more common than previously supposed. During 1977, a total of 100 cases were reported in Travis County alone. An additional 40 cases were reported from other central Texas counties.

The bite of a brown recluse spider, unlike that of the black widow, may result more often in a localized rather than a systemic reaction.

There is no immediate pain from a bite, but in four to eight hours the victim has intense pain and itching around the bite area. A thick wheal develops. This may later turn reddish or purplish and the skin may later die and slough off, leaving a deep, granular scar.

"One case brought to the attention of the Texas Department of Health involved a bite inflicted on the victim's hand," Fournier recalled. "The lesion slowly continued to expand over a period of five months, eventually requiring a skin graft."

There is no antivenin for the brown recluse bite and cases are treated by treating the symptoms. Surgical excision of the center of the area that is sloughing off and the use of steroids is frequently prescribed by physicians.

The brown recluse looks much like many other spiders except for a distinguishing fiddle-shaped marking on the head. This marking explains its other common name, the "fiddle-back spider." The brown recluse is usually light to dark brown in color and has short brown hair. It has six eyes while most

The Second Budget Resolution And A Republican Alternative

By the time you read this, the House of Representatives will have voted on the Second Budget Resolution for Fiscal Year 1980. You may recall that in May of this year, the House approved the First Budget Resolution, a "budget target" which called for outlays of $532 billion, revenues of $509 billion, resulting in a deficit of $23 billion. I voted against that first budget because even with a lower deficit, it was not a balanced budget and would not lead to a balanced budget in the near future.

Now, however, we are being asked to approve the second—and binding—resolution some four months later, crafted by the liberal majority, which authorizes outlays of $548.7 billion, revenues of $519.5 billion, and which results in a deficit of $29.2 billion. This represents a $17 billion growth in planned spending, a $10 billion growth in taxation and a 27 percent growth in the deficit, all in only four months!

At the beginning of this year, I was hopeful that the House would act more responsibly on fiscal matters. That we might see a decline in the growth of federal spending and a decline in deficits, even if we couldn't be successful in absolutely balancing the budget. My hopes for fiscal restraint are now being severely tested by this Congress.

A Perspective

Since 1955, when the control of the House went to a new Democrat majority, this is what we have witnessed:

- Spending has increased over 700%, from $68.5 billion in 1955 to an all time record of $548.7 billion proposed for 1980.
- Federal spending as a percentage of our Gross National Product has increased from 17% to nearly 22%.
- Social welfare programs (principally the transfer of income from the productive private sector to the non-productive public sector through taxpayer-financed social welfare programs) have grown at the direct expense of our national security. For instance:
 - in 1955, defense spending was 58% of the budget, while for 1980, defense spending will amount to 25% of the budget;
 - over the same period of time, income redistribution (social welfare) programs have grown to constitute more than 50% of the budget;

or, to put it another way, in the ten years between 1969 and 1979, defense spending has increased 44%, community and regional development rose 359%, education, training, employment and social security programs rose 335%, and income security payments soared by 332%.

Big Government continues to mushroom. Spending levels continue to leap by bounds. Taxpaying wage earners continue to provide more and more financial support for an ever growing number of non-workers who are, in fact, capable of helping themselves.

A Republican Alternative

The very future of this nation depends upon reversing this spending pattern. The Republican alternative to the Second Budget Resolution would have achieved that goal, in part, by cutting $19 billion from spending, resulting in a much lower $20 billion deficit in 1980 and a balanced budget in 1981—while permitting a $20 billion tax CUT aimed at the supply side of the economy to stimulate savings and investment, to improve our sagging economy and to meet the ravaging effect of inflation on our pocketbooks.

Yes, some domestic programs would be reduced by this plan—primarily OSHA, the EPA and other regulatory agencies which are strangling American productivity and staggering the American economy to the tune of $65 billion each year! On the other hand, under the Republican proposal the first and foremost spending role of the federal government, national defense, would actually increase a modest amount, in line with our commitments to our NATO allies.

We are at a critical point in determining the destiny of this spiders, including the black widow, have eight eyes.

The Texas Department of Health has prepared an informational leaflet on the habits and control of the brown recluse. It is free upon request. In addition, specimens suspected of being a brown recluse may be submitted for complete determination. The specimen should be in alcohol and information as to the type of location should accompany it. Specimens and inquiries for the leaflet should be directed to the General Parasitology Branch, Bureau of Laboratories, Texas Department of Health, Austin, Texas 78756.

Disgusting Actions

The best thing that can be said about unsigned, anonymous letters—no matter to whom addressed, no matter the content—is that they make good fire starters. Otherwise, there is no good in them; they can cause more harm than good, and can cause some amount of anguish to the innocent. All unsigned, anonymous letters—like crank telephone calls—can put bundled into one category: worthless and sometimes harmful trash. They actually reflect the true character of the writer as one out to hurt someone and who chooses to hide behind anonymity while committing their despicable acts.

The Enterprise occasionally receives unsigned letters, some attempting to praise and some derogatory . . . but they all end up in the same place—the wastebasket—branded with disgust. In this business, one becomes resigned to the fact that there are some who prefer to remain unknown in anything they might say or do. Resigned to the fact, perhaps, but saddened to be reminded that this type of person does exist.

However, a newspaper is not the only organization to become a target for such letter writing. Actually, no one is immune. Recently an organization in Winters received such an unsigned letter. On the surface, it appeared that the writer was praising the organization, along with several individuals in the community. However, upon close examination, it could be readily understood that the writer was putting down the organization, the board, the secretary, and the several individuals listed. It was on the edge of being a poison-pen letter—actually, it could have been called that. The writer was obviously trying to cause hard feelings among members of the community. But it didn't work—it had the opposite effect. Most people would dismiss such and consider commenting on it a waste of time, which actually it is. This is what is done in most instances. But sometimes one has to get on his hind legs and express the disgust germinated by such messages. This is not the first time this has happened, nor will it be the last . . . but it is nonetheless unpalatable.

Food Service Certificates Presented

Virgie Lee Jansa of Winters was among 14 persons receiving certificates Sept. 30 as food service supervisors after completing training on the TSTI Sweetwater campus for 16 weeks. The course trains persons to supervise food service operations in hospitals, nursing homes, and other health-care facilities.

Seventy-five relatives and friends attended certification ceremonies and a reception on the TSTI Sweetwater campus.

ATTEND ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Belew, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Scotty Belew and family, all of Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Winford Hogan of Clyde attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Scott of Dimmitt Sunday.

 INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS ***

PAELLA SALAD

A cool idea for the cost-conscious food shopper with gourmet tastes is aromatic Paella Salad, made with nutritious, satisfying rice.

It takes its cue from Spanish paella, combining low-calorie rice with healthful seafood, chicken and green peas, seasoned in the traditional manner and best presented cold and garnished with red, fresh tomatoes.

- 1 package (6 ounces) frozen cooked, peeled, and deveined shrimp
- 3 cups cool cooked saffron rice*
- 1 can (8 ounces) minced clams, drained
- 1-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1-1/2 cups each sliced celery and cooked green peas
- 1/2 cup diced green pepper
- 1/3 cup sliced green onions with tops
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons dry white wine
- 3 tablespoons capers, optional
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon each garlic powder and pepper
- 2 medium fresh tomatoes, cut in wedges

Thaw and slice shrimp in half lengthwise. Combine with rice, clams, chicken, celery, green peas, green pepper, and onions. Blend mayonnaise with remaining ingredients except tomatoes. Pour over shrimp mixture and toss lightly. Chill. Use tomatoes for garnish or toss with salad before chilling. Makes 8-1/2 cups, or 6 to 8 servings.

UT Austin Law, Business Works On Getting Fusion Device Together

AUSTIN (Spl.)—Scientists from around the world are expected to be attracted to The University of Texas beginning in 1980 when UT's Fusion Research Center completes construction of a new device needed to achieve nuclear fusion.

The device is the Texas Experimental Torus (TEXT).

TEXT will permit scientists to conduct basic research on nuclear fusion, an energy-releasing process that occurs when the nuclei of atoms of deuterium (found in ordinary sea water) fuse under high heat to form helium. It is estimated that one pitcher of sea water contains enough nuclear fusion "fuel" to provide an average household with electricity for a year.

AUSTIN (Spl.)—Law and business are getting together on The University of Texas campus.

A new joint program between the School of Law and the Graduate School of Business will make it possible for a student to receive simultaneously the Doctor of Jurisprudence and the Master of Business Administration degrees. Completing the program will take four or more years.

Because of the extensive interaction between law and business in society, the new UT program has been devised to train students for enhanced careers either in the private sector or the legal profession, or both.

CHAMBER CHATTER

The question is asked several times over, "What does the Chamber of Commerce stand for, or what is the purpose of having a chamber?"

The Winters Area Chamber of Commerce stands for "Winters." The Chamber membership is made up of our merchants, our industries, our schools, our civic clubs, our ministers, our farmers, retired people and other individuals to promote our town.

Winters is known throughout the state and nation as a progressive and friendly area. So the purpose of Chamber Chatter is to inform everyone what is going on in Winters.

The local merchants have contributed gift items for the Chamber to present "Welcome Packets" to visitors attending a convention and to newcomers. At the Young Farmers convention last week 100 packets were presented, and received with much appreciation.

Spill Bros. Furniture received the Chamber's Recognition Award for the month of September.

This award is given in recognition of outstanding contributions to the overall attractiveness and progressiveness of Winters. Nelan Bahlman and the staff have remodeled and rearranged the interior of their store, making a most attractive display of their sofa room and carpet department as well as an office island in the center of the store. Congratulations Spill Bros.

Glenda Morgan, with the Texas Historical Commission, of Odessa met with members and chairmen of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation in the Chamber Office last week to help in laying the ground work for a successful museum and gave a lot of helpful information.

The American Cancer Society kicked off a new year with a salad supper in the Chamber office on Tuesday with 20 present.

Windmill Country

By Jerry Lackey

Murph Compton, manager of Compton Warehouse Company in Menard, said the last mohair sale in South Africa was 10 percent lower and would affect the Texas market for a time.

San Angelo warehouseman George Taylor said Texas mohair was being quoted at $3.85 for adult hair following the Cape sale.

Bill Pfluger, who ranches in several counties, turned from mohair to the current wool market as he talked with a warehouseman.

I followed suit by visiting over coffee with Glen Fisher, manager of Sonora Wool and Mohair Company.

"We moved about 15,000 pounds of 12-month wools recently from 94 cents to $1.06 per pound," he stated. "And some 20,000 pounds of fall lambs wool was shipped. The bulk of it went for 98 cents per pound."

Talking about the mohair situation, Fisher added "We just shipped two cars of mohair—capes and tops—or about 35,000 pounds at $4.15 per pound. So there is a little activity."

more than 200,000 to 300,000 pounds of fall hair has been sold out of a clip that should be about 4,500,000 pounds.

However, the sheep market seems to be holding fully steady. Jack Drake, co-owner of Producers in San Angelo, the largest sheep in the nation, quoted a strong market throughout most of September.

Keith Mitchell of Sanderson sold 44 head of small to medium ewes for $56.50 per head through the San Angelo market. The Mitchell sheep also included some 36 ewes which brought $26.50 per head. They donated the entire sale to the annual livestock drive of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. There's was one of many such donations to WTRC of San Angelo, Abilene and Snyder.

Duwayne Edington, owner and operator of Coleman Auction Company, the site of a special WTRC sale October 17, quoted the cattle market "fully steady to higher."

He said fats came back in early Sept. at $2 higher after the Labor Day break and feeder kinds from $1 to $2 higher although receipts were down some.

Cool, Clear Water Important To Livestock

While discussing livestock watering facilities, Robert Fowler, technician with the Runnels County Work Unit of the Soil Conservation Service, said that water is as important as forage in the production of livestock. Like the longing of the desert crossing cowboy in Bob Nolan's song, "Cool Water," livestock also have a need, if not longing, for "cool, clear water."

According to Fowler, inadequate stock water development in pasture and range areas contributes to unstable livestock growth and losses, prevents the use of needed grazing areas, and encourages overgrazing in the vicinity of watering facilities.

Until recently the stockmen of this area were dependent upon streams, wells and surface ponds for livestock water. Now more and more stockmen are being supplied a dependable source of high quality water by the rural water distribution systems. While the rural pipelines may do away with the need for storage facilities, there must be troughs or tanks large enough to insure the constant availability of water needed by livestock. Since all of the livestock using a watering facility may drink during a short period of time each day, the water supply must be adequate to meet this demand.

Following is a general guide in determining minimum daily requirements: horses and beef cattle, 15 gallons; dairy cattle, 30 gallons; swine, 4 gallons; and sheep and goats, 2 gallons. These requirements may vary with climatic conditions, kinds of feed, and other factors.

Troughs should have a minimum capacity of 50 gallons and a minimum depth of 18 inches for horses, beef and dairy cattle. For sheep and goats the minimum capacity should be 15 gallons and a minimum depth of 6 inches. In determining the size of watering trough to install, consideration should be given to the number of livestock drinking at the same time and the rate of flow into the trough.

Watering facilities should be installed on a well-drained site near the center of the pasture or range to be grazed. Areas adjacent to the trough that will be trampled should be graveled or paved to provide firm footing. Automatic water level control and overflow facilities should also be provided.

The storage facility to back up a water source from a well should provide sufficient capacity for at least a week's water demand. As a general rule the weaker the well, the greater the need for additional storage.

Fowler said that consumption of water by livestock is highest during these summer months and that now is an ideal time to check existing watering facilities to be sure that livestock needs

Coenzyme Q And The Heart

AUSTIN (Spl.)—Increasing the heart's ability to pump blood—and thereby sustain energy—is one of the findings University of Texas researchers have made about coenzyme Q, a vitamin-like substance which exists naturally in the human body.

The UT study also has found that coenzyme Q protects the hearts of cancer patients against the cardiotoxicity of a cancer drug (adriamycin) without lessening the drug's ability to fight tumors.

The coenzyme Q study has been made by UT Austin's Institute for Biomedical Research and the UT Health Center at Tyler.

Street Renewal

The asphalt topping of West Dale St. in Winters had become very rough in many places until State Highway Dept. crews undertook an extensive patching job. For several blocks, West Dale has a base of bricks, covered by asphalt; in places, the topping had worn down to the brick, and the street had become very rough. West Dale is Loop 438, the business route of east-west FM 53, and carries a lot of traffic.

Read To Children

C/F Campaign Raised $216 In Recent Drive

A total of $216.86 was raised during the recent Breath of Life Campaign to raise money for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Mrs. Randy Springer, chairman of the Winters chapter, has announced.

Mrs. Springer extended thanks "on behalf of lung-damaged children throughout the United States, to the many residents of this community who did everything to help in the Breath of Life Campaign. We wish to extend a special thank you to the Winters Enterprise for the coverage they gave us, and a thank you to the businesses for the space used for posters."

She said the contributors and volunteers' contributions is beyond measure. "Their efforts will help to support Cystic Fibrosis Centers throughout the U.S. specializing in the diagnosis, treatment and referral of children with C/F and other lung-damaging diseases."

Mrs. Springer said that "the mass media in this community have taught more people what we know about lung-damaging diseases in children. Providing an invaluable public service, the Winters Enterprise and KRUN radio have alerted parents to the signs of children's lung-damaging disease and to the importance of diagnosis and comprehensive treatment."

PROCLAMATION

BY THE COUNTY JUDGE OF RUNNELS COUNTY

TO ALL TO WHOME THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

I, Bill B. Stultz, County Judge of Runnels County, do hereby declare the week of October 7-13, 1979 as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in Runnels County, for the following reasons:

WHEREAS, it all started on October 9, 1911, when Fire Prevention Day was inaugurated. The date of October 9 was chosen because it marks the anniversary of the so-called "Great Chicago Fire of 1871"—the conflagration which killed 250 people and destroyed 17,430 buildings at a cost of $168 million, and the fire which started people thinking in terms of fire "prevention" rather than only of fire "fighting." The Day was first proclaimed by President Woodrow Wilson on the 40th anniversary of the Chicago blaze. President Warren Harding was the first to officially proclaim national FIRE PREVENTION WEEK. The week is sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association.

WHEREAS, this year's theme is: "PARTNERS IN FIRE PREVENTION." The official poster depicts the fireman standing with members of a family. Good fire safety planning and practice is a matter of "togetherness": the individual and the family working to keep their residence as fire-safe as possible, following recommendations of the Fire Department.

WHEREAS, according to NFPA, "PARTNERS IN FIRE PREVENTION" includes a combination of some of the following safety practices: (1) Keep the household clean by keeping accumulations of burnables at a minimum; (2) Practice safety with flammable materials and electrical appliances; (3) If anyone in the house smokes, provide a lot of large steady ash trays—discourage smoking in bed and while relaxing in an easy chair or couch; (4) Buy, install and maintain approved type smoke detectors; (5) Develop, learn and practice a home fire and emergency escape plan; (6) Make sure every member of the family is trained on how to turn in a fire alarm, and how to use portable fire extinguishers; and (7) Rehearse how to "Stop, Drop and Roll" as a means of smothering or extinguishing the fire if your skin, hair or clothing catches on fire.

THEREFORE, I urge all citizens of Runnels County to be a "Partner in Fire Prevention" from each Fire Prevention Week to the next without a gap, and Learn Not to Burn!
