Blizzards Host Merkel

Fresh from their exciting game with the Stamford Bulldogs last Friday night, which they lost 26 to 14, the Winters Blizzards host the Merkel Badgers in their second District 6-AA conference game of the season.

Kickoff time will be 7:30, as will all conference games the rest of the season.

The Blizzards pulled out all stops against a strong Stamford Bulldogs, with two inside the Bulldog 5-yard line, and one of those on the 2. Two other fumbles midfield resulted in good field position for Stamford, who went from there to score.

A blocked punt by Tommy Davis on the Stamford 30, recovered on the 20, helped the Blizzards onto the board. A 70-yard runback to pay territory by Toby Gerhart put the Blue on the counting board.

In the second half, Coach Les Fisher said, the boys were bothered with "cramping up," which hurt the Blizzards. Lack of depth forced changing of positions for many players, too, according to the coach, which caused some trouble.

Coach Fisher expressed pleasure at the good show presented by the Blizzards against Stamford, even though losing this first conference tilt. They seemed to be "up" for that game, with the realization that it was a "counter" in district competition. One bright spot in that game was the punting, Fisher said. Scott Billups kicked five, averaging 45 yards, a good average in anybody's league.

The Blizzards are showing every indication of remaining "up" for the tilt with Merkel this week, on home grass. Injuries received in the Stamford game may sideline Brett Billups and David Brewer — turned ankles — but they may play some Friday night, the coach said. Fisher also said that Scott Hall and Brett Burleson have remained out of action because of injuries, but he "hopes they will be ready to go Friday." This week's workouts will sway the decision, he indicated.

The Merkel Badgers are 0-4 for the season, losing their opener to Baird; to Rotan 38-12, to Clyde 42-14; and to Coahoma in their district opener 35-7.

The Badgers have a new coach and a new philosophy this year. They're throwing the ball more this year than in the past, and look good in this area.

Last year's QB, No. 20, Bart Pursley, a junior, has been switched to running back, and is the fastest man on the Badger squad. He is capable of breaking at any given moment.

Danny Davis, a senior quarterback for Merkel, is a transfer from Stamford, and is quick and can throw well at times, according to scouting reports.

The Badgers are an aggressive team, and will outweigh the Blizzards about 10 pounds per man across the offensive line. They have scored 12-14 each comeout, and can move the ball. When they're in a bind, they will start throwing. They run out of two or three sets, and are on the verge of being a "good team."

The Badgers have five seniors, five juniors and one soph on the starting offensive team. However, they are having a struggle with their punting game.

This week's game — Winters vs. Merkel — may prove to be an eyeopener in District 6-AA, regardless of the records of either team.

After-Game Fellowship At U-M Church

An after-game fellowship will be held at the First United Methodist Church Friday, Oct. 12, following the Winters-Merkel football game.

All local students and visiting youth are invited to attend.

Cotton Fire

Five bales were lost Monday night when the cotton in this trailer caught fire. Dolph Richards was pulling the full trailer to the gin when he noticed that there was a lot of light behind his pickup. He stopped and found the cotton on fire, and unhitched the trailer and went to the Red Top Grocery & Station and called the Winters Fire Department. Firemen poured water and foam onto the burning cotton, and later turned the trailer over to save it. The fire smoldered all night, and started burning briskly after the cold front hit about 6:15

Tuesday morning. Five bales of cotton were completely destroyed. The fire occurred of FM 53 about a quarter mile west of the Red Top. The cotton belonged to Lawrence Champond.

Council Studies Land Acquisition

Much of the preliminary work has been done toward building a new dam and water reservoir for Winters, and applications for long-term loans and grants have been forwarded to state and federal agencies. Some of the engineering work remains to be completed, but this is expected to be done within the next few months.

One of the most important areas of the proposed project is acquisition of enough land for the dam and resulting reservoir. Winters' city council this week began meeting with landowners who have property which will be affected by the project, to work out agreements as to cost and other requirements. One group of landowners met with the council Monday night, with others scheduled for later dates.

There was no way of knowing this week what the land costs would be, as negotiations are barely underway. However, it was anticipated that land costs would be in the neighborhood of current prices for comparable land. Landowners are not expected to "throw up price stumbling blocks in order to gouge the City of Winters," one source said.

However, if the city and the landowners cannot reach an agreement on reasonable prices for the land required, the city will be forced to resort to condemnation proceedings, it was indicated.

A total of 450.89 new acres will be required for the dam and reservoir, in addition to the present lake site, according to the engineers' figures. This will be adequate land for the dam, spillways, and for maximum fill, in addition to having room "around the edges" for service requirements.

The present dam and lake covers 661 acres, and the additional land will bring the total to 1111.89 acres. The city at one time owned much of the land to the south of the present dam, but this was sold several years ago. The proposed new dam would be located south of the present lake and dam, and just north of FM 53.

This project to provide much needed additional water for the City of Winters, and the North Runnels Rural Water Supply Corp., which draws most of its water from the city, has been in the planning and working stages for several years. Officials have indicated that prospects are very good that the project will become a reality within the next few months. Also, it has been indicated, the position of Winters in regards to obtaining financial assistance from state and federal agencies is "very good" at this time.

Blizzard Band Ends Successful Enterprise Subscription Campaign

The third annual Winters Enterprise subscription campaign by members of the Winters

Lunch Week To Be Noted At School

National School Lunch Week, Oct. 14-20, will be observed in the Winters Public School cafeteria, with special menus and visitation periods. Mrs. Lavada Haupt, supervisor of the cafeteria, announced this week.

The observance will be to promote the school lunches and good nutrition among students. Theme is, "Eat to learn, learn to eat," and in coordination with the International Year of the child, "Nutrition With Love."

Parents of school children are invited to have lunch with their children any day of the special week.

High School Blizzard Band ended last week, and leading sales teams and individuals were named and presented bonus checks Tuesday by R. C. Thomas, Enterprise publisher.

A complete audit has not been made, but Band Director Eddie Pace said Tuesday morning that the band's commission and bonuses probably would be over $400.

This is the third year the Blizzard Band has run this subscription campaign. The Enterprise pays the band a commission on each renewal and new subscription, in addition to bonuses for teams and individuals.

Top sales individuals in this year's campaign were: Tie for first place, Debra Lanter and Tammy Jackson; 3rd, Tawnya Murray.

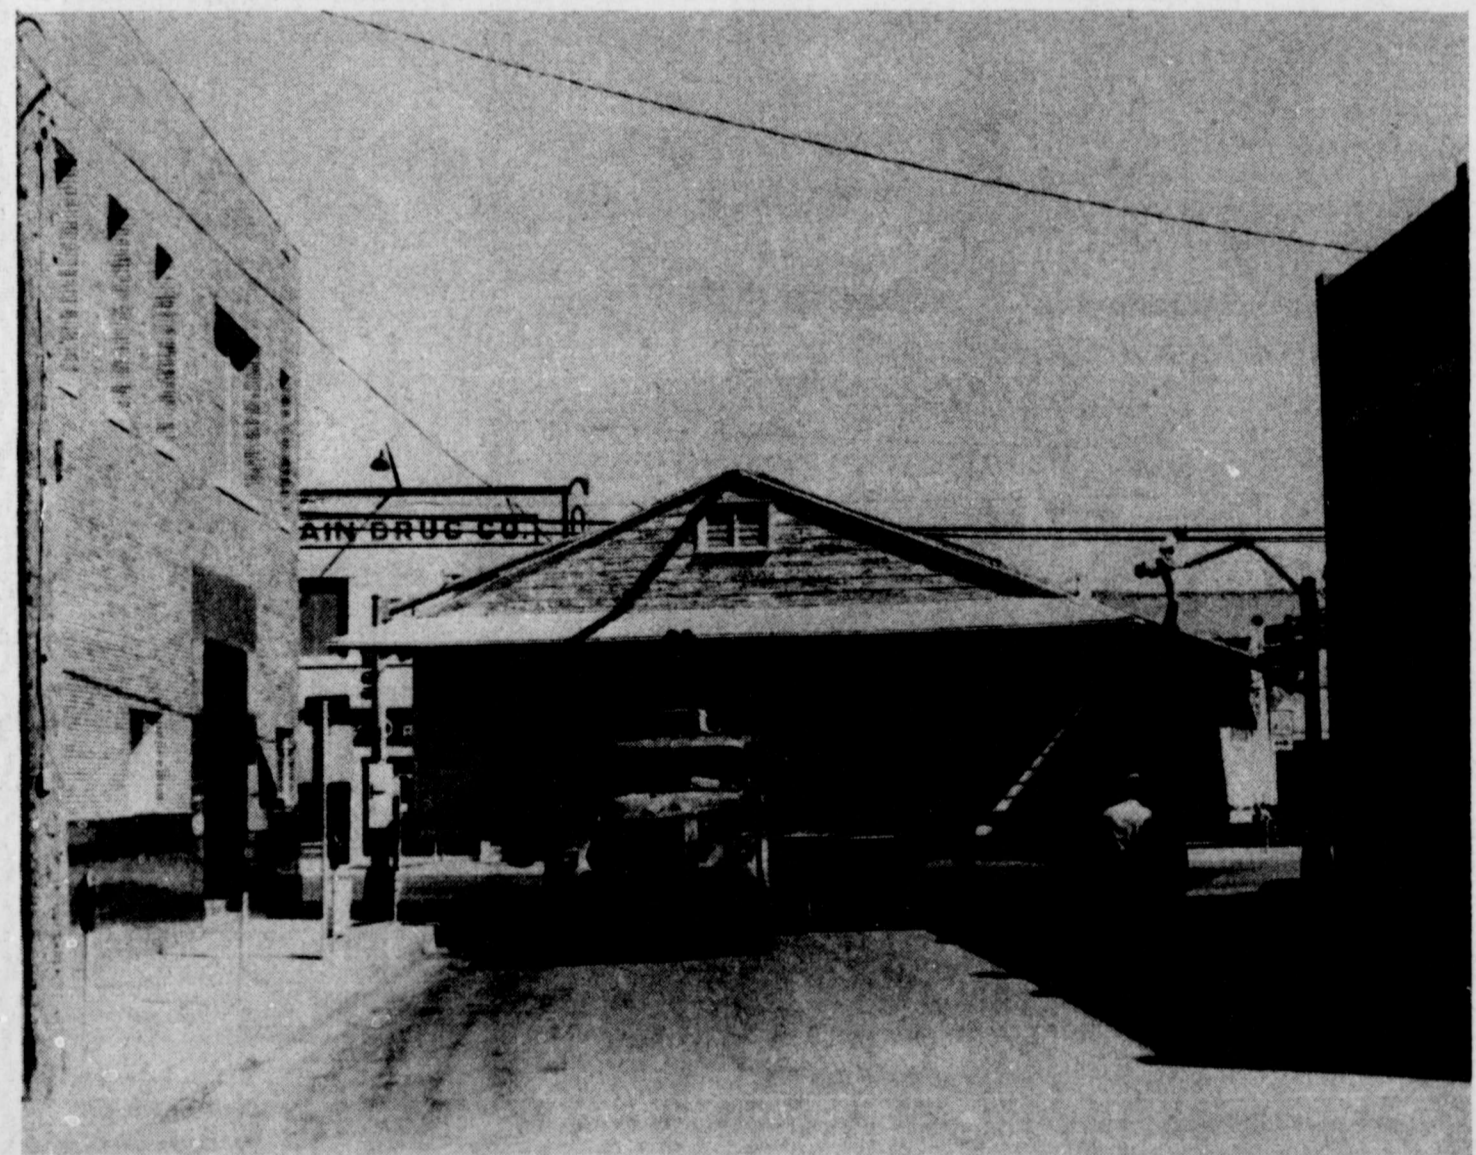

Teams were made up of three band members each.

First place team members: Debra Lanter, Gloria Issacs and Francine Miller.

Second place team: Lisa Bryan, Leah Pendergrass and Tammy Jackson.

Third place team: Anna Vera, Tawnya Murray and Yolanda Lujano.

The publisher of The Enterprise described the subscription sales campaign as "very successful," and expressed thanks and congratulations to the band members for their efforts in this project designed to raise money for the band. He pointed out that those renewing their subscriptions with band members, or subscribing for the first time, have helped the band financially. A note of thanks and appreciation has been directed to the readers of The Enterprise for their cooperation in this campaign.

Food Cost Forecast—Fall '79

"Good buys" in food will await Texas shoppers this fall, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Several "price drops" and supply increases are responsible, she explains. Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

PORK—shows promise throughout the fall since prices fell six percent in June and supplies are 16-18 percent over August 1978 levels.

BEEF—likely will remain stable due to a slower economy, although earlier forecasts promised higher prices.

CHICKEN—saw a 16-percent drop in prices last June, and prices should stay very favorable due to a 10-11 percent supply increase over August 1978.

TURKEY—prices should also be rosey for the fall.

EGGS—prices will depend on meat prices.

Lower meat prices should result in a lesser demand for eggs—so steady or lower egg prices are in the forecast.

FISH—prices vary greatly from species to species, so compare cost per serving for the best buys.

MILK—and milk products will require careful shopping for "specials," since prices generally rise in the fall due to the seasonal decline in production.

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—are generally at their best quality and lowest prices in late summer and early fall.

Look for plentiful supplies of peaches, grapes and pears.

Fresh limes are a better buy than lemons—the Florida lemon crop is 26 percent below last year.

Also, expect fall "specials" on citrus juices.

Raisin prices should drop in November as growers recover from a dismal 1978 crop, Miss Haggard says. Forecasters predict a 15 percent increase above last year's raisin crop.

Woman Calls Tune

AUSTIN (Spl.)—A woman has been named to call the tune in The University of Texas Music Department.

She is Dr. Fiora Contino, one of the most prominent women conductors in America, who will be music chairman after Sept. 1, 1979. She has taught at Johns Hopkins and Indiana Universities and is a noted opera, symphonic and choral conductor.

Dr. Contino is the seventh woman to head a UT department or school. Women are departmental chairmen in advertising, home economics, physical and health education, and speech communication; one is dean of the LBJ School of Public Affairs, and another is dean of the School of Nursing.

While working with power tools, wear proper footwear and clothing, urges Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Loose clothing or jewelry can get caught in moving parts, she cautions.

Cooperatives—Good For All Americans

Farmer-owned and controlled cooperatives play a key role in making the family farm the highly productive system it has become. During October, which is "Cooperative Month," special recognition will be given to cooperatives for their roles in economic progress of this state and nation, points out Johnny Feagan, economist in organization with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. According to Feagan, Texas boasts more than 440 cooperatives that serve some 133,000 members. These cooperatives are doing a business volume of almost $1.7 billion annually. Nationally, some 50 million Americans belong to about 40,000 cooperatives. "Cooperatives in Texas range from farmer-owned gins, elevators and compresses to marketing, supply and credit organizations," explains Feagan. "Health, housing, insurance, electric, telephone and other service cooperatives are becoming more and more important to all Texas citizens." According to Feagan, cooperatives make it possible for family farmers to receive more dependable markets for their products and more dependable and lower cost supplies for their farm input. They also benefit consumers by taking the lead in furnishing quality products, in developing better packaging, and in using more efficient distribution methods, all of which helps hold down prices of food and fiber products. "Cooperatives evolved from the early American spirit of working together to survive. They were organized to compete with economic forces which threatened the economic existence of individuals. Today, cooperatives enable Americans to work together to help themselves," says the economist. Cooperatives are large and small and are located in towns, cities and in the country. Wherever they are and whatever their size, they are busy serving members, their communities and the public, contends Feagan.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

(Author's Note—With the first autumn breeze, we are changing the name of this column. It has been WINDMILL COUNTRY since its introduction in The Winters Enterprise, however that was my daily column for years in the Standard-Times.

So many readers can't remember where they read things and have been calling the S-T, so I find out, thinking the column is an extension of my old S-T column.

Well, this column was created exclusively for your hometown newspaper. And I am not at the S-T anymore but with West Texas Rehabilitation Center public relations. Just the same, we are addressing the COUNTRY FOLK in these weekly columns, so the name change may better identify the column with this newspaper.

Now, those readers desiring to write me can do so at: COUNTRY FOLK, 128 South Magdalen, San Angelo, Texas 76903.)

Boze Hartgrove was at the ranch near Millersview when the first norther of the fall season came in.

"We are in for a dry winter," he frowned. "If the first norther don't come in with some moisture, watch out . . . we are in for a dry spell!"

Worse yet, it appears we are in a drought this fall for the most part. Dry weather is not only evident in range conditions, it is spoken in action and movement of livestock. Most area auction sales have been running overflows of livestock receipts, which we will visit about in a minute.

Van Waterhouse of San Angelo was giving me a bird report the other day and happened to be in a dove blind hunting when the first norther came in. He says the weather change "didn't bring any corn-fat birds through the Concho Valley."

"I did spot some sandhill cranes going south from my blind about mid-September," added Waterhouse, which could mean that old man winter may be coming in some earlier this year.

Now, concerning the increased livestock movements, Edsel Newson at Producers in San Angelo says cattle numbers have been "way up" coming to market and believes "it is all due to the dry weather."

I stopped by the Mason Auction the other day and numbers were up.

Visiting with Mike Dail at Mason, he stated ranchmen's fear of a "dry spell coming on."

Willard Jordan reported sheep and goat sell-off at Junction Stockyards "increased for three weeks."

Next Monday, October 15, is the special Rehab Sheep and Goat Sale at Junction which will benefit West Texas Rehabilitation Centers in San Angelo, Abilene and Snyder.

"We are asking ranchers in the Edwards Plateau area to give us one of two head of sheep and/or goats for the sale," said Jordan. "We have a number of folks in the area using the free services of WTRC and want to show our support as a community."

Sale time is 1 p.m.

Jim Alexander of Abilene, general chairman of Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children, announced the 20th Annual Cattle Sale at Abilene Auction in September raised $136,502.45 from sale of eartagged cattle, while $43,547.74 was generated directly from cash donations.

He expressed great satisfaction in the record sale which represented both the largest cattle and cash amounts ever for the annual cattle sale.

"There are still some special sales planned for Coleman and Brownwood to take care of late round-ups," added Alexander. "There are still cattle to be picked up from Alpine, Marfa and other areas."

Bill Shurley of Marfa, said the Highland Country was not dry like unto other parts of West Texas. "We are going into winter in top shape," he smiled. "Some folks think we might get spoiled, but I don't think so."

Shurley, also ranching in Sutton County, added "Of course, I have a number of gas wells on some of my country now for livestock to shade up against . . . which means I don't worry about the rain too much anymore!"

Benny Schroeder, Lowake farmer, said he harvested some late maize which averaged 1,400 pounds per acre.

"But I had some too which I wouldn't tell anyone about," he explained. "Dryland farming this year has not been good."

"Alright, for example, I have some cotton waist high in spots and other places in the same field where a jackrabbit can look over it," said Schroeder.

Clint Brown of Harper says it is dry in that part of the Texas Hill Country again.

Yet, in parts of Menard County, evening showers have made a difference. Gene Whitehead received another inch of moisture recently. "You can still find green grass in some of my pastures," said the rancher.

Elizabeth Scheuber, Irion County ranchwoman, expressed con-

INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

A cool idea for the cost-conscious food shopper with gourmet tastes is aromatic Paella Salad, made with nutritious, satisfying rice.

It takes its cue from Spanish paella, combining low-calorie rice with healthful seafood, chicken and green peas, seasoned in the traditional manner and best presented cold and garnished with red, fresh tomatoes.

cern about having to "start feeding early if a good rain don't come soon."

Ford Oglesby of Eldorado agrees "a drought may be setting in but I won't admit it until I have to."

Here's hoping it is raining as you read about COUNTRY FOLK and Ford can keep his secret.

Oscar Wilde noted that "Men of thought should have nothing to do with action."

PAELLA SALAD

1 package (6 ounces) frozen cooked, peeled, and deveined shrimp
 3 cups cool cooked saffron rice*
 1 can (8 ounces) minced clams, drained
 1-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
 1-1/2 cups each sliced celery and cooked green peas
 1/2 cup diced green pepper
 1/3 cup sliced green onions with tops
 1 cup mayonnaise
 2 tablespoons dry white wine
 3 tablespoons capers, optional
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon each garlic powder and pepper
 2 medium fresh tomatoes, cut in wedges

Thaw and slice shrimp in half lengthwise. Combine with rice, clams, chicken, celery, green peas, green pepper, and onions. Blend mayonnaise with remaining ingredients except tomatoes. Pour over shrimp mixture and toss lightly. Chill. Use tomatoes for garnish or toss with salad before chilling. Makes 8-1/2 cups, or 6 to 8 servings.
 *Cook rice according to package directions in chicken broth with a pinch of saffron, turmeric, or paprika.

Fall Winter Spring or Summer

your filter can get dirty, clogged, waste energy...

but a clean filter saves energy, money.

The purpose of a filter on your air conditioning or heating air blower is to keep the air inside your home clean. The filter catches dust and dirt before it can enter your home. In time, the filter will accumulate dust and dirt . . . if it gets clogged, it can't do the cleaning job it's supposed to and uses more electricity. To avoid damage to your unit, to keep your home cleaner, and to save energy and money, be sure filters are clean. Permanent types can be cleaned according to the manufacturer's instruction. Non-permanent types are replaced, since they are inexpensive. It is wise to check filters every 30 days.

GROWING FRIENDSHIPS

When I was a young girl, I dreaded to grow old because there was nothing to do. I looked at my parents who were all of 40 years old and thought, they never have any fun. All they did was work, stay at home or go to church.

But since I've reached the Senior Citizen stage, I wonder if I'll be able to keep up the pace there is so much to do. So many things are planned to feed, educate and entertain the senior adult that he has to be in good condition to take advantage of all the opportunities.

One of the most interesting events that I've attended lately was a three day Chautauqua for senior adults at Glorieta, New Mexico. Ten of us went in the church van, another convenience that has been added lately by many churches.

There were 800 senior adults at Glorieta. The largest crowd that has attended in the six years since the Chautauqua has been held. They came in cars and buses from many states.

The Glorieta Baptist Conference covers 2,500 acres, high in the Sangre de Cristo mountains of northern New Mexico, where the Pecos River has its source. Except for the village of Glorieta, the Conference Center is surrounded by the 380,000 acre Santa Fe National Forest.

One of the greatest pleasures was driving around the Conference grounds where landscaping and buildings have been carefully planned to preserve the natural beauty. Thousands of quaking aspens, with their silver gray leaves beginning to turn gold, are banked against the darker green of pine, spruce and fir. They make an impressive picture.

Rich-colored double petunias grow along the walks interspersed with phlox, daisies and other flowers. Large wooden planter boxes spill over with gay geraniums. Some of these adorned our assembly room. Flowers and shrubs from over the world grow in the many gardens which include Bible, prayer, music and The Garden of Gethsemane.

Pastor Fred Thomas was our driver and chaperon for the trip. He had one rule, "there would be no trips to a garden after dark for singles." I had an apple but didn't have a chance to give to anyone.

Facilities comparable to a city have been provided to care for some 50,000 guests a year with hotels, apartments, trailer sites and campgrounds available. The dining hall has been enlarged and provides seating space for 2,500 persons. Holcomb auditorium, built in 1965, with its 150-foot spire, seats 2,000 and the smaller chapel seats 1000.

General assemblies were held in the small chapel and then we were divided into conferences to study "Growing Friendships" in depth.

A young giant, taller than any Texan, from Little Rock, Arkansas, had charge of fellowships and his lecture on "Growing friendships through leisure," was the first I heard. His definition was, "Leisure is what you do in your free time and should include recreation for your personal pleasure. He stressed five points:

First was fellowship with self and with others. We are a resource to God and self. We have to like what we are. We are valuable in the eyes of God. When he has finished with us he says "come on home." We must fellowship with others beyond our small groups, or someday we'll be alone to sit in a rocker and back into senility. The knowledge of older people is valuable, whether its tatting or heritage and should be passed down to others or it will be lost.

The second point was worship. "We worship our work, work at our play and play at our worship," is the general concept of these words, but our play can be a witness. Christianity should not be segregated from the rest of life, it should be with us at all times.

Third was recreation. Learn new things. The trip out here was to get new ideas, new concepts; take them to someone who has retired from life.

Fourth, new information. Don't let the mind get stale. Learn a new craft, a new language and a new knowledge. Develop every potential you have.

Fifth was service. You have retired and now have eight hours to help others. Don't become a jailbird in your own jailhouse.

In the tote bag presented to those who registered was a book by Harold E. Dye, "The Touch of Friendship," which gave some do's and don'ts in making friends. Don't come on too strong and don't try to buy friends.

The do's included: Refuse to be intimidated. In the sight of God you are worth as much as anyone else who lives. Sell yourself! You have something to contribute to some persons life. Be courteous, no matter how eager, don't intrude on others conversations. Be able to accept rejection, some will turn away from you. Give yourself, true friendship always costs you something.

Meeting new friends was the highlight of the Chautauqua.

Life-Cycle Costs

Learn the life-cycle costs of a product to help save money over the life of that product, suggests Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist.

Even if a product—car, appliance or other long-lasting consumer good—costs more in the beginning, it may prove economical in the long-run, she points out.

Ms. Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Study these factors to determine the total life-cycle costs of a product:

- 1) Determine the price of the product.
- 2) Establish the operating cost. Energy-efficient appliances and cars will have lower operating costs.
- 3) Determine an installation cost.
- 4) Consider repair costs. Carefully read product warranties to find what they will and will not cover.

Compare warranties to get the most coverage for your money.

5) Consider the number of years you expect to own the product.

6) Determine how much you expect to use the product.

When using the life-cycle cost approach to buying products, you may need to make some trade-offs, Ms. Kerbel continues.

For example, if you are considering the purchase of an item that you will use infrequently or that you will not keep very long, you may decide to go with the lowest initial price.

However, for products that you will use frequently, you may decide that an energy-efficient model which costs a little more initially, will be the best buy, the specialist adds.

It is estimated that 1.6 million Americans compete in road races of all lengths.

Peanut Farmers Should Be "Ready" To Harvest

There's a good peanut crop in the making in Texas this year, but farmers must be ready to harvest when the crop's ready or there could be some problems.

That's the way Dr. Leland Tripp, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, sums up the situation.

"It's important that farmers be ready to harvest their peanut crop when it's mature so there won't be any unnecessary delays which might subject the crop to weather damage, especially from rain," emphasizes Tripp. "That means getting all harvest equipment repaired and lubricated and ready to go."

"Rainy weather at harvest time when peanuts are turned up for curing can lower peanut grades rapidly, especially if a good leafspot control program has not been followed during the season," says Tripp.

Rainy weather as peanuts mature can also cause kernels to split, notes the agronomist. This happens if it's been dry and kernels shrink away from the hulls. Then, a rain will cause the kernels to swell rapidly so that hulls split. Such splits will likely end up in the Segregation III category when graded.

To avoid this situation, Tripp advises dryland peanut farmers to dig their crops as soon as kernels pull away from the hulls.

Splitting hulls can also be a problem with irrigated peanuts if farmers wait too long before applying water, explains the agronomist.

"With good harvest weather and farmers ready for the task at hand, the 1979 crop of peanuts could be the best ever in Texas," believes Tripp.

Miss Webb and Mr. Bagwell Wed Saturday

Mary Alice Webb and Larry Bagwell were united in marriage at 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Webb.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Webb of Winters. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Bagwell of Bradshaw.

Pastor Clovis Griffing of Bradshaw Baptist Church performed the double ring ceremony. Dwayne Grun, organist, played "Walk Hand in Hand" sung by Sherryl Webb. After the wedding march, immediately following the ceremony, Dwayne closed with the song "Somewhere My Love."

The wedding area was decorated with a fifteen cup candelabra in front of a picture window with a five cup candelabra placed on a blue and white covered table in front of it accented with greenery and blue and white rose buds.

Best man was Mary's brother, Larry Webb and matron of honor was her sister-in-law, Sherryl Webb.

A small wedding reception was held in the home followed by a barbecue supper later that afternoon.

Fainting

Learn how to handle fainting—it could come in handy, says Carla Shearer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Fainting can be brought on by hunger, sight of blood, severe pain, fatigue, heat or powerful emotions, such as fear or joy.

Physically, it is usually the result of a low blood supply to the brain, the specialist explains.

Getting up quickly from a lying or sitting position may cause a person to faint.

Some of the signs that will either precede the fainting or accompany it are extremely pale and cool skin, sweating, dizziness, nausea, light headedness and a possible numbness or tingling in the hands and feet.

Advise a person with these symptoms to sit down and lean forward with his head between his knees or have him lie down and elevate his feet. This will allow the blood to more easily circulate to the brain.

If a person has already fainted, place him in one of the two positions that will allow the blood to flow to the head. Usually with this treatment, the person regains consciousness, Ms. Shearer continues.

While helping a fainting victim, make sure that he can breathe easily. Don't let people crowd around the person, and make sure that his clothing is loose around his neck and there is no obstruction in the mouth. Don't throw water in the face of a person who has fainted because there is danger of the person inhaling the water, she cautions.

Using an ammonia inhalent and stimulant are not generally recommended because they can do more harm than good. Especially do not use them for individuals who may have suffered a heart attack or stroke.

Blizzards Scare Stamford In First 6-AA Game

A fired-up Blizzard team gave Stamford a scare Friday night in Stamford. The Blizzards lost the close game 26-14 but led the Bulldogs at half time 14-12.

The first score of the game came on a one-yard run by Pat Salas with five minutes left in the first quarter. The Blizzards took the opening kickoff and drove the ball down the field for the first score. Robert Johnson kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0.

Later in the first quarter, Stamford had to kick the ball on fourth down. The kick was blocked by Tommy Davis and recovered by Winters on the Stamford 20. The Blizzards were unable to capitalize on the play because of a fumble inside the 5-yard line.

In the second quarter, Robert Johnson intercepted a pass on the Winters 40-yard line and returned it to the Stamford 45 before being stopped. A few plays later, the ball was turned over on downs.

Stamford scored next on a one yard run by Acosta. The Bulldogs tried for the two point conversion but were unsuccessful.

Stamford kicked off after the touchdown and saw Toby Gerhart take the ball on the Blizzard 30 yard line and return it all the way for a touchdown.

Again Robert Johnson kicked the extra point to put the Blizzards in the lead by a score of 14-6.

With only one minute left in the half, Stamford's Lewis scored up the middle. The Bulldogs went for the two point conversion and failed again in their try.

At the end of the first half the score was 14-12 in favor of Winters.

In the third quarter, Stamford's Gomez scored with one minute left in the quarter. Again the Bulldogs were turned back on the two point conversion. The third quarter ended with the score 18-14 Stamford.

The final score of the game came on a quarterback keeper by Stamford's Cox. The extra point conversion was good for two points. The final score was Stamford 26, Winters 14.

Kitchen Safety

Fail—Safe Cut Prevention
Help cut down the number of kitchen accidents by reducing the chance of getting cut.

The best general precaution is to get organized. Store sharp knives in a knife rack, not mixed with flatware and other utensils in a utility drawer.

Never use a knife to open metal cans. Use a modern can opener, one that does not produce jagged edges.

Throw away chipped or cracked cookware and dishes.
Cut can lids completely off; never cut them partially and then try to bend them back.
Read use and care instructions packaged with new cookware, dishes or appliances before using them. Such instructions will warn, for example, against using abrasive cleansers or cleaning pads on glass-ceramic or heat-resistant glass cookware. These cleansers can severely scratch glass cookware causing it to weaken and perhaps, break, according to the Consumer Information Department of Corning Glass Works.

If glass breaks, sweep up, don't pick up, the broken pieces. Wipe up the smallest pieces and slivers with a damp paper towel.
Don't grope for broken glass in a water-filled sink. Instead, wrap your hand in a towel, open the drain and use a cloth or paper towel to pick up the fragments.
Close cabinet doors and drawers when they are not in use. If left open they can cause serious injury to anyone who bumps into them. Open doors also provide easy access to curious children.
Following these and other kitchen safety tips can lead the way to fail-safe cut prevention and safer kitchens.

Winters Girls Get Spelling Awards

Two members of the Winters High School freshman class were notified recently they had received UIL awards in the spelling competition held last spring.

Mona Cooper and Claudette Faubion were notified a few weeks ago they had turned in perfect papers in the contests, which were held while they were in junior high school.

When throwing away any medicine, be sure to flush it down the toilet or dissolve it in water and wash down the sink rather than throwing it into the garbage, cautions Carla Shearer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Reports from Washington

Meeting with the cattlemen

Recently, it was my privilege to address the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas at their annual convention in San Antonio. This week and next week, I'd like to share with you the comments I made to the association.

Probably the legislation which is most specific to our industry's financial problems which I have sponsored is H.R. 13, calling for repeal of the carry-over basis taxation section of the 1976 so-called Tax Reform Act. The carry over basis taxation scheme is, simply stated, double-taxation. It denies us the incentive to build up anything of value to pass along to our children ... and it robs our children, as heirs to our labors, of freedom of choice. In my opinion, carry over basis taxation is nothing less than confiscation of private property by the federal government. I am pleased to report to you that chances are favorable that we will be successful in repealing this unjust and unfair "reform" of our tax laws.

Regulatory problems.

In addition to these fiscal matters, there are broad ranges of legislative and regulatory problems we face. While what we seek is freedom to pursue a system which will guarantee a fair price for our products and a secure future for our families, the federal regulatory bureaucracy seems intent on denying us such rights.

In my position on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over that good friend of the farmer and rancher, the Environmental Protection Agency, I do have some small advantage in effecting one of my primary goals: that of removal of federal restrictions so that we may once again have effective and responsible methods of controlling predators.

Those EPA regulators in Washington have never seen a newborn calf, freshly killed by a pack of coyotes. And they certainly couldn't care less that last year, 72 percent of all goat and kid losses were directly attributable to predation.

"Save the Golden Eagle ... and damn the cost to the ranchers," seems to be their credo, without once recognizing that we are the truest and best conservationists ever known. We are the ones who know the critical importance of maintaining a careful balance between livestock and wildlife ... we are the ones who care most about preservation of our ecological system, because our very livelihood depends upon it.

All we want is the simple right to protect our own private property from harm or death — and we used to think that right was guaranteed by our Constitution!

I pledge my continuing fight against irresponsible restrictions on predator controls, just as I will continue to be a strong advocate against federal intervention in such areas as gun control, land use planning, unreasonable restrictions of brush control chemicals such as 2,4,5-T, growth hormones such as DES, and all other excesses of overregulation and programmed hysteria, orchestrated primarily by the environmentalists who have never set foot in a pasture.

Next week, I will conclude my remarks to the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas.

County Pecan Show Planned Dec. 8

A countywide pecan show is being planned for Dec. 8, in the reception room of the Heart O' Texas Savings Assn. building in Ballinger, according to Jerry Holden, chairman of the county horticulture committee and County Extension Agents Allen Turner and Dale Brandenberger.

Pecans are an important crop in Runnels County, both commercially and for home use, Turner said. There is a lot of interest in pecans locally, and the committee believes a pecan show will be of interest to a great number of people.

Sixty pecans will constitute an entry, Turner said. Each exhibitor can have only one entry per class, but may enter as many classes as they desire. Classes will be set up for each variety. A more complete set of rules and show guidelines will be made available at a later date, Turner said. No entry fees will be charged, however, all entries will become property of the show to help defray expenses.
