Rescue Efforts

Emergency Service personnel and Winters firemen work to free occupants of a car which was demolished in an accident just south of Winters last Wednesday night. Three persons from Ballinger were seriously injured in into the back of a truck about a ed for several minutes removing quarter-mile south of the US 83-FM 53. The two passengers, Joe Wayne Jackson, 14, and Shoneri Jackson, 13, were listed in serious condition in Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene. The driver of the car, Jerry E. Ripple, the accident when the car in 19, was reported in fair condition which they were riding rammed at Hendricks. Rescue crews work-

Shoneri from the car. They also had difficulty removing the car door on the passenger side to take Joe Wayne from the wreckage. Police Chief Luther (Doc) Smith said the car ran into the rearend of the truck as the truck was preparing to make a right-hand turn onto a country road.

Rescue Equipment Needed

The need for more suitable rescue equipment in the Winters Fire Department was never more graphically shown than during the time firemen and Emergency Service personnel were attempting to remove three persons from a wrecked automobile just south of Winters last Wednesday night. The rescue teams worked for some time to take two persons from the left side of the wreckage. Meanwhile, others were attempting to remove a jammed door on the right side of the vehicle. They used prying bars, a small hydraulic "PortaPower" unit, and brute strength to tear the door off the body of the car: they worked about 30 minutes before the victim could be removed. That few minutes could have been the difference in a life saved or a life lost.

The Winters Volunteer Firemen are going to attempt to do something about the situation. This week, a campaign was started to raise money through public subscription to purchase some type of heavy-duty power unit to be used to tear a wrecked car apart-or anything else, for that matter. They feel, as we do, that this community will see the need for such a rescue unit, and will readily respond. The unit would cost about $6,000, they said, but the saving of just one life would more than justify the

A special "Rescue Unit" fund has been opened at the Winters State Bank . . . and already, just a few minutes after it had been opened, a total of $200 had been contributed. Those who feel they would like to take part in this life-saving campaign may send their checks to the bank, hand them to Mike Meyer at the Winters Funeral Home, or leave their contributions at The Enterprise office. This is a good cause, and deserves the consideration of everyone in this community. We feel sure it will be successful.

Johnny Merrill was elected chief of the Winters Fire Department last week, succeeding Marvin Bedford, who had served in that capacity for many years. Bedford was elected assistant fire chief by the Volunteer Firemen.

David Carroll was elected second assistant fire chief.

The countdown is on for Rehab '80!

Many times over the years before my days in public relations for West Texas Rehabilitation Centers, I can remember the excitement of the annual Rehab telethon on a cold January night and what a good show it was to watch at the ranch. This year's show will be even greater on Jan. 26.

Bob Hope will introduce the shows a five hour show from San Angelo's Convention Center and a seven hour show from Abilene's Civic Center-and a parade of stars will keep you entertained all evening.

Singer Pat Boone, one of the top three recording stars of the rock and roll era, will join Rex Allen, who has hosted the show every year for the last ten years. The production, the nation's largest regional telethon, will be seen on 14 television stations.

Also participating in this year's telethon are: Shari Lewis, Johnny Desmond, Dave and Sugar, Slim Pickens, Anacani, Arthur Duncan, the Otwell Twins, Helen Forrest, Bill and Susan Seaforth Haves, Eileen Barnett, Sammi Smith, Margo Smith, Tex Williams, Chris Christian, Pedro Gonzalez Gonzalez, Grant Teaff, Jimmy Weldon, Johnny Gimble and the Bosque Bandits, Larry Mahan and the Ramblin' Rodeo Revue, Mac Wiseman, Montie Mon-

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

AUSTIN-Gasohol, once considered an "exotic fuel," at least in Governor Bill Clements' words, is fast becoming all the rage at the State Capitol.

Texas family farmers fought all last year to initiate gasohol production in the state and up until now have enjoyed limited success. Their hopes were boosted during the last Legislature when Reps. Dan Kubiak and Bill Keese successfully pushed through the legislation legalizing alcohol fuel production in Texas, but the necessary funding has not come through.

All that is changing.

Following President Carter's partial embargo of grain sales to the Soviet Union, gasohol's destiny has taken an upswing. Carter intends the federal government to buy the 17 million metric tons of grain and use much of it in the rapid production of gasohol. The benefits are two-fold: America can become more self-sufficient in terms of energy, and farmers can enjoy a solid domestic market for grain.

Amid all the bustling, Texas farmers leveled a strong blast at Governor Clements, charging him with breaking a promise to their group by stifling gasohol production. They see Clements' ties to the oil industry (he is the founder of SEDCO, Inc., a Dallas-based oil well drilling firm) as the reason for

"Oil Baron Governor" - Specifically, the state coordinator of the American Agriculture Movement, Mike McCathern of Hereford, said:

"We have an oil baron governo: who doesn't want any competition with oil, and a liquor lobby controlling the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and we can't get anything done."

The commission, which normally oversees drinking alcohol regulation, is the agency which handles alcohol fuel production permits. During the recent year, the ABC has given out less than 25 permits across the state.

The farmers' push was highlighted by a hunger strike beginning Friday by one of their leaders, Charlie Fitts of Milam County. Fitts is camping out in front of the Governor's Office at the Capitol to draw attention to the farmers' beef with Clements.

AG Okavs Gasohol - Attorney General Mark White ruled last week that a Kansas corporation, Midwest Solvents, Inc., can produce gasohol in Texas but cannot manufacture 190-proof alcohol at the same plant.

UT Encourages Older Students Folklore Study

Whether it be quilting or water witching, the study and preservation of folklore is actively encouraged by The University of Texas.

For example, UT Austin is one of only three institutions in the nation that offers a Ph.D. degree in folklore.

Hints abound thast he may try for a congressional seat and give up his seat to Wilson. Most observers predict a tough fight if he goes for re-election.

State Rep. Ed Mayes of Granbury reportedly will not withdraw from the race for the senate post being vacated by retiring Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells. Mauyes maythrow his support to former Rep. Walt Parker, a Denton conservastive.

After rumors spread that he would quit his legislative post in the Texas House of Repreentatives, Fred Head of Athens said he will run again. Head had closed down his Austin office and some speculated the 14-year veteran would quit. Head is the record holder for consecutive votes-11,135 straight votes since 1967, no missed roll calls.

Another veteran, consevastive Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, has drawn a Republican opponent, exmunicipal judge John Carter of Round Rock.

Fred Young Remembers

After living in Winters for 62 years, Fred Young has many memories of people, places and events. But the most vivid of all is the terrific sandstorm that blasted in on Feb. 21, 1918.

The T. B. Young family from Hill County arrived in August of 1917. Part of them rode the train and the others came in the family car. They saw their first oilwells at Santa Anna, some of these wells are pumping today. Lodging was found at the Cottage Hotel, across the street from the Methodist Church.

The first person Fred saw in Winters was Sam Cooke. They met at the telephone pole where the horses that pulled the delivery truck for the J. R. Cooke grocery store were hitched.

The Youngs bought a farm and moved to the Franklin community, four miles southwest of Winters, where the children attended school. They lived there until July of 1918, before moving into town next door to the Cookes.

Feb. 21, started out as a very pretty day, Fred recalls. "We came to school in the family car, a fourninety Chevrolet. We could see a blue bank in the north about noon the sand started blowing and it had gravel with it.

"Mrs. T. V. Jennings taught the first grade and her pupils had a Washington's birthday program. My room, the sixth grade, was invited to be the aud-

"About 2 o'clock it began getting dark and cold. The darkness closed in until it was like midnight. The children were so frightened that they started crying and running through the halls. They thought the world was coming to an end. The lights were no more than 60 watt bulbs. The force of the wind kept the back doors shut and Supt. A. W. Cherry stood guard at the south doors.

"Some parents came for their children. Others who lived in the country stayed with friends. We managed to reach the car, my oldest brother, Kendrick, the twins, Roy and Ray, and myself. We made it home, put the car in the garage, and began to drain the radiator but the block froze and burst.

"That evening and night the snow and dirt kept on blowing. The next morning we shoveled tubs full of dirt out of the house.

"Snow and sand had drifted as high as the fences and the mules, horses and cows could easily walk over the fence. Chickens had frozen on the roost.

"Grandpa Blackwood, an old timer, came to our house, and said this was the worst sandstorm he had ever seen and he had lived here a long time. When he moved to his farm there were no fences except around the barn and a small grazing pasture.

"The snow drifts were full of sand and BB size gravel and were a long time melting, especially on roads running east and west.

"To get our car fixed took awhile. There were no welding machines then.

"Mr. Miller's blacksmith shop was located where Alvin Benson's place is now. He built a brick furnace and tried to do some patchwork on our car but was unsuccessful and a new block had to be ordered. Several months passed before the car was in running shape again.

THE INCOME TAX PEOPLE

"The rainfall in 1918 was very little and the crops that year were not much. We made one bale of cotton and it didn't weigh 400 pounds. Our maize didn't head out. We plowed it up, shook the dirt off the roots, and used it for cow feed.

"I've heard old timers talk about sandstorms but Feb. 21, 1918 was the worst one yet."

While in school Fred played a cornet in Charlie Grant's band. The bandhall was upstairs above Harry Human's store. The first World War was on and the band played for the homeguard. They drilled on Monday and Thursday nights with wooden guns. Frank Paxton, druggist, was head of it.

On Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, the oil mill and all the gins began to blow their whistles at intervals. King Jordan fired his six shooter and everybody knew that the war was over.

There was no school. The band members got together and marched and played all day. At 3 o'clock there was a big rally of the townspeople at the Methodist tabernacle. Patriotic speeches were made and the band performed.

Along with peace the rains came and 1919 was a prosperous year.

The Youngs built a new house on 213 W. Pierce Street in 1922. It burned on Dec. 29 and was rebuilt at the same location.

In the summer of 1923, the Winters State Bank was being remodeled and Fred was helping dig the basement with pick and shovel. Mr. Holliday wanted to sell his tailor shop and Fred decided he had rather press clothes. His dad helped him buy the tailor shop and he did so well with it that he didn't want to return to school. Except for a stint in California, Fred remained in some phase of the tailor business until 1950 when he bought the Economy Food Store with partners Ernest Thormeyer and Weldon Col-

Fred was a good business man and made the Kraft International magazine twice with his Kraft displays and sales. He was the only one in the Abilene area to make the magazine. He rented John Normans little mules and wagon for his publicity display. His weekend sale was the biggest volume Kraft had in this area for this weekend.

The store was sold in 1967. The Youngs have two married sons, Dick of Austin and Garner of Albuquerque, N. M., and two grandsons, Jeff and Stephen.

Mrs. Young, the former Myrle Garner, is a nurse and was surgical supervisor at West Texas Medical in San Angelo, later named the Shannon Hospital, when she and Fred married in 1933.

Monday, Jan. 7, at 2:00 Social Security-Good or Bad?

Is Social Security a good buy? Will I ever get as much back from Social Security as I have paid into the program? These are questions that are commonly asked by many people when they hear stories or read in the newspaper that the Social Security program is "go-ing broke." The answer is "yes" for most of today's workers. The Social Security system is flexible; it has a built-in capacity for change. Congress increased both the Social Security tax rate and the amount of earnings that are taxable when they passed the 1977 amendments to the Social Security Act. Therefore, despite high inflation, and despite a declining birth rate and a longer life expectancy that result in fewer workers' paying into the program and more people collecting benefits, the trust funds from which benefits are paid will remain solvent.

The Social Security program affects almost every person in the United States. Nine out of every ten jobs are covered by Social Security and one out of every seven people (33 million people) receives a check of one kind or another. The total amount of benefits paid out in a year is over $70 billion dollars, an amount which has a tremendous impact on the economy of the United States. Who gets checks? The question can be answered in one word, "people". All kinds of people. Monthly checks may go to workers and their dependents when the worker retires, becomes severely disabled, or dies. Then, there's Medicare, which helps pay the cost of health care for eligible people who are 65 or over and to certain disabled people. Most young people associate Social Security with old people and retirement benefits. However, they should remember that there is something in the program for them too. If a young worker becomes too disabled to work and meets the requirements of the Social Security Law regarding earnings, they can draw a check for themself and their dependents until they recover. If a young person dies, the survivors of that person can usually draw checks for specified, often lengthy, periods of time. We all want to insure that our families are provided for in the event we are not able to work or in the event of our death. Social Security is an excellent way to provide that insurance.

D. Bradley To Be Honored At Convention

David R. Bradley, owner of Bradley Grain Storage System and partner in the BCP Manufacturing Co. will be honored Jan. 18 as the Area IV Outstanding Young Agribusinessman during the 26th annual convention of the State Association of Young Farmers of Texas in San Antonio.

He will be honored at the Young Farmers annual awards banquet at 6 p. m., Jan. 18, at the San Antonio Convention Center. More than 600 persons are expected to attend. Ten area winners are selected from throughout Texas, and one is chosen as the state Outstanding Young Agribusinessman.

The area winner is selected on the basis of the agribusinessman's knowledge of his occupation, business practices, Young Farmers activities, and community service.

Bradley's business involves the sales and construction of on-farm grain storage and handling facilities, including storage and drying bins, bucket elevators, augers, continuous flow dryers, aeration systems, and steel buildings. In two years, his company has constructed more than onethird the total on-farm storage capacity in the country.

The State Association of Young Farmers is an educational organization sponsored by the Texas Education Agency for persons under 35 years old who are involved in agriculture. The association has over 4,000 members in 200 local chapters.
