Grass fire

Fire already had burned over an area of more than 100 acres when this picture was taken several days ago southeast of Winters. Fire-fighting crews from Winters were working on the leading edge of the blaze, which was moving north at the time. Had the wind been blowing from the north, there is a possibility that the mobile home in the background would have been endangered.

Winters firemen have answered many calls to grass fires in the area during the hot, dry weather. Although light rains fell in the area Monday morning of this week, the area is still tinder-dry, and people are cautioned against burning trash, or throwing lighted cigarettes into the dry grass and brush. Only heavy rains can reduce the danger of range fires.

"REFLECTIONS" "REFLECTIONS" "REFLECTIONS"

BY RICHARD C. THOMAS

I sometimes shudder at the way some of the media relate one happening to another, whether or not there is relevancy, and tag on to the last happening some phrase or word or part of word which had been used in the earlier instance, in an effort to show they were similar. For instance, the word "Watergate" came into widespread use because the nefarious actions which were partly responsible for bringing down a presidency took place in the Watergate Hotel building. Thereafter, "Watergate" became the whole thing. Anything of shady or suspicious nature quickly became someone's "watergate." Then some of the media started splitting the word, to use the last part, "gate." The silliest thing I have noticed recently was a TV newsman, with a straight and serious face, referring to certain happenings as President's Carter's "Billygate!" I can take "Watergate," because it's clean — and fully descriptive — as "Waterloo." But "Billygate?" What's the connection? And we cringe at the younger generations' phraseology!

A couple or more years ago there was some talk about the dangers which existed on North Main St. in the vicinity of the schools. Because the street is actually U. S. Highway 83, it is well traveled, and it becomes extremely dangerous for children going to and from school to cross. There were eventually crosswalk lines painted in a couple of places up there, and flashing warning lights, in operation at certain times of the day during the time school was open. Ordinarily, the speed limit is marked at 35, from the north end of the street, through town. But at times when the flashing warning lights are in operation, the speed limit is marked at 30 MPH.

Booster burger supper Aug. 11

The Winters Blizzard Booster Club will sponsor a hamburger supper Monday, Aug. 11, from 6 to 8:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria.

There was an attempt in some quarters to get that 30 MPH limit changed to 20 MPH . . . but the idea died aborning, because there were some who said that the district office of the Highway Department would not change the speed limit. I was one of those at the time to say that the matter should not have been allowed to die, but that it should be taken all the way to Austin. I still say that. But the matter was not pursued. I still insist that if the Austin people were contacted directly, and the situation explained, there would be some changes. Perhaps I'm naive, but I believe we in Winters have a little clout.

To be told that the 30 MPH rule is universal, and to believe it, is absurd. If you don't believe it, get in your car and take a drive around to several towns which have the same situation — main highways running near schools. I've yet to see one with speed limits posted at 30 MPH. Once in a while, one may see a 25 MPH sign, but the biggest majority of them are posted at 20 MPH.

Perhaps some think this is a minor matter. But I happen to believe that it is very important. If 30 MPH is too fast for the other cities and towns throughout the country, then 30 MPH is too fast for Winters! That 30 can be changed to 20 if we'll just make up our minds to get it done, and go to the right people. Otherwise, one of these days, we're all going to cry.

City manager vote Aug. 23

Voters of Winters will go to the polls August 23 to vote in a special election to determine if the City of Winters adopts a "City Manager" form of government.

Voting will be at the City Hall. The special election was called in response to a petition presented the mayor August 1, signed by 57 citizens, representing not less than 20 percent of the total number of legally qualified electors voting for mayor at the last preceding city election, according to state statute. Under provisions of state statutes, officials said, the mayor is empowered and required to call within 10 days after receipt of the petition a special election to be held not more than 30 days after the date of the petition. No council action is required, it was stated.

Upon receipt of the petition, E. J. Bishop, mayor pro tem, acting in the absence of Mayor W. Lee Colburn, signed the proclamation calling for the election and setting the date.

Presently, all departments within the city are autonomous, responsible directly to the city council. Departments include the administrative department, the street department, the water and sewer department, the police department, and the parks and sanitation department. Each department head reports directly to the council as a whole, although each alderman is assigned by the mayor to serve as liaison between the department and the council.

Under the city manager form of government, it was said, the city manager would be charged with the responsibility of all departments, and the actual operation of the city, reporting directly to the city council. Many residents and officials have expressed the belief that this type of operation would make for a more economical situation, without overlapping responsibilities and activities. A city manager, they say, would be in a position to coordinate activities and work of all department for a more efficient and more economic operation.

Historical rep to hold workshop here

Glenda Morgan, of Austin, representative of the Texas Historical Commission, will hold a workshop Monday, Aug. 11, for members of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation, on management and operation.

The workshop will begin at 10 a. m. at the museum building on West Dale, and all interested persons are invited to attend all or part of program.

Those attending the workshop are invited to bring a salad and attend a luncheon at the J. W. Bahlman residence at noon. The regular monthly meeting of the museum board will be at 5 p. m. Aug. 11, and all members have been urged to attend and hear Miss Morgan at that time.

The museum board has extended thanks to the person or persons who cleaned the yard at the museum. "If we knew who you were," they said, "we would thank you personally."

Street paving now underway

A paving and seal-coating project for city streets, one of the largest such projects for Winters in several years, was begun last week, when forms for curbs and gutters were built on Grant St. Included in this project will be several blocks of new paving and many blocks of seal-coating of present paved streets.

The city recently adopted a policy requiring curbing and gutters for all new paving, which will provide for better maintenance and longer life for the asphalt paving, it was said.

Included in the new paving will be one block of Sanders St., from State north to West Dale, 30 feet by 311 feet. Curbs and gutters will be built.

One block of Vancil St. will be included in the new paving project, 26 feet by 388 feet, and will have new curbs and gutters.

Grant St., from Broadway south 689 feet will be curbed and paved. Some of the forms for curbs and gutters already have been prepared by the contractors.

Parts of at least 13 streets will receive seal coating, according to Buford Baldwin, city secretary.

Contractor for the new paving and the seal-coating is G. J. Luke Paving Co. of Burnet. This project will cost about $18,801.90, paid by the city. The new paving will be paid for by property owners of land adjacent to the street involved. Paving of intersections will be paid for by the city.

SEAL COATING

The seal-coating part of the project will include:

Broadway, from Main east to end of pavement, 466 feet.

S. Paschal heads Young Homemakers

Shelia Paschal has been elected president of the Winters Young Homemakers for 1980-81. Other officers elected are Dinell Jacob, vice president; Sharon Dieke, secretary-treasurer; and Beth Bradley, reporter-historian.

Officers will be installed Monday, August 18, at 7:30 p. m. during a meeting of the Young Homemakers in the school Homemaker Cottage. A salad supper will be served. Each member is asked to bring a salad. Coming events, projects and programs for the new year will be discussed.

VA grants available for some DAV's

A Veterans Administration grant of up to $3,800 is available for some seriously disabled veterans to purchase an automobile or other conveyance.

VA will also pay for specially-adapted equipment required for the disabled veteran to safely operate a car or other vehicle, such as a van.

This word came from Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland, who has already taken advantage of this benefit necessitated by the loss of both legs and an arm during the Vietnam conflict.

Cleland said that the program allows VA to make a one-time payment of not more than $3,800 toward the purchase of an automobile for veterans or active duty personnel with service connected loss, or permanent loss of use of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to a prescribed degree.

In addition to the vehicle and the adapted equipment, the agency will pay for the repair, replacement of or reinstallation of such equipment in subsequent vehicles, he said.

In fiscal year 1979, some 1,300 veterans used this benefit at a cost to VA of nearly $5 million for a vehicle purchase or repair of specially-adapted equipment.

Cleland urges any veteran who thinks he or she may be eligible for this grant to contact the nearest VA office.

American Agriculture:
Indispensible To Our Economic Future

Through good economic times and bad, Americans have always been able to place their faith in the certain knowledge our agriculture industry would produce this country's food and fiber needs — and those of other countries as well.

It is hard to overstate agriculture's contributions to this country's productivity and its standard of living.

But today's economy is placing continuing strains on agricultural production. The rapidly escalating costs of many items farmers and ranchers must first purchase in order to produce their

Hot weather robbing ponds of oxygen

Searing temperatures over Texas are making life miserable for both humans and animals and that includes fish.

The problem is that hot, summer weather takes oxygen out of water, causing fish to suffocate, points out Don Steinbach, fisheries specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Fish as well as aquatic plants draw on the oxygen reservoir in water, which is generally low to start with in the summer. Hot, dry conditions cause water levels to drop, making the situation worse.

How can pond owners deal with the matter?

One of the first things to do is to cut back or stop fish feeding, says Steinbach. Fish feeding causes heavy nutrient levels which promote excess algae growth. Overstocking contributes to the algae problem as does improper fertilization.

The specialist also recommends using a recirculating pump for two or three days and spraying the water back into the pond. Also, mounting an outboard motor in a fixed position to spray water across the pond surface helps expose water to surface air.

Steinbach suggests that pond owners check closely for plant and fish die-off, particularly in the morning since this is usually the time when the oxygen level of water is the lowest.

St. John's holds Crafts and Talent Fair on Aug. 3

The Young Women's Circle of St. John's Lutheran Church sponsored a Crafts and Talent Fair following the Sunday morning services, August 3. Over 100 items were entered as exhibits from the church members and their families. Exhibits included quilts, afghans, crewel work, embroidery, needlepoint, macrame, oil painting, weaving, sculpting, ceramics, clothing, canned foods, fresh flowers, produce, wood-working, and plants. Two members performed their talents on the piano and the guitar.

A picnic lunch accompanied the fair with sandwiches and baked goods. The men, women and children helped make the fair a memorable event.

There is another element to be considered. Like everyone else, farmers and ranchers are themselves consumers and taxpayers. According to the Department of Agriculture, farmers and ranchers pay a tax bill in excess of $10 billion each year. In addition, USDA estimates that farmers and ranchers spend $98 billion each year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock. This figure includes about $10.8 billion for fuel.

Despite such costs, American agriculture has still provided this country with the very best and most abundant food and fiber products available anywhere in the world. And this is all the more remarkable when we consider that our farmers and ranchers comprise only 4% of our population — yet they more than meet our needs.

Agriculture is important to this country in another respect. Year in and year out, agriculture has provided us with a means to offset enormous U.S. trade deficits — particularly those of recent years. In calendar year 1979, for example, our non-agriculture trade deficit totaled some $46.7 billion. During this same time period, our country was able to export $18 billion worth of agricultural goods. These exports reduced this deficit by almost 40% to $28.7 billion. Without this vital contribution to our world trade, it would have been extremely difficult for this country to finance its tremendously large oil import bill, now estimated to be $80 billion in 1980.

Fortunately for this country, however, 1980 agricultural exports are projected to be at record levels. The $37 billion worth of our products expected to be sold on world markets by the end of the year will total nearly half of the world's trade in agricultural commodities.

American agriculture has helped make this country the envy of the world — and the provider for the world's people. But it didn't just happen. We have produced more and provided more because free market principles and stable economic conditions in the past unleashed our productive capacity.

American farmers and ranchers recognize this. It's time Washington did as well.

During this last decade, rural land costs have increased more than 180%.

In the time since 1970, the cost of energy for agricultural production has increased by more than $5 billion. Since last year alone, fuel costs have increased 46%.

Cattle raisers dramatize the critical nature of the problems facing agriculture today. Calf prices are down 20 to 30% over last year. Costs of production, however, have gone up more than 30% over last year. If such conditions continue, piling up enormous losses for cattle raisers, production of beef in this country will decline severely. Consumers lose the ability to choose good quality meat at reasonable prices. The Nation loses a vital component to our economic well-being.

There is another element to be considered. Like everyone else, farmers and ranchers are themselves consumers and taxpayers. According to the Department of Agriculture, farmers and ranchers pay a tax bill in excess of $10 billion each year. In addition, USDA estimates that farmers and ranchers spend $98 billion each year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock. This figure includes about $10.8 billion for fuel.

Despite such costs, American agriculture has still provided this country with the very best and most abundant food and fiber products available anywhere in the world. And this is all the more remarkable when we consider that our farmers and ranchers comprise only 4% of our population — yet they more than meet our needs.

Agriculture is important to this country in another respect. Year in and year out, agriculture has provided us with a means to offset enormous U.S. trade deficits — particularly those of recent years. In calendar year 1979, for example, our non-agriculture trade deficit totaled some $46.7 billion. During this same time period, our country was able to export $18 billion worth of agricultural goods. These exports reduced this deficit by almost 40% to $28.7 billion. Without this vital contribution to our world trade, it would have been extremely difficult for this country to finance its tremendously large oil import bill, now estimated to be $80 billion in 1980.

Fortunately for this country, however, 1980 agricultural exports are projected to be at record levels. The $37 billion worth of our products expected to be sold on world markets by the end of the year will total nearly half of the world's trade in agricultural commodities.

American agriculture has helped make this country the envy of the world — and the provider for the world's people. But it didn't just happen. We have produced more and provided more because free market principles and stable economic conditions in the past unleashed our productive capacity.

American farmers and ranchers recognize this. It's time Washington did as well.

St. John's holds Crafts and Talent Fair on Aug. 3

The Young Women's Circle of St. John's Lutheran Church sponsored a Crafts and Talent Fair following the Sunday morning services, August 3. Over 100 items were entered as exhibits from the church members and their families. Exhibits included quilts, afghans, crewel work, embroidery, needlepoint, macrame, oil painting, weaving, sculpting, ceramics, clothing, canned foods, fresh flowers, produce, wood-working, and plants. Two members performed their talents on the piano and the guitar.

A picnic lunch accompanied the fair with sandwiches and baked goods. The men, women and children helped make the fair a memorable event.

Four miles west of this intersection is Battlefield Road, entrance to the San Jacinto Battlefield. Here, after an exhausting march from Gonzales, following the Battle of the Alamo, about 800 Texans under General Sam Houston, routed the Army of Santa Anna, numbering over 1,300 men. It took place on April 21, 1836 and lasted only 18 minutes. There were 630 enemy dead, 206 wounded among the 730 taken prisoner. Texas lost 9 dead and 30 wounded. One of the world's greatest victories. It gave Tex. her independence and with her annexation 9 years later, brought into the Union all or parts of Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Nevada, Oklahoma, Utah and Wyoming.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

Texas Democrats backing Mass. Sen. Edward Kennedy in the presidential sweepstakes are pressing this state's delegation to opt for an open convention in New York next week.

Kennedy forces around the nation are positing that President Jimmy Carter's low standing in the polls warrants a change in convention rules. Carter cannot win, they argue, and the Democrats should now release all delegates pledged to any particular candidate so that the party may easier nominate a winner against GOP nominee Ronald Reagan.

Carter has more than enough first ballot pledges to sew up the nomination, if the conventioners stick to those pledges.

Pro-Carter state party leaders are working to squelch the open convention movement which would give Kennedy a new shot at the nomination. Indications are that Carter will keep his pledges, and that even if the convention was "opened", he would still win the party's nod.

In this state, the struggle pits such party leaders as Texas Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg, a Carter supporter, against National Democratic Committeewomen Billy Carr, a Houston liberal backing Kennedy. Carr says she has been told by several Carter pledges that they would switch to Kennedy if rules allowed.

A Code Word

A change in the rules at this late date "sounds good but an open convention is a code word for subverting the decision of 20 million Democrats who voted in the primaries and precinct conventions," Goldberg said.

Much of the new in fighting is regarded as just a rule or ruin fight by Kennedy, who was thoroughly trounced by Carter in the primaries, despite record inflation and home mortgage rates at that time caused by deregulation of certain sectors of the economy. If such is the case, Kennedy, who has effectively knocked off the rust from his national political machine, may be making bitter enemies who will keep him from the nomination in 1984.

Brother Trouble

The Democrats are looking bad and they know it. Carter is troubled by low poll ratings and scandal involving his brother Billy's role as a Libyan agent. While the Republicans work in unison and watch in glee, the Democrats know they must begin on Convention Day One to make intraparty peace and start catching up. The 1980 presidential election may well be won or lost on the first day of the convention.

State Property Taxes

One group of politicians breathing sighs of relief are Texas legislators who voted for tax relief measures last session. Now is the season for local governments — cities, counties, school boards, etc. — to prepare budgets for the coming fiscal

TSTA to seek 33 percent teacher pay raise for 1981-83

Citing a growing exodus of young and veteran teachers from Texas classrooms, the state's largest teacher organization today announced it will recommend a 33 percent raise in teacher pay over the 1981-83 biennium.

Dora Scott of Houston, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, said the proposal was approved by the TSTA executive committee for presentation to the 1981 Legislature in January.

She said the TSTA proposal would provide pay increases ranging from $1,300 or more per year for beginning teachers, to over $2,000 per year for more experienced teachers with advanced degrees. The 33 percent increase would include the experience increments already in the law, she said.

"Texas teachers badly need a substantial pay raise for many reasons," Mrs. Scott said. Among them, she cited "the rising inflation rate, little help from the Legislature during the last two sessions, and a growing teacher shortage attributed to young people choosing better paying careers and veteran teachers leaving the classrooms."

Mrs. Scott noted that the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education has urged the Legislature to enact, as a first priority, a significant increase in teacher pay and fringe benefits.

She praised the State Board of Education for recommending a 23 percent teacher pay raise, but said that is not enough. TSTA's recommended 33 percent increase over the 1981-83 biennium will come closer to meeting the need, she said.

year. Word coming in from around the state is that inflation and other factors are prompting many local officials to seek large property tax increases.

State legislators, who were secretly saying all along that the Proposition 13 tax revolt should have been aimed at local and federal officials, are glad that the heat is off their backs: the Legislature effectively wiped out state property taxes last session.

Nothing stays the same in politics and their relief may be short-lived. Seeking tax revenues, Texas cities may make a raid on the sales tax and seek increases there. And the Legislature, which may be forced next session to raise presently low state taxes, had hoped to keep the sales tax hike option for itself.

College Desegregation

The U.S. Dept. of Education sent a letter to Gov. Bill Clements last week indicating Texas may lose millions in federal funds to higher education because of rampant segregation in state-supported colleges. State officials may soon learn they have 90 days to submit a corrective plan or face the loss of funds. Clements called the letter a political ploy.

AG Opinions

In a legal opinion issued last week Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White ruled Comptroller Bob Bullock may not deposit his employees' salaries directly into banks unless he sends a separate pay warrant for each employee to the bank.

More About Rich Coffey

In the early years on the frontier, Rich Coffey continued to do some freighting as a side business. With six or seven wagons pulled by teams of six to twelve oxen, he made the long trek across the open plains to the salt lakes in present Crane County near the Pecos River, a distance of 210 miles.

As Charles Goodnight returned from laying out his cattle trail into New Mexico in the summer of 1866, far out on the Staked Plains he met Uncle Rich Coffey headed for the Salt Lake.

When the cowboys saw what appeared to be a party of about 20 Indians, they were frightened and preparations were made for battle. When they finally met the strange party it turned out to be Rich Coffey with "a wagonload of the biggest melons you ever saw," said Goodnight.

For two or three hours they sat in the shade of one of Coffey's wagons and ate cold watermelon and long afterward Goodnight declared "that watermelons never tasted as good to me as that day."

Rich Coffey frequently met with Mexicans from Chihuahua at the salt lakes and was hauling the load of melons to barter with them. However, he failed to make connections with them on this occasion, so he buried his melons in the sand, and returned with his wagons loaded with salt.

The salt was used to barter with his neighbors. The remainder was disposed of as he and his family made their annual pilgrimage to Weatherford, where they did the year's shopping. This trip took from four to six weeks, and a stop was made at the little store on Mukewater Creek in Coleman County, owned by Bill Franks, where one could buy "bacon and beans, with perhaps a little coffee and sugar, Tobacco, and canned peaches."

Coffey is said to have made as many as 24 trips to the salt lakes near the Pecos and one account states that on 22 of these trips he and his men buried one or more men slain by the Indians.

A grandson, Bob Coffey said that his grandfather's plan was to haul the salt to his ranch and then have it to Parker County and trade it at the flour mill for flour, and then haul the flour to Fort Concho and sell it to the Quarter Master at the fort for gold. Uncle Rich told his grandson, "Robbie, there were times when I had enough gold to buy one of those entire counties that I crossed."

By 1871 Rich Coffey had acquired a sizeable herd of cattle. He usually sold his cattle to neighboring ranchers, such as Coggins and Parks, or John Chisum, whose cattle with the Jingle Bob Mark and the Long Rail brand ranged far and wide over the Coleman and Concho County. The cattle of Rich Coffey bore the brand of 3 + 3.

On one occasion he decided to let his own cowboys take a herd of 1,020 cattle "up the trail" to New Mexico. Nat Guest was placed in charge of the herd. John Coffey, the 15-year-old-oldest son was a regular cowhand, while Bill, two years younger, wrangled the remuda of 54 horses. The herd was moved out on June 1, 1871.

The trail was stopped at noon at a large waterhole on a creek so that the cattle could get water. John was preparing to start the lead cattle down to water, when they were attacked by a band of 90 to 100 Indians. John yelled, "Let's go to the creek!" He and one of the cowboys raced down the hillside, firing as they went at the 25 warriors following them. John made it to safety but the other boy was killed.

When the attack occurred one man fled to the ranch pursued by 30 warriors. He succeeded in reaching the Coffey ranch and late in the afternoon returned with assistance, expecting to find them all dead. Fortunately all of the cowboys had escaped save two, whose mutilated bodies were given burial.

The Indians had taken the entire here of cattle and all horses in the remuda save two. A few months later on Christmas day, the Coffeys watched helplessly as the Indians rounded up the remaining cows and horses and drove them away.

All that Rich Coffey had worked so hard for during nine difficult years was gone. Without a work of self-pity he set to work to recuperate his financial losses and while he never became a wealthy man, he was able to live his last years in comfort. His strength of character was demonstrated by the fact that "he was never despondent over any reverse that came to him."

The average pencil can draw a line 35 miles long or write approximately 50,000 English words.
