"REFLECTIONS," "REFLECTIONS," "REFLECTIONS,"

BY RICHARD C. THOMAS

Some weeks ago, when we were receiving our early "fall rains," there was heck to pay at the office of the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce on West Dale. The roof leaked, along with the sidewalls, and before anyone realized what was happening, there was an inch or two of water on the carpeted floor of the office. To put it mildly, things were in a mess.

So members of the board and other chamber members picked up what could be hauled out and set up an office in the building on the corner formerly occupied by the Winters State Bank. (The bank moved to the new quarters on South Main just in time.) From that location, Edna England, secretary-manager of the chamber, directed operations for some time. But the C-C office could not remain on the corner indefinitely. J. W. Norman's Insurance and Marvin Jones' Bookkeeping, housed across the street for many years, had plans to move into the former bank building.

The chamber board of directors got together and decided that something must be done. C. C. Stephens, local carpenter and builder, was contacted, and he started to work. He repaired the roof, and plastered the outside of the walls—not only would that keep out the water, but would keep out the bats, which had set up house-keeping in the building.

In addition, Stephens build a partition wall, dividing the chamber office into two sections, one for the regular office, and one room for board meetings. The front office was carpeted, and the board room is tiled. Not only did Mr. Stephens build the partition wall, but he had a French door which he offered to the chamber. Edna and some of the other ladies of the chamber of commerce decided that two doors would look better... so Mr. Stephens let them have the second French door at the same price he charged for the first—nothing.

During the past few days, Edna and Rhuennell Poe have been painting and papering at the C-C office. (Some others may have been in on it, too, but I was in a hurry and failed to get more names.)

The decor of the front office of the C-C is hard to describe by one whose background has been limited to concrete blocks, bricks and native rocks, accentuated by mesquite and cacti, but with those French doors in the new partition, it is something else again. If you have not been by while all this repairing and renovating has been in progress, I suggest you spend a few minutes on your coffee break and drop by and see what a little determination and a lot of elbow grease and knuckle dust can do. When it's completed, we can all be proud of the new office of the Winters Chamber of Commerce!

Proclamation

Runnels County Judge Bill B. Poe, program chairman, and Stultz signs a proclamation declaring the week of Nov. 1-8 "Stephen F. Austin Week," as Mrs. Charlsie

Poe, program chairman, and Rankin Pace, county chairman of the Runnels County Historical Commission look on.

Arts-Crafts Fair

Another activity has been added to the annual Arts and Crafts Festival sponsored by the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce and scheduled for Nov. 14 and 15.

The sponsors announced this week that an art show will be added, for children in Winters Primary School. A stew cook-off was added and announced two weeks ago.

For the art show, all types of art prepared by students in kindergarten through grade five will be accepted. First, second and third place ribbons will be awarded for entries in each classroom. Additional information on the art show may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Lanny Bahlman.

The stew cook-off will be held

Friday, Nov. 14, with simple rules. The stew may be prepared at home and brought to the Community Center for judging. Those entering stew should prepare a container of three quarts or more. The stew must be made from "scratch," and must be at the Community Center no later than 9:30 a. m. Nov. 14. Entries will become the property of the Chamber of Commerce. Several awards will be presented. Deadline for entering the cook-off will be Monday, Nov. 10.

Organizations and individuals interested in reserving booth space at the Arts and Crafts Festival should contact Mrs. Buddy Miller, 754-5401, or Mrs. Edna England, 754-5210.

Lake bid opening was postponed

Opening of construction bids for Winters' new dam and water reservoir, which had been scheduled for Tuesday of this week, has been postponed for "at least a couple more weeks," city officials announced at the end of last week.

It was explained that engineers found it necessary to add several addendums to the specifications, which contributed some to the delay, and also that there were so many construction contractors wishing to bid on the job that it became necessary to print many additional copies of the specifications to meet the demands. As of the first of last week, there had been at least 31 requests for specifications, and apparently many more were received during the past few days.

City officials Tuesday were in contact with the engineers to determine the legal status of the bid opening postponement, and it was unclear as to when the new bid opening date would be, and the steps required to set a new date.

Engineers some time ago said that after the bids were opened, and a contract was accepted by all concerned, that it would be possible that first actual dirt-turning could begin before Christmas. Construction of the dam and reservoir will require about two years, according to engineers.

Museum open house during Arts-Crafts fair

Under the direction and recommendations of Carol Daffern, Curator of Exhibits for the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum, members of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation made plans Monday and Tuesday for the museum open house to be held in conjunction with the annual Arts and Crafts Fair, scheduled Nov. 14-15. The museum will be open from 1 to 5 p. m. each day during the fair.

Displays of pioneer crafts will be shown during the open house. Any type of handwork made or owned by some members of the family from 1890 to 1930 will be acceptable, museum directors said. Quilts will be welcome, they said.

Persons wishing to display items should bring them to the museum Monday, Nov. 10, from 9 to 11 a. m. Articles should be labeled with the name, address and telephone number of the owner, and a brief history of the article, the time period and how the article was used.

Owners of items displayed during the Arts and Crafts Fair are asked to pick up the items Monday, Nov. 17, from 2 to 4 p. m.

Two Monday afternoons, Nov. 3 and Nov. 10, have been designated as work days, from 2 to 6 p. m. Help is needed in yard work and refinishing cabinets, museum foundation spokespersons said.

Election

Although there are no local political races or issues to be resolved in the General Election next Tuesday, Nov. 4, the presidential race figures to cause a more-than-normal voter turnout. Although the national election has appeared to cause only low-key response in this area, veteran political observers report an undercurrent of high interest in the nationally hotly-contested presidential race.

No polls have been taken in this locality, but observers predict that the presidential contest will be a "horse race," with Reagan slightly in the lead. With another week before the election date, however, and national and international occurrences predicted to have an effect on the general voting, polls taken this week may be completely reversed by election day.

Anniversary

Almost one hundred senior citizens helped to celebrate the second anniversary of the Senior Citizens Nutrition Program at the dinner in the Humble Bldg. last week. They also were observing the seventh anniversary of Rosemary Bennie as director of the senior citizens program.

Employer's deadline to report Quarterly Federal Tax Return near

October 31 is the date which employers must report on Form 941 Social Security and withheld Federal income taxes for the 3rd quarter of 1980 and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service says. If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until Nov. 10 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can obtain one from local IRS offices. IRS Publication 15, "Circular E - Employer's Tax Guide," is also available at local offices.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Texas voters have been promised a lot of attention from candidates, and last week they received a big dose of it.

President Jimmy Carter last week made campaign stops in Beaumont, Texarkana and Waco to appear with Texas Democrats and strengthen his program to capture this "must win" state on Nov. 4.

Meanwhile, GOP nominee Ronald Reagan met in Austin with Gov. Bill Clements and conservative leaders of several farm and ranch groups to discuss ways to promote his election.

Their endorsements, however, were clearly made by individuals and not rank-and-file group members.

Not to be overlooked was Massachusetts Sen. Ted Kennedy, who courted votes for Carter in blue collar areas of Beaumont and Hispanic areas in McAllen.

RURAL TEXAS

As political polls continue to indicate a neck-and-neck horse race, rural Texans find themselves more and more the object of attention.

Clements said he is pushing Reagan to pick a new secretary of agriculture from Texas, an incentive which no doubt helped to fuse the above-mentioned endorsements.

CHINA GRAIN DEAL

And from Carter, Texas farmers gained assurances they will sell millions of tons of grain at market prices to China in a treaty signed Wednesday for more than $9 billion in trade.

Republicans have charged the grain deal signing near election day is a political ploy, but administration officials explained the signing was delayed by China's displeasure over U. S. news leaks and potential market fluctuation.

As if to underscore that point, last week a $10 million class action lawsuit was filed against the nation's largest grain company and a former Nixon agriculture official by 294 farmers in 35 Panhandle counties and two New Mexico counties.

The suit alleges that Continental Grain Co. and a former federal official, now a Continental vice-president, conspired to keep U.S. wheat prices artificially low prior to the controversial 1972 Soviet grain deal.

AN ACTIVE CHAIRMAN

Newly-installed Texas Democratic party chairman Bob Slagle, accompanied sometimes by former U.S. Agriculture Committee chairman Bob Poage, completed his first week of scattered rural courthouse speeches across the state. Slagle is intent on clarifying President Carter's support and building the Democratic party in rural Texas.

At Carter's request, Slagle flew to Texarkana to appear on the program, where he reportedly advised the President to let more Texans know about the administration's endorsement for reform of the Windfall Profits Tax.

Known as the Bentsen Bill, after the authorship of U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, the reform would include an annual $1,000 tax break for small oil and gas royalty owners.

Carter's windfall profits program, much retailored by Congress before final passage, has proved to be a sore point for the small royalty owners, particularly the elderly on fixed incomes.

With Carter's support the Bentsen Bill, if passed, will provide relief for some 75 percent of the royalty owners now affected, especially those who collect $200 or less a month.

Slagle then returned to West Texas to throw himself back into the breach of political battle, using personal contact to combat the massive and active Republican phone banks.

SECOND RAIL LINE

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White said last week Texas may benefit if a rail line is built from the coal-rich Powder River Basin in Wyoming to this state. Currently, the high-priced coal is transported by Burlington Northern Railroad, which operates the only rail line from the basin.

White, long upset with the high price of Wyoming lignite, said rail competition may drive down the cost.

A federal judge has given approval to Chicago and Northwestern Railroad to build a second line to transport Wyoming coal to Texas.

The ruling will become final unless it is appealed to the Interstate Commerce Commission this month.

St. Joseph's Fall Festival to be Nov. 9

The 58th annual Fall Festival of St. Joseph's Parish has been set for Sunday, November 9, at the Parish Hall in Rowena.

Bill Lange is chairman of the festival this year and Timmy Franke is co-chairman. Under their leadership, along with the kitchen committee, Mrs. Charles Mateschek, Jr., Mrs. Wilfred Schniers and Mrs. Ray Gene Hoel-scher, members of the parish will prepare 115 turkeys, 4,000 pounds of German-style sausage, 650 pounds of dressing, 67 cakes and 306 pies and all the other items that go together for the traditional feast.

The Rev. Benedict Zientek, general advisor, will say Mass for the workers Saturday at 7 p.m. Sunday services will be held at 8 a.m. and 10:15 a.m.

Serving begins at 11 a.m. and continues until 2 p.m. for the noon meal. Sausage sandwiches will be served from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. A country store, a fancy stand, and games for all ages will continue throughout the afternoon. An auction of cotton and merchandise starts at 2 p.m.

The day's activities will be climaxed with a dance from 8 p.m. until midnight with music by The Gentrys.

Young children - developing concern for others

Parents can influence even very young children to have concern for others - if their message of concern is forceful, according to Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

While traditional child development theories hold that young children are selfish, ego-centered and unable to show altruistic behavior before ages five or six, recent studies are providing different evidence.

Studies conducted at the National Institute on Mental Health have indicated that children between the ages of 10 months and two and a half years can show feelings of compassion and empathy for others.

Mothers play a key role in development of concern for others, the studies also concluded.

Children of mothers who gave forceful messages about not hurting others were more likely to give help and comfort to those in need than were children of mothers who gave neutral, calmly reasoned explanations.

Hugs, kisses, soothing words and concerned behavior were replicated by their children.

"From National Institute of Mental Health research, it seems very likely that parents can influence even very young children to have concern for others," Mrs. Welch says.

"Key factors were the parents' abilities to give forceful explanatory messages about not hurting others and to show concern for their own children."

They're Saying America Is Dying

They're saying America is dying. They were saying it in 1776 when a puny little group of colonies was stupid enough to square off against the unbeatable British Empire.

They were saying it in the 1860's when our young nation was doing its best to annihilate itself in civil war.

They were saying it in the '30's when our once-flourishing economy was in shambles.

They were saying it in 1941 when our mighty Pacific fleet lay decimated in the waters of Pearl Harbor.

And now they're saying it all over again.

You have to wonder just who "they" are. They're probably the same ones who think its laughable to love or even show respect for our nation's flag.

They're probably the same ones who think the American people are of the government, by the government, and for the government instead of the other way around.

They're probably the same ones who think you spell the words business and profit with four letters.

For certain, they're the same ones who think America's very foundation has been eroded to the point where we're pushovers for a little band of desert bandits whose own foundation is rooted only in shifting sands.

Our foundation crumbling? Baloney! It's been strong enough to build this planet's greatest, richest nation on - in spite of some pretty stupid mistakes on our part and in spite of some pretty hefty attacks from outside forces over the years. And it hasn't shown a fissure yet.

Perhaps, instead of worrying so much about our country's foundation, they should be more concerned about our country's backbone. You see, whoever "they" are, they obviously haven't learned much from our history books or else they would realize it has always been those with a stiff spinal column who have built and protected America's foundation.

Backbone has pulled us through every tough spot in our past. And it will be backbone that will pull us through the present hard times and all the ones that are sure to come.

They're saying America is dying. Hell, they've been saying that for 200 years or more. Thank God we've been lucky enough to always have had a certain group of "backbone" people around who refused to listen to what "they" were saying.

Aged accidentally abuse drugs

The aged make up only about 11 percent of the nation's population but they use about 25 percent of all prescription drugs. About 80 percent of those over age 65 have one or more long-term disorders so they often have to take more than one drug daily. All these facts show there is a large potential for accidental drug misuse, the Texas Medical Association (TMA) says. Fortunately, people who take the medicines can do some things to help themselves avoid problems. Guidelines include:

—Don't trade leftover drugs with friends without consulting a physician. Drugs may be outdated, useless or causing problems for another person.

—Ask the doctor if certain foods or alcoholic beverages interact badly with prescribed medicines.

—Tell the doctor about all prescription and other drugs taken often so the physician can spot possible bad interactions before they happen.

—Don't stop or change dosages just because you feel better. Ask the doctor before changing dosages; you still may need the medicine.

—Don't make up a forgotten dose by doubling the next dose. Bad side effects might occur with extra-large doses of some medicines.

—If unexpected side effects occur, consult a doctor immediately. Sometimes the drug can be changed or something can be done to get rid of the side effects. If not, they may not be as bad as the disease itself.

—Take drugs at the recommended times. Of all these guidelines, this one is the hardest to follow. There are several ways to keep track of what pills need to be taken. All methods need to answer these questions: what to take, when to take it, how to take it and whether or not it has been taken.

The U. S. Department of Health and Human Services suggests drawing up a chart that lists all directions and use it for checking off a drug when it is taken. Color-coding bottles and places on the chart may make it easier to use for some people. Some people even put all the pills they need for one time period in one container. The time period can be a day, a 12-hour period, an hour or a week. Just make sure that pills are out of reach of children and that they will not lose their effectiveness if stored in a cup, egg carton or something else other than their normal containers.

The physician who recommended the drugs or the pharmacist can answer many questions about drugs. But the physician particularly needs all the facts when recommending drug therapy. Be sure and tell the doctor about all drugs being taken and if there are side effects. Make sure drug-taking directions are clear and follow them closely. Otherwise drug therapy could be a waste or a danger.

'Grief work'

If a person who has lost a loved one through death does not do a certain amount of "grief work," he may be asking for trouble, says a University of Texas psychologist.

Dr. Ira Iscoe says those who deny death and who are too hasty about resuming their normal lives may turn up months later with psycho-physical signs such as sleep or skin disorders. He thinks it takes about six months to work through a grief period.

Dr. Iscoe observes most persons "don't know how to die" because they rarely
