Postmaster Nichols retires

H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, one of the last postmasters to be appointed by Congress, retired last Friday.

A postmaster to succeed Nichols has not been named. Charles Greer, superintendent of postal operations in the Fort Stockton post office, will be officer-in-charge until a postmaster is assigned to the Winters office.

Nichols was appointed October, 1968, by then Congressman Omar Burleson. His appointment was among the last to be made through the old political appointment system; from that time, postmasters are assigned by the Postal System, and usually are persons who are already in the system.

Nichols has made no announcement concerning his future plans.

Work day at museum set January 26

Board members of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation Monday set January 26 as a work day for cataloguing new items that have been presented to the museum. The work day will begin at 9 a. m.

The museum will be open on Sunday, Feb. 8, from 2 to 4 p. m., and on each second Sunday each month thereafter.

Roy Young was named curator to fill the unexpired term of Marvin Jones, who had resigned.

Prissy Dozier, secretary-treasurer, presented a complete financial report. Since opening, the museum has received a total of $10,735.68 in memberships and contributions.

A total of $9,323.69 has been spent in remodeling, repair and upkeep of the building. There is a balance of $1,397.55.

A financial committee was appointed by Joyce Bahlman, president of the foundation. Members are Roy Young, Maurine Davis and Dickey Lloyd.

Membership in the museum foundation is open to all those who are interested in the heritage and history of the area.

Council will open bids

In a second attempt to get the project off the ground, Winters City Council Thursday, Jan. 15, will open bids from contractors for the proposed dam and water reservoir, and the pipeline, for Winters.

Bids will be opened and read at 2 p. m. Thursday. Announcement of bids accepted probably will not be made for several days.

This is the second time Winters has received and opened bids on this project. In the first call, which occurred last fall, bids were above what the city had available for the dam. Original estimates of construction costs, which had been made several months previous, were far below the amounts bid by prospective contractors, caused by the ever-increasing rate of infla-

Retiring

H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, center, holds a letter of commendation from the regional supervisor of the U. S. Postal Service, on the occasion of his retirement last Friday. Charles Greer, right, superintendent of postal operations at Fort Stockton, will be officer-in-charge at the Winters Post Office until a new postmaster is named to succeed Nichols. Travis Morgan, postal systems examiner of Midland, "checked out" Nichols on his last day as postmaster.

Civil war veteran's grave moved to Lakeview

A special memorial service will be held next Monday, Jan. 19, at 4:15 p. m., at the new grave site of a Civil War veteran whose remains have been removed from the original burial site to Winters' Lakeview Cemetery.

I. M. Barton, a veteran of the Civil War, was born Nov. 7, 1817, and died May 2, 1892. He was buried in a field northwest of Winters, on a place now owned by Melvin Ray Williams. For many years, the lone grave, with a small stone marker, had been protected by a small picket fence. Just before Christmas, the remains were moved to Lakeview Cemetery by Williams and Ted Meyer, who donated the lot for the purpose. A special historical marker will be erected at

The memorial service will be sponsored by the Runnels County Historical Committee. Anthony Lange of Norton, chairman of Texas Patriotism for the county organization, will be in charge of the memorial service.

The 4:15 p. m. time for the memorial service was picked in order to give school children and others an opportunity to attend, Charlie Poe, of the Historical Committee, said.

Mrs. Poe said there is very little information on the Civil War vet, except that he had expressed a desire to be buried "at home," instead of in the Old Runnels Cemetery, between Winters and Ballinger.

Wingate Fire Dept. number

Residents in the Wingate area may summon the Wingate Volunteer Fire Department by dialing

743-2726

This one number will connect with and ring 10 different phones of members of the fire department.

P.T.O. to meet

The Winters P.T.O. will hold a monthly meeting Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the High School auditorium.

C-C directors named to committees

In the first meeting of the new board of directors of the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce Monday evening, Patti Robinson, the new president, named members of the board to coordinate standing committees for 1981.

The board also approved the list of suggested holidays and events for the year, and endorsed continued sponsorship of the Reward Program.

Named to represent the board on the chamber's committees were:

- Agriculture: Charles Allcorn
- Membership: George Mostad
- Budget: Bruce Black
- Industrial: Randall Boles
- Retail Trade: Randy Springer
- Public Affairs: Randall Conner
- Projects: Buddy Miller
- Ladies: Kay Colburn

A list of committee members drawn from the membership of the organization will be released later.

Gloria Isaacks elected to All-District

Gloria Isaacks, member of the Winters High School Blizzard Band, was one of 125 students picked for the Region 2 South Zone All-District Band last week.

Miss Isaacks was in the snare drum section.

More than 400 students registered for the try outs. The All-District Band will give a concert in the Stamford High School auditorium Feb. 24 at 7:30 p. m.

Junior Livestock Show

Parade of champions

The lamb division of the annual Winters Junior Livestock Show, sponsored by the Winters Livestock Assn., had to compete with the Cowboys-Eagles football game Sunday afternoon, but with good weather for the local show, attendance was good.

The lamb division was held Sunday afternoon, with the swine and cattle judged Monday afternoon.

Roy Walston showed his heavy-weight medium wool to the show Grand Championship, as Clint Dieke's Medium Wool lamb took the reserve honors.

In the cattle show Monday, Karen Carter's Simmental heifer won the Grand Championship in that division. Roy Walston came back to the steer show and showed his Charolais cross to the Grand Championship in the steer division. Allison Allcorn showed the Reserve.

Walston also won the showmanship award, and Jay West won the herdsman award.

Barbara Henderson's Duroc took Grand Championship honors in the swine show, and Grady Bryan showed the reserve, also a Duroc.

Exemptions available for county taxpayers

To qualify for exemptions on county taxes, all eligible persons must file requests with the Runnels County Tax Assessor-Collector's office between Jan. 1 and April 1 of each current tax year, VaRue McWilliams, tax assessor-collector has announced.

McWilliams said the county tax office has forms available for the following types of exemptions granted in Runnels County to taxpayers who qualify:

- Homestead exemption for persons 65 years of age and over.

- Disabled veterans or survivors exemption.

- Valuation reduction for open-space land (agriculture) in accordance with state tax statutes.

- Valuation reduction for agriculture land in accordance with statutes.

McWilliams said the agriculture use value is determined with net return to land divided by the current capitalization rate, which is 12 1/4 percent for 1981. Research in all categories for the five-year average figures will not be completed until the first part of February, she said. Net return to land is figured with overall averages (not personal five-year average), McWilliams continued.

Article VIII-1-d-1 of the state tax statute was adopted in November, 1978, McWilliams said, to be effective as of Jan. 1, 1979, and since it has not been implemented before now, "it does create a problem for the one year (1981), with the knowledge that the new Appraisal District will (be responsible) for 1982."

Water district director election

Qualified voters residing within the bounds of Valley Creek Water Control District will go to the polls Saturday, Jan. 17, to elect four persons to the board of directors of the district.

No candidates for the vacancies have announced.

Voting boxes will be at the Drug Store Building in Wingate, with David F. Bryan as presiding election judge; and at the Dave Compton Residence at Norton, with Mrs. Dave Compton as election judge.

Polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. on the day of election.

Present members of the board are Frank K. Antilley, president; Mardell Shedd, vice president; Duncan Hensley, secretary; and John W. Bird, Carl W. Moore, Edd Poehls, H. O. Polk, and Lester Schaefer.

Red China allows Christian worship

A United Methodist educator, who recently returned from a trip to the Far East, says Christians are again allowed to worship publicly in the Peoples Republic of China.

The Rev. Hector Navas, superintendent of Navajo Methodist Mission School located in Farmington, New Mexico, worshipped at a Christian church in Canton (Kwangchow) on mainland China with a group of presidents of Methodist-related institutions.

Navas said his delegation joined about 500 Chinese people at one of the more than 50 Protestant churches which have recently re-opened in Communist China.

In Shanghai, the educator visited the former Moore Memorial Methodist Church, now known as Mo-An Church. "This church had been taken over by the Red Guard, and all of the hymnals and the organ were destroyed."

The church now has a staff of seven pastors, five retired pastors, and three Bible women. Several thousand persons worship there each Sunday, in three separate services.

"The pastor told us they had to encourage people of the first service to leave so that another service could begin, and others could come to worship," Navas said.

"There is no doubt that the Christian church has gone through much persecution, especially at the hand of the Red Guard," he added, "but by their present witness, enthusiasm and contagious faith, they have triumphed."

Christians in China have submitted a petition to their government to change the constitution, that states that only atheism can be propagated, while citizens may or may not believe in religion.

"The Christians feel there is a very good chance that the Chinese government will honor their request and allow the constitution to read simply, 'All Chinese will have the freedom of religion.'"

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
 By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

One group wants to raise interest rates. Another one wants to lower property taxes.

A year from now maybe taxpayers will be paying out bank loans with money they saved from tax reforms.

Last session one of the Legislature's bloodiest fights involved an effort to remove the 10 percent ceiling on home mortgage loans. In days long gone by, when mortgage rates bobbed around four percent, the Legislature prohibited lending institutions from charging more than 10 percent interest. In recent years, inflation drove up the rate beyond the worst fears of past lawmakers . . . through the roof, in fact.

The 10 percent ceiling, once believed a safeguard, became a hindrance. Texas lending institutions had to borrow federal money between 12 and 13 percent, and home mortgage loans came to a virtual standstill for a while in the Lone Star State.

Finally, after multiple threats flung back and forth, the Legislature raised the ceiling to 12 percent. However, when Congress temporarily suspended all state ceilings soon after, home mortgage interests shot up to 17, 18, even over 20 percent.

Voters took it in stride. Predictions that a vote to remove the 10 percent ceiling would result in doom for any legislator did not prove true. The subject was not a serious issue anywhere in the state during campaign season.

BACK AGAIN

Now, bankers, credit unions, finance companies, retailers and auto dealers are announcing they are joining forces to remove the new 12 percent ceiling on interest rates.

A consumer association has called it "a conspiracy of lenders to allow an open season on all borrowers," but the lenders say they need the credit opportunities for businesses in Texas.

Some are predicting the issue to be a bloody repeat of last session's fracas. Then again, depending on how lawmakers sense the attitudes of their voters, they may not be afraid to approve the issue. With the recent election in mind, anticeiling lawmakers may have fared far better than anticeiling colleagues.

PROPERTY TAX REDUCTION

Led by John Sharp of Victoria, some seven state representatives last week proposed a plan to use a local option one-cent sales tax hike plus state surplus funds to dramatically lower local property taxes.

The bill would supply an estimated $300 million a year in surplus funds to school districts which increase homestead exemptions, plus it would allow cities and counties to share equally in a sales tax increase to compensate for property tax reductions.

Using 1979 data, Sharp estimates the bill will reduce property taxes per homestead an average of $70 per month.

REDISTRICTING WOES

Texas will probably receive the federal census figures in time to begin the redistricting process this session, but it may be all for naught, at least according to one expert.

Now in the works are several lawsuits challenging the census findings in Northern cities. If the census figures are thrown out (probably sometime after the Legislature adjourns), then the Texas redistricting plan would be voided, and the entire process begun again two years from now.

Mengden bill will raise drinking age to 19

Senator Walter Mengden, Republican from Harris County, has pre-filed Senate Bill (SB) 130 to increase the alcoholic beverage drinking age in Texas from 18 to 19 in order to get alcohol problems out of the high schools.

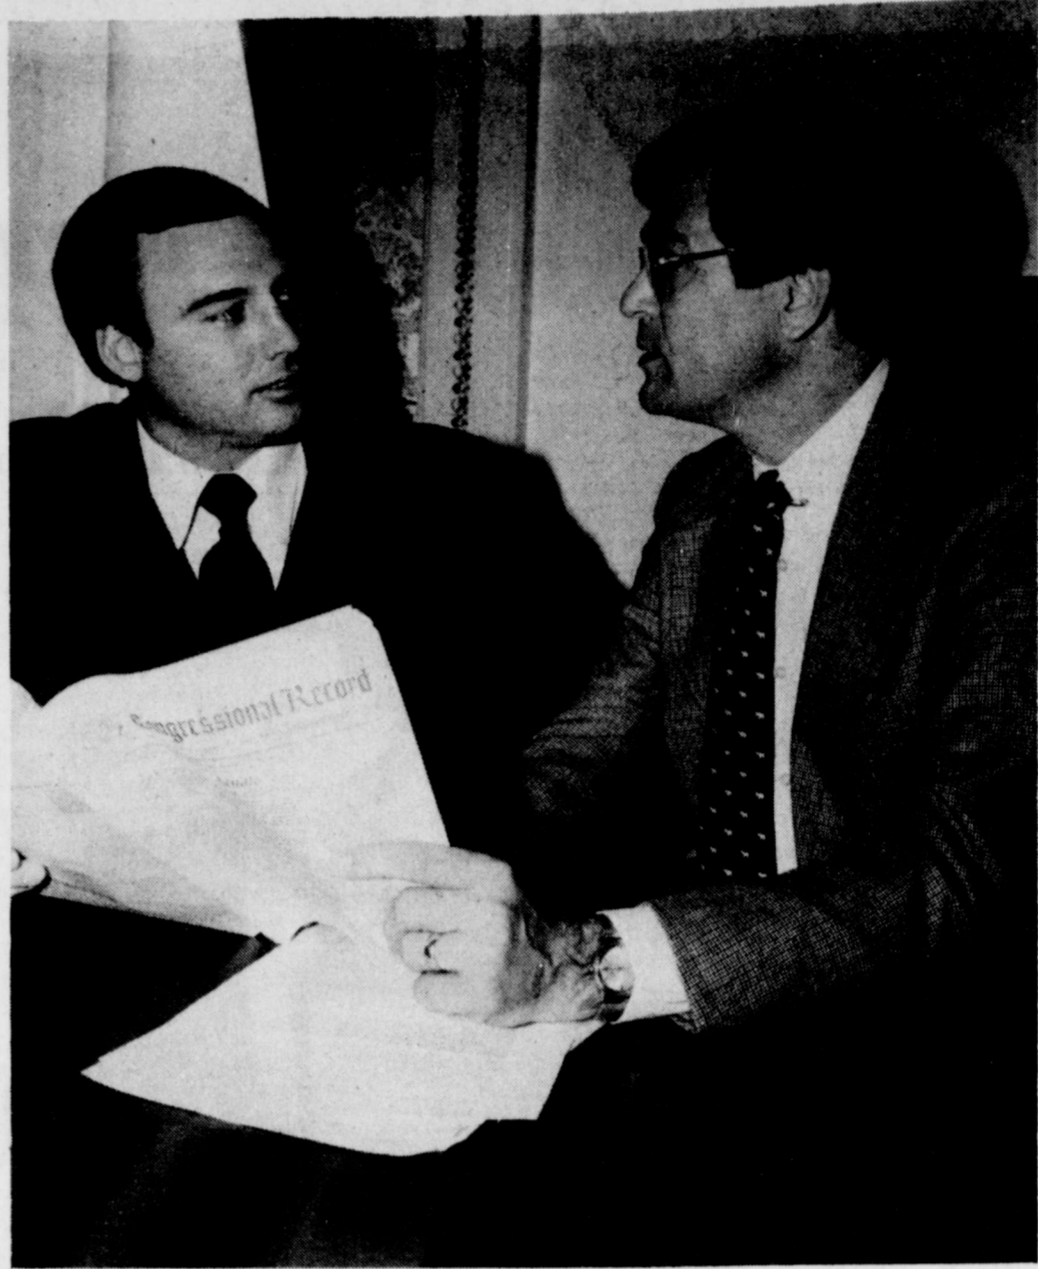

Senator Mengden's bill on this subject in the last legislative session, SB 474, passed the Senate 25 to 5 but was killed in the House Liquor Regulation Committee.

This legislation was endorsed by every major educational organization in the state including the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals, the Texas Association of School Administrators, the Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association, the Texas Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, the Texas Association of School Business Officials, the Texas School Assessors Association, the Texas Association of School Personnel Administrators, the Texas School Public Relations Association, the Texas Vocational Administrators and Supervisors Association of School Boards, the Texas State Teachers Association, the Texas Association of Community Schools, the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Association of Texas Educators.

Only seven other states, Louisiana, Wisconsin, West Virginia, New York, Vermont, Connecticut, and Hawaii, permit drinking of alcoholic beverages at age 18. By contrast, 12 states permit drinking at age 19, six states permit drinking at age 20, and 24 states permit drinking at age 21.

A September 1979 national Gallup Poll of teenagers in states with 20 or 21 year old drinking laws showed only 37 percent of the teens wanted the drinking age lowered.

Loeffler named Deputy Whip

House Republican Whip Trent Lott today announced the appointment of Congressman Tom Loeffler, R-Texas as Deputy House Republican Whip for the 97th Congress.

Lott said he chose Loeffler to become the number three-ranking member in the Whip organization because of his experience with White House congressional liaison and the executive branch as well as his work with the U.S. Senate.

"Tom Loeffler is one of the most experienced young Members of Congress," Lott said. "His friendship with Members on the Democratic side of the aisle will be invaluable as we go about trying to pass the Reagan legislative package."

"He is one of my closest advisers," Lott said. "He will be particularly helpful in budgetary matters because of his membership on the Appropriations Committee and in energy and defense legislation because of his knowledge in those fields."

Austin attorney Steve Bickerstaff, a former assistant attorney general under John Hill, said until the census figures are resolved as reliable, then any Texas plan will remain in jeopardy.

CLOSING BLACK COLLEGES

A Panhandle legislator last week suggested he would introduce a bill to sell two predominantly black Texas colleges and use the proceeds to integrate their students into mostly white colleges.

Pampa legislator Foster Whaley immediately drew fire from black legislators and educators for his plan to sell Prairie View A&M and Texas Southern University.

Whaley said his bill was designed to end vestiges of a "separate but equal" system, but opponents viewed it as a way to avoid appropriating an additional $20 million to the two colleges as a means of sidestepping a discrimination lawsuit.

DEMOCRAT FUNDRAISER

Texas Democrats planned a Legislature opening-day fundraiser to pay off over $100,000 in party debts. It's also the official opening salvo of a roll-up-the-sleeves movement to beat back Republicans in state elections two years from now. All Democratic party state officials were invited.

WINNER WEAVES MAGIC WITH ROSEMARY, THYME & TRADITION

The eve of the Feast of St. Agnes, January 20, has long been regarded as the most opportune time for young women to employ charms reputedly effective in revealing the names and faces of their future husbands. According to tradition, girls of marriageable age were advised to take rosemary and thyme, sprinkle them thrice with water, and put a sprig in both shoes. The shoes were then to be placed on each side of the bed while chanting:
St. Agnes, that's to lovers kind,
Come, ease the trouble of my mind.
During the night, they were certain to dream of their future husbands!
Deanna McDonald, Nevada's Junior Miss and the 1980 Kraft Hostess Awards winner, offers her own recipe for greeting this magical night. Place two "Perfect Match Sticks" in your shoes and serve the rest to your favorite beau. Pleasant dreams!
2 dozen

"PERFECT MATCH" STICKS

- 1 cup flour
  - 1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon rosemary
  - 1/4 teaspoon thyme
  - 1/4 cup Parkay margarine
  - 1/3 cup milk
- Combine dry ingredients; cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk, mixing just until moistened. On lightly floured surface, knead about 15 times. Roll out dough to 6 x 12-inch rectangle; cut into 6 x 1/2-inch strips. Place on un-greased cookie sheet. Bake at 450°, 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

FRUIT SHORTCAKE

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup Nabisco 100% Bran Cereal
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 (29-ounce) can sliced peaches, chilled, drained
- 1 medium banana
- 2 cups sweetened whipped cream or whipped topping

- Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease and flour two 8-inch layer-cake pans. In small bowl, combine flour, bran, baking powder and salt.
- In large bowl of electric mixer, beat butter or margarine, cream cheese and sugar until fluffy. Blend in egg, lemon juice and rind. Beat in flour mixture.
- Divide batter evenly between two pans. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until edge of cake pulls away slightly from side of pan. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out to cool completely.
- Cut banana into 14 slices and reserve 10 peach slices for top layer of cake. Thinly slice remaining peaches. Spread 1 cup whipped cream or whipped topping on one layer; arrange sliced peaches over whipped cream. Top with second layer; spread remaining whipped cream and top with reserved fruit slices. Makes 8 (3-inch) wedges.

Mrs. Harrison stressed that "We are fortunate to have these two college representatives visit our school. They will not only discuss Angelo State and its financial aid programs and information, but the information presented will be of value to students and parents who are considering any college, vocational or technical school."

By JERRY LACKEY

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is an analysis from veteran West Texas journalist Jerry Lackey. Views expressed here are not necessarily those of the publisher of this newspaper. Lackey is a regular contributor to The Winters Enterprise with an agriculture column.

Conservative Denver, Colorado attorney James G. Watt has been roasted by extreme conservation groups since the day President Ronald Reagan made it known he wanted him for Secretary of Interior.

For more than a month, many of the country's largest conservation groups — including the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and the Wilderness Society — have tried to rally enough support in the Senate to block the nomination. Not since Richard Nixon nominated Walter Hickel in 1969 has the selection for interior drawn such fire.

Why? The environmental groups want to paint Watt as a man whose entire career makes him unsuited to act as chief custodian for the 700 million acres of parks, wilderness areas and other public lands managed by the Department of Interior.

These groups focus their criticism on Watt's role for three years as head and chief legal officer of Mountain States Legal Foundation. That 10-attorney foundation has specialized in fighting a variety of environmental regulations proposed by the Interior Department and other government agencies.

These environmental extremists groups charge the foundation's board of directors and chief contributors read like a Who's Who of Western mining, oil, timber and real estate interests. They contend that under Watt's leadership, the foundation became one of the foremost advocacy groups for private exploitation of public lands.

One writer suggest Democrats as well as Republican moderates should ask, set a goat to guard the cabbage patch?

Well, I object to these many challenges. It seems the cabbage patch has been so grown up in goat heads for so long the American people can't get to the cabbage.

For over 10 years, I was editor for the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association and was employed by the National Wool Growers and American Sheep Producers Council handling special assignments in Texas and Colorado. Many times I have toured public lands where sheepman and cattlemen herded their livestock like they did for centuries. And let me tell you, those lands were more balanced by the grazing of animals.

Since the many public lands have been "turned back to wilderness and nature walks" we have seen uncontrolled fires break out and destroy more acres than the environmental groups could count.

Protecting the predators in these areas have put more ranchmen out of business. I see in James Watt an opportunity for sheep and goat and cattle raisers to at least have an audience before the government. It will give us a chance to let it be known that the largest industry in the world — agriculture — is in serious trouble because environmental extremists have had their way too long.

I remember a bumper sticker we put out some years back to promote lamb. "Eat more lamb — 100,000 coyotes can't be wrong." Too long it has been sheep and goat numbers on the extinct list instead of the national bird.

Also under fire is Watt's thoughts concerning the private exploitation of public lands. Think about that a minute. Why shouldn't we? After the coal or whatever is extracted from the earth, the land is re-soiled, re-seeded and in a few years appears natural again. Why not acquire our own energy and develop our lands and be less dependent of the expensive foreign products.

Texans to honor heroes of Confederacy on Jan. 19

Texans in over 200 counties will gather at high noon on January 19th in pilgrimages to historic sites and official markers commemorating the roles of Texans in the Civil War.

January 19th has been designated by the legislature as Texas Confederate Heroes Day, a time for a special observance honoring civilians, and officials who distinguished themselves during this period of conflict.

Speeches, memorial services, graves and marker decorations and other activities will be conducted at the locations of military and naval installations, manufacturing plants, scenes of battles and skirmishes and other significant sites. A number of these locations recognize activities of Federal Forces within the state.

An educational poster honoring the public service of 20 outstanding Texans in the Civil War will be displayed in schools, museums, and other prominent places.

This Heritage and Pilgrimage Day is one of ten to be sponsored annually by the Texas Heritage Project, a joint endeavor of the Texas Historical Foundation and the Texas Historical Commission. Local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the 254 County Historical Commissions are also sponsors.

Mrs. W. R. Knowles of Houston is coordinating the statewide activity. Mrs. George Poe of Winters is Runnels County's Texas Heritage Project Chairman, and Rankin Pace is the Historical Commission Chairman.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

When visiting the homeplace of the famous race horse, Chick Called Sue, one is suddenly confronted with the fact that there's nothing but famous broodmare material in this Aubrey Stokes remuda.

The beautiful two story home on a hill overlooking the Concho River a few miles drive from Stokes law office in downtown San Angelo is not set apart too far in comfort from the barn that houses the horses. "They are all my babies," smiles Stokes.

For him, "Grills" are among the finest in quarter horse racing, a sport he defends with biblical fever.

As public relationsman and overseer of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center's Southwest Texas Region, I was called to the Stokes El Rancho Contento to receive papers for a yearling colt. Stokes has donated this colt "bred in the purple, from both the dam and the sire's side to WTRC." Registration application gives, Wes Texan, as the first choice for a name.

The yearling foaled February 2, 1980 is a grandson of Three Oh's that won the All American and sired many great horses that have been futurity finalists and winners including this colt's sire, Sinn Fein, who has a speed index of 98.

This stallion is the son of Watch Rebel Go who has a Registration of Merit in racing and a member of the Strokes broodmare band. Watch Rebel Go is the sister to Madam Betterfly who is a multiple stakes race qualifier in many races in Sunland Park, Ruidosa and Tucson, Arizona. She obtained her speed index of 101 winning at Tucson.

Watch Rebel Go's other half-sister is Fauna Dargo who is a stake winner with a speed index of 93. What this means is, that their dam, Watch Rebel Go, who has a Registration of Merit in racing, is a winner. Madam Betterfly with a speed index of 101 and Fauna Dargo who is a stakes winner with speed index of 93.

Stokes says that Rehab Colt has been nominated for the 1982 All American Futurity and the winner in that race will get $1 million. "Prior to the sale, I plan to also nominate him for the Kindergarten which will be run in Los Alamitos, California," he added.

I expected Stokes to give some of the earnings from the colt to Cattleman's Round-Up for Crippled Children, a division of WTRC. Thusly, I was overjoyed when he prepared a transfer certificate so that the funds from the sale of the horse will go to WTRC. And when he added: "I want that to go to the new building fund of Rehab-San Angelo to help the little crippled children," we were all beside ourselves.

This may seem like another tale of a proud horseman and his horses. Yet, it's a story told over and over again since the beginning of WTRC in 1953. Without the compassion of men and women across the Southwest the calibrator of Aubrey Stokes, there would not be a place of hope and beginning — again for 8,000 individuals every year.

Employers must provide each employee with a completed Wage and Tax Statement, Form W-2, for 1980 by February 2, 1981, the Internal Revenue Service says.

If the Wage and Tax Statements are not issued on time, employers may be penalizing employees who will have to wait until February or later to file their tax returns, possibly missing out on the faster refunds available to early filers.

For additional information on the proper distribution and handling of Wage and Tax Statements, employers may get a free copy of IRS Publication 15, "Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide," from the IRS.

spy mountains. This was a noted place for Indians to pass.

"In 1863 a company of Confederate soldiers were stationed at Colorado Post; this was the company to which I belonged, and when the Indians would slip down in the settlements and steal horses the people would send a runner to our camp and we would send a party out to those mountains to spy for them."

The men were stationed at a secreted place as near the mountain as possible, and a spy on top watched for the Indians. When he could see which side of the mountain they were headed for, he alerted the men and they knew just where to make the fight. The Indians hardly ever passed the Santa Anna mountain without losing all the stock they had stolen except the horses they were riding.

Mr. Cross said that the only reason he could give for their lucky escape was that they always rode the very best horses in the stolen herd and just outrode the white men.

"I remember one fight that Lt. Chandler, of Capt. J. Cullen's Company, had at Santa Anna Mountain," he recalled. "Chandler had about six men with him, he was just passing by and near the mountain ran right into a bunch of Comanches. Neither party had seen the other until they were right in gun sight. The Indians outnumbered the whites about two to one. This was one of the best fights our boys ever made. They recaptured all the stolen horses, about 30 head, and wounded several Indians, two were later found buried on the trail. The whites never got a man wounded, only two of their horses had arrows shot into them and they were not badly hurt."

From Mr. Havin's book we learn that "when new companies were organized at Camp Colorado on March 1, 1864, Frank M. Cross, 30 years of age, Comanche County farmer and inimitable storyteller, drew a second lieutenant's commission in Company B."

Not only were the men to be kept on emergency duty for the prevention of cattle theft, they had an equally important function covering the horse herds that served the men at the post. For several months in 1864, an organized band of white men had been stealing horses from both Camp McCord and Camp Colorado.

Lt. Cross with men from Companies A and B, Fossett's Battalion, were sent to Palo Pinto County in late August. The detachment spent three weeks along the Brazos, hoping to detect the thieves and to recover the horses. Cross and his men failed to recover any livestock, but their presence proved beneficial, no further inroads on post horse herds occurred on the Jim Ned.

During the disturbed months of 1865, when every private at Camp Colorado knew that the South had lost the war, the men continued the activities for which they had volunteered — scouting for Indians.

When word of Indians on foot in the vicinity of the upper Leon, in Eastland County, reached the Camp, Lt. Cross and 20 men of Company B left for the area the following morning with rations for 10 days. Cross and his men searched a wide area and exhausted their rations. Overtaking Indians on foot was never easy on account of their ability to hide in timber or rough terrain.

Comanche County citizens, who knew Cross, persuaded him to remain in the vicinity on promise of furnishing his detachment with fresh beef. The scouts remained the entire month of February without contact with the intruders.

When Lt. Col. J. B. Barry issued Special Order No. 39, as his last official act concerning Camp Colorado, it was only natural that the officers would be the last to leave. The closing of the post meant no hardship for Lt. Cross. He was a Comanche County citizen and could reach his home in one day of hard riding, or, if he desired to break the trip, he could spend a night at the home of Charles Mullins, a close friend, ten miles down the Jim Ned.

Camp Colorado left few physical traces. There is a memorial marker, put up by the State, and the Henry Sackett house in the background, built on the foundations of the commissary.

Camp Colorado Existed For One Reason — Control of Indian Raids

While reading a book by T. R. Havins on "Camp Colorado: A Decade of Frontier Defense", I found a number of references to Frank M. Cross who served as a second lieutenant at the camp and had a number of experiences while chasing Indians.

Perhaps readers will recall earlier stories about Mr. Cross, grandfather of Mrs. Thad Traylor, who worked as a youth at Fort Chadbourne. And after his marriage moved to Bell County where he made a crop of corn, and in the fall moved to Comanche County. He later became a Methodist preacher and traveled over many miles as a circuit rider.

One of the longest stretches of unprotected frontier was from Fort Mason (near the present town) to Fort Chadbourne. Here were 120 miles of exposure; the back door to the Colorado River and Pecan Bayou Valleys.

When Lt. Col. Robert E. Lee got back to Camp Cooper from a mid-summer scouting expedition through West Texas in July, 1856, he found two of his captains, Earl Van Dorn and Theodore O'Hara, had been detached to establish a camp on the Colorado crossing of the Fort Mason-Fort Belknap road — about half way across the Vulnerable Gap.

The camp was established in August of 1856, but the Colorado bottomlands proved a poor spot to light and the troops moved north nearly 22 miles to Mukewater Creek (now called Jim Ned) and established Camp Colorado — retaining the name despite the distance.

The post was located on a high bank of the Jim Ned out of reach of flood waters. The troops were tented in a straight line with the east bank of the creek. At first picket construction was used but gradually stone and adobe buildings were raised.

Camp Colorado was probably the base for more Indian drives than any post in the West Central Texas area. Groups of from 15 to 100 men were constantly pursuing the Comanches, often deep into Indian Territory.

In his book of Early Days in Central Texas, Mr. Cross tells of the Santa Anna mountains, a few miles south of old Camp Colorado, used by the soldiers for
