"REFLECTIONS," "REFLECTIONS," "REFLECTIONS,"

BY RICHARD C. THOMAS

The recent report of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the WISD board of trustees should serve a most useful purpose. Because of the unusual makeup of the overall committee, which covered a broad spectrum of the community, the school board should have no doubts of the combined desires of the patrons of the school and the taxpayers; and acting within the guidelines set forth in the final report, the board should have no doubts as to the support they will receive when approaching the problems and issues connected with the financing and operation of the school system. True, school board members are elected by the people of the district to direct the proper conduct of the system, to the best of their abilities and judgments, in the interest of providing the best educational opportunities for our children. The final decisions are, and must be, made by the board proper; that's the way our school district system works. However, reacting as one who has sat on that board, it never hurts to have input from outside the elective body, to understand the consensus of the public. To understand this and to act accordingly is not to abandon the board members' responsibility, but to strengthen it — within the framework of statutes and regulations. There is no question but that the present board has accepted this "assistance" — if you will — in that light, and our school system will be the better for it.

Because of the enormous amount of material before it, the committee, in the final report, of necessity dealt more in generalities than in specifics. To do otherwise would have caused a great amount of confusion and in some instances some overlapping. It was strongly recommended that teachers' pay receive a great amount of attention, and rightly so, for reasons that no one should be reminded of. In the "curriculum" phase of the report, the committee did recommend a stronger supervised physical education program, with trained personnel. The report touched briefly on some type of career or trade program for those students who elect to forego college study and immediately enter the trade or labor community following completion of high school. A building trades program was started for the 1980-81 school year, with some evident results; final degree of success will not be known for some time, however. An expansion of this type of program into other fields would seem to be desirable in the immediate future, given some initiative by the board and the cooperating community. This is a subject to be dealt with at a later date.

There is one specific area of study — training — which could receive some immediate attention, however, and obviously at little or no additional expense. I'm referring to TYPING courses in the high school. This has been of particular interest to me, among many others, for a good many years; as a board member several years ago, I was an advocate of taking a closer look at rescheduling this particular course — to no avail. I have never understood why this course could not begin with the first year in high school, instead of scheduling for the third year. Especially when other similar schools offer typing to 9th grade students — some even before that. If this course could be offered a couple of years earlier, students who chose to take advantage of it could be fairly skilled by the time they entered their junior year, and more so by the time they were seniors. So trained and skilled, they would have many more opportunities for part time work in the community in their last year or two in high school. This is a proven fact in other communities where schools offer the course earlier. There undoubtedly are many businesses which would welcome young people with typing skills for at least part time work. In particular, The Enterprise, during the past few years, would have welcomed with open arms young people who had acceptable typing skills and some knowledge of composition. It would have been advantageous to everyone concerned. But a young person with only a little knowledge and skill could not have made the grade. This is not an isolated case.

This has been a personal thing with me for a long time; I could never understand why one school could not offer this course at an earlier time, while others apparently saw no problems. The Winters system is not that unique.

Theft reported at dam site

Runnels County Sheriff's officers say that they are investigating the theft of over $400 worth of copper wire from the construction site of the new Winters lake sometime over the week end.

Deputy Johnny Wilson said the wire was taken from a 400 foot roll of the wire owned by the Coleman County Electric Co-op. The electric company is stringing new power lines in the area of the lake. Wilson said that the thieves apparently cut the No. 6 copper wire into about three foot lengths in order to haul the wire off.

The wire was on a truck in a secluded area of the construction site when it was taken. Investigators said that they are checking information given them by security guards at the construction site and other leads that have turned up. Deputy Wilson said that no arrests have been made so far.

Title I parents to meet May 26

A Title I Parent Advisory Committee meeting will be held Tuesday, May 26, at 3:00 p.m.

The meeting will be in the WISD administration office.

Grain harvest promising

At field test

Three farmers get a close look at wheat almost ready for the combine on test strips on the Gary Jacobs place three miles west of Winters, during a field test visit and small grain tour Monday.

City sale tax receipts up

The City of Winters has received $17,043.43 in sales tax rebates from the State Comptroller for the last reporting period, bringing 1981 totals to $51,141.74, up 50 percent over the same period last year. The city received $10,121.10 for the same period last year, and $33,910.07 to date in 1980.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said rebates of the one-percent city sales tax for the first five months this year are up more than 40 percent over the same period last year, statewide.

The city sales tax is collected along with the state sales tax by merchants and businesses and is rebated monthly by the Comptroller's office to cities where it is levied.

Receipts by comparable cities of the area for the period were:

Albany	$20,908
Anson	10,934
Ballinger	53,600
Coleman	33,883
Eastland	23,687
Hamlin	14,212
Ranger	21,521
Stamford	20,593
Winters	17,043

The grain harvest for Runnels county may well be one of the best ever, according to county agent Allen Turner who led a small grain tour of the county Monday.

Turner said that new varieties of wheat are resulting in better yields and he is expecting a county wide average of about 20-30 bushels per acre. Some crops are expected to produce a top of about 60-70 bushels but others may not make over 10-15 bushels.

The weather has been wet enough but there has been a need for a bit more sunshine in some areas. The wheat is almost ready to cut in most areas and some has already been combined, but the full scale harvest probably will not be underway for another two weeks.

A number of wheat producers on the Monday tour said that they either had bought drying equipment or were considering it. County Agent Turner said that a farmer's ability to store and dry his wheat on his own place would enhance the producers chances of selling at a better price. Turner said that the wheat producer who can dry and store his own crop will not be dependant on immediate transportation to the market and farmers could be looking at a tight situation in getting the grain moved, however Preston Barker at Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain

Homecoming at Shep scheduled for June 14

The homecoming for residents and former residents of the Shep Community has been planned for the weekend of June 13-14.

Camping space will be available for those who need it on the school ground. Water will be available.

A social gathering is planned for Saturday night, with a memorial service scheduled for 11 a. m. Sunday. The main picnic lunch will be served on Sunday. Paper plates, cups, tea and coffee will be provided.

Sponsors of the event are inviting all former residents of the community to return for this reunion, especially former school teachers. They ask that those who have school pictures bring them. Plans are to make this an annual affair.

Co. said that railroad officials had assured him of a plentiful supply of cars to haul the anticipated large harvest. Barker said the cars will be the jumbo hopper cars that will carry 3200 bushels each.

Not only is the yield expected to be the biggest in many years, but the number of acres planted to wheat totals about 120 per cent of the wheat acres last year. This has involved a slight reduction of milo but the cotton crop acres should be about the same.

The county agent said that many trends being initiated by the farmers in the mid-west are being adapted to this area such as on farm drying and storage. This gives the farmer the flexibility of being able to cut some grain while portions of the field may not yet be ready to cut. The grain can be dried and stored and the entire crop sold at the same time.

Pricewise, to the farmer, wheat is selling at $3.75 per bushel this week with only samples of the harvest being brought in. The main thrust of the wheat harvest is expected about the first of June.

City to hire new patrolman

The Winters Police department has employed a second new patrolman to fill vacancies created by the resignations of two officers. The latest officer to be added to the force is 33 year old Edward Enoksen, a former police officer in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area.

Police chief L. C. Foster said that Enoksen holds the advanced law enforcement certificate and is highly experienced in criminal investigation. Prior to joining the Winters Police department, Enoksen was an employee of Haliburton.

Enoksen will assume his duties with the police department on May 29 and will fill the position vacated by officer Mike Bowers who resigned to accept a position with the Coleman County Sheriff's Department effective May 29.

Police Chief Foster said that the addition of Enoksen to the department will expand and improve the department in the area of criminal investigation while maintaining full strength.

Scott Perry on All-State golf team

Scott Perry was named to the All-State golf team at the Class AA State Golf Tournament in Austin. He placed fifth in class competition, with a score of 161. The state tournament was played at Lions Municipal Golf Course in Austin.

Perry won district medalist honors with a score of 75 at Abilene, and then was regional medalist with 146 at Odessa, advancing him to state competition.

Bishop Boys to have cattle sale June 6

Bishop Boys Limousin will hold a "complete dispersal sale of percentage cattle," Saturday, June 6, at the Bishop Boys Farm southwest of Wingate. Sale will begin at 12 noon.

Bishop will be offering 300 head of French bulls, Brahmousin, Limousin cows with Brahmousin calves, and Brangus-Limousin cross commercial cows.

Sale headquarters will be at the Holiday Inn in Abilene.

Charles Rollins is sale consultant, and C. K. "Sonny" Booth, auctioneer.

Nearing harvest time

There is promise of a bountiful harvest in this area, as the golden, ripening wheat and oats near the reaping stage. This has been one of the best small grain years in many, according to farmers and grain men in the area. Some test cutting already has been done, but expectations are that combining will begin in earnest within a few days.

Dallas firm makes survey of county

The Dallas firm of Geodata International Inc. has been making an aerial of portions of Runnels county the past several days. The aircraft, a shiny silver DC-3, has been flying a grid pattern from east to west over the county using computers and sensors to measure natural radiation from the earth and the earth's magnetic fields. Geodata's Ben Humphrey said the survey in this area is to locate potential oil, gas, and mineral deposits. According to Humphrey, the aircraft flies back and forth at an altitude of about 500 feet over a specific area using sensors aboard the aircraft and attached to a cable behind the plane to feed information into computers also on the plane. The information in the computer is then matched with the course flown by the aircraft to determine just where there may be deposits of gas, oil, or minerals.

Geodata also is contracted by the Department of Energy to make the airborne surveys to attempt to locate deposits of uranium and other energy sources. The Geodata spokesman said the surveys like the one being conducted in Runnels county are very common. The survey company is the only one in the Dallas area and the Southwest equipped to conduct these surveys.

City Council annexes property, discusses Old Winters Lake

The Winters City Council took final action Monday evening annexing the Haliburton property on Highway 53 southwest of the city. The oil well cementing company had requested the annexation of the site where a new office and yard space is planned. The council also accepted a request from Bobby Airhart to annex his home to the City of Winters, that property is located on Floyd Street. The council set the next regular meeting date of June 1 as the date for a public hearing on the annexation proposal.

Members to the Board of Equalization were named by the council to serve for the next year. Named to that board were Lanny Bahlman, Mary Margaret Leathers, and Randall Boles. Named as alternate to the board was Fred Young. The council discussed and took no action on a request for the purchase of raw water from the old city lake north of the city. A representative of W. W. West had asked alderman E. J. Bishop to look into the possibility of the city selling the water for use in irrigating a pecan farm near the rodeo grounds about a mile east of the old lake. Bishop told the council that West had indicated that a four or six inch pipeline might be used to transport the water to the pecan farm. The council also noted that several oil well drillers had indicated an interest in the water.

The city administration told the members of the council that the city had no permit from the state to sell water from the lake, that it was designated for fishing and recreational uses. City officials said that the lake is very shallow and that only a small amount of water remains in the lake. The council felt that the use of a four to six inch pipe line to draw water from the lake for the irrigation purposes would soon empty the lake, but the oil field use would not require as much water. In taking action on the request, the council instructed the city administration to inform persons wishing to buy water from the lake that the city had no permit to sell the water and they could not sell water from that lake.

Cut grain losses up to 65 percent with John Deere's lineup of Titans

Threshing and separating areas in our grain combines have been increased. For instance, the 7720 offers 549 square inches more grate area and 1098 square inches more walker area than the 7700.

These areas of change provide more and better separation, so you put more of the grain in the tank and leave less of it in the field. In fact, the increase in grate and walker area on the Titans can reduce grain losses by as much as 65 percent over previous models.

But grain savings is only one of the production-boosting features of our combines. Come on in and we can give you all the details on the Titans.

Those who understand young people say that a good way to teach them responsibility is not merely telling them they should be more responsible, or even assigning them chores, but by getting them interested in a responsible project, on their school vacations, such as recycling aluminum.

GTE testing in the Winters community

As part of a program to provide better telephone service, General Telephone is testing aerial and underground telephone cables in Winters, according to Melvin Jennings, the company's San Angelo division manager.

Jennings said the Winters project is a portion of a division-wide program encompassing 22 cities that upon completion will have involved more than 17,000 employee hours or 10 full-time employees. About 3,000 miles of cables will have been tested, he said.

"The company tests and retests the pressurized cables that transmit telephone calls for Winters," Jennings explained. "Each of the cables is filled with either dry air or nitrogen. When a sharp increase or decrease in pressure appears, this indicates that a cable has a leak which could cause calling transmission problems." "By continually monitoring the cables we can identify potential service problems and correct them before trouble occurs," he concluded.

General Telephone operates about 2,300 phones in Winters.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISCHARGE PERMIT AMENDMENT

City of Winters, 310 South Main, Winters, Texas 79567 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for an amendment to Permit No. 10320 to install a new oxidation pond treatment facility with effluent quality parameters of 30 mg/l for Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD) and 90 mg/l for Total Suspended Solids (TSS) as allowed in the Texas Water Department Board Rule No. 156.18.05.003(d). The proposed amendment would also delete the chlorination requirements. The permit authorizes a discharge of 320,000 gallons per day. The facility will consist of a facultative lagoon followed by two stabilization ponds in series.

The plant will be located southeast of Winters, Texas, approximately 5,600 feet east and 2,900 feet south of the intersection of FM Road 53 and U.S. Highway 83 in Rannels County, Texas. The effluent is discharged to Bluff Creek; thence to Elm Creek; thence to the Colorado River.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and Chapter 25 of the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address, and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the waste discharge permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 45 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to Larry R. Soward, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P. O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-1311.

Issued this 11th day of May, 1981.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

As I write this column, an electrical storm hangs over San Angelo and the rain is pouring down. It is quite a sight from my office window on the fourth floor of the Continental Building, in the downtown sector of this growing city on the three Concho Rivers.

At a glimpse from my desk, I spot a long bolt of lightning over O. C. Fisher Lake and back to the north, another over the coliseum, and in the east there is a dark cloud over Producers Auction. Down below, before the rain started, a squirrel seemed lost on the sidewalk on old Chadbourne Street. He quickly disappeared in a liveoak tree.

It is a real satisfaction to a country boy at heart to see the rain now and to witness all the good it has done for the past three months across Southwest Texas. Not only are the ranges in topnotch shape but the farms as well.

Joe Pat Jones of Eden predicts a good wheat crop in Concho Country with about 20 bushels to the acre. "That's pretty good for a dryland farm in these parts," he smiled.

In Menard the other day, I took time to made the feed rounds with publisher - rancher Dan Feather. There was a Spanish goat and some club lambs to feed and changing the water for the pet rabbit.

Rain in that area has ranchmen mowing the grass and weeds in their pens around the house so they can work stock. It is somewhat of a contrast from working sheep in the dusty environment of several springs ago.

In Fort Stockton recently, I had a nice visit with high school classmate Bobby Neal, now district manager for USDA Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service. Bobby travels in Trans - Pecos to Marfa and El Paso and reports good vegetation. "It's most unusual to receive moisture this early in the year," he adds.

Frank Baker, Pioneer publisher, commented on the good grass cover while we drank coffee.

I also talked to some Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children chairmen when on the trip to Stockton and around by Sterling City. I don't know if it's the unstable market situation or the fattening of steers and heifers on wholesome country grass, but I am already receiving some donations of livestock for the annual drive. And we won't officially kick it off until August.

At breakfast the other morning Louis Fohn told me the Uvalde area was making a slow comeback from extensive hail damage. Not only did a recent storm claim just about every window in downtown Uvalde, but did considerable agricultural damage.

All peach lovers are praying for a hail-proof shield to hang over Gillespie County for the next six weeks during this normal storm season. And if it holds, this will be a bumper crop year. Duery Menzies of Fredericksburg says early harvest is running high and predicts the best production many years right on into summer for the juicy fruit.

It looks pretty rosy as one observes the countryside. If we could just get the high interest rates down, the inflation down and the sheep and cattle prices up ... well, it would indeed be rosy!

Twirlers, Flag Corps members were chosen

High school and junior high twirlers for the 1981-82 school year were chosen in tryouts held Saturday, along with candidates for the high school Flag Corps, and the drum majorettes.

Drum majorettes chosen for next year were DeOnn Deaton and Yolanda Luzano.

feature twirler; Francine Miller, Beverly Hamilton, Eliose Zuniga, and J'Lynn Russell.

Junior high twirlers will be Leslie Pruser and Jill Connor.

Flag Corps members for the next year will be Betty Graham, Susie Vera, Rosalinda Vera, Sherie Gerhart, Tammy Jackson, Rose Marie Faubion, Tawnya Murray and Kathy Grenwelle.

Band Spirit award: Rhonda Webb.

Martha Davis Memorial award: Suzy Vinson.

Naomi Circle met Tuesday

The Naomi Circle of the United Methodist Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. W. F. Lange, circle chairman, with Mrs. Melvin Mapes presiding.

Doll show held at Hale Museum on Sunday

Three outstanding exhibits of more than 100 dolls were displayed during the special doll show at the Z. I. Hale Museum Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Briley contributed a collection of life size dolls in evening gowns, wedding dress, and many other types of smaller dolls. She showed antique dolls from England and others in various dress styles from many countries, including a Winston Churchill doll and an Elvis Presley doll, which was also a radio.

Mrs. Joe Irvin exhibited an impressive display of antique dolls dressed in pioneer costume, including a "grandma" and "grandpa" from Arkansas sitting in rockers. Some of her unusual dolls had been rescued from an old building in 1927 and restored. Her latest antique doll was a black baby doll more than 50 years old, a gift from her son.

Another beautiful array of dolls was presented by Christi Cate, an 11-year old girl. She exhibited a W. C. Fields doll and one large doll which had a music box in the base. A number of dolls had beautiful clothing designed and made by Mrs. Cate.

The Winters Young Homemakers assisted museum members in hosting the show. Eighty-seven registered for the doll exhibit.

Better Roots Are Vital To Higher Yields

Bronco Seed Company's custom conditioning plant assures wheat growers of pure quality seed. And, since quality seed must be combined with a quality seed treatment, we are now offering Vitavax®-200, the leading seed treatment in the United States today.

When your wheat seed and seedlings encounter hot, dry stress conditions, a loss in stand and yield often occurs. Vitavax-200 treated plants normally emerge faster, and the wheat usually develops more extensive root systems and larger crowns. This allows the plant to take up more nutrients and moisture, usually resulting in higher yields.

You will be able to graze your cattle earlier* since Vitavax-200 treated wheat normally emerges faster and shows more vigorous growth. In various tests, Vitavax-200 has resulted in additional foliage "top growth" when compared to another seed treatment, sometimes as much as a 180% increase. And, since Vitavax-200 treated plants have exhibited a superior root development over untreated wheat, the grazing cattle are less likely to pull the entire plant out of the ground.

Vitavax-200 is a true systemic fungicide. This means that during swelling and germination, Vitavax penetrates the seed coat and translocates into the roots and plant to give you long lasting disease protection. Vitavax-200 protects your yields against losses from true loose smut, plus common bunt, flug smut, seed rots and seedling diseases.

Tests conducted in several major grain growing states indicated that Vitavax-200 treated seed outyielded seed treated with another seed treatment by a big 4.2 bushels per acre. If wheat is selling for $4.00 per bushel, this 4.2 bushel per acre increase with Vitavax-200 represents a theoretical return-on-investment of $16.80 an acre.

This year, have Bronco Seed Company treat all your wheat with Vitavax-200 for better yields and higher profits.

Death Lurks on Superstition Mountains

Apache Junction at the foot of the legendary Superstition Mountains in Arizona has taken advantage of the mine mystery tempting men to search for gold that stems from the stories concerning the "Lost Dutchman Mine."

When I first visited Apache Junction in 1959 it was only a service station and a few shops. Today, it is a thriving city and has capitalized on the legend by having "Lost Dutchman Days." This year, their 17th annual celebration was on Jan 23-25. The event has brought in 10,000 people for the parade and varied activities. There are also guided tours of the mountain.

A special edition of the Apache Sentinel carried many stories about the mysterious Superstition Mountains and people who met their death there.

By 1959, when I wrote my first story, there were 44 recorded deaths and many other people were never heard from again in the rugged mountains on the Apache Trail. Violence erupted and three people died from gunshot wounds from April to December. By 1964, the death toll was estimated at between 50 and 60. A routine question in the sheriff's office at Florence during those days was "Who's been killed on Superstition today?"

There is an old story that gold in the Superstitions was first discovered by a Mexican lover fleeing from his sweetheart's father. It is a matter of record in church and state that Miguel Peraeta sent pack trains of gold ore home to Mexico from a rich lode in the vicinity of Weaver's Needle until his men were attached from all sides by a band of Apaches and massacred.

It was not until more than 30 years later that the first white man credited with removing gold from the area came upon the scene. He was Jacob Walzer, a native of Germany. No one knows how much gold he took, but his burro load hauls continued for nearly 10 years. On returning he told of concealing his mine with native rocks and logs. To close friends he boasted, "I've hidden it so well that no miner will ever find it."

The Dutchman died in 1891 after contracting pneumonia while rescuing hogs from the flooded Salt River near his home in Southeast Phoenix. After his death, the story of the "Lost Dutchman Mine" started to grow.

For a number of years two rival camps were maintained on the mountain. One belonged to Ed Piper, a thin grizzled prospector, and the other to Celeste Marie Jones, a rotund Negro opera singer from Los Angeles. Both camps were heavily guarded, for the two had been feuding over gold mining claims near Weaver's Needle, a pinnacle in the center of the mountains and supposed guidepost to the Lost Dutchman Mine.

In November of 1959 three events happened. Piper killed a guard for Miss Jones, but it was ruled that he shot in self-defense. A Honolulu man started a prison term for the fatal shooting of another man, also of Honolulu. Together they had sought the Lost Dutchman Mine, but one walked out alone after a quarrel. An employee of Ed Piper was shot by a young couple when he began acting peculiarly and jumped toward them. They had been on a weekend outing and had visited Piper, an old acquaintance.

Ed Piper died in 1962, but not in his mountain camp. He was stumbled on by rockhounds and flown to the Florence hospital in a U. S. Army helicopter where his ailment was diagnosed as cancer and he died in August.

After Piper's death, Miss Jones moved to Phoenix, but members of her crew worked at the Needle unmoles. In 1963, a 30-year-old Phoenix engineer tumbled to his death from Weaver's Needle. His partner was rescued the next morning. They had been hired by Miss Jones to scour a volcanic plug near the top of the Needle.

Some others who dared to tread the wilderness area, either in search of gold or big game, have fallen from cliffs. Some have died of thirst or heat in the summer or as a result of freezing during winter storms. The fact remains — death lurks on Superstition!
