Local charged in felony assault

Charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer were formally filed against a Winters man Monday as the result of an attack on Assistant Police Chief Winfred Reel.

According to Winters Police Chief L.C. Foster, 41-year-old Alphonso Campos was arrested by Winters' police Saturday night on a charge of public intoxication and was being transported to the Runnels County Jail when the assault occurred.

Chief Foster said that Campos and another prisoner were in the back seat of the patrol car and that about a mile out of Winters toward Ballinger reportedly produced a weapon and demanded that Reel stop the patrol car and get out.

The police chief said that Reel stopped the car, jumped out the door, and took cover in front of the car after seeing that Campos had what appeared to be a handgun. Foster said that the right rear-door window of the patrol car was knocked out and that the man did get out of the patrol car which is equipped with a cage in the back seat.

The police spokesman said that Campos allegedly threatened the assistant chief with the weapon and that a scuffle followed during which Reel disarmed the man and took him back into custody.

Police said that a .357 magnum revolver was taken from the man during the scuffle. Reel said that apparently the weapon was hidden in the waistband of the subject's pants under a coat he was wearing. Reel said that when he frisked the man at the time of the arrest he took a knife from the man's pants pocket but failed to find the weapon.

Police Chief Foster said that Reel was not injured in the assault, but that Campos apparently suffered cuts on his hand when the window was broken out and several bruises when he was subdued after the assault.

Formal charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer, a felony, were filed against Campos Monday and bond for Campos was set at $10,000 by Justice of the Peace Wilburn Davis in Ballinger.

District Attorney Royal Hart said Monday that the case against Alphonso Campos would be presented to the next session of the Runnels County Grand Jury.

Nabers will not seek house seat

State Representative Lynn Nabers of Brownwood has announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the Texas Legislature in 1982.

In announcing that he would not seek re-election, Representative Nabers stated that the determining factor in his decision to withdraw was the fact that his legislative district is being revised and Nabers said he simply did not have the time available to begin campaigning in a new legislative district. Nabers explained, "My law practice and my present legislative responsibilities leaves me very free time to get out and do the campaigning that would be necessary."

Nabers had earlier filed for the position and has now explained that he and his family have spent many hours in arriving at the decision not to run. "The Legislature has been a part of our lives for so many years that it is most difficult to make the break," Nabers commented. "However," he explained, "I feel that I simply will not have the time to give that I believe necessary. Because of my seniority and experience, I felt that I could best represent the interests of this district," Nabers said, "but it now has become impossible for me to devote the time to the office. It is with sincere regret that I withdraw my hat from the ring. I encourage every man or woman in the area who have expressed an interest in running for this position upon my retirement, to file for the office. The district deserves to have a number of candidates to choose from and the position is challenging enough to merit numerous candidates."

Nabers, Chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, stated, "I would like to thank the people of the 55th Legislative District for the opportunity to serve this area for the past fourteen years. I feel that the opportunity to represent this district in the Texas Legislature has been one of the greatest privileges of my life."

Nabers will be ending fourteen years of service as State Representative, having run for the position immediately upon graduation from Baylor Law School. He has served as Chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, Chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee, Vice Chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, and currently on the Financial Institutions Committee and the Calendars Committee during his lawmaking career. He has served the area longer consecutively than any other lawmaker since 1876. Nabers received many honors during his seven terms as State Representative:

Named to the House Select Committee on Impeachment in 1975;

Named to the National Conference of State Legislators (serves on the Judiciary Committee);

Named Prosecuting Attorney for Removal of Supreme Court Judge Don Yarbrough in 1977;

Named to Texas Coordinating Commission on State Health & Welfare Services;

Selected to the Southern Conference on State Legislatures;

Selected to attend the State Department's Foreign Policy Briefing, 1975 and 1977;

Honored by the Texas Bar Association for outstanding service, 1973 and 1975;

Awarded a commendation by the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association, 1975;

Received a Citation of Award by the Texas Army National Guard, 1975;

Named to Who's Who in Texas, 1975

Listed in Who's Who in American Politics;

Named to Who's Who in the Southwest;

Named to Who's Who in Govern- ment section of Who's Who in America;

Honored by the Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas;

Named to the Honorable Mention List of the Top Ten Legislators by Texas Monthly magazine in 1977;

Founders of Texas

The Texas Heroes exhibit for the first one hundred years that was on display all last week at the Winters State Bank covers several different periods of Texas history: Founders of Texas, Battle for Independence, The Republic, Historic Accomplishment, and Military Heroes.

Texans whose names live on and whose memory is respected for extraordinary feats of valor, deeds, public service and whose achievements, courage or talents have become part of Texas legend and folklore are pictured by Texas artists.

Two names stand out during the founding of Texas. Stephen F. Austin shares honors with Jane Long who was named "The Mother of Texas" just as Austin undoubtedly earned the right to be called "The Father of Texas."

December, 1820, marks the beginning of modern Texas, for in that month Moses Austin, a Missouri lead miner, arrived in San Antonio to obtain official sanction for his projected Anglo-Texan colonies. After many delays, Austin secured the necessary grants, but he did not live to carry them out. To his son, Stephen, fell the task of fulfilling the contracts.

Young Austin was fully as capable as his father. Leaving New Orleans in November, 1821, Austin established the first colony in the same year at San Felipe de Austin on the Brazos River. Changes in the government made it necessary that Austin should go to Mexico City and secure new authorization. On returning, he started on a program of development.

Responsible for bringing 5,000 settlers to Texas, Austin was chairman of an 1830 convention asking for repeal of Mexican law restricting American settlement in Texas and levying import duties on Texans. He was arrested and imprisoned in Mexico City while Head of Commission asking for approval of a Texas Republic Constitution.

Austin was elected Commander-in-Chief of the Texas forces and sent to Washington to ask United States' aid for Texas. He was named Texas Secretary of State in 1836. His sudden death on December 27, 1836, was a severe blow to the Republic. The state capital takes its name from the Austins, in small tribute to their great services to the state.

At General Telephone, better service isn't just a goal, it's a solid commitment. General Telephone spent over 354 million dollars in 1981 on capital expenditure projects (i.e. new electronic switches, expanded cable projects, modernization) and GTE will spend over 410 million dollars in 1982 to provide you the best telecommunications available.

For Winters this investment in service improvement is working as shown below. General Telephone is working hard to continually provide you with the best of service.

The Texas Public Utilities Commission (PUC) has established certain standards in public hearings, and our service results are listed against those standards.

Jane Long

Years before most of the Texas colonists began arriving in the new pioneer territory, there came to Texas a Mississippi physician, Dr. James Long, who became one of the earliest Texas patriots and leaders. Soon his wife joined him.

Jane Wilkinson Long came to Texas as a young mother herself, joining her husband soon after the birth of her second child. She was accustomed to the social life of Natchez, Mississippi, where her own parents had moved not long after her birth in Maryland in 1789.

But she came from a family who had known revolution: her ancestors had been famous in the American Revolutionary days. And Jane Long proved that she could stand hardship and the biggest trials of pioneer life.

After a short stay in Nacagdoches, General Long took his wife to the newly established fort at Point Bolivar, to await his return from Goliad, where he was to make a treaty with Mexican rebels. He was named provisional governor of Texas, was later arrested and at last to meet his death at the hands of a civilian in Mexico City.

After several months, provisions became low at Fort Bolivar. The escort of twenty-five men began to get restless, and to leave.

Jane Long was the heroine of Bolivar Point. Alone except for her 6-year-old daughter, a 12-year-old Negro girl named Kian, and a mongrel dog named "Galveston", Jane spent four months at the fort awaiting her husband's return from a trip. Eating birds she shot and fish she caught, they sheltered in an improvised tent where Jane bore a baby girl while nursing Kian who was delirious with fever.

So it was on December 21, 1821, that the first white child to be born of American parentage in Texas was born to Mrs. Long. Shortly before this she had learned of the death of her husband.

Later, Jane and Kian drove away a boatload of fierce Karankawa Indians by hoisting a red flannel petticoat as a flag, wearing a soldier's uniform while scouting on the beach, and firing a cannon left behind by the former garrison.

When Jane supported herself after her husband's death by maintaining inns at Brazoria and Richmond, she aided Texas freedom in contracts made with the leading men of the day, stocked the first powder for the revolution at her inn, and was loyal to Texas through three wars and numerous expeditions.

Jane Long lived sixty years after her husband's death, to witness the series of events that Texas went through as Republic and as state. She was a settler in Austin's colony and a plantation owner at Richmond, this "First Lady of Texas".

Texas cotton farmers likely to reduce crop

Most Texas cotton farmers will likely participate in the 15 percent reduction program recently announced by the Secretary of Agriculture.

While participation is voluntary, farmers must comply if they wish to be eligible for target price protection and Commodity Credit Corporation loans on their 1982 cotton crop. And that's incentive enough.

"Cotton farmers in Texas as well as in other states really have little choice but to participate in the program," believes Dr. Carl Anderson, cotton marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Farmers are faced with a poor price outlook for this year's crop due to surplus cotton supplies," he says. "So they really need the price protection offered by the program, especially with current prices hovering near the loan rate."

Cotton farmers are getting their first deficiency payments in history on their 1981 crop because the average market price fell below the target price of 70.87 cents a pound. The target price for the '82 crop will be 71 cents a pound, and farmers will likely get another deficiency payment unless something happens to strengthen the market, notes the economist. The '82 loan rate will be 57.08 cents for Base Grade 41-Staple 34, Mike 35-49 Upland cotton.

To illustrate the bleak price situation that cotton farmers face, Anderson points out that the price of Upland cotton averaged 50 cents a pound in mid-January compared to 76.60 cents in January of 1981. "This was brought on mainly by a bumper U.S. crop last year that was the largest since 1953," he says. "At the same time, domestic use of cotton has slackened so that carryover on August 1 is expected to be around six million bales — more than double last year's level."

As far as the acreage reduction program is concerned, Anderson says that farmers must reduce their plantings by at least 15 percent of their established cotton acreage base — the higher of their '81 acreage or the average of the '80-'81 the base will reflect such rotations.

Land taken out of production must be eligible cropland and must be devoted to conservation uses. It may be grazed except during the six principal growing months.

"Neither off-setting compliance or cross-compliance is a requirement in the program," adds the economist. "This means that farmers owning or operating more than one farm will not be required to participate on all farms to obtain program benefits on participating farms. Also, farmers need not participate in the Upland cotton program to qualify for program benefits on other crops. Of course, the $50,000 limitation on program benefits remains in effect."

Cotton farmers can obtain information about specific provisions of the acreage reduction program from their local ASCS offices, says Anderson.

The Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has announced the appointment of Randy M. Springer as Chairman of its 1982 campaign in Winters.

The campaign will be held to provide the community with information about Cystic Fibrosis and to raise funds to support research, education and care programs for CF patients.

The number one genetic killer of children, Cystic Fibrosis is inherited and incurable — claiming three lives each day. An estimated one in 20 Americans is a symptomless carrier of the recessive CF genes. Currently, half of all children born with CF will die before reaching their 20th birthday.

Grapefruit exports increase

A 30-day Florida embargo on overseas citrus shipments has boosted Texas grapefruit export to Japan nearly 170,000 cartons, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

"The freeze that struck Florida in mid-January has had a beneficial effect on Texas grapefruit exports. Some 330,000 cartons were shipped out in the two week period ending Feb. 4," Brown said. Brown added that figures released from the Texas Valley Citrus Committee showed that 185,511 cartons had been shipped to Japan this season through Feb. 4 and fewer than 16,500 had been exported prior to this time.

Season total for grapefruit export during 1981 were 101,890.

The first use of the term "Old Glory" to designate the US flag was made by a New England seaman, William Driver. Before setting sail for the Orient in 1831, he had the flag unfurled and said, "I name thee Old Glory!" The term caught on during the Civil War.

Reports from Washington

The Caribbean Basin Development Plan

For more than 400 years the people of the Western Hemisphere have shared the dreams and anxieties of building a new world. Since the time of Christopher Columbus, most of our forebears have come to this part of the world in search of a better life for themselves. Virtually all — descendants of the land and immigrants alike — have had to fight for independence and strive to retain it.

Our own history demonstrates that man's unsatisfied aspiration for economic progress and social justice can best be achieved by free men working within a framework of democratic institutions.

It is in this spirit that the President recently outlined his Caribbean Basin Development Plan. Briefly stated, the plan is aimed at combating Communist influence in Central America and the Caribbean through increased assistance, trade preference, and investment incentives. The emphasis is on what we can do to improve economic conditions in that area.

Some have hailed the proposal as being as important as the Marshall Plan was in rebuilding Europe following World War II. The broad outlines of the plan — under preparation since last spring — call for an immediate increase of $350 million in financial assistance to the region, preferential tariff arrangements for its products such as sugar and rum, and incentives for U.S. firms to make job-creating investments in the area. The centerpiece of the program is free trade for Caribbean Basin products exported to the United States for a period of 12 years. Much of the proposed program requires congressional approval.

Those of us who are faced with making decisions affecting our future must consider the program with an eye toward what could happen on our southern flank. The foes of freedom fear peaceful attempts to develop because it makes the message of the radical ring hollow. Cuba and its Soviet backers know this, as well as others who participate in the export of revolution and the import of repression. The record speaks for itself. Nowhere in its history have the promises of Communism been redeemed. Rather, the movement has a legacy of exploitation and aggravation.

To underscore what the President said in his recent message to the Organization of American States, I believe free and peaceful development of the Western Hemisphere requires us to assist governments confronted with aggression from outside their borders. We must do whatever is prudent and necessary to ensure the peace and security of the Caribbean area. The thrust of the proposed assistance is to help our neighbors to realize freedom, justice and economic progress.

Out of our common past, the Americas have emerged as more equal and more understanding partners. The Western Hemisphere has an unlimited potential for economic development and human fulfillment. We have a combined population of more than 600 million people. Our continents and our islands boast vast reservoirs of food and raw materials. We cannot, however, ignore the events unfolding in the Caribbean Basin and in Central America because the people of this hemisphere are in a fundamental sense fellow Americans. Freedom is our common destiny. A neighbor's call for help is addressed to all of us. It is, in fact, fundamental to our own security.

Rabies cases in Texas on downward trend now

Texas has 698 confirmed cases of animal rabies last year and hopefully is nearing the end of a four-year rabies upswing which started with 556 cases in 1978.

Dr. William R. Bilderback, Director of the Zoonosis Control Division in the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, said the trend has been downward since the occurrence of 1,198 cases in 1979 and 945 cases in 1980.

The cases last year resulted in at least 824 exposed persons, who were brought to successful treatment with rabies vaccine because of the efforts of veterinarians as well as public and private physicians. Although not charged as a Texas case, a presumptive case of rabies led to the death of a 27-year-old man in Oklahoma. He was thought to have been bitten by a rabid animal while camped out near Corsicana.

Cats were the source of many human exposures last year. In rural areas, many cats are allowed to live in barns, under sheds and houses where they come into direct contact with skunks, the number one source of rabies in Texas. Because of the playful nature of cats, which includes biting and scratching, exposure often occurs before rabies is evident in the animal, Dr. Bilderback said.

Skunks also are the primary contributors to rabies in dogs, horses and cattle. In fact, last year skunks accounted for 515 cases, or almost three-fourths of the total number of confirmed cases, which were spread over 147 of the 268 counties. Other mammals found to be infected included 79 bats, 27 cattle, 25 foxes, 22 cats, 12 dogs, 8 horses, 7 raccoons, and 5 others, including a badger, ringtail, goat, lamb and bobcat.

Dr. Bilderback reminds us that the key to lowering the number of human contacts with rabies is the vaccination of all pets, especially cats and dogs, and the removal of stray and sick animals. Many communities are enacting leash laws to help eliminate strays. The new state rabies law requires a 10-day mandatory quarantine of all biting animals.

Compared to only 22 percent of the work force as a whole, 26 percent of women working for newspapers are in managerial or professional positions.

Sleep disorder causes loss of sleep to victim

It's like a recurring bad dream — only much worse.

Numerous times, night after night, the victim awakens when he stops breathing temporarily and then struggles for air. Breathing resumes, but his rest has been disturbed once again by sleep apnea, a repeated closure of the throat.

Its victims are usually overweight, middle-aged men, says the Texas Medical Association. In some cases, folds of fat around the neck compress the windpipe when the chin drops in sleep.

A severe case of sleep apnea can stop a victim's breathing between 300 and 500 times a night. This decreases the amount of oxygen in the blood, which can lead to pulmonary hypertension, heart failure, cardiac irregularities and death.

To correct extreme cases, the physician sometimes must perform a tracheostomy — inserting a tube into the throat — to get air to the lungs. Only when the tube is in place is sleeping possible.

In precise terms, a person has sleep apnea if breathing stops for 10 seconds or longer and more than five times an hour over a seven-hour sleep period. In short, the victim can forget about a "good night's sleep." Constant drowsiness can become a way of life.

Complicating the matter, the victim is unaware of the respiratory problem while asleep and breathes normally while awake. For this reason, sleep apnea can remain undetected in some cases until it's too late.

A characteristic of a person with sleep apnea is loud, intermittent snoring. Because he is usually overweight, the victim has excess fatty tissue at the base of his tongue. The extra fat makes the size of the larynx (throat) smaller and the opening easier to close.

As a result, the muscles in the back of the throat tend to close during sleep. When they do, the victim struggles for air for a few seconds, takes a deep breath, and resumes breathing and sleep — until the next blockage.

Once diagnosed, sleep apnea can be treated by weight loss, medication or by surgery to enlarge the pharynx of people born with anatomical problems.

"Love & Age is Timeless" was the theme of the program brought by Madolyn McKenney and Liz Castleman last Thursday afternoon. Helen Howard Smith brought these talented ladies to us from Abilene. They played the piano, sang the songs we love most, and did several magic tricks. We are still trying to figure out how cake batter can instantly turn into a white rabbit.

The G.A. girls from the First Baptist Church, with their sponsor, Mrs. Webb, came to our home on Monday, and brought a program and cookies and punch were served. Our newest residents are Wilma McBeth and Hermine Hasse. We hope their stay with us can be a pleasant one.

We are looking forward to the Winters String Band this Friday evening at 6:30, and also to the St. Patrick's Party on Tuesday, March 16 at 3 o'clock. Members of the First Methodist Church will have charge of this party. The public is invited to attend both these hours of relaxation and pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of Big Springs came by a while and visited Mrs. Effie Dietz. Also they visited with Mrs. Ella Phipps of Winters.

Keith Kraatz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kraatz returned home after surgery last week in a Dallas hospital. Keith is doing just fine. Mrs. Kraatz stayed in the home of Helen Sexton and the Bill Thomasons while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Bryan had dinner Sunday in the home of the Glen Bryans.

Millions spent on Texas litter along highways

A total of $13 million, almost a dollar per Texan — man, woman and child — was spent just to pick up trash along the State's highways during the fiscal year that ended August 31, 1981.

The figures, released recently by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, show an increase of 26 percent over the 1980 litter pickup price tag of $10.3 million which was an all-time high.

"The litter problem, particularly in heavily populated areas, is growing to gargantuan proportions," said DHT Engineer-Director Mark Goode. "If motorists would dispose of their trash properly it would save Texas taxpayers millions of dollars and would save DHT thousands of man-hours," Goode said. "That's time and money that could be spent better on keeping our aging highways in better repair."

Included in the litter pickup costs were:

- Abilene & surrounding 13 counties . . . $347,000;
- Austin & surrounding 11 counties . . . $369,000;
- Brownwood & surrounding 9 counties . . . $189,000;
- Dallas & surrounding 7 counties . . . $2,016,000;
- Fort Worth & surrounding 9 counties $1,187,000;
- Houston & surrounding 8 counties . . . $3,297,000;
- San Angelo & surrounding 13 counties $172,000.

New bingo laws to be enforced

State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week said that Texas' new Bingo Enabling Act will be enforced to the letter by the Comptroller's office.

"Today I wish to put on notice everyone who conducts or enjoys the game of bingo in Texas that they will have the opportunities to vote on this issue April 3 or August 14," Bullock said.

"In areas where there has been a vote on the issue, we are not going to second-guess the voters. Where they have approved the game, it will be conducted according to provisions of the Bingo Enabling Act."

"Where the game has not been approved, we will also be following provisions of this law, which went into effect November 10, 1981," Bullock added.

The Comptroller enclosed copies of the law with his announcement.

The Bingo Enabling Act's Section 42(c) provides that if the act is knowingly violated, "the court shall order all proceeds from the illegal bingo game or games to be forfeited to the appropriate governing body as a civil penalty."

Further, Bullock pointed out, violations of the act also carry criminal penalties under the Texas Penal Code.

"A word to the wise should be sufficient," Bullock said. "We mean to enforce this law."

Judges attend seminar

Suicide — second leading cause of death among young people

Usually you hear about it only when it involves well-known personalities like Ernest Hemingway or Marilyn Monroe, but generally this tragedy strikes ordinary people.

About 26,000 people are known to commit suicide each year in the United States. Many more attempt it.

Three times as many women as men attempt to take their lives, but nearly three times as many men complete the act.

Although suicides occur in all segments of society, the Texas Medical Association notes an increase in recent years among people between ages 15 and 24. Today, suicide is the second-leading cause of death among young people.

Individuals who attempt or commit suicide are not necessarily mentally deranged but often suffer from a treatable illness.

Common feelings of most of them share are loneliness, helplessness or hopelessness, often caused by the loss of someone close through death or rejection. In many cases, they are depressed.

Besides depression, other signs of a potential suicide include heavy drinking, previous threats or attempts at suicide, giving away or selling valuable possessions, recent filing of a will, and not renewing a rental lease.

If a person is talking about suicide but is unable to take immediate action, talk to him and listen closely if he responds. Then seek professional help for him.

If the person is holding a weapon or lethal drugs, divert his attention by remaining calm, encouraging him to talk and expressing concern. Try to call the police or other

When asked if he would ever seek another elected position, Nabers remarked, "As I stated before, I consider my years spent in the Texas Legislature to be one of the highlights of my lifetime. I have totally enjoyed the work. I now look forward to having more time to spend with my family and in my business, but I have certainly not ruled out the possibility of returning to public office in the future. I believe in the democratic process; I have enjoyed being a part of it, and I certainly might throw my hat back into the political arena in the future."

Representative Nabers is married to the former professionals trained in dealing with these situations.

Above all, take suicidal threats seriously because people who make them often carry them out.

Mobile homes not subject to registration, vehicle sales tax

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has good news for mobile home dwellers. Their homes are no longer considered motor vehicles under Texas tax law.

"Mobile homes have been considered motor vehicles and subject to registration and the 4 percent motor vehicle sales tax since 1941," Bullock said. "The last legislature changed that law and beginning March 1, we will no longer collect motor vehicle taxes on these homes."

Bullock said people who buy a mobile home will obtain a "document of title" from the Texas Department of Labor and Standards instead of registering it as a motor vehicle and obtaining a "certificate of title" from the Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The new law basically defines a mobile home as a structure providing at least 320 square feet of living area.

"This means travel trailers will still be taxed as motor vehicles and portable buildings will still be taxed under the sales tax law," Bullock said.

"There will still be tax on mobile homes which will be collected by the manufacturer," Bullock explained. "During the first year the new law is in effect, the rate will be 4.225 percent of the manufacturer's selling price. After September 1, 1983, the rate drops to 3.25 percent."

Mary Scott of Cross Plains and they have two boys, Scott and Tim. He is a partner in the law firm of Day, Nabers & Smith, a partner in Brownwood Abstract and Title Company, director of Citizens National Bank in Brownwood, and an owner of Central Texas Communications (KXYL Radio Station in Brownwood).

TOON UPS

EASY DOES IT
It might be easier than you think to save gas. Here's how:
"Jackrabbit" starts can burn up to 60 percent more gasoline than normal, gradual acceleration.

With a manual transmission, get your car into high smoothly — but quickly. At 20 miles per hour, second gear can burn 20 percent more fuel than high gear.

Look ahead in city traffic: Fewer stops can mean 10 to 25 percent more mpg. Observe the 55-mph limit. For every 5 mph over 55, you can lose a mile a gallon.

Combine errands in one trip; a mile in city driving with a cold engine can cut fuel economy as much as 70 percent.

But don't waste fuel by "warming up;" it's better to begin rolling smoothly soon after you start. And 30 seconds of idling uses as much gasoline as you might use to restart.

Under-inflated tires can cost a mile a gallon, and a recent study showed 4 out of 5 tires under-inflated an average of 5 pounds.

Oiling eggs maintains quality, saves energy

Oiling shell eggs can be as effective, energy-saving alternative to refrigeration, especially for short storage periods.

This finding is based on a farm trial comparing refrigeration and oiling of eggs to preserve interior egg quality, reports Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Eggs were either not oiled, normally oiled or intensely oiled (oiled twice with a commercial aerosol spray) in the study conducted under hot summer conditions.

Some eggs were refrigerated immediately after lay, some were held at room temperature, others were held at outside temperature (98 degrees F. daytime and 73 degrees F. nighttime) for a day and then refrigerated, and some were held at outside temperature continuously for seven days.

Results showed intensely oiled eggs as the most desirable group, normally oiled eggs as intermediate, and non-oiled eggs at least favorable, notes Mellor.

Non-oiled eggs held at outside temperature and then refrigerated compared favorably with intensely oiled eggs stored at outside temperature for a week. Both groups graded low AA.

Intensely oiled eggs held at outside temperatures, when broken, had more thin spreading whites than non-oiled, refrigerated eggs, adds the specialist.

Eggs oiled immediately after lay graded the highest.

According to Mellor, other studies have shown that for eggs stored 14 days, the best results were obtained from eggs oiled the day of lay, then washed, sanitized and reoiled three days later. Washing eggs before oiling, especially when oiled the day of lay, reduced benefits as wash water penetrated shell pores.
