School renovation work now underway

To get facelift

Winters High School's main building will receive the majority of the refurbishment work in the $2.2 million program. Other buildings to be improved include the Elementary/Junior High and both gymnasiums.

The Winters Independent School District last week approved the bid of J.W. Cooper of Odessa for renovation work on the high school building, the elementary building, and two gymnasiums.

Cooper's bid of $2,021,500 was chosen over a bid of just under $2 million submitted by B & B Developers of Moody, Texas. School district officials said the Cooper bid was more advantageous to the school district and was selected after a formal hearing was held last week to give B & B representatives an opportunity to make their bid more attractive.

A total of six bids were submitted for the renovation project and ranged from a high of $2,448,000 to the low bid of $1,927,777.

Following the approval of the bid by J.W. Cooper last Wednesday, work crews were on the job Monday morning in the old gym removing old materials that will be replaced.

The renovation program was mandated after school district voters approved a $2.2 million bond proposal less than a year ago.

The bond election was called after a group of citizens was appointed by the school board to look into the entire school system and to make recommendations. The most pressing item was to refurbish the school buildings and the two gymnasiums. The school district opted for refurbishment of the buildings rather than a more costly complete rebuilding program.

As work progresses at the school plant a portion of Fannin Street will be closed and utilized as storage area for materials to be used in the refurbishing program.

According to the specifications included in the winning bid a total of 150 days of construction time each are scheduled for the Junior High School/Elementary School building, the high school gym, and the elementary school gym. Completion time for the work on the Senior High School building is expected to be about 270 days.

School officials said that materials and supplies will begin arriving this week.

Class schedules are being made and temporary classrooms are being secured for the first part of the next school year while the refurbishing program is being completed.

Hard at it

Workmen have already begun renovation. Built in 1923, the gym will be extensively redone.

GTE rate increase request meets TML challenge

In testimony filed last week with the Texas Public Utility Commission, Texas Municipal League rate experts challenged the request of General Telephone Company of the Southwest for a $110 million rate hike.

The League's testimony was filed in advance of utility commission hearings, that began on April 15, on General Telephone's application for rate increases that would raise the monthly charges for some customers by as much as 71 percent.

The Municipal League's analysis concluded that General Telephone's request for $110 million was far in excess of the amount justified to keep the company financially sound. The cities' study of the company books indicated that General Telephone was legitimately entitled to a rate hike of just $23.3 million—about 21 percent of the amount asked.

The increase recommended by TML would give General Telephone a rate of return of about 16 percent, compared to the 18 percent that the full amount requested would provide.

TML also was critical of the company's proposal to charge far higher rates to some of its customers than those in neighboring exchanges. Under the company's plan, a given telephone customer could be charged nearly double what his neighbor pays, simply because of a slight difference in location.

Additionally, TML urged the utility commission to properly measure—and regulate—the profits that flow from General Telephone of the Southwest to its parent corporation, General Telephone & Electronics, in Connecticut. Under the rate application now pending before the commission, profits paid out of the pockets of Texas consumers would be passed along to the national headquarters of the company, with no benefit to in-state telephone users.

Earlier this year, in February, the Austin Court of Civil Appeals upheld contentions by Texas Municipal League lawyers that the amount of Texas-based profits channelled to General Telephone's national parent should be limited. The decision resulted in savings of $10 million to General Telephone's Texas customers.

General's recent rate increase request, which was filed January 29, is its third in three years. In 1980, the company asked for a $58 million increase and received $31 million. In 1981, the company asked for $45.3 million, but the utility commission approved just $2 million.

The Texas Municipal League is representing 90 cities, including Winters, that are intervenors in the GTE rate case now before the state utility commission. Utility experts hired by the TML cities have scrutinized GTE's books to determine the proper balance between the company's justifiable revenue needs versus the needs of telephone customers for quality service at equitable rates.

Ford Bros. Circus tickets now available

Advance tickets for the Ford Bros. Circus are available in Winters at three businesses and from the Winters Band Boosters.

The circus has scheduled two performances on Wednesday, April 28 on the football stadium parking lot. The circus is sponsored by the Band Boosters, who will use their share of the proceeds to purchase summer-weight uniforms for the Blizzard Band.

Advance tickets are available at Winters Conoco, Western Auto, and Smith Drug.

Jackie Murray, of the Band Boosters, said that the organization will receive 50 percent of the sales of adult tickets to the circus and 25 percent of the children's tickets purchased before the day of the show. She said that tickets purchased on the day of the circus performances will net the Band Boosters only 10 percent.

She said that tickets purchased in advance will be much less than those bought the day of the show. Mrs. Murray also said that no advance tickets can be bought on the day of the performances.

Miles teenager killed Friday

A 17-year-old woman was electrocuted Friday evening just north of Miles according to Runnels County Sheriff's deputy Odell Denton.

The woman was identified as Janice Shiller, 17, Denton said the young woman was riding with a companion in Miles and that she got out of the vehicle and sat down on the base of an oil well pump jack just before the pump started working. The deputy said the pump is operated by a time clock and that it came on automatically.

The young woman was struck by the counter-weights on the pump and somehow came into contact with the 440 volt current that powers the pump motor.

Denton said that the accident occurred about 11 p.m. Friday and that the girl was pronounced dead on arrival at Shannon Hospital's emergency facility in San Angelo.

The deputy sheriff said that it is still not known why the girl got out of the vehicle and how she came into contact with the high voltage.

Denton said the victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shiller of the Miles area and that she was a high school junior. The girl was an employee of a convenience store in Miles and had just gotten off duty only several hours before the fatal accident.

Absentee voting now in progress for Primary

Absentee voting is now in progress for the First Primary Election. If you expect to be absent from the county on May 1, or if you are 65 years of age or older, you may vote absentee in the County Clerk's Office in the Runnels County Courthouse. Last day to vote absentee is April 27.

Implement exemption deadline nearing

Runnels County Chief Appraiser, Clayton Brazelton, is advising area farm implement owners to come in to the office by April 30 to render their farm implements and to fill out a farm implement exemption form.

A recent attorney general ruling has determined that the farm implement exemption is limited to $15,000 for a single adult and $30,000 for a family.

Neither a corporation nor a partnership can claim the exemption. Not even an incorporated individual or a family partnership are eligible. A dealer who sells or leases farm equipment cannot qualify for exemption.

Appraisers will be in the area after the April 30 deadline to locate the farm implements that were not rendered. Those persons that have not rendered their farm implements nor filed the exemption by April 30 will have their implements rendered for them by the appraisal district and they will not receive the exemption for 1982.

Farm Bureau to award scholarship

Runnels County Farm Bureau will award a $500 scholarship to one graduating senior this May. To be eligible to participate, the student or his family must be a member of the county Farm Bureau. In addition, the student must enroll in an accredited college, university, or trade school in the current year.

Judging will be based on a short essay concerning the importance of agriculture in our society, grades, activities and leadership roles, and personal references. Entry forms are available from the County Farm Bureau office and the counselors at Winters, Ballinger, and Miles High Schools. Completed forms must be returned to the county office by 5 p.m. on May 1.

Berryman resigns post as Runnels County Clerk

Runnels County Clerk Frankie Berryman Tuesday submitted his resignation to Runnels County Judge Bill Stultz and the Commissioners Court.

Berryman, who had held the County Clerk's position for over 35 years, said that his resignation would be effective on May 1, 1982.

The Commissioners Court accepted Berryman's resignation with regret and said that the Commissioners Court owed the County Clerk "a debt of gratitude for his many, many good years of service to Runnels County and the Commissioners Court as County Clerk." County Judge Bill Stultz said, "We'll miss him very much and wish him the best in any future endeavors."

Berryman said that he planned to travel extensively and to open a private office in Ballinger related to the oil and gas industry. He said, "I want to thank the commissioners for their help over the years."

The commissioners agreed to advertise for applicants to fill the vacancy in the County Clerk's office but, indicated that a choice for a successor to Berryman has already been made.

Informally the commissioners said that Linda Bruchmiller would be the ideal successor to the retiring Berryman. She has served as Chief Deputy in the clerk's office for a number of years and is the only candidate for the office in the primary election. Ms. Bruchmiller has already asked the commissioners for appointment to the office. According to County Judge Bill Stultz the county must still advertise the vacancy in the County Clerk's office.

Poe's Corner

Will We Meet Again?

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a three-part series written by Mrs. Poe on the Charles H. Noyes monument located on the courthouse lawn in Ballinger. Each week, we will continue her story, along with pictures.)

On the courthouse lawn in the West Texas city of Ballinger, county seat of Runnels, stands a magnificent monument. Mounted on a huge granite base, some ten or twelve feet tall, is the bronze likeness of a handsome cowboy, clothed in true western regalia. He stands by the side of his alert cow pony, all saddled, bridled, and waiting for his master. On a plaque near the top of the granite base, and just under the bronze statue are these tragic words:

"Charles H. Noyes, born in Texas December 30, 1895 — Died from an accidental fall with his horse, on his father's ranch in Concho County, Texas, February 11, 1917."

"Is death an eternal sleep, or will we meet again? Erected in memory of Charles H. Noyes by his parents, Lula and Gus Noyes."

The grieving parents could not accept the death of their only son. The stricken father called on the help of a string of "mediums", people who claimed they could talk with the dead.

The hotel in Melvin was full of these people for weeks. Noyes took them out to the ranch and they held seances, trying to talk to Charles, according to the stories passed down from generation to generation.

"It was upsetting to the Mexican ranch hands, all the strange lights, the moving shadows coming from the house."

It also disturbed Aileen, Charles' ten-year-old sister, the Noyes only remaining child, and friends who spent the night with her. If there was a noise in the night, Noyes cried out, "Charles is that you? Come in Charlie."

Gus wanted to erect a monument to his son. He first contacted Waldine Tauch, a sculptress whom he knew. He wanted her to do a bronze statue of Charlie with his horse. And he wanted it erected on the spot where he was killed when he was thrown by his horse. But Miss Tauch didn't feel capable of doing the work that needed to be done and recommended her teacher, famed Italian sculptor Pompeo Coppini of San Antonio. Among his familiar works are figures lining the walkway at the University of Texas.

When Coppini received Miss Tauch's letter, he was in Chicago where he also maintained a studio. He was soon on his way back to Texas and went directly to Melvin.

Coppini tells about meeting Noyes like this: "I was met at the train by Mr. Noyes and his little daughter, Aileen, in a Dodge car, and taken to the ranch home. As I looked at the simple way these people were living, the poor clothes they were all wearing, the scanty furnishings of their home, and the unshaven, sad-looking face of Mr. Noyes, I became frightened that I might have been misled.

"The tall, square-shouldered but slightly bent, big-boned old man sat by the fireplace, with no fire in it, gazing as if there was a flame, saying nothing and asking me no questions.

"After a modest supper, where very few words were spoken, they assigned the boy's room to me. In one corner there was the saddle on which he took his last ride, and lots of other belongings.

"I was told that he was six feet four inches tall in his stocking feet. I tried to see him in my imagination and could not sleep all night.

"Finally, at daybreak, I dressed and went out in the open, trying to find comfort with the coming of the light of day, when a cowboy rode by and greeted me. He was the foreman.

"He seemed to know who I was and told me that I was expected. Then I ventured to ask him an impertinent question, 'Is this Mr. Noyes really wealthy?'

"He smiled: 'One of the richest men in this part of the country, and one of the smartest, too.'

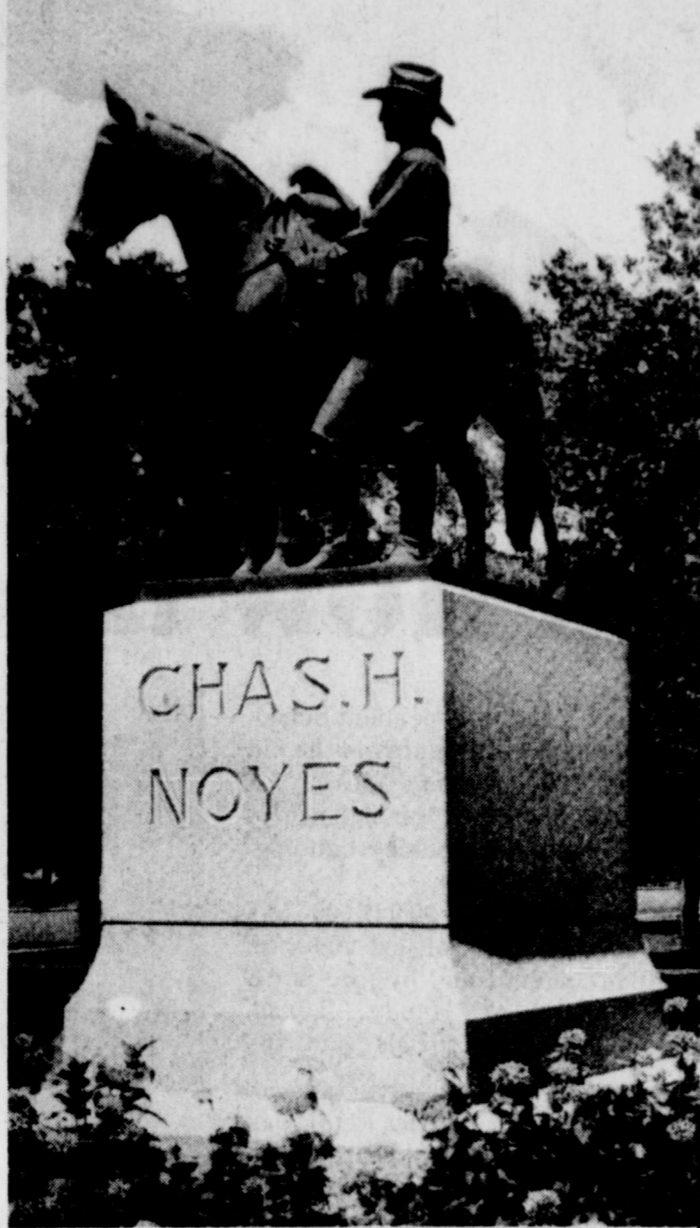

"I asked no more, but felt rather ashamed of myself. However, I thought that he had no conception of the cost of such a memorial as Mr. Noyes wanted.

"I was called to breakfast early. Mr. Noyes drove me to the place of the fatal accident, a few miles from the house, on a bluff looking down a fertile valley.

"Here, he said, is where I want to place the monument to my son, Charlie." And a stream of tears ran down his bronzed, unshaven cheeks and down to his bushy, unkempt moustache.

"We turned back — walking in silence all the way. Reaching the house, he told me, 'Make yourself at home. I will tell one of my men to show you Charlie's pony. You will be called for lunch.'

"There was nothing unusual about the horse, an iron-gray, medium height saddle horse, very gentle, good back, clean legs, long, healthy mane and tail, and no doubt a real pet and a one-man horse.

"The cowpuncher showed me all the good points and told me how much Charlie thought of him.

"After lunch we all sat in the same room where we had sat the evening before, and this time Mr. Noyes told me all he wanted and asked me how he should go about making up a contract.

"I told him to give me an hour's time to concentrate in my room, and I would sketch something with a pencil, figure the size and all, and be able to tell exactly all that he wanted to know. He like my idea not to have the son mounted, but standing by his horse, looking over the valley, where death dismounted him.

"Well, Mr. Coppini, what is the best you can do as a price?"

"At first it was my intention to ask $25,000, but since I did not want to lose the job, I said, 'I'll do it as reasonably as I possibly can — for $18,000 complete and erected under my supervision.'

"And he, in a dry way answered, 'Okay, it is a deal. I thought it would cost me double that amount.'

"My heart dropped down to my shoes. I was taught a good lesson, not to judge people by their appearance only. But I was not really sorry as he proved to be a good man, and with more brains than many people wrapped up in swell clothes, and with a close shave and perfumed lotion.

"He spoke intelligently of religious philosophy and of believing like Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (Sherlock Holmes) in Spiritualism, and of being in constant touch with his beloved son.

"In short, he was a precious stone in the rough, who shone brilliantly after you knew him better. When I left him, I was sure he had created enough inspiration, love and respect to enable me to give him my very best."

Your IRA...The Options Are Broad

If, like many Americans, you have been worrying about how to build your retirement nest egg, you now have more options open to you than you did last year. As of January 1, 1982, you can set up an Individual Retirement Account, invest in the financial instrument of your choice and defer paying taxes on the investment until you draw from it.

Here are some of the common elements.

- The maximum amount of income per year each wage earner can defer is $2,000. A single-income family can invest $2,250 and in a two-income family you can invest $2,000 each. There is no legal minimum, although many financial institutions impose their own minimums.
- You can deduct the money paid into an IRA from gross income for income tax purposes, whether or not you itemize. Taxes on the interest or earnings are also deferred.
- You must pay taxes on both the principal and earnings as it is withdrawn from the account. In other words, the tax is deferred, not eliminated. Since you'll probably be retired when you begin withdrawing, however, you'll likely be in a lower tax bracket and will be taxed at a lower rate.

Current contributions are tax deductible, and future earnings are tax deferred.

- If you withdraw the money before you reach the age of 59 1/2, you must pay income taxes plus a ten percent IRS penalty on the amount withdrawn. You can withdraw any amount after age 59 1/2. When you're 70 1/2 years old, you must begin to withdraw the money and must stop contributing to the account.
- Current contributions are tax deductible, and future earnings are tax deferred.

Easter surprises

The Easter Bunny did make his annual stop in Winters this past week, leaving surprises for all the children in town. These children enjoy searching for colored eggs at a local day care center.

Create Inside-Out Creamy Cupcakes

INSIDE-OUT CREAMY CUPCAKES

- 1 package (14 oz.) gingerbread mix
- 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
- 1 container (8 oz.) Birds Eye Dover Farms whipped topping, thawed

Prepare gingerbread mix as directed on package, adding walnuts. Divide batter evenly into 12 paper baking cups set in muffin pans. Bake at 350° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until tops spring back when lightly touched. Remove from pan and cool on racks. Cut a 1-inch circle in center of each cupcake and remove. Gently scoop out center, reserving crumbs. Toast reserved crumbs at 350° for 10 minutes; cool. Fill each cupcake with about 1 tablespoon of the whipped topping. Replace tops. Frost tops of cupcakes with remaining whipped topping and sprinkle with toasted crumbs. Serve the day prepared or freeze 2 to 3 hours or overnight. Remove cupcakes from freezer 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Makes 12.

Z. I. Hale Museum open house April 18 to display hat exhibit

A hat display for men and women will be held at the Z. I. Hale Museum open house on Sunday, April 18 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Anyone having any kind of head gear such as hats, bonnets and caps for display are invited to bring them to the museum on Friday from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Plans for the open house were made at a board meeting held last Tuesday. Other matters of business included the appointment of a nominating committee by Estella Bredemeyer, president, with Edna England as chairman, assisted by Maurine Davis and Charis Poe.

Mrs. England, treasurer, reported a balance of $3,088.99 after expenses had been updated.

Members also voted to begin beautifying the museum grounds just east of the building. Small Texas maps cut from plywood by Freddie Gardner were displayed. Cattle brands of the area will be burned into these maps, and they will be added to the farm room.

The group also voted to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce at the Mayfest to be held May 22.

A work day was observed Monday, which included cleaning and painting rooms and arranging cases and shelves presented to the museum by Milton Gerhart.

Medicare hospital insurance deductibles increase in 1982

The Medicare hospital insurance deductible, the amount a Medicare patient is responsible for when he or she first receives hospital inpatient services in a benefit period, has increased to $260 in 1982, Frank Upp, Social Security District Manager in San Angelo, said recently. The 1981 deductible was $204. Also scheduled to increase are the per-day amounts patients are responsible for after specified lengths of stay in a hospital or skilled nursing facility, Upp said.

After 60 days of inpatient hospital care in a benefit period in 1982, Medicare will pay for all covered costs except $65 a day. The 1981 figure was $51. For each reserve day of inpatient care, Medicare will pay for all covered costs except $130 per day. The 1981 figure was $102.

After 20 days of care in a skilled nursing facility, Medicare will pay all covered costs except $32.50 a day. The 1981 figure was $25.50.

The Medicare medical insurance annual deductible has also increased in 1982, the first increase since 1973. The 1982 annual medical insurance deductible is $75, up from $60. Medical insurance generally pays 80 percent of the approved costs or charges for covered services and supplies after a person incurs covered charges equaling the annual deductible.

More information about Medicare or about Social Security can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security office, located at 2214 Sherwood Way, phone 949-4608.

Flan: Cool Finish To A Spicy Meal

Often the most difficult part of menu planning is choosing a dessert to complement the main course. The perfect ending to an evening's meal is a dessert that is neither too rich nor too light.

Flan may be the ideal choice if your main course is spicy. A cousin to American custard and French creme caramel, flan is a light Mexican dessert traditionally served after a hot, spicy meal. It is a delicious way to cool off the taste buds while providing a smooth, creamy change of texture from the main course.

This flan can also be served at a coffee klatch instead of a heavy cake or pie. Since the recipe serves 12 people, it is suitable for many kinds of informal entertaining.

FLAN (Makes 12 servings)

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 8 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups Carnation instant nonfat dry milk plus water to make 3 3/4 cups
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Melt 1/2 cup sugar in 6-cup mold over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar turns to a golden brown syrup. Tip the mold and turn to coat inside with syrup. Set aside to cool 15 to 20 minutes. Beat eggs until well-blended, in large mixer bowl. Add 1 cup sugar and salt. Beat just until blended. Combine nonfat dry milk and water to make 3 3/4 cups. Blend thoroughly. Add liquid instant milk and vanilla to egg mixture; blend. Skim foam from top of mixture. (Foam will brown quicker than custard and appearance will be unattractive.) Pour into caramel-coated mold. Place in pan about 2 1/2-inches deep. Pour hot water around mold to 1-inch depth. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 40 to 50 minutes or until knife inserted 1 inch from center of custard comes out clean. Remove from pan. Cool on wire rack. Chill several hours before serving. To unmold, run knife around edge of mold. Dip mold in hot water for a few seconds. Place serving plate on top of mold; invert. Shake gently until custard slips out of mold. Cut into 12 serving pieces.

Keep frozen poultry hard-frozen until time to thaw, and cook promptly after thawing.

A successful flan requires careful baking. If undercooked, it will fall apart when taken out of the mold. If overcooked, the egg will toughen and the mixture will separate. To test whether the flan has been baked long enough, insert a knife one inch from the center of the mold. Your flan is ready if the knife is clean when pulled out.

Winters P-T-O to elect officers

All parents and teachers are urged to attend.

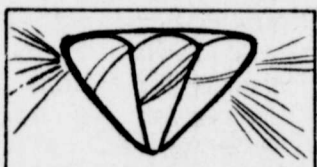

Ruth Circle met Tuesday morning

The Ruth Circle of the United Methodist Church met Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Ethel Bridwell. Ionah Vinson presided for the business meeting.

Jewel Mitchell gave the opening prayer, with Billie Middlebrook in charge of the Bible Study on Isaiah and God's History. Others taking part in the program were Ava Crawford and Ionah Vinson.

Members present were Addie Beth Stanley, Jewel Mitchell, Margurite Mathis, Mildred Carrell, Lula Bell Leeman, Eva Kelly, Marie Neely, Velma Lange, Ionah Vinson, Ava Crawford, Pauline Mayhew, Ethel Bridwell, and Billie Middlebrook.

The group repeated the closing prayer in unison.

Treatment of "lazy eye" requires early detection

The pre-school child appears healthy and normal, and for some time even his parents fail to notice anything unusual.

But the signs are there: He rubs his eyes excessively, blinks or frowns often, and covers or closes one eye.

He has "lazy eye". Doctors call it "amblyopia," a visual defect that can develop in children and must be corrected at an early age, according to the Texas Medical Association.

The problem originates with an infant's failure to develop binocular (two-eyed) vision. The baby begins to learn to use both eyes together soon after birth. If both eyes receive clear images simultaneously, the images are brought together in the brain, and binocular vision develops properly.

But if one eye is defective, binocular vision may not develop. The bad eye may have a major refractive error or may not be aligned with the other eye. Double vision or image confusion may result.

To deal with the visual confusion, the child ignores the image from the weak eye. Visual development of the eye stops, and amblyopia is the result.

The responsibility of spotting the problem rests mainly with parents because the child has no way of knowing his vision is faulty. Other signs they should watch for in the child are stumbling over small objects, difficulty playing games requiring good vision at a distance, or tilting the head or thrusting it forward when looking at something.

If any of the signs are present, the child should receive medical attention, preferably from an ophthalmologist, a specialist in eye diseases. Treatment of amblyopia may include a patch over the stronger eye, glasses, soft contact lenses and eye exercises. Surgery on eye muscles is sometimes necessary.

Treatment should not be delayed because a child's vision development is virtually complete by age 7. After that, treatment seldom results in good binocular vision. Although untreated amblyopia generally does not worsen in the teen and adult years, the child will not outgrow it. That's one reason why a vision test is important for pre-school children.

For some, middle age immediately gives thoughts of "over-the-hill" or the concept of "living in the past" most of the time. Yet, for others that old adage: "Life begins at 40," has true meaning.

The other night at a benefit dinner-dance for West Texas Rehabilitation Centers in the San Angelo Convention Center, this writer thought how wonderful to be middle age, that identifying with life and times 30 and 40 years ago can be enjoyed. We were listening to the voice of Snooky Lanson, with the backup of the Rehab '82 Orchestra.

Oh, to remember the rhythms of the Big Band era in the 1940s and 1950s. A lot of my generation was into "Rock and Roll" but I was enjoying tapping a toe to Glenn Miller and others. All of that came back to mind as Snooky sang.

Lanson is best-known for his seven-year tenure on Lucky Strike's "Your Hit Parade." He also made guest appearances on Texaco Star Theater and on the Ed Sullivan, Jack Parr, Johnny Carson, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin and Jackie Gleason shows.

I think one of the most unique things about working with "Rehab Fine Arts" is the escape back to the sounds of a generation ago. Most of these folks like Snooky have been "put out to pasture" by the public.

Back last January when we had our annual telethon, Merle Travis came in from Nashville with Grandpa Jones. One of the younger generation said to me backstage: "You all drag up all the 'has beens' don't you?" That kinda rubbed me wrong. To me, entertainers get better with age like fine wine. Merle was for years the country's best guitarist and after his performance, I'm not so sure he's still not.

We enjoy the music of the 1930s and 1940s by Ernest Tubb and his Texas Troubadours. And Ernest is young at age 68. Bob Hope and Lawrence Welk are 79 and can top the best of them on stage. And there's George Burns who has got to be two days older than dirt.

Yes, I'm for going to the pasture and bringing back these fine entertainers for the public to enjoy. Thanks, Rehab Fine Arts for the opportunity!

Upcoming later this month, West Texans may want to watch their TV schedules. Rehab '82, the annual seven-hour telethon which raises money to help the handicapped, will be presented again. According to Shelley V. Smith, executive producer of the show, it has been edited down to an hour presentation and will be seen in about a 30-county area April 22.

Also, crazy Steve Martin will be in Abilene later this month for a Rehab benefit. This summer the Joint Venture for Crippled Children will kick off its year-long fund drive with a dinner-show featuring singer Andy Williams.

For us, "the over-the-hill bunch" — Rehab will entertain us while raising money to treat the handicapped!

"Wheels For Life" fights childhood cancer

Bill Hooten, Chairman for the Winters Bike-a-thon has asked Winters residents to participate in the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon, April 24.

Volunteer workers and riders are needed for the Bike-a-thon to raise funds for the world-famous research center and its battle against childhood cancer and other catastrophic childhood diseases.

Hooten said this year's ride is being dedicated to Terry, a leukemia patient at St. Jude. "By riding for Terry, we will really be helping all stricken children, since research is the only way these illnesses can be conquered," Hooten said.

"We're looking for people who will contribute some of their time and energy to help children live. We really need bike riders, since they are the ones who can make this Bike-a-thon successful."

In the Bike-a-thon, riders enlist sponsors who donate a sum for each mile completed. Riders who raise $25 will receive a St. Jude T-shirt, and those raising $75 will receive a jacket. Local merchants, such as Bahlman's Jewelers, Burger Hut, Western Auto, Winn's, and Winters State Bank have contributed valuable prizes for those who raise the most money. Sponsor forms are available at various locations around town.

"You can put your muscles to work for a child's life in this Bike-a-thon," Hooten said. "We need every bike and every rider."

Interested persons can contact Bill Hooten, at 106 East Pierce or 754-4182.

St. Jude Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, and operates primarily from public contributions.

Texas 'Aggies' to muster in Rowena April 21

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Rowena April 21 for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, according to Woodrow Hoffman, Runnels County Muster Chairman.

The Muster activities will begin at 7 p.m. at the Rowena Steak House on US Highway 67. As always, the Muster is open to all former students, their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

The Aggie Muster dates back to the 1880's and has been held annually since. More than 500 Musters will be held around the world this year wherever Texas

A&M former students live or work. Every Muster ceremony is the same, according to Hoffman. All Aggies pay their respects to those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the name of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here".

During wars, the Aggies mustered in foxholes, on battlefields, aboard battleships, airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held in Corregidor shortly before the Japanese captured the island.

The marvelous nose subject to allergies

The normal healthy nose is a marvel of nature. Within its passages, inhaled air is filtered, warmed, and humidified before passing into the lungs. But if exposure to certain substances brings on symptoms that make you wonder if the warranty has run out on your marvel of nature, you may have an allergy.

The nose and sinuses normally produce large quantities of mucous daily to keep nasal passages moist, but an increase in these secretions can occur when a person with an allergy swallows or inhales a substance to which the person is sensitive (an allergen).

An increase in secretions can produce a number of unpleasant effects, which is often called "hay fever", said Dr. Clift Price, Associate Commissioner for Personal Health Services, Texas Department of Health:

1. Sinuses, which are breathing chambers behind the face, can become blocked with mucous, and if pressure continues unrelieved a headache may result.

2. An infection in the sinuses may occur if an obstruction continues over a long period of time. An obstruction may occur from swelling of nasal tissue due to allergic reactions or from an anatomical disorder.

3. The draining of excessive nasal secretions can also produce a problem. A "drippy" nose and perhaps a sore throat can result as mucous drains from the nasal passages and down the back of the throat. The nose frequently feels itchy, and sneezing may occur, especially in early morning.

Certain drugs may aid in treating the symptoms of an allergy, says Dr. Price. Decongestants directly shrink blood vessels in the nose, reducing swelling and mucous production. Antihistamines neutralize the substance your body produces when exposed to an allergen (histamines). Histamines cause the body to increase production of nasal secretions and cause swelling of nasal passages.

Although antihistamines are widely used, they may have a sedative effect which could lessen the alertness and effectiveness of motor vehicle or machinery operators. Over-use could lead to a type of dependence or extreme drowsiness.

If an infection is involved, antibiotics may be needed to bring it under control. Allergy shots work by prompting temporary immunity to certain allergens. "Nasal sprays and nose drops may bring temporary relief," he said, "but use them only as directed and for not more than two or three days. You can easily become dependent on them, and there is also danger of rebound swelling in which they actually increase nasal irritation."

The more effective remedy for "hay fever" is to reduce the number of allergens in an allergy-sufferer's immediate surroundings. Areas where molds (a common allergen) grow should be treated with mold killing cleansers and painted with mold resistant paint. Mold destroying agents can be sprayed into the bottoms of air conditioners and under refrigerators, suggests Dr. Price.

Frequent dusting with mops and rags treated to collect dust will aid in removing another common allergen. A special-

NEWS OF HEALTH

Your Plants May Help Your Health

Your garden may be helping you in more ways than you realize. It provides a sound barrier to noises that may cause high blood pressure.

Trees, shrubs and other plants provide an effective sound barrier against noise pollution.

A study at the University of Miami School of Medicine suggests that our continuous exposure to the noise pollution which exists in our everyday world may cause high blood pressure, which in turn can contribute to heart attack and stroke.

The study compared two pairs of monkeys—one pair in a quiet environment, the other pair exposed to all types of everyday noise. All four monkeys had the same blood pressure level at the beginning of the experiment. But before long the blood pressure of the monkeys surrounded by noise climbed 25 percent above the others.

The tests have not been conducted with humans yet, but the lesson seems to be clear: we should not "monkey" around with excessive noise—for our health's sake.

Experts believe that homeowners who have created a "quiet place" in their back yards with the help of their local nurseryman, have provided a beautiful way to protect health.

Ford Bros. Circus to visit Winters

One of the largest tented circuses, Ford Bros. will be in Winters for two performances on Wednesday, April 28. The circus will erect its "Canvas City" on the high school football stadium parking lot on Novice Road with shows scheduled for 6 and 8 p.m. under the local sponsorship of the Band Boosters who are raising funds for the purchase of summer-weight band uniforms.

This year's circus features the world renowned Padilla-Campa Troupe of daredevil aerialists, who circus heritage goes back centuries and spans half the globe. An international clown congress provides the merriment, while daring aerialists provide thrills at the very apex of the four-story high tent, all set to the music of an old fashioned circus band.

Ford Bros. Circus, on its 7th annual tour, will exhibit in more than 250 cities in 20 states. This 25,000 mile odyssey will consume nearly nine months, ending in late November.

Special reduced-rate advance tickets are available from members of the Band Boosters and from Winters Conoco, Western Auto, and Smith Drug now through the day prior to Circus Day. Senior citizens will be admitted with advance children's tickets.

The USAF Hospital Dyess is once again sponsoring retiree's and dependent's Health Week to begin April 27 and end April 30. Appointments can be made by calling the Central Appointment Desk at 696-4742 beginning April 12.

All active duty dependents over 18 years of age and all retirees and their dependents are eligible. The first three days will be dedicated to women with April 30 held exclusively for the men. If you have had a physical in the last year, you do not need another during the April Health Week.

During the April Health Week, participants will receive screening examinations in the following areas: vital signs and blood pressure check, basic visual screening to include distance vision, a glaucoma check and an eye vascular exam (this is not a glasses examination), hematocrit and hemoglobin count, blood sugar screening, urinalysis, EKG if over 45 years of age or if clinically indicated, pap smear if not done within the last year, and an abdomen, chest and breast examination. Chest x-rays will be done only on individuals who have had a positive TB test in the past or as clinically indicated. Immunization records will be screened and TB screening will be done as necessary.

Because the pre-prepared exam packages have been such a success, we are continuing to use them, with some addi-

Alcoholism now strikes 3.5 million teenagers

Emphasis on drug abuse among teenagers generally has overshadowed the problem of alcoholism.

About 3.5 million teenagers in the United States are alcoholics, according to the National Council on Alcoholism. Three of every four teenagers drink, and one out of five gets drunk at least once a month.

The Texas Medical Association says alcohol is involved in 60 to 70 percent of teen deaths resulting from accidents and suicides - which statistics show are the two leading causes of death in youths. The real cause, therefore, is related to how alcohol affects behavior. Alcohol simultaneously increases aggression or risk-taking while it decreases motor skills.

Most frequently the teenage victim is driving while intoxicated or is killed by an intoxicated driver. In other cases, the accident can involve a gun or knife. In addition, close to a majority of youths who get in trouble with the law have committed the illegal act while under the influence of alcohol.

What can be done about the problem?

Parents should deal firmly with a son or daughter involved in any incident of drunkenness or drinking while driving. The parents also should set an example by practicing what they preach.

Teachers, parents, nurses, doctors and authorities should be trained to recognize signs of alcoholism. They include a change of friends, loss of interest in classes or school activities, falling grades, and memory loss of events while drinking. When alcoholism is suspected, professional help should be sought, and parents should be prepared to participate in the treatment.

Parents should know that the risk of developing alcoholism or drug dependence is five times greater for children of alcoholic parents than for children from non-alcoholic families.

Schools should include instruction about alcoholism in grade and high school. Communities should develop teenage treatment programs such as the successful peer groups modeled after Alcoholics Anonymous.
