Run-off Elections Saturday

Runnels County Democratic voters will go to the polls again Saturday to cast their ballots in one county-wide runoff election and four state-wide runoff elections.

At stake in the single county-wide race is the office of Runnels County District Clerk. That race was narrowed down to two candidates in the primary elections last month. On the ballot are Dorothy (Dottie) Smith and Loretta Michalewicz. The two advanced to the runoff after polling more votes than two other candidates in that race.

In the state-wide runoff elections, Tyler attorney John Hanna is facing Jim Mattox for the office of Attorney General of the State of Texas. In the runoff for Commissioner of the General Land Office, Gary Mauro is facing former State Senator Pete Snelson. For Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, place one, Charles F. (Chuck) Campbell Jr. is matched with John E. Humphrey and for Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, place 2, Chuck Miller faces Bill Black.

The candidates who win in the runoff elections will be assured a place on the ballot for the November General Election to meet their Republican opposition.

In the single county-wide runoff, the winner of the voting Saturday will be assured the office because there is no Republican candidate for the District Clerk's office.

In Runnels County there will be no Republican runoff elections.

Child drowns Friday in tank at Talpa

Funeral services were held Sunday in Ballinger for five-year old Charles Ray Lybarger III who drowned in a stock tank near Talpa last Friday.

Justice of the Peace Emory Rider of Coleman, who pronounced the child dead at the scene about 3 p.m. Friday, said the child was playing with friends, a girl age 8, and another boy age 6 when the accident occurred. Rider said the child and his mother were visiting friends at Talpa and the children apparently wandered off to the stock tank on the northeast edge of Talpa. Rider said the older boy and girl had apparently been wading in the tank when the young boy attempted to get into the water and slipped into deeper water.

Judge Rider told The Enterprise that the child's mother had apparently left the children at the Talpa residence and gone to either Ballinger or San Angelo to do some shopping.

After the five-year-old disappeared in the tank, the two other children then stopped a neighbor who was driving by and told of the drowning. The neighbor then summoned authorities.

Coleman County Sheriff's officers said that another neighbor dove in the stock tank to recover the body.

Justice of the Peace Rider said that he ruled the death accidental, due to drowning.

Five persons charged in knife fight

Two persons are in the Runnels County Jail facing charges of aggravated assault and sheriff's officers say that arrest warrants have been issued for three others in connection with a Friday night incident in Winters that left one person suffering knife wounds.

Winters Police Chief L.C. Foster said that George Mendoza, thought to be in his mid-20s, was treated at North Runnels Hospital for knife wounds to the back and wrist.

Foster said the fight occurred about the railroad crossing on Parsonage Street in Winters about 11 p.m. Friday and involved knives, guns, and clubs. The police chief said that about seven persons were thought to have been involved in the affray.

By late Tuesday two persons, Jimmy Lopez and Larry Lopez, were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Wilburn Davis on charges of aggravated assault.

Deputy Sheriff Odell Denton said that warrants naming three other persons reportedly involved in the fight have been issued and that by late Tuesday officers were still searching for the trio.

Denton said that the cases would be presented to the Runnels County Grand Jury when it is in session on June 17.

Winters area students receive Carr Scholarships

Six Winters area students have been named as recipients of Carr Academic Scholarships for 1982-83 at Angelo State University.

Receiving awards were Tanya Grun, a Jim Ned senior, $2,500; Tawnya Murray, $2,000; Jerry Davis, $1,500, both seniors at Winters High; Larry Motley, $1,000, Jim Ned; and William Austin and Donnie Daily, $600 each, Winters. Ms. Grun is an honor student and plans to major in pre-medicine at Angelo State.

Provided by the Robert G. and Nona K. Carr Scholarship Foundation, the scholarships have been awarded on the basis of the students' outstanding academic records and personal achievements.

These Winters area students are among approximately 325 distinguished high school students throughout the state and nation who have been selected to receive Carr Academic Scholarships for 1982-83. Another 350 Carr Academic Scholarships are being awarded to currently enrolled undergraduate and graduate students at ASU.

Reward offered in flag thefts

Another flag has been stolen in Winters, this time on Monday, Memorial Day. Over the past several weeks a total of four United States Flags have been stolen from locations in Winters.

The flags are placed in front of businesses in observance of National Holidays by the local VFW post. Ted Meyer, of the VFW post, says that a liberal reward is offered for information leading to the recovery of the flags and the arrest of the person or persons involved.

Meyer said that three of the flags, including the one taken Monday, were taken from a location in front of O'Neal's General Store. The flag taken this week disappeared sometime after 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Anyone having information concerning the theft of the flags should contact Meyer at the Winters Funeral Home or the Winters Police Department.

created by the late Mr. Carr in 1978 and will provide approximately $1,000,000 in academic scholarships during 1982-83 to assist worthy and deserving students to pursue their education at Angelo State.

Mr. Carr bequeathed to the Board of Regents, Texas State University System, for the use of Angelo State, all of his interest in oil, gas and other minerals with the provision that these properties be held in trust for the establishment of the Carr Academic Scholarship Program.

Highway work planned for county

The 1983 State Highway Safety and Betterment and Farm to Market Road Improvement program will provide improvements to a total of 3,908 miles of highways, including some in Runnels County.

The program includes 655 projects in 198 counties in the state.

Approximately 61 percent of the financing included in the program is on US- and State-numbered highways, 37 percent is for FM and RM roads and two percent is held in reserve.

The program includes work which will upgrade existing highways to handle larger volumes of traffic than present designs can accommodate efficiently. The work also will enhance safety and will reduce the amount and kind of maintenance necessary to protect the public's investment in the highway work.

District Engineer D.R. Watson said the work in this area is part of a continuing effort to modernize and increase the safety characteristics of roads and highways which are worn out or inadequate for today's traffic.

Runnels County projects include U.S. 277 from the Nolan County line to the Coke County line, a distance of 4.7 miles to be seal coated at an estimated cost of $55,800. Also included is F.M. 1692 from the Tom Green County line to U.S. 67 at Miles, a distance of 3.8 miles to be seal coated at an estimated cost of $32,200.

Most of the work on these projects will be done in the summer of 1983. Approval at this time will allow the Department to prepare the plans and award the contracts.

New look in store for VA home loans program

The Veterans Administration's home-loan guarantee program is taking on a new look with graduated payment mortgages and buy downs.

In recognition of today's very tight and expensive mortgage money market, VA has introduced two programs to help veterans qualify for home ownership.

First is the graduated payment mortgage loan program. The new plan enables a veteran to gradually increase monthly payments over the initial five year period of the loan. It is designed to help those who are able to make a substantial down payment but who initially are unable to make the normally high monthly payment on such a loan.

The second program permits the sellers to help the veteran home purchaser through interest buy downs. For example, the willing seller/builder may pay a lump sum amount into an escrow account. Payments from that account go to the holder of the mortgage each month for a period from three to five years. Those payments supplement the payments by the veteran and enable the veteran to purchase a home he or she otherwise couldn't afford.

Local VFW post to seek bingo election

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9193 in Winters will circulate a petition calling for an election to legalize bingo in Winters.

Ted Meyer of the local post said Tuesday that the VFW is planning to seek enough names on a petition to call for the election on August 14, the last date this year that such an election can be held.

Meyers did not specify just when the petition would be circulated but said it would be presented to the county clerk for certification before the end of this month.

This will be the second such petition to be circulated in separate areas of the county, and County Clerk Linda Bruchmiller is urging persons interested in seeking a petition to do so by the end of June.

The petition and subsequent election to either approve or disapprove the legalization of bingo is necessary under recently enacted state law and the game can be operated only by a charitable or non-profit organization.

Tulip Festival Tour

Those of us taking the Tulip Festival Tour, May 8-23, with Magic Travel sponsored by Dean and Lois Smith were eagerly awaiting the day.

This exciting tour was to include two days at the Tulip Festival in Holland, Michigan, and three days at the Grand Hotel, the world's largest "summer only" hotel on Mackinac Island in Lake Huron. The itinerary also included a visit to Chicago, Illinois; Savet St. Maria, Ontario, Canada; Wisconsin Dells, Wisconsin and the Amana Colonies in Iowa.

The six people boarding the coach at Winters included Freddie and Juanita Bredemeyer, Kathleen and Nola Shedd of Wingate, B.B. (Bertie Bell) McNeill and I.

The first hour was spent in greeting old friends and meeting new ones. There were eleven people from the Rio Concho Manor in San Angelo, and one of them was Alma Blair whom I met on the Fall Foliage Trip in 1980. Alma was dressed in a matching cap and jacket with the words "Spending My Son's Inheritance" on the back.

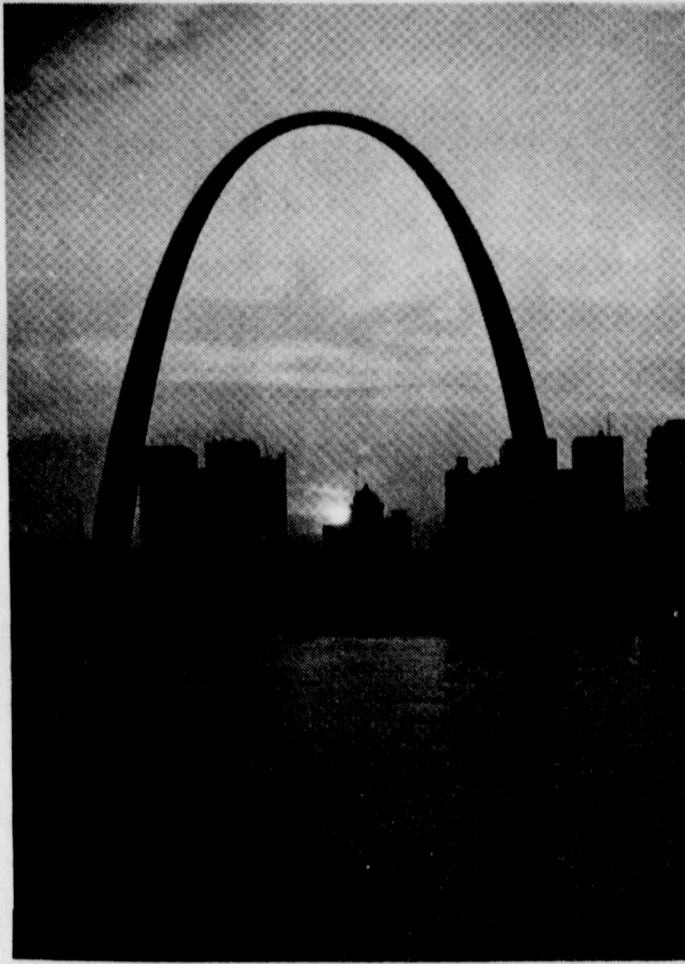

Others who had made the same tour were Nell and Elgin Hahn from San Angelo, Bill and Olivia Schwertner, Miles, and Edna Musgrave of Abilene. Edna and I recalled an experience she had on the last night of the 1980 tour. She had been told to order a "virgin" drink if one without alcohol was wanted, so she ordered a virgin Pina Colotta for dinner. We had a good laugh about her reaction, and doubted if the drink were "pure".

By the time all 40 people on the coach had received their name tags and stopped at Luby's in Wichita Falls for lunch we were fairly well acquainted. We reached our lodging in Tulsa, Oklahoma early enough for me to visit in the home of Ruth and Whitey LaFon, friends from my 1976 Alaska Tour.

It would take a long drive on Sunday to reach St. Louis, Missouri, so Dean, our genial host, gave the devotional enroute, paying a tribute to Mothers. Afterwards, he spoke about our tour being more streamlined, as we were all seasoned travelers, and as we had many miles to cover, there would be fewer stops.

Everyone agreed except Lois, his wife and assistant, reminded him that he had forgotten that it was on the agenda to visit Oral Roberts University. He agreed to make that detour on our way home if there was time.

All the mothers on board received a free pie for Mother's Day when we stopped at McDonald's outside of Rolla for refreshments. This gave Dean the idea of asking who had the most children. Hollis Workman was first with ten. Alice Wilde and Sara Halfmann, cousins, tied for second place with nine each. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Frerich of Rowena were parents of six children and had 39 grandchildren. They were probably the most experienced travelers of the group as they had been overseas seven times and seen much of the U.S.

A stop was made at the Gateway Arch as we left St. Louis. We went under the Eads Bridge and saw the Mississippi River before reaching the Arch that soars 630 feet into the sky above the city, symbolizing St. Louis' historic role as Gateway to the West. It is our country's tallest monument and is the focus of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial which pays tribute to the role of Thomas Jefferson and the countless pioneers responsible for the nation's territorial expansion to the Pacific.

Some of our group boarded the capsule-transporters that run on the special tracks up the hollow, curving legs of the Arch for a four-minute ride to the top. Then they climbed a short flight of steps to the observation room for a 30-mile panoramic view of St. Louis and the suburbs on the west. To the east was the historic riverfront and the industrial complexes lining the Illinois side of the Mississippi.

I preferred to stay on solid ground and visited the museum, but Hollis Workman said she never left anything stop her, except once when she stumped her toe.

The museum of Westward Expansion, located beneath the Memorial Arch, contains exhibits, films, and artifacts to help visitors understand what it was like to go west in the 19th Century. Objects are not labeled. Ideas are expressed by the words of those who were there. The museum tells their story, and in a broader sense, ours as a nation.

On Sunday we had lunch at Springfield, Missouri and Monday at Springfield, Illinois. An argument arose about the capitols of each state but was finally resolved that it was Jefferson City, Missouri, and Springfield, Ill.

We stopped at McDonald's for a quick lunch. Freddie was the only one that had a "Happy Meal". He ordered this from the menu and it turned out to be a child's lunch in a box covered with cartoons and contained the world's smallest hamburger, a few french fries, a cookie and a toy. But he was the winner in the long run for we all put our coupons in his box for prizes that were to be given away. Freddie is going to take his next tour with what he wins.

It is a custom for each one taking the tour to provide some confection to be shared on the coach. Everyone was passing cookies and candy as we sped on our way to the Windy City - Look out Chicago, here we come!

Eden plans mammoth parade

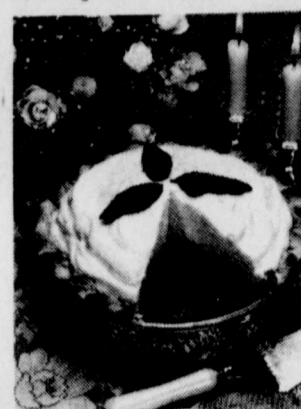

It only happens once in 100 years, and it's happening in Eden on June 12. The "Garden of Texas" is planning a three-day birthday party which will include a parade on Saturday, June 12, that has 80 out-of-town entries - everything from 100 horses to antique cars, a calliope, chuck wagon, 14-ft. beer can, and sheriff's posse.

The parade will start at 11 a.m. and be over in time for the afternoon events. From noon till sundown the center stage will feature entertainment groups such as the Singing Sparks from Austin, the Clover Leaf German Orchestra from New Braunfels, Los Amigos mariachis from San Angelo and numerous other singers and strummers.

North of the musical activity, there will be armadillo races, throwing contests for cow chips, washers, and horseshoes, tobacco spitting, lie telling, and dominoes. South of the stage, a Country Fair will feature competition in arts and crafts from quilting to pickeling. East of center, a carnival will be open all day, and west, food and craft

Alzheimer's disease strikes older people

Though virtually unknown, Alzheimer's disease is the primary cause of progressive mental deterioration in older people.

Estimates are that nearly half of elderly men and women with severe intellectual impairment are victims of this irreversible disorder of unknown cause, according to the Texas Medical Association. Although it generally strikes around age 65 and often is mistaken for senility, the disease also can develop in people in their 40s and 50s.

Alzheimer's disease usually leads to death in five to 10 years. Autopsies commonly reveal microscopic abnormalities in the cerebrum, the largest and "intellectual" part of the brain.

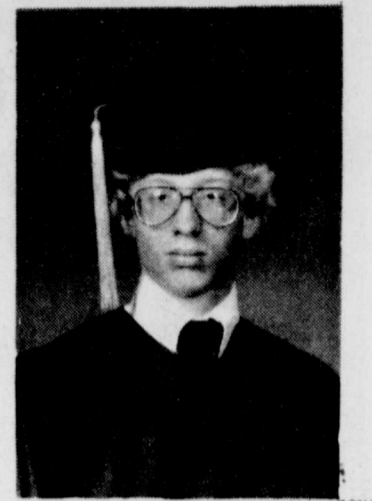

At first the symptoms are minor and often are attributed to emotional problems or physical illnesses. The person becomes increasingly forgetful, particularly of recent events. Memory loss increases as the disease worsens. Confusion, restlessness and agitation are common. The disease also can affect judgment and orientation. In severe cases, the victim becomes incapable of caring for himself.

Several of these symptoms are characteristic of other, more treatable diseases. A person suspected of having Alzheimer's disease should consult a doctor, who likely will recommend a thorough physical, neurological and psychiatric evaluation.

Once the disease is diagnosed, treatment can

Outdoor furniture needs special care tactics

Outdoor furniture is an investment you can keep for many years with protective special-care tactics, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Berry, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, explains that although a plain soap-and-water rinse is "good for cleaning," applying a protective finish will extend the furniture's life.

For example, the patina and shine of aluminum furniture can be restored by wiping with fine steel wool and kerosene and then buffing with a soft cloth.

However, if the furniture will be exposed to direct sunlight as well as rain, it needs a protective finish of auto paste wax.

Protecting outdoor furniture is the key to its long life, the specialist stresses.

Even redwood furniture, with its special properties that make it ideal for outdoor use, will benefit from a special protective treatment.

For redwood, the important thing is to use a "penetrating finish," Berry says, rather than a "surface sealer" such as varnish.

In the case of other woods, you can extend their lives with special-care tactics, but it's wise to re-lace them won't last as long as redwood if they're used in direct sun or exposed to rain, Berry advises.

For the past several weeks, a number of us representing the public relations of West Texas Rehabilitation Centers have been on the road "beefing up" the funding and donations on behalf of these great institutions which serve the handicapped in the Southwest.

A record number — about 10,000 — handicapped will seek treatment help at the three Rehab campuses in San Angelo, Abilene and Snyder this year. Since no charge is made for these services, it is up to the public to continue gifts and support.

Although much of the nation suffers from the recession, the West Texas area has for the most part enjoyed continued prosperity. "Yet, paradoxically, donations to WTRC in 1981 and during the first quarter of 1982 are not reflecting the booming economy that generally characterizes our area," explains Jim M. Polk, WTRC board president.

The largest budget in the almost 30-year history of WTRC was adopted for fiscal 1982. Over $3 million. With the donations down, many alternatives were considered by the board. A freeze on staff salaries was taken early in the year.

"The Center has not cut back in services," says Shelley V. Smith, executive director. "None of the ever increasing number of handicapped who need WTRC services will be turned away. Many citizens of the great Southwest have assumed that pledge due to the large budget of the Center. Its success is guaranteed. Success in meeting a budget can only be achieved when all individuals connected in any way to WTRC are concerned."

"This concern must be turned into action and the action must be in the form of increased gifts on behalf of donors and increased efficiency and delivery of services on behalf of staff," added Smith.

During the past weeks, we have placed additional memorial gift envelopes at the many banks, savings and loans and funeral homes throughout the West Texas area. Bob Hope donated some time in the form of radio announcements on our behalf and those announcements are heard on local radio stations.

Through Rehab PR, we have a number of activities scheduled this summer. These many events in the form of art shows, horse sales and entertainment give the public an opportunity to be entertained and help the Rehab Centers, too.

June 5 will give cowboys around Clairmont a throw or two in the Bilby Wallace Memorial Steer Roping which will benefit WTRC.

On June 29 at Stamford we will hold the annual Quarter Horse Classic. A memo on my desk from WTRC fieldman Sonny Dillard describes the outstanding bloodlines from the Waggoner Estate at Vernon and others like the King Ranch.

June 30 through July 14, we will have the Western Art Show at the Stamford Art Foundation and the 52nd annual Texas Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

Coming this year for the 5th annual Joint Venture for Crippled Children Benefit Dinner and Show July 9 will be Andy Williams and friends.

The Joint Venture for Crippled Children West Texas Oil & Gas Exposition will be at the Abilene Civic Center July 22-24. A JVCC Equipment and Services Sale will be July 23 at the same location.

In August, we will celebrate the opening of the new $2 million WTRC — San Angelo. This has been a dream for this writer for the nearly five years I marked to the Shelley V. Smith drum cadence. Even though I will not office there, I share the reality and joy with the many who will work there. Nonetheless, I, along with my staff at Lackey Communications, will be seen on the campus regularly.

And, last but not foremost, for this agriculture-PR man, the annual Cattleman's Round-Up for Crippled Children will debut in September. A barbecue on the banks of the Concho River near San Angelo will kick off this major fund drive effort the last weekend in August. We will be on the road to visit with all county and area CRCC chairmen in September and October.

Well, it appears that we will be busy. But again, the bottom line below all the fun things is providing services for the handicapped. That, of course, is not my department, but Bill Snowden and his staff of therapists at the three campuses. I know they will do their job. I, along with my colleagues in public relations, are dedicated to do ours. Now, what about you, the donor . . . will you do your part?

Blister beetle toxicity most severe in horses

Blister beetles can be a serious problem to different classes of livestock, but their toxicity is most severe in horses.

The beetles cause severe blistering of the esophagus, stomach and intestinal tract of animals.

"Blister beetle poisoning in horses is manifested as a severe colic," points out Dr. Clifford Hoelscher, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Cantharidin (toxic chemical produced in the beetle) causes severe blistering of the mucus lining in the animal's digestive tract and other internal tissues," explains the entomologist. "The chemical is not broken down in the digestive process and must be excreted in the urine."

Positive diagnosis of animal poisoning is possible by tissue or urine analysis at the Texas A&M Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory in College Station.

A local veterinarian can suggest treatments for poisoned horses, says Hoelscher. Drenching animals with mineral oil to help protect the digestive tract lining is a first step in treatment.

"Clinical symptoms in other livestock types include a general depression, loss of appetite and constant urination," Hoelscher says. "Expressed symptoms depend on the amount of cantharidin in the feed (mainly hay), general vigor of the animal and its species."

About 35 species of blister beetles occur in Texas, notes the entomologist, and all produce varying amounts of the toxic chemical. This area is presently under study.

If a horse eats just two to five blister beetles of a certain species, the animal can die within 12 to 24 hours, emphasizes Hoelscher.

"It's important for hay and feed producers to determine if beetles are present in a field before hay is cut," explains Hoelscher. "Infested hay fields can be treated with insecticide, but the effectiveness of this has not yet been determined."

So, Hoelscher recommends these producer management strategies to reduce losses: inspect individual hay fields for adult blister beetles before harvesting, don't harvest beetle-infested areas of hay fields, and be sure a field scout can readily distinguish blister beetles from other insect species.

"Knowledge about the problem is the key to reducing animal losses from blister beetles," he says. "Know what blister beetles look like, what to

TAHC warns producers to test for pseudorabies

An outbreak of pseudorabies among hogs in Texas should alert producers to the need for testing new arrivals in a herd for that disease, Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, said recently.

Pseudorabies is a herpes virus disease of swine that can also affect cattle, dogs, cats, and some wild animals. It is spread by contact with infected animals.

Thus far, four herds are under quarantine in Texas, and there is a possibility the total could go to 20. They are located in central and northwest Texas.

Source of the infection is believed to be from a herd in Illinois. A swine do with an infested field, and how to get help in treating poisoned animals."

conference and sale was held in Lubbock recently, and it is believed that the infection was centered there. About 54 producers purchased hogs at that sale, and it is feared the hogs were exposed to the disease.

Dr. Holcombe urged all swine producers in Texas to make it a practice to have any hogs they buy from out of state isolated from their herd for 30 days and then retested for pseudorabies. "It is not a requirement, but it is a good practice to follow," he said.

A herd which is quarantined for pseudorabies must pass two negative tests within 60 days before it can be released from quarantine.

Pseudorabies is rare in Texas; only one case was confirmed in 1980, and only three herds were quarantined in 1981.

"It's something we don't need to panic over, but it is a situation that calls for surveillance among all of our state's hog producers."

Cattlemen advised to vaccinate eligible heifers for brucellosis

Cattlemen working their cattle should add one more chore of things to do for better management: get your eligible heifers vaccinated for brucellosis.

That advice comes from Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission.

Vaccination ages for heifers as official vaccines are 4 to 12 months of age for all breeds. "Cattle producers should consider vaccination for brucellosis as a routine management practice. A one-time vaccination is normally sufficient for the life of the animal," he said. The reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine is recommended.

Personnel approved by the Texas Animal Health Commission must perform the vaccination, Dr. Holcombe said. "This is needed for several reasons," he noted. They include:

1. The vaccine is a live bacteria, and it must be handled with care;
2. The vaccine is fragile, and must be handled under controlled conditions to establish a good immunity;

3. There is some personal danger involved when untrained people handle brucellosis vaccine. Humans can contract brucellosis, too.

4. Official records must be maintained to assure you that an animal is indeed an official vaccinee.

"Financial assistance is available. You should contact your area Texas Animal Health Commission office or your own veterinarian for details," Dr. Holcombe said.

"Texas cattle producers are to be commended for their efforts in increasing vaccination in the past few years. During 1981, almost a third of the eligible calf crop in Texas was vaccinated for brucellosis. But the fact is: we need a 70 percent level of vaccination of eligible calves to significantly reduce this disease," he said.

"Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission have launched an information and educational program to encourage more vaccination. Although vaccination by itself is not the single answer to brucellosis control, it is the most important thing a cattle producer can do to build up immunity against the disease in his herd," Dr. Holcombe said.

ARTHRITIS FOUNDATION DOUBLE TAKE

There were two Ronald Reagans in the Oval Office recently thanks to Lisa (left) and Amy Keen of Dorothy, N.J. The five-year-old identical twins, who both have rheumatoid arthritis and are poster children for the Arthritis Foundation, gave President Reagan a soft-sculpture likeness of himself so that he too "could enjoy being a twin." The ceremonies launched May as Arthritis Month.

For most Americans, arthritis brings to mind thoughts of minor aches and pains, of old age and of home remedies and miracle cures.

In fact, arthritis is America's number one crippling disease affecting over 31 million people, including 250,000 children. The cost to the economy is almost $14 billion annually.

While there is no known cure, much can be done to control the pain and crippling of arthritis. In the midst of this progress on arthritis stands the Arthritis Foundation.

It is the only national organization dedicated to arthritis research, education

Winters Scouts to Eagle Mountain 82

Three members of the Winters troop of the Boy Scouts of America are attending Eagle Mountain 82 Junior Leading Training Course near Cloudfcroft, New Mexico this week.

The scouts, Scott Shifflett, Mike Holloway, and Rene Cortez, are undergoing a unique hike-while-you-train type program that emphasizes leadership and outdoor survival.

The Winters Lions Club and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9193 are sponsoring the scouts while they are in New Mexico.

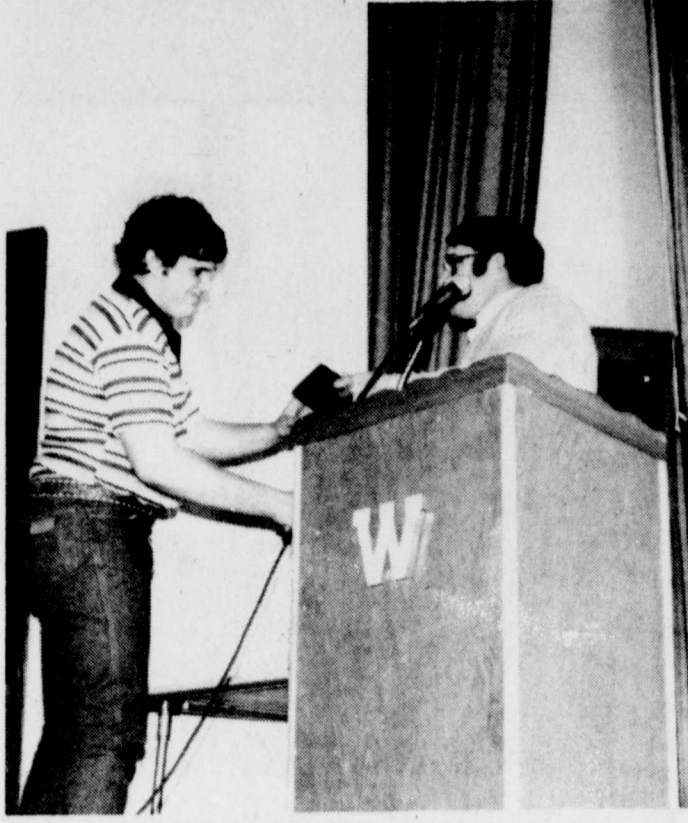

In order for a scout to be eligible to attend the Eagle Mountain 82, he must have at least one year of scouting experience and be a senior patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, members of the Leadership corps, patrol leaders or who are prospective junior leader of troops. The participating scouts must have completed the Camping, Cooking, and Hiking Skill Awards and the First Aid Merit Badge. The scouts must also have the recommendation of their scoutmasters and the approval of the staff of Eagle Mountain 82.

Following their departure from Winters last Saturday, the scouts were transported to Camp Tonkawa, near Abilene, to an intermediate camp in preparation for the encampment in the rugged mountains of New Mexico.

An integral part of Eagle Mountain 82 is hiking. On each in the New Mexico mountains, the group will hike trails, stopping periodically for training sessions. Trail meals will be used for noon on each of these days.

Other training will follow an outline approved by the Boy Scouts of America and specifically adapted for the Chisholm Trail Council, of which the Winters troop is a member. The scouts are organized into separate patrols with a Senior Patrol leader and Patrol Counselors from the staff.

Each scout carries a back pack loaded with the necessary survival gear, clothing, tent, and other items needed for such hikes.

Thanks....

We would like to take time here to say thanks to a good friend, one who has helped us many times during the past school year by providing The Enterprise with pictures of football, basketball, track, and the many other activities at Winters High School.

There are many, many times that our staff is just not large enough to allow us to attend all of the activities at the schools and throughout our community and bring back pictures for the weekly edition. There are, especially on out of town trips to games or other activities at the high school, that we could not possibly be able to get there to get the pictures and get back. So we say THANKS Joe Gerhart.

There to, are many times, just before our final deadline, that Joe has come in with just the picture that was needed, and believe me, that picture was sincerely appreciated.

Along with his other activities, Joe is a member of the staff of The Glacier. Joe seemed to always find time to take and develop that extra picture.

So again Joe, we say thanks, very much.
