Rice Grocery destroyed in Wednesday fire

A fire of undetermined origin Wednesday evening almost totally destroyed Rice Grocery on east Truitt street in Winters. The blaze was reported shortly after the business closed and was thought to have started in a storage room.

Although the structure itself was not heavily damaged, owner Roy Rice said that the inside of the building was considered a total loss along with most of the merchandise and food items.

Rice said that in accordance with State Health Department rules, nearly all the edible goods in the store were buried Tuesday and that some of the other merchandise was removed by a salvage company owned by the insurance company.

The store owner said that neither he nor the insurance companies had come up with any dollar amount of loss due to the fire. Rice said that he was already receiving bids to renovate and repair the store and that as soon as the renovation was completed he would be open again.

Winters firemen responded to the call with three pieces of firefighting equipment along with its support vehicle and were on the scene almost three hours. Firemen said that when they arrived, flames were visible leaping from under the roof however the blaze was quickly brought under control and tapped out.

Fire and police officials emphasized that spectators who flocked to the scene of the fire hampered attempts by firemen to get firefighting equipment into position. Officers in both departments reminded citizens of the laws concerning emergency vehicles, both moving over for them and following them. Police officials said that citations will be issued in the future to persons who disregard these laws.

Still hot

Firefighters search out hot spots between the walls and in the attic of Rice's Grocery Store after tapping the blaze out Wednesday evening. The interior of the store was said to be a total loss, as was food stuffs and other merchandise. Owner Roy Rice said that he would be open again as soon as he could get the structure rebuilt.

More water...

Winters Fire Chief Johnny Merrill (top of ladder) and firefighter Leon Hilliard extinguish remnants of the blaze in the attic of Rice's Grocery. Firemen were called before 9 p.m. to the fire and were on the scene several hours. The cause of the fire is still undetermined.

Winters City Council okays trash pact and property annexation

The Winters City Council gave tentative approval to a contract with Tony's Disposal Service to continue the sanitation service in the city.

The new contract, if agreed to by the disposal service, will be for a

Lake Winters gets wide publicity

The engineering firm supervised the construction of the new lake from the initial plans to the final completion.

Winters City Administrator Glenn Brown said that his office has been contacted by a heavy equipment manufacturer concerning a feature story in that company's in-house publication. Brown said that the company was interested in the feature because equipment manufactured by that company was used, almost exclusively, in the construction program.

period of five years. In the new contract, the disposal service is seeking adjusted rates for commercial pick-ups in the city. Some of the rates will go up while others may go down.

Another item in the new contract proposal is for the city to furnish a person to open and close the landfill and to show people where to dump. This would give the city more control of the landfill, its hours of operation, and the days that brush is burned. This would also require the contractor to furnish a dozer and operator to dig and cover pits and to push refuse as needed.

The contract renewal was the topic of a public hearing and town hall-type meeting last week at which time several merchants indicated that they would rather the city take over the operation of the sanitation department.

City officials said that in order for the city to get back into the refuse business, it would cost in excess of $40,000 per year in funds from the general fund and would add another burden on the taxpayer.

Tony Cantrell, owner of Tony's Disposal Service, said that residential pick up rates would not change, that he need the rate increases on the commercial customers in order to make a profit on the sanitation contract.

The new rates for commercial customers, if the contractor and the city agree on the contract, would become effective with the November billing.

As an item of information, Mayor Lee Colburn read to the council a letter from the State Department of Health concerning the landfill. The letter noted several improvements in the landfill operation over the past year and extended the deadline for full compliance with state regulations until next spring. For several years, the city has been having problems making the landfill conform to the state requirements and only after the contractor took over the sanitation service and the landfill operation did the landfill begin to come in line with the requirements.

In other business, the council approved an ordinance annexing property on South Penny Lane and on Freddie Lane and set the date for a public hearing on the requested annexation of lots 1, 2, and 7 of the Cook Addition. The hearing is set for the next regular meeting of the council which will be October 18.

City administrator Glenn Brown told the council that pumping operations were underway at the old city lake transferring water from the old lake to the new lake.

Water rates boosted 15 percent by council

Winters residents will begin paying more for their water beginning with the city bills mailed in late October. The increase in the water rates will amount to 15 percent and the additional revenue will be used by the city to pay for the construction of the new lake.

The Winters City Council, meeting in regular session Monday, took the action following a public hearing in which representatives of the North Runnels Water Supply Corporation asked the city to not raise the price of water to the rural water corporation more than was absolutely necessary.

The new rates, which will go into effect November 15, will include a minimum rate of $7 for the first three thousand gallons of water and an additional $1.15 per thousand for water used over the minimum.

Rates charged water customers who live outside the city limits will have a minimum of $13.50 for the first three thousand gallons and an additional $1.75 per thousand gallons for water used over the minimum.

The council agreed to increase the amount charged the North Runnels Water Supply Corporation to $1.55 per thousand gallons.

City Administrator Glenn Brown told the council that the increase was necessary to pay for the cost of construction of the new lake.

Council suspends WTU rates

The Winters City Council passed an ordinance suspending the rate increase for West Texas Utilities for 120 days and agreed to participate with the Texas Municipal League in opposing the $20.4 million increase being sought by the utility.

There were three options for the council concerning the rate increase request: grant the increase entirely; outright denial of the increase; suspending the increase for 120 days. The suspension, as approved, indicates the city's willingness to try and cooperate with the utility and to consider all the alternatives before making a final decision on the increase request.

WTU is seeking the $20.4 million increase to help recover the costs of constructing additional power generating plants. In their presentation, the electric utility noted that this is the third time ever for it to seek a rate hike. WTU was granted an increase last year, but was not large enough to give the company an acceptable rate of return and to keep it from having to borrow additional funds to pay the cost of building generating facilities.

Parking meters on the way

Following a lengthy discussion Monday, the Winters City Council instructed the city staff to determine the cost of repairing or replacing existing parking meters and purchasing additional meters for some sections of the downtown area.

In their recommendation, the council indicated a change from the traditional penny for 12 minutes to a nickel for one hour's parking and an increase in the fines assessed for parking violations would be in line as would enforcement of the parking ordinances.

In its discussion of parking meters, the council indicated that additional meters would be needed for locations on south Main street, West Dale, and Church streets.

As soon as the meters that are not operational are repaired, and the existing meters are changed to accept nickles rather than pennies the new parking rules are expected to be placed into effect.

Charges filed in knifing incident

Charges of aggravated assault were filed against an Abilene woman Thursday in connection with a stabbing incident at a residence in the 500 block of south Melwood street.

Runnels County Sheriff's officers said that Linda Dianda Concepcion was arrested by authorities in Abilene several hours after the early Thursday stabbing incident.

Injured in the incident was Bonnie Hurlburt of Clyde, who was taken by ambulance to North Runnels Hospital suffering from a stab wound to the left chest.

Officers said that the knifing incident apparently climaxed a domestic disturbance and that the weapon used was a kitchen knife.

Taylor County Sheriff's officers said that Ms. Concepcion was released on $10,000 bond Friday morning just as Runnels County officers were arriving in Abilene to return the woman to this county to face the charges.

Salvation Army to seek donations

It is time again for the Salvation Army to ask for help. Local Salvation Army spokesman Ted Meyer said, "This year, instead of having a kick-off drive, we are asking each of you to make a contribution for a much needed purpose. We are in need of financial help for the unfortunate ones who might need food, clothing, shelter, or medical help. No cash goes to anyone."

All contributions to the Salvation Army are dispensed through the organization. Meyer said that the quota for this year is $2,000 and that due to economic conditions, the Salvation Army is more in need of help now than in any prior year.

Persons wishing to make contributions and have not been otherwise contacted should call Ted Meyer at the Winters Funeral Home.

Bonnets For Dallas

Dorothy Cave of Wingate was enjoying retirement with her handiwork, monthly Garden Club meetings and occasional games of bridge with the girls when she received an unusual offer which sent her spinning into a new world.

Dorothy loves a challenge and her opportunity came while visiting a friend, Tonya Calhoun, in Dallas. She met Mary Jane Hinnett, buyer for McCalls Museum gift shop, located in the Old City Park of Dallas.

Later, Miss Hinnett telephoned Dorothy and asked if she would consider making some bonnets, a needed item in her gift shop which offers items for sale that might have been available in rural Texas between 1840 and 1910.

Since she had never made a bonnet, Dorothy was thrown into a state of shock but quickly recovered and offered to send Miss Hinnett a sample of her work. And if it met with her approval, then they could talk business. Gathering her remnants and scraps of material, Dorothy wondered where she could locate a pattern.

When she inquired of her sister-in-law, Tye Hunter, where she could find a bonnet pattern, Dorothy was in luck. "She gave me a bonnet that had belonged to my mother-in-law, Rebecca Cave," said Dorothy, "and it was very meaningful to me.

"I took it as a pattern for the bonnets I sold in Dallas. Mary Jane Hinnett called them field bonnets."

Field bonnets are commonly called split bonnets here, as they are made with splits of cardboard. They were the kind that McCalls Gift Shop needed for many of their customers were tourists and these bonnets would fold down flat to be carried in suitcases.

As quickly as possible, Dorothy made the bonnets and cut up all her shoe boxes for cardboard splits. The samples were sent to Dallas and speedily sold. The request came for more bonnets and this sent the seamstress to town for more material and wondering where she would find the right weight cardboard for the splits. She discovered that it was sold at the Winters Enterprise, and they graciously cut the strips for her. Before the season was over, which lasts from February until July, forty bonnets had been made and sold.

All persons who are interested in expressing their opinion are invited to attend the Public Hearing
 October 7, 1982

Tonya Calhoun, who does public relations work, wore one of the bonnets and taped a TV program.

But this is not the end of the story. McCalls keeps a Christmas corner going all the time where they feature various kinds of small gifts. When they learned that Mrs. Cave was a very creative person and did many kinds of handiwork, such as knitting, crocheting and embroidery, she was given a standing order for all she wished to produce.

Some very popular items Dorothy has made are white candy canes and bells in white, and these are used on packages of for Christmas tree decorations. Other items she crochets are shade and lamp pulls. She makes only the smaller size and does them in ecru color. One of her specialties is burlap bags applied with either mushrooms, red apples or brown butterflies. Burlap is liked because it gives the appearance of being old. This little verse is attached to each one:

"Hand this inside your pantry door

For sacks you want to use some more"

Teatowels always sell well. Dorothy received a check this week for one dozen she had sent to McCalls. She makes them out of bleached white feed sacks that are bought in the stores. She embroiders them in favorite patterns such as the Dutch girl and the "Bees" - with the mottos such as "Bee Careful", "Bee Courteous" and "Bee Relaxed". Other embroidered articles are daisies which make an attractive bouquet and can be washed, made in white for summertime and brown and yellow for fall.

Another of Dorothy's specialties is ceramics but they are costly to produce and easily broken, so she reserves them mostly for family and Christmas gifts. She is busy at present firing soup mugs and armadillos, a favorite of grandchildren.

Dorothy was born and reared in Sweetwater and credits her mother, a spotless housekeeper, good cook and dressmaker, with her accomplishments. Dorothy always liked to sew and made her own clothes, also her daughter's. She was married young to Bill Fagan, who owned and operated Fagan's Electric Company in Abilene until his death in 1979. Bill had an inquiring mind and liked to travel. When their daughter, Margaret and family were in Germany in 1952, they visited her and stayed three months, visiting in London, France and Germany. Dorothy's father was born in Heidelberg. "We took the car and went to Switzerland, Rome and Holland. Before Castro took over, we with two other couples, went to Cuba," said Dorothy. "Margaret and I visited my niece in Panama, and I also visited Canada and Mexico."

After her marriage to Nolan Cave, whom she had known in youth, Dorothy moved to Wingate. During his long illness, before his death, they spent many days in hospitals and hotels when he went for therapy. To while away long hours, Dorothy worked on a Cathedral Quilt which took her 2 1/2 years to make.

In addition to her various projects, Dorothy likes to spend time with her daughter, Margaret Lambert in Dallas. Also to visit with her three grandchildren, Michall Short of Dallas, Karen Stovell, also of Dallas, and Leslie Roland of Merced, California. Michael calls her "my butterfly Grandmother," because it is hard to find her at home.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, shown here with Rev. Bob Holloway, paid a surprise visit to the First United Methodist Church of Winters, after learning that the church was dedicating their Lord's Acre Project.

In speaking to the group, he reminded them that all they were doing was to the glory of God, and pointed out that the United Methodist Church will be celebrating its bicentennial in 1984.

Also attending the service, but not pictured, was Bill Vance of Hurst, Texas. Vance, captain of a 737 for Frontier Airlines, has also devoted a great deal of time to studying the life and efforts of John Wesley.

Both Vance and Wesley have appeared before 90,000 people at 350 performances nationwide.

MRS. KELLY LANE BLACKERBY

Bryan, Blackerby exchange vows in double-ring service

Vicki Gaye Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeLon Bryan of Coleman, became the bride of Kelly Lane Blackerby, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.N. Blackerby of Winters, in a double-ring ceremony held at 5 p.m. October 2 in the First United Methodist Church of Winters.

Winford Gore performed the ceremony before two standing baskets of fern.

Susan Conner provided music, including "Color My World", "We've Only Just Begun", "For All We Know", "Evergreen", "If", and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of total chantilly-type lace. The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline and slightly puffed fitted sleeves. The gown was designed with soft rows of re-embroidered lace and raschel lace ruffles, and included a cathedral length train. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses with lace and satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was Cheryl Pritchard of Lubbock. Maid of honor was Tammy Gibbs of Winters, and bridesmaid was Dawn Bryan of Abilene. Flower girl was Sally Hiler of Uvalde.

Attendants wore floor length pastel purple skirts encircled with a matching flounce. Buttons extended the high neck ruffled collar, with puffed sleeves fastened at the wrist. The waist was accented by a sash and rose. They carried long stemmed lavender carnations with lace ribbons.

Best man was A.N. (Newt) Blackerby, father of the groom.

Groomsmen were Mike Brown of Roscoe and Donald Baize of Wingate. Acting as ushers were Terry Gerhart of College Station and Doug Cooper of Wingate.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Winters High School. She graduated Sept. 23, 1982 from Central Texas Commercial College.

The groom is a 1979 graduate of Winters High School, and attended Western Texas College. He is presently employed by A.N. Blackerby Construction, and Compon Construction.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home in Drasco.

When fermenting a pickled product, use a crockware pot or a plastic bucket which is intended for food, cautions Mary K. Sweeten, a food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Never use a garbage or other plastic bucket not intended for food use.

Services for area residents' niece held

Mrs. Rena Faye Cambell Jameson, 62, of San Angelo, and niece of several Winters residents, died Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 11:04 p.m. in Shannon Hospital.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Lakeview Christian Church, with burial in Evergreen Cemetery in Ballinger.

Born Aug. 9, 1920 in Thorndale, she married Sterling Jameson in Paint Rock on February 2, 1939. He preceded her in death on August 11, 1970.

She was also preceded in death by one son, Woodston Jameson in 1943.

She is survived by a daughter, Carol Cahill of San Angelo; three sons, Ervin R. Jameson of Austin, Charles E. Jameson of Clarksville, Ark., and John S. Jameson of Big Spring; one sister, Mrs. Fern Tiner of Dallas; two brothers, John Eudale Cambell of Alvin, and Calvin Bradford Cambell of Groom; and six grandchildren. She is also survived by several aunts and uncles, including locally: an uncle, Harry Barker; and two aunts, Mrs. Elo Michaelis and Mrs. Charles Kruse, Jr.

Timber Tag 57 training course to begin Thursday, October 7

Timber Tag 57, named for the 57th Boy Scout Leader training course put on by the Chisholm Trail Council since the series started, will begin Thursday, October 7 at 7 p.m.

The course will be offered in Abilene, Sweetwater, Hamlin and Camp Tonkawa, and is a basic training course for all scouters planned and staffed by experienced men and women who are dedicated to the ideals of the Boy Scouts of America and who want to share their enthusiasm, skills and knowledge.

Scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, webelos leaders, committee members and scouting coordinators will find informative and pertinent presentations in each session.

Session I begins at 7 p.m., Thursday, October 7, at the Scout Service Center in Abilene. All students and trainers are asked to meet together for this session.

Session II begins at 7 p.m. Oct. 14 in Abilene at the Scout Service Center:

at Hamlin at Homestate Savings; and at Sweetwater at Southwest Savings.

Session III will be held Saturday, Oct. 16 from 10 a.m. through Sunday, Oct. 17 at noon at Camp Tonkawa.

Session IV will be held Thursday, Oct. 21 at 7 p.m. as in Session II

Session V will be held Thursday, Oct. 28 at 7 p.m. as in Session II.

Session VI will be held Thursday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m. as in Session II.

Session VII will be held from 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 6 till noon on Sunday, Nov. 7.

Graduation will be held at 11 a.m. and the cost will be $12.00, which includes food for the first weekend and supplies during the course.

A scout handbook, and a scoutmasters handbook (Norman Rockwell issues) are needed, and the Patrol Leaders Handbook, the Patrol and Troop Leadership Handbook, and the Troop Committee Guidebook would be handy.

Don't let your earnest money lie dormant during the signing and closing period of home-buying. Request that the money be put in an interest-bearing account until the sale is final, encourages Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist with Texas A&M University System.

If you are an "older adult", have you scheduled a visit with your dentist recently? Surveys indicate that only 30 percent of those 65 years of age or older visit their dentists on a regular basis, according to Judith L. Warren, a family life education specialist-aging with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Question: Does a black skin make one more susceptible to cancer?

ANSWERline: There have been sharp increases among black Americans of cancers of the lung, esophagus, larynx, oral cavity and bladder. But this is most likely because these cancers are strongly associated with cigarette smoking, or with cigarette smoking combined with alcohol intake. Other differences might be partly explained by dietary, occupational, genetic or other factors. These however are speculative and may take many years to determine scientifically. Most cancers occur because of something we do, eat, drink or smoke, and to some extent where we live. Of practical significance too, is the fact that fewer black Americans than whites have their cancers diagnosed and treated in the earliest and most curable stage. Moreover, regardless of stage at diagnosis the survival rate for blacks is lower than that for whites. This may well have more to do with health care delivery than with biology. A national study by the American Cancer Society showed that black Americans are less aware of cancer's warning signals than whites; are much less likely to get cancer information than whites; and lower income blacks are less apt to see a doctor when they experience cancer's symptoms. Thus, these are areas in which improvements in education, early detection, and treatment can have a swift and important impact.

Question: After a girl has reached her teens when should she be examined for uterine cancer?

ANSWERline: The American Cancer Society guidelines for cancer related checkups recommends that all asymptomatic women age 20 and over, and those under 20 who are sexually active, have a Pap test annually for two negative examinations, then at least every three years until the age of 65.

Question: If one has had several benign breast lumps, is one liable to develop cancer at some time?

ANSWERline: Women with breast lumps or thickenings, nipple discharge or other abnormalities are at higher risk for breast cancer. Such women should have an annual examination by a doctor, and should practice breast self-examination monthly. They should also consult the doctor concerning the need for a mammography examination.

Do you have further questions? Call your local unit of the American Cancer Society or call M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute's Cancer Information Service, 1-800-392-2040 toll-free in Texas, 792-3245 in the Houston area.

Q. Food allergies run in my family. Does that mean my baby will have reactions when I start her on solids?

A. Although some food allergies appear to be inherited, a reaction to food may actually be a food sensitivity, rather than an allergy. Food allergy is a specific reaction to a protein in food; food sensitivity can be a response to any of a number of components in a food.

Estimates of food sensitivity of all infants under the age of one year are as high as 7%. Reactions to food usually become very mild or disappear by the first birthday, and most sensitivities are outgrown by the time the child reaches school age.

There are several steps you can take to lessen your baby's reactions to food. First, avoid feeding those foods which are known to cause allergies in your family and most commonly cause sensitivity reactions in babies. These include cow milk, wheat, egg white, fish and unstrained citrus fruits (seeds crushed during juicing release a protein that can cause problems).

Second, introduce new foods carefully in your baby's diet. Infant rice cereal is a good choice for the first solid because most babies' digestive systems can tolerate it easily. Iron-fortified infant cereals are precooked and highly digestible to help avoid food sensitivities.

When your baby is ready for strained baby foods, start with a single-ingredient vegetable or fruit. Feed each new food for four or five days before adding another new food. That way, if one food seems to be a problem, it can be quickly identified and removed from the diet. Symptoms of food sensitivity include spitting up, gas, diarrhea, poor weight gain and difficulty with digestion.

Individual nutrients are essential, but all available in many different foods. Plan a varied diet that includes milk, cereal, vegetables, fruits, meat, and dairy products such as egg yolks and cottage cheese.

What's In It For You???

A Basic Fitness Program

These suggestions are prepared by the experts at Transamerica Occidental Life, one of North America's leading life insurance companies, in conjunction with the National Athletic Health Institute. Both organizations have a special interest in prolonging your life.

By warming up before you exercise, your muscles are allowed to relax and contract more smoothly.

Get off on the right foot. Before starting any new fitness regime remember to start slowly. Give your body time to build up and adapt to the new activity to minimize the chance of injury.

If you're just starting a new exercise program, the National Athletic Health Institute (NAHI) recommends that you include warm-up, pre-exercise stretching and a post-exercise period.

Warm-up increases the temperature of the body. It allows muscles to relax and contract more smoothly. It also increases the use of fat as a fuel and reduces the likelihood of cardiac irregularities. Methods of warm-up include calisthenic exercises, walking and jogging. The intensity of your warm-up will depend on your fitness level and should be practiced for five to ten minutes.

Stretching exercises which follow the warm-up will help to improve your flexibility. This will allow a smoother running motion, as well as prevent injuries.

A training program should be individualized to your needs. In general, exercises should be done three to five days per week for 20 to 30 minutes at 60 to 80 percent of your maximum aerobic capacity.

Before starting any exercise program, you should see a physician, particularly if you are over 35 years old and have not been exercising regularly. After exercising, if you have any concerns or pains that last for two days, contact your doctor.

UMN VALUES DAYS...

Blackwell

The home of Josie Hipp in Bronte was the setting for the first meeting of the new organizational year.

Mrs. Idella Carter presided and welcomed members and guests.

Officers for the 1982-83 year serving with Mrs. Carter are: Elaine Hood, vice president; Mrs. Laura Seale, secretary; Mrs. Vera Raney, treasurer; Miss Bertha Smith, librarian; Mrs. Vera Raney, choral director; Mrs. Rhoda McCarley, pianist; Mrs. Margaret Stout, reporter; and Mrs. Mary Louise Alderman, parliamentarian.

Roll call was "My goal for the club". Yearbooks were distributed to members.

The constitution was read by Mmes. Stout, Alderman and Gracie Spence.

Serving on the Scrapbook Committee for the year will be Mrs. Bobby Barrett, Mrs. Esther Smith and Mrs. Alderman.

Following a business session, a tasting tea was held, and members exchanged recipes.

Attending the meeting were 13 members and guests, Mrs. P.G. Dabney and Mrs. Keith Aycock of San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chew visited recently in Amarillo with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Belflower and children.

Mrs. Eula Nabors had as their visitors over the weekend her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nabors from Odessa.

Another visitor in the Nabors home was her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Reeves from Levelland, and they all attended the Blackwell Homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Shewmake had as their visitors last Sunday, their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Smallwood from Lake Sweetwater and the Shewmake's grandsons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watts and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Watts, all of San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Keating visited Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Willie Burwick and then the Keatings attended the Blackwell homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Crain had as their visitors over the weekend their daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Moore of Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Holloway and sons, Justin and Jason of San Angelo, Pat and Mindy Reynolds of Midland. Another grandson, Kacy Crain of San Angelo visited several days with his grandparents.

The Blackwell school had a very good and pretty parade Saturday afternoon. This was their first school parade and they plan a much bigger and better one for next year's homecoming. This was the biggest crowd Blackwell has ever had for their homecoming. They sold out all of their barbecue plates and all their desserts.

The United Methodist Women of the Blackwell United Methodist Church did not meet this week for their regular meeting due to illness to some of their members, but they will meet on Monday, Oct. 11.

The Women's Missionary Union of the Blackwell First Baptist Church met last Thursday as it was the fifth Thursday, and so the ladies decided to go see Mrs. Bama Sliger in the Roscoe Nursing Home. Ladies going were Mmes. E.K. Finley, Olin Corley, Charlie Strickland and Thelma Smith. They took

Mrs. Sliger out for hamburgers which she enjoyed very much. They also saw Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tucker and reported them to be doing real good.

Mrs. Ruby (Thompson) Scott of Grand Prairie and Mrs. Opal (Doodle Thompson) Turner from Santa Cruz, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brownlee of Medford, Oregon visited with Savannah Thompson and attended the Blackwell homecoming. Mrs. Brownlee was the former Vesta Sliger.

Mrs. Vesta (Sliger) Brownlee was named Homecoming Queen and this was fifty years since she graduated from Blackwell School and it was forty years since Opal (Thompson) Turner had graduated.

Mrs. Turner and Ruby (Thompson) Scott went on to Snyder on Sunday to see their uncle and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pate, other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fullwood of Roscoe and Mrs. Wilson (Helen) Fullwood of Sweetwater attended the Blackwell homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hargrave and children of Albuquerque, N.M. also visited with his mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Scott, other relatives and friends in Bronte last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chew had their children and grandchildren home for the homecoming. They were Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Chew and daughter, Debbie; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Chew and son, Jody; their daughter, Mrs. Melba Shoup with Eddie, Charles, Patrick, Melissa and Brenda Jane, all of Abilene; their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hargrave and children, David Calvert, Karla Deneese, Elizabeth Ann and Connie Rhea, of New Mexico; and Mr. and Mrs. George Chew of Blackwell. Another daughter and her family, Mrs. Bill (Juanita) Belflower were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Oden and Larry had as their visitors their children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Oden and daughters, Becky and Stacy of Pecos; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dan Oden and daughters, Sarah Joy and Melissa of Albany; and their daughter, Mrs. Ronnie (Kathy) Carlton with Ron and Cyndia of Norton; Mr. Oden's brothers, John Alton Oden from Paw-Paw, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Oden from Littlefield; his sisters, Mrs. Evelyn Reeves, of Levelland; Mrs. Rena Beam of Fort Worth; Mrs. Emmalou Barthee and her husband, Sonnie Barthee of Abilene, and Mr. Oden's nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nabors from Odessa.

John Alton Oden and Mrs. Joe (Everetta) Oden attended the luncheon held at the Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church as this was 50 years since they graduated from the Blackwell school.

Another one in the 50-year group was Mrs. Vesta Lee (Sliger) Brownlee. She was coming home queen and John Alton Oden was coming home king.

Mrs. Monroe (Udell) Patterson of Snyder also attended the homecoming.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

"A moral character is attached to autumnal scenes," as Chateaubriand once wrote. "The flowers fading like our hopes, the leaves falling like our years, the clouds fleeting like our illusions, the light diminishing like our intelligence, the sun growing colder like our affections, the rivers becoming frozen like our lives — all bear secret relations to our destinies."

From the rocking chair on the front porch last week, we watched rain clouds float over drought stricken West Texas, those lines came to mind. All the makings of a typical autumn is here. However, the "clouds fleeting like our illusions" and the "flowers fading like our hopes" all are promoted from lack of moisture rather than the bite of frost.

At any rate, when fall comes, it announces signals of a summer done for whatever reason. The county fairs, the barbecues, the homemade ice cream parties, the washer pitching, the swimming and other activities which start with Fourth of July and run high speed through Labor Day are behind us.

Like the leaves with their graceful surrender of life, "when they have finished their summer offering of service to God and man," wrote Tyron Edwards. "And one of the great lessons the fall of the leaf teaches is this: Do your work well and then be ready to depart when God shall call."

All reminds me that it's time to cut wood for the winter ahead and build up the pile just outside the den door where it can be brought to the fireplace with ease.

As the cotton and peanut farmers work into the night to bring in autumn harvest, we are reminded of the lessons passed down by our forefathers from other generations. They perhaps learned from the animals, the little red ants working all summer long carrying food to their dens, the squirrels playing in the trees chattering as they store nuts for winter.

The appearance of roadside pumpkin stands taking the place of watermelons and tomatoes are signs of the changing season. Once again we can purchase good Red Delicious apples. And the birds flying south, and deer hunters spending their Sunday afternoons putting out feed at the lease are other signs. If football teams were not on strike, the Sunday afternoon outings would otherwise be pushed back to Saturday!

The other night we sat through another exciting PTA meeting at the school house as plans were expressed for the annual Halloween carnival. Now, that one annual event, like changing the clock to Central Standard Time, is like the leaves turning colors... fall is here.

Even if autumn is arriving a month early because of a thirst for a drink, the melancholy surrender of the leaves — with their colors of red, yellow and gold — is forever spectacular. Early or late, it's a beautiful sight.

"Magnificent autumn! He comes not like a pilgrim, clad in russet weeds; not like a hermit, clad in gray; but like a warrior with the stain of blood on his brazen mail", my favorite quote from Longfellow. "His crimson scarf rent; his scarlet banner dripping with gore; his step like a flail on the threshing floor."

The autumn haze hangs over the hills by day, now. The morning air is fresh and invigorating. It's a time when we can meditate quietly from the porch rocker.

We review with pleasure the summer passed and the fading memories of events which will build yet another page in the family scrapbook. The traditions of a summer gone forever are happy times and we watch as our children grow to adults. But fall reminds us too that we are growing older and that is the sad part of the season. Like the leaves turning gold, we turn gray and are heading toward the Sabbath year.

Range burning program planned in Goldthwaite

Fire can be used effectively as a range management tool, and a special program is planned in Goldthwaite Oct. 28 to help Central Texas ranchers learn more about this technique.

The program, called a Prescribed Burning Symposium, will be at the Mills County Civic Center in Goldthwaite, and will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m., said Dr. Tommy Welch, range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"A lot of Central Texas ranchers have expressed an interest in learning more about the use of fire on rangeland, and that's the basis for this program," said Welch.

The symposium will key on the proper use and effects of fire in range management, the specialist said. Texas

A&M staff as well as other state and federal agency representatives will be on hand to discuss various aspects of range burning, including the impact on forage growth, brush control, wildlife and the environment.

A special session will deal with various types of assistance available to ranchers interested in using fire as a range management practice.

Ranchers interested in attending the Prescribed Burning Symposium are encouraged to pre-register by contacting Danny W. Long, County Extension Agent, Box 248, Goldthwaite, Tx. 76844, telephone 915/648-2650.

Welch said that this will be the fourth such program conducted by the Extension Service in the past few years. Others have been held at Carrizo Springs, Kingsville and Junction.

Runnels Co. 4-H scores high at fair

Runnels County 4-H members scored big at the West Texas Fair held in Abilene recently.

Beth Patton, senior 4-H member from Ballinger, showed the Champion Reserve Champion Southdown lamb. Kathy Hays showed a first place Crossbred and a second place Southdown. Connie Robinson had a second place Finewool and a third Cross lamb.

Others competing and winning included John Andrae who showed a third place Cross. Showing fat lambs were Deron Robinson, Kristy Hays, Sanford and Tabitha Bryan, Chris Edmondson, Brad Rogers, Paul Patton and Mindie Andrae.

Chris Edmondson also exhibited her Suffolk Breeding Sheep.

Young Farmers plan tenth anniversary

The Winters Young Farmers held their monthly meeting on Monday night in the Vocational Agriculture department.

Dr. Willis Goss presented the program on wheat varieties, fertilization, and seed treatment.

Plans were discussed for the National Institute to be held in December. Also, plans were made for the Winters Young Farmers Chapter's tenth anniversary of their charter.

Approximately 27 members were present.

Attention, all chronic illness and allergic patients: Always wear medical identification jewelry or carry a card to prevent being given harmful treatment in case you're unconscious or can't talk.

This advice from Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Salt buildup increasing in Texas farmland

Salt buildup in the soil due to saline seeps is becoming a growing problem on Texas farms and is affecting crop production.

"The problem has been with us for some time but continues to become worse," said Dr. Ed Colburn, regarding the gradual buildup of salt in farmland. "It's basically a result of certain farming practices and the natural movement of water through soil."

As water moves through the soil, it dissolves salts that are present and moves them down to a compacted layer, explained Colburn, an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The water then moves laterally to the lowest possible level, where it comes to the soil surface carrying all the concentrated salt that has been leached down.

"Farming practices that have made Texas agriculture successful are contributing to the salinity problem," said Colburn. "These include soil and water conservation practices such as terracing, contour farming and maximizing crop residues on the soil surface."

The agronomist noted that salt buildup was not a problem years ago when perennial vegetation covered much of the land and used moisture throughout the year. Thus salts did not have much opportunity to leach down and concentrate in the soil. Now, with land in field crops only 120 to 150 days or so out of the year and remaining bare the rest of the time, moisture is not used up so it leaches downward, carrying salts along. After 20 to 40 years of such cropping patterns, particularly on marginal land, saline seeps often develop.

Colburn said that the problem of saline seeps is evident over much of Texas, particularly in the Rolling Plains, North Central Prairies, Rio Grande Plains, Trans-Pecos, Coastal Bend and claypan areas. The problem also exists in all the plains states, especially in the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming.

"Saline seeps causing loss of crop production may range from just a few feet in diameter to several hundred acres," noted Colburn. "In smaller areas, subsurface drainage using an underground tile system would help solve the problem."

But for the most part, there is no easy answer, said the agronomist. While there has been much research on the effects of salinity on crops, little work has focused on saline seeps. It is not an easy problem for researchers and will likely call for an interdisciplinary approach.

Fashionable hemlines — find your best length

In today's fashion picture, there are no "right" or "correct" hem lengths. It is up to each woman to wear what looks best, says Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

How does one determine the best length? "A good way is to look at your current wardrobe. Try on your clothes. Check each outfit to see if it could be improved by raising or lowering the hemline. Often an inch can make all the difference — so be sure you find the right hem location," Saunders says.

Most women — especially those over 25 years old — look best in a skirt

Never slice bread when it's still hot from the oven. You'll get neat, even slices if you wait until the loaf is cool. The loaf will slice better on its side.

length just below the knee, she adds.

"If you are short, you may find an inch below the knee is best. If you are tall, two inches or more may be necessary. Another guide is the calf of the leg — a smart hem often hits just where the curve starts," Saunders suggests.

Be careful, however, not to fall into the "hemline rule" in dressing.

"Do not assume that every hemline has to be 'so many inches' below the knee, such as 'about an inch'. If that length looks good in an A-line skirt, a straight skirt may need a slightly longer hem to look best. A dirndl may need even more to keep you from looking too youthful," she says.

While some styles can be modified to suit your "hemline rule", remember that a prairie skirt will look out of proportion unless it is cut full and long — while a dark, heavy fabric in a straight skirt may well look matronly if cut too long, she cautions.

"Try every outfit on carefully. Each has its own personality and requires its own, best hemline to give you the look you want," Saunders says.

Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act requires fee collection

The Veterans Administration will begin collecting a funding fee of one-half percent of its guaranteed or direct home loans closed on or after Oct. 1.

The fee is a requirement of the recent Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act, said W.E. Welstead, VA Loan Guaranty Officer for the Waco Regional Office.

The fee is payable for both home and mobile-home loan guarantees, he said.

"The only exceptions are loans made to veterans receiving VA compensation for military service-connected disabilities, or who, but for receipt of retirement pay, would be entitled to receive compensation," he stressed, "and loans made to surviving spouses of veterans who died in service or from a service-connected disability."

Mr. Welstead said that the fee may be included in the loan and paid from loan proceeds without regard to provisions limiting the loan amount to the reasonable value of the property.

Beginning Oct. 1, local lenders must include a funding-fee remittance payable to the VA Administrator in their reports to the VA Regional Office Loan Guaranty Division. "Any veteran claiming to be exempt from the requirement of paying the new fee has the obligation of establishing that fact," Welstead said. "As an interim measure, that can be accomplished by the veteran calling the Waco Regional Office toll-free number listed in their telephone directory to request a statement reflecting one of the specific exemptions."

He added that if it is impossible to verify the veteran's status prior to the closing of the loan, the fee should be remitted to the VA by the lender. If the exemption is confirmed later, the fee will be refunded to the lender to be applied to the outstanding loan balance, or direct to the veteran if it was paid in cash.

Parents still most powerful influence on children's eating habits, says specialist

It is easy to blame television and other advertising for children's junk food diets, but a Baylor College of Medicine children's nutrition specialist says that just isn't the case. Cutberto Garza, M.D., assistant professor of pediatrics and physiology and associate scientific director of the Children's Nutrition Research Center, said parents are still the most powerful influence on the eating habits their children develop. Children learn by imitating others, Garza said, and they won't buy the "do as I say, not as I do" approach. If parents overeat or eat too much junk food, kids will adopt that lifestyle. "If both parents are overweight, the chances are very good — like 80 percent — that their children will be obese," Garza said. "If only one parent is obese, that risk is cut to 40 percent. And, if neither parent is overweight, there's only a seven percent chance their children will be obese." If both parents have weight control problems, Garza said, they need to adopt an active lifestyle and encourage physical activity by their children. Parents also need to know what their child eats and avoid using food as either a reward or punishment. There is no magic formula to help parents develop good eating habits in their children.

The best approach is common sense, following some old axioms and disregarding others. "We don't really eat to satisfy our need for iron or other nutrients," Garza said. "We eat to satisfy our need for energy or calories. Once that need is met, we aren't hungry. Kids need a much higher ratio of nutrients to calories consumed than adults. The problem then, is how to get them to eat foods that will provide the amounts of nutrients they need without providing too many calories." He said that perhaps the hardest thing for a parent to do is to enforce the "no-snacks-between-meals" rule. The child who snacks an hour or so before a meal probably won't be hungry at the dinner table. Yet, after a couple of hours pass, he will be. Then, there is a temptation to satisfy the child's need for energy with some convenience food, low in nutrients but high in calories. If a child has breakfast, for example, and nothing for the next four hours, at 11 or 12 o'clock the child will be hungry. It is often a matter of how hungry you are that takes care of mealtime problems. "It's amazing how good such things as meat and vegetables will taste if you are truly hungry," Garza said. The occasional snack is okay, provided the child has had a well-balanced meal earlier, he said. Many parents have false expectations about the amount of food a child wants or needs, Garza said. Parents need to avoid the clean-your-plate syndrome. Instead of making the child feel guilty about the "poor starving childreep in China" and forcing him to eat more than he wants, it is best to let the child become his own monitor for how much he needs to eat. "Children become extremely good at gauging how much they need to eat," Garza said. Parents also tend to underestimate a youngster's ability to understand the need to eat certain foods. No child wants to feel bad, Garza said. The key is explaining the need in terms the child can relate to his own life. "Maybe they would rather have some pie, but they're going to need beans because they have iron in it," Garza said. "Iron is needed to build blood and strong muscles. If a kid wants to be a better soccer player, he or she needs stronger muscles." Garza conceded that it is not always easy to set good examples and serve well-balanced meals, especially when both parents work. Parents who do make the effort, however, will usually find that youngsters who are exposed early to a variety of fresh foods served in interesting ways will naturally develop good eating habits.

Runnels among counties on disaster loan list

Governor Bill Clements announced last week that the Small Business Administration has declared 68 West Texas and Panhandle counties, including Runnels, Coleman, Coke, Nolan, and Taylor, disaster areas and eligible for emergency economic injury loans. The SBA loans will aid cotton gins, warehouses, implement dealers and other agribusinesses affected because heavy rain and hail damaged area crops last June.

These loans would have been automatic at the end of this crop year, when exact amount of crop losses are determined and Farmers Home Administration loans are made available. Governor Clements requested the SBA loans be made available now, because these small non-farm businesses need the financial aid immediately. The loans will carry an eight percent rate of interest.

Business people may apply for the SBA loans from now until June 23, 1983 at the following loca-

 Brown said that this was to lower the level in the old lake to allow the installation of a pump station in the old lake.

The city administrator said that the water being pumped over the old dam was being allowed to "flow through" the new lake, that about the same amount of water was being released from the new lake as was being pumped into it.

The city official said that after the old lake is pumped as low as possible the Parks and Wildlife Department is considering a fish kill, but that no definite plans have been made in that direction.

Reports from Washington

WATER: A MATTER OF LIFE OR DEATH

The declining availability of a clean and adequate water supply is clearly emerging as a crisis with the potential to rival the energy crisis of the past decade. Considering the time it took for this nation to recognize and begin to address the energy crisis, it is apparent that we must now turn with the same vigor to the issue of water.

We tend to take the blessings of a safe, affordable, and abundant supply for granted. Yet in approximately 75% of the world where clean water is lacking, an estimated 10 million can die in a year because of waterborne diseases.

There is no mystery to our developing water problems. The critical statistic is not how much water is used, but how much is returned to the system that can be used again. Additionally, in Texas, the demands placed on our state's water supply are compounded by Sunbelt growth. According to the Texas Department of Water Resources, Texans currently consume 5.9 trillion gallons a year and, if growth projections hold, we could be using almost 95% more by the year 2000.

We Texans have already had to contend with the possibility of water shortages due to our diverse geography and climatic conditions. Our annual rainfall rate diminishes, on the average, about one inch for each twenty miles traveled across the state from east to west. This means that while the annual rainfall on our eastern border averages about 56 inches, the far western edge receives only about eight inches.

Over the years, Texas responded to this insufficient distribution of water by constructing reservoirs — with 192 now supplementing our natural resources. A water source map of Texas shows 15 major river basins and eight coastal basins supplying surface water and seven major aquifers and 17 minor aquifers providing underground water.

Fortunately, some of Texas' largest aquifers are found in the areas with below average rainfall. Unfortunately, the slow replenishment of water into aquifers threatens their future usefulness. In greatest danger today is the enormous Ogallala Aquifer that supports life and agriculture for the Great Plains states, which stretches down into the High Plains of Texas, and stops not far north of Midland. The plight of the Ogallala has received national attention as well as careful study by those states directly affected, including our own state. This is only one example, however, of the problems to be addressed.

My special concern for a sufficient water supply goes back to the days of my childhood. I well remember the drouth of the Fifties, when the ground was totally bare, creeks and rivers dried up, and we would look to the north in hopes that the cloud bank rolling in would be full of rain, and not full of dust and dry wind. Because of the priority I personally attach to this subject, I recently testified before a water resources field hearing conducted by members of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. To repeat what I believe is a salient point:

"This nation now understands, and is addressing, our energy crisis. Knowing full well that some day our major reservoirs of conventional energy sources — oil and natural gas — will be depleted, we do have alternatives. These include coal, nuclear, solar, geothermal, wind, kinetic, synthetic, and others. In that sense, we are blessed. But foresight in handling our Nation's problem of a clean and adequate water supply is imperative — for the alternative to water is only water!"

We must respond at the local and state levels to the growing strain on our water supplies.

Without action, chronic water shortages, skyrocketing water prices, and a slowing of growth could lie ahead for all of us.

Top-ranked Eastland overcome Blizzards

Eastland came to town last Friday night and demonstrated why they are rated the Number 1 team in the state in Class AA. Their offense totaled up 482 yards, while their defense bottled up the Blizzard offense, holding the Winters team to only 148 total yards.

The Blizzards only score came after Ronnie Lujano intercepted a pass and ran it into the endzone; but a clipping penalty nullified the touchdown and brought the ball back to Eastland's 23-yard line. Several plays later the Blizzards scored on a 5-yard pass from Jeff Butts to Ronnie Lujano. The extra point was no good, and the Blizzards never could mount a scare after that scoring drive.

After five games, the Blizzards are now 0-4-1, but even with this record the team is still in control of their chance of getting into the playoffs. If the Blizzards will go 5-0 for the last half of the season, the chances are very good that they can be the second place team in the district. Finishing second is not going to be easy, but anything worth obtaining should not be easy.

This week the Blizzards will be traveling to Hawley to play a 7:30 p.m. district game. Hawley is a much improved team from last year, but they are having problems winning a game. If the Blizzards are to get in the playoffs, they are going to need their first victory of the season. See you in Hawley Friday night.
