Runnels County Commissioners hear questions about local-option petition

The Runnels County Commissioners Court tabled until Wednesday afternoon action on a petition calling for a local option election on the legal sale of alcoholic beverage in the southern half of Runnels County.

The petition was certified last week by the county clerk's office as having at least the minimum number of signatures of registered voters in Justice Precinct One, the area to be affected by the proposed election.

Commissioner Marvin Salling, who presided over the meeting due to the absence of Judge Michael Murchison, said he "kinda got the cart before the horse" after hearing a presentation from a Stephenville attorney who said he represented the Concerned Citizens for a Dry Precinct One before the commissioners got to an opportunity to see the certified petition and consider action about calling an election.

Gary Lewellen, who said he was a private attorney in Stephenville involved with a similar issue there said he had been asked by a group of "unnamed class of persons who oppose any affirmative action" by the commissioners court on the request for a local option election.

Lewellen handed each commissioner a document of legal appearance and told the court that, in his opinion, the petition did not meet the requirements of the law governing such an election. The attorney alleged the petition was "fatally defective" because each copy of the petition was not serially numbered, that his examination of the signatures, which had been compared with the voter roles by the county clerk, did not bear the signature of the actual signer, that incomplete or incorrect addresses were given, and that the application for the petition contained insufficient information in accordance with the requirements of the Alcoholic Beverage Code.

The attorney also stated in the document that the county clerk failed to keep a copy of each petition issued and a record of the applicants for that petition as required by law.

In closing his presentation to the commissioners Lewellen said that it was the duty of the commissioners to fully investigate the petition before causing the expenditure of funds necessary to hold such an election.

When asked by members of the news media who he represented, he declined to answer. When asked if he had checked the petition signers' addresses with the voter rolls and the signers' actual place of residence, the attorney changed the subject. He also appeared to side-step several questions asked by members of the group who had circulated the petition.

Following the presentation by the Stephenville attorney, the commissioners were presented the certified petition by County Clerk Linda Bruchmiller, who also had copies of the petition as required by law.

The county clerk certified that the petition did contain signatures of more than 35 percent of the number of voters who cast votes in the 1982 gubernatorial election.

The commissioners asked County Attorney Kendal Granzin to look into the allegations made by the group opposed to the election. The court then tabled action on setting the election until Wednesday afternoon.

Grazin told the commissioners that he received a copy of the alleged irregularities in the petition only about five minutes before it was presented to the commissioners court, but that petitioners appeared to have followed the spirit of the law. The county attorney said that he would look into each of the allegations made by the Concerned Citizens and report back to the commissioners Wednesday.

If the petition is found to be in compliance with the laws and properly certified, the commissioners are required to set an election date no less than 20, nor more than 30 days from the date of the meeting. That time frame would mean an

On the dry side

Stephenville attorney Gary Lewellen and an unnamed associate (both standing) appeared before the Runnels County Commissioners Court Tuesday to tell the commissioners that they felt that a petition calling for a local option election in Justice Precinct One did not follow the letter-of-law.

The attorney, who declined to identify his clients, said he represents the Concerned Citizens for a Dry Precinct One. The attorney told the commissioners that he was also involved in a similar issue in Stephenville, in Erath County.

Crime Stoppers seek logo — design contest underway

The Runnels County Crime Stoppers is seeking a logo to identify the program.

Ballinger Police Chief Paul Boggess, spokesman for the program, said that there is a specific logo that is available that is used in the statewide Crime Stoppers program and there are other logos that are being used in different areas. Boggess also said that the Runnels County Crime Stoppers board had suggested the contest to come up with a different type logo or design for the program.

Entries may be mailed to: Crime Stoppers, care of Chief Paul Boggess, Ballinger Police Department, 9th and Railroad, Ballinger, Texas 76821.

Boggess also said that Crime Stoppers is still in need of donations to fund operation of the program and to provide reward money for informants who provide information leading to the solution of a crime.

Contributions may be made to Crime Stoppers at any bank in Runnels County.

Boggess said, "You can help in the fight against crime. Crime Stoppers needs your help."

French visitor

Frederique Claudinot (center), of Chateauroux, France, is at home with the Jerry Davis family of Winters for the next 30 days.

Miss Claudinot is visiting the United States through the North Atlantic Cultural Exchange League. NACEL is a program designed to increase friendship between French and American families through this type exchange program.

Foreign student visits Winters family through NACEL program

Answering a classified ad from an area newspaper has turned into quite an experience for a Winters family. Jerry and Carolyn Davis are serving as host parents for a young lady from central France.

The visiting student is 13-year-old Frederique Claudinot of Chateauroux, France. She says that she attends secondary school and is in the equivalent of the eighth grade.

Frederique will visit with the Davis family for about 30 days, and according to Jerry Davis, will have an opportunity to see the expanse of West Texas from Winters to El Paso during the first half of her visit.

The visit is sponsored by NACEL, the North Atlantic Cultural Exchange League, and is designed to help strengthen ties between the United States and France. The hospitality of families is the backbone of the NACEL program and is a step toward international friendship.

Frederique has already visited in England twice and has studied English for five years. She speaks not only French and English, but Italian and German as well.

In her letter to the Davis family, she noted that her father is the manager of a factory that makes automobile parts and her mother is a housewife. She says that her favorites pastimes are watching television, reading, cooking, swimming, and her cat. The last paragraph of her letter says, "I'm looking forward to going to the U.S.A." and that she has "dreamed of discovering your country for a long time."

Davis says the young lady is one of 30 French students who are visiting our country this summer and that she will return home in early August.

Wait A Minute —

By Kerry Craig

Well, maybe we can relax a little. Not only have the weather guys found us on their radar screens and given our officials their secret phone numbers, they even stopped sending us any kind of questionable weather (except hot and dry).

More comforting information from the guys at the television stations is that the bunch of folks in Austin with the long name. You know, the ones that dispose of nuclear waste and are looking for a place to put it.

The latest I have heard — they still have not sent the information to us they promised — is they are now looking at some place northwest of Abilene. Reportedly, they have now ruled Sweetwater and Nolan County out as a possible site for their radio active rubbish.

Now, probably, many of us could make some serious suggestions about where these folks can put this nuclear waste — now I said serious suggestions.

Wait a minute...

Have you tried calling the information (directory assistance) operator on the phone lately? Well,

Poe's corner

(From the book, Indian Fighting On The Texas Frontier, by Captain John M. Elkins.)

My First Experience

During this time I was a student in the literary school at Weatherford. Learning of the Indian trouble at Jacksboro, the adventuresome spirit within me was aroused. I wanted to go — why I cannot say — whether it was for a thrill or to help those suffering at the hands of the savages. I do not know; perhaps both — being only a boy of fourteen years of age, you can imagine my reason. I saddled my horse and hastened to my father's house, some twelve miles distant. There I supplied myself with arms and other necessary equipment then returned to Weatherford where men were coming from all directions on their way to Jacksboro. I joined the crowd and we lost no time in making our way to assist the settlers who were being attacked at that small village.

Upon arriving at Jacksboro, my first duty was performed as Picket Guard, when Captain H.A. Hammer detailed Rick Derrit and me to patrol and watch from a certain point where he stationed us, out on the trail about two miles. When the Captain had looked carefully over the countryside and decided that he had stationed us at the proper place he said:

"Boys, you are not placed here for the purpose of fighting. Keep your horses well in hand and if you hear anything that sounds like the Indians approaching, seat yourselves in the saddle and satisfy yourself as to whether or not it is the enemy, and if you learn that it is, fire off your guns to give us the signal, then dash back to camp."

These words spoken by the Captain were very consoling to both Derrit and me because in that dark road we felt that we could not, nor did not even propose to

To keep a secret is like trying to smuggle daylight past a rooster.

The Therin Osbornes and the Marvin Gerharts hosted the Community game and supper Saturday night with a fair group attending.

Marvin and Scott Gerhart and Dale Duggan replaced lots of window panes in the Crews gym that the hailstorm broke out.

President Dale Duggan reminds everyone of the installment of the new officers at the August meeting. Sam Faubion is the new president, with Mrs. Sam Faubion as treasurer.

Hopewell WMU ladies held their mission meeting Monday with a salad luncheon at noon in the church fellowship hall. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Foreman visited the Weldon Foreman's in Snyder Sunday. While there, they also got to see another sister, Margie Montgomery who has been in Germany for 14 months.

Bob and Leota Booth of Ballinger came out and had birthday supper with the Doug Bryans on Thursday night. The Booths brought the birthday cake and punch. Doug had a second birthday dinner with Kenny and Kendra Nitsch family in Winters. Visitors with the Bryans this week were Dewitt, Frances, Lelon, Doris and Brent Bryan, and Vickie Blackerby.

We wish you many more of these nice birthday dinners and suppers.

stop the hundreds of Indians that were roaming the county somewhere near that night, looking for scalps of such fellows as we.

We were frightened. What two boys of our ages would not be? We held to the bridle reins with a certain grip as we sat on the ground in front of our ponies and listened to any sound that might reach our ears. Every gust of wind that swayed the tree branches so that they rattled leaves or made a noise similar to that of a band of Indians might make us detected by us. We crouched lower and listened eagerly only to learn that the wind blowing through the tree's branches had deceived us.

About eleven o'clock we heard a clattering noise which sounded like hoofs of horses moving over rocks. We knew this time that it wasn't the wind. We at once mounted our horses and safely seated ourselves in the saddle. I said to Rick:

"Let's shoot and ride."

"No, let us wait and be certain," he replied.

We waited about 15 minutes, then we could hear the noise no longer. I was trembling from fear. I have never wanted to see a town so much as I wanted to see a town so much as I wanted to see Jacksboro just then. Rick dismounted — apparently he was over his spell of fright while I was just at the worst stage of it all. I had heard the noise and it sounded like horses' hoofs beating over rocks. It it were, I knew there were Indians riding them. Now noise had ceased. If it were Indians they had espied us, and were perhaps crouched low, sneaking on to us.

I saw Rick holding out the bridle reins for me to take. I wondered what he meant by such action, then he said, "Hold my horse while I crawl down the road a short distance to see what all that racket was."

I said nothing, but imagine my thoughts while I sat there and watched my companion depart into the darkness. He was absent about 15 minutes — which seemed to me an hour — then suddenly he arose from his crawling position and walked to me, taking the bridle reins. "Just a couple of old bulls testin' their strength" he said, which greatly relieved me.

Then from the opposite direction we heard the pounding of horses' hoofs. This time we knew it was horseback riders. We did not know what to do as they were riding onto us from the opposite direction from which we expected to hear them. We crouched low for a moment; then we heard the signal of two of the frontiersmen who had come to relieve us. Glad we were to see them.

As we rode back to camp at Jacksboro we felt proud of ourselves even though we had done nothing of note other than to stand guard without anything of interest happening, except a bull fight, but in fact, we had rendered our first service and received our first rightful experience which would better qualify us for future use against the Indians.

The Women — Their Fears & Encouragement

In the town of Jacksboro there stood a very large stone building which was used as sleeping quarters for the women and children, while the men slept in some deserted building or spread a blanket down on the hard ground or the street. After our number had increased considerably, the women felt that they would be well protected sleeping in their own homes; so for the first night in many, the old stone building had no one sleeping in it.

On this very night after all had retired, a shot broke the silence; then the picket guards fired their guns and rushed into town. The women and children were alarmed and soon were running from every direction, like sheeted ghosts, to the old building for protection. Only to learn later that a thoughtless guard had shot at a cat and started all the commotion.

Though this was a comical incident it is a true example of the constant fear these women and children of the frontier lived through. At night, while the men were away following an Indian trail that led them for days, these brave women underwent many anxieties; their lives were in danger the entire time, which they full realized.

Our forces increased in numerical strength to four or five hundred men and we moved out to within six miles of the Indian reservation, leaving a strong guard in Jacksboro where the settlers from miles around had moved, making it a protection for their families during the disturbance.

Within one week after we had made camp near the reservation, our forces had increased to six hundred men who were willing to fight and give their lives if necessary, to free this country from the raids that had caused them such grief.

Then the patriotic women of Weatherford prepared a large, costly flag of silk which had the forcible words: "Necessity knows no law" inscribed across its fold; then they had Israel Mulkins to carry it the long distance unfurled and present it to us in camp. This thoughtful encouragement from the women of Weatherford so enthused and inspired the men in camp and the deep reverence with which they received the flag made them more anxious for the fray.

Happy Birthday to you, Mr. Bryan.

POKIN' FUN By Doc Blakely

Love is blind. Marriage is an institution. Therefore, marriage is an institution for the blind. Some might argue that it is an institution for the dumb. It probably wouldn't hurt if we all turned a bit deaf on occasions as well.

A man returning home unusually late was tiptoeing into his bedroom when his wife woke up. "Is that you, John?" she asked sleepily.

"Well," he answered, "it better be."

Then there were the two women who were talking about their husbands. Said one, "I'm more and more convinced that mine married me for my money."

Replied the other, "Then you have the satisfaction of knowing that he's not as stupid as he looks."

You often hear about the husband who is always good to his wife. One woman sighed, "That's my Fred. He never comes home."

The honeymoon is really over when he phones that he'll be late for dinner and she's already left a note that it's in the refrigerator.

You can always tell when you've become an old married couple. That's the day you finally clean out the garage because you lost the lawn mower.

Every couple dreams of owning a home. Quite often the first step is the purchase of a mobile home. The chief advantage of that is that you have a place to live while you're looking for a place to park.

In order to save for that permanent home, you start socking something away for a rainy day. Then something like inflation comes along and the sock shrinks.

One couple I know said they didn't want their standard of living to improve any more. They say they can't afford the standard they have now.

Other couples are forced to put all their money in precious metals... braces for the kids.

Couples nowadays skip meals and work two jobs so they can make enough to gout for supper. On an off night, the wife asked her husband, "How do you like the potato salad?"

He said, "Delicious. It tastes like you bought it yourself."

Yes, love is blind. Perhaps a lack of foresight is fortunate because if we all had our lives to live over again, we couldn't afford it.

The one thing young loves usually don't give much thought to when they marry is children. Of course, kids are great but you can get an overdose on most anything, and nothing makes a man or woman think more seriously of birth control than driving a school bus.

But that's another institution... for the study of nervous breakdowns.

FACTS & FIGURES

The average price in the United States for safe, clean drinking water is only $1.03 per thousand gallons, about ten gallons for a penny.

Water companies responding to a survey, reports the American Water Works Association, required only moderate increases in rates to handle necessary repairs, expansion and maintenance over the next ten years. Most said they could make do with no more than five to 20 percent rate hikes.

Compare the cost of water to other liquids: a gallon of cooking oil costs about $5.79. A gallon of milk, nearly $1.90. A gallon of beer, over $3.20. A gallon of whiskey costs nearly $30.00.

Off to camp

These eight Winters boys left Monday for a week at Camp Hoblitzelle near Waxahatchie courtesy of the local Salvation Army.

Local sponsors for the boys are Ted Meyer and L.C. Foster. The youths making the trip this year include Russel

Stewart, Michael Rodriguez, Lance Bellis, Billy Gernett, Eric Tindle, Michael Tindle, Timothy Torres, and George Torres Jr.

The camping trip is made available to youths by the Salvation Army, which supports the program.

Wingate students scored on '82-83 TABS tests

The Wingate third and fifth grade students scored at least minimal mastery on the 1982-83 TABS tests, according to Superintendent Carroll Daily, recently.

The third grade students showed mastery in seven of the ten math objectives. The three objectives not mastered were order of whole numbers, subtraction of whole numbers, and selecting units of measurement. They showed mastery in only three of the eight objectives in reading and only one of the five objectives in writing. In reading they showed mastery in following written directions, recognizing words through phonic analysis, and recognizing words by sight. In reading they only showed mastery in spelling.

The fifth grade students showed mastery in eleven of the twelve math objectives, the only objective not mastered being the solving of work problems, multiplication and division. In reading they mastered five of the eleven objectives. They scored lowest in identifying the main idea. In writing they showed mastery in five of the six objectives, not mastering sentence structure.

The school faculty will use the results of these tests in planning their 1983-84 course of studies.

We don't know exactly what causes some people to have heart problems while others escape them. But we have identified some factors that increase your chances of developing heart disease.

You are more likely to have high blood pressure if anyone in your family has it.

If your mother or father, sister or brother has high blood pressure, you are more likely to have high blood pressure.

If anyone in your family has high blood pressure or heart disease, be sure to tell your doctor.

Camp Tonkawa "invaded" by Cub Scouts and their leaders

Over 200 Cub Scouts and leaders have "invaded" Camp Tonkawa this past week with "War of the Worlds" as this year's theme. A similar group are there this week from over the 9½ counties of the Chisholm Trail Council. The popular Scout Camp, located south of Buffalo Gap, near the State Park, already had three weeks of exciting Boy Scout Camp in June. Jean Meers, a volunteer who serves as Director for this year's Day Camp, says that the theme this year is very appealing to the Cub Scouts, 8 to 10 years of age, and mixes some of the new, such as making space rockets, with the old, which includes hiking, swimming, archery, and nature study. The Webelos, 10 years old, include an overnight camp in their schedule.

The final evening of each week of camp is "Parents' Night" when the families come and have a picnic style meal with their boys. This is followed by an exciting campfire when the boys are recognized for their week at Camp Tonkawa.

On Friday night and Saturday, July 15-16, the "Order of the Arrow" takes over Camp Tonkawa. This service organization of honor campers will hold its "Ordeal" to induct new members who have been elected by their fellow Troop members. The Ordeal includes a night out alone under the stars, very little to eat, and a lot of hard work on the camp. Many of the traditions and methods of the early Indians are preserved by the Order of the Arrow.

The members also elect their officers for the new year at the Ordeal.

Although Camp Tonkawa is used year round, particularly on weekends, the Order of the Arrow Ordeal ends the six weeks of special summer camping for Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts.

Winner

Mrs. Joe Forman, who lives near Norton, was the lucky winner of a recent promotion by the Texas Farmers Union and the H & H Tire Store of Winters.

Mrs. Forman's name was picked in a drawing for a portable television-radio combination this past Saturday. Mrs. Forman said that this was the first time she has ever won anything.

The prize was presented to Mrs. Forman by Dwayne Lange (left), Vice-president of the Texas Farmers Union, and Richard Hamilton (right), owner of H & H Tire Store, the local Texas Farmers Union authorized dealer.

Watch for casebearers

Pecan growers are reminded to be watching for the emergence of the second generation casebearer that should be active starting July 10. The best spray dates will be July 10 through July 15.

Following this spraying, growers should consider the Water stage spray July 25-August 1, to control Stem End Blight or sticky shuck disease use a fungicide such as Benlate. This is a relatively new problem that has moved into our area and one that needs attention. The stem end blight or stick shuck, causes the pecan shuck to turn black and just stays in the tree.

When the nut is about half hard, generally around August 10, you should spray to control the shuck worm, aphid and stem end blight. It should contain a fungicide, plus Guthion.

The final spray is to be applied between Aug. 22 and Sept. 1 and is designed to control the pecan weevil. Malathion plus Sevin is the effective and recommended chemical for this spray.

The first cafeteria was opened in 1895 in Chicago on Adams Street between Clark and La Salle Streets by Ernest Kimball.

One of the first lamps was a wick dipped in grease. The holder was made of stone.

Extension agent gives garden checklist for July

Runnels County Extension Agent, Allen Turner, has listed several points on a garden checklist for the month of July. They include:

1. If pyracantha, sycamore and elm leaves are taking on a light tan appearance, look for lace bugs on the underside of the leaf. If control is needed, Diazinon or Malthion should do the job.

2. Spider mites can cause trouble on most any plant. Kelthane is still the best control once populations build up to the point the plant is endangered.

3. Check the mulch in flower beds and shrub borders. If wind, rain or decomposition has reduced it to less than two inches you had better apply additional material. It conserves moisture, prevents compaction, reduces weed growth, and makes those weeks that do grow much easier to pull.

4. After seeing so many excellent landscape plants killed or severely damaged last summer through the misuse of herbicides, Dr. Robert Berry, Extension Plant Pathologist at Lubbock recommends the Santa Claus method of Weed Control. It's Hoe! Hoe! Hoe!

5. Continue to apply black spot control to roses at least every week to ten days. Either Funginex or Benlate give excellent control.

6. Review the overall landscape and note any additions or changes needed that can be incorporated into the landscape this fall or winter. Keep it simple.

7. If mulch is not used in a flower bed or garden, the soil should be lightly cultivated to prevent compaction and excessive moisture loss by evaporation through the soil crust.

8. Don't forget to water large leafed plants like hydrangea, coleus, caladiums, and chrysanthemums. Even in shade the hot dry wind can soon deplete the soil of moisture where these plants are grown.

9. Still time to plant such summer annuals as periwinkle, salvia, zinnia, marigold and portulaca. Best results can be obtained from transplants if available. However, direct seeding is also successful if soil is kept damp until seed germinates.

10. Removal of spent flowers, trimming back excessive growth and applying fertilizer to an established annual bed can do wonders towards the rejuvenation of the bed.

11. If your spring flowering bulbs produced small flowers that were few in number it was probably due to overcrowding. Now that the foliage has died down, it would be a good time to dig them up, thin out and throw away diseased, damaged or small bulbs. Work in organic matter and a complete fertilizer high in phosphorous and replant the best bulbs.

12. If leaving on vacation, arrange with a reliable neighbor's son or daughter to pick up newspapers, mow the lawn and to water flower beds, vegetable gardens and lawn area. The yard won't look so vacant and will be less inviting to unwanted prowlers.

13. Have you checked your air conditioning unit. Refrigeration experts tell us the unit will be much more efficient if the condensing coils can be shaded from the afternoon sun. A small tree or a lath structure would be very helpful.

14. Iris can be thinned and replanted this month or in August.

15. Are you mowing

your lawn too low for hot weather? You may need to raise the mower slightly this month.

16. Chrysanthemums should receive their last pinch in mid- to late July.

17. Gladiolus corms can be dug, cured, and stored in a dry well-ventilated area as soon as the foliage has turned brown.

18. Evergreen euonymus turning white and scale or powdery mildew. Best control is to eradicate the euonymus and plant Yaupon, Pittosporum or Elaeagnus in its place.

19. When was the last time you sharpened the blades on your lawn mower? Have you changed oil or cleaned the air filter on your power garden tools? Regular maintenance pays dividends!

20. Check leaves of marigolds, tomato plants and many other plants for spider mites. If the leaves loose color, turn dry, with a fine webby appearance on leaves and stems, it is a good sign of spider mites. Check underside of leaf with hand lens as they are small. Kelthane used according to label directions gives good control.

21. Fall webworms are showing up on many trees including pecan, mulberry, ash, persimmon and others. These unsightly caterpillars eat leaves within the web area where they are protected from predators. Spraying with Sevin, or one of the biological controls as Dipel or Thuricide according to label instructions will give control but pressure must be great enough to penetrate the web.

22. Plant enthusiasts have developed many home methods of cleaning plant leaves. Probably the safest one to use is warm water to which has been added some mild liquid dish detergent and wipe the leaf surfaces using a soft cloth or sponge. Before using any new method or material, try it first on one or two inconspicuous leaves and allow about 12 to 18 hours before observing the results.

23. Repair any storm damage to trees and shrubs immediately. Remove any broken limbs or branches by making the cut flush with the branch or limb from which it originated or by cutting back to a side branch. Don't leave stubs.

24. During periods of low or no rainfall, water plants when they need it, not by the calendar. When you do water do a thorough job so water penetrates the soil six to eight inches then wait until soil becomes dry in the upper inch or so before watering again.

25. Excellent time to set out small mum plants either from cuttings you made in May and June or by using small garden mums available in your favorite nursery or garden center. Place 15 to 18 inches apart. Pinch tips of stems several times to keep compact and bushy.

26. The adult form of the white grub commonly called May or June Beetle emerges sometimes in June. It will be about 45 days from the date of the peak of the emergence before you need to check the lawn area for young grubs. If more than four grubs are found in a one foot square area, treat with granular Diazinon or Dursban used according to label directions.

27. Now that hot weather has arrived, many trees and shrubs will have some of the lower leaves in the interior of the plant crown that will turn yellow and drop. This is due to shading by the leaves in the outer canopy and should cause no concern unless it becomes excessive.

28. To make summer flowers you cut from your flower beds last longer, try these suggestions: Always cut blooms in late afternoon, after they have had a full day of sun. Place flowers in a deep container filled with lukewarm water. Place container in refrigerator until water is chilled. Then remove and keep in a cool place until ready to arrange flowers.

29. Bare spots in the lawn under the trees? Try working up the soil and planting English ivy, lirope, ajuga, vinca or other shade tolerant groundcovers.

30. Have your petunias suddenly died? Probably caused by one or more soil-borne fungal diseases called pythium and rhizoctonia. Good idea to rotate plant species from year to year.

Ponies place second in Lawn Tournney — Abilene team wins by one point

Winters Ponies took a win and a loss in tournament play in Lawn Sunday for second place by first defeating the Lawn Panthers, 8 to 2, then losing to Abilene, 3 to 2.

In the first game, the Ponies had one of their best defensive outings of the year as they kept the Lawn Panthers from scoring more than two runs.

In first inning place, the Panther's offense was held scoreless. Beginning the batting lineup for the Ponies was Ruben Esquivel, who singled to right, and was followed by David Esquivel's single to left field. First score of the game when Aldo Torres singled out but managed to bring in an RBI for the Winters team. David Esquivel came in for the final run of the inning on Ronnie Lujano's single to right.

The Panthers scored their first run during the second inning on an error made by the Ponies. Panther's infield then held the Winters team's offense from reaching first base.

In the third inning, Lawn scored their second and final run to tie the score at 2 each. Winters, however, scored three more runs when Aldo Torres singled to the right, bringing in his second RBI, following David Esquivel's standing double to center. Ronnie Lujano then hit a double. Johnny Lujano managed to reach first on a Panther's error and credited with an RBI to close out the inning 5 to 2.

The Panthers, in the fourth inning, were held to no runs. Ponie's team member, John Esquivel, brought in two RBIs when he singled to right and then managed to steal home for the final run of the game.

In play against Abilene, each team recorded only 4 errors each, but it was the Ponies errors that cost them the game as Abilene took advantage of one of them and scored two runs during second inning play, taking a 2-0 lead.

Ponies' David Esquivel hit his first homerun of the year in the sixth inning, following Little Joe's single on an Abilene error bringing the score to a tie.

In the seventh inning, Abilene put a runner on first on a Winters error and scored on the Ponies' final error of the game. Tough Abilene defense held Winters in their hopes of a comeback, holding the score 3 to 2.

Ponies recorded for both games a total of 10 runs, 12 hits, 7 errors to both of their opponents' 5 runs, 10 hits, 7 errors.

Second Baseman David Esquivel received an All-Tourney trophy for the Ponies and also led the team with three runs, (total for both games), while Ronnie Lujano, John Esquivel and Aldo Torres each sported two RBIs.

The Winters team are now 9-4 for the season. Last Sunday they placed third at the Eola Tournney. They lost to Menard 13-12, and taking the Eola Rookies, 11 to 5. Ronnie Lujano received All-Tournament.

IT'S RIDICULOUS!

A tax proposal that was offered to curb the inflationary trend in health benefits may actually contribute to such inflation. Experts at the American Dental Association say the tax increase favors those health services and benefit plans that have been among the most inflationary—hospital and major medical care.

The proposed tax would be on employer-provided health insurance benefits. It could force American workers to give up some health benefits, such as payments for preventive dentistry, in order to avoid higher taxes. Many people are asking their legislators where they stand on the proposal, H.R. 2574 in the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 and S. 640 in the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Three ships that sailed from Veracruz in 1554, bound for Havana to become part of Spain's annual treasure fleet from the New World, were caught up in a Gulf storm and wrecked off Padre Island.

Only 25 of the people on board lived to tell the story of the San Esteban, the Santa Maria de Yciar and the Espiritu Sancto.

Within weeks, Spain sent a salvage expedition which recovered about half of the ships' cargo of silver, wool, hides, cochineal dye and a small quantity of gold.

Through the centuries, the Gulf of Mexico has continued to give up bits of the remaining cargo, making a nearby stretch of beach popular for curiosity seekers.

In 1967, an Indiana salvage firm located the wreck of the Espiritu Sancto and took everything it could bring up back to Indiana.

When the State of Texas learned what had happened, a restraining order was sought to keep the firm from continuing its work on the other wrecks, and to recover what already had been taken.

The case moved to Federal Admiralty Court, which a year later placed the artifacts in the custody of the University of Texas for proper restoration and care until the case is decided by the Supreme Court.

Texas officials are skeptical about their chances of winning this case because of conflicts between antiquities laws and maritime law. Several recent court rulings have placed all shipwrecks under the salvage provisions of maritime law, which allows commercial salvage operations to freely search, and often destroy, abandoned property at sea.

Consequently, a valuable source for scientific research and cultural understanding is rapidly disappearing. In Florida, where most of the Spanish treasure ships were lost, whole fleets of sunken vessels have been plundered by commercial treasure hunters, leaving the remains exposed to the currents and creatures of the sea.

Congress wisely has protected our physical heritage by enacting various historic preservation laws. This protection should be extended to the historic shipwrecks off our nation's shores, which the Bureau of Land Management estimates to number at 4,000.

In Texas, our Antiquities Commission has identified 1,700 wrecks off our coast, 653 of which are designated as historic landmarks.

I have introduced legislation in the Senate to remove from the salvage provisions of maritime law those shipwrecks which are eligible for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places.

My bill is not intended to restrict access to these historic wrecks by scuba divers and other members of the public, nor to punish those who may find a stray coin or artifact on the ocean floor.

It is intended only to help the states and the federal government prohibit the looting and destruction of historic shipwrecks for the profit of a few individuals under the guise of salvage.

The first American newspapers appeared in Boston. One was the New England Courant, begun in 1721 by James Franklin, who employed his brother, Benjamin, in his shop.

CAPITOL UPDATE

by Jim Parker

Having discussed the teacher pay raise issue in last week's article, I would now like to mention some other areas which the Select Committee on Public Education may be studying along with possible problems which the Committee must eventually face.

Something the Committee will hear about and that we have all heard about these days is the decrease in the average achievement scores of students compared to those of 20 or 30 years ago. Does this mean the kids today are not as smart or learning as much today as "when I was in school?" Does it mean that the schools are not teaching as much?

Some people believe the tests given today are "outdated" and are simply not measuring learning in all areas of education, while others believe the schools have spent so much time on areas not considered "the basics" such as art, music, drama, field trips and just trying to make learning fun, that they have fallen behind in teaching the "3 R's". Some people believe fine arts, such as music, art, etc., social graces and such are of major importance for a good education, while others believe those areas are outside the function of the school system which should, they believe, teach more of the basics and require more work and higher standards for advancement from grade to grade. They believe teachers should demand learning, even going back to having students learn by rote if necessary.

We often hear that the European and Japanese high school students are far above U.S. students in overall education. They are required early to learn at least one foreign language and are years ahead in both math and the sciences. Assuming it may be true that their high schools are equivalent to our Jr. Colleges as some say, we must remember that in those countries only those students who have passed certain tests and met certain requirements even go to high school. Others, at around the 6th or 7th grade level, are diverted into technical or trade schools. We need to be aware that we are comparing their brighter students to the "average" students over here.

With regard to the education of teachers, I believe some of the Colleges turning out teachers are requiring a certain number of hours in "education course", some of which, in my opinion, are absolutely a joke. It would seem that time could be better spent in courses in the field the student plans to teach.

The Committee will hear testimony regarding these issues, as does the State Board of Education each year. They will also hear of all the Federal requirements such as head-start programs, busing to integrate, bi-lingual education and special education requirements, even for those under school age, which have been added to the school systems' responsibilities in our country.

Just where does the responsibility of the schools for education end or does it at all? What priorities, if any, should the school system have — reaching the most students, including handicapped, non-English speaking, etc., or quality education for the average and brighter student?

Should we have separate schools for "college bound" and vocational training or continue to mix the students except for a couple of classes per day? What do you think? Let me hear from you.

The oldest written national constitution still in use is the United States Constitution, written in Philadelphia during the summer of 1787.

Travel Safety Tips

Protecting Your Child

With the peak of the driving season here, you'll want your child to be going places with you in the car. To keep the ride pleasant and safe, here are some travel tips courtesy of Questor Juvenile Furniture Company, leaders in the juvenile furniture industry and developers of an educational child car safety program called "Safe Passage".

—Make a firm rule: every one rides buckled up or the car doesn't go.

—When driving alone with an infant, place the safety car seat (facing backwards) in the front with you. The baby will be happier, and you won't be distracted.

—If someone else is driving, ride in the back with your infant. The back seat is safer.

—Never tend to a crying baby while driving or take a baby out of its seat while the car is moving. Find a safe place to stop.

—Don't allow a child to have anything like a lollipop or popsicle. A bump or a swerve could jam the stick down the throat.

—Sharp or heavy objects should not be loose in the car. They can be deadly in a crash.

—If a toddler must ride in a car without a safety seat, use the lap belt worn low and as snug as possible. A lap belt is no substitute for a safety seat if the baby is too young to sit up alone.

For a free informative pamphlet on child car safety send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Safe Passage Program," Questor Juvenile Furniture Company, 1801 Commerce, Piqua, Ohio 45356.

Commissioners meeting routine, mostly

The Runnels County Commissioners Court approved the bond for a new deputy for the sheriff's department and granted two requests from General Telephone Company.

The new deputy sheriff is Barry Hilliard, who resides near Norton. Hilliard fills a vacancy created when Chief Deputy J.D. Wilson was appointed Commissioner for Precinct Two and resigned as deputy.

Hilliard's law enforcement background includes work as a deputy sheriff and as a police officer in the Midland-Odessa area.

The commissioners approved the requests from General Telephone Company of the Southwest to bury telephone cable along county road right of way in two locations. These requests are handled as a routine matter by the commissioners court.

In the afternoon session of the commissioner's meeting, the Fiscal Year Tax Audit and the Annual Report of the Tax Assessor-Collector were scheduled to be heard along with the appointment of election judges for the remainder of 1983.

Former Winters woman dies in California

Funeral services for Connie Lee Goen, 67, were held at 10 a.m., Wednesday, July 6, in Sunnyvale, California.

Born Nov. 18, 1915, in Alba, Tx., she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Price of Winters. She married Wayne Goen in Winters on Oct. 23, 1934.

She is survived locally by a sister, Mrs. Ilis Simpson of Winters.

movies

Ever wonder whether a motion picture, rated okay for children, nonetheless has scenes that make smoking look romantic or desirable? To find out, just call the theater manager before your child goes. Many movies are better than ever, and most theater managers are more than pleased to cooperate with parents who care about what their children are seeing.

People once believed that if their palms itched they would receive money.

Wait—

here's how it goes. You dial all those numbers (not a simple long twist on the crank) and a nice lady's voice says "May I help you, please?" Of course some of the time, you get some guy, but he uses the same cue cards.

Now here is where the most recent change shows up. After you give directory assistance the name of party you want, you hear a slight click. Then — will wonders ever cease — a computer gives you the number you want. Or it thinks you want.

After several weeks of this I got a surprise when calling information for a neighboring city, a REAL person gave me the number I wanted. Guess the computer was out on a break.

Telephone communications sure has come a long way since one long ring would get Central. Why they have even come up with phones in cars, phones you can carry in your pocket without wires, phones disguised as lamps or cartoon figures. There is no way of telling what is coming next. A higher phone bill maybe?

Now wait a minute...

Petition — election date for Justice Precinct One would have to be set somewhere between August 1 and August 11.

If it is found the petition does not meet the necessary requirements for some reason, it is anticipated the group supporting the petition would have to start the process again.

At issue is whether or not to allow the legal sale of all alcoholic beverage, for off-premises consumption, in Justice Precinct One. That precinct covers almost all of the southern half of Runnels County.

Crime Of The Month

Sometime during the night of July 9, 1982, three or more persons burglarized The Muller Automotive Parts Store located at 208 S. 8th St. in Ballinger, Tx. The persons tried to pry open the metal door on the South side of the building and failed. The persons then went to the rear of the building and entered through a wooden door that they forced open. The burglars took approximately $13,000.00 in cash and local checks. The burglars also took a gold Bulova brand accutron watch and a quantity of old coins dated 1854. The cash and checks were in three First National Bank of Ballinger bags that were green in color and one Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Ballinger bag that was brown in color. A wooden cash register that was taken in the burglary was later found on a dirt road off Highway 83, 6 miles north of Winters, Tx. All of the suspects involved in the burglary were wearing tennis shoes and were walking between the business and the 300 block of Sealy Ave. where their vehicle was parked.
