For the park

The Winters Young Homemakers recently accepted the challenge to raise one-half of the cost of purchasing the new playground equipment for the Winters City Park. A scale model of the equipment has been received by the Young Homemakers showing, in miniature, the equipment planned for the park.

Hot temperatures boost energy usage

The fact that hot weather and high utility bills go hand in hand is apparently being proven again by West Texans.

Electric energy usage in the West Texas Utilities Company system soared to a new record during the past weeks as temperatures throughout the territory hit the 100-degree mark.

A new record was set on Monday.

Wait A Minute — By Kerry Craig

What in the world is going on at the lake?

Now I was wondering about that last week at this time after a party resulted in someone's pickup being pushed into the drink and several persons who had planned to camp at the lake for the week end were forced to leave by a bunch of maleficisms.

A number of months ago, even before the lake was completed, someone just wanted to see if his four-wheel-drive vehicle would climb up the back-side of the dam.

Now these two incidents caused a considerable amount of conversation and resulted in some folks running afoul of the law. You would think that people would get the idea that such goings-on at the lake should not go on, but wait a minute...

In making routine news-gathering rounds this week, I learned that a couple of youngsters (no, I don't know how old) were riding their dirt bikes (motorcycles) on the dam.

City officials said that they knew who the culprits were and that their parents would be contacted.

Now all of this nonsense has got to stop somewhere. If it doesn't stop soon our lake will become like a nearby lake operated by an agency of the federal government. There you either have to register to enter, or pay a fee and register to enter the lake area. Sure it is quiet, but the idea of paying to enjoy something that we paid for through taxes seems to leave something to be desired.

It would seem a good idea for

Blizzards start two-a-days Monday

Winters High School Head Football Coach Danny Slaughter says that the Blizzards will begin preparing for the 1983 football season on Monday, August 8.

Slaughter said that the two-a-day sessions are set for 8:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. each day. The coach also said that shoes will be issued to the players from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Friday.

Patrols okayed at Winters Lake

The Winters City Council, meeting in its regular session, gave approval to a plan to patrol the park at the new Winters lake following several disturbances at the lake.

City Administrator Glenn Brown told the council that the police department could begin making routine trips to the lake on Friday and Saturday nights between 9:00 p.m. and 2:00 a.m. unless there is a considerable amount of activity in town. During those periods there are two police officers on duty.

The council gave approval to a temporary plan that would employ G & M Security Patrol to make at least five trips a week to the lake to check on activity there. Gene Shields of G & M Security said that his vehicles are equipped with radios that give him direct communications with both the police dispatcher and the patrol cars.

The city administrator said that the city would pay the security service $6.00 for each trip made to the lake. The temporary plan will be tried for two months before being reviewed to see if the number of trips to the lake should be increased or decreased.

In other action, the council conducted two public hearings, one concerning property annexations, and one concerning the application for community development funds. The council, after noting that there was no one present for the hearings, set the dates for the second and final required public meetings concerning both items.

On the annexation, the proposed Shaylynn Dale addition is being considered along with property owned by Randall Boles in that addition. Other property being considered for annexation includes the McDonald property on south Arlington Street and the Smith property on Bishop Street in the Reeves Addition.

The second and final public hearings will be conducted by the council August 15 on the sites of the properties to be annexed.

The second public hearing held Monday was to give local citizens the opportunity to provide input concerning the use of Community Development Block Grant Funds for 1983. City Administrator Glenn Brown said that area designated as a target area for the funds is in the northwest part of the city.

Although similar funds were applied for last year and were not received, the city administrator emphasized that there was not chance of receiving the funds if application were not made.

Three injured in Ballinger crash

Three persons were injured about mid-day Tuesday in a two-vehicle accident at 12th. and Sergeant Streets in Ballinger.

Investigating officer Steve Gray said that two of the injured were taken by ambulance to Ballinger Memorial Hospital with what appeared to be minor injuries while a third person was carried to the hospital by private vehicle.

The injured were identified as Steve Cochran, the driver of one of the pickups involved and Gay McDowell and Elizabeth Legg who were both passengers in the second pickup.

Gray said the second pickup, which was driven by Leslie Ellwood carried five passengers.

The Ballinger Police officer said that the accident was due to failure to yield the right of way.

AG inputs exempt from sales tax on supplies

Although Texas farmers and ranchers do not have to pay sales taxes on certain inputs or supplies used in agricultural production, they often do so anyway because of some misunderstandings.

Agricultural producers do not need an "exemption number," says Dr. Ashley Lovell. The only requirement is that they must file an exemption certificate with each firm or business from which purchases are made, notes Lovell, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

He suggests that producers have several Texas Sales Tax Exemption Certificates on hand and to file a copy with new suppliers. Questions and requests for exemption certificates can be directed to the Comptroller's office by calling 800-252-5555, toll free, or by writing the Comptroller of Public Accounts, Sales Tax Division, 111 East 17th St., Austin, Texas 78774.

Food production items were freed from state sales tax back in mid-1976, notes Lovell. A farmer or rancher is not automatically exempt from paying sales tax, but exemptions under current law include two categories: items specifically exempt regardless of use and those exempt when used exclusively on a farm or ranch.

Exempt items, regardless of use, include these:

- Feed for farm or ranch animals, including work animals.
- Fertilizer.
- Seeds and annual plants, the products of which are used for human consumption or are sold in the regular course of business.

Animals which produce products which are ordinarily food.

Horses, mules and work animals, including sheep dogs.

Items used exclusively for farming or ranching are exempt when the purchaser files an exemption certificate with the vendor. A farm or ranch is defined as land used entirely or partially in the production of crops, livestock or other agriculture products. Home gardens and timber operations are not considered as farming or ranching units.

Exempted farm and ranch items include the following:

- Chemicals used exclusively in agricultural production—fungicides, insecticides, herbicides and defoliants.
- Veterinarian products for farm and ranch animals.
- Machinery and equipment used in food, grass and feed purposes or in building or maintaining roads and water facilities.
- Expendable supplies, including hand tools, hardware repair parts, irrigation system components, lubricants, and repair parts for off-highway use, fencing and corral supplies, storage structures for petroleum and farm products, and special purpose agricultural production facilities.

Farmers and ranchers are turning more and more to computers, and these devices and their servicing and software are exempt when used of farms and ranches to aid in the production of food and fiber, notes Lovell. This included computer-operated feed mixing devices. However, computers used solely for farm record keeping purposes do not qualify for the exemption although computer programs are sales tax exempt irrespective of use.

General purpose buildings, including farm or ranch employee housing, barns, offices, garages, stores, and portable buildings do not qualify for the agriculture exemption, explains the economist. Structural components such as air conditioning or heating systems as well as materials for constructing general purpose buildings also fail to qualify.

Proof that the Internal Revenue Service has allowed an item as an investment credit may be considered as evidence that the item should be exempted from sales tax, adds Lovell.

For more specific information concerning sales tax exemption on farm and ranch items in Texas, he suggests a copy of the publication "Agricultural Exemptions" from the Comptroller of Public Accounts.

Block says West Texas drought not serious enough for assistance

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower last week accused U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block of "fiddling around while West Texas burns up in the worst drought in 30 years."

In a letter to Texas Governor Mark White, Block denied the state's request for emergency assistance for drought-stricken West Texas ranchers, explaining that the USDA would "keep a close watch on the situation and if the drought expands and becomes more serious we will again consider the need to implement some sort of disaster assistance."

"If a year and a half drought that everyone agrees is the worst since the great drought of the 1950s isn't serious enough for John Block, I hate to think how bad things will have to get before he feels the heat," Hightower said. "There's zero moisture in most of that area out there, with no grass for the cattle and sheep to feed on, and the stock tanks are drying up. Ranchers have been buying feed for months. That sounds pretty serious to me."

"Any why wait till the drought expands? It already covers an area bigger than the state of Pennsylvania."

Many ranchers area being forced to sell off sheep and cattle herds at substantial losses because of the drought, Hightower said, and it will take years for the ranchers to rebuild the herds.

"Block needs to get out of his air-conditioned office and come out to the real world, where people are suffering because of his inaction. These ranchers have spent a lifetime building herds that do well in the West Texas climate, but this drought is wiping them out. When they sell off their livestock because they can't afford to feed them, they're losing more than just a bunch of cows and sheep, and more than just money. They're losing what they've spent years building. If they have to start over, they'll have to start from scratch," Hightower said. "Block has it in his power to do something about this tragedy, but he doesn't think it's serious enough. I suspect he could tour Hell itself and not notice that it's a little hot and dry."

Exercise Tips

For many people, week-ends provide the only time available to work out and participate in sports. To help you enjoy the sunshine and some exercise, the American Bottled Water Association offers these suggestions:

Dress accordingly for the type of exercise and the weather. Wear light, loose fitting clothes to allow for maximum freedom of movement, blood circulation and comfort. Proper shoes are also important; sneakers and crepe-soled shoes are usually best.

A good way to "get in shape" is to begin your exercise program with less strenuous sports such as cycling, swimming, or softball. Be careful not to "over-do"; increase the amount of time you exercise gradually.

It's important to replenish body fluids lost through perspiration. To quench the thirst that builds during exertion, as well as help you cool off, have a container of bottled domestic water handy whenever you exercise.

To guard against heat-stroke cause by over-exposure to strong sun rays, wear a cap or other light head covering. It's also a good idea to take frequent rest breaks in the shade.

Lookin' for a home

This calf, weighing about 800 pounds, will find a home later this month when the Winters Volunteer Fire Department holds its annual barbecue.

Traditionally, the firemen give a calf away as the highlight of the annual feed. The calf is expected to weigh about 900 pounds when the August 20th date rolls around.

For information about the calf, contact any member of the Winters Volunteer Fire Department.

electricity being used at any given moment during the day. Highest peak so far this year was 982,000 kilowatts on Tuesday, July 26.

"We expect the demand to go higher, but we should have no problem supplying our customers' needs," said Don Welch of Abilene, WTU vice-president and director of customer services.

"But we do hope our customers realize that the more energy they use, the higher their bills will be," Welch added. "We urge them to use electric energy wisely and conserve when possible."

WTU's on-system generating capacity currently is 1,059,000 kilowatts. This means that with last year's peak demand the company had a reserve capacity of 6-percent, while the safe reserve is considered to be 15 to 20 percent.

To assure a reliable supply, WTU has contracts to purchase power when necessary from neighboring electric companies until the Oklaunion Power Station comes on line in late 1986. The station, now under construction near Vernon, will increase WTU's generating capacity by about one-third.

hearing residents will again be asked to present suggestions to the council for improvements in the targeted area that could be funded with federal money.

The city administrator asked the council for permission to advertise for bids for a 1981 sludge disposal system. The system was purchased with bond money for the Winters-Elm Creek Lake project to be used to clean the raw water storage tank located mid-way between the city and the lake.

The council was told that after the equipment was purchased it became apparent that water from the new lake does not contain as much sediment as anticipated. Brown said that basically the city has a piece of equipment that is not needed and that after consulting with Ken Choffal of the engineering firm who supervised the construction of the new water supply it was agreed the equipment would no longer be needed. The city administrator told the council that he felt the equipment should sell for about $10,000 to $12,000 since it is brand new.

The city administrator said that he would like to use the funds generated by the sale of the equipment to purchase a high pressure sewer cleaning machine which is needed by the Water and Sewer Department. The cost of that machine, he said, would be about $17,000 to $20,000.

The council gave its approval to both proposals, as submitted, by the administrator.

The auditing firm of Kinard & Davis, of Abilene, was employed to perform the 1982-83 fiscal year audit for the City of Winters. Brown told the council that he was very pleased with the performance of the firm last year and that the firm has been very helpful in the upgrading of some of the city's accounting procedures.

Brown also said that the cost of $5,700 per year charged by the firm was based on conducting the audit every year for three years and suggested that the council begin considering using the same firm for next year's audit as things continue to go well.

Before ending their meeting, the council met briefly with the city attorney in an executive session. That closed meeting concerned a possible settlement with a resident whose property was damaged by a major water leak several weeks ago.

The council again took no action on the item and will consider it in a later meeting.

For a smoother ride

Family Land Heritage registration deadline extended

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has announced that the deadline for registration for the 1983 Family Land Heritage Program has been extended to September 16.

"Already, nearly fifty agricultural properties have qualified for this year's program," said Hightower, "but we want to find all of the farms and ranches that should be honored by this program."

The Family Land Heritage Program was created by the Texas Department of Agriculture to honor families who own land which has been maintained in agricultural production for 100 years or more by the members of that family. Since 1974, when the program began, 1558 properties in Texas have qualified for the program.

The basic requirements of the Program are: continuous agricultural production on the farm/ranch for 100 years, land ownership within the family, complete operation or supervision of the farm/ranch production by family members who are Texas residents, and a size of at least 10 acres with a minimum of $50 income from farm or ranch products or if less than 10 acres, sales of at least $250 a year.

Honorees in the program receive certificates of recognition during a ceremony at the State Capitol in November, and histories of each property are included in the Texas Family Land Heritage Registry published by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Families who may be eligible for the program may obtain an application from their county judges, county Historical Commission chairperson, or by writing the Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. Once the completed forms have been certified by the county judge, they should then be mailed to the TDA Austin office for final consideration.

parents or guardians (wives and husbands included here) to impress on their wards (regardless of their age) that there are some types of behavior that just will not be tolerated at our lake.

Noticed that the city council took preliminary steps at their meeting this week to initiate regular patrols at the lake. Maybe this will help make the lake something we all can enjoy, rather than a select few who just cannot follow the rules.

Now before I go any further, there is something that perhaps I should clarify. A couple of paragraphs back something was mentioned about paying to enjoy something we already paid for with tax dollars. Plans call for the city to charge a user fee at the park at the lake. Sure, our tax money is paying for the lake along with the monthly water bills we pay. The catch is, we are doing this locally—our lake is not oppressively controlled by some government agency such as the Corps of Engineers, the pseudo-military agency that owns Hords Creek Lake a few miles east of the Coleman County line.

New Jersey School Captures Banana Split World Record

How much chocolate syrup does it take to top the world's largest banana split? When the Millburn, New Jersey, high school broke the Guinness Book of World Records in May, they used 1,120 quarts of Bosco chocolate flavored syrup.

The split was put together with the help of 2,900 students and volunteers who worked simultaneously to make a banana split that measured 8,500 feet — that's 1 1/2 miles.

The record-breaking split took 12,750 bananas, 8,000 pints of ice cream, 1,120 quarts of Bosco, 280 pounds of nuts, 120 cans of whipped cream, and 9,000 maraschino cherries. Proceeds from the sale of one-foot sections of the banana split went into a school scholarship fund.

For a traditional at-home banana split, start with one banana, split in half lengthwise, add three scoops of three different flavors of ice cream, then pour on Bosco chocolate flavored syrup to your liking, add a sprinkling of nuts, a dollop or more of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

Enjoy!

NEWS OF HEALTH

How much are you willing to pay to be assured that your drinking water is free of organic chemicals?

Rutgers University Graduate School of Management, Interfunctional Management Program, a graduate student consultancy course, Newark, N.J., recently completed a nationwide survey of consumers to determine responses to this question. Specifically, consumers were asked what they would pay to rid contaminants from their drinking water.

Survey results show that the average household (3.4 persons) would be willing to pay an additional monthly cost of $3.00 to remove chemicals from their drinking water. This translates into 88 cents per person per month.

It is worth noting that actual costs for treatment match very closely with the costs consumers are willing to pay. Data from Calgon Carbon Corporation, a major supplier of carbon systems for groundwater purification, shows costs are consistently less than a dollar per person per month. For example, treatment at Rockaway Borough, N.J. cost 74 cents per person per month; at Acton, Mass., the cost was 50 cents per person per month.
