Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

Well, all the hard work paid off. All the time spent in training a thorough-bred racing animal was rewarded Saturday with a clear-cut victory over those who answered the challenge.

The work and the anticipation of the race was enough to keep our highly trained entrant extremely nervous through the final seconds before the race started. Then, in only seconds, it was over.

With the finish line behind, our finely tuned critter seemed to relax. He knew that he had done a good job. Rather than continue to be frisky, our brave contestant seemed to relax in my arms as he was carried to the stall. Pampered like the priceless friend he is, he, no doubt settled back to discuss the events of the day with his neighbor, also of great fame.

Yeah, our armadillo won his race. He only faced one challenger, who came from the south.

The race was not without setbacks. There were excuses from Miles, a sad story from the Express, Lynn stayed on the radio, and after some last-minute substitutions the Ledger answered the post-call to run second in the race.

Got to hand it to the Chamber of Commerce. They really put it together this year to draw what appeared to be the best crowd ever.

Those added events really helped and we can now look forward to next year and an even grander Mayfest. Thanks.

At this writing, which seems to habitually happen about six hours after the deadline, we just heard about water problems in one of our suburbs.

Over in San Angelo steps are being taken to conserve that city's rapidly dwindling water supplies.

Our neighbors in Ballinger are also facing some serious problems due to the lack of water.

In our community, we are very fortunate. Our new lake was completed and filled just in time.

Now and again there are comments about how much that lake cost to build and what effect the project may have had on our taxes and water rates.

There will be even more discussion, some of it critical, if the city can proceed with plans to upgrade our present water treatment plant. That project will cost a bundle all by itself.

Members of our city council may be criticized for approving such an expensive project, if they do. If it were not for the foresight of these folks and those who preceded them, we might also be facing a water crisis.

Perhaps we have gotten accustomed to turning the handle and have water run out of the spigot, not unlike flipping the switch and having light or the gas jet for fuel for heat for cooking and keeping warm. For most of us, it has always been there. We know, generally, where it comes from. When it is not there when we call for it, we sometimes wonder how we can get along without it. Some question the knowledge of those who got the ball rolling and spent our tax and utility dollars to provide for our comfort in years to come.

Just a year ago, or so, there was much unrest in that neighboring community to the south about water rates. They have a new lake on the way but must have rain to fill it.

If that rain doesn't come their water situation will become critical. It is not good now, doesn't taste too good either.

It seems that our vision is greatly improved when we look back. It might make one wonder if those, in these other cities, who were critical of their water rates and taxes, might not be willing to trade places with those of us who, thanks to those whose efforts and foresight of our city, know that when we turn on the water faucet the water will run.

Now wait a minute...

Incumbents win Primary

Voters in Runnels County gave votes of confidence, in the Democratic Primary, to Sheriff Bill Baird and Commissioner, Precinct 2, Johnnie Wilson by electing them to serve the next two years in the positions to which they were appointed just over a year ago.

Baird, opposed in his first election bid by Grady Campbell, received a total of 1,720 votes. Campbell received 968 votes.

In a race that many expected to turn into a run-off, Johnnie Wilson won a clear-cut majority of the votes in the Precinct 2 Commissioner's race and defeated challengers Richard Hamilton and Walter Clendenen.

Wilson, to avoid a run-off, needed at least 50 percent, plus one, of the votes cast. The final, unofficial, figures showed Wilson with 393 votes to 130 for Hamilton and 76 for Clendenen.

In the race for the office of Tax Assessor Collector, incumbent ValRue McWilliams handily defeated challenger Foy Farmer by more than three-to-one. She tallied 2,063

Winters man receives prison term

A Winters man, Johnny Roy Lopez, was assessed a seven-year prison sentence Monday in San Angelo after he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary of a habitation.

Lopez, 17, had been charged with the burglary of a residence near Juan's 4-Winds Lounge on U.S. Highway 67, just inside Tom Green County.

Lopez' sentence of seven years in the Texas Department of Corrections was probated for seven years and he was fined $500.

Captain Pete Skeins of the Tom Green County Sheriff's Department said the burglary occurred in February of this year. He said that a money bag containing receipts from the lounge was taken in the burglary.

The captain said that his investigation was assisted by Runnels County deputy Joe David West and by Henry Garcia of the Department of Public Safety, who acted as an interpreter during the investigation and subsequent questioning.

Close call

Three Winters residents escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when their car was involved in an accident with an oil field truck at the intersection of F.M. 53 and F.M. 382 at Crews.

Daniel Flores Martinez, his wife, and small son were the occupants of the car. Mrs. Martinez was taken by ambulance to North Runnels Hospital for treatment of minor facial injuries.

votes to 594 for Farmer.

In the Precinct 2 Constable's race, incumbent Van Whittenburg outdistanced Mark Goetz 695 to 215.

Less than half the voters in Runnels County showed up at the polls to cast their ballots in the Saturday election. In the county, there are 6,645 registered voters. Of that number, only 2,744 voted.

Following the close of the polls, the Democrats held their precinct meetings to select their favorite in the race for the Democratic race for the presidential nomination. Gary Hart led with 39 while Walter Mondale was second with 29. Nine were uncommitted and two cast their lot to Jesse Jackson.

There were no county-wide races on the Republican ballot and President Ronald Reagan received 89 votes as that party's nominee while three votes were left uncommitted.

Athletic Banquet is Thursday night

The annual Athletic Banquet honoring the participants in Winters School sports is set for tonight, Thursday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Tickets are on sale for $3.55 at Main Drug and Springer Pharmacy, and will be sold at the door.

The cheerleaders and their sponsor, Mrs. Phil Harrison, plan a theme of "The Year of the Blazers." The past year has been outstanding for Winters in many ways; the varsity boys were Bi-District Champs in both football and basketball. The boys track team also won district, and the seventh grade boys won district in basketball. Thirteen students qualified for regional competition in athletics, and Melinda Kvapil went to the state track meet. Winters is justifiably proud of its young athletes and their coaches, all of whom will be introduced and honored at the banquet.

Free Immunization Clinic scheduled

Free Immunization Clinic will be held Tuesday, May 15 from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 142 West Dale Street.

Blood Pressure Screening Clinic will also be conducted the same day from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

WISD school board discusses new policies

By Patsy Roach
A lengthy and sometimes intense discussion of the curriculum changes ordered by the state, particularly in the area of reading, highlighted the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Winters Independent School District Monday night. Board members concluded that several of the changes mandated by the state will be hard to schedule, hard to teach, and possibly hard to finance; no immediate plans were implemented pending further discussion during the next two months.

According to L.C. Hounsel, elementary principal who outlined the new plan to the board, the primary changes in the elementary school involve the number of hours that certain subjects must be taught each week. Language arts, which includes reading, English, and spelling, will be taught from 90 to 120 minutes a day. Physical education will be taught every day, as it is now, with math being instructed for one hour a day. Some subjects, such as health and fine arts, will be taught on a weekly basis.

Those students who could benefit from intensive instruction in reading may leave their classroom

County jail near record

Officials in the Runnels County Sheriff's Department said Monday that a near-record number of prisoners were booked into the jail over the past week end.

Sheriff Bill Baird said that 20 prisoners were processed during the week end on charges ranging from DWI to forgery.

Eleven persons were jailed on charges of driving while intoxicated, two for possession of a controlled substance thought to be Marijuana, and four men were held as illegal aliens for Immigration and Naturalization Service officers.

Among the other prisoners held, there were charges of forgery, assault, and disorderly conduct.

Jail officials said that normally about 30 persons are booked into the jail during an average month and that the number jailed during the first week end in May is somewhat of a record.

Three leave for Huntsville

Three Runnels County residents were due to leave by bus Wednesday for Huntsville and the Texas Department of Corrections to begin serving prison terms set recently in district court.

Fernando Martinez will begin serving a three-year sentence after having his probation for DWI, subsequent offense revoked.

Richard Stark was sentenced to three years in prison after a guilty plea to a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Stark had been arrested and charged in connection with the theft of a pick up which had been taken from the Winters Motel and later recovered near Beaumont.

Leslie Elwood of Ballinger was assessed a five-year prison sentence in connection with a charge of aggravated sexual assault. The offense, according to officers, involved a juvenile female.

Runnels County Sheriff's officers said the trio were to be taken to Abilene where they would be placed aboard a Texas Department of Corrections bus for transportation to the state prison.

Salute to mothers

The week before Mother's Day, we salute all the mothers in our area for the never-ending work they do in guiding and shaping young lives, providing a good home life, and making life enjoyable for their families. Shown above is Mrs. Charlie (Laura) Brown with her two daughters.

Orientation set for freshmen, parents

A very important meeting for the incoming freshmen at Winters High School has been set for Tuesday, May 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The purpose of the meeting is to inform the students and their parents of the new requirements for graduation, new courses that must be taken, new electives, and various other changes that will affect them as they enter high school.

The changes are part of the Chapter 75 curriculum being installed in all the high schools in the state. Commonly known as House Bill 246, the plan requires more English and math study, changes physical education requirements, institutes new courses, and makes 21 or 22 units necessary for graduation.

Mrs. Lee Harrison, counselor, is urging parents to come with their students to the meeting, even if they have already had a child in high school, since much has been changed. (See related story on the school board meeting.)

Poe's corner

by Charlsie Poe

Onward Ever Onward

While putting down new floor covering in her farm home east of Winters, Henrietta Lewis found a copy of a 1940 Abilene Reporter News under the linoleum she removed from the kitchen. It was the October 6 issue and carried a news story about the progress in Winters written by the correspondent Ruth Little.

The report follows:
 Runnels County, and the Winters territory in particular, looks forward to the best conditions prevailing for several years, because of the fine crops throughout the county.

C.L. Green, owner and operator of the C.L. Green Mill and Elevator Company here, has just completed an addition to his warehouse, adding two concrete walls, and putting on roofing, to enlarge the warehouse to 100x70 feet, to take care of maize pummies. Green now employs an average of 20 men, and owns seven large grain trucks, which operate from El Paso to Fort Worth. He shipped 140 carloads of grain this year, by truck.

Winters now has seven gins, running virtually on a 24-hour schedule. Cotton is better than in five years, over the entire county, and ginners here look forward to a busier and longer ginning season than since that time.

Dave Hinds, who farms a large place, said, "I will average 1/3 bale to the acre of cotton, and I feel assured the county will average that as a whole. Picking is just now getting underway, and Mexicans are coming in sufficient numbers to gather the crop without loss, barring a long siege of wet weather."

Playgrounds

This year Winters equipped three playgrounds with WPA projects, and WPA supervision for the grounds. One of the projects is on the athletic fields of the school property, and affords year-round tennis, volley ball, baseball, and other sports.

Mrs. Allie Brooks who operates the Blizzard Igloo, a school store and eats shop on the school corner, has remodeled her place, decorating in blue and white, the school colors.

The school cafeteria now can take care of more student lunches than formerly. As a summer project, the

I wish to thank everyone for their support in my re-election in this primary election.

I will serve you to the best of my ability.

Thank you.

Church Street, Winters, Texas

Once known as Residence Street, Church Street has continued to develop and is now paved. The house to the extreme right was the Chapman place and is now the Gerlach home. It was recently bought by First Baptist Church for use as a Sunday School building.

WPA women canned enough fruit, vegetables and meats to feed the school's under-privileged children. The school has a progressive vocational agriculture class, with many of the members showing prize stock and products each year. Wallace Martin, VA instructor, will hold the annual project show this year.

Clarence Gambill of Gambill's Variety Store has just completed an addition to the place, enlarging to take care of expected fall trade. "I needed this space last year, but I am sure I will need it much more this fall," said Gambill.

Winters has one of the largest and most progressive Lions Club in the district. It has had a better than 100 percent gain in membership in a drive this year. The club now is working on a free mail delivery project for the town. It is co-sponsor of the playgrounds projects. The club members have been instrumental in securing many improvements for the town, including the new dial system telephones, which are now installed and are in operation. The system belongs to Southwestern States Telephone Co.

John Q. McAdams is the new president of the Lions Club.

Womens Clubs

Winters has three women's clubs and a writer's club. The Diversity Club, with Mrs. George Poe as president, will study world conditions for the coming season. As is its usual custom it will carry some charity projects as well as improvements projects. The club also encourages any deserving student in the local schools.

The Literary and Service Club, oldest club in Winters, with Mrs. John Carlisle as president, will make a study of cause and effect of world conditions and changes. The year's program will include Red Cross work and helpfulness to the community chest.

The Mothers Study Club, with Mrs. W.A. McDonald as president, will study the pre-school child this year. It will contribute to Christmas cheer funds.

The Winters Writers Club is purely a study club. Its program consists of the "how to do" the different phases of writing. Within the past four years four members have had work published. Mrs. McFarlane and Mrs. William Stevens in American Voices, anthology of contemporary verse; Mrs. G.T. Pounds in the Progressive Farmer and in newspaper columns. Mrs. George Poe had two poems in the Christmas Anthology last winter, was first place prize winner in the movie-script contest run by the state theater in the summer.

The largest development project Winters has had for the year is the clinic and suite of offices of Dr. Barron and Dr. Jensen.

Molly Smith is laboratory technician, and two office girls are employed. Dr. John Barron, formerly of Wingate has practiced here for more than 15 years and is now working in connection with the Winters Municipal Hospital as well as in the clinic.

Dr. Martin H. Jensen came here recently from Sweetwater, where he practiced several years. He specializes in x-ray work. He is also a medical and surgical doctor.

Mrs. Smith, a veteran laboratory technician, is prepared to make all laboratory tests that formerly had to be sent to other towns. Her office is completely equipped for x-ray, basal-metabolism work, and electro-cardiac work, as well as all other phases of medical-laboratory tests.

Mayor T.A. Smith said, "Prospects are better here than in several years. Fall business will be in full swing in another week or two. Our new dial system telephone will help trade facilities, and we have just received $1,000 from the county funds for the WPA sewing room here."

G.B. Mullins, manager of the West Texas Cotton warehouse, anticipated a good fall. "I already have more than 4,000 bales of new cotton in storage," he said, "and I expect to handle more than 10,000 bales this fall." About 11 months ago the company erected a $10,000 addition to the storage space, to take care of the increase in hold-overs, due to cotton loan business.

Winters has advanced in many ways since 1940, and continues to progress. Its people look to the future with hope and anticipation.

Parents of the couple are Mr. & Mrs. Billy Joe Colburn of Winters and Mr. & Mrs. David A. Kinneberg of Silver City, New Mexico.

The double ring ceremony, was performed by Reverend Glenn Shoemaker before arrangements of candlelight tapers, placed in brass candelabra entwined with greenery and tied with large pink and lavender bows. Baskets of ferns completed the garden setting. The aisles were lined with pink and lavender bows.

Music was provided by Mrs. Ben Colburn, organist, accompanied Reverend Robert and Judy Holloway who sang Sunrise, Sunset, the Wedding Song, and the Lord's Prayer. Trumpet Voluntary was played for the entrance of the bridesmaids. The traditional Wedding March announced the entrance of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight gown designed with a molded bodice of Aloncon lace, featuring a scooped neckline and cap sleeves. The gentle flowing skirt of organza over taffeta was joined to a deep border of Aloncon lace by a wide fold of satin and appliques of lace. Satin roses accented deep scallops on either side of the skirt, which fell to a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a wreath of satin and taffeta roses which were entwined with pearls. The gown was made by her mother. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers and baby's breath, centered by a single yellow rose bud, with streamers of English ivy and pink, lavender and candlelight ribbons, tied in love knots.

Cathy carried a wedding bible borrowed from Mrs. Lee Harrison, for something old she wore a Wedgewood brooch, and for something blue she wore a garter.

Matron of Honor was Mrs. Robert E. Colburn, sister-in-law of the bride, of Houston. Bridesmaids were Kelli Hoffman of Dallas and Julie Jones of Ft. Worth. The flower girl was Christen Colburn, niece of the bride, of Houston.

Northrup King Forage and Grazing Sorghums

TRUDAN 8
True sudan palatability means your cattle will eat up Trudan 8. Fast starting Trudan 8 keeps on producing through long, hot summers and gives you quality grazing, hay or green chop. It has low prussic acid potential. Its resistance to Biotype C greenbug makes Trudan 8 a dependable forage producer. Well adapted where sudangrass is normally grown.

SORDAN 79
Here's an excellent choice for your emergency forage crop. NK's Sordan 79 hybrid sorghum sudangrass has inbred hybrid vigor for fast growth. And heavy soils pose no problems for Sordan 79. It has greenbug (Biotype C) and downy mildew resistance, plus drought tolerance. The high quality of Sordan 79 makes it a top choice for grazing, hay or green chop. Well adapted where sorghum or sudangrass are normally grown.

MILLEX 24
Millex 24 is a Northrup King hybrid pearl millet annual summer forage specially developed for growing conditions in the deep South. It produces lush, leafy, tender forage that is extremely high in TDN. It can thrive on sandy soils in hot, dry or humid weather. Millex 24 is adapted to well-drained, sandy soils with a pH range of 5.8 to 6.5 and supplies quick, high tonnage and high quality forage for all classes of cattle. Surplus Millex 24 can make excellent silage or green chop. Under hot, dry weather conditions, forage tonnage from Millex 24 has exceeded 6 tons of dry forage per acre.

Mayfest brings crowds, sunshine

By Patsy Roach
Saturday dawned clear and warm as hundreds of people headed for the City Park to make ready for the third annual Mayfest. By 11:30 a.m., crowds had already descended on the area, ready to dunk head coach Dan Slaughter in some very cold water - Brady Cowan was the first to succeed, cheered on by a group of young friends - ready to eat German burritos, pickled eggs, chalupas, homemade ice cream and a mouth watering variety of other goodies ready to play games and win prizes - ready to enjoy a day in the sun under the clear Texas blue sky.

Pet Show
The pet show featured a number of categories, with the first three prize winners in order as follows:
Prettiest Pet: Monica Brown, Susan Minzen mayer, Kayla Priddy
Friendliest Pet: Melissa Hatler, Melissa Smith, Wendy Merrifield Biggest Pet: Cody Whitteford, Kyle Loudermilk.
Most Unusual Pet: Clint Johnson with a ferret, and Cody Whittenburg Shortest Pet: Doug Farmer, Mindy Wade, Julie Wheat
Smallest Pet: Jason Jordan, Leslie McDonald, Barbie and Aaron Bradley
Shortest Tail on a Pet: Jason Jordan, Melissa Smith, Tracey Grantham
Longest Tail on a Pet: Kyle Loudermilk, Kim Coleman
Longest Pet: Alisha Presley, Julie Wheat, Cody Whittenburg
Fuzziest Pet: Monica Harris, Tracey Grantham, Rhonda Bethel

Tennis Tournament
A total of 26 entrants made the Mayfest Tennis Tournament exciting, as players came from Miles

Tug of War
The Tug of War reportedly inflicted strained muscles to nearly everyone involved as the strong men of the community showed off their prowess in a mighty battle that resulted in Winters Flex Line pulling off first place, with Winters State Bank a close second. The contest was sponsored by, and trophies donated by, WinTex Feeders.

Armadillo Race
In the media race, John Eyraud, correspondent for the Ballinger Ledger, raced an armadillo in competition with Kerry Craig, managing editor of The Winters Enterprise. The other news media in the county declined to enter. Naturally, the Enterprise armadillo won easily.

In the competition for the traveling plaque, WinTex Cattle Feeders took first place. First runner up was Circle K Anchors, and second runner up was Security State Bank.

Other results will be given next week.

And the winner is... Kerry Craig, editor of The Winters Enterprise, holds the armadillo that won the Mayfest.

Shelly Ragland wins award

The National Secondary Education Council announced today that Shelly Ragland has been named an Academic All-American.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The Academic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Shelly Jo who attends Blackwell High, was nominated for this National Award by Allie Sehran. Shelly Jo will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally. "Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the Academic All-American Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the National Secondary Education Council.

The Council selects Academic All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the NSEC for other honors.

Shelly Jo is the daughter of Linda Witherspoon. The grandmother is Lillian Ragland of Blackwell, Texas.

Fourth Amendment decisions

On April 17, 1984, the United Supreme Court decided two important cases. In Oliver vs. United States, the Court ruled that the Fourth Amendment does not protect open fields from searches and seizures by state law enforcement officials, even where the property is fenced and posted with "No Trespassing" signs, and the officials lack both a search warrant and probable cause.

The Winters Church of Christ and the Shep Church of Christ hold a special place in our hearts. We will never forget your kindness. May God bless you.

Beef import levels unpredictable

U.S. beef producers will have to adopt a "wait and see" attitude about import levels for 1984 because of several unpredictable factors, notes a marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The question at issue is what effect expected increases in cow slaughter resulting from the new dairy program will have on the 1984 import trigger level. Each year the USDA establishes import if quarterly estimates of annual imports exceed a trigger level designated as 110 percent of the quota level. A trigger level of 1.228 billion pounds was announced last December 30 due to expected impacts of the new dairy program.

Congress has passed and President Reagan has signed H.R. 4169, providing for the Small Business Administration to continue farm disaster loans through September 1986.

Mattox to inquire into Charter Crude Oil bankruptcy

Attorney General Jim Mattox has announced the formation of a special team to inquire into circumstances surrounding the recent filing of bankruptcy by the Charter Company and its subsidiaries, including Charter Crude Oil Co., which does substantial business in Texas.

"One great concern is the impact of these bankruptcy proceedings upon many people throughout Texas, including small royalty owners, many of whom are retired and dependent upon monthly royalty checks for much-needed income," Mattox said. "These proceedings could affect hundreds of such Texans, not to mention the potentially devastating effects upon a number of banks in the state."

The Charter Co., based in Jacksonville Fla., and a number of its wholly owned subsidiaries including Charter Crude Oil Co., filed for bankruptcy April 20. Charter Crude has been a larger buyer of oil in East Texas, as well as other parts of the state.

With the bankruptcy filing, the company's assets are frozen, pending further proceedings in the federal bankruptcy court in Florida.

That so far has included many checks dated in March from Charter Crude to royalty owners and independent producers in Texas who have done business with the company. The unpaid checks did not clear the banks before the April 20 bankruptcy filing.

Chris Walker of the First National Bank in Luling did manage to cash a number of checks from Charter made out to his depositors. Upon hearing rumors that Charter was about to file bankruptcy, Walker flew to Los Angeles, Calif., where Charter banks, and cashed the checks.

Walker told Mattox's office that the Luling bank's customers, including both independent producers and royalty owners, normally deposit an estimated $850,000 to $1 million from Charter each month.

"Because of Charter's extensive dealings in the oil business in Texas," Mattox said, "these bankruptcy proceedings, at best, may create a temporary financial crisis for many small producers and royalty owners."

"At worst," Mattox said, "the banks, several of them in rural areas, could face serious financial setbacks if they are unable to cash Charter's checks in the near future."

Mattox noted that the Texas legislature passed a new law in 1983 which is meant to protect persons with financial interests in oil. That new law, HB-846 which is Section 9.319 of the Texas Business and Commerce Code, grants interest owners a statutory lien to secure obligations of the first purchaser of oil and gas production to pay the purchase price.

"I am hopeful that this new law, wisely approved by our legislators, will work to protect the interests of producers and royalty owners in Texas," Mattox said. "That certainly is an important part of our inquiry."

Members of the special team will include attorneys from Mattox's Energy, Taxation and Insurance, Banking and Securities divisions. Energy Division Chief Larry Laurent will head the team.

Selecting beef by grade

Beef labeled Prime, the top USDA grade, is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service food and nutrition specialist. While Prime is the best for roasting or broiling, it is likely to cost more than USDA choice which is the second grade. The key difference between the two grades is that choice has slightly less "marbling," or fewer flecks of fat within the lean that makes the meat tender and juicy. Some stores sell beef that would qualify for other USDA grades, such as Good, under a house brand name rather than under the USDA grade mark. This beef will likely cost less than Prime or Choice, and it may meet your needs well, particularly if you use slow, moist cooking to make it tender, notes the specialist.

Direct marketing considerations

Direct marketing by fruit and vegetable growers, in the form of roadside stands or "pick-your-own" operations, reduces packaging and labor costs and gives the grower personal contact with the buyer.

Ingredients of a successful direct marketing operation include location near a major highway, soda facilities, restrooms, a separate entrance and exit, adequate parking and a good advertising program. Growers should offer different varieties and sell only high quality produce. Staggering plantings provides for continuous supplies, says an economist in fruit and vegetable marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Grain exported to Russia

The USDA reports that during the first year of the U.S. Grain Export Agreement with Russia, beginning on October 1, 1983, 10,786.6 thousand metric tons have been committed, compared to 6,207.1 thousand metric tons under the 7th year of the old agreement, ending on October 1, 1983.

Clothing buying patterns

Knowing something about the textile industry timing can help you get more for your clothing dollar, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist.

Over a six month fashion season, consumers seem to fall into four categories: the "innovators" want to be the first and don't worry about the price; the "early majority" buy merchandise at regular prices when they need it; the "late majority" are price-conscious and like to keep their dollars for as long as possible; and the "laggards" are discount-oriented and do not buy until there is a break in price.

Sales are often used about the end of the third month to draw the late majority into the market. Retailers will also drop prices substantially during the last weeks of the season to attract discount-oriented buyers and clean out their inventories, she says.

Fewer milk cows

The number of milk cows in the United States during the first quarter of 1984 averaged 10,971,000, which is 0.98% below the 11,079,000 head reported for the first quarter of 1983. Accumulated milk production was down 0.325% from the same period last year.

Cotton ginner give '83 report

The report from ginner of cotton show there were 7,499,582 running bales of cotton ginned in the United States from the crop of 1983, as compared to 11,526,035 bales for 1982. Texas ginner reported 2,339,154 running bales in 1983, and 2,649,165 in 1982.

Winns Store has Grand Opening

The Winns Store located at 106 West Broadway, Winters, has completed a renovation that makes the spacious store look brand-new, and is celebrating their grand opening with numerous specials through Saturday of this week.

According to Tom Hartis, store manager for over a year, the renovation was effected in an effort to extend a new image to the customers of a clean store, well-merchandised, with a better merchandise presentation.

The store has been equipped with higher shelves and all new fixtures throughout. A new race-track design will promote better traffic flow, taller shelving, Hartis said, but the store will emphasize having enough stock of regular items on hand at all times to meet customer needs.

The Winters store is part of Winns, Inc., a San Antonio-based firm with local stores in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. Winns has been in operation in their present location here for over nine years.

Hartis, the local manager, has two earned degrees—a Bachelor of Science in social work and a Master's in education, from Pepperdine University in Los Angeles, California. He said he entered the hometown for the family.) Other employees of the store include Lavonda Herrington, floor manager; things well," a good motto for a store providing a needed service to a small town.

Hartis explained. A new upstairs office overlooks the entire store, and many new items have been placed in the various departments.

An increased selection is possible because of the store management field because he likes it and was accustomed to the business. (His father has managed a Winns store in Plainview for thirty years, and his brother heads one in Hobbs, New Mexico.

McNair 308 is a prime choice for Texas cotton producers in their area of adaption. It has good tolerance to Fusarium wilt, root knot nematodes, and has some tolerance to Verticillium wilt.

McNair 308 has yielded well in Texas competition with other storm proof varieties.

This stripper variety has excellent fiber qualities—lint per cent is 32 to 34; strength, 88,000 to 94,000 psi; and its micronaire range is 3.9 to 4.7.

Beware of insect dangers

Spring weather can mean danger for Texans who get bitten or stung by insects.

Insects cause a number of injuries to people each year when outdoor activities increase. The worst offenders are bees, wasps, and yellow-jackets. The greatest peril from insect-people encounters is allergic reactions, points out Dr. Phil Hamman, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. He notes that insect bites kill at least nine times more Americans than do snake bites.

He cites at least three levels of reactions the bites and stings can cause:

-Slight reactions, including itching, inflammation of the skin or anxiety.

-Moderate reactions, including swelling, abdominal pain or nausea.

-Severe reactions, including difficulty in breathing or swelling, hoarseness, or confusion. Most severe would probably be a shock reaction that causes a drop in blood pressure, collapse, or unconsciousness, says Hamman. Moderate and severe reactions from an insect bite or sting are enough cause to see a doctor. Capture the offending insect if possible to help the doctor in providing treatment.

To reduce contact with venomous insects, Hamman advises people not to walk around in the yard barefooted; to avoid wearing sweet smelling colognes or perfumes; to keep ripened fruits, watermelons, soft drink cans, or other sweet-smelling materials covered when outdoors; and to avoid mowing lawns or working in flower beds when bees or wasps are active. Insects are less active in the early morning hours.

If a stinging insect is near, remain still, says Hamman. Brush it off if it attacks, but don't slap it to prevent a sting. If attacked by a swarm of wasps, yellow-jackets, hornets or bees, leave the area immediately while protecting the face with hands and arms.

Among the variety of venoms produced by insects are these:

-Those producing blisters, caused by certain stinging caterpillars, centipedes, and blister beetles.

-Those attacking the central nervous system, produced by scorpions, black widow spiders, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets, and hornets.

-Those destroying skin tissue, produced by fire ants, wheel bugs, brown recluse spiders, mites, scorpions, chiggers, bees, wasps, yellow-jackets, and hornets.

Those preventing blood from clotting, caused by fleas, lice, mites, ticks, biting fleas, and true bugs.

The Love Life of Susanne Litchingson

By Landa England, Winters Junior High

Just a while back a few farmers found a female body while they were digging a barbecue pit. The farmers panicked at the sight of the body, thinking someone among them had killed her either accidentally or on purpose. The farmers reported their find to the police.

The police took the case right away. They put news reports on the radio and television hoping to find someone who knew something about the body.

A few days later a timid looking young girl walked into the station. She said, "My name is Margaret Sue Litchingson. I want to see the body to see if I can identify it."

The police took Margaret to the morgue where the body was being kept. After about an hour of going through complications, Margaret got in to see the body. Neither the officer or the mortician had seen such fear, terror, or sorrow in one person's eyes as had they seen in Margaret's eyes when they showed her the body. At first it was a look of shock that came over her. Then, a look of fear and terror. Finally a look of sorrow fell over Margaret's face and the tears started gushing

Texas historical markers discussed

The Texas Historical Commission has announced the publication of a new book, Shadows on the Land, an Anthology of Texas Historical Marker Stories, written by Myra Hargrave McIlvain.

The book is a compilation of more than 50 stories written from the research gathered for applications for Official Texas Historical Markers. The stories first appeared in newspapers across Texas, where they generated much interest in the state's historical marker program. Each story includes the location of the related historical marker. Fourteen illustrations are also included.

out. "Oh God, please!" was all Margaret could say through her sobs and tears.

When Margaret had settled down, the officer asked her if she could identify the body. Margaret said, "Yes. I can. She is my sister, Susanne Marie Litchingson. I know I should have come sooner, but I was afraid." Then she blurted out the whole story.

"It started when Susanne was fifteen and I was five," began Margaret. "Susanne used to come home every night for ten years walking on air. She dated one guy through all that time. His name was Larry Feilders. On the night that she turned twenty-five, Larry asked Susanne to marry him."

"She said she wasn't ready for marriage. This made Larry very angry. It gave him ideas like she was seeing some other guy when she really wasn't."

"Larry was very rich. He dropped my sister off at our house and then went home. He got drunk on all his beer, burgundy, and wine. He went into the kitchen and got his butcher knife, turned on his answering service, and left to kill my sister. When he left, he was so drunk, the fifteen minute drive took only ten minutes. When he got to our house, he wasted no time in killing my sister."

"He ran up to her with a smile on his lips, knife concealed behind his back, and gave my sister a deathly hug, stabbing her and hugging her simultaneously."

"After he killed her, he buried her in the back yard of our house, the house where the farmers live now. "When he got back home, he played back his answering service. The first and only call was from my sister saying she would marry him but the question just startled her at first. Shortly after that, he shot himself, the gun in one hand, my sister's picture in the other."

Termites will be swarming soon

Within a few weeks, probably following a spring shower, all of the many factors will be just right and homeowners across the state will suddenly begin to wonder where all those flying insects are coming from.

A great many homeowners will think they are flying ants which are clouding around the windows trying to get outside. They will simply spray them with a bomb from under the kitchen cabinet, won't see any others, and feel secure the problem is finished. Unfortunately most of them won't be correct. Rather than ants, the homeowners are observing the annual migration swarm of termites.

Sightings of termites swarming is a certain sign of infestation in a home. Unfortunately for the homeowner, not all of the termites come out during a swarm. The excess number of termites are all that leave the colony in an effort to establish another colony elsewhere.

The majority stay behind to continue their destruction of the wood and wood fiber portions of the home.

The two major types of termites in Texas are the subterranean and the drywood. Another significant species, the Formosan is also beginning to make strong inroads into the state in the Beaumont, Port Arthur, Galveston areas.

The footprints left on the Moon by Apollo astronauts are expected to remain visible for at least ten million years.

Disabled may appeal loss of benefits

Texans who've been told their disability benefits will be discontinued now have an additional opportunity to appeal the decision, according to Dale Place, deputy commissioner for the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

In Texas, the social security disability program is administered entirely with federal money and according to federal regulations by the Disability Determination Division (DDD) of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission. The division reviews about 175,000 claims each year for the Social Security Administration, resulting in about $1.2 billion paid annually to disabled Texans.

Under 1980 federal legislation, Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) beneficiaries not considered permanently disabled are reviewed every three years to see if benefits should be continued. Place said this legislation provided people with two chances to appeal a decision to cease their benefits. First they could ask to have their cases reconsidered. If that did not result in a reversal of the original decision, they could take their cases to an administrative law judge.

Now, 1983 legislation states that before appealing to a judge, people can request a face-to-face hearing to present evidence against the decision to end their benefit payments. People will be able to request hearings starting in January and hearings will begin in March.

"These face-to-face hearings should speed up the appeals process," Place said. "They also should reduce a backlog of cases facing administrative law judges. It's not uncommon for cases to be delayed six to nine months in the courts."

Gov. Mark White said he expects the hearings "to reduce the number of unnecessary delays and terminations of benefits which have been experienced by eligible recipients." Place also said that pilot projects on the hearings conducted in Texas show that in about one case out of five, hearing officers reversed the decision to end benefits.

To protect people from losing disability benefits while their cases are being appealed, Congress approved continuing payments during the hearing process. Place said this provision expired in December. But the Social Security Administration is allowing DDD to hold off ceasing SSDI benefits. Congress will be acting on proposed legislation which would permanently reinstate the provision to pay benefits during the appeal process, he said.

Another change in the social security legislation expands the list of impairments considered permanent, Place said. People classified as having permanent impairments—such as blindness or amputation of both legs—do not have their cases reviewed.

Adding to the list of permanent impairments has resulted in the exemption of 200,000 more people nationwide, he said, bringing the total exempted to one million, or 37 percent of those on the rolls. He said this will exempt about 12,000 more disabled Texans and will give the division more time to review remaining cases.

The Social Security Administration also has called a moratorium on reviewing mental impairment cases

Save yourself a trip

Disabled individuals frequently have problems with mobility. Visiting the Social Security Office can be a major ordeal for a person who must arrange special transportation. That's why Social Security in San Angelo urges people to call before visiting the office.

The San Angelo office began conducting business on an appointment basis for those applying for benefits. The system has been used in the Denver area and has resulted in improved service to the public, particularly decreased waiting times, and more accurate and efficient handling of Social Security business. If the caller can not complete his business at the time of his first call, an appointment, by phone or in person, may be arranged at the caller's convenience. The person calling will be advised what documents to have available for the interview, thus preventing subsequent contacts.

The appointment system is in addition to "Teleservice" for Tom Green County and surrounding area residents. "Teleservice" allows people to do most Social Security business by phone.

So, next time you need to contact Social Security, call first. You may save yourself a trip. In San Angelo, call 949-4608.

Legal aliens may get farm loans

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will now include aliens lawfully admitted into the United States for permanent residence as eligible applicants for FmHA Farmer Program loans. Programs affected by the change are: Farm Ownership insured and guaranteed; Soil and Water insured and guaranteed; Recreation Loan insured and guaranteed; Operating Loans insured and guaranteed; and Emergency Loans insured and guaranteed.

until acceptable standards for evaluating these cases have been adopted.

A bill authored by U.S. Rep. Jake Pickle, Democrat-Texas, calls for several other changes in social security disability legislation, including requiring proof that a person's medical condition has improved before benefits could be ceased, Place said. The bill also would provide, on a permanent basis, for benefits to be continued during appeal.

DDD staff have met with Congressman Pickle to discuss the bill, which Congress is expected to act on this spring. Gov. White also has been monitoring the progress of this legislation.

"I will be working with Congressman Pickle to see this program more justly serves our disabled citizens," White said.

May is Older Americans Month

Our nation is celebrating Older Americans Month during the month of May, a proclamation to that effect having been issued by the President, who said we can take heart from several significant and encouraging developments.

Americans are living longer than ever before. Record numbers of men and women are living full and productive lives well into their seventies, eighties and nineties. In fact, some 32,000 Americans have celebrated their hundredth birthdays.

Lengthened life spans are tributes to the achievements of modern science and medical progress and reflect the positive individual lifestyles that can help maintain and improve health. However, such progress is far from being universal. Too many older Americans still suffer from health problems that are attributed, mistakenly, to the process of aging. Far from being "normal" aspects of aging, many health problems can be prevented.

Regular medical examinations can prevent serious illnesses by discovering problems when they are small. Physical exercise is also good preventive health care. If done on a regular basis, exercise aids the body's ability to maintain, repair, and improve itself at any age.

Preventive health care also includes eating a proper diet, paying special attention to safety in the home, being careful with medicines, and avoiding extreme heat and cold.

As we acknowledge the theme for this year's Older Americans Month, "Health: Make It Last a Lifetime," we urge all Americans, regardless of age, to resolve to follow good health practices so that still greater numbers of us can enjoy our older years.

Since 1963, this nation has been recognizing the talents and contributions of its older citizens during Older Americans Month. The theme this year has special meaning for some 37 million older people who represent the fastest growing segment of our population.

A new initiative is underway in our Southwest region to improve health of the elderly. The HHS Regional Task Force on Health Care for the Elderly is a joint effort by our Public Health Service and Office of Human Development Services. This regional effort is being coordinated with a national initiative along similar lines. A February 8 meeting in Washington revealed the plan that is designed to focus on in Selecting a long-distance telephone service may not be the biggest consumer decision you have to make this year, but it could be the most confusing. More than 17 long-distance companies provide service in Texas and that number is growing, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Nancy Granovsky.

Evaluating long-distance services

Some Texas communities are served by several long-distance companies and others by their regular telephone carrier only. "Even where long-distance services are available, not everyone needs to subscribe," she says. "If your present long-distance bills don't exceed $5-10 each month, you probably will not benefit by a special service. "Consumers should weigh the pros and cons of alternate long-distance service and compare options to select the one that best meets their needs," advises Granovsky.

tegration of services for the elderly, primarily health promotion. HHS Secretary Margaret Heckler has asked the governors to support the initiative by designating a lead agency to coordinate efforts by state health departments and state agencies on aging. Nationally, $1 million is being made available from PHS Section 330 program funds for about 20 projects, each of which is expected to be funded at about $50,000.

The Southwest Region Task Force is composed of representatives from Public Health Service, Human Development Services Administration on Aging, Health Care Financing Administration, Office of the Regional Director, Housing and Urban Development, and the Southwest Gerontology Center at U.T. Health Science Center in Dallas. The Task Force is focusing on four major areas: use or misuse of prescription or over-the-counter drugs, nutrition, accident prevention, and physical fitness. You will be hearing more soon regarding this initiative.

Food grades help consumers

Knowing the differences among government food grades help you shop more economically for yourself and your family, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service Food and nutrition specialist, Dr. Dymple Cooksey. In establishing grades for foods like meat, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables, and dairy products, USDA considers the values that wholesale buyers and sellers place on products, she explains. Generally, the products with characteristics of the higher grades are more marketable and bring a better price.

USDA grades help establish quality levels of products, and this in turn, can help shoppers make choices. "Grade A products might be used in special meals or dishes when looks and texture are important," advises Cooksey. "But lower grade products, which cost less and are still of good quality will do just as well in most dishes," she suggests. Consumers should remember that all grades are equally wholesome and nutritious, says the specialist.

Crop insurance needed for peanuts

Because peanuts are a high-risk crop, with annual yields often fluctuating widely in dryland production, farmers need to consider some plan for risk reduction.

All-Risk Crop Insurance, available from a number of private insurance companies, can reduce the risk involved in peanut production. And a microcomputer program know as ARCIE (All-Risk Crop Insurance Evaluation) has been developed to provide farmers with quick and concrete decision-making information, says Dr. Ashley Lovell of Stephenville, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

However, farmers need to act soon since the deadline for applying for crop insurance is mid-April, in most cases.

"Before ARCIE was available, the evaluation of yield coverage and indemnity price elections was a difficult and time-consuming task," Lovell says. "ARCIE has reduced that burden."

Over the years, farm management economists and farmers have identified and tried many strategies for reducing price and yield risks, Lovell says. Among these have been diversification, contracting, maintaining flexibility in cost structures, dispersing the farm operation over a geographical area, and intensification of production inputs such as irrigation.

"Though the list of strategies is relatively easy to identify, the economic evaluation of each strategy is more involved," he says.

All-Risk, or Multiple Peril, Crop Insurance is now a viable alternative for managing yield risk in peanut production, contends Lovell.

The ARCIE computer program is designed to help the farmer decide whether he needs crop insurance, and if so, what level of coverage he should choose. Twenty options are available to peanut farmers under the insurance program.

For ARCIE to evaluate all the options of All-Risk Crop Insurance, specific data are required based on the peanut farmer's production budget for the crop as well as his cash flow and the market situation, explains the economist.

The interpretation of the computer output on cash flow with each option requires careful consideration and weighing of the tradeoffs between risk protection and cash flow, he warns.

The economist gives one example of how crop insurance might apply. "If the financial situation of the farm is weak enough that it could not stand some loss in cash flow, and if it is probable that yields will be low, a high level of insurance coverage is the only alternative to protect against a negative cash flow," says Lovell.

"However, if the farm is financially sound and yields will be high, a lower level of protection will limit the yield risk protection but will allow higher yields to produce higher cash flows," he adds.

Since each farm's production system is different, ARCIE can help producers evaluate their individual situation regarding crop insurance.

only during the reading period, not during another subject has been the practice in recent years, Hounsell said. Therin lies a problem, since most teachers prefer to teach reading early in the school day, which would necessitate huge classes for the Chapter I teachers.

Two other options are open to the administration for scheduling Chapter I groups: sending another teacher or aide to the classrooms during the reading period, to help the teacher, or taking all the students in a grade who need the help and placing them in the same class with the same teacher all day. The latter plan would probably require the hiring of a new teacher for each grade level in the elementary school.

Superintendent T.D.

Lancaster, attending his first board meeting since recent surgery, said that it did not matter which route the board decided to take on the matter. "Fifty per cent of the people will be unhappy with 50 per cent of our decisions," he said.

Lancaster also stated "We went to all the teachers for their opinions and all we got was a rebellion." he did not elaborate on the comment; but said that after the teachers were consulted, parents started calling the board members. The board said they will probably institute a hearing process from the community, as they did with the Citizens Advisory Committee several years ago.

High school principal Mike Grantham detailed changes in the upper grades, most of which will not have to be started until the 1985-86 school year. They include a mandatory computer awareness course which all junior high students must take, a full-year computer course for high school pupils, an economics course, and one and a half units of physical education rather than the present two. To get a waiver for P.E. in high school, a student must either take athletics or pass a physical fitness test. Waivers will be available for those who pass the test and want to take band or are involved in cheer leading or flag corps. Students who do not pass the test may still take band, etc., but they will also have to take P.E.

More units will be required for graduation for the incoming freshmen. Those students already in high school will graduate under the present requirement, 20 units, Grantham said.

In other action, the board accepted with regret the resignations of high school coach Kenny Young and new music teacher Julie Sandefer. Young, who has taught in Winters for three years, stated in a Monday afternoon interview that he "found a much better working situation in Ranger plus a $1500 raise." His responsibilities there will be similar to those here, where he has served as first varsity football assistant, head girls basketball coach, and golf coach. His boys golf team recently won the district championship. His resignation will be effective as of the end of the school year.

Miss Sandefer plans to move to Wichita Falls to be near her family and to pursue teaching opportunities there in the field of orchestra.

The entire vocational teaching staff, with Vicky Harrison as spokesperson, met with the trustees to discuss a consider a vocational awareness campaign to be started in the Enterprise, to encourage parents and students to write their Texas Congressman in support of the vocational programs which are in danger of losing all or most of their financing from the state, should the Select Committee's proposals be adopted. Randall Conner, board president, stated that the board is in favor of the project, since the school might lose students if the work programs were denied them.

A summer maintenance program was approved by the board, with financing to come from the $77,000 worth of interest earned this year on bank accounts. Planned projects include: construction of a new weight room, repair work on the cafeteria, equipping the Kraatz house for a Life-Skills Center, remodeling of the old bus barn to make it a storage building, replacing any worn boards in the football field bleachers, and general maintenance on all the buildings. A question put to board members Joe Bryan and Charles Alcorn provided one of many lighter moments during the long session: Conner asked them if they wanted to approve the summer maintenance, and Bryan said, "I don't wanta spend a dime on nothing, but I reckon we're gonna have to!" and Alcorn added, "I like to spend money — let's get after it!"

The entire vocational staff of the high school met with the board, with Vicky Harrison as spokesperson, to propose a vocational awareness campaign to be explained in the Enterprise. The vocational programs are in danger of losing all or most of their financial support should the Select Committee's proposals be adopted. The teachers and board hope that local citizens, particularly parents and students who have been helped by the vocational

Ms. Nelson, international authority on nutrition & physical fitness, will be speaking Monday, May 21, 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Free admission.

On hand will be Ms. S. Nelson, International Director for Pat Walker Figure Salons International, started with the company 19 years ago in a management capacity, opening salons throughout the United States.

Ms. Nelson introduces this unique program that is now in its 34th year. She previously was with the Yellow Page Directory Company for 12 years in sales supervision. After experiencing her own personal figure correction on the Pat Walker program, and by the constant exposure to the reports on President Kennedy's Physical Fitness programs Ms. Nelson entered into this industry choosing the Pat Walker Company due to its sophisticated program allowing the patron to keep her dignity in total privacy.

People have reporting responsibilities

People in the local area who receive Social Security checks have the important responsibility to report events to the Social Security spokesperson said recently. Failure to report could mean that a needed check might not arrive on time, or it could result in an overpayment a person can ill afford to repay, the representative said.

Things everyone needs to report are:

1. Change of mailing address, even if the work's checks are deposited directly into a checking or savings account.
2. Earnings of more than the annual limit—$6,960 for people 65 or over and $5,160 for people under 65.
3. If the person goes outside the U.S. for 30 days or more.
4. If the person works outside the U.S.
5. If the person is imprisoned after being convicted of a felony.
6. Receipt of Government pension.

In addition, disabled people must report:

1. Any improvement in condition.
2. Any work.
3. Receipt of or change in the amount of any public payment for disability, such as worker's compensation.

Things dependents or programs, will write to their Texas Congressman in support of vocational education. Conner expressed the opinion that some students will quit school if they are denied the work programs. He thanked the teachers for their work with the students and for coming to the meeting.

Reasonable assurance of employment was given to the substitute teachers, bus drivers, and cafeteria workers.

The board is planning to have a garage sale shortly after school is out, to sell a number of old pupil and teacher desks that are now in storage.

A local policy was amended to state that students do have to make up work missed due to an excused or unexcused absence.

Approval was given to the purchase of insurance from the Keystone Company.

Sales tax checks mailed to cities

State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks Friday totaling $98.5 million in local sales tax payments to the 988 cities that levy the one-percent city sales tax.

Winters' check was for $15,041.94. Last year Winters received $16,518.05 at this time. Ballinger received $64,153.23, up from last year's $60,317.11. Miles received $1,651.79, down from last year's $1,881.28.

Winters' checks are running 2.39 per cent ahead of last year's. Ballinger's are 6.48 per cent ahead, while Miles' are 19.19 per cent behind.

These checks represent sales made during March and the first quarter and reported to the Comptroller by April 20.

"These payments are running 12.5 per cent ahead of last year," Bullock said. "And for the first time this year, we can say that virtually all of this increase came from growth in tax collections and not from the changes in our book-keeping the Legislature made when they moved up due dates for the sales tax last year."

A number of area cities received less this year than last: San Angelo, Abilene, Tuscola, Santa Anna, and Robert Lee.

Showing increases this month were Buffalo Gap, Coleman, Bronte, Brownwood, and Early.

Most area cities continue to show economic improvement this year, as evidenced by the increases in sales tax payments. Cities with increases in year-to-date payments include: Brownwood, Abilene, Early, Coleman, Winters, Ballinger, Buffalo Gap, Tuscola, Robert Lee, and Bronte.

Showing declines are Santa Anna, Miles, and San Angelo.
