Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

I must say that I was surprised at the results of last week's election. Not surprised at who won, but by how much they won.

The vote of such a broad, vast section of this great country should capture the attention of a bunch of the big guys, both on Capitol Hill and in Austin.

Already there is talk of finding a different place for Tip to sit in the U.S. House. That is something that has been needed for quite a while.

Meanwhile, back in Austin, Mark has started making noise about how the Democrats need to examine themselves. I believe that he even absented himself from a big football game to meet with his political cohorts to make his voice heard. 'Course, I didn't think he liked football very much anyway.

Since Mark's name has come up, I guess you have heard by now that he is suggesting some changes in House Bill 72.

The governor said (get out your red pen Nancy) that there is now too much paperwork for the teachers to do. He has indicated that some changes need to be made.

If the governor is serious about making some changes, I could offer some suggestions, and they would start in his office.

Even though the elections are over for this year, I still have some thoughts for candidates that should not be re-elected.

Speaker Gib and Attorney General Jim should join the governor in searching for a different line of endeavor.

Now here is a thought, ly tongue in cheek. Do you suppose that the Republicans might really hate to lose Mr. Mondale, MS. Ferraro, Mark White, And others from the campaign trail? They may have been some of the best vote-getters for the Republican candidates.

Several weeks ago, I commented about our community and the one down south working together on some things. Well, I have been asked what ideas I might have by one chamber and the other chamber asked that I use this space to extend an invitation to the folks here to join in the Ballinger parade this Saturday.

The folks from down south indicated that they hoped some of those from up north would participate in the opening of the holiday season. Kind of like, we be in your parade, if you will be in ours.

Not a bad idea at all. That way both communities could have bigger and better parades and have an even bigger kick off for the holidays.

Now doing things together was not on the minds of the members of the Winters City Council last week when they rejected the concept of a centralized communications center.

The most valid objection voiced at that meeting concerning the plan involved the oft-times pathetic phone service between here and the rest of the world.

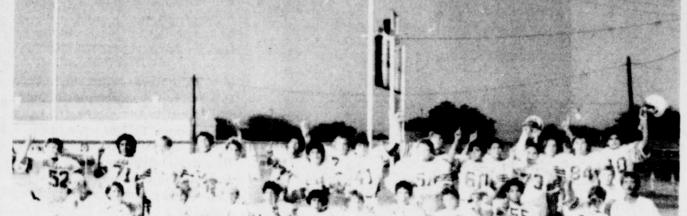

Too bad that one of the top guys from the phone company had to leave before the next item came up in the meeting Now the phone guy said things were going to get better. I hope so. If the string were to break, we couldn't talk next door. If the phone company can really produce on what they are planning, it would be great. Just imagine, being able to be like the big cities and only dial "1" before a long distance number. I hope they get things done quickly so we don't have to ask an operator how to get information. If the phone company's plans are fully implemented, and the system works like they say it will, it would lend itself greatly to a centralized communications

District Champs: 7th Graders

The Winters Seventh Grade football team They were coached by Tom Selby. posted a 7-0-1 record to take the district crown.

Winters loses to Albany, 21-12

The Winters Blizzards played well in the second half of their final ball game of the season, but ended up losing to Albany there, Albany scored in the first quarter on a 41 yard pass play and in the second quarter on a one yard run. They added a TD on a 15 yard run in the third period, their last score.

Winters' first TD came in the fourth quarter when Manie Esquivel threw a 70 yard pass to Steve DeLaCruz for the score. Also in that period, Kelly Hood scored on a four yard run.

Winters Coach Dan Slaughter cited as an outstanding defensive play an interception by John Peter DeLaCruz, which he returned 55 yards to set up the second Blizzard touchdown.

Slaughter also said, "Kelly Hood, Paul Trevino, Eddie Trevino, and Kevin Busher played good defense. Kelly had a good night running the football, with 14 carries for 52 yards."

Albany resorted to numerous passes, he commented, since the Blizzard defense shut down their running game.

Winters 7th graders win district title

football team shut out Albany here last Thursday night, 21-0, to clinch the district crown and keep their undefeated status intact.

The youths finished the year with a 7-0-1 record. Winters Coach Tom Selby commented, "Our entire 29 man squad was outstanding in my mind. Week after week they continued to improve in all facets of the game."

"For the year, the defense allowed an average of six points a game and had four shut-outs," he continued. "For our seven games this year, our team averaged over 24 points per

Three die in crash Saturday

Three people died and three others were injured in a head-on collission on U.S. 83, just south of Ovalo about 4:30 a.m. Saturday

Pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Billy Matthews of Lawn were Thelma Teran DeLeon, 28, of Abilene and her son Leonardo Daniel DeLeon, 4, and Orval Don Shipp. 44, of Potosi.

Injured in the crash were Carlos DeLeon, 6, Dan Shipp, 16, and C.L. Reed, 50, of Hawley.

The accident was discovered by Taylor County Deputy Sheriff Larry Miller, who drove up on the scene while on patrol. North Runnels Emergency Service paramedics, of Winters, responded to the accident along with the Abilene Emergency Medical Service, the Abilene Fire Department, and the Jim Volunteer Department.

Rescue workers, using the 'Jaws of Life" worked almost 30 minutes to free the drivers from the wreckage.

Texas Highway Patrol Trooper Mike Pueschel, of Tuscola, said that the vehicle driven by Mrs. DeLeon was northbound on the highway when the crash occurred and that the pickup driven by Shipp was southbound.

The trooper said that the vehicles collided in the southbound lane of the highway. He said that there were no skid marks made by the DeLeon vehicle and only a few feet of skid marks made by the Shipp

Pueschel said that driver fatigue was a definite possiblity as a cause of the accident, that Mrs. DeLeon was returning By now you are starting to from a trip to Mexico that began

The Winters Seventh Grade right side of the line. The pass from Jimmy Ripley to Dan Killough was good for the two extra points. The TD was set up by a 32 yard run by DeLaCruz and aided by a pass from Patton to Jiminez.

> - Eloy Rodriquez ran a counter-trap for a 52 yard touchdown. Richard Lett kicked the extra point.

- After Lett recovered a fumble, Lajinos Rangel ran in from the three yard line. The run for extra points failed.

Selby praised the work of his offensive linemen, Killough, Lett, Jacobs, Black, and Lujano, who did an excellent job blocking. Jeremy DeLaCruz ran the ball well and had some timely blocks which enabled the Breezes to score, the coach commented.

On defense, Danny Trevino had a good night, the coach said, making numerous tackles, blocking a punt, and recovering a fumble.

On behalf of the team, Selby (See 7th Grade page 14)

Phone system is upgraded in Rowena

General Telephone Company of the Southwest converted Rowena's telephone center to a new computerized system early Saturday, according to GTE manager E.O. Cambern.

The company had been testing the new equipment in Rowena for several months, and Cambern said that every precaution was taken before the new equipment was put into service.

One of the tests was to determine that the switch was compatible with all lines in Rowena. This involved calling every telephone customer in the community.

Cambern said the versatile equipment is especially designed for touch calling, direct distance calling and direct distance dialing. It features single digit long distance access codes of 1 + and 0 + as well as optional features like call waiting, call forewarding, and speed calling.

Telephone customers in Rowena began seeing several changes in their phone service immediately, including 1+ calling.

Thanksgiving Service slated

The annual Community Thanksgiving Service for Winters has been set for Tuesday, November 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Main Street Church of Christ.

Bill Hooten of the Main Street Church of Christ will bring the message. All churches in the community are invited and are participating.

New rates for WTU effective this month, or next

West Texas Utility Company's new rates will go into effect late this month, or in early December, but most customers will hardly notice the difference, according to a news release from the utility Tuesday.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas issued a final order Friday approving a settlement

Crude oil theft reported

Runnels County Sheriff's officers are investigating the theft of approximately 65 barrels of crude oil from a lease in eastern Runnels County.

Investigator Barry Hilliard said the crude was taken from the Bragg lease, about three miles southeast of Crews. He said the current value of the oil is about $25 per barrel and placed the total loss at about $1,625.

Hilliard said that within the past year there have been six or seven similar incidents, and that all of the thefts have occurred in generally the same area.

The deputy theorizes the crude thieves are using a bobtail truck with a capacity of about 75 barrels. He said that none of the thefts have exceeded that amount.

The most recent theft occurred sometime last Sunday.

Hilliard asked that anyone with information concerning the theft of crude oil please contact the Runnels County Sheriff's Department or call Crimestoppers.

agreement reached earlier by usage months. This means a WTU, the PUC staff, and several intervening cities. The compromise agreement includes a $12.4 million annual increase in base rates and a $13.3 millio decrease in fuel expense charges. The net effect is an apparent revenue cut, but it does not mean customers' bills will automatically go down, nor that WTU will lose money. In fact, for residential customers the annual effect will be an increase of about 4.36 percent. Their bills, and those of commercial customers, will decrease slightly in the winter (November through April) and increase in the summer peak modest profit for the utility.

As for the fuel cost recovery, fuel expenses, by law, are simply passed through to customers. The fuel cost factor, or rate, is set for a year at a time, but eventually is adjusted so that the company does not gain or lose money.

Under the new rates, a residential customer using 600 kilowatt-hours per month and who does not have electric heating will pay $47.42 in the winter, and $52.91 in the summer. Currently, that customer pays $47.50 and $48.63,

This Old House

Dorothy Long lives in one of the oldest houses in town at 300 W. Roberts Street. The aeroplane type bungalow is on the corner where the street intersects with Melwood.

Knowing that the house cannot withstand the erosion of time and the elements much longer, Dorothy is searching for the history of her home before it becomes a thing of the past.

A.L. Roberts bought an acre of land in 1907 which included the area where the house was built. Roberts for whom the street was named once served Winters as Mayor. He had already sold some of the land; but in 1911, he sold a strip of land 60 by 193 feet out of this acre to Dr. J.L. Allred.

Evidently, Dr. Allred had pur-cousin Bernice in the yard in 1914, the year he was seven years old and started to school. He recalls there was a swing in the back yard and once they wandered away to the old mill. Prior to that time, Jay, who came to Winters in 1895, lived in a house on the corner just west of the present post office. Later Herman Blake lived there.

Jay donated some of the land for the present high school and served as a trustee for some time before moving to Abilene in the 1920's.

The house was built much like many houses of that time. A long porch is on each side of the living room which faces south. Behind the living room is a bedroom, back of the porch on the east is another bedroom, and behind the porch on the west is a dining room and kitchen. The long porch at the rear of the house had been boxed in to provide a bathroom and space for a washer and dryer. The only other improvement was sheet rock on the dining room walls and a new roof added soon after World War II.

Don Atkins and his mother were the last tenants. They left here and went to Ballinger. Later, Don became Sheriff of Runnels County.

Bud Eoff was the last owner. He sold to Dorothy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richard Long in 1946 for $1,700. Dorothy was the youngest of the family, 18 years of age, and the only child at home of a family of eight children. William lived at home after he got out of the service. He died in a V.A. Hospital in

Other children of the family are Mrs. Hulan (Arle) Yeager, now deceased; R.A., John of Lamesa; Maggie of Ballinger; Harvey of New York; and Juanita Rhame of Abilene.

Dorothy said that her parents lived on the Bright's land at Content. She attended grade school at Crews and high school at Lawn. Her mother's sister, Edna Bowles, lived with the family most of the time. She took care of the babies and did the cooking while Mrs. Long worked in the field.

When the Longs moved to Winters, the house west of them by the railroad track was owned by Alvis Waldrop, and Robert Mayfield bought the house from him. Mr. Long sold the lot back of that house and later Dorothy sold the lot behind her to Scotty Danford, and he in turn sold to Carl Grenwelge. These lots were 60x110, and the house lot is 90x110.

Soon after the family moved to Winters, Mr. Long gave Dorothy a deed of trust to the house. Her aunt lived until 1950. Mr. Long suffered a sun stoke and died in 1958. Mrs. Long developed diabetes and went blind. After her mother's death in 1967, Dorothy went to work at the nursing home. She worked until 1983, when she received a medical discharge.

Dorothy knows that the time is drawing near for her move to more modern surroundings, but she has delayed until her brother from New York retires in April and comes to help her with arrangements.

According to experts that have been making paper towels for 70 years, the qualities a towel needs are strength, absorbency and pliability in the proper mix.

· The United States consumes over 430 pounds of paper and paperboard per person every year.

· Our nation produces about 51 million tons of paper and paperboard each year. Despite all the changes in lifestyle and technology over the past 70 years, a folded paper towel introduced in 1914 is still one of the best ways to dry hands.

• Today, Scott Paper Company still manufactures Scott Brand 150 C-Fold towels. They have a Perf Embossed finish which gives them a strength and absorbency that's been hard to improve upon in all these years.

Shopping for Footwear

About 87% of all Americans suffer from some form of foot trouble, according to United States Public Health Service estimates. By understanding the elements of quality footwear, consumers can guard against foot problems caused by poorly constructed or ill-fitting shoes.

Shoes are built over molded forms, resembling feet, called lasts. The upper material is pulled over the last to form the shape of a shoe. In nearly twothirds of shoes made today, the upper is cemented to the sole of the shoe. In men's and children's shoes, the upper is usually stitched to the sole.

Leather is valued as shoe material because it has "breathability" which permits moisture to evaporate. That's important because the feet have 250,000 sweat glands, which produce a half-pint of moisture a day.

About 35% of all shoe upper materials sold in the U.S. are man-made. For some uses, such as sandals, man-made materials may be a better buy or better choice than leather. Vinyls are extremely durable, but inflexible. The urethanes are more supple and softer than vinyl and look more like leather. The poromerics look the most like leather and have good breath ability.

You can check the manufacturer's label to determine what material has been used to make the upper. In sandals, man-made materials are often the most economical choice since breathability is not an issue.

In addition, check for these features of shoe quality:

- Lining. Leather linings are desirable in a closed shoe because of the need for moisture release. Other absorbant fabric linings, such as foam-backed tricot, are also effective. A lining is not always needed on a casual or open shoe.

-Soles. The three most common materials used in soles are leather, leather-like man-mades, and natural or synthetic rubber. Leather soles breathe, but wear out more quickly and absorb water in wet weather. Polyurethane soles are more durable than leather, but can be somewhat slippery. Synthetic rubber soles cushion the foot well, are long wearing, and do not get sticky in heat.

-Lifts. A lift is the bottom area of the heel that takes the most abuse and is likely to wear out more quickly than any other shoe part. Nylon and polyurethane lifts are generally sturdier and longer wearing than rubber.

- Back seam. The back seam is a vulnerable part of the shoe. Look for reinforcement with a collar or an added layer of material at stress points.

-Counter. The counter is a piece of molded stiffening material that strengthens the back area of constructed shoes. The higher the heel on a woman's shoe, the longer the counter should be.

- Counterpocket. The extra lining inside the back of the shoe should keep your heel from slipping. Suede is the preferred

-Shank. A steel, wood, or synthetic piece is inserted under the arch of a shoe for reinforcement. All constructed shoes, even flat ones, should have a shank. A squeaking or clicking sound while walking can indicate that the shank is loose.

- Laces and straps. lace holes should be reinforced, either with rust resistant brass or chip resistant painted eyelets. Some eyelets are reinforced on the inside of the shoe. Straps should have at least five holes for fit adjustment.

-Finishing. All top lines should be neatly finished and all stitching should be neat and even with no loose threads and no missed stitches.

When shopping for shoes, aim for the best quality you can afford within your price range and optimal fit. The better the fit, the longer your shoes will last.

Peanuts downmarket good

Texas peanut growers planted a larger crop this year. but yields will likely be down due to the season-long drought. Nationally, peanut acreage also is up 10 percent, indicating a strong contract market for additional peanuts (those produced in addition to the government's quota system), notes an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Texas A&M University System. Contracts had to be signed by last April 1 and most were for more than $400 per ton. More peanuts also were planted out side of the government allot ment program for export only. Both export and domestic food use of peanuts should increase in the year ahead.

Best Range Management Must Be Tailor-Made

By Robert L. Haney TAES Science Writer

Ranchers, working to recover from a drought and several years of other economic adversities, are looking for ways to improve their range management that will speed their economic recovery and perhaps avoid in the future some of the problems they've encountered in the past.

"Best" range management cannot be generalized, according to range scientists involved in this area of research for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, (TAES), because natural, economic, and human resources are so highly variable among ranching enterprises that no two are exactly alike.

However, there are a number of fundamentals that should be common to good range management on any ranch, according to Wayne T. Hamilton, researcher in range management for the Experiment Station.

"For example, consider the related goals of soil protection and water retention," suggests Hamilton.

"The soil depth present on ranges when we start operating a ranch could be the most we will have in a lifetime. Since the potential for production diminishes with soil loss, management must provide for soil stability to preserve an opportunity to produce at the highest level possible.

"The best way to accomplish soil protection is with the plants that occupy the range. Vegetation provides the retardance and 'opportunity time' needed for water to percolate from the surface into the root zone, to support future plant growth."

Regarding "vegetation goals." Hamilton points out that on most ranges there is a wide variation of possible plant composition, from near pristine or "climax" vegetation reflecting high successional stages, to the bottom end of range retrogression where woody plants and/or annual and weak perennial herbaceous plants dominate the vegetation.

One example Hamilton cites is of much rangeland, once dominated by desirable grasses and forbs, and now virtually covered by mesquite, prickly pear, broomweed, milkweed, etc.

What vegetation should be and what management should do to influence change depends on many factors including range site potential, current condition, technically feasible alternatives, economic feasibility, kinds of livestock, wildlife habitat requirements, and management objectives. These are some of the variables each landowner must define

While the natural limitations of climate and soils, and differences in management goals will cause the view of "best" range to vary, there are some factors that should be

For instance, the range management program should produce the quantity of forage needed to allow economical use within management objectives. It should also provide the stability to be a dependable forage supply in times of stress, as well as in normal years, according to Hamilton.

"A well-managed range should also provide the nutritional quality in the forage to meet animal needs for economical levels of production. In many areas, ranchers feel that these three requirements emphasize the need for a balance of grasses (quantity), shrubs (stability), and forbs (quality) where all three are present in the vegetation composition.

"Vegetation goals should be matched to the range site potential." Hamilton says. "and the specific plants that will grow on unique areas of the range. Identification of range sites also allows us access to site descriptions which provide information on soils, vegetation, and recommendations for initial stocking rates, based on current condition.

"Measuring range condition by range sites, or to put it another way, determining where your range stands in relation to its natural potential vegetation, provides a basis for estimating the degree of improvement you can achieve through management.

radditionally, this approach allows identification of the primary limitations to improved production, such as excessive woody plants. Site descriptions also contain helpful information on the relative value of the vegetation for different kinds of livestock and wildlife.

"On many range sites the same soil is capable of growing greatly different plants, depending on the influence of management, and secondary succession can be used to improve the relative percentage of those species that provide the best use of the range.

"Such replacement of lowvalue plants with ones of higher value requires being able to identify plants that are important occupants of range sites and managing grazing to insure that the desired species have an opportunity to compete successfully.

"It may also require brush management in order to obtain the opportunity to make possible such improvements through grazing management.

"Woody plants are also subject to management that influences their desirability and utility. In many instances

Memo from Kay

By Kay Colburn

The 1984 Arts & Crafts Show sponsored annually by the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce was held last Friday and Saturday in the Winters Community Center.

The show was a big success according to all who participated and a large number of Winters and Wingate people did participate. The directors of the Chamber want to let everyone who helped with the Arts & Crafts Show know how appreciative they are of the time and effort that went into making the show succeed.

Chamber Directors Betty John Byrns and Edna Ruth Self worked long and hard as co-chairmen of the show.

A special thanks oes to Sandy Griffin and Melainie Wade, who were in charge of the kitchen and who served delightful meals both Friday and Saturday. Debbye Minzenmayer and Jerry Groves and their helpers staged a great Stew Cook-off, which was once again supported by many good cooks in the area.

We congratulate the winners, Mrs. C.A. Dry, Mrs. Martin Middlebrook, and Mrs David Smith, and we thank all who brought stew.

A number of ladies made pies and cooked chickens and, without their help, these meals would not have been possible.

Dollie Airhart and Frances Dry were in charge of the registration booth and we thank all the ladies who helped there.
Also thanks to the FFA students who helped to get the community center ready for the Arts & Crafts Show.

Dry Manufacturing again provided a van for displaying student's art in front of the Community Center and it was appreciated.

Renee Calcote was the winner of the deer rifle given away by the Chamber and we extend our congratulations to her.

Come shop on the sidewalks of downtown Winters this Friday and Saturday, November 16 and 17. There will be lots of bargains.

And to all our friends who smoke—because we care—we want you to observe the Great American Smokeout Thursday, November 15, and every day thereafter.

The North Runnels Unit of the American Cancer Society will have a rummage sale on November 29 and 30 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Hodge building on West Dale.

The Chamber of Commerce will be sponsoring a day of fun and prizes along with the annual Christmas parade and the crowning of the 1985 Sno-Queen on Saturday, December 1.

In order to help make this day an appealing attraction for Winters we have asked that everyone pitch in and sweep, clean, and pull weeds in the downtown area. The backs of buildings and the alleys as well as the building fronts and woody plants become decadent, producing low amounts of new annual growth within reach of browsing animals.

"Brush management may also be used as a means to modify woody plant stature to increase accessibility and nutritive value to livestock and wildlife.

"Therefore, what grasses (and forbs) and, in the case of woody plants, which species and how accessible and valuable they are as a diet component are important considerations of good range management.

"Every landowner is conscious of many of these factors but most successful range management requires a consciousness of all of them, used in full awareness of the individual economic and climatic

"In other words, best range management plans must be tailor-made to fit the ranch and rancher," Hamilton con-

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Oldham of Brady visited their daughter Pat Lewis and her husband Don over the weekend. Mrs. Lewis's granddaughter Ryder Herring of San Angelo also visited with her the same weekend.

Blackwell is having real pretty, nice and warm weather, and people are mowing their yards, raking leaves and gathering their tomatoes before the cold and frosty weather gets here, which won't be very long now. Others are picking their greens, putting them in their freezers, and hoping their turnips make this year and they can save them, as they froze last winter and no one had any turnips.

Alpha Omega Upsilon

The Alpha Omega Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi of Blackwell held its second meeting of the month October 24 in the home of Betty Cole with Linbacteria during handling, so the pasteurization process which improves the quality of fresh milk cannot prevent the development of these off flavors, says the specialist.

But microwave heating of pasteurized milk when it is eight to eleven days old reduces the contaminating bacteria and the off taste as well, says Cooksey.

According to the specialist, one advantage of microwave heating is that it uses fairly low temperatures, so the milk is not left with a "boiled" taste. Most importantly, microwave heating does not destroy any of the important nutrients in milk, she emphasizes.

The microwave treatment is

We had the delicate task of convincing people that their tulips would survive our digging and cable-planting unscathed. #### Ballinger sponsors Big Buck Contest

A Big Buck Contest is being sponsored by the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce for the 1984 deer hunting season.

Registration has already begun for the contest. Entry fee is $5 before November 17 and $10 afterwards. Registration and judging will be at Ballinger Tire and Service, Caldwell Truck and Tractor, Gallaway's Grocery, Kit's Body Shop, and Faubion Implement.

In addition, persons wishing to enter may contact the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce at 365-2333, John McAlister at 365-2971, Cliff Faubion at 365-5424, Curtis Weant at 365-2044, Stan Bickel at 365-8301, or Jim Bickel at 365-2495.

A Model 77 Ruger deer rifle will be first prize in the contest. Second prize will be a Schrade Bear Paw knife, and third prize will be a gun case.

The buck must have six points minimum, and tags must be presented and recorded. The deer must be killed in Runnels or adjoining counties.

Deer will be judged on a point system, with points being given for points on the deer's rack, inches on the widest horizontal spread, and pounds of fielddressed weight.

Avoid holiday cooking rush

Christmas cooking should be fun, but last-minute preparation can be hectic. If you can spare a little freezer space, cook and bake now and freeze holiday foods, suggests Dana Craddock, Runnels County Extension Agent.

"Every hour family members spend cooking now will be an extra hour of free time to be with friends and relatives during the holidays," she observes.

Most prepared foods will keep for a month in the freezer, so cook as your present time schedule allows, the agent says. If you have enough time today to make cookies, make them and pop them into the freezer. If your time is more limited, whip up a dip or a sandwich spread.

During the next few weeks, prepare double recipes of main dishes. Eat one now and freeze the other to be reheated during the holidays.

Frozen sandwiches are a good choice for lunches and simple suppers. They will keep well for two weeks, Mrs. Craddock says. But don't use lettuce, tomatoes, or cucumbers for frozen sandwiches. They will lose their texture and make the sandwich soggy. Salad dressing is a better choice than mayonnaise, pickles better than celery, and use egg yolk instead of egg white for best results in freezing sandwiches.

Many candies and cookies will keep at room temperature for several weeks, she points out.

Store crisp candies and cookies separately in tightly covered containers and they will keep for two or three weeks.

Try making a meatball mixture using three to five pounds of lean ground beef. Make the meatballs in a cocktail or main dish size. Bake at 375 degrees F in a shallow pan for 20 minutes.

Shake the pan several times to turn the meatballs. Remove them from the oven and cool. Package the meatballs in serving size containers and freeze

When you are ready to serve them, simply thaw and heat in any sauce and they will be ready for holiday entertaining.

8th graders tie for district champions

Playing at home last Thursday night, the Winters Eighth Grade football team beat their Albany counterparts 6-0 to clinch a tie for the district championship.

The boys won the district crown last year as seventh graders.

The Winters touchdown came in the second quarter on an eight yard run by quarterback Chris Rives after the Breezes blocked Albany's punt. The try for extra points failed.

Neither team scored in the remainder of the game.

Winters Coach Mack Lingo listed as outstanding offensive plays for his team a faked punt which Richard Barnett turned into a first down, a fine sweep by Michael Ysa for 80 yards (which was called back), and a muchneeded pass reception by Tommy Selby in the final drive of the

That's the speed Waiter Wilkerson, 50, of Kenbridge. Va., showed taking top honors at the 1983 World Tobacco Auctioneering Championship in Danville, Va.

A professional auctioneer for 27 years, he beat 64 other competitors in the third annual event sponsored by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., as part of its "Pride in Tobacco" program

As the first place finisher, Wilkerson won $5,000 and the opportunity to serve for the next year as an ambassador for the tobacco industry

Reynolds Tobacco and the Danville Tobacco Association developed the championship as a way to recognize the skill of the professional tobacco auctioneer. Danville is the birthplace of the modern auction system of selling tobacco which started there in 1858.

American Cancer Society lists officers

The Board of the American Cancer Society, North Runnels Unit, met November 12 at the Chamber of Commerce. A rummage sale was planned for November 29-30 to help meet a goal set at $8,075.

The Society would like to clear up the "profusion and confusion of cancer appeals." Various organizations established to raise money for cancer research have similar sounding names which may serve to confuse the giving public. Others misuse the words "national" or "American" in their titles, when these programs are actually conducted in specific "local areas." A good guideline to follow is to request literature before pledging.

Officers on the board for the year are: Bill Hooten, president; Glenn Shoemake, vice president; Carolyn Davis, treasurer; Betty Byrns and Bonnie Hood, public education; Dickie Lloyd, service/rehabilitation; Nadine Foster, public information; Noma Eoff, crusade; Carolyn Davis, memorial; Dr. Yung Kee Lee, medical; Betty Pinkerton and Maudie Bartee, special events.
