By Kerry Craig

Well, they did it. Our legislature and the governor have bowed to pressure from the feds and forced us to wear seat belts in our own cars and pick ups.

Signed into law Sunday, the legislation provides a fine of $25 to $50 for not wearing seat belts while in the front seat of a moving car and most pickups.

As he affixed his signature to the bill, Mark White said that he was reluctant to sign any legislation that would infringe on individual freedom.

Well, he did it. This law infringes on the individual freedom of everyone in this great state. It is just another step toward completely removing our freedom of choice.

After several months, the state will give forth statistics that show just how many lives the law has saved and how many injuries the law has prevented.

They did the same on the speed limit and I have been waiting for over five years for an answer to the question of why do the figures show that accidents caused by a speed under the limit outnumber those caused by speed over the limit by about eight to one. The same general ratio applies to injuries while fatalities are about even.

Our city council had a shining moment Monday evening when they voted to take the parking meters out of service until October first to see what effect it would have on parking, customers, employees and business.

It was kind of interesting to learn that the whole public hearing and all the to do about parking was the result of a complaint from a business in the 100 block of North Main—a business that was already planning to move to a different location before fusing.

Our council is to be commended for polling a majority of the businesses on the parking meter thing before the public hearing began.

Of those asked about the meters, one said leave them just as they are, four wanted strict enforcement, and the other twenty, or so, didn't see any need for the meters.

It is nice for a community to be the only one of its kind because it has something nobody else has, but to be the only community of this size to use meters to enforce a parking ordinance is a distinction we don't need.

After this trial period, if the meters are removed the posts need to remain. Where else would the VFW place their flags on important occasions?

Winters Council suspends parking meter ordinance

Following a brief public hearing Monday evening, the Winters City Council voted to suspend the parking meter ordinance until October 1.

Following the trial period the council would seek comments from businesses before taking final action on the metered parking.

The issue was brought before the council after one business complained that another business, both in the 100 block of North Main, was taking up too many parking spaces.

Prior to the public hearing, Councilman Jerry Sims visited 26 businesses in the downtown area to find how those businesses felt about the parking meters and if the ordinance should be enforced.

Of those contacted, four businesses were in favor of strict enforcement of the ordinance, one wanted things left as they were, and the other 21 businesses felt things would be better if the meters were taken out or not used.

The council noted that it would not be cost-effective to employ someone to monitor the parking meters, issue tickets, and collect from the meters.

City Administrator Scott Epperson said that money was collected from the meters the first of this month and the total amount collected was $220. He said that this was the only time the money had been collected since October of last year.

Representatives of the television cable service were on hand for a public hearing concerning an increase in rates charged by the cable service.

Following that public hearing, the council gave its approval to the rate increase saying that the cable service was not being forced on anyone, that those with the service had it by choice.

Along with the slightly higher rates the cable service is promising to add additional channels to their service.

The final public hearing was held on the requested annexation of property owned by Marsha Smith. The property is located on Bishop Street.

The council set July 1 as the date for the final step in annexing the property.

The council discussed extending Arlington Street from Roberts Street north to the city limits. The street, when extended, would allow access to a new warehouse being constructed in that area.

The council voted to get the property surveyed and find the real boundaries before proceeding. (See Council page 10)

Playground equipment beginning

The Winters Young Homemakers and helpers began work on the new playground area in the City Park Monday afternoon. Landscape timbers were put in place, enclosing an area to be filled with sand by the city before actual construction begins. Many area residents have contributed funds for the project.

The Sixth Annual Winters Rodeo, sponsored by the Winters Rodeo Association, will be held next weekend, June 28-29, at 8 p.m. at the Winters Rodeo Grounds north of town. The Rodeo Parade will begin downtown at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Terry Walls will produce the rodeo.

A dance will be held nightly in the new facility on the rodeo grounds. The Shade Tree Band

Come join the parade!

The parade for the 6th Annual Winters Open Rodeo, sponsored by the Winters Rodeo Association, will be held Saturday, June 29 at 4 p.m.

In order to give the residents of the Senior Citizens Nursing and Retirement Center an opportunity to view the parade, the route will be changed from that of previous years.

The 1985 Rodeo Parade will form on the parking lot on the second block of East Dale Street behind the Professional Building. The parade will move east on Dale Street and from there follow a route that will take it by the nursing center on Van Ness Street and then to East Parsonage where the parade will move on Main Street from Peoples National Bank on North Main to the Winters State Bank on South Main, where the (See Parade 9)

School Board hires new teachers

The Winters Independent School District Board of Trustees met in regular session last Tuesday night and voted to hire four new elementary teachers, subject to assignment, at state base pay. The new teachers will be Melissa Ann Hunsacker, Mary Beth Morrison, and Foy and Mary Sue Owens.

Contracts were handed out on May 22, Johnny Bob Smith, school business manager, said, and were to have been returned within 10 days. The only one not returned was that of Patricia Perry, he said; so the board voted to declare her position in the secondary school open.

In another personnel matter, the board voted to raise the salary of the agriculture teacher by $2400 above state base, since he will have an increased work load in the coming school year because of the board's action last month to cut back on the vocational staff. Also, he is employed for 12 months a year. He will continue to receive a gasoline allowance as well.

My Egyptian Onions

Never let it be said that I'm a piker. When taking on a project, I go into it in a big way.

When visiting my cousin Mary Boze in Sacramento, California last year, I saw all of the pretty flowers, shrubs, and trees in her yard.

She assured me that some of them would grow anywhere and sent me home with some Egyptian onion bulbs, a piece of a fig bush and a twig from her bay tree. Although I wrapped the roots in a wet cloth and covered them securely in brown paper, the plants seemed dead when I removed them from my suitcase. But I put both the fig and bay leaf plants in flower pots, just as Mary suggested, and they soon began to grow. The fig bush first and finally the bay sprout started turning green.

My imagination began to soar and soon I was gathering figs and furnishing my friends with bay leaves for their cooking. Mary told me that she had provided a school lunch room with enough bay leaves to last the entire year — they are quite expensive in the stores. She saw a school dietitian shopping for bay leaves and told her where she could get enough to furnish the school free of charge if she was willing to come get them. Of course, the woman was delighted.

My Egyptian onions were another story. They hadn't even come up. I planted the bulbs in various places around the house, as was suggested, but no onions. A long, long time afterward they began to grow. The winter rains came on and they continued to grow but no bulbs on top. They were just plain old onions.

In mid-winter the bay tree was transplanted outdoors with quite a ceremony. An old tree stump was removed at a cost of $10 and the little tree carefully planted. I was assured by Mary that it was a sturdy tree and required little care, but no one knew the big freeze was coming. Once more my plant had died — it was only a dry stick in the ground.

The fig bush is still growing; it was transplanted in the spring. My onions are doing fairly well. The ones planted in the west flower bed died but those in the back are growing but no bulbs. On the east side of the house the plants have developed some bulbs, and in the front yard the onions have gone wild with healthy looking tops. They are sprawled out in every direction and do not look like those pictured in the article Mary gave me, but they are Egyptian onions.

Marsha Prillwitz, writer of the article, says that she discovered Egyptian onions about five years ago. The former owner of her home had them scattered throughout the garden. They looked like regular green onions, so she couldn't imagine how they could grow bulbs on the top of the stalk — as she was assured they would — instead of underground, like normal onions.

Sure enough, by May the green stalks had grown tall and thick, with some developing strange knots toward the top. Within a few weeks, a portion of the stalk pulled away, exposing a delicate cluster of "bulblets" anchoring tiny new green stalks. As the season progressed, these folded out and produced a second cluster of bulblets on top.

By fall, the stalks bent over, yellowed and dropped the clusters back to the soil. Within a month or so, new stalks appeared among the few remaining plants, renewing the cycle.

Since that first year, amazement has subsided somewhat but my appreciation for this unusual plant has grown, says Miss Prillwitz.

Also commonly known as tree onion, walking onion, or top onion, Allium Cepa Viviparum is a hardy, insect- and disease-free perennial which bears edible onion stalks or bulbs, practically year-round. Young stalks can be used as any other green onions. As the plant ages, the flavor strengthens, with mature stalks and bulbs suitable for hearty soups and stews, rather than raw for salads.

While they can be planted anytime, either by using bulblets as sets or by dividing the plants at the bottom, fall or spring plantings are advisable. Sets and plants are difficult to find.

The plants are invasive and should be restricted to a narrow concrete-bordered bed. They grow so thickly weeding is unnecessary. They shrug off poor soil, limited sunlight and irregular watering. Even snails and slugs avoid them.

As of now, my onions are thriving and the fig bush is doing well. About two weeks ago, I went out to grieve over my little bay tree and found it sprouting again. It looked sturdy and healthy.

Wonder of wonders, I have a green thumb after all.

Silver-Haired Legislature announced

Judge Scott Bailey, Chairman of the Texas Department on Aging's Citizen Advisory Council representing the West Central Texas Area Agency on Aging, has announced the creation of the first Texas Silver-Haired Legislature.

The Silver-Haired Legislature, established by the 69th Texas Legislature, is an elected legislative body comprised of representatives and senators 60 years of age and older. The Silver-Haired Legislature will meet at the Capital, tentatively in October 1986, to research, develop and pass legislation which is of concern to the state's 2.3 older Texans. The legislation will then be passed on to the governor and the regular session of the 70th Texas Legislature for consideration.

"I look forward to this historic event," says Judge Bailey, CAC Chairman for Cisco. "This is a great opportunity for older Texans to better impact the political process. In the 22 other states

Bible Camp held

The Big Country Lutheran Bible Camp, June 3-7, provided opportunities for each camper to experience Christian Community. The campers, counselors and pastors from area Lutheran churches ate, studied, played, prayed, worshiped and slept in community at Camp Butman, near Merkel.

Campers studied the Bible, as they learned about the Liturgical Church Year. Each day's study and activity centered on the seasons of the Church Year—Advent, Christmas, Lent, Easter, and Pentecost.

The Big Country Lutheran Association is a voluntary association of Lutheran Churches in the Area, representing the three major Lutheran Synods in the United States—The American Lutheran Church, The Lutheran Church in America, and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. BCL promotes dialogue between the congregations and pastors across synod lines to promote unity and members work together to implement this summer youth Bible Camp.

This year's camp was the largest in the 13-year history of BCL, with 103 youth (grades 4-12) present, eleven counselors, and seven pastors.

Attending from St. John's Lutheran Church in Winters were, Tammy Dry, Chris Dry, Marion Alice Dahmann, Kelly Spill, Corey Spill, Richard Lett, R., John Andrae, Mindy Andrae, Kristin Deike, William Deike, Rhonda Bethel, Tommy Thormeyer, J. J. Michaelis, J'Dan Miller, Michelle Carter, Billy Clough, Amy Dobbins-campers, Elaine Miller, Janice Pruser, Perry Bedford, Nancy Spill-counselors, and Pastor Steve Byrne.

Other BCL Churches with campers in attendance were from San Angelo, Miles, Roscoe, Sweetwater, Abilene, Cisco, Albany, Sagerton, Haskell, and Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hoyle and Darlene have as their guests their son Laney Hoyle and their grandsons, Martin and Russ Bishop, all from Odessa.

Blackwell was awakened at 12:30 a.m. last Wednesday by a thunderstorm; it wasn't too bad this time, but we received one and three-tenths of an inch of rain. It rained until after noon, adding another one-half inch for a total of one and eight-tenths inches of rain. Some reported more, but it was really a nice and welcomed rain; so no one had to water their garden or yard for a few days.

June 20 is last day to plant sorghum Tours planned

June 20 is the final planting date for insured grain sorghum in Runnels County, Texas, according to Dottie Sampley, District Representative for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

Insured grain sorghum planted by June 20 must be reported by June 30 in order to receive full crop insurance coverage. The acreage report reflects the actual acreage planted and reported by the farmer.

In order to provide some flexibility on planting dates, a late planting option may be exercised by farmers who find themselves unable to plant their crops on time due to adverse weather. The late planting option provides insurance coverage for the late planted crop, but at a lower guarantee. For insured farmers, "Entering into the late planting option is not automatic," Sampley said. "Farmers wishing to use the late planting option must sign an agreement prior to the final planting date in order to have coverage under the late planting option."

"Increasingly, our insured producers are discovering that with yield guarantees which reflect production capability, crop insurance establishes a farm income floor. This, cash flow and the ability to repay a loan can be more accurately projected," explained Sampley.

Farmers wishing to discuss local conditions that may affect planting should contact their local, authorized crop insurance agent.

Separate ranch tours in South Texas and Mexico will make up the final day of the 5th Annual International Ranchers Roundup, July 29-August 2, at the Laredo Civic Center. Persons planning to make the tours should pre-register by July 1. The U.S. tour will include the historic Callaghan Ranch, the Espuela Beefmaster Ranch and the Ranch Blanco. Stops on the Mexico tour include the Rancho Chavarria, the Rancho Las Mujeres and the Rancho La Heradura. To pre-register, contact any county Extension office, the Webb County Extension office at 512/27-0801 or the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Uvalde at 512/278-9151.

Local producers may enter sorghum growers contest

The National Grain Sorghum Producers Association (GSPA) will sponsor the first nationwide sorghum yield contest this year, with top winners receiving a trip abroad. "The contest will focus on yield and management," said Elbert Harp, executive director of the National GSPA, "and will help us gather information on the most efficient and cost-effective ways to grow sorghum."

"We feel this is important because of a trend indicated by recent USDA figures. The cost of sorghum production is up as much as 50 cents a bushel over production costs for corn. If this trend continues, sorghum farmers will find it harder to remain competitive. By sponsoring the contest, the National GSPA will be able to study production techniques and find improvements," said Harp.

"In addition, the information farmers will provide during the contest, such as type of fertilizer used, will help us establish other regional, state and national trends that might affect the market for sorghum."

Contest awards will be made on three levels—county, state, and national. The top winners in each class on the national level will receive a trophy and a trip to a foreign market country. On the state level, plaques will be awarded to the top three winners in each class. The first place winner in each class on the county level will receive a certificate.

(plus 20 to 30 pounds/acre of phosphorus if needed) during sseedbed preparation. Follow this with another 30 to 60 pounds of nitrogen/acre as a late winter topdressing based on grazing pressure, moisture and general growing conditions.

Beef cows need a mineral supplement

For high level reproductive performance, beef cows need a mineral supplement with 10 to 12 percent phosphorus, says a beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. A two-year demonstration in Calhoun County showed that lack of adequate phosphorus can delay conception, which means a late calf crop and generally lighter calves. In the study, two herds of crossbred cows received an 11 percent phosphorus mix the first year. Then the level was reduced to 8 percent in one herd the second year, and cows in that herd were slower to conceive.

on the contest and will provide computer printouts of production data to contestants, county agents, university researchers and others.

Wheat fertilizer requirements explained

County Extension Agent, Allen Turner, states that many Runnels County farmers are wondering what to do with all the extra straw they have on their wheat fields and what effect this material will have on next years crop. Dr. Willis Gass, Extension Agronomist, has some interesting comments that farmers may find useful.

Nitrogen required for residue decomposition

Wheat producers who were fortunate enough to receive good rains during the spring of 1985 made above average grain yields. Associated with high yields are large amounts of residue and a soil profile largely depleted of nitrogen. Since wheat straw has a high carbon-nitrogen ratio, microbial decomposition is slowed by limited nitrogen. To hasten decomposition, nitrogen should be added at the rate of 20 pounds actual N per ton of residue (an estimate of tons of residue/acre equals bushels times 100 divided by 2000). This a 20 bushel yield would produce about one ton of residue which inturn requires about 20 pounds of nitrogen for microbial decomposition. In short, approximately one pound of nitrogen is required to hasten microbial decomposition of the wheat residue associated with each bushel of wheat produced. For example - a 40 bushel yield would require about 40 pounds of N for microbial decomposition of residue.

In years when average or below average yields are produced the need to add additional N for residue decomposition is not as critical since the drain on soil stored N is not as severe. However, when above average yields are made, the need for additional N for residue decomposition is very important since all available nitrogen is tied up in residue decomposition and not available for the following crop.

Nitrogen removed by grazing

Small grains which are grazed naturally require more fertilizer than ungrazed grain because of nutrients removed by grazing. Stocker cattle consume approximately 10 pounds of forage on-taining about 0.4 pound of nitrogen for each pound of beef produced on wheat pasture.

Thus it follows that about 40 pounds of nitrogen will be removed for each 100 pounds of beef gain per acre. If information on gain is not available, I would suggest topdressing 30 to 50 pounds/acre of nitrogen (depending on grazing pressure) in late winter to replace that removed by grazing to provide adequate nutrition for grain production after livestock is removed.

Nitrogen requirement for grain production

A soil test is still the best way to determine fertilizer needs. The amount of given nutrient to apply depends on the level of that nutrient in the soil, residue levels, cropping history, available moisture, grazing practices and general management. A general "rule of thumb" says that wheat requires about 2 pounds of nitrogen per bushel of grain produced. Therefore, a 30 bushel yield would remove about 60 pounds per acre of available nitrogen.

A soil test is always a wise investment. However, in lieu of a soil test and especially when following a high yielding wheat crop with another wheat crop, I would recommend that a producer incorporate 30 to 60 pounds/acre of actual nitrogen

Missionary family heading for new adventures in U.S.

By Patsy Roach
Al and Virginia Flathmann, longtime missionaries to New Guinea, have been serving in Saint John's Lutheran Church here and are now ready to embark on a new assignment in Eagle Lake, Texas.

The couple and their children were honored at a dinner at the local church last Wednesday night. Pastor Flathmann will assume the pastorate of Grace Lutheran and Zion Lutheran Churches in the Eagle Lake area, on Interstate 10 about 60 miles west of Houston.

Al is a pastor's son from La Grange, who now considers Winters his home. His brother Henry pastored here for many years. Virginia is the daughter of Herman and Katie Spill of Winters. The Flathmanns have five children: Mary, age 20, is a nursing student at the University of Texas in Galveston; Elizabeth, 19, is studying special education at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin, the school her parents attended; David, 17, will be a high school senior; Larry, 11, will be in the sixth grade; and Jonathan, eight, will be a third grader.

The Flathmanns went to Papua, New Guinea in 1964 and served for almost 20 years. Their first furlough was after six years of service on the field. Then visits to the states were more frequent, after three or four years. They returned to the states last July at a doctor's recommendation because of Al's medical problems.

For the past year they have been working with Pastor Steve Byrne in the local church. Al has also preached on Sundays in Haskell and Stamford.

Life on the mission field was often full of adventures and things together as a family.

Since they were apart from their children so much, they have really enjoyed being together the last year. They play games and have lots of fun at home, not needing to go outside the home to have fun, she smiled.

New Guinea is a "third world country" and had many people coming in from all over the world helping with various government programs, and the Flathmanns met many of them. When they lived on the coast, they never knew who might come to stay at their house, and it was not always easy to find enough food to feed them; they would just do the best they could.

Ships would come from time to time and bring them supplies. The water passage to their place was difficult, and once a ship got stuck in it. The crew brought everyone aboard (16 people) up the 1500 feet to their house to stay until they could free the ship. "It was like a party," Virginia enthused. "Fellowship was a real important thing—we'd take in anyone," she explained.

Traveling was always an adventure in New Guinea, what with roads washed out, landslides, and other problems. Virginia told of one time that they were coming back from the highlands in fog, mist, and rain. They were driving down a winding road when the alternator went out. Naturally the wipers wouldn't work. It was raining cats and dogs, she laughed, and there she was, reaching out and wiping the windshield with a squeegee brush.

The country has over 700 languages, but the government adopted English as the official language. Melanesian Pidgin was used with the people; it is a blend of Portuguese, German, Spanish, English, and other languages. The Flathmanns learned it from hearing it and working with it. They also learned the "Kate" language, which was used in many of the Lutheran Churches.

Pastor Flathmann, commenting on the purpose of the church in today's world, said, "We're here to be an example to the people who aren't Christians." We are to show God's love to them in Jesus and to set an example of how God expects them to live.

"We are the leaven in society, as the Bible says," he stated. Living as Christians will attract attention, and then the Holy Spirit can work on them, he explained. Then they will become interested in church.

He admitted that Christians may not see the fruit of their labors for years. "As the saying goes, we plant and others reap," he related. Seeing immediate results is not important—"just to be faithful—that's the most important thing," he concluded.

Both Al and Virginia commented favorably on the local church people, who have been a blessing to them. "They've accepted my ministry as a pastor," Al said. Those at the reception and dinner expressed their love for the couple and wished them well as they continue in their work of serving the Lord as He leads.

Fandangle slated

The taming and settling of the frontier west as "seen through the eyes of pioneer children," will be relived in the 47th production of the Fort Griffin Fandangle during six performances set for June 20-22 and June 27-29 in Albany.

The annual production, which was created in 1938 by Albany playwright Robert Nail, relates through narration, song and dance the story of the settling of this part of Texas during the final decades of the 1800's.

The show is presented in the Fandangle Association's own outdoor theater located approximately one mile west of town, truly giving the audience the "look and feel of times long since past."

Tickets can be reserved by calling the Fandangle's ticket office, located in the depot building in Albany, or either 915/762-2525 or 915/762-3642. Ticket prices range from $3 to $7 per person, and should be purchased or reserved in advance. If available, tickets will also be sold at the gate.

"We had a record year last year, with four of all the six performances sold out, and ticket sales are going as well or better so far this year," stated Patsy Rose, the association's executive secretary.

Tickets can also be purchased by writing to the Fort Griffin Fandangle Association, P.O. Box 185, Albany, Texas 76430.

We usually have over 10,000 visitors each year for the Fandangle," stated Donnie Lucas, publicity director. "We have tried to add several activities for our guests so that they can enjoy an interesting and fulfilled family outing when they come to Albany."

Downtown store windows are traditionally decorated with antiques and other items from the western frontier time period.

Several restored homes and buildings are open to the public on performance days include the

Watching the swimmers

Some local teens observe the swimmers from the shaded area next to the Winters Swimming Pool.

causing the abuse should pay for the prevention thereof. The logic may be correct but it is a little complicated.

The motives are good and the program has at least a reasonable chance of success. I have some personal reservations about creating yet another bureaucracy to administer the funds; however, the creation of bureaucracy seems to be one of the things the Legislature does best.

I think it is important that I point out the historical fact that social programs funded with tax dollars, good or bad, are most beneficial to those persons and those areas with the knowledge and sophistication to use the programs. As I understand this specific program and funding mechanism, the council created to administer the funds will channel funds back to local areas to deserving groups who can prove that they have the organizational strength and ability to implement and carry out local programs of child abuse prevention.

As I see the impact of this plan, realistically, each county in my district must establish some sort of program to take advantage of this funding. If we do not do this our money, as has historically been the case, will be transferred to major metropolitan areas and used in their programs.

I do not necessarily like the game, well motivated though it might be, but if we want to get our share of the prize we have to play the game.

For any of you who have an interest in this area and feel you are a part of, or would like to establish a local organization of this general type and nature, to prevent child abuse, and would like to avail yourselves of these funds to finance your operation, please contact me.

It is the same sad story, if we don't get it, someone else will.

Rules concerning Social Security coverage

This is the time of year when many San Angelo area farmers hire their summer help, and they should now the rules concerning Social Security coverage. Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

It is important that farm employers keep the proper records and report their employees' earnings for Social Security purposes.

Employers should record their employee's Social Security number, name, address, wages paid, and their own employer identification number. This information is needed, Upp said, so that if reports are required, they can be promptly and accurately made.

If the worker's wages are covered, then Social Security taxes must be withheld. Agricultural wages are covered if the employee is paid $150 or more in cash wages during the year. Earnings are also covered if the employee is paid on a time basis—by the hour, day, week, or month—and works on 20 or more days during the year.

Should the employer withhold

Social Security taxes from an employee's wages and then find out that the wages are not covered because neither test is met, the Social Security tax should be refunded to the employee.

Wages covered by Social Security should be reported by the farm employer after the end of the year in which they were paid.

More information about coverage of agricultural labor can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Emergency procedures

When you hear or see an approaching emergency vehicle with a flashing red light or siren, you are required by Texas law to move to the right, clear of any intersection, and stop until the emergency vehicle has passed. If it is impossible to move your vehicle to the right, you should stop and remain stopped until the emergency vehicle has passed.

Memo from Kay

The Chamber of Commerce receives a number of brochures and maps from other cities and interesting brochures publicizing special events and points of interest around the state. We also have in the office, a directory of other Chamber of Commerce world wide and can send for tourist data that will be an aid to anyone who is planning a vacation trip. Please call the Chamber Office 754-5210 or come by 118 W. Dale for help in securing information about projects you plan to visit.

The directors of the Chamber are asking for the help of everyone in town in subduing the increasing litter and weed problem in Winters. There are trash containers attached to parking meters spaced for convenient use around the downtown area. Let's all, each and everyone, take the little extra time needed to pick up some litter or weeds as we go about town and deposit it in one of the trash containers.

The city will see that the trash containers are emptied.

Highway signs have new look

Highway signs in Texas have a new look with the increasing use of symbols. Pictorial silhouettes, rather than written messages, not only provide traffic information but they are understood by American and foreign visitors alike. The shapes of signs have special meanings. An inverted triangle means yield; a pennant means no passing; a pentagon sign shows the presence of a school; and a circle warns of a railroad crossing.

Local recipes needed by June 30 for Sesquicentennial Cookbook

The Winters Woman's Club is in the process of compiling a Sesquicentennial Cookbook to be titled "A Taste of Texas." The members would like to have a representation from every family in the area—old family recipes with a few sentences about the family and when the recipe was enjoyed, etc.

New recipes and any contribution that would make the cookbook a true collector's dream are welcomed. These contributions may be turned in at the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce and to Naida Barker, chairman of the project committee.

Other members of the committee are Edna England, Sandy Griffin, Jerry Groves, and Halley Sims.

Recipes are needed by June 30th in order to have the cookbook printed and ready to sell during the Christmas season.

Teachers —

...sulating the roofs of the old gym and the new show barn. Since their decision to use blown insulation, they had heard from an interested citizen who said the insulation blown into her buildings became wet and dropped off in time.

The main reason for insulating the old gym is to stop the dropping of moisture from the roof. At times the condensation has been so bad, it was almost like rain in the structure, causing damage to the maple floor.

The school administrators checked with engineers from Fannin and Fannin in Lubbock. They said they no longer recommended blown insulation; they advised the school to consider insulation in batts, with sheet rock under it.

The board decided to advertise for bids for insulation for the show barn, since it is unheated much of the year and does not have the problem with condensation that the gym has. However, they instructed Superintendent T.D. Lancaster to get an architect or engineer to look at the gym and discuss options with them.

In the superintendent's report, the average daily attendance was noted to be 870.89, or 97.8 percent. A total of 881 students made up the membership of the school. The first grade, totalling 90.40 in ADA, was the largest in the school.

The average daily attendance for the other grades was as follows: kindergarten 78.49, second 71.35, third 61.06, fourth 72.99, fifth 74.26, sixth 72.05, seventh 65.28, eighth 72.07, ninth 52.98, tenth 65.33, eleventh 39.91, twelfth 54.52.

Lancaster also reported on the Class of 1985 and their plans for the future. Of the 55 graduates, 11 boys and eight girls plan to go to a four-year college, a total of 35 percent. Two girls and two boys will attend junior college or technical school, and three girls will go to business or beauty school. Three of the boys and one girl plan to enter military service. 14 boys and six girls will be going to work, and one girl will become a homemaker. One boy and three girls were undecided as to their future plans.

Five of the college-bound young people were planning to attend Angelo State, and two each planned to go to UT-Austin, Baylor, Texas Tech, Abilene Christian, and Tarleton. One each chose to go to Cisco Junior College, McMurry, Hawaiian Pacific College, Western Texas College, and Colby Community College.

Kindergarten for the new school year will continue to be full day, full year as in the past. The Legislature failed to change it, Smith said.

SRA Achievement Tests were discussed along with TABS results. (See related story, this issue.)

Budget amendments for several functions may be needed in the event they are overspent in the next few months, the board learned.

Discussion of the five-year plan was postponed until the next meeting.

The men listened as several letters were read, promoting Bill Haley of Eula and David Nelson of Brownwood as candidates for the Texas Association of School Boards Board of Trustees. No action was taken on the men's request that the Winters' board nominate them.

Council —

...ceeding with construction with the street extension.

Discussion on application to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for a grant to help expand the park at the new lake ended with a decision to wait a while.

The council said, "We cannot afford it right now. We don't want to wait but, we just can't afford it."

The grant, if approved, would be a 50-50 matching grant. The city would have to fund half of the anticipated $100,000 cost.

A complaint was heard from Bob and Helen Mayfield about a parking problem in the 200 block of west Roberts street. The council agreed for a representative of the council to contact the residents of that area about the problem. The city administrator said that he would study the ordinances relating to the problem and also report back to the council if the problem had not been resolved by the next meeting.

Before ending the hour-long meeting, the council agreed to continue to stay with the same policy for the Winters Housing Authority with regard to the city's tax roles.

Work nights set

Beginning Monday, June 24, work nights will be held at the Winters Rodeo Arena, preparing the grounds for the rodeo.

The work will begin each evening around 7:30. All members are encouraged to contribute all the time they can.

Grandson of Winters couple fighting battle with leukemia

Little Jeremy Peugh, age three, of Lake Worth, is fighting a battle with a severe form of leukemia. He is the son of Virgil and Tanya Whitlow Peugh. Tanya is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry B. Whitlow of Winters and is a graduate of Winters High School.

A fund has been established at the Winters State Bank to help the family defray medical expenses of the chemotherapy which is expected to last 18 months.

Jeremy did not seem sick at all, but he bruised very easily, which led his mother to have him examined by his pediatrician. Diagnosis of acute myelogenous leukemia was made on May 16. It is a type of leukemia that is usually only seen in adults over 25. He has a white blood count of about 500, whereas a normal person has 4,000 to 11,000 white blood cells to fight infection.

Jeremy is hospitalized in isolation in Cook's Childrens Hospital to avoid infection, since even a cold would be hard to fight off.

His survival depends upon entering remission and staying in it. He receives platelet transfusions and may eventually receive a bone marrow transplant from his brother, Chris, age six.

Play-Days to begin June 22

The Play-Days for young Winters equestrians will officially begin Saturday, June 22 at the Winters Rodeo Arena. Five Play-Days will be held in all, with the others being on July 13 and 27 and August 10 and 24.

Any child can participate. The age groups are five and under, six through eight, nine through 12, 13 through 15, and 16 through 19.

At least six events will be held for each group, ranging from barrel racing to cow chip throwing. Cost of each event is 50 cents, which will provide an entire evening of fun as well.

Participants may enter as many events as they wish.

Beginning this Saturday, the points won in the various events will go toward the naming of all-around winners in each group. The winners will receive such prizes as belt buckles.

The practice play-day drew a total of 18 children.

Anyone having questions should contact Ray or Aletha Guevara or David or Brenda Grohman.

Jeremy Peugh

A fund has been set up at the Lake Worth National Bank, also, and blood donations are being taken at the Carter Blood Bank in that area.

The boy's father is in construction work. Tanya has taken a leave of absence from her job to stay with Jeremy in the hospital.

"Whatever anybody feels like doing will be welcomed by the family," said Mrs. Peugh.

Help!

Contributions are now being taken for the new fence around the Hylton Cemetery. Those wishing to contribute should contact Billy Joe Magness, Bronte, Texas 76933, or Howard Michaels, Route 1, Box 98, Blackwell, Texas 79506.

Any contribution will be appreciated.

In parts of France, it was considered good luck to dress up a cat in ribbons and ears of corn during harvesting.

Homecoming slated for Shep Community

The Shep Homecoming will be held Sunday, June 23; time to register will be 9 a.m. A lunch will be held at noon.

Everyone is invited and asked to bring food and join in a community lunch.

Sales tax checks mailed to cities

State Comptroller Bob Bullock last Friday sent checks totaling $58.1 million in local tax payments to the 1,003 cities that levy the one percent local sales tax.

Winters received a check for $8,344.48. Last June, Winters' check was for $8,560.12.

Ballinger received $10,305.68, down from last year's $13,014.31. Miles did not receive a check this June or last.

Sales in Winters are running 1.98 percent behind last year's. Ballinger's sales are 0.32 percent behind. Miles' are 23.07 percent ahead.

Sales in Coleman are 11.98 percent behind last year's. Brownwood's are 4.41 percent ahead. Abilene's are 0.84 percent ahead, and San Angelo's are 6.57 percent ahead.

June checks represent taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by May 20.

Booth proceeds go to X-Ray Fund

A donation of $200 has been made to the North Runnels Hospital X-Ray Fund by the Cafeteria Chefs, Betty Easterly, Nancy Folsom, Lucy Nitsch, and Elouise Prine. The money was made at the group's Mayfest booth. The ladies wish to thank everyone who made this donation possible.
