Better strap yourself in for this one. In case you don't remember, that mandatory seat belt law goes into effect on Sunday, December 1.

If you don't use your seat belts, you are in violation of the law and subject to be fined.

Personally, I don't like either idea. Having someone telling me that I must wear the seat belts and having my privacy invaded by someone checking to see if I'm strapped in.

There are good arguments on both sides of the question. I can't dispute them. Nor will it be suggested here that you not wear seat belts or that you buckle up.

Like the 55 mph speed limit, the seat belt law is the result of federal governmental pressure—if you don't enact such a law we will cut off funding for something or other and require that air-bags be installed on all new cars.

Like that 55 mph speed limit, we're stuck with the seat belt requirement.

At first we were told that the 55 mph speed limit would conserve fuel, which we were told was about empty. We learned later that when the price exceeded a dollar a gallon, there were bunches of gasoline.

They told us that the slower speed would cut down on accidents and save more lives.

That is a good point but, one still can wonder why that the monthly accident summaries from the Highway Patrol lists "speed-under the limit" as the cause of more accidents with injury than excessive speed by a margin of more than 8-1.

That is a question that the DPS was asked six years ago, or so. They still have not come back with an answer.

This time next year there may be similar stats about the belts. I wonder if there will be an answer then.

I may be a bit different in my thinking than most but, I still like the Corvair too.

One thing for sure, though, when I install ejection seats in my 4X4, they will have safety straps.

You may notice that this edition is slightly early. We printed early so you could get your copy in the mail before the holiday. Another reason is to give our folks a chance to take a bit of time off to be with their families on Thanksgiving.

With Christmas just a month away, there will be several deadline changes for copy in order for us to meet mailing deadlines and to get the paper to you on time. These dates will be printed next week.

Until next month—have a Happy Thanksgiving. If you travel drive safely.

From our house to yours, have a good one.

Winters Police officer gets bandit in Abilene

An off-duty Winters Police officer, shopping in the Mall of Abilene, took a man into custody in connection with the use of stolen credit cards after a Sears security officer came out the loser trying to detain the man.

Officer Richard Hawkins and his family were in the mall when they noticed a crowd gathering in the department store. Hawkins said that he saw the security guard on the floor, trying to hold onto the man's pant leg.

After a struggle, Hawkins and security officers subdued the man and placed him under arrest.

Abilene Police Department spokesman Richard Valdez said that charges of credit card abuse were filed against Tony James Fitzpatrick, 25, in connection with the incident.

Sears manager Alan Wharton said, "If it had not been for Richard the suspect would have been long gone. You don't know how much we really appreciate it."

Wharton said that he had approached the suspect after it was learned that he was using a stolen credit card and that the man tried to fight free and flee.

Fitzpatrick had attempted to use the stolen charge card to purchase a video tape recorder valued at $485, a coat valued at $100, and a sweater valued at $15.

Officials said that several items were purchased in other mall stores with cards stolen from the same owner and that

Fitzpatrick had a number of charge cards, all belonging to the same person, in his possession.

The Sears manager said that Winters was fortunate to have officers such as Hawkins on its police department. Wharton said that a letter of commendation would be presented to Hawkins by Sears in appreciation of his prompt action.

Listen to the Mockingbird

The lilting song of the mockingbird must have had the sweet sound of freedom on March 2, 1836, when Texas declared its independence from Mexico.

As varied as the state's history is the power of the mockingbird to reproduce not only its native song, but the songs of other birds with such accuracy as to deceive even the imitator.

Best known and loved of Texas' feathered friends, the mockingbird was officially adopted by the Legislature as the State Bird of Texas in 1927 at the request of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

In Texas, the range of the mockingbird extends from the pines of the East and palms of the Rio Grande to the plains of the Panhandle and wastes of the Big Bend Country. Making his home in every part of the state, no other bird more popular than the mocker could have been chosen as the official State Bird of Texas.

Since the 18th century, when the mockingbird was named Mimus Polyglottos, "many-tongued mimic," hundreds of poems and songs have been written about it, and a myriad of legends and myths have developed as a result of attempts to explain its versatile vocal abilities.

In addition to Texas, four other states have chosen it as their state bird, proving that its popularity is indeed widespread.

Here in the state of Texas, we have the eastern and western sub-species of the mocker. The western form is the larger of the two and has a shorter tail; the bands of white in the wings are broader and the wing feathers are tipped with white. However, to the layman, there is little in the appearance to distinguish one from the other, although the western form does tend to be paler in color. Likewise, the two forms are so similar in behavior, nesting habits, voice and type of food that they can be considered as one species.

Showing a preference for areas around human habitation, the mockingbird, unlike certain other forms of wildlife, has probably increased in numbers with the advance of cultivation and settlement of the country. However, he does not insist upon this type of habitat and is often found singing from the top of small trees or shrubs overlooking a ranch road or a clearing miles from any type of human dwelling, particularly in the South Texas brush country.

Like all good Texans, the mockingbird is a permanent resident, staying with us throughout the year. Observations have been made that indicate a short migration in which the mockingbird population tends to concentrate in the southern part of the range in winter and then shift back northward in early spring.

Among the wild fruits eaten, Texas birds take to the fruit of the prickly-pear cactus, the small red pepper, and especially hackberry. These hardy birds also eat the seeds of the poison ivy in the regions where it occurs, although they prefer a diet of wild fruits when available.

The mockingbird is a graceful dancer during courtship days. And he is frequently observed walking or strutting around with head and tail erect while opening and closing his wings, exposing the white bands or wing patches. At times, the mockers are seen walking along raising and lowering the spread tail as if deliberately performing.

The most outstanding characteristic of the mockingbird is his uncanny ability to imitate, and even improve upon, the songs and calls of other birds including domestic fowls. One observer reported that the mocker changed his tune 87 times in seven minutes, and he was able to identify 58 of the imitations.

There has been no official adoption by the state of any animal other than the mockingbird. However, the Longhorn, adopted by the University of Texas; the Mustang, adopted by Southern Methodist University; and the Horned Frog, adopted by Texas Christian University are widely recognized as "Texan," and as being common property of all Texans.

America buckle-up

"Start a habit for life!" is the theme for All American Buckle-Up Week November 24-30, 1985 sponsored by The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

This coincides with the Thanksgiving Holiday season when many people will be traveling for family celebrations. Unfortunately, during the 1984 Thanksgiving season 603 people lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) is participating in the program to help educate Americans about the positive benefits of the safety belts and child safety seats.

The present lap/shoulder belts are 40 to 50 percent effective in eliminating occupant fatalities and reducing moderate to serious injuries. This means between 8,000 and 10,000 additional lives could be saved each year with proper use of child safety seats 370 additional lives could be saved per year and up to 52,600 injuries to children could be avoided.

New York State was the first to pass mandatory seat belt usage law. During the first six months the law was in effect they reported on 18 percent decrease in occupant fatalities compared to the same period the year before.

Every state and the District of Columbia has a child passenger protection law. Also 14 states have a mandatory safety belt use law for front seat passengers and drivers. Texas law has been in effect since September 1, 1985, with a 90 day grace period. As of December 1, 1985 citations will be issued for noncompliance. The fine is $25 to $50 and there will be $10 or $3 court costs added depending on the court system.

The economic loss from vehicle accidents nationwide in 1984 was over $65 billion. The economic loss includes wage loss, medical expense, insurance

Texas Longhorn symbol for State of Texas

One of the most unique programs for the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial has been developed by Fort Worth rancher, Larry Smith. The program is built around a Texas Longhorn bull that sports a natural map of Texas in his forehead. This bull who aptly named "TEXAS, U.S.A.," will be the progenitor of "Official Commemorative Products of the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial." All of his calves born during the Sesquicentennial year will be so designated by the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial Commission. The Texas Longhorn Breeders Association of America, which headquarters in Fort Worth, will affix the official Sesquicentennial seal to their registration certifications.

A minimum of 150 registered Texas Longhorn heifers are to be artificially bred to "TEXAS, U.S.A." to produce these "living" Sesquicentennial souvenirs. A heifer can be purchased for $1500.00 which includes all administration cost and property damage. In Texas for 1984 the economic loss was $3.8 billion based on 3,913 deaths of which 97 percent were not wearing seat belts. There were 220,720 persons injured.

There were no deathless day on Texas Highways in 1984. There were five accidents that resulted in six or more fatalities. Thirty-one people were killed in the accidents. Only one of the 31 people killed was wearing a seat belt.

Based on report accidents in Texas in 1984:

- 1 person was killed every 2 hours 15 minutes
- 1 person was injured every 2 minutes, 23 seconds
- 1 accident occurred every 71 seconds.

Accept the challenge. During the ALL-AMERICAN BUCKLE-UP WEEK, November 24-30, buckle your safety belt every time you get into an automobile or pickup and "Start a Habit For Life."

facade rehabilitation projects completed in just two years; • Eleven dollars in private investment leveraged by every $1.00 in funding for a local Main Street project.

The NMSC provides training and technical assistance to communities with populations under 50,000 so that local citizens can tailor the Main Street Approach to fit the needs and special character of their own downtown. It seeks to rebuild the way downtown is seen by shoppers, residents, investors and visitors. By concentrating on improvements in four related areas—organization, promotion, design, and economic restructuring—citizens learn how to put existing resources to better use.

September 18, 1984 is the day people across the U.S. can learn about the Main Street Approach. On that day, a 5 1/2-hour videoconference on "Revitalizing Downtown," sponsored by the Trust, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the National Endowment for the Arts, will be beamed nationwide by satellite. Anyone interested in this subject can attend one of six regional conference sites: Denver, CO; Hartford, CT; Tallahassee, FL; Bloomington, IN; Jefferson City, MO; and Olympia, WA. BUDGET Stretching IDEAS

Making Today's Dollar Work Harder For You
Getting more from your dollar may seem like a hopeless task these days but it's not!

Many 'old time' budget stretching promotions still exist, but in a slightly different form! Years ago, people collected coupons and redeemed them for much needed household appliances. Today's home entertainment oriented consumer can participate in a number of nationwide consumer merchandising programs, offering free gifts of one type or another with the purchase of a consumer electronics product!

One such promotion many consumers may be looking forward to offers valuable coupon stickers with each video tape purchase. Sponsored by Konica U.S.A., it's re-

THEN-NOW!

One of the world's largest and most exclusive catalogs, given away free to a select group of some 300,000 scientists and educators around the world, is celebrating its 80th anniversary in 1984.

THEN-The first Fisher Catalog published in 1904, was 400 pages long, illustrated with hand-drawn woodcuts, and contained such offerings as Otto's Acetometer, a 60¢ device for measuring the percentage of acetic acid in vinegar.

NOW-The current Fisher Catalog, the laboratory supply compendium from the Fisher Scientific Company, an Allied Corporation unit, is quite a different matter. It's a 1,728 page opus, weighing six and a half pounds, with 4,395 full-color illustrations and showcasing some 80,000 scientific instruments and laboratory equipment products. These range from a can of pure dry air—retailing for $5.45—to a clinical chemistry analyzer ($79,900).

CAPITOL UPDATE

by Jim Parker

Let me talk about a program that I would like to see instituted in this state, that program most often being referred to as "workfare."

Workfare is a program whereby any adult welfare recipient able to work is required to perform a reasonable amount of community service work as a prerequisite to receipt of public funds. The work may well take the form of collecting trash along roadways, working in public hospitals or an almost endless list of tasks that gives the public at least some benefit.

The objection to workfare has primarily been that it is degrading to the person receiving the welfare funds and is unhealthy to the society forcing the individual to work. This objection, of course, flies directly in the face of what most of us have always been taught, being that any honest work is not degrading.

It makes no difference which side of the argument you choose, the fact is the social welfare system, state and federal, cannot continue to function as it currently exists.

Even if we do not attempt something like workfare, the end is in sight because our country is quite simply going to drown in red ink.

I do not think my constituents have any problems with the theory that you need to work for what you get, so I do not think you will be angered with me when I support workfare in the next session of the Texas Legislature.

At any rate, if you feel differently, now is the time to let me know.

Limousin bulls sell for $1,739 average

Texas Limousin Association members sold 128 head of cattle October 24 at their annual West Texas Classic for $191,900, an overall average of $1,499 per head.

The 96 head of purebred Limousin bulls brought $166,920, and averaged $1,739

Farm Credit Banks of Texas remain strong

Officials of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas remain confident of the Texas District's ability to withstand the adverse economic trends, even though Congress wrestles with a proposal for federal support for the Farm Credit System.

James A. Rogers, president of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas, reports that adverse national publicity has brought about some borrower loss of confidence even in the Texas District, but both loan volume and number of borrowers have remained relatively stable.

Rogers says that the Federal Land Bank of Texas countered the national trend by increasing loan volume from $2.63 billion at per head. The 24 females sold for a total of $17,350, and averaged $723 per head. The females included bred heifers, cows, open heifers and one pair. The eight head of Brahmousin bulls offered sold for $7,630, and averaged $953.75 per head.

The top selling bull, consigned by Scott's Oak Grove Farm of Rising Star, was Texas Red 412S, which brought $5,000 and went to Jack Campbell of Matador. The second high selling bulls brought $2,800 each.

The champion pen of three bulls, consigned by Texas Limousin Ranch of New Braunfels, brought $7,000. The reserve champion pen of three bulls, consigned by Bishop Boys Limousin of Winters, brought $6,600.

Kent Morgan of Big Spring was the top buyer of bulls, paying $24,900 for 18 head. Sammy Hooper of Crane purchased 17 bulls for $24,500. The top buyer of females was Alfonso Caballero of Juarez, Mexico. He paid $8,000 for 11 bred heifers and a cow and calf.

Other major buyers included Stanley Mayfield of Sonora, who bought eight bulls for $15,050; Mark Morgan of Big Spring, three bulls and five heifers, $10,525; Billy Huddleston of Snyder, five bulls, $9,950; and the Nail Ranch of Albany, five bulls, $8,550.

Other volume buyers were XIX Ranch of Turkey, four bulls, $5,550; Bob Johnson of Eldorado, three bulls, $4,500; Mike Turk of Iraan, four bulls, $6,650; Edwin Deike of Winters, two bulls, $2,275; Kennerd Windham, Midland, two bulls, $3,200; T-Bar Ranch, Tahoka, two bulls, $4,650; Austin Millsbaugh, San Angelo, two bulls, $3,300; O.A. Hamm of Irving, one bull and five heifers, $5,875; Buck Owens of Barnhart, two bulls, $3,150; the Toe-Nail Ranch, Christoval, three bulls, $7,100; and the Augustine Ranch, Water Valley, two bulls, $2,275.

the end of the third quarter in 1984 to $2.75 billion on September 30 of this year. Reviews of 32 Texas Federal Land Bank Associations showed acceptable business remained at 95.7 percent, 8.1 percent above the national average.

Reviews of 22 of the state's 28 Production Credit Associations' loan portfolios showed an improvement of 2 percent in business classified acceptable. PCAs also showed improved credit quality in problem and loss business.

Acceptable business in the Texas Bank for Cooperatives increased to 93.2 percent, an improvement of almost 3 percent over the same time last year, compared with a 92.9 percent national average.

Rogers said that nationwide the Farm Credit System has experienced greater losses than ever before in its 69-year history due to the downward spiral of commodity and land prices. Congress now is considering legislation which would stabilize the financial condition of the Farm Credit System.

"We believe that the Farm Credit System nationwide does need government financial assistance," Rogers stated. "We, however, are asking Congress to not require so much capital of us that it would cause us to have to increase interest rates to Texas farmers and ranchers."

Interest rates in the Farm Credit Banks of Texas currently are among the lowest in the nation's 37 Farm Credit Banks.

The Farm Credit System in Texas consists of the Federal Land Bank of Texas and its 44 Federal Land Bank Associations, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas, 28 Production Credit Associations and the Texas Bank for Cooperatives. The Texas banks and associations have approximately $4 billion in loans outstanding to 50,000 of the state's farmers, ranchers and their cooperatives.

New look for U.S. Government checks

All checks issued by the U.S. Government are getting a new look. The federal government is doing away with its familiar blueish-green, punch card check, said Congressman Charles Stenholm.

The new check is the same size, but features a multi-colored design and light-weight paper. A full-length likeness of the State of Liberty will replace the small, standard treasury seal on the left hand side of the check. It will have light colors that fade from blue and green to orange and peach.

The congressman said, "There are many benefits from converting to a new check. The change was not solely cosmetic, although the new look will be very difficult to counterfeit. More importantly the redesign will save at least $6 million by using a lighter, thinner paper, which will also cost less to store."

Stenholm said the national conversion will be conducted over staggered periods to help ease any confusion caused by the new look. Mass distribution of the paper checks is set to begin with this December's Social Security checks to more than 20

Must report SSI changes

People who receive supplemental security income (SSI) are responsible for reporting any event that could affect their right to payments or the payment amount, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

SSI payments are made to people 65 or older or blind or disabled who have little income and who do not own much in the way of property.

It is important that any change in a person's situation be reported promptly, Upp said. This way, the payment rate can be adjusted quickly so the person is not inconvenienced. People getting SSI can make their report in person, by mail, or by telephone. But, no matter how they report, they should include the person's Social Security number under which payment is made, the change being reported, the date it happened, and if the report is in writing, the person's signature and address.

Everyone getting SSI payments should report the following:

- *Any move or change of address, even if checks are deposited directly into an account at a bank or other financial organization.
- *If there is any change in the household; whether anyone moves into or out of the home; whether there are any changes in the amounts of money people contribute to expenses.
- *If a person enters or leaves an institution.
- *If a person leaves the United States.
- *If a person marries or marriage ends.
- *Any change in income of any person in the household.
- *Any change in resources, what the person owns, including real estate, car or other personal property, additions to savings accounts, or other investment.
- *If a student stops or starts attending school regularly.
- *Blind or disabled people should report any improvement in conditions, taking any job, and any change in earnings.

Someone should report for the person getting SSI payments if:

- *A drug addict or alcoholic stops treatment.
- *A person becomes unable to manage his or her own funds.
- *A person dies.

More information about these reports can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608. The people there will be glad to answer any questions.

million beneficiaries.

In February, the IRS will issue nearly 80 million tax refunds of checks with the new look. More than 8 million people, who receive Civil Service retirement, Veterans Compensation or Railroad retirement, will also be paid with the checks starting in April. Most of the checks received in the area are issued from the regional financial

More than 200 stations across North America will participate Texas Christmas trees are fresher

For a real Texas Christmas this year, start by selecting a genuine Texas-grown Christmas tree, suggests a forester with the Texas Agricultural Extension service, The Texas A&M University System. Texas-grown Christmas trees, most of them Virginia Pines, are fresher, more fragrant and usually less expensive than those shipped in from other states. Most are cut around Thanksgiving while those shipped in from northern states are cut in October. Nearly 300,000 Texas-grown trees should be available this year and should push sales beyond the $3 million mark. Texas boasts some 3,200 acres of Christmas trees, and most trees are ready to harvest in four years. Texas-grown trees can be found in retail lots in the larger cities and "choose-and-cut" operations are popular in many eastern counties where most of the trees are grown.

center in Austin.

"There is no cause for alarm or confusion because of the new look," said Congressman Stenholm. "Businesses and corporations who deal with cashing government checks have been notified about the change and citizens will not have a problem cashing them. I think everyone will like the checks. Having Miss Liberty on them makes them better looking, too."

House defeats bill

Congressman Charles Stenholm and several other Texas Members successfully led an effort to kill the so-called "plant closings bill" in the House of Representatives on Thursday.

By a narrow vote of 208 to 203, the House defeated H.R. 1616, which would have imposed heavy regulations on business or plants with 50 or more employees. "The margin of victory may have been small, but the importance of this win to the employees and employers of America is big, very big," said Stenholm, who headed the move to stop the bill along with fellow Texans, Congressman Steve Bartlett (R-Dallas) and Congressman Tom Delay (R-Sugarland).

The bill, which was backed by big unions, would heavily regulated business decisions regarding possible plant closings, layoffs, and workweek reductions by employers in financial difficulty. Among its many flaws, the bill would have required owners to provide detailed information to unions about its financial status in slow times and mandated 90-days-notice to employees and the government about possible closings.

"If this legislation were passed, we would be placing a staggering new paperwork burden on thousands of employers. We would just be begging companies to go abroad, where they don't have heavy regulations dominating everyday, business decisions. It's our job to help protect jobs in America, not lose them. I'm very pleased with our role in reiterating Congress' trust in the ordinary decision-making process of a free enterprise system," the congressman said.

Prevention is best treatment for poisoning

Of the more than 1 million poisonings reported across the country each year, about 70 percent involve children under five years old.

Tragically, parents contribute to many of these incidents by neglecting to put poisonous household products and medicines out of the sight and reach of youngsters.

Severe poisonings can result from toilet bowl cleaners, auto battery acid, swimming pool chemicals, drain cleaners, dishwasher soaps, industrial strength cleaners, furniture polish, charcoal lighter fluid, gasoline, and pesticides.

TMA's Committee on Emergency Medical Services and Trauma says the best treatment is prevention and offers these tips:

- Do not store household products under the sink.
- Lock all medicines. Pour out-of-date medicines into the toilet and flush.
- Never transfer a cleaning fluid, solvent, or other poisonous substance into an unmarked container.
- Keep insecticides, paint, turpentine, gasoline, charcoal

WHS Varsity girls lose to Brownwood

The Varsity girls of Winters High School played against Brownwood/Early last Tuesday, November 19, here in Winters, losing by just one-point, 44-43.

At the end of the fourth quarter, the game was tied at 40-40, but in the overtime that followed, the Brownwood/Early girls edged out Winters.

The high scorer for Winters was Leslie Pruser with a total of 13 points. She was also high scorer for the game.

Melissa Poehls scored 11 points and Lana Rice, six.

The girls completed 15 of 29 free throws for a percentage of 49.

Mauro praises Congress for fair solution

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro praised Congress for a fair and equitable solution to the division of Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas revenues that will bring $456 million to Texas to be earmarked for the education of Texas schoolchildren.

"The schoolchildren of Texas are richer thanks to this action by Congress," Mauro said. "Of that award, $296.8 million will be deposited in the Permanent School Fund and will not only make a better future for today's students, but will guarantee a future for tomorrow's students. The remaining $150 million will go to the Available School Fund to offset general revenue."

As a result of legislation in Congress, public education in Texas will once again be enriched by nearly a half-billion dollars. In 1978 Congress returned to Texas an interest in gulf lands by granting Texas a "fair and equitable" share of the revenues from Outer Continental Shelf lands.

Under that legislation soon to be approved by Congress, Texas would receive a lump sum award of $456.37 million-Texas' share of those incomes.

Of that figure, $296,865,027 would go into the Permanent School Fund to swell the endowment fund begun in the 19th

Hearing scheduled

The Texas Department of Human Services, the state agency which provides assistance to needy families and children and aged and disabled persons, will conduct a hearing in Abilene to obtain public comment regarding program directions, budget priorities, and expenditure of federal block grant funds including Title XX and Low-income Home Energy Assistance.

The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday, December 5, 1985. It will be held at 4380 Spindletop Drive, Abilene. Facilities are accessible to disabled persons and interpreters will be available for deaf or Spanish-speaking persons.

Conducting the hearing will be members of the department's advisory committees and staff of the agency. Comments from individuals, representatives of interest groups, and recipients or providers of agency services will be recorded for consideration by department executives in establishing a program and funding plan for 1987 through 1989.

Almost one out of every nine Texans use one or more department services. During Fiscal Year 1985, the agency provided services for 1.7 million people or about 10.6% of the population. Services include financial assistance, health care, day care, family planning, employment services, nursing home care, community care, licensing of child-care facilities, and protective services.

Leukemia Drive set for December 1

Mrs. Elizabeth Babb has been appointed Chairman for the South/Central Texas Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America, Inc.'s 1985 Residential Campaign in Wingate. The drive is scheduled for December 1-15.

Leukemia is a form of cancer that affects the blood-forming tissues, kills more children than any other disease—yet kills more adults than children. The Leukemia Society of America, Inc. is a national voluntary health agency with 57 chapters located throughout the United States, concentrates all of its efforts towards the problem of leukemia and related diseases, including the lymphomas, multiple myelomas and Hodgkin's disease.

The South/Central Texas Chapter provides a financial assistance program for leukemia victims in need of help. Patient-aid files are growing as patients live longer and financial demands increase. Our assistance has now increased to $750 per year per patient. The Leukemia Society also supports research programs that investigate methods of controlling and curing the disease. The Leukemia Society is located at 906 Basse Road, San Antonio, Texas 78212. Those patients needing help and financial assistance may call collect at (512) 737-1777.

Cattle outlook improving

The cattle market finally seems to be turning around, according to a livestock marketing economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. Cattle numbers are down, and the price recovery that began a few weeks ago should continue at least until the spring. The latest cattle-on-feed figures suggest that the over-supply problems of the beef industry caused by larger marketings of overweight feedlot cattle are about over. A 13 percent reduction in calves placed on feed during July-September should assure light supplies of fed beef for the last quarter of this year and continued lower marketings through the first quarter of 1986.

Not only will this award provide a better future for Texas schoolchildren but it will also help provide a partial solution to the state's current fiscal crisis.

Helpful safety tips for Thanksgiving

Each of the eagerly watched football games on Thanksgiving Day includes a "two-minute warning" time-out just before the game ends. Thanksgiving food preparations also signal a two-HOUR limit that should be watched even more closely to avoid ruining the holiday with a bout of food poisoning.

The traditional turkey, as well as other foods, should not remain on the table or counter at room temperature for more than two hours, cautions Texas Safety Association.

This time two-hour limit begins when the prepared food leaves the oven or refrigerator, continues through serving and the family's enjoyment of dinner, and ends when the leftovers are stored in proper containers and refrigerated (even if those leftovers are intended for snacks during that last football game later in the day).

Bacteria multiply rapidly at room temperature, and the risk of food poisoning increases as the time lengthens that food remains on the table. A buffet meal needs even more care, calling for small servings replenished frequently.

The rush and bustle of a festive day sometimes results in less care and thought than usual. And bacteria that cause food poisoning can quickly take advantage of a cook's lapse in safety precautions. Although an internal, cooked temperature of 180-185° F Kill bacteria during cooking, cross contamination can occur if utensils from preparation of the raw or uncooked foods are used for serving without THOROUGH cleansing between those uses.

Detailed suggestions and information on a safe holiday meal, including thawing and stuffing procedures, are available by calling the Meat and Poultry Hotline (1-800-535-4555), sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Two useful publications, "Safe Food Book," #504N, and "Talking About Turkey," #541N, can be ordered from the Consumer Information Center, P.O. Box 100, Pueblo, Colorado 81002.

Foster parents are needed by The Ark

The Ark Of Abilene is looking for foster parents Carol Oden, Executive Director of The Ark Of Abilene, an emergency shelter for children, announced their foster parents recruitment drive would continue through December. "It's so important that The Ark obtain more foster parents," she said. "In the past year, we had to turn away 91 children who needed a safe place to stay, because all our foster homes were full. The Ark of Abilene provides temporary emergency shelter for children who may be abused, abandoned, runaways, or their family be going through a crisis situation requiring temporary shelter for the child."

"If anyone has a little extra room in their home, and a lot of love in their hearts to give to a child who needs help, I urge them to call 672-5799 and talk to us about becoming a foster parent with the Ark of Abilene," said Mrs. Oden. "it could make such a difference in the life of a child."

Fiber Art Exhibition to be held

The San Angelo Museum of Fine Arts begins a Christmas tradition in 1985 with its First Annual Fiber Art Exhibition, as well as a variety of other exhibits, demonstrations and programs which will coincide with Christmas at Old Fort Concho events and continue through the holiday season.

The Museum of Fine Arts holiday exhibits open at 5:15 p.m., December 5, immediately following the ground breaking ceremonies for Fort Concho National Historic Landmark's Hospital-School reconstruction project.

The highlight of the season's offering will be the First Annual Fiber Art Exhibition which will feature excellent examples of historic and contemporary fiber art works using natural fibers.

Howard Taylor, museum director, said fiber art is a particularly pertinent subject for San Angelo's Art Museum.

"Today fiber art is considered a major art medium rather than simply a craft. We believe it is fitting with West Texas' status as a center for the wool and mohair industry and cotton production for the San Angelo Museum of Fine Arts to present a fiber exhibit of the highest caliber," Taylor said.

The use of natural fibers in the fine arts will be showcased in the rich, pictorial wool tapestries of Janusz and Nancy Kozikowski hung in the museum's vaulted main gallery. Known for their extraordinary color range and southwestern images, the Kozikowskis' work has received wide recognition in the U.S., Canada, and Europe.

The Museum of Fine Arts is also pleased to host "Latin American Textiles and Costumes; from the collection of Lloyd and Dale Wolfe as the historical component of the First Annual Fiber Art Exhibition. Each of the approximately 50 native costumes and tribal weavings were made on traditional backstrap looms employing native designs and symbols.

The San Angelo Weavers Guild will provide a loom and the skillful hands for weaving and stitchery demonstrations which will take place at the museum through the Christmas at Old Fort Concho events, December 6-8.

Also opening for the holidays will be "The Faces of Friday Night", an exhibit of 20 black and white photographs of West Texans taken by San Angelo Standard Times photographer Joe Abell at local and area football games.

The 40 year retrospective exhibit of the colorful collages and drawings by University of Texas at Austin Art Professor Kelly Fearing will also continue on exhibit.

Angelo State University Chamber Singers will fill the air with Christmas as they offer Christmas carols throughout the December 6-8 events and host their annual concert at the Museum on December 11.

"Bargains" may not save money

Well-advertised "bargains" on freezer meats may not save you any money, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service Specialist. When buying meat in quantity for a freezer, price alone doesn't tell the story, says nutritionist Marilyn Haggard. A 300-pound carcass at 40 cents a pound will cost $147. But you can lose one-third or more in cutting and trimming. So the 200 pounds of meat actually cost 73 1/2 cents per pound, she says.

There are three kinds of lies: lies, damned lies, and statistics.

Roscoe zaps Irion County for bi-District

Football fans came to Winters Friday to watch Jason Burleson, Irion County's big 6-4, 220 pound, sophomore quarterback, who transferred recently from Hamilton. But they walked away talking about Matt Denman, Roscoe's 175 pound senior quarterback who led the Plowboys to a 27-14 victory over the Hornets in the Class A, bi-district game.

Roscoe's victory lifts its record to 10-2 and qualifies it for a Class A area game this week against the winner of the Iraan-Dell City match.

It was the first loss of the season for Irion County, which ended 1985 with a 10-1-1 record.

Denman scored three of his team's four touchdowns and ran for 135 yards in the game.

The Hornet defense never did contain the Plowboy quarterback and his running mates, Tommy Williams and Danny Herrera. The Plowboys ran for 330 yards thanks to blocking up front from center Jeff Althof, guards Jeff McGlothlin and Junior Jiminez, and tackles Larry Cornoyer and Joey Guzman.

Burleson and the Hornet offense finally got untracked in the second half, scoring twice, but the Hornets couldn't from adding to their first-half production.

The Plowboys dominated the first half, taking a 14-0 lead at the end of the first half thanks to a ball-control offense and an alert defense.

Roscoe ran 39 offensive plays in the first half compared with the Hornet's 20 and that resulted in a 232-90 advantage in total yards offensively.

The Irion County offense had the ball only four times in the first half for a total of 8:42. Its four drives started at the Hornet 9, 31, 20, and 15 yard lines. Two turnovers taken by the Roscoe defense were key plays.

A fumble recovery by Patric Sanchez set up the Plowboys' touchdown, and an interception by Williams stopped Irion County's deepest drive.

Interest in model railroading as a hobby began after the Chicago World's Fair of 1933-34. Model railroad exhibits at the fair spurred this interest.

Alcoholism & Drug program given at Winters High

Tom Watson, Projects Director of the Sweetwater Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse, which covers Nolan, Runnels, Coke and Fisher counties, states that with permission of Principal Mike Grantham and Lynn Parnell, the 7th and 8th grade health classes will be involved in these presentations.

The following week, December 2-4, Watson will be working with Coach Jimmy Randolph, grades 9-12.

Watson will give three classes on alcoholism and drug abuse on November 25-27. The program will include the medical hazards of marijuana use and also other drugs; the abuse of alcohol and the effects of alcohol and other drugs on the driving task.

On the last day, film will be shown on ways of asking for help if a student or family member has a problem with alcohol or other drugs.

The Sweetwater Council works in all grades, K-12, as they believe that presentation and education is the most effective method to teach children and youth about the consequences of alcohol and drug abuse.

Balanced diet includes beef

"Beef is no higher in calories than other types of meat, and it belongs in any well-balanced diet," says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten. Sweeten cites U.S. Department of Agriculture figures which show that three ounces of lean roast beef contain 169 calories and three ounces of top loin (strip) steak has 195 calories. Three ounces of baked chicken, without skin, has 174 calories and three ounces of fried chicken, with skin has 209 calories. "It's a similar story with cholesterol," says the nutritionist. "People think beef is high in cholesterol, when it has only 73 milligrams per three ounce cooked serving." By comparison, the same amount of roast chicken contains 76 milligrams of cholesterol; fried chicken 74 milligrams; pork, 77 milligrams; and shrimp, 130 milligrams.

The rate of energy consumption in the U.S. slowed during the 1970's.
