Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

Somebody has really fouled up the weather around here. We have a few weeks of really fine weather and we get some much needed rain and everything is fine. Then we get zapped with ice, snow, freezing rain and other features of the Siberian Express.

Now really I shouldn't blame it on Charlie, but his name came to mind Tuesday morning when I walked outside into 17 degree weather with snow flakes floating down.

Enough, already. Those few weeks of spring weather has spoiled many of us.

One can hope that those trees that were fooled by the warm temperatures didn't suffer from these recent cold temperatures.

Have you noticed recently that the sewers and their promoting attorneys in several states have just about ended up without doctors?

A bunch of the medicos have decided that enough is enough. Their professional liability insurance (the insurance that protects against malpractice suits) has gone through the clouds rate-wise.

These guys are being faced with insurance rates that have increased hundreds, if not thousands, of percent in annual premiums.

The situation is not far from that in our state. The rates for professional liability are becoming unreal—if a company can be found to write such insurance.

There is a real need for that type insurance, but for the companies to boost their rates so high, or to refuse to handle such insurance places an unfair burden on everyone.

If things keep going, the sewers and their legal wise guys wanting millions and juries awarding millions, the insurance companies and their customers in the medical professions are going to have to go into a different line.

If it comes to that, there will be no medical folks to sue—or treat the sewers when they are sick or hurting.

Perhaps a solution might lie with our state legislature. It could keep insurance companies in business, encourage medical professionals to continue in their professions, and it might enable us all to continue to enjoy a high level of medical care when we, or our loved ones, are sick or injured.

It's time for me to gloat. I am now one up on Rick at the paper down south. I got an invitation to an event (of sorts) in his city.

My invitation even had a special, handwritten message asking me to attend—it even said that Rick was not being invited.

Here is a closed-circuit message for my buddy Rick. Out of professional courtesy I will make available pictures and news copy from that event.

Now there is a question in my mind about the event. It is billed as a community happening to benefit the community but, is it being done by the community?

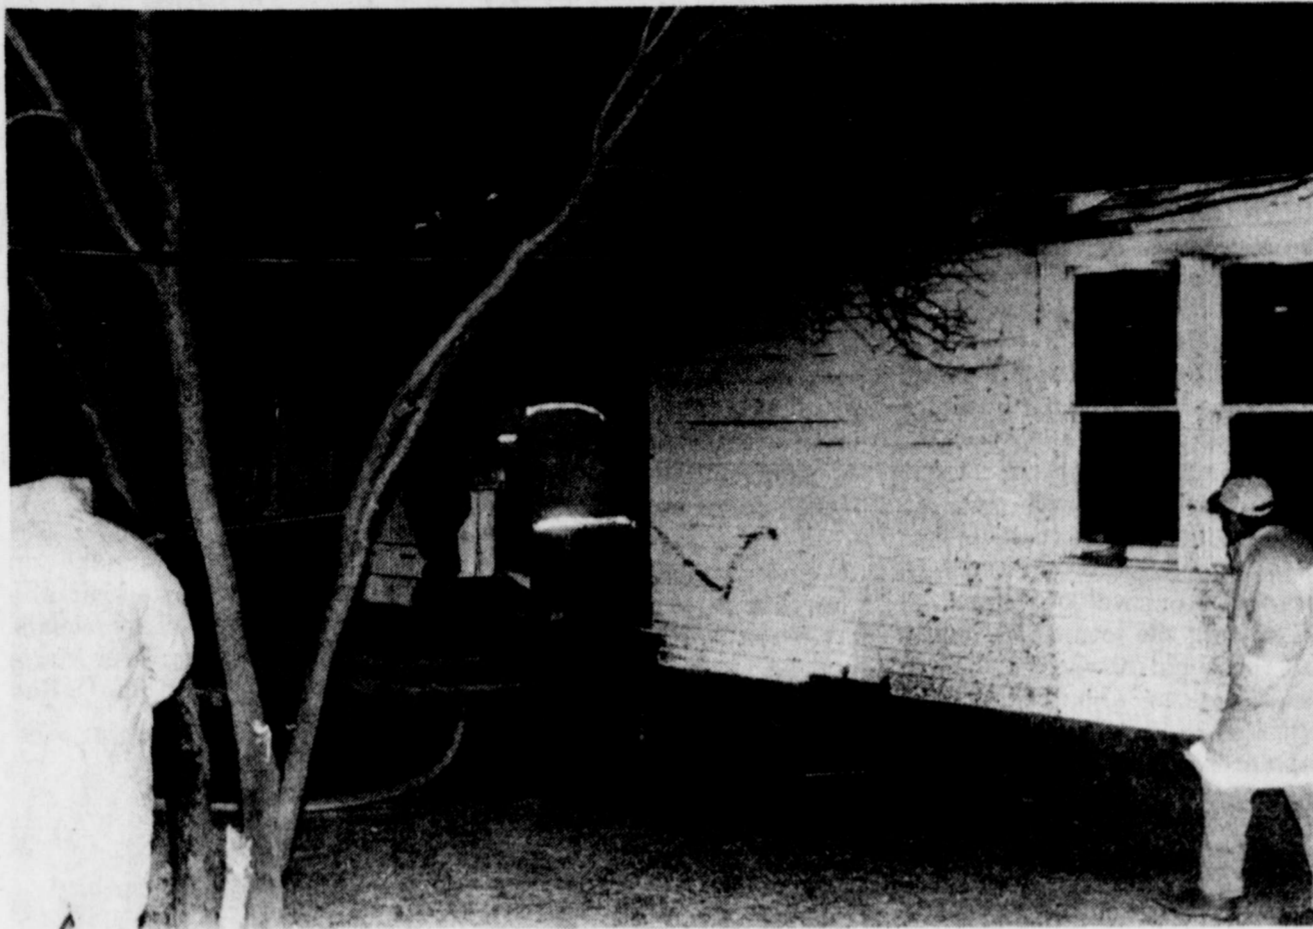

There have been questions such as these in my mind for many years. Apparently, there is a similar question in the minds of the city council there and a bunch of other folks.

Not to worry, Rick. Old buddy, I will do my best to make sure you get what ever you might need from that splendiferous business venture in March.

Colder than blazes

Winters firemen were called three times Sunday to the Eric DeLa Cruz residence on South Melwood and Hamilton Streets.

The first call came about 2:30 Sunday morning and firemen were on the scene for about two hours trying to snuff out the fire that had totally involved the frame home.

Firemen were called a second time when the fire re-kindled in the wood shingles under the tin roof. The third call came about 10 a.m. Sunday morning after the fire restarted in the roof.

When firemen first arrived at the home, flames were visible under the house, inside the house and coming from the roof of the house.

It was not known if anyone was home when the fire broke out. Officials did not indicate if a cause for the blaze was determined.

Bill Clements to seek governor's post, again

Texas is a special place. The history of Texas is a glorious story of success, triumph and accomplishment, of bravery, truth and commitment.

Texas has always represented what is best about America—freedom, opportunity, dedication, spirit, the will to win.

Texans are special people. Texans are an honest people. When a Texan gives his word—you can chisel it in stone. But if a man's word is broken, Texans lose faith in that individual and turn elsewhere.

Our next governor must have a vision for the future of Texas. He must be able to blend these special qualities of Texas and Texans with leadership ability to meet the challenges of the future. He must have the background, experience, know-how and leadership to do what is right for Texas.

Let me state as simply and forcefully as I can: I have the know-how and commitment to tell Texas that I will veto any and all tax or free increases. Bill Clements stands absolutely firm on this issue.

No state personal income tax.

No state corporate income tax. No tax increase of any kind. No fee increase of any kind. I stood solidly by this pledge during my first term and will do so again in my second.

I understand Texas very well. I am a Texan, born and raised here in Texas. I attended school, raised my children in Texas, and entered the business world—all in Texas.

My success in business was due in a large measure to the opportunity provided me by Texas. I know well what the "spirit of Texas" is about. I also know well the leadership necessary to guide our great state as we move into the future.

I am running for Governor because I care about our state, and am concerned about Texas' future.

Each of us has a debt to pay for the blessings we have received. And Texas has given me many. I am running for Governor to help protect our quality of life.

Some of you have heard me speak before about Texas being at a crossroads; about the period

Continuation of a letter written to a friend by Mrs. Henry Ray.

The society is just what you might expect from the mixtures of people we have here. Last Sunday we paid a long promised visit to Mr. V. and family; he was a classmate of my husband at Yale. They are living in a shed built under a cluster of trees, as their log house is not yet finished.

There were no windows, but the light had plenty of room to come in at the cracks. In that one little room there were four beds—as white and inviting looking as any in Richmond,—china, glassware, a few pieces of silver, and several books. All was as neat as wax. Mrs. V. was dressed in a neat linen wrapper and a lace cap, while Mr. V. was also in faultless attire.

Now, that is one side of the picture; here is the other. The next day we had occasion to stop for dinner at Mr. K's. He and his wife were dressed in skins. The cabin was dirty; the rickety old bed was still dirtier; the bill of fare consisted of fried bacon, black coffee, and corn bread.

The host took Mr. Ray aside and asked him: "Say, stranger, what was your name afore you came down here? And what did you do to make you come?"

Mr. Ray answered: "I came for my health, and my name was as it is now, Henry Ray."

It was easy to see that our friend did not believe the statement; we afterwards found that he left Georgia five years ago for stealing horses. But it gives me much pleasure to be able to say that we have met more people of culture and refinement than of rough and coarse natures; it provokes us to think that throughout so many of the states the common belief is that Texas has been for the most part settled by desperados and villains.

Of our educational advantages I cannot boast. Mexico has recently passed two laws; one that a school shall be established in each division of each State; the other that children shall be taught reading, writing, arithmetic, Roman Catholic religion, and a catechism of all the arts and sciences! These laws amount to nothing. We really have no system of public education.

Mr. Poinsett has written an account of his visit to a school in Mexico. He says: "I have just returned from visiting a school and have been much amused at the appearance of the pedagogue (teacher). In a large room furnished with two or three cowhides spread on the floor, and half a dozen benches, were ten or twelve urchins, all repeating the lessons as loudly as the could bawl. The master was stalking about the room, with a ferule (rod) in his hand, and dressed in a most grotesque manner. He had on an old manta (shawl) wrapped about his waist, from under which there appeared the ends of tattered leather breeches hanging over his naked legs; sandals were bound around his ankles; a leather jerkin, the sleeves worn off, and a dirty handkerchief twisted around his head, above which his shaggy hair stood erect, completed his dress.

"He seemed perfectly unconscious of his uncouth appearance, but received me courteously, dismissed his scholars immediately, and entered upon a conversation. He told me he was born in that house, and had never wandered beyond that village. Several of the country people came in while we were talking and treated the pedagogue with great respect."

A few excellent private schools exist. As the country becomes more thickly settled, these will increase.

Last week we had the pleasure of entertaining for the night Mr. J.J. Pilgrim, who about a year ago came out to Texas from New York. After many adventures he reached San Felipe de Austin and was most kindly received by the great empresario, Austin. He at once opened a school, and soon had forty pupils, the most of whom were boys. He told us he had never taught brighter or better children, they seemed so anxious to learn and improve every moment of time.

Mr. Pilgrim also organized a Sunday School, and this, too, was a great success, until some trouble arose between a few of the settlers and some Mexicans; the Mexicans, much out of humor, come to San Felipe to settle the matter, and Austin, fearing he was violating the law (for, you probably know, we are not by law allowed to teach or believe the Protestant religion, though really I don't believe the officers care), thought best to close the Sunday School.

How often do we attend church? Don't be to shocked when I tell you we heard our last sermon in Virginia. If we wanted to go to church ever so much, we could find in this part of Texas no church and no minister. I have heard that in other portions of the country a few preachers, in spite of the laws, do live and hold services. We have not even a Roman Catholic Church anywhere near us. Sunday is spent by most Texans in hunting, fishing and breaking

Experiences of a Missionary

Frances Powell of Abilene spoke to women of the First Baptist Church and their guests at a reception in fellowship in the fellowship hall, Tuesday.

In 1978, she and her husband, Joe, realized a dream of becoming volunteer missionaries, when the youngest of their five children left for college. They spent one year in Taiwan and left for the Philippines without coming home. After eight months they went to Kenya.

"A volunteer missionary is just a substitute," she explained, "staying in homes of missionaries while they are on furlough and taking care of their responsibilities."

Taiwan is a leaf shaped island 100 miles off the coast of China with 17 million inhabitants. Three languages are spoken, but Mandarin is the main one. Some 90% of the people are Buddhists and temples are everywhere. The believe that large funerals and the more prominent the person is, the more decorated trucks they use. The largest one Mrs. Powell saw was 100 trucks decorated in the customary green and yellow flowers.

The first six months in Taiwan the Powells lived at the Lingo Baptist Assembly. The people are very musical, Mrs. Powell, a music major, assisted with the University choirs. She helped revamp their music program and started them to using an organist. After moving into Taipei, where the Universities were, Mr. Powell helped in the business office, with student work and also on tv and radio.

The Powells attended the Calvary Baptist Church, an English speaking church. She was church organist, taught Sunday School classes and worked with the junior choir.

Over 7,000 islands comprise the Philippines and Baptist have mission work on ten of them. Luzon is the largest island and the seminary is in Baguio. The Powells lived in a compound in Manila where Frances discovered a little boy with a grand opera voice.

Although the rice terraces on Mindanao have been formed for 2,000 years, the natives don't eat rice, they eat corn. The missionaries found they were underfed and started a plan to help provide more protein. A rural life center was established. After the people came and took training on how to care for them, each family was given two goats and two ducks. Permission had to be granted by the village chief, the Datu. These people had never seen the beach, nor had they ever seen a movie. The life of Christ was shown on film and they were delighted.

France and Joe moved on to Kenya and lived there a year and three months. They returned home in January of 1982.

They lived at a boarding school in Nairobi where she taught piano to 30 students. Baptists have been in Kenya since 1950 and have 200 missionaries there.

Frances had carried her cello with her and played in a trio. This trio was privileged to play for the embassy and their wives while in Kenya.

The Powells graduated from Oklahoma Baptist University. Joe entered the Navy and served in California, Washington and South Carolina before his retirement. He was employed at Hardin-Simmons as vice president and business manager for a time. They are now on their way to Australia for another mission assignment.

I don't like cats. A cat is a poker-faced creature and I, for one, don't take poker-faced animals or people at their face value. It is too easy to act deep and mysterious. I question the so-called wisdom of cats. I think they are bluffing.

National Crime Prevention Week set

Hundreds of Exchange Clubs across the nation will be kicking off their 39th annual campaign against crime during National Crime Prevention Week, February 9-15, announced National Exchange Club President George Ow.

Exchange's 1986 program, endorsed by President Ronald Reagan, Attorney General Edwin Meese, and F.B.I. Director William Webster, has the theme of "Sharp Eyes Cut Crime." Ow said that keeping alert and promptly reporting suspicious activities to police is one of the most effective ways people can help reduce crime.

Other ways that people can avoid becoming victims of crime include:

- Making one's home look occupied when away, by using timing devices to turn lights on and off automatically.
- Making sure all house locks work properly, replacing if necessary with deadbolt locks.
- Avoiding high crime areas by selecting travel routes that avoid them.
- Being especially cautious at night, since many street criminals rely on the cover of darkness. — Parking one's car in well-lighted areas.

These and many other ways the average citizen can help cut crime are listed in the pamphlet, "Your Personal Crime Prevention Action File," which many local Exchange Clubs are distributing as a public service, said Ow.

Exchange Clubs sponsor a variety of additional crime prevention programs, such as Child Identification/Fingerprinting, which helps parents and police locate missing children, and Neighborhood Watch, a cooperative system of citizen surveillance over one another's homes and property.

"The main thrust of our effort is education," Ow said. "People shouldn't be complacent just because the crime rate has dropped a few percentage points. It's still a serious problem, and the Exchange Clubs of America are showing people how to deal with it."

Exchange is the oldest and largest exclusively American service club organization, with nearly 1,200 clubs composed of some 43,000 business and professional persons.

FFA and F-H members are ready to compete in Houston Livestock Show

Texas 4-H and FFA members are getting ready all over the state for showing competition at the Houston Livestock Show, to be held February 15 through March 2.

These young exhibitors compete in the junior show, where 1986 entries are expected to be more than 16,000. These junior show entries combine with open show and horse show entries to make the Houston Show the world's largest.

Junior exhibitors will be representing 804 Texas 4-H clubs and FFA chapters while open show exhibitors come from all over the world.

"Although we have a truly international livestock show, we probably take the most pride in the thousands of youngsters who come to our livestock show each year," said Don Jobs Jr., assistant general manager.

"They've shown that they're hope for the future of agriculture by committing themselves to a long year of hard work raising their animals," said Jobs.

Junior show and open show exhibitors will compete for millions in dollars in price monies and premium auction prices.

Long before the Show starts, committee volunteers contact auction buyers to guarantee that each animal sold at one of the four junior auctions will bring a price above the current market value.

Junior exhibitors show a variety of animals, including beef and dairy heifers, breeding sheep, goats, commercial steers, breeding rabbits and market lambs, steers, poultry and barrows.

The 1986 Show will have two new breeding beef heifer classes, Red Brangus and Maine-Anjou, as well as three new open cattle shows, which are Blonde d'Aquitaine, Salers and Simbrah.

Red Poll and Saler/Braler cattle sales will also be on the schedule for the first time in 1986.

The junior show will have a new sound this year with two new auctioneers—Charles Rollins, Ft. Worth, Texas, and Ike Hamilton, Monroe Louisiana. Walter Britten retired after 46 years as Show auctioneer.

New to the livestock exhibition building (Astrohall) will be two events sponsored by Budweiser Beer—pig racing and the Budweiser Wild West Show.

Pig racing involves a group of four sows racing along a 150 foot track in up to six seconds. This event begins Saturday, February 15 and continues through Monday, February 24 in the swine arena.

The Budweiser Wild West Show features trick roping and riding, fast-draw skills in action and a series of whip demonstrations.

This show begins Monday, February 17 and continues through Monday, February 24 in the main cattle arena.

Because of past success, the three-judge system will be used again for market lambs, barrows and steers.

This system helps ensure fair selection of champion animals based on production, feeding and carcass merit.

Junior market barrows will again be sifted at the Washington County Fairgrounds in Brenham, February 22 and 23.

Sifted barrow will be loaded directly for sale through normal livestock auction consignment, while the top 1,000 barrows will go on to the Houston Show competition.

In addition to providing a learning experience and exciting showing competition for 4-H and FFA members, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo is the largest donor of agricultural scholarships in the nation.

The Show is a total charity benefiting youth and education and currently has 899 students on scholarships at Texas colleges and universities.

The Show also funds extensive research and endowment programs at colleges and universities throughout the state.

This year's livestock show opens February 15, a special Sesquicentennial celebration will star Willie Nelson on February 18 and the first rodeo performance is February 19.

Livestock show and rodeo events conclude March 2. Saturday matinee rodeo performances begin at 11 a.m., Sunday matinee performances begin at 1 p.m. and all evening performances begin at 7:45 p.m.

Ticket prices are $4 and $8.50 and include admission to the livestock show.

Bullock reports on oil price slumps

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday said he would soon release a financial assessment of slumping oil prices on the Texas budget.

"Mexico's decision over the weekend to drop oil prices to $20 a barrel may have been the straw that broke the camel's back in terms of relatively stable prices," Bullock said.

Bullock noted that Mexico's oil exports account for about 17 percent of the imported oil used in the imported oil used in the United States.

That fact, alone, will have a strong influence on oil prices in Texas, he said.

Bullock said he has written Gov. Mark White and legislative leaders telling them of plans to update the state's financial picture.

"Even though world oil prices have been volatile, I'm not ready to throw out the current revenue estimate. But the oil situation that has unfolded in the past three weeks has serious implications for Texas and its finances," Bullock said.

The state's current budget is based on taxable oil averaging about $25 a barrel in this fiscal year and near the $24 mark in the following year.

He said new information is being gathered and will be included in the analysis which will be finished later this month.

A former native of Talpa, Clara Bedell Norris, 85 yrs. old died Saturday in a San Angelo nursing home. Services were at 11:30 a.m. at Johnson Funeral Home with burial in Coleman Cemetery. She was survived by two daughters, five sons and a brother, Walter Bedell, of Coleman and two sisters, Linda Childers and Sarah Bomar.

Amos and Mary Barnes of Grand Prairie spent several days at their home in Talpa.

Ann Green spent the weekend recently with Donnie and Lisa and Amanda Dunn in Aspermont.

Kile Green of San Angelo spent last weekend with Darrell, Ann and Amy Green.

Jeffie Strawn of Ballinger spent last weekend with the Johnnie Decker's.

Johnnie B. Decker of San Angelo visited with his parents on Saturday.

Johnnie and Dulcie Decker honored their daughter Dinah with a birthday dinner on Sunday, Feb. 9th. Howard Taff, Johna and Jeffie and Mr. and Mrs. Merl Taff of Ballinger were there also.

Loweta Pope and Fay Pettiet went to Abilene Saturday afternoon and visited Travos Masters in the Hendricks Hospital. He seems to be a little better.

Benton and Pat Cassaday and Zane were at the San Antonio Stock Show over the weekend.

Land Board approves sale of bonds

The Texas Veterans Land Board this week approved the sale of $250 million in general obligation bonds to CitiCorp Investment Bank of New York at an effective interest rate of 8.26 percent to continue funding for the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program.

Garry Mauro, who serves as Chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the interest rate on home loans made with the new bond issue will be announced after the Veterans Land Board staff "has had time to calculate the effects of the winning bid." The current interest rate charged to Texas Veterans is 9.97 percent.

Today's sale will allow us to continue making home and land loans to Texas Veterans without interruption through what we believe are the finest Veterans programs in the U.S.A.," Mauro said. "I want to urge all Texas Veterans that are in the market for a home to take advantage of this outstanding program and its low interest rates by calling our toll free number 1-800-252-VETS for assistance."

Initiated in 1983, the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program has made more than 26,000 low-interest $20,000 fixed-rate loans to eligible Veterans to apply toward the purchase of a home.

"Texas voters gave evidence of the popularity and stability of this program last month when 65 percent of all Texans voting endorsed continued funding for Veterans home loans," Mauro said. "I'm sure the evidence of Texans' continued support for this successful program contributed to the innate strength of this program in the bond market and the outstanding interest rate we received."

Old-time ranching ways no longer pay

Historical ranching techniques won't pay for modern living, points out a livestock specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. While there is nothing wrong with preserving history, the problem comes when people expect historical ranching to pay for a modern lifestyle. To stay in business, a rancher has to change with the times. Ranchers need to improve overall management and to determine their goals and objectives. In order for a ranch to survive, historical ranching needs to be history. Ranching has got to become a business for survival.

available and an accurate and complete herd history, the diagnosis for brucellosis can be more than 99 percent accurate.

Brucellosis Update

Vaccinations virtually triple; quarantined herds decline 37 percent; certified free herds increase 3,000 percent.

These are among accomplishments in the Texas brucellosis program during the past five year fiscal period September 1, 1980 to August 31, 1985. Dr. John W. Holcombe, Executive Director, Texas Animal Health Commission, reports.

"Thanks to the cooperation of Texas' livestock producers, we have seen more advances in control of brucellosis in this State during the past five years than has perhaps taken place in all years previous," Dr. Holcombe said. Major revisions in the Texas program were made in 1980. Highlights of the past five years include:

Quarantined herds: In 1980, a major effort was launched to locate infected herds. In July 1981 there was a total of 2,413 herds under quarantine which was the high point of this five year period. As of July 1, 1985 there were 1,528 herds under quarantine. Comparing July, 1981 with July, 1985 there was a 37 percent decline.

Vaccinations: Calfhood vaccinations for brucellosis for fiscal year 1980 totaled 557,888. For fiscal year 1985 the total was 1,353,337. That represents an increase of 143 percent, or virtually triple the 1980 figure.

Certified free herds: At the end of fiscal year 1980, there was a total of 46 certified brucellosis free herds in the State. At the end of fiscal year 1985 there were 1,450 certified free herds, which is an increase of 3,052 percent compared to 1980.

Producer participation: A cattleman with a herd under brucellosis quarantine now has several options open to him which was not the case before 1980. Testing schedules are now arranged to fit as closely as possible with the producer's operation. The producer now has the right to participate in establishing his own individual herd plan; he can also protest a proposed herd plan before the TAHC Executive Director and at a hearing.

Laboratory support: The lab system now used to verify brucellosis infection is the most modern and finest to be found anywhere. Additional tests are now routinely done on suspected brucellosis infected animals. Knowledgeable scientists agree that with the variety of tests

8th Grade girls lose to Jim Ned girls

The Winters 8th grade girls traveled to Jim Ned Thursday, February 6, only to come home with a loss of 29-11.

Lisa Farias scored 5 points; Nancy Sanchez, 4 points; Christi Collins, 2 points.

Nine out of 19 free throws were made for an average of 47%.

Coach Selby says of this game, "This was an exceptionally good night for the girls. The girls record of 3-12 for the season and 0-6 in district does not do justice for the amount of heart and desire these girls displayed. Throughout the season they would be down by a large number of points but they would fight back and never give up. With better coaching and experience I believe they will become better players. As a coach, I had more fun and received more satisfaction working with these young ladies than I have with any group before them."

8th Grade boys win over Jim Ned boys

The Winters 8th grade boys were guest of the Jim Ned Boys Thursday, February 6, clipping Jim Ned's feathers by a score of 48-25.

John Salazar was high scoring boy from Winters with a total of 11 points; Gibo Lujano scored 9 points; Richard Bryan, 7 points; Jimmy Ripley, 6 points; Richard Lett and Ruben Hernandez both with 4 points each; James Salazar, 3 points; Dan Killough, 2 points; Brady Cowan and Kenyon Black with 1 point each.

Six out of 15 free throws were made for an average of 40%.

"Depending on the outcome of the Coleman vs Baird game the 8th grade boys are either District Champs or they will be Co-Champions with Baird. The season record is a fine 12-3 and their district record 5-1. If Baird lost Thursday then their record would be 4-2 and the 8th grade boys would be District Champs of 11-AA Junior High to go along with their District Champs in football," says Coach Selby.

Basketball games slated for Winters

Basketball games have been scheduled to be played in Winters. The games scheduled are as follows.

Monday 17-Coleman boys vs. Bronte boys in a practice game, time to be later announced.

Friday 21-Evant boys vs. Christoval boys for Bi-District, scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Varsity boys host Eastland Friday

The Winters Varsity boys were host to Eastland February 7. A good game was played with the game going into overtime play. After overtime the Blizzards came out on top with a score of 64-60.

Eric Belk was high scoring boy with a total of 28 points; Sam Smith scored 12 points; Edmund Tamez, 8 points; Wayne Poehls, 6; Martin Martinez, also six points; and Kevin Halfmann scored 4 points.

Sixteen free throws out of 26 were made for an average of 62%.

"Eric Belk sank two free throws with five seconds left to cap a comeback which brought Winters from a 55-48 deficit with 1:42 to play and send the game into overtime. Eric and Sam Smith had fine games, but everyone including the bench played well," says Coach Farmer.

Varsity boys lose to Albany Varsity boys

The Winters Varsity boys' team traveled to Albany February 4, coming home with a loss of 54-50.

Eric Belk was high scoring boy with 17 points; Martin Martinez scored 11 points; Sam Smith, 10; Wayne Poehls with 4 points; Edmund Tamez, 3; and Eric Foster with 1 point.

Only six out of 22 free throws were made for an average of 27%.

Coach Farmer said, "Missed free throws tell the story on this one. We missed 16 of 22 from the line, 10 of which were front ends of one and one."

Scholarship program for High school seniors announced by ASU

Applications from high schools seniors are being accepted by Angelo State University for approximately $1,000,000 in academic scholarships for 1986-87.

Over 400 Carr Academic Scholarships for 1986-87 ranging in value from $1,000 to 4,000 are available to qualified high school seniors.

As a general rule, worthy and deserving students who are in the top 10 percent of their class, have a 90 or better high school average, and have a composite ACT score of 21 or more or a combined math and verbal SAT score of 900 or more should compete favorably for the Carr Academic Scholarships.

Supported by a multi-million dollar trust established in 1978 by Mr. Robert G. Carr of San Angelo, the undergraduate scholarships may be renewed annually by the University and can be worth from $4,000 to $16,000 during a four-year course of undergraduate study.

During the current year, 893 students are attending Angelo State University on Carr Academic Scholarships. Approximately 28 percent were valedictorians or salutatorians of their high school class, and a number of the scholarship recipients were National Merit Scholars, Finalists, or Semifinalists.

Over 400 Presidential Scholarships of $1,000 each are also available during 1986-87 for outstanding seniors who do not qualify for a Carr Academic Scholarship. To receive a Presidential Scholarship, students must be recommended by their principal, counselor, or teachers; rank in the top quarter of the senior class; have an ACT

Lady Blizzards beat Eastland

The Lady Blizzards hosted the Eastland High girls Friday, February 7. The Blizzards took a win over Eastland of 42-39.

Leslie Pruser scored 13 points. Others scoring were, Sonya Belk, Missy Poehls, Christi Fenter, Carolyn Garcia, Rosie Salazar, Michell O'Neal, and Lana Rice.

"The Varsity girls concluded the season with a big win over Eastland last Friday night. With the win the girls tied for 4th place in district and could easily placed higher in the standings, due to a couple of losses at the beginning district play. Going to the play-offs are Champions of 11-AA, Coleman and Baird. Seniors on the 85-86 team are Carolyn Garcia, Michelle O'Neal, Lana Rice and Gina Rosson," says Coach Dearen.

of 18 or higher or an SAT of 800 or higher; and demonstrate satisfactory English or verbal skills as reflected by one of these tests.

The priority deadline for submitting applications and all supporting materials is March 1, 1986, although completed applications from outstanding students may be considered up until July 1, 1986, to the extent that funds are available.

The University is located on an ultra-modern campus with state-of-the-art facilities for academic programs ranging from business, computer science, nursing and the applied sciences to teacher education, the humanities, and the fine arts.

Junior Varsity plays Albany

Tuesday, February 4, the Junior Varsity Girls played Albany and came away with a loss of 46-32.

Landa England and Tracey Grantham scored 6 points each; Sally Smith and Cindy Carrillo, 5 points each; Sandy Martinez, 4; Kim Slaughter, 3; Melissa Smith, 2; and Nolsa Prine scored one point.

Twelve out of 25 free throws were made for an average of 48%.

Coach Whittenburg said of the game, "The girls lost to Albany in their final game of the year. They played them a good game, but scored too few points in the first and third quarters to come out ahead. The team's record for the season is 7-9, with a 4-5 record in district play. Individual statistics for the season include: High percentage free throw shooter, Sally Smith with 54%; rebounds, Landa England with 165; points, Landa England with 114 and Tracey Grantham with 113; ball steals, Tracey Grantham with 83. All of the players are good kids and I've really enjoyed working with them. Thanks to them for a good year."

John Nevill to seek 65th District post

John Ed Nevill, longtime resident of Eastland County, has announced that he will seek the Republican nomination as a candidate for the Texas House of Representatives, District 65.

The native Texan said, "To serve this district and its people would be a great honor. I identify with rural Texas because that's where I was raised. I see the rural communities of Texas taking more and more of a back seat in Austin. I would like to see that trend reversed. It is from the small towns, ranches, and farms of Texas that our heritage comes, and it is from these areas that men and women of the 'right stuff' are molded. District 65, which includes Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, McCulloch and Runnels counties, stands out as one of the finest; and the people of this area needed to be heard loudly and clearly in Austin. As a spokesman for this part of Texas, I will pledge my time and energies to represent the people if elected."

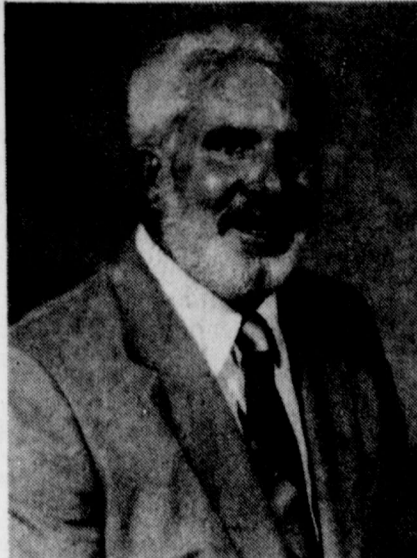

Nevill continued, "There is a dignity to government at all levels, and I intend to represent the office of state government with a dignity and honesty that is beyond reproach."

Nevill is part owner of a local origination television station in Brownwood. Most of his background has been in electronics and primarily in cable television, having managed systems in Cisco, Eastland, and Ranger for four different companies as well as owning cable systems in North Texas around the Sherman-Denison area. He has served ably in local politics and helped create and form the Tax Appraisal District in Eastland County.

The major industries of this area need to be promoted and protected, he says, and that most assuredly includes agriculture and oil. "Without the farmer and the independent oil producers, our area would be in deep trouble and many of the programs which help the rest of us would suffer. Because of my background, I understand the problems of business and the concerns of the man on the street. I believe in District 65 and what its people stand for, and I will be proud to serve it."

Nevill, 46, was born and raised in Sonora. He attended TCU and served in the U.S. Navy submarine service for seven years, aboard vessels out of Florida, Virginia, and South Carolina, and was on the commissioning crew of the Polaris Submarine USS Simon Bolivar SSB-N 641, where he was in charge of the missile fire control systems.

In March 1969, Nevill and his family moved to Eastland where he took over management of the Eastland CATV operation. Later he was named manager of the systems in Cisco, Eastland

4-H Members have exhibits at Ft. Worth

Two Runnels County 4-H members exhibited their steers during the Southwestern Livestock Exposition in Fort Worth on January 30-31. In the Brangus steer show, Marci Caffey, of Winters, placed 11th in the middleweight class and she also exhibited her Limousin cross steer. Mike Howard, of Ballinger, also showed his Chianina cross steer in the heavyweight class. Nathan Smith, of Winters, showed his Chianina steer.

In the Market Lamb Show, the following Runnels County 4-H'ers exhibited their lambs: Deron Robinson, Connie Robinson, Heath Belk, H.A. Belk and Barbara Belk, of Norton; Kathy Hays, Kristy Hays, Raenese Turner, Jennifer Bickel, Brian Bickel, Paul Patton, Melody Cape, and Jennifer Cape, of Ballinger; and Kevin Eschberger and Kyle Eschberger, of Miles.

The value of the average conservation could be enormously improved by the constant use of four simple words: "I do not know."

of transition we are in; and about the tremendous challenges we will face. Make no mistake about it: those challenges will be real... the decisions will be tough... and the future of all Texans — not only that of our children, but also of their children — will be affected by the outcome of this year's election for governor.

Problem-solving ability is a prerequisite for the next governor. The period of transition Texas faces also will require a governor who can reach out to the people of Texas and get their involvement.

It will require a governor who can build lines of communication with the people to listen, to respond, to care, to act.

My campaign — and my second administration — will listen, learn, respond, care and act. A Clements administration will never be afraid to lead, and will never be afraid to listen and take guidance. Together we can do what is right for Texas, preserve the Texas quality of life, and prepare Texas for the next century of challenge and change.

This period of transition we face today poses the greatest challenge Texas has ever faced in modern times. These will be difficult times that will try the souls of all of us, but we Texans have faced such crises before and we have always come through with flying colors.

That's because we're a tough people with plenty of grit and fiber.

I enter this race for Governor of Texas with experience, know-how, a proven record of performance and a strong desire to serve the people of Texas. And I also enter this race with a vision for our future. This vision is essential to protect both the special qualities of Texas and our ability to meet the challenges of a rapidly changing state.

I want to invite all of Texas to join me in a partnership to set the proper course for Texas.

I ask all Texans to join me and work together to prepare our great state for the future, which can be exciting and filled with progress as Texas' past.

A glow within a woman casts a most becoming light on others.

Seminar scheduled

A seminar entitled, "Senior Adults and Substance Abuse," will be held February 18, 1986, at the WTCOG Administrative Offices in Abilene.

The Seminar, sponsored by the WTCOG Aging Services and Health Services (includes Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services) departments will focus on three increasingly serious problems of the Senior Adult population in the area of substance abuse-traffic safety, both as driver and passenger/pedestrian, as victims of abuse, and as potential suicide victims: Persons 55 years of age and over are involved in a disproportionate number of traffic fatalities, including one in three pedestrian deaths. The presentation will focus on the part substance abuse plays in this problem, since alcohol and other drugs account in this problem, since alcohol and other drugs account for one-half of all traffic fatalities. Abuse of Senior Adults is now considered to be as widespread and unreported as that of battered wives and abused children.

This abuse may be infliction of injury, unreasonable confinement, intimidation, cruel punishment, or exploitation of the Senior Adult's resources. The abuser often suffers from chemical or alcohol dependency. The program will explore the link between substance abuse and abuse of the Senior Citizen as well as educating participants on what can be done to protect Seniors in our society. The presentation will also focus on the problem of suicide among the Senior Adult population and the role substance abuse may play in its increase. Participants will also learn signs to watch for which indicate a potential suicide and how to deal with the grief accompanying such a loss in the Senior Adult community.

EPA to conduct survey of homes

The EPA will soon conduct a nationwide survey of homes for radon—a dangerous gas emitted from uranium deposits in the earth that seeps up into homes. National Wildlife magazine reports that up to a million homes may have "significant" levels of radon gas, which is known to cause cancer among uranium miners. Extremely high concentrations have already been found in southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

The outdoor barbecue will be from 6 to 8 p.m. at the elementary school ground. Price is $3.

Sunday March 2 from 2 to 4 p.m. is set for open house at the Z.I. Hale Museum. Those who wish to exhibit favorite Texas keepsakes on this very special day are invited to participate.

HENDRICK LEAGUE HOUSE

Hendrick League House is becoming a reality — but we still need your help to finish this home away from home for outpatients and families of patients at Hendrick Medical Center. With your support, neighbors will have a place to stay when family members are critically ill. Show your love and concern with a donation to Hendrick League House. Pledges and donations from outside the city of Abilene received by March 1 will be matched by a $50,000 anonymous challenge grant. Please help us reach that goal. Call or write: Hendrick Medical Center Foundation, 1242 North 19th, Abilene, Texas 79601-2316. A joint project of the Hendrick Medical Development Corporation and the Junior League of Abilene.

Hendrick League House needs $6,000 to match challenge grant

Hendrick Medical Center Foundation needs $6,000 to meet a challenge grant of $50,000 for Hendrick League House, according to Foundation President Winston Beard.

A generous donor, who wishes to remain anonymous, will make the contribution if a matching $50,000 is brought in from outside Abilene by March 1.

Hendrick League House will be a 30-room home-away-from-home for families of patients in critical care areas. It will be located across from Hendrick Medical Center. The project is jointly sponsored by Hendrick Medical Development Corporation and the Junior League of Abilene.

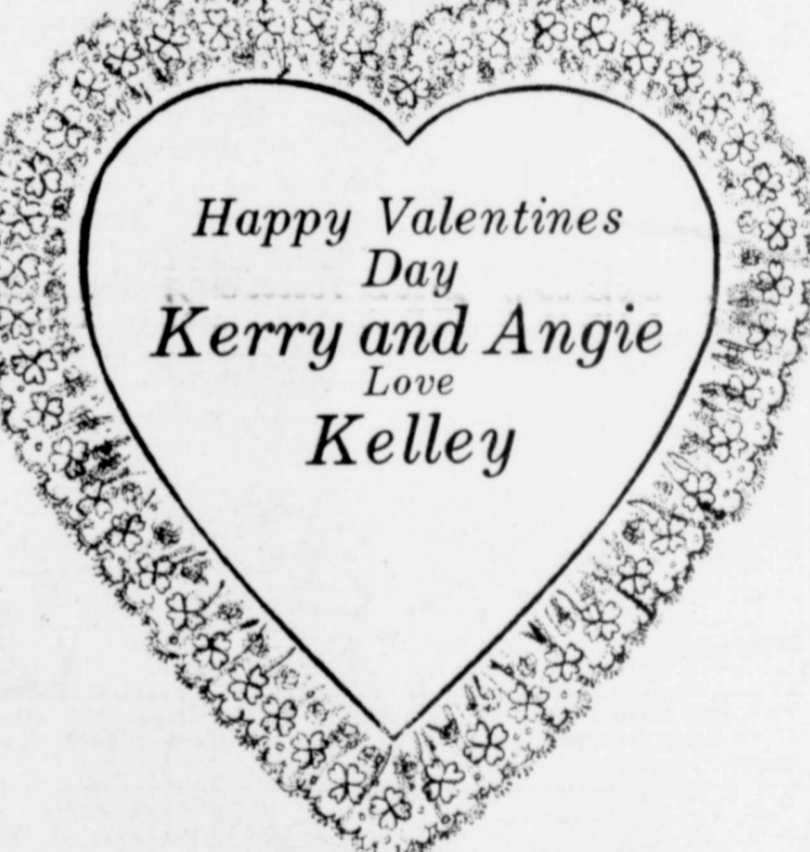

"The matching grant is a tremendous opportunity we can't afford to miss," Beard said. "The stipulation to raise $50,000 outside Abilene was designed to encourage fundraisers to get the word out to our friends in neighboring towns about the Hendrick League House. About 50 percent of the patients at Hendrick Medical Center come from outside Abilene and they are the ones who will benefit directly from the Hendrick League House. We feel confident they will help us meet our challenge."

More information on the Hendrick League House may be obtained from Hendrick Medical Center Foundation, 1242 North 19th, Abilene, Texas, 79601, (915) 677-3551, extension 2204.

Parents should be aware of air quality

Medical researchers at the University of California at Irving say parents should be more aware of the quality of air their children breathe, both indoors and out, reports National Wildlife magazine. Children are far more sensitive to air pollutants than older children or adults. The reasons: children need more air per unit of body weight to maintain proper metabolism and body temperature, and their smaller air passages collect more pollutants.
