Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

Sunday morning was a bit of a disappointment.

I don't believe that there was an egg in town. If there was it had to be real fresh.

It would, I guess, be nearly right to say that our town had egg on its face.

Maybe it is a sign that I am growing older but, I just don't understand what kind of cheap thrill someone could get from ruining another's clothing, hair-do, or expensive auto paint job with the incredible, edible egg.

When I was growing up, back just this side of nineteen aught-when, water balloons were the rage. The cops busted as many of the water-balloon throwers as the throwers busted balloons.

When you think of all the eggs that were thrown, and all the dollars spent to buy the eggs it is amazing.

The eggs would have been put to much better use in the food pantry.

If I sound irritated about the deal, I had to run to the store early Sunday to get eggs to eat—they were all gone!

All the scarecrows in town were judged this week. There were some good ones.

One display, that received honorable mention, may have been judged a bit late.

Our mayor, in his store, apparently went to extremes decorating for Halloween. It worked fine until a friendly, helpful council member/letter carrier dispatched the for-real bat with a fly-swatter.

Next Tuesday is the General Election when we get to vote for, or against, a bunch of folks—all on the same ballot.

Newspapers are frequently asked, during an election season, to make editorial endorsements—so here goes.

In the race for Governor, Mark White has had his turn. In my grade book, his score was such that he not be allowed to play. Bill Clements, on the other hand, seems to be due a second term in the state's top office. Bill should win by at least a touchdown.

Now in the race for the office of Attorney General of Texas, the incumbent sent me a letter last week asking for an endorsement.

This Jim Mattox is the same one that I have been trying to get on the phone for nearly two years.

Mr. Mattox calls himself the people's lawyer. That may be only half true in some instances. One of his big campaign propaganda ideas is to enforce the payment of child support—that in itself is okay but, he refuses to enforce visitation orders for the absent parent.

He would not talk to me about that one. He had one of his aides tell me that the federal government wouldn't let him do that—now wait a minute...

We need a change in the Attorney General's office, lets give Roy Barrera a try.

For the office of State Representative for our district, incumbent Jim Parker has done us a good job and will continue to do so.

As far as we're concerned, there are only two other races on the ballot. They are both local. In these races I will use a political tactic and side-step any endorsement.

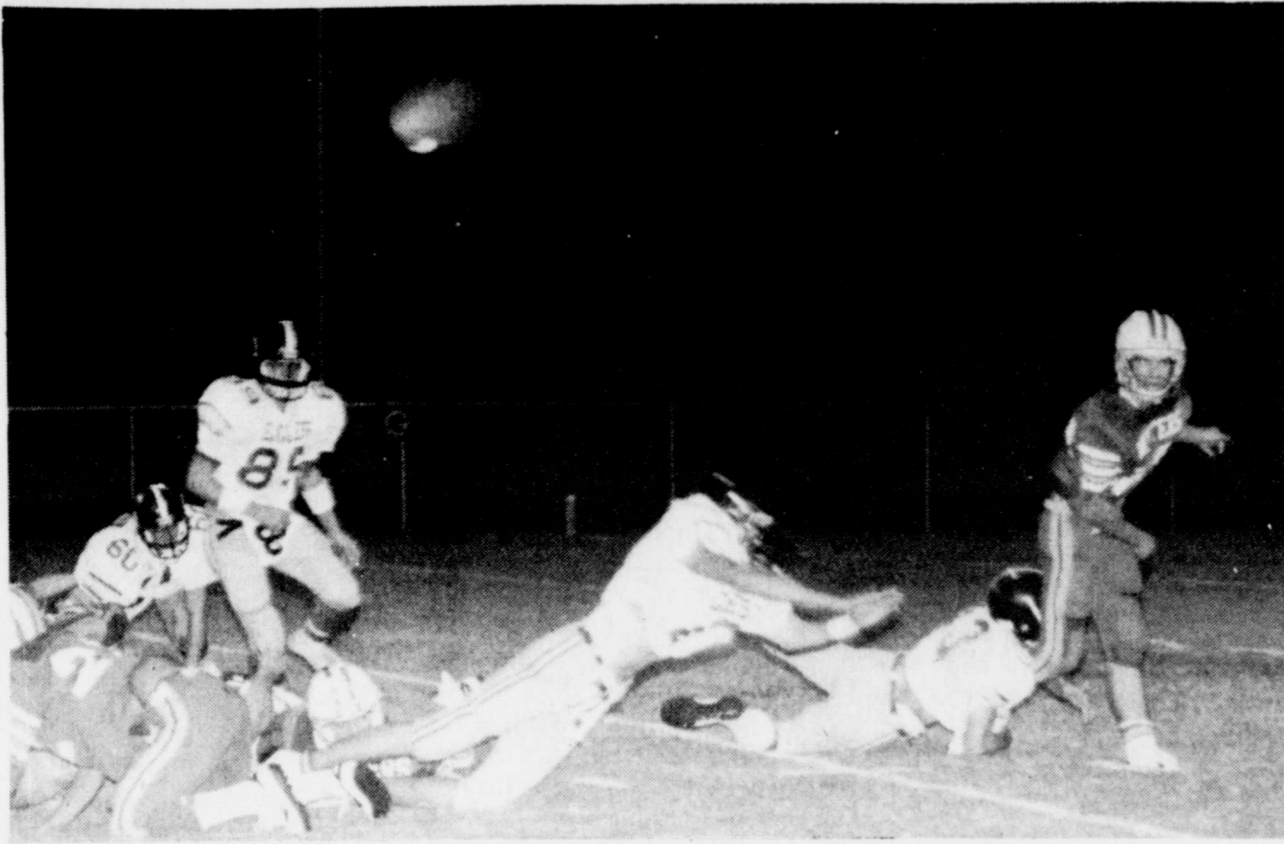

This Friday is the day that I will wear blue and white. The Blizzards go to Coleman, also blue and white, to play football.

Also Halloween comes around Friday and there will be bunches of spooks and goblins about.

They will be flitting from house to house in search of treats. If you happen to be out driving, watch out for these little ones.

Hats off to Dr. Thorpe. He will conduct his own costume contest for Halloween. The winners will be chosen from those little ones that come to his door.

It also is the time of year

Eagles find Blizzards ready

The score in last Friday's game with Goldthwaite really didn't tell the whole story. The Eagles, rated high this year and last year's state champs, outscored the Blizzards 27-7.

The statistics tell the other side of the story. Winters almost matched Goldthwaite with first-downs and with rushing yardage. The Eagle's win came as the result of well-executed big plays.

Winters Coach Dan Slaughter, looking back at last Friday, said, "I think we caught them (Goldthwaite) by surprise. When all was said and done, they knew they'd been in a ball game."

Goldthwaite, on its first possession, drove the length of the field and scored pretty easy, but did it on big plays, three of them.

Winters returned with a couple of first downs before having to punt and the Eagles used only two plays to score, but missed the extra point.

Finally the Blizzard offense got started on about their own 10-yard line and moved in for their only score. The key play was a 45-yard pass from Chris Rives to Dale Roberts to give the Blizzards the momentum to bring the score to 13-7 and put Winters back into the game.

Coach Slaughter said, "We moved the ball well, all night long. Our passing game set up our running game. It was one of those things, if we had just had to back and run at them, I'm afraid they would have just stuffed us. But, because we could throw the ball enough, we made them back off and play our passing game and we moved the ball well."

In the game Goldthwaite gained 20 first downs while the Blizzards followed closely with 19. In offensive yards gained, the Eagles picked up 360 while Winters was only 40 yards back with 320 yards of offense.

The coach said, "Our offense has finally come out of the shell finally beginning to move the ball. I think the reason it is, is that Chris Rives and the receivers are doing a good job of throwing and catching the ball."

"It's opened up our running game," Slaughter said, "Frank Davis had nearly 70 yards rushing, John Peter DeLaCruz had nearly 80 yards rushing. All around, it was a good night offensively."

"Defensively, they played very well. We just gave up too many big plays. When they would pop one, you could see their speed when they would

The Escape

After Mary Ingles determined to make her escape from the Indians, she persuaded an old Dutch woman, also a prisoner, to engage with her in this seemingly hopeless and daring attempt.

They arranged a plan to ask the Indians for leave to gather grapes at Big Bone Lick and provided themselves with a blanket and tomahawk, also a knife. For fear of being suspected they took no clothing, except what they had on and it was well worn. Their destination was about 90 miles from camp and some distance from the Ohio River, the only guide they had for direction.

When the two women did not return the Indians became uneasy, thinking they were lost, and used every means to find them. Not trusting them, the Indians concluded the women perished in the woods or were killed by some wild beast.

After reaching the Ohio River, the two women traveled up it for four or five days where they saw an Indian town on the opposite side.

They found a patch of corn and a cabin where they spent the night and ate some of the corn the next morning. There was a horse in the lot, which they took and loaded with corn to help them along the way. Traveling on up the river, they sighted some Indian hunters, but secreted themselves and were not discovered.

It was necessary for the two women to cross Licking River, a little river that emptied into the Ohio, but it was too deep for them to wade. They traveled by the stream three days before finding some drifted timber that afforded them a passage. But how to get the horse over—the Dutch woman insisted she could take in on the drift pile, however the beast fell in among the logs and had to be left.

Taking what corn they could carry, the runaways traveled on up the Ohio. This was the course they pursued at every stream of water, of which there were several, and could not have surmounted the difficulty had it not been for the season of the year when the water level was very low. Even so, some of the streams had to be traveled several days before a crossing place could be found, and then down again to the Ohio. When the river made a bend and point of ridges, the travelers attempted to cross in an effort to shorten the distance. Being worn down by fatigue and starvation the women had to pull themselves up by the shrubs and bushes until they reached the top. To descend they slid all the way down.

Under these difficulties and nothing to sustain nature but food they picked up in the woods such as black walnuts, grapes and paw paws; the women were often so pushed with hunger that they dug up roots and ate food they knew nothing about. The Dutch woman blamed Mary for their predicament, and several times tried to kill her. Because she was much stronger, Mary tried to keep her in a good humor. At length they reached the mouth of the great Kanawha River which was little more than half of their journey.

After traveling about 50 miles up the Kanawha, the old woman made another attempt to kill Mary and would have succeeded if the younger woman had not outrun her. Mary hid under the river bank until after dark. By moonlight she found an old canoe which was filled with leaves and dirt. Climbing the bank, Mary found a limb that had fallen from a tree and cleaned out the boat. Using the twig as a paddle she managed to steer the boat across the river where there was a cabin left by hunters.

Mary spent the night in the cabin and looked for food the next morning. Wild beasts had destroyed the corn patch but she found two small turnips to eat. The Dutch woman saw her across the river and begged Mary to come back, promising that she would not harm her. Loath as she was to leave the woman, Mary realized that the hardest part of her journey was ahead and since she was out of reach in case her partner decided again to kill her she had better keep it that way.

The scant clothing which Mary wore was nearly worn out or dragged off by the brush and her moccasins were entirely gone. With the weather growing cooler, her prospect of succeeding was almost hopeless. However, her resolution bore her up and she pressed on. A light snow fell and to keep from freezing at night she hunted out hollow logs and covered herself with leaves. After traveling for several days through the frost and wading waters around the rocks her limbs became so frosted and swelled that she could not continue. Providence intervened and Mary saw a clearing just ahead.

Not seeing any house she began to call out and Heinrich Adams an old neighbor, recognized Mary Ingles and rescued the skeleton of a woman who had fallen in his corn patch. She was carried to the house and fed various kinds of soups, a few mouthfuls at a time, until she began to gain strength. Her feet, mere bones, and legs were bathed and treated until she was able to travel.

Adams and his two sons packed their horses and provided one for Mary to ride. They carried her to the fort at Dunker's Bottom where all the people in the country had collected. Thus ended her trials of nearly five months from the time she had been taken prisoner. This included the 42½ days of returning through the wilderness.

When Mary reached the fort she prevailed on some of the men to go look for the old Dutch women, after traveling 15 or 20 miles down New River, the men found her riding an old horse with a bell on him. The men took her to the fort where Mary was and it was a joyful meeting, the older woman had become crazed from hunger—Mary's hair had turned white from the ordeal.

In the meantime, William Ingles and John Draper had spent time at the Cherokee Nation, trying to persuade the Indians to go to the Shawnees and offer to purchase their wives and children or to procure their release in some way.

The very night that Mary returned to the fort at Dunkard Bottom, her husband and brother, John, camped about seven miles away. Imagine their surprise and delight to find Mary at the fort the next day. Six more years went by before John's wife was released.

The Ingles stayed at the fort until next spring. As the settlers were likely to be harassed by the Indians again that season, Mary became uneasy and could not be reconciled to stay. William moved her to Vaupes Fort at the head of the Roanoke River.

Choosing a kitchen fire extinguisher

A home fire extinguisher is the best insurance against the spread of a small kitchen fire into something that could threaten the entire house, says Dr. Peggy Owens, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist. According to Owens, a small carbon dioxide extinguisher is ideal for small kitchen fires because it sprays a fog which smothers the fire and evaporates without making a mess. Next best is one containing a dry chemical, which also will deny grease fires the oxygen needed to burn, but will require cleanup of the spray powder afterward. Both types of extinguishers are superior to using water or an extinguisher with a water-base agent as the fire-fighting material. "Spraying or throwing water on grease or electrical appliances is very dangerous," says Owens, "since water causes the grease to splatter and spread."

Bentsen to speak at Mass Citizenship Ceremony in Seminole

Senator Lloyd Bentsen said Thursday, October 23, he will travel to Seminole, Texas, this month for a ceremony in which 151 members of Mennonite community will become citizens.

The new citizens will honor the Senator during the ceremony.

Bentsen fought from 1977 through most of 1980 to block the mass deportation of members of the community to Mexico. He won the fight in October 1980, when former President Jimmy Carter signed legislation authored by Bentsen granting permanent resident status to 653 Mennonite immigrants.

"I'll never forget the fight we went through on this one. It was long and difficult. Members of Congress would come to me and say 'I never heard of granting residency to this many people in one piece of legislation.' But they became convinced, as I was convinced of the uniqueness and equity of this case and ultimately the legislation received overwhelming approval in both Houses of Congress," Bentsen said.

"We had a community of people, who had been misled into thinking they were entering this country legally, who were welcomed with open arms by the people of Seminole and I just could not allow their mass deportation."

 The Mennonites entered the U.S. in the spring of 1977 on temporary visitor visas, good for only 60 days. They believed, though, that they would be allowed to remain in this country permanently, having been advised that a substantial land investment they had made here would permit them to do so. They fled Mexico because of the possibility that their land in that country would be confiscated.

Most of the Mennonites settled in Seminole, where 550 remain today. Some 70-80 live in Boley, Oklahoma.

Bentsen was invited to be keynote speaker at naturalization ceremonies in the junior high school auditorium in Seminole, at 12 noon, Friday, October 31, 1986. One hundred fifty-one members of the community will become U.S. citizens in the ceremony.

The letter of invitation, from ceremony coordinator Carlos Neuschwander, added "at this time the Mennonite community would also like to present you with a token of appreciation for all you have done on their behalf."

U.S. District Judge Howard Woodward will administer the oath of citizenship during the ceremony.

Maintain water heater for energy savings

Maintaining your water heater, especially in hard water areas, can increase energy efficiency, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

For hot water heaters under a year old, Dr. Susan Quiring recommends starting regular maintenance by completely draining and refilling the heater once a year. In addition, a bucket of water should be drained from the heater as often as every other month in problem water areas. This removes sediment which absorbs heat energy. But water heaters which have not been drained regularly may already have sediment in the drain valve. Once opened, a clogged drain valve may not close completely, so the specialist advises against draining older heaters.

Calling all Sul Ross Exes!

Never again should Sul Ross State University be required to prove its need for existence as it did during the summer of 1986. A very large amount of negative publicity about Sul Ross during the early summer rapidly evolved into a massive amount of good publicity after July 10. Enrollment is now up more than 10%. Now is the time for us to move forward.

Many of us feel that there is only one way to prevent a recurrence of the summer of 1986, and that is a continued increase in enrollment. We feel that Sul Ross needs 2,300 to 2,500 students on campus in Alpine and another 500 to 700 at Uvalde to be secure. We also feel that a strong and vocal Sul Ross Ex-Student Association can do much to achieve this goal.

Many excellent West Texas students are being lured away from Sul Ross simply because other universities have more scholarship dollars to offer. A strong Ex-Student Association can improve this situation. Our goal is a tenfold increase in membership within the year, and it will be done.

The dues are now $15 for a single Sul Ross Ex or $20 for a Sul Ross couple. The benefits include an annual subscription to the Sul Ross SKYLINE, quarterly issues of the Sul Ross Ex-Student Newsletter, and regular newsletters for the office of President Jack Humphries. In addition, each new member will enjoy a great deal of satisfaction in knowing that he or she is helping in some small measure a college that has helped so many of us in the past.

Please do it today!

Agri-Women will hold meeting

Big-Country Agri-Women will have a meeting Monday, November 3, 1986 in the Runnels County Courthouse at 7 p.m. This meeting will be to elect officers for the coming year, work on the constitution, and to discuss programs for the coming year. Any woman who is interested in agriculture and its future is invited to come. Membership is $15 a year for active members and $20 a year for inactive members. Program suggestions for the coming year are "information needed for loans," "fire safety," "how to make a will," "how to identify field bugs," "government programs" and anything else that pertains to the farm family or people who are in farm related businesses. At this time, this is the only Agri-Women organization in Runnels County and surrounding areas and we encourage women in these areas to join us.

The group has already sponsored a program with the two candidates for Texas Agricultural Secretary expressing their views and is planning some Education Programs on what the farmer is doing to supply the world with food, clothes and other products and how this affects everyone's economy.

C.A.S.I. Cookoff to begin November 1

When John Wayne and his Batjac Production Company were shooting the famous movie, "The Alamo" in Brackettville nearly 20 years ago, there was little "after-hours" entertainment in the remote West Texas town, except a few rattlesnakes and several bottles of liquid libation.

The rattlesnakes were mean enough to kill, and libation, in the dawning hours of the next day, could make you wish the snakes would hurry up and do their job.

However, the Duke always came prepared with his famous hangover cure—a steaming bowl of zippy, spicy chili.

Each morning he and the cook would concoct a barrel of highly-seasoned chili for those in need. The Duke was a believer in the recuperative powers of the greasy, peppery feast.

Chances are, if the Duke were alive today, he'd been making plans for a reunion of sorts over at Terlingua, November 1.

This is the 20 year of the (Chili Appreciation Society International (C.A.S.I.) Terlingua World's Championship Chili Cookoff (not associated with the international Chili Society), a frolicking, good time gathering of some of the best—and most famous—chili cooks in the world.

C.A.S.I. President Larry Burruss predicts several thousand people will drive or fly into Terlingua this year for the cookoff, related musical events and general free-for-all.

As in the past years, the Terlingua Medics will benefit from the cookoff. Two years ago, C.A.S.I. provided a custom-built, $50,000 ambulance for the Terlingua/Big Bend community. The nearest medical facility is 80 miles away.

The C.A.S.I. cookoff will begin at dawn November 1 at Glen Pepper's Villa De La Mina, three miles west of Terlingua. More than 150 cooks are expected to compete for the top honor.

"We have more than 50,000 acres for parking and overnight camping," said Burruss. "Better bring your own supplies like water and beverages. This is a rustic setting to say the least; there's no electricity at the campsite. But best of all, bring somebody with you."

Events planned in conjunction with the chili cookoff include dances at sundown Friday and Saturday evenings, with music provided by the bands of Kent Finley and Bill Smallwood.

Terlingua is located in the middle of nowhere, near Big Bend National Park. To get there, make your way to the West Texas town of Alpine, and take a left (going south) on State Highway 118. The next town you come to, some 100 miles down the road, is Terlingua.

Select proper wood

With Texans investing a lot of money in wood products to improve landscape design and increase outdoor living, particular attention needs to be given to selecting the proper wood. Landscape accents such as fences, trellises, decks and gazebos will remain sound and attractive with proper wood selection and maintenance, says a wood products specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System. The best solution when wood is used in ground contact or constantly wetted is pressure treatment. Copper-chrome-arsenate (CCA) treated southern yellow pine is an excellent choice for posts, landscape timbers, patio blocks and edging boards. For a natural weathered wood appearance, (CCA) treated pine is the best choice while naturally resistant woods like redwood and cedar offer a new wood appearance.

Retort packages in vending machines

Some vending machines now carry food sealed in retort packages. These packages act like light-weight, flexible cans and need no refrigeration, says Marilyn Haggard, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist. Like cans, retort packages have a shelf life of two to five years as long as the pouch is intact. But if the pouch is bulging or leaking, don't taste the food," Haggard warns, since it may contain bacteria. "Although food poisoning is not life-threatening for most people, it can be very unpleasant," she adds.

Art Lawler

The writer gets the feeling I'm "Knock, knock, knocking on Heaven's Door."

"If you have any comments to me you can find me in heaven," he says. "Better yet," he concludes, "write or call Dale Hinshaw at 706 North Pine in Brady, Texas."

The P.S. says, "I think he would enjoy talking to you."

He would enjoy talking to me? Is he, He, or is he Dale Hinshaw? Has Hinshaw previously died, and is he now living in heaven? Or were these God's words telling me to either meet Him in heaven for coffee, or to go see His agent Hinshaw?

The postmark isn't much help. It doesn't say "Heaven," but it doesn't say Brady, Texas, either. What is does say is Abilene, Texas. But this only adds to the mystery.

Are we to assume God sent it to Abilene to be relayed to Buffalo Gap, U.S.A. (12 miles South), or that He sent it to Hinshaw who drove to the Abilene post office to mail the letter instead of dropping it in a box in Brady?

Then again, was Hinshaw only kidding about living in heaven? Or is he a ghost, or an angel who was actually sent from Heaven?

Possibly there is a town called Heaven I've never heard about. It is also possible, though not probable, that Hinshaw had a few too many snorts and thought he was in heaven, when he was in Brady, or Abilene, or Heaven, Oklahoma, or Texas, or wherever.

Then again, I'm probably being too literal. Hinshaw seems like a decent fella. Either God recommended him to me, or he recommended me to God. In either case, it speaks well of the man.

For some reason, I've received hundreds of letters similar to this one through the years. Some were comforting, others disturbing. A few have been signed by, "The Lord," Or "God Almighty," Or "Your Creator," Or "Your Father in Heaven."

Some just weren't very positive. There were prognostications that I was "Knock, Knock, Knocking on Hell's Door." One lady not only predicted I was going to hell but promised she would be upstairs looking down on me and laughing.

Another woman sent me a booklet with a picture of the devil on the front. He had horns protruding from his forehead. He had a pointed tail, carried a pitchfork and had the kind of eyes your mother always told you to run from.

Occasionally I've been foolish enough to spar with these people. It always resembled a shootout in Dodge City. I was the guy wearing the black hat and sporting a pistol full of faulty information.

My weapons, I was told, were discovered while walking down paths. The wrong path, the wayward path, the path of destruction, the path of hopelessness, the path of passion, etc., etc.

On the other end of Dodge there was always a tall, right-thinking person wearing a white hat that looked a lot like Matt Dillon's. He usually packed a white King James in his holster and my trendy "Good News for Modern Man" never stood a chance.

Being the sporting type, he would wait until I made the first move.

"It is not necessarily evil to read Huckleberry Finn," I'd fire.

The right-thinking person would then blast me for God, using "Thou shalt not" cartridges.

Naturally, I never won one of those shootouts and I'm tempted to retire from the ring in one piece. You can't get any closer than heaven's door in this life, can you?

Besides, as Willard Scott, the weatherman on the "Today Show," once noted, "When you're on the backside of 40, you're too old to box with God."

Or His agents.

Say Happy Birthday to Dustin Bates

Dustin Bates of Novice who is currently undergoing treatment for Leukemia at Texas Children's Hospital in Houston, will celebrate his ninth birthday on Saturday, November 1.

Let's encourage him by sending him Birthday Wishes. His mother said cards would make young Dustin very happy. Let's take a few minutes of our time and send him a card, mail to: Dustin Bates, Room 782, Texas Children's Hospital, 6621 Fannin, Houston, Texas 77030. Or you can telephone (713) 791-2366.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor: The sporting goods industry is mad as hell and out to "Break Lawyer's Pencils".

The trial lawyers in Texas have embarked on a massive mis-information campaign through the public mails to their clients. This campaign of mis-information suggests to their clients that there is no product liability problem in Texas or in the nation. It also suggests that litigation has not escalated and infers that the insurance problem related to this litigation is more of a "sham" than an existing problem.

Nothing can be futher from the truth, but what can an unsuspecting client do who has built a long term trusting relationship with his personal attorney. Not only has litigation escalated dramatically in the last ten years, and continues to spiral, insurance rates have reached astronomical levels with everyone purchasing protection against liability claims. It has been reported that 9 out of 10 claims are settled before they turn into litigation out of fear, not fault. The threat of litigation does as much damage and is as costly as litigation itself. Unless we curtail the litigation, we cannot curtail the cost of liability.

When American-made product cost 5%, 10% and even 15% more than foreign-made because of the cost of insurance, we are shifting American jobs overseas to fill the greedy pockets of attorneys. The 650,000 attorneys in America are unnecessary and are making a living at the expense of society rather than protecting us. Japan has 10,000 attorneys with a population half the size of the U.S. While we are litigating, they are exporting.

So we ask all the business community to symbolically "Break Your Attorney's Pencil" and suggest to his attorney that he is not only doing a great disservice to his state and his country, but a disservice to his client. Further, if an attorney has a different philosophy on tort reform than his client, then his client should get a new attorney.

The SGMA hosted a nationwide Product Liability Summit meeting in New York during the New York Sport Show September 29, 1986 at the Jacob Javits Convention Center. A six foot peniel symbolizing their concern was there to call attention to SGMA's Product Liability. Sports grassroot campaign for tort reform

Sincerely,
Howard J. Bruns

The Texas Historical Commission (THC) is now accepting entries for its 1986 T.R. Fehrenbach Publications Contest. Designed to encourage the original research and publication of material that preserves, records, and recounts the prehistory and history of Texas, the contest is open to any scholarly work on Texas history that was published in an edition of at least 200 copies.

The contest is named in honor of well-known Texas author and THC member T. R. Fehrenbach. A committee of THC members will serve as judges for the contest, and winners will be announced next April at the Commission's Historic Preservation Conference in El Paso.

Persons interested in nominating a publication must request an official guidelines sheet and nomination form from the THC. For this year's contest, eligible books must have been published between January 1, 1986, and December 31, 1986. Deadline for all nominations is December 31, 1986.

Books will be judged in one of six categories:
 * County Histories
 * Community Histories
 * Organizational Histories.
 * Biographical and Family Histories
 * Ethnic and Minority Histories/Women's Studies
 * Specialty Books

An award also will be given to the best overall entry.

For a copy of the contest guidelines and nomination form, contact the Publications Department, THC, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, TX 78711, 512/463-6100.

Vote

Next on the ballot is the race for Lieutenant Governor. Democratic incumbent Bill Hobby is being challenged by Republican Davidson and Libertarian Bill Howell.

Another race that has received enormous amounts of publicity is for the office of Attorney General. Republican Roy R. Barrera, Jr. is challenging incumbent Democrat Jim Mattox for the office. Also on the ballot for the Attorney General's office is Mike Stephens, running under the Libertarian banner.

Incumbent Gary Mauro is seeking to return to the post of Commissioner of the General Land Office and is opposed by Republican M. D. Anderson, Jr.

A hotly contested race for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture will be decided. Front runners include incumbent Democrat Jim Hightower and Republican candidate Bill Powers.

Closer to home, for the office of State Representative, District 65, incumbent Jim Parker is being challenged by Republican candidate Joe Branham.

There are only two other contested races in this county. Republican Randy J. Nolte is seeking the office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2. He is seeking the office held by Democratic incumbent J. C. Hodnett.

Incumbent County Commissioner, Precinct 2, Johnnie Wilson, a Democrat is the only candidate listed on the ballot for that office. He is, however, being challenged by Richard Hamilton. Hamilton is waging a write-in campaign for the office.

The other offices in Runnels County up for election have incumbent candidates that are unopposed.

B.A.S.A. SOCCER

By J. F. PSUTKA, M.D.

We are more than halfway through the Fall soccer season. The games have been played well and the skill levels of the players continue to improve. We have had a very good play and very good fan support with very little quarrelling and very little poor sportsmanship. Occasionally, we have had irate coaches and players, but for the most part good sportsmanship has been the rule. We must remember that the game is for the enjoyment of the children, not coaches and the adults. We will not tolerate bad adult behaviour and we certainly do not appreciate it.

On Saturday, November 1, 1986, 2 rain cancelled games will be on the schedule. The Sidekicks will play the Rangers at 3:30 p.m. on Field II. The Celtics will play the Warriors at 3:00 p.m. on Field III.

The B.A.S.A. will put on a demonstration game during halftime of the second football game Thursday, October 30, 1986. The under 6 age teams, the Mustangs and the Eagles will play a short quarter during halftime, to showcase soccer to the fans at the 8th grade game. It shall be fun and great entertainment. It will give the people of Ballinger a little idea of what soccer is about and they will be able to see how involved the children are.

Soccer is now played in 5A high schools where 150 teams now participate. We anticipate that it will be played in 3A schools in the next 2-3 years.

During the last directors meeting of B.A.S.A., the Winters representative discussed problems within their organizational structure. They have problems that involve finances and adult participation. These problems are serious and we feel that it is extremely important that Winters develop a Winters and Area Soccer Association, an autonomous group that will help develop youth soccer. The children of Winters will suffer if youth soccer folds. Active adult participation is essential to develop an association so that the children can continue to play. Once developed, then turn it over to the children, and they will do the rest. If you can help and want to organize a Winters association, please call Ann McNulty at 754-4081 or Sue Kirby at 743-2162.

LAW XIII FREE KICK

A free kick is classified as either a direct or indirect free kick.

A goal cannot be scored from an indirect free kick unless the ball has been played or touched by another player other than the kicker.

When a player has been awarded a free kick in his own penalty area, all opposing players shall remain outside the penalty area and 10 yards away from the ball. The ball must be kicked into play and not to the goalkeeper. Outside the penalty area, all opposing players must be 10 yards from the ball.

The ball must be stationary when the kick is made. The referee will signal an indirect free kick by raising the arm and holding it aloft until the kick is taken.

If a player does not retire 10 yards or if he jumps about and gesticulates in order to distract his opponent, he shall be cautioned.

If a player taking the free kick, plays the ball a second time before it has been touched by a second player, the opposing team will be awarded the ball and a free kick.

Pirate Log

In the school year 1936-37, the P.T.A. presented a portrait of a pirate to Mrs. Duke's second grade class, which makes it an antique now. It had hung in the entrance hall of the school from that time until four years ago. Recently, Lamoine Helm did a wonderful job of restoring the painting of the school mascot, and it now hangs in the entrance hall again. If anyone knows who did the original painting, please contact someone at the school.

We were encouraged by the outstanding attendance of parents, grandparents and friends at open house. We are happy that you are interested in the school and the achievements made by the students.

At this time kindergarten through the fourth grade entertained with a program of Halloween songs. Kindergarten through sixth grade made Halloween masks and modeled them in a contest for the funniest and the scariest. Prizes were presented on stage to the winners as follows:

Scariest—Randy Cotter

Scouts will be taking orders for popcorn

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers of the Chisholm Trail Council will be taking orders for popcorn during the next two weeks, to be delivered in early December.

The first annual popcorn sale of the Chisholm Trail Council will offer a 3.5 pound bucket of regular popcorn and also a microwave box containing five bags. In either case the price will be $5 per box or bucket.

The individual Packs, Troops, and Posts will decide how they will spend their share of the profits and the Council will use its share to help pay the increased costs of liability insurance and to help balance the 1986 budget.

The banjo is America's only true native musical instrument and is distantly related to the guitar. It was first developed in the South in the 1790's.

Newspapers carry most information

When asked where they get most of their consumer shopping information, approximately two out of three Texans respond, "newspapers," so reports Dr. Frederick Williams, director of the Center for Research on Communication Technology and Society at The University of Texas at Austin.

Direct mail ads run a distant second (20 percent), followed by television (11 percent), magazines (six percent), and radio (four percent).

"These figures are not unusual," reports Dr. Gary Wilcox, a specialist in advertising in UT Austin's College of Communication, who is conducting the detailed analysis of the study. "Newspapers are particularly important to people for shopping because they not only convey the product message, but give further information on vendor and price," Dr. Wilcox adds.

Similar to other studies of sources of advertising information, the Texas research indicates a relationship of income and education with the use of print media. "This may be a carry-over from a similar correlation found in the preferences for sources of news," Dr. Wilcox explains. "The better educated tend to rely upon more sources of information and print in particular," he adds.

The current study, when compared with similar information gathered in 1984 from a statewide sample of Texans, further indicates a visible increase in the report of newspapers as a source of shopping information. In the earlier study, newspapers were reported as a main source of shopping information by 50 percent of the respondents, followed by mail (22 percent), television (18 percent) and radio (10 percent). Magazines were not included as an option in the study.

Those changes in sources of shopping information may reflect several points, Dr. Wilcox says. For example, in dif-icult economic times, people may have to seek out more detailed information on competitive pricing or sales in order to stretch their money further. That may account for the greater use of newspapers in 1986 in Texas as compared with 1984. Another and not necessarily competing explanation, Dr. Wilcox adds, is that there are more Texans of higher income and better education in 1986 than 1984, and "we know that this is related to uses of newspapers."

Finding such as these do not mean that advertising in media other than newspapers is a poor investment, Dr. Wilcox explains, pointing out that advertising involves many types of information and persuasion. The broadcast media generally introduce products to create their images, whereas newspapers may place more stress on where to buy and what the cost will be, he notes. Mail is interesting as an advertising medium because it can combine these two functions, he adds.

"In all," Dr. Wilcox says, "we can expect Texans' use of advertising to change as not only our buying habits and use of media change, but we see change in the population itself."

The findings were based on results of a 1,000-household study conducted in August by the Texas Poll, a quarterly survey conducted by the Public Policy Resources Laboratory of Texas A&M University. Questions of uses of advertising and media are part of a year-long study by the UT Austin center of the entrance into the information age.

Texas Veterans Land Board permanently triples Veterans benefits

The Texas Veterans Land Board made permanent a dramatic increase in benefits for Texas Veterans, benefits that will expand from $20,000 to $55,000, said Garry Mauro, Chairman of the Texas Veterans Land Board.

"By adopting these recommendations, the number of state benefits for Texas Veterans has been permanently tripled," Mauro said. "Because the programs are financed through the sale of federal tax exempt general obligation bonds, it doesn't cost taxpayers a single penny."

In unanimous action Tuesday, The Texas Veterans Land Board agreed to make permanent a four-month trial program that broadens guidelines to allow qualified Texas Veterans to use all three rather than only one of the Texas Veterans benefit programs.

"This will allow Texas Veterans to participate in all three Texas Veterans programs, greatly increasing the state benefits now available to Texas Veterans," Mauro said.

"What this means is Texas Veterans can now get a $20,000 loan to buy a house AND get a $20,000 loan to buy land AND get a $15,000 home improvement loan to make repairs to their residence," Mauro said. "Let me urge all Texas Veterans who've always wanted to use more than one of our fine programs to act now to take advantage of our low interest rates."

In the past, Texas Veterans were limited to only one loan with the Texas Veterans Land Board. "Now, after overwhelming acceptance of the public and our Texas Veterans over the four-month trial period," Mauro said, "the board gave unanimous approval to the expansion of benefits."

A Texas Veteran who has

Texas has become stripper well state

Railroad Commissioner Clark Jobe announced that Texas has become a stripper oil well state.

According to August 1986 production figures, oil well production dropped to an average of 9.90 barrels per well per day for the first time in Texas oil production history. The state's average production for August was 2,061,015 barrels per day.

By industry definition, an oil well is labeled a stripper well if it produces 10 barrels or less per day.

"You can chalk this decline up to imported oil. We're not drilling any wells, to speak of. Meanwhile, we're unloading tanker after tanker of foreign oil at U.S. docks," Jobe said.

"In September, we imported seven million barrels per day. That's exactly the amount we used in motor fuel. Do you realize that if the foreign tap got turned off, the whole country would come to a screeching halt?" he asked.

Americans drink over a billion pounds of coffee per year and around five billion bottles of pop.

Maximize home energy efficiency

To maximize home energy efficiency, Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist Dr. Susan Quiring suggests the following:

- Find and fix air leaks around windows, doors, foundations, electrical outlets, exhaust fans and attic openings.

- Install storm windows and doors to reduce heat loss and/or heat gain, especially in areas of north Texas.

- Provide summer shade for south and west windows.

- Adjust the temperature setting by five degrees on heating and air conditioning systems and compensate for comfort with clothing you wear.

- Insulate ceilings, exterior walls, under floors, heat ducts and hot water pipes.

- Use exhaust fans effectively to control heat and excess moisture at the source.

- Use energy powered home appliances efficiently.

- Use lighting efficiently by lighting only those areas that are in use and selecting energy efficient bulbs, tubes and fixtures when replacements are made.

Building on the Social Security base

It's important to remember that Social Security is a base on which to plan for retirement. It was never intended to provide 100 percent replacement of earnings or to guarantee everybody the same standard of living in retirement. In planning for retirement, a person should know how to build on that base. As a start, you should know generally how much to expect in retirement benefits from Social Security so you can plan how much you need from other sources. Secondly, a person should have some idea of how other types of retirement income will affect Social Security benefits.

It is estimated that a person will need about 75 percent of his or her preretirement earnings to maintain the same standard of living in retirement as he or she had before.

The amount of Social Security benefits depends on a person's earnings over a working life. People earning the maximum covered by Social Security can generally expect to receive initial benefits which replace approximately 29 percent of pre-retirement earnings. People with average earnings can expect to receive 43 percent of pre-retirement earnings, and people earning at the minimum wage level over their working lives may expect to receive initial benefits equaling 60 percent of their pre-retirement earnings.

The replacement rate is higher for low earners because they are less able to tolerate a reduction in income. Higher earners are expected to have more resources to build a base of retirement income, including investments, savings, and private insurance.

This brings me to the second important point to remember in building retirement income on the Social Security base. A person needs to know how other retirement income will affect Social Security checks. The following rules generally apply:

- * Investments, savings, etc.—Since a person is expected to build on the Social Security base, other types of typical retirement income generally do not affect Social Security

Everyone is looking forward to our Halloween party. It will be held on Friday night, the 31st, at 6 p.m. All the parents are encouraged to bring the children by for trick or treats. We'd also like to invite everyone to come by and see our scarecrow.

The birthday party was held on Tuesday, the 28th. Our birthday residents for October are R. A. Long and Otto Hicks. Happy Birthday to them both from all of us here at the nursing home. I'd like to thank Linda Morrison, Dorthy Lawrence, and Pat Johnson for helping me with the party. Our volunteers are appreciated by everyone here.

Pat Johnson also conducts bingo for the residents twice a week. Linda and Dorothy also help her with bingo. Everyone enjoys playing bingo. We also have a new volunteer named Richard Watkins. He comes to the nursing home twice a month to play the organ. Everyone seems to enjoy listening to his music.

The Family Group of Senior Citizens Nursing Home will be having a bake sale on Friday, the 31st, at 10 a.m. It will be held in front of Super Duper, everyone be sure to get by there early for the best selection.

Everyone be sure and remember to come by on Halloween for trick or treats. I would like to also thank Elaine Miller for helping me with the scarecrow.

The nursing home is in need of volunteers. Anyone interested should call Margie Clough at 754-4566 or come by 506 Van Ness, Winters.

benefits. This means that a person can use investments, savings, and private insurance to build on the Social Security base up to any level an individual requires.

- * Pensions—most company pensions are actually figured to supplement Social Security benefits an employee may expect so these pensions will not affect Social Security benefits. But, those people who receive a pension from work not covered by Social Security will probably find their Social Security benefit reduced. A third rule applies to the spouse receiving a government pension based on work not covered in Social Security and also expects to receive a benefit on his or her spouse's work record. The Social Security benefit is reduced to reflect the amount of the government pension.

- * Earnings—While earnings are not traditionally considered "retirement income", more and more people continue to work after retirement. There is a limit on how much a person can earn while getting all Social Security benefits. The annual limit increases with increases in wage levels. Currently, it is $7,800 for people 65 and over and $5,760 for people under 65. The rule does not apply to people 70 and over. Benefits are reduced if annual earnings exceed these amounts.

Keeping these facts in mind, a person can build a retirement income that will sustain his or her standard of living in retirement and assure that they are indeed the golden years.

President Reagan enacts legislation

Americans who cherish our democratic system of government have cause to rejoice over legislation enacted by President Ronald Reagan on the civil rights of the handicapped who use the nation's commercial airlines.

"The Air Access Carrier Act of 1986," signed into law by President Reagan, makes law the right of Americans with handicap to use commercial airlines with safety and dignity.

For the handicapped traveler, "the adventure of flying" has been just that prior to the passage of this important legislation. Until now, the handicapped air traveler could expect any number of difficulties, from being refused one's choice of seat to being refused passage altogether. Other restrictions often included an extra handling charge for wheelchairs, being required to travel with an aide, or being forced to give advance notice of one's intent to travel—as a handicapped individual—well in advance of departure. Each of these restrictions was at the complete discretion of the airline official on each particular flight—with on consistency among airlines or even among different flights of the same airline.

The quick passage of this legislation, actively supported by the Paralyzed Veterans of America and broad range of organizations serving the needs of handicapped Americans, is an indication of the growing feeling nationwide that we can no longer tolerate discriminatory treatment of people who happen to have a handicap.

The "Air Carrier Access Act of 1986" addresses this critical need to protect the civil rights of the handicapped passenger

We owe our thanks and appreciation to these members of Congress and many others in supporting our nation's ideal of "equality for all."

In advocating full citizenship, dignity and safety for 35 million handicapped Americans within our great democracy, our nation's representatives have further protected these rights for all Americans.

VFW Post #9193 to sponsor Voice of Democracy scriptwriting program

"The Challenge of American Citizenship" is the theme of the 40th annual Voice of Democracy scriptwriting program being sponsored locally by VFW Post #9193 and Ladies Auxiliary.

The Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program, open to the 10th, 11th and 12th grade students, offers local, district and national recognition and awards with the top national award being a $14,000 scholarship. Commander M. L. Guy urges students interested in participating to contact Mr. Grantham, High School Principal, Mrs. Nancy Michaelis, Sponsor or Bill Hall, VOD Chairman.

Participating students are encouraged to tape their scripts using professional equipment available at cooperating radio stations. The recorded script must be at least three minutes and not over five minutes in length. It can be recorded on reel type magnetic tape at a speed of 7 1/2 inches per second or cassette.

Deadline for entries in the location competing is November 15, 1986. Bill Hall said 23 young people from Winters participated in last year's Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program. They were among 250,000

Breezes defeated by Goldthwaite

The 8th grade Breezes went down in defeat for the second week in a row as they lost to Goldthwaite 12-0. This game was a heart breaker as we dominated the game both offensively and defensively.

Offensively our own mistakes were our worst enemy. We moved the ball on them very effectively, but penalties and our inability to catch the football kept us out of the end zone. Craig Slaughter was 3 of 6 in passing, and the three that went incomplete were perfect passes and our receivers just plain dropped them. On one pass incompletion it would have been a touchdown and another one would have given us a first down inside the 10 yd. line. Our inability to get ourselves out of penalties and inconsistent young people from over 8,000 public, private and parochial schools participating in the national program.

Tapes will be judged for content, originality and delivery.

The winner from the State of Texas will receive a five day all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., next March together with winners from Germany, the District of Columbia, Overseas and the 50 states. They will visit national monuments and meet high government officials. National awards in addition to the $14,000 first place scholarships include $7,000, $4,500, $3,500, $2,500 and $1,000 scholarships for second through sixth place winners.

The program now in its 40th year, is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and the Ladies Auxiliary. The National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed the Voice of Democracy Program on the Advisory List of National Contests and Activities for 1986/87.

"Participation in the Voice of Democracy Program gives students experience in writing and speaking" said Bill Hall. "It gives them a chance to reflect on our nation and its meaning for them."

blocking. Our blocking was not there and therefore we would stall as a result of our own poor performance. As I stated last week no pass no play came into effect for this game but we had outstanding performances from two new running backs. Scottie Rodriguez and Nato Vasquez carried the blunt of our attack and they both turned in great performances. They both blocked and carried the ball with authority and they should be commended on an outstanding performance.

Defense was not the problem in this game. Goldthwaite scored one touchdown on a five punt return but it was because our offensive unit did not carry out the assigned tasks which they have been taught. The second touchdown came with only two minutes left in the game as our defense was trying to strip the ball instead of tackle and as a result they had a back run for about 50 yds. Our kids learned a valuable lesson (and so did I) that the game of football requires ability but it also requires a great deal of concentration and mental preparation which we didn't necessarily have.

Our season record now goes to 5-2 and our goal is to win the remaining games on our schedule. Our last home game is this Thursday against Coleman. This is a big rivalry for us and with our current losses we need as much support from our fans as we can possibly get. So we urge you all to come out and watch these fine young men as they represent our school and city in these athletic events. The 7th grade will start at 5:00, followed by the 8th grade at 6:00 and our J.V. will then follow at about 7:15. We would like to see everyone there in their Winters blue with loud voices.

RRC to hold hearing

Railroad Commission Chairman James W. (Jim) Nugent announced today the Commission will hold a public hearing next month to consider a petition from two Dallas oil producers asking the Commission to lower Texas oil and gas production 10 percent.

The hearing will be held at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, November 12, at the Commission headquarters in Austin. Nugent said a decision on the petition will be considered at the Commission's monthly statewide oil and gas hearing scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on November 17 in Austin.

H. S. Bennett and William Burrow stated in their petition that oil and gas resources in the state "are being wasted" and asked the Commission to levy a 10 percent production curb on all oil and gas wells except stripper wells and those involved in enhanced recovery projects.

To remove odors from smelly bottles, pour a little hot water with a generous pinch of mustard powder. Shake and let stand overnight. Then rinse with hot water.

Halloween safety tips

Now that October is here, children may be thinking about whom they would like to be on Halloween this year. The Scott and White Department of Emergency Medicine would like to share these ideas to help insure a safe evening on October 31.

- For a safe costume:
 - * Make each costume short enough so the child won't trip when going up and down steps.
 - * Use bright colors or big patches of white to give good visibility.
 - * Use fire-retardant fabric or treat material with a chemical fire-retardant.
 - * When making masks or hoods, allow large enough holes to assure easy breathing and good vision. Better yet, use makeup or face paints instead of a mask.
 - * If face paints are used, make sure they are designed for this purpose, are nonpoisonous, and wash off easily.

Hermann Hospital schedules reunion

Have you ever flown on Life Flight? Hermann Hospital in Houston is searching for former Life Flight patients. It is Life Flight's 10th anniversary and the hospital is hosting a special reunion for former patients and their families on Sunday, November 2, in Hermann Park.

Life Flight has made more than 27,000 flights since its introduction 10 years ago. Former patients will be greeted by Dr. Red Duke, medical director of Life Flight, given a T-shirt saying, "I flew on Life Flight," and treated to entertainment, birthday cake, ice cream and refreshments.

From its early days with a phone in the middle of Hermann's emergency room and a single flight crew, Life Flight has grown into the busiest hospital-based air ambulance service in the nation. Its fleet of five helicopters maintains bases in Houston, Galveston and Beaumont, servicing hospitals and patients within a radius of 150 miles from each of those cities. Its operations extend throughout Southeast Texas and Western Louisiana.

Former patients are asked to

Other suggestions for a safe Halloween include:

- * Prevent fires by using small flashlights - not candles - to light jack-o-lanterns.
- * Do your trick-or-treating before dark, especially if you have young children, and go with them. Set a curfew for older children and enforce it.
- * Instruct children to stay in their own neighborhoods and to call only on people they know and trust.
- * Remind children to use sidewalks rather than cutting through yards and vacant lots to prevent tripping over objects.
- * Give each child a flashlight and remind them not to shine them into anyone's eyes, especially a driver's.
- * If your child gets sick, try to find out exactly what he or she ate and where it came from. Call your doctor immediately or contact the Poison Control Center at Scott and White, (817) 774-2005.

ATTENTION

GO TO THE POLLS AND VOTE

If you own land, or pay taxes on land, in PRECINCT 2, Runnels County, write in RICHARD HAMILTON for our new commissioner.

We want to elect a man who can clean up our road ditches, fix bridges, caliche school bus roads, fill holes in roads, and put new caliche on roads when they need it (and there are many). A man who won't leave rows of rocks and dirt along the edge of the road where it's hard to pass and can ruin tires, nearly slide into the ditch, leaves rocks in the road because the water can't drain off.

We think the roads and ditches belong to the county and we pay taxes for their mowing, grading, and upkeep once in a while and not grade rocks in the drives and leave them there. You can't even see the side of the road until you're nearly past because of high weeds.

Some farmers try to mow the ditches so they can see their crops. Many have hit big rocks that have been graded into the weeds and cannot mow. If a farmer planted grain in the ditches to keep the weeds down, it is not bothered until time to combine, then here comes the road crews and mow it down—they didn't have time before.

So, write in a man who wants our community pretty and clean. A man who is opposed to raising taxes. He is a friend to everyone you see.

Go to the polls November 4, 1986 and WRITE IN RICHARD HAMILTON and see our precinct look better.

Impact on Texas of the federal immigration reform law may take years to measure

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said the economic impact on Texas of the federal immigration reform law may take years to measure. "There's going to be little effect on the state's finances or the Texas economy in the short run and there's simply no concrete evidence to predict an impact for the long-term picture," Bullock said. Bullock said his office has calculated that as many as 600,000 of the one million estimated illegal aliens in Texas might be eligible to apply for American citizenship under the new law. But, he said that strict enforcement sanctions against employers of illegal aliens called for in the immigration bill might dry up a source of cheap labor for many Texas businesses and industries. "For the most part, illegal aliens in Texas are paying virtually all the same taxes — sales taxes, gasoline taxes and excise taxes — as you and me," he said, "and if they become permanent citizens we aren't going to see a big jump in state revenue." Bullock said that the federal government will make $220 million in federal impact payments over the next five years to help the state adjust for aliens use of public services if they become citizens. "I'm not sure that amount of money is really going to take up the slack, but still there is no evidence to say that the impact is as severe as some officials suggest."

Convenience Banking?

What's So Convenient About:

PAYING higher interest on your loans?

EARNING LESS interest on your savings?

PAYING HIGHER service costs at banks?

LOSING local control over banking?

SACRIFICING service to the big banks' benefit?

YOU WILL HEAR A LOT FROM THE SO-CALLED CONVENIENCE BANKERS ABOUT PROPOSITION FOUR BUT YOU PROBABLY WILL NOT HEAR THIS:

The big banks of Texas hope to create a bank monopoly at your expense. Proposition Four has disguised branch banking as "full service banking." Whatever they call it — Branch Banking is a bad idea for Texas, and Texans will end up footing the bill for the big Texas bank holding companies to get bigger.

You especially don't want this to happen now since the Texas Legislature just passed a law permitting the large banks of New York City to purchase some or all of the large Texas bank holding companies. Not only can this legally happen now, but it is almost certain to take place in the immediate future.

For all these years, Texans have never wanted or allowed the big banks of New York City to own and control the Texas Banking Industry. We are sure that this position by the people of Texas still has never changed.

Protect Your Interests And Your Pocketbook On Nov. 4.

VOTE NO ON PROPOSITION FOUR.

When medicare is secondary payer

Medicare beneficiaries may think that once their Medicare protection starts, it will always pay first for hospital and medical bills. This isn't always true. There are times when Medicare is the secondary health insurance payer — that is, when it pays AFTER other sources pay for services.

There are three major situations where Medicare is the secondary payer.

If a beneficiary is entitled to Medicare SOLELY on the basis of permanent kidney failure and is covered by an employer group health plan, Medicare is the secondary payer for an initial period of up to 12 months. The employer health plan pays first for kidney treatment and other health services during that time. If the employer plan doesn't pay in full, Medicare may make secondary payments to supplement the amount paid by the employer's plan. Medicare becomes the primary health insurance payer at the end of the 12-month period.

Medicare also is the secondary payer for beneficiaries 65 or older who have employer group health coverage through their employer or through their spouse's employer. Under a special rule, employers with 20 or more employees must offer workers and their spouses 65 or older the same health insurance protection that is available to younger workers. The worker can accept or reject the employer health insurance plan. If the worker accepts the employer plan, Medicare becomes the secondary payer and can only help pay for any Medicare-covered services that are not paid by the employer plan.

Beneficiaries who have employer group health coverage should be sure to tell hospitals, doctors, or others who provide medical services so that the services will be billed correctly.

In addition, Medicare is the secondary payer when health care services are covered under automobile medical insurance, State no-fault insurance, automobile liability insurance, or other liability insurance. This is true even if State law or the private insurance contract says that the automobile or no-fault insurance refuses to pay for services, Medicare payment will be conditional. This means Medicare will make payment on the condition that the Medicare patient will refund the money if the automobile or liability insurer later pays for the services.

If a beneficiary receives medical services as the result of an accident, he or she should tell the health care provider about the accident and furnish information about all insurance policies or other parties who may be liable for medical expenses.

Another rule beneficiaries should remember is that Medicare cannot pay for services which are payable by any workers' compensation plan, the Federal black lung program, or the Veterans Administration. Payment from these sources is considered payment in full and Medicare has no liability.

For more information about these secondary payer rules, Medicare beneficiaries should contact the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Meals from machines usually safe

Food from a vending machine may not be a gourmet treat, but it is usually safe. Food safety expert Marilyn Haggard says stews, soups, lasagna and other canned foods are safe to eat even at room temperature, unless the cans are rusted, dented or bulging. "If the can is damaged, don't even taste the food," cautions the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service Specialist. When canned entrees come out of the vending machine hot, the machine is working properly, she says. "Cold foods, such as ham salad, egg or tuna sandwiches, should be cold to be safe," Haggard remarks. "This means the temperature inside the machine must be 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below." The specialist suggest checking the "use-by" date for freshness too. If a sandwich has an off-odor or mold, throw it away.

bust through the line of scrimmage and would run for 35 or 40 yards but, we did manage to run them down."

"Overall," Slaughter said, "it was a good ball game for our kids. They felt good about the game they played. Of course everybody hates to lose but, considering the way they had been playing, and then all of a sudden we started making this turnaround it was exciting to see our kids get after it like they did. I was happy with them, very proud of the way they played Friday night."

In summing up the game, the head coach said, "There was a lot of talent on the field for Goldthwaite's side and we matched them hit for hit and yard for yard. I think. It's just that they got more into the end zone than we did."

This week the Blizzards travel to Coleman to play the Bluecats.

Scouting reports indicate that Coleman is very similar to Winters but they are still in the district race. The game with the Blizzards could determine whether Coleman stays in the running.

Years of rivalry between the two schools has resulted in excellent football games with both teams being up for the game.

It will be a game in which the teams match up evenly and it should be a very close ball game, all the way.

Kick-off time in Coleman's Hufford Field Friday is 7:30 p.m.

The amount of the grant will be the annual earnings of the endowed fund.

This is an excellent opportunity to help honor one of the several outstanding retired teachers of the Winters Schools and offer support to a deserving graduating student each year.

Your donations are needed to help establish this perpetuating fund which will honor excellence in both teaching and learning.

Two excellent workshops being held in our area and sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will offer information and training to volunteer, elected and paid personnel who are dedicated to the advancement of Winters.

The first titled "Get My Town Out of This Mess!" will be held Thursday, October 30 in Abilene at the Kiva Inn. The program will give useful aid to all who are interested in helping the Chamber help the town.

The second workshop is titled "Economic Development For Rural and Small Cities" and will be held Thursday, November 6 in Ballinger at the Carnegie Library. Experts in community problems will be sharing their knowledge with us so that we can help our towns.

Winters needs representatives to attend these workshops so that they can bring this information back and utilize it in helping the town to overcome problems and plan for the future.

Information about enrolling can be obtained from the Chamber office.

Lets work together for Winters.

when skunks really wander about, along with other wild critters. Skunks are known to be carriers of rabies and, since they are wild, we cannot vaccinate them for the disease.

We can hope that the city will protect all these wandering dogs from the disease—one way or another.

They say that the city cannot afford a dog-catcher. There are a couple of ideas floating about that could provide an answer.
