The American Heritage Dictionary's definition says, "The eve of All Saints' Day, falling on October 31. [Short for All Hallow E'en]."

The same dictionary defines Hallow like this: To make or set apart as holy; consecrate. To honor as being holy; revere.

How a special day, with such a definition, could ever be turned into a mad rush to inflict damage or injury to someone, or their property is beyond me.

We've all read of the atrocities that happen somewhere else that have left folks, mostly children, hurting, gravely injured, or worse. We all think that such a thing happens somewhere else.

Fortunately, for us, it does—mostly. And not because some don't try to make it happen here.

In one major city up north, Halloween has undergone a name change—to Devil's Day. Now that is 180 degrees off.

This past Sunday was All Saints' Day. In our churches the day was noted as a time to think of those who have passed on during the past year and to honor their memories.

As one of our local pastors put it, during his sermon last Sunday, "It was a very solemn day. I think God must be grieved to see what we've done with it. Because we have Halloween now, which doesn't have much to do with anything. It's not a very sacred, a holy thing anymore."

The special day, All Saints' Day, is to bear special meaning, to recognize those who came before us and have gone.

Now, I am not a preacher—not by any stretch of anyone's imagination but, I brought out the old soap box for this. And with good reason.

I guess that the costumes worn by the children can, in some far-fetched way, be connected with the actual meaning of the day we now know as Halloween. The costumes, along with trick or treat, seem to leave a lot to be desired—a long way from what the day was set aside for.

The way some folks have acted around here, one might well assume that there was another Biblical mandate, or two, that was totally ignored. Like the Golden Rule, or "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

Halloween seems to have become a time when folks totally disregard everything and everyone and do their best to act like a Sadist, run amuck.

Last week we talked of eggs, and of the folks that love to throw them. The folks that actually intended to scramble the eggs all over someone else.

Close on the heels of shattered eggs all over town, we received word Tuesday that the Community Food Pantry was bare.

With the onset of the economic crunch, the number of families obtaining necessary food from the Pantry has increased drastically—to the point where it is all gone.

Perhaps if we were to all keep this Halloween thing in perspective, we could do a lot more good for our community by donating the eggs to the Pantry—or just giving all the dollars spent for eggs and balloons to throw to the Pantry.

Here would be an opportunity to do a service for our community—not a disservice.

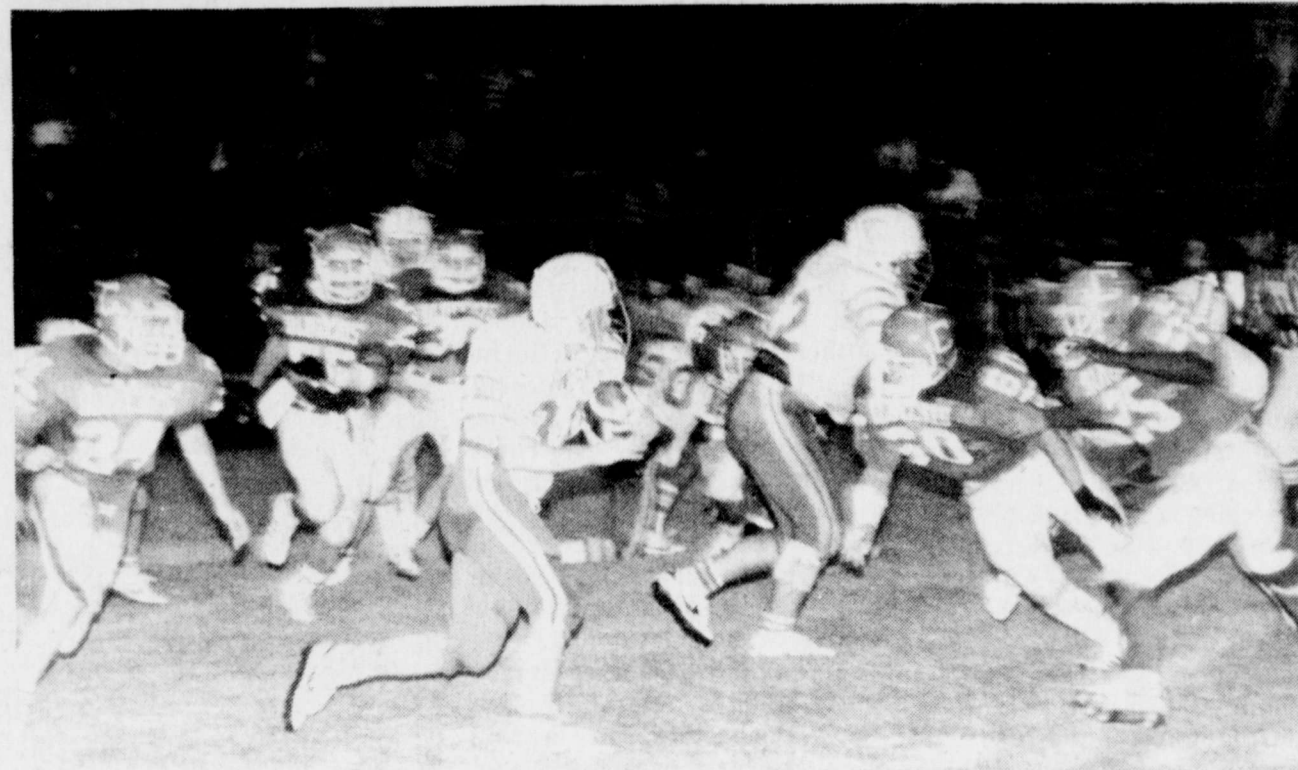

Well, along with the eggs were balloons filled with water and were sailed through the air to inflict their damage, or injury.

Apparently these were not enough, for some half-baked misfits over on the west side were throwing rocks—big ones.

Now these actors, and their parents, should be brought in to account for the actions.

For two week-ends, our over-worked police officers tried to apprehend these crazies without

Police reorganization probed by residents

A standing-room-only crowd faced the Winters City Council in its Monday meeting. Over 30 Winters residents were on hand to question the proposed reorganization of the Winters Police Department.

At issue is the planned hiring of a new police chief and how the city might be able to afford a professional police administrator. The advertised requirements for the position include a college degree, law enforcement certification, and five years experience in a supervisory capacity.

Acting as spokesman for the large group of citizens Boyd Bedford said, "The point we want to make, I believe, is to hire a new chief with the qualifications listed would require an annual salary of $30,000 to $35,000 and our question is how, with the salary paid former police officer Richard Hawkins and a $5,000 budget surplus will pay for this without a tax increase."

"In addition, if the proposed new chief devotes his time to supervision, which is one of the requirements," Bedford continued, "how will the city have enough patrolmen for each of the other three to have a day off each week."

The council responded by saying that a cut in overtime pay to the officers would provide the funding and that scheduling would also provide for time off.

Bedford noted, in his presentation, that there have been recent increases in charges for water and sewer and that a majority of residents in Winters are elderly and on fixed incomes. He said that even a small tax increase would make it impossible for these people to pay their bills.

The group also questioned how the council could justify the extra expense of a new police chief when they could not even afford to provide animal control in the city.

Bedford cited a drop in tax revenues in similar area cities and asked the council, "Just how sure are you that you will have this $5,000 surplus that you have projected? The majority of the

Runnels voters favor Clements

Voters in Runnels County favored Bill Clements over Mark White for the Governor's office by a margin of better than 2-1.

The same voters returned incumbent commissioner Johnnie Wilson and Justice of the Peace J. C. Hodnett to their offices for another term.

By late Tuesday Bill Clements was leading Mark White by nine percentage points state wide and a spokesman with the Associated Press said that almost all the South Texas voting boxes had not been counted.

About the same time, all three major news networks, NBC, ABC, and CBS were projecting Bill Clements to win the Governor's race.

Clements, at his campaign headquarters was proclaiming victory in the election by 10:00 p.m.

Incumbent Democrat Mark

White, still expressing optimism, refused to concede the election to the former Governor.

In Runnels County voters favored Clements with 2,152 votes while White received only 1,018 votes.

In two contested local races, incumbent County Commissioner, Pet.2, Johnnie Wilson received 459 votes to return him to office.

Richard Hamilton, who was an unsuccessful candidate in the primary election, launched an intense write-in campaign for the general election and received 216 votes in his bid to unseat Wilson.

A race between incumbent Democrat J. C. Hodnett and Republican Randy J. Nolte for the office of Justice of the Peace, Pet.2, ended up with Hodnett being returned to office with a total of 489 votes while Nolte received 180.

Blizzards chilled by the Coleman Bluecats 33-12

The Blizzards scored only two times against the Coleman Bluecats Friday in Coleman to leave Coleman in the race for runner-up in District 8-AA.

When all was said and done the final score was Winters 12 and Coleman 33.

The Blizzards first score came in the second quarter of play when Frank Davis ran the ball in from the two-yard line. A try for two extra points failed.

The only other tally for Winters came in the third quarter as Chris Rives pitched a seven-yard pass for the score. Again the try for two points failed.

In first down, Winters trailed Coleman by only five. Rushing yardage told the story of the game, both on the ground and in the air. Winters added up only 249 yards of offense to the 368 compiled by the Bluecats.

Winters will wrap up the season Friday by hosting the Bangs Dragons in Blizzard Stadium. Bangs will come to Winters after soundly defeating the Wall Hawks 48-6 in Bangs.

Kick off time for the Blizzards season finale will be 7:30 p.m. in Blizzard Stadium.

The Pantry is bare—again

The Community Food Pantry is in need of donations of food and money. Because of the slowdown in the oil industry and other areas the Pantry has been called upon to help increasingly larger number of families with their food needs.

In the past month the Pantry has provided over 40 families with food and other assistance. This has left the shelves bare.

In order for this much-needed program to continue, the community must lend its support in the form of food goods and cash contributions to purchase foods for families who, otherwise, would be forced to do without.

CA's will collect food for the food pantry

The Assembly of God, Youth Group, the CA's will be collecting food for the food pantry.

p.m.

Follow The River

Mary Draper Ingles' captivity was but one of an estimated 2,000 incidents of kidnapping of white settlers, male and female, adult and child, during the French and Indian war. (Mrs. Ingles is an ancestor of Billie Wood.) Among the annals of Indian captivity there are many which recount sufferings and tortures one can scarcely imagine, and there were several escapes that seem all but incredible.

But the one that James Alexander Thorn treated in his novel, Follow The River, seemed to him the most amazing and inspiring. It is an example of what the human spirit—not just the trained spirit of the soldier or adventurer, but the spirit of a frightened, "ordinary" person can endure.

Mary Ingles did recover from her ordeals described in Thorn's book. She bore four more children—three daughters and a son—by her husband William, raising them in the wilderness around Ingles' Ferry and surviving, alongside her husband, at least one other Indian raid on their frontier home. Mary lived sixty eventful years after her ordeal, according to relatives and others, she was vigorous, self-reliant and robust into the last years of her life.

Her son George, two years old at the time of capture, died in the Shawnee nation shortly after being separated from his mother. The elder son, Thomas, had all but forgotten his native tongue and his white parents during his thirteen years as an adopted Shawnee.

His parents, however, had not forgotten him. They continued inquiries until 1768, when the freed captive William Baker brought news of him. Ingles and Baker made two trips into the Shawnee country before succeeding in buying Thomas back from his Shawnee parents for about $150. But Thomas was reluctant to return to the white man's civilization and disappeared into the wilderness for long periods of time, armed with his bow and arrows. Gradually he was re-educated in the white man's culture.

Eventually Thomas Ingles married and determined to settle and farm, but the pull of the wilderness caused him to uproot himself from time to time and stay on the farthest points of white advance into Virginia

Country. When he could, he visited in the Ohio Country with old fellow tribesmen of the Shawnees.

His determination to live far ahead of the general settlement led in 1782, to an incident so similar to his own parents ordeal in 1755 that is almost uncanny.

While Thomas was in the fields, a large party of Indians surrounded his house, kidnaped his wife and three children, and burned the property. Drawn to the scene by the smoke and noise, Thomas was unarmed and helpless to intervene and forced to watch his family being carried away—just as he and his mother and brother had been taken away 27 years earlier while his own father watched helplessly.

Thomas led a rescue expedition that caught up with the Indians on the fifth night after the capture. In an early morning melee, the Indians tomahawked Thomas Ingles' five year old daughter, Mary, and three year old son, William. Ingles rushed into camp and seized his wife Eleanor, just as she was being stuck on the head. An infant daughter was spared when her mother fell over her. The escaping Indians then killed a militia captain in their retreat. The son and daughter died of their wounds, but Thomas' wife recovered after several pieces of skull bone were extracted from her head by a frontier doctor.

John and Bettie Draper lived at Draper's Meadows after John ransomed her in 1761. Four sons and three daughters were born to the Drapers after her return, she died at the age of 42.

The same year, John Draper and Thomas Ingles served as lieutenants in the great Wilderness Battle of Point Pleasant, the spot where the captive Bettie and Mary had reached to Ohio 19 years before.

The Shawnees had indeed presumed that their prisoners, Mary Ingles and the Dutch woman, were lost or killed by wild animals around Big Bone Lick. It was not until a certain meeting of Virginians and Shawnees some years later that the Indians learned of their long walk home. They were thrilled and awed by the account, which became something of a legend among the Indians.

The fate of the old Dutch woman has been lost to history. Historical sources say she found her way back to Pennsylvania and was never heard of again in the New River settlements. Her name was said to be Stump of Stumpf.

Because of the scarcity of Ingles family records concerning the period covered in Thorn's novel, he relied heavily on an account published in 1886 by Dr. John P. Hale, a great-grandson of William and Mary Ingles. He seems to have based his account on a narrative, handwritten by Mary's youngest son, John.

The accounts of Mary Ingles' ordeal written by these two decedents agree almost exactly with but one curious difference: John's version makes no reference to his mother's pregnancy at the time of her capture, nor the delivery of a baby during her captivity. Either John's parents had never mentioned the baby in his presence, or he chose not to include it in his narrative.

Dr. Hale credits the details of the baby's birth to papers authored by a neighbor of the Ingles. Thorn based his treatment of this part of the story on Dr. Hale's information. He could readily believe that the desertion of one's infant—even for the purpose of saving its life would be such a traumatic experience that one would not discuss it thereafter in the family.

Mary Ingles main adversary in the 43 days her trek through the wilderness was the roaring New River-Kanawha River Valley, through which she had to pass in the season of early winter. The author spent many weeks retracing Mary's steps through the mountains and though he had hiked and made his bed on the ground since childhood, he said, "I have seldom felt as tiny and overawed as I felt in the confines of the valley."

A railroad bed has long since been carved into the river's edge. But the pillars of the cliff still stand out above the river, and Mary Ingles' route can still be followed—on all fours, of course. "I climbed it, on a moderate morning, fortified by a good night's rest in a sleeping bag and a breakfast of (tinned) beef, and the crossing took me three hours. That she crossed in on an icy day after six weeks of starvation and fatigue is miraculous," said Thorn.

What better knowledge of a human spirit is there than a study of the trials it has overcome?

Keep the cold out!

Up to 40% of a home's total heating and cooling bill can be a result of air infiltration. Air infiltration is simply the uncontrolled movement of air into or out of your home. You can help keep the cold out this winter by taking a few simple conservation measures now.

Weatherstripping
As much cold air can enter your home through a 1/16" crack along the sides and top of a typical doorway as through a 4" x 4" hole in the wall. Help keep the cold out by replacing worn weatherstripping around all doors and windows.

Caulking
Caulking in the cracks around door facings, windows, pipes and wiring will also help prevent air infiltration into your home. Polyurethane or similar caulking is available in an easy-to-install form at most hardware stores.

You can also help draft-proof your home by installing gaskets behind the cover plates of outlets and switches around your home. (Don't forget to turn the power off before removing the switch plates.)

For more information on the prevention of air infiltration this winter, call your local WTU office.

people in Winters feel that the present police department is doing a pretty good job. I think that we ought to remember the saying, 'if it aint broke, don't fix it.'

Bedford concluded by saying, "We'd like to see the reorganization put on hold for a while and, if it actually needs to be done, a course of communications be made with the citizens of Winters to let them know why, and if it is actually necessary."

A number of other residents asked questions of the council ranging from management of overtime to scheduling to the city's ability to afford a chief with the qualifications.

The city officials responded by saying that a person with those qualifications would be ideal but, that the city might have to settle for less.

With regard to why the reorganization was needed, the city responded by again saying that the large amounts of overtime, about $17,000 over the past three years, was one of the main reasons. The council also said that there were some personnel reasons that could not be made public unless the individual officers requested it.

Winters City Administrator Scott Epperson said that the city would not pay over about $21,000 for a new chief.

After telling the group that their concerns would be taken into consideration, the council moved to handle several other items on their agenda, taking no action on the police reorganization controversy.

The council agreed to make an addition to the fee schedule for use of the land-fill. That addition would be to define truck sizes up to 2 1/2 tons.

No changes were made in the rates charged at the landfill.

The council tabled discussion and action on a complaint by Mrs. Mary Esquivel concerning car damage. City attorney Ken Slimp advised the council to discuss the complaint in executive session in their next meeting.

Before ending the meeting the council gave approval to Rauschuber and Associates to negotiate with Decker Construction Company on contract add items in the construction of the water treatment plant.

The action will allow the negotiation for the add items and require that the items stay within the funds available and final approval remaining with the city council.

The council discussed sending a letter to the Highway Department regarding the signal light at the intersection of Main (U. S. 83) and Dale Streets. The city has received several complaints about problems encountered by pedestrians trying to cross Main Street.

No action was taken on a request from the Winters Chamber of Commerce that the city contribute $200 to pay for a front page advertisement promoting a cash drawing as a part of a sales promotion by the chamber.

That Almost Wasn't: St. John's Lutheran Church, will be shown. Following the showing you will have an opportunity to order copies of the tape (VHS) for $17 each. We will send off our order on November 17 to ensure that we get them back in time for Christmas.

Budget adopted for Stacy reservoir

Even though gearing up for anticipated starting of the Stacy reservoir, the Colorado River Municipal Water District will have a budget of almost one percent less than in 1985.

Directors of the district Thursday adopted a 1987 budget which calls for the outlay of $12,695,327 down $121,146 from the present budget, which will be under-run substantially due to power costs which did not materialize of which were further softened due to fuel adjustment rebates.

Budget revenues are forecast almost entirely from the sale of water and interest earnings, leaving only $90,000 from recreational sources. Supporting water rates cannot be set until after the year's end, but no substantial increases are anticipated.

Operational expenses of $6,932,342 for 1986 will be down $546,170 from the present budget, and most of this is in pumping savings due to lower power outlay. Debt service will amount to $4,661,475, which includes $920,243 for coverage. The decrease is $129,786 or 2.53 percent.

The other major item in the budget is $1,101,510 provided for additional water supply facilities, namely Stacy. This anticipates the start-up of the project and is $546,510 more, of 98.47 percent than this year.

Total payroll is pegged at $1,376,747, down 1.79 percent principally because the Snyder pump station was automated recently. Employee benefits add another $388,572, so that the over-all figure is $1,765,319, up 1.42 percent.

Electric power requirements are set at $4,344,299, down $588,386 or 11.93 percent from the current budget.

Wear in Brownwood. Tickets at the door will be $10 ringside and $8 general admission.

Reporting changes

People who get supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments do not have to visit a Social Security office to report significant changes in their situation, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently. Changes may also be reported by mail or phone.

The important thing is to include all pertinent information. This includes the name of the person about whom the report is being made, the person's Social Security number, the date the change occurred, and the address and phone number of the person making the report. If the report is made by mail, the person's signature should also be included.

For the public's convenience, a form for making such reports can be obtained from any Social Security Office. The San Angelo Social Security Office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

B.A.S.A. SOCCER

By J. F. PSUTKA, M.D.

Last Saturday we again had very good weather and we were able to get the rest of our rain cancelled games completed. Interestingly the UNDER 12 age games were so close that both games ended in a shootout. The Apollo and the Dynamos prevailed in the exciting termination of the game.

A shootout involves 5 players on each team taking a penalty shot with only a goalkeeper between he and the net. If after 5 shots have been made, a tie remains, then a sudden death shoot continues alternating team shooters until one scores. It is very exciting and the fans seem to like it. The winning players especially like the results. So far this year, the Dynamos and the Winters Gremlins have been the most fortunate as each team has won the two shootouts that they have been in. The Lasers have been the unluckiest because they have lost both of their shootouts. The Cosmos have been involved in three shootouts, but have only won one shootout. The Apollos have won one and lost one. Most of the shootouts have occurred in the UNDER 12 age bracket, which indicates the close competitive team play.

Last week our exhibition demonstration of youth soccer between the UNDER 6 category, Eagles and Mustangs was cancelled because the Grade 7 and 8 football games with Coahoma were cancelled. This week we hope to put on the same demonstration at halftime of the Grade 8 game with Brady.

Our next scheduled games are Saturday, November 8, 1986. We are more than halfway through the rigorous schedule and will be finished November 22, 1986.

LAW XIV PENALTY KICK

A direct free kick awarded to the opposition because of a foul committed by the defending player in the penalty area. The kick shall be taken from the penalty mark. Once the ball is kicked, it is in play and all players may go for the ball. The penalty kick is not affected by time left in the game or the half. If the defending team infringes the LAW, the kick will be retaken.

If the attacking team causes an infringement, the goal is disallowed and kick retaken. If the player taking the kick commits an infringement, after the ball is in play, the opponent will be awarded an indirect free kick. In most circumstances the penalty kick results in a goal. The goalkeeper must remain between the posts with his feet, motionless on the goal line. He cannot move until the ball is kicked.

Hating people is like burning down your own house to get rid of a rat.
Harry Emerson Fosdick

The field trip to KTABTV, Teepee Village and Rose Park was well organized and enjoyed by all. It is great to be able to coordinate learning experiences with fun.

Names of those who had perfect attendance for October were drawn to determine who was the winner of a radio: - Kindergarten, First - Second - Mary Vidales and Debbie Baize - Third, Fourth, Fifth - Debbie Sanchez and Juanita Reyes - Sixth, Seventh, Eighth - Sharon Willtrout and Salley Vidales

This is the beginning of November and the rooms and bulletin boards are being decorated for the events and holiday of the month.

November also brings basketball. Coach Derrington has provided us with the Basketball schedule. Keep this schedule posted and make plans to come to the games and watch our boys and girls win!

Breezes back on track with a victory

The 8th grade Breezes got back on the winning track last week with a 13-6 victory over the Coleman Bluecats. The win brings our season record to 6-2 with one more game remaining against Bangs this week.

Offensively and defensively our team dominated Coleman in all phases of the game. The only reason they scored was because of a poor offensive call on my part. A risky pass was wide open and I called the play and Coleman intercepted the pass and ran it back to our six yard line. Our defense held on 4th and goal we stopped them short, but the ball carrier fumbled it forward into the end zone and they recovered it for a touchdown. Other than this our defense kept them on their end of the field during the game.

With about three minutes gone in the game Bodie Collins tipped a pass and an alert Craig Slaughter intercepted the tip and behind good blocking ran it in for a touchdown of about 68 yards. Craig had great concentration on the tipped pass and made a great interception and it was the spark we needed. Billy Waller kicked the P.A.T. and it brought the score to Winters 7 and Coleman 0. In the three years I have coached here, there has not been a single team we have played that tries to kick the point after. Only Winters. This work or trying for the point after gives our kids that pressure type atmosphere and it will help them as they play on our J.V. and Varsity in later years. Billy and all those who have worked on this should be commended. That one point can come in real handy a lot of times. Our offense got on the scoreboard a second time with a ball controlled sixty yard drive. Doug Farmer accounted for about forty yards on the drive in three carries on reverse plays and traps. The blocking and quarterback fake and execution were excellent and this is the reason the plays were successful. Nato Vasquez carried the ball over for the last two yards and we led 13-0 as the extra point was missed. Our line blocked a little better this week than last week and this is the reason for our success. They have to improve and block extremely well in order for our offense to get untracked.

Defensively our whole team should be mentioned but Bodie Collins and Nato Vasquez from the line backer positions along with Scottie Rodriguez and Willie Belk completely shut Coleman's offense down except for the bad call on my part. I'll try to cut down on my idiotic calls, but with one more game remaining I can't promise anything.

Our last game of the year is this week as we travel to Bangs.

We could end our season on a winning note and finish the year at 7-2. Bangs got some help from the no-pass no-play rule as they got three or four kids eligible to play and from what we've seen they will probably be our toughest test of the year. They are very big and very physical and we are going to have to play to our utmost capabilities in order to win. We really need a great amount of fan support in Bangs this Thursday to propel us on. It's not very far to Bangs and a trip out of town might be just what you need. These kids are the future representatives of our Winters Blizzards and we need to support them as much as possible so we would like to see you there for the three games. The 7th grade had a great victory last week also and they will play at 5:00 followed by the 8th at 6:00 and our J.V. at about 7:30. So you fans and parents make the short trip to Bangs and lend us your support.

American Cancer Society begins quest for "Stars"

The American Cancer Society wants to make you a star.

To qualify, you don't have to be talented.

You don't have to be rich. You don't even have to be famous.

All you have to be is a former smoker, and stardom is yours for the asking.

You see, the North Runnels Unit of the Society is looking for people who quit cigarette smoking during the past ten years to help celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Great American Smokeout. The Smokeout is a nationwide event during which smokers take a day off from their habit, just to prove to themselves that quitting is possible. This year's Smokeout is Thursday, November 20.

"We want former smokers in the Winters area to come to us and let us know they quit," said the Reverend Gary F. Turner, president of the North Runnels Unit.

According to the Rev. Turner, the campaign to identify ex-smokers is called "Star Quest" simply because "anyone who succeeds in giving up cigarettes is a real star to the Society."

As a reward for "being discovered," Smokeout stars will receive a commemorative button and join other stars in a group picture to be published in the Winters Enterprise.

In response to a challenge from editor Kerry Craig, the Society is especially interested in identifying five "stars" who have quit smoking in the past year. These persons will be set apart for special recognition.

"For ten years, the Smokeout has given millions of smokers the opportunity to quit for a day,

Wait

Not to overlook the autos that were struck by the rocks, and there were a few. At least one rock got a windshield—mine.

It wasn't a little rock that chipped the glass. This was a big one that smashed the glass right in front of my face. It scattered little sharp slivers of glass all over everything inside the truck. The rock almost came through.

Everyone that we, the police and me, talked to seemed concerned about the incident. Some even seemed overly concerned. No one, however, had any idea who might do such a dastardly deed.

Imagine, if you will, a rock weighing three, or four, pounds and the windshield of your car coming together at about 40 miles per hour. A lot of things could have happened.

I was lucky. There were no cars coming toward me. I did not get hit in the face with the rock. I did not run into any houses.

Things like these are what can cause injuries and death.

Ideally, these things would not have happened but, they did. The parents of these irresponsible children, no matter the age of the children, have very little to be proud of. The same for the children.

It would be hard to imagine, to intentionally try to cause damage and possibly to any one. This is serious stuff! These folks need professional help—or a locked door.

To top all of that off it did not happen on Halloween, it was the day after.

If you think I am talking a little too strong, think how you would feel if it were you or your family that was victimized by these delinquent people.

I have given it much thought and still cannot find any way to connect such actions of such malice with All Saints' Day. I can, however, find a relationship to a spoiled child being the result of the spared rod.

It doesn't really matter who was struck by the stone. Our entire community suffers.

To think that we have parents who let their children run free and try their best to inflict injury and damage to a neighbor.

Had it been my child that threw the stone, I know what would have happened.

I wonder, what will happen? It is a shame to devote this space to such a thing. Especially when there are many other things we could discuss.

Now wait a minute...

and many have gone on to quit for good," Turner said. "It's time that we gave credit to quitters. After all, there are about 37 million of them in this country.

Turner, himself a reformed smoker, added that during the Smokeout's first decade, cigarette smoking has become socially unacceptable to the majority of the population, and evidence continues to mount on the health hazards of the habit. "Now we know how much damage smoking can do to not just the smoker, but to children, spouses, and co-workers of the smoker. I quite because I didn't want my children growing up and asking me why I smoked and possible picking up the habit themselves. Little by little, Americans are realizing how devastating this habit can be."

For more information on the Smokeout and "Star Quest," contact the North Runnels Unit of the Society, at 915-754-5213. To identify yourself as an "ex-smoker" and a star, you may call this number or Kerry Craig at the Winters Enterprise, 754-5221.

Scouts have been pounding pavement with Trail's End Gourmet Popcorn

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers from the Chisholm Trail Council have been pounding the pavement in taking orders for Trail's End Gourmet Popcorn. Popcorn sales help to provide income for individual Scouting Units as well as providing supplemental income to the Council to help pay the increased cost of liability insurance and finance Scouting activities in the Council.

Executive Board President, Dave Boyll, emphasized the primary income for Scouting activities will continue to come from community support through the United Way and from the Sustaining Membership Enrollment Program of the Council.

"The local Scouts give a lot to our community, and by helping to support them, you are actually helping you community," says Don Knecht, Scout Executive. "And what a better way to help than through the purchase of popcorn. It's a great American snack!"

"We appreciate the support
