Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

I have two hats on right now. As a newspaper editor I am going to talk about some experiences as an emergency medic driving an ambulance.

Sound interesting? Just wait. Driving an ambulance with the red lights and siren on is more exciting than a good mystery movie. The same is true for police cars and fire trucks.

The mystery and suspense comes into play when the driver of such an emergency vehicle goes through an intersection, meets traffic, and comes up behind other drivers. You just never know what the other driver is going to do—or which way he is going to go.

The state law requires vehicles to pull to the right of the roadway and wait until the emergency vehicle has passed. That may be what the law says but, that doesn't mean it will really happen.

Most drivers are on the ball and yield the right of way for an emergency vehicle but, there are some that must consider them a nuisance of some sort or just ignore the emergency lights and sirens.

There have been some real interesting things happen. Like the time the fellow stopped in the middle of the road, got out, and asked what the problem was.

Or the guy in the motor home, pulling a little car, who continued to drive down the middle of the highway—at 20 miles per hour—then turn left without a signal.

Then there is the type that tries to beat the emergency vehicle through the intersection, he probably does that with trains too.

Those folks that don't pay any attention to the emergency vehicles just might be the same ones that ask "what took you so long to get here?" when you arrive minutes after they called for help.

As I said, there is never a dull moment when you are driving with all the red lights on and the siren going.

For the most part, though, drivers are very courteous. I hope I speak for the rest of those who drive emergency vehicles in saying thanks for your courtesy and the right of way.

The Winters City Council took up a very interesting topic Monday. One that could reduce property taxes in our city.

If you were to survey the property taxes around the area, in other cities about our size, you would find ours is higher than average.

If the issue of collecting an additional half-cent in sales tax goes to the polls and gets the approval of the voters in our city, the additional amount of sales tax collected by the city would, by law, be used for a dollar-for-dollar reduction in property taxes.

Now that is a good idea in itself, and there are additional possibilities that would further benefit our community.

Lower property taxes could make this community more desirable for new business and industry and for more folks to move into our town.

With indications of our economy improving, the more retail sales by our merchants, the more the property taxes would be reduced.

If the issue were called to a vote in August, the collection of the additional tax could begin in January of next year. Six weeks later, by mid-February, the city would receive the first payment. Later in the year, when the budget for the next fiscal year is being prepared, the tax rate would be lowered according to the amount of sales tax being collected.

It would be of benefit to all of us if the election is called and the voters give approval to the additional half-cent sales tax.

Special check

The final item of business for the Sesquicentennial Steering Committee was conducted Tuesday when Mary Margaret Leathers, secretary of the committee, presented a check to the Z. I. Hale Museum board of directors. The check represents the remaining funds of the historical committee and has been designated for the purchase of a storm door for the museum and for shields for the light fixtures.

Property tax relief plan heard by Winters Council

The Winters City Council agreed to look into an optional sales tax that could reduce property taxes in the city.

According to City Administrator Chuck MacIvaine, the Texas Legislature, in special session last year, gave cities an option to increase the amount of sales tax collected by the cities from one percent to one and one-half percent.

The same legislation required the cities adopting the increased sales tax to make a dollar for dollar reduction in the property taxes.

Following the discussion by the council, it was agreed that the council members would seek support for the measure among their constituents and, if there is enough support, call an election in the month of August.

If voters approve the plan, the additional tax could start in January of 1988 and the property tax rates could be adjusted for the next fiscal year.

The city administrator termed the proposal "real positive" and said that it would be a real benefit to the tax payer. He said this method of taxation was fair and would be reactive to the economy, which is showing some signs of improving.

The new sales tax would be of great benefit to those living on fixed incomes and would lend itself to more competition by the city for new industry.

The current tax rate in the City of Winters is 64.5 cents per $100 property valuation and, in the current budget, provides revenues of $244,000 approximately.

MacIvaine said that it would be "premature due to the time" to say how much the additional half-cent sales tax would change the property tax rates, but he speculated that it could lower the rates some 22 percent.

If property taxes were reduced by 22 percent, the rate of 64.5 cents per $100 now levied could be reduced by about 14 cents to about 50 cents per $100 property valuation.

Members of the council will have the item on their agenda in subsequent meetings and, if enough support is indicated, will call an election for sometime in August.

In other business, the council named Mike McDonald to serve on the Planning and Zoning Commission. McDonald is a vice-president at Winters State Bank.

The council agreed to advertise for bids for leasing the city sewer farm. The lease period would be five years in length.

The Vanishing River Cruise

The Literary and Service Club sponsored a tour for members and guests to Lake Buchanan Thursday, for the purpose of taking "The Vanishing Texas River Cruise" on the Texas Eagle, a 60-foot enclosed tour boat for year round cruises. There were four cars in the caravan driven by Nadeen Smith, Ethel Mae Clark, Emily Pendergrass and Clarence Wessels. All went well until we reached Brady for a coffee break.

Darlene Sims became ill and required medical attention. The Wessels, Ela Thormeyer and Earnestine Geistmann remained with her while the other travelers continued on their way. The roadsides and fields were colorful with Bluebonnets and Indian Blanket, as we sped along.

No time was wasted in reaching the boat dock on the east side of Lake Buchanan, about 14 miles north of Burnet, where a full load of passengers were impatiently waiting for us. It was only a 15 minute delay and when we explained the situation they understood.

On the three hour boat trip up the Colorado, there was time to observe many kinds of birds, wildlife and trees which were all pointed out and explained by the boat captain. The white jugs that were seen bobbing up and down in the water had been placed there as trotline markers by the fisherman.

There are homes on each side of the lake which extends into four counties: Burnet, Llano, Lampasas, and San Saba. To our right was the Arrow B Ranch of 625 acres, belonging to Mr. Beeman of Houston.

Sea gulls were seen on the point of an island that is all ranch land. It covers 27,000 acres and has a 15 mile shore line. It is called the Goodrich Ranch and is owned by Garvin Garrett of Lampasas.

Sea gulls were seen on Gull Island where the fishermen were out after the white bass and the stripers that are running now. A large American white pelican overlooked the proceedings—hoping to snatch a fish—no doubt. Other pelicans began to appear on the shore. Sea gulls and forester tern could be seen sitting on the driftwood.

The shores of the lake were solid with trees of all kinds including oak, post oak, cedar, willow and dog-wood. Entering Tow Valley and approaching the little town of Tow, we were instructed to look between the buildings and to the left of the oak trees for a glimpse of the Fall Creek Winery and vineyards.

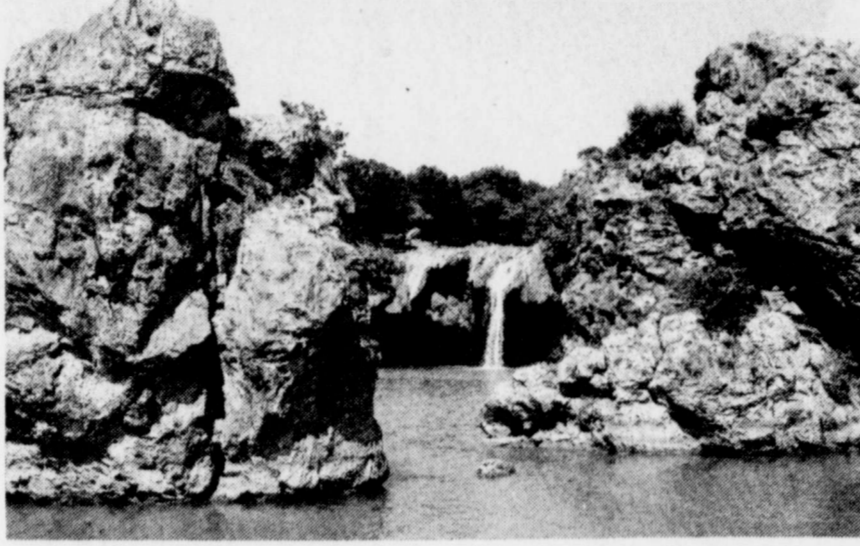

More birds began to appear as the boat approached the sandy cliffs and the water fall area. There were blackbirds, and four cormorants sitting on a limb above the water, the males are white breasted and the females are solid black. An osprey, or fishing hawk, appeared. Others were the Great Blue Herons, vultures, turkeys and the black buzzard, which the captain called the Texas Humming Bird.

The cliff swallows were busy as bees building their nests and they resembled bees as they made holes in the sandy cliffs, lined them with mud and folded their wings and went into the tiny holes. A lone mountain or canyon wren sang to us as a red tail hawk flitted about.

Nature was at its best; Bluebonnets were in bloom and bright purple flowers called laurel. Cactus was plentiful; the Spanish dagger, the white bloomed prickly pear and a bright red cactus that the captain called "Claret Cut." The bright yellow flowers are known as butter daisies.

As the boat cruised past the Fall Creek Falls, the water was gushing out of sand stone and limestone cliffs that have been there years and years, and the spring feeds the lake all year long. (Written information says the rock formations are the oldest exposed Ellenburger Limestone formations in the Western Hemisphere. Some 3000 million years old.)

Whitetail deer, wild turkey, Feral Hogs, and Spanish goats scampered around on the cliffs. Goat is called cabrito in Spanish and barbecue in Texas, the captain informed us.

We reached deer creek about 12 1/2 miles up the lake and turned around soon after, not making the entire length of the cruise and I was relieved. It is called a Vanishing River Tour and we might vanish with it.

It had been a long time since breakfast and some of our group ate lunch on the boat. I believe that Janie Humble, Dorthea Laughon, Pat Rosson and Dorothy Compton indulged.

Some of us decided to wait until the cruise was over as the boat was crowded. It was 3 p.m. before we reached Llano and found a good barbecue place. Prewit would have starved if we hadn't had snacks and coffee in the car. Others who waited to eat were Noma Eoff, Verda Smith, Flora McWilliams and Fay Hogan.

Barbecue never tasted so good and the entire trip was delightful.

Members of the group that we left at Brady failed to catch the boat and we wondered what happened to them. We were glad to learn they had an enjoyable trip, by continuing on the Fredricksburg and visiting the LBJ Boyhood Home as well as other interesting places.

There are many vacation spots in the Highland Lakes area of which Buchanan Lake and Dam are the largest.

The Last Laugh

"Easter means Christ beat Hell out of the graveyard!"

The graphic graffiti has always been a favorite of mine. It is a short and sweet summary of the good news of Christianity.

Christ is risen!

Sin, Death, Hell—the greatest enemies of human beings, the greatest cause of fears and tears, pain and despair—they have been whipped!

On Good Friday Satan and Death were laughing all over the place. They thought they had finally whipped their greatest enemy, Christ.

But on Sunday morning the tables are turned. God gets the last laugh. And he laughs last, laughs best!

And because God laughs, I too shall laugh!

Paul (undoubtedly with a big smile on his face) puts it this way: "O death, where is your victory? O death, where is your sting?"

It is like laughing at the ridiculous efforts of a yellow-jacket who has had his stinger pulled out trying to sting you.

Or like a pet skunk I once had. Her name was Fifi.

We found Fifi when she was very small. We promptly "deodorized" her, taking out her musk bags. She grew into a surprisingly beautiful and playful pet. Fifi's favorite game was to run at you, stop, turn around, lift her tail, and stomp her hind feet. She thought she was really letting you have it! But we just laughed at Fifi. We knew she couldn't harm us.

And that is what Christ has done to death. He has taken the stink out of the skunk of death!

Easter means we can laugh ol' Easter right in the face!

Literary Service Club went on Cruise

Members of the Literary Service Club and their guests enjoyed a day on the River. The group left Winters at 7 a.m. and enjoyed seeing the bluebonnets and other wild flowers all along the way.

They boarded the Texas Eagle, a 60 foot enclosed tour boat, and traveled down the Llano River seeing wildlife and many species of birds all the journey.

Those making the trip were members: Nadeen Smith, Ethel Mae Clark, Jo Olive Hancock, Doris Prewitt, Lela Thormeyer, Darlene Sims, Betty Wessels, Emily Pendergrass and Noma Eoff.

Guests included: Charlsie Poe, Faye Hogan, Flora McWilliams, Patti Rosson, Ernestine Geistmann, Dortha Laughon, Janie Humble, Dorothy Compton and Clarence Wessels.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank those who called, came to visit, sent cards and brought food during my stay at home and in the hospital. It all helped keep my spirits up and gave me encouragement to "hang in there."

As a family we want to thank those responsible for setting up the Paschal Twins Medical Fund and to those who contributed to it. Whether it be five cents or five dollars, it means a great deal to us.

We also want to express our appreciation for the prayers, cards, food, flowers, memorials and visits during our sons hospital stay at Ft. Worth and at his death. This has been and still is a very trying time for us but the concern shown is helping us cope.

We are so thankful to be a part of such a loving and caring community as Winters.

Thanks again for your thoughtfulness.

Love
Keith, Sheila, Michelle and Marci Paschal

Mr., Mrs. H. F. Bredemeyer celebrated 65th wedding anniversary

R. (Helen) Wessels; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. (Margaret) Wessels; Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie (Juanita) Wilson; and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bredemeyer.

The table was covered with a hand crocheted table cloth made by Juanita Bredemeyer centered with a spring basket bouquet and a two tiered cake decorated with Love Birds and spring colored flowers.

The couple were married in Winters at St. John's Lutheran Church on April 17, 1922. She was the former Minnie Minzenmayer. They farmed near Winters until 1964 when they retired at which time they moved to their present home.

Friendly Ladies met

The Friendly Ladies Sunday School Class of the First United Methodist Church met in the fellowship hall April 15, 1987, for a Easter Buffet at 6:30 p.m.

The delicious food was enjoyed by Maurine Davis, Louise Goode, Ionah Vinson, Fay Thompson, Thelma Ledbetter, Lois Jones, Bessie Baldwin, Hazel Mae Bragg, Corra Petrie, Lou Esther Gerhart, Lula Belle Leeman and Nina Hale.

The hostesses for this occasion were: Lucille Hill, Ethel Harkins, Oneta Williams, Billie Middlebrook, Gladys Knight, Hazel Badgett and Pauline Johnson.

The invocation was given by Gladys Knight. After the most delectable meal we all sang "He Lives" with Lula Belle Leeman at the piano.

The beautiful devotion was given by Billie Middlebrook. The "Voices of Easter" given from 'Palm Sunday' through the Resurrection, it was a most meaningful story.

Then the group played 42 and 84. It was a delightful evening for all.

Determining cause of anemia is important

"Tired blood" or "low blood" is what many people call anemia. But feeling tired or rundown doesn't always mean you have anemia. And the Texas Medical Association says even if you are diagnosed as having anemia, iron tablets are not always the answer. Anemia has many causes—some potentially serious—and different kinds of anemia require different treatments. The main component of red blood cells is the protein hemoglobin, which combines with oxygen in the lungs and carries it throughout the body, and releases it to those tissues that require it. Anemia is defined as a decrease in either hemoglobin or red blood cells to below the normal level. Iron is an essential ingredient in hemoglobin. If you do not have enough iron in your body, you cannot make enough hemoglobin. This form of anemia is called iron-deficiency anemia. A severe shortage of vitamin B12 in your body also affects the production of red blood cells. This is called B12 deficiency anemia. Lack of folic acid in your body has the same effect and is called folic acid deficiency. Diseases of the liver or thyroid, rheumatoid arthritis, hidden infections or cancers, and inherited blood diseases are some of the other causes of anemia. The most common type of anemia in the United States is iron-deficiency anemia, but this is rarely because of a lack of iron in your diet. The most common cause of iron-deficiency anemia is excessive loss of blood. If blood loss is caused by a temporary problem, reserves of iron will rebuild in time. Many women have heavy menstrual periods, which can gradually deplete their iron reserves. In other cases, blood loss may occur in the intestinal tract. Some of the common causes of intestinal blood loss are ulcers, cancer of the stomach, cancer of the large intestine, and hemorrhoids. The most important point to remember about an anemia is that it is a condition for which a cause must be found. Anemia should be treated by dealing with the underlying disorder. If you suspect you have anemia, see your physician.

Discipline and the single parent

All parents sometimes feel frustrated and overwhelmed in dealing with children. This is not a problem just for single parents. Single parents can manage their children's behavior in effective and rewarding ways.

Effective Parenting

There has been a long debate over whether parents should be strict or permissive. Research tells us that the answer is some of both. Studies have shown that effective parents expect mature behavior from their children and set clear standards. They firmly enforce limits and standards.

On the other hand, the research also shows that effective parents encourage individuality and independence by allowing children to think how to solve their own problems. These parents encourage discussion of issues, standards and problems.

Perhaps most important, the research shows that effective parents recognize the rights of both parents and children. Children are expected to be responsive to parents' demands and parents accept a similar responsibility to be responsive to children's needs.

Effective Single Parenting

According to the research, this same style of effective parenting promotes the well-being of children from single-parent families. Children accustomed to this style of parenting generally get along better with their peers and have high self-esteem.

These children develop a greater ability to think for themselves and they do better in school. They also gain greater self-control.

Discipline Principles

Several important principles are related to effective parenting. Clarifying expectations means parents must know what they expect of their children. As a single parent, you may want to decide what kinds of behaviors will be expected of the children and even write them down.

As you think about your expectations ask yourself, "Is this appropriate for my child at his or her age?" If you're unsure, talk to friends and childcare providers or read some parenting books.

After you have determined your expectations discuss them with your child in a positive manner. Say "I want you to put your toys in the closet," rather than "Don't leave your toys on the floor." Clear expectations teach children that rules of life exist.

Consistency provides the child with an ordered word that he or she can understand. The child learns, for example, that it's not okay to eat in the living room because that rule is repeatedly stated and enforced. It's impossible for children to learn appropriate behavior if the rules are enforced only some of the time.

Research has also shown that when negative behavior is not constantly discouraged, it becomes harder to change.

Responsiveness also affects discipline. It's important for parents to take the child's needs and wants into consideration when making rules. Perhaps for example, a child is crying and complaining. If this is a frequent behavior, you may respond very differently than you would if the child did not get much sleep the day before and has been upset during the day.

On bad days it may be hard to be responsive to our children's needs. But in the long run, responsiveness is important to effective parenting. While attempting to be consistent, be responsive to the particular circumstance. In most cases it's possible to be both consistent and responsive to the child's needs.

Explanations and reasons help children understand the effects of their behavior on others. Good explanations tell the child how his or her behavior makes others feel.

Explanations that focus on the feelings of others, that encourage the child to apologize or make amends for wrongdoing, all help the child better understand people's needs. For example, when a child hits another child, you might say, "You don't hit other people because it hurts them." Provide explanations to your children at a level that they can understand.

The explanations you provide your children will serve as their guides for behavior in the future. As they learn how their behavior affects others, they will increasingly control their own actions.

Turnrow Tidbits

Let Me Introduce...

Turnrow Tidbits! Turnrow Tidbits is a pest management news letter intended to provide you with pest management information that might help you, the producer, make effective management decisions. The newsletter will alert you to impending insect problems in cotton and grain sorghum in this area, review various management options and maybe give you a laugh or two.

If you wish to receive Turnrow Tidbits newsletter through the 1987 growing season, please complete and return the enclosed form as soon as possible. If you do not return the form, you will automatically be dropped from the mailing list.

Thank you for your help with keeping our newsletter list current!

It's Unbelievable!

The first critter of the season isn't a pest.

Several producers who are planting grain sorghum have noticed an abundance of "worms" in the soil. Dr. Tom Fuchs looked at some of these and reported that the culprits are not wireworms. They are nematodes and they are not anything to worry about! There likely are a few wireworms around, but these nematodes are what folks are noticing most.

These nematodes are various shades of white, cream or tan and are 1/4" - 1/2" long. They are very thin, like thread or thin like string, and have no legs or appendages of any kind. If they are taken out of the moist soil, they dry up quickly.

These nematodes are saprophytic, which is a fancy way to say they obtain their food by absorbing dissolved and/or decayed organic matter by osmosis thru their "skin".

Wireworms and false wireworms are the immature stages of click beetles and darling beetles respectively. Basically, wireworms are long and cylindrical with tough, shiny bodies. They are brown in color but early instars may be paler with softer skin. They grow up to 1 1/2" long and have three pairs of legs just behind the head. Wireworms feed entirely underground chewing on germinating seed or on the roots, stem and tubers of many plants. In grain sorghum, they destroy planting seed and feed on seedling plant roots. They can cause stand reduction, and loss of plant vigor.

For further information, please contact a Steering Committee member, or call by office at 365-5212. The Steering Committee members are as follows: Russ Weatherford, Chairman; Scotty Belew; Rodrick Bredemeyer; Tommy Chapman; Michael Deike; Edward Kellermeier; Brent Mikeska; Nolan Niehues; and Herbert Woehl.

Approved insecticides (i.e. lindane) applied as seed treatments or planter box treatments are effective in controlling wireworms.

Wanted: Bug Scouts

We are currently taking applications (until April 22) for insect scouts for the 1987 growing season. We need individuals who would like to learn more about cotton and grain sorghum pests and can work at least until the end of August, preferably into September. Scouts must have access to a vehicle at least half the time. We'll train scouts on the job. If you or someone you know is interested in scouting for summer employment, please contact Maude Armstrong, Extension Agent-Entomologist, third floor, Runnels County Courthouse, Ballinger, 365-5212. Pest Management Program Sign-Up

Ranch Management Clinic is scheduled

"Profitability in Sheep and Wool Production" will be the theme of a districtwide "Operation: Ranch Management" clinic set for May 13 at the Mills County Civic Center here. The program is for all interested producers of the Central Texas area.

Danny Long, Mills County Extension agent, said registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the program will follow at 10, with a discussion by Dr. Carl Menzies, resident director of research for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at San Angelo. His subject will be "Sheep Selection - A Management Tool."

The second speaker will be Dr. George Ahlschwede, Extension sheep and goat specialist based at San Angelo, who will discuss "Nutritional Concepts for Sheep Production." Parasite control practices will be presented by Dr. Tom Craig, veterinary parasitologist with the Experiment Station, College Station. Predator control alternatives will be outlined by Don Hawthorne of San Antonio, state director for the Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service.

Following lunch, educational demonstrations and live animal evaluations will be conducted starting at 12:45 p.m. Discussion leaders will include Menzies, Craig, Ahlschwede, Dr. Jessie Cocke of Stephenville, Extension entomologist; and Frank Johnson of Goldthwaite, manager of Blackwell Wool and Mohair. Johnson's subject will be "Wool Preparation and Marketing."

Long emphasized that a small fee will be charged to cover education handout materials and lunch.

Long also noted that "Operation: Ranch Management" is an educational program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The program is targeted to address concerns of Central Texas sheep ranchers.

He said that rangeland occupies about 45 percent of 4.4 million acres in the 18-county area, and sheep generate about $7,078,000 annually in agricultural income.

Gratitude is something of which none of us can give too much. For on the smiles, the thanks we give our little gestures of appreciation, our neighbors build up their philosophy of life.

NORTHROP KING GRAIN SORGHUMS

NK BRAND 2244 & NK 2244 SCREEN TREATED

This widely adapted medium maturing grain hybrid is hard to beat. The compact uniform plants show above average standability, excellent threshability and a high yield capacity. The large semi-open heads have hetero-yellow grain and are 38 to 46 inches tall. The plants have shown an above average level of resistance to downy mildew and Biotype C greenbugs.

NK BRAND 2030 & NK 2030 SCREEN TREATED

This hybrid is extremely uniform, well adapted to non-irrigated conditions and has demonstrated high-yield capacity. Good greenbug resistance and drought tolerance make this a good hybrid for areas with 12 to 18 inches moisture and 130-150 day growing seasons.

NK BRAND 2018

The semi-open heads of this medium early maturing hybrid are well exerted on strong standing plants. 2018 is a short, uniform, drought tolerant hybrid. It has very good greenbug resistance and standability. In test, yields have been high for a hybrid of this maturity. The semi-open heads dry down quickly and thresh easily.

NK 180

Star of the early maturity class is NK 180 grain sorghum. Drought resistance and quick maturity are the big reasons for its stellar performance. NK 180 comes through with big yields of brown-seeded grain from compact heads. Head mold resistance keeps the grain clean for harvest. Excellent standability makes the grain easy to cut.

Woman charged in hit-and-run

A 59 year old San Angelo woman has been charged with felony failure to stop and render aid after a hit-and-run incident on FM 1692 in Miles about 8:55 p.m. Friday.

San Angelo police arrested Alicia Paz on a Rannels County criminal warrant at her 427 W. Ave. M home Saturday morning, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said Sunday. She was later released on a $5,000 bond set by Rannels County Judge Michael Murchison.

The victim, Gilberto Gallegos, 28, of Miles was injured when he was struck by Mrs. Paz's vehicle and dragged about 50 feet. He was treated at Ballinger Memorial Hospital and later released said DPS Trooper Scott Warren.

Paz and Gallegos argued prior to the incident, Warren said.

Athletic Medicine

by Dr. J. E. Adams, M.D.

Football knee injuries and knee braces

In the late 1970's, Kenny Stabler, the quarterback for the San Diego Chargers, was having problems with his much injured knees. The Charger's trainer devised a knee brace that he felt could help protect Stabler from recurrent knee injury. Thus, the Anderson Knee Stabler Brace was born. The concept was good and mechanically, it made sense. Soon, other football teams noticed the brace and its use became widespread. After all, who wants to see a fine young man suffer a devastating, life long knee injury? Other knee braces of the same design began showing up in the market place and everybody from the pros to the high schools were soon braced. The only problem now in the late 1980's is that it is becoming quite clear that the use of these "prophylactic" knee braces does not change either the incidence or severity of knee ligament injuries in football.

The same general design is used for the different prophylactic knee braces available. It looks like a brace joint that is affixed to the outside of the knee with either velcro straps or tape. Its intended purpose is to protect the knee ligaments (specifically the medial collateral ligament) from blows occurring to the outside of the knee. This is a very common mode of injury to the knee and generally results in an injury to the medical collateral ligament.

George Rovere, MD and the Wake Forest University Sports Medicine Unit started scientifically studying this brace in 1981. After four years of controlled evaluation, it was their conclusion that the brace was of absolutely no value in preventing knee ligament injuries. They even noted an increased tendency for anterior cruciate ligament injury in players who wore the brace. Jon B. Wang, MD of the University of Arizona also studied the device and found it irrelevant to the prevention of knee injury. For a five year period, Dr. Wang and his associates assessed the brace by comparing U of A football players who always wore the brace to non-braced U of A football players. They concluded that "overall, the number of knee injuries was similar in both groups. The type and severity of injuries was similar in all categories". Robert Johnson, MD and Lonnie Paulos, MD independently demonstrated in fresh cadavers the brace to actually PRE-LOAD the anterior cruciate ligament. In other words, strain was placed on this important knee Ligament by just putting the brace on the knee! Some investigators feel that with the brace positioned on the lateral side of the knee, a lateral force applied to the knee causes the brace to act as a fulcrum to actually crack the medial side of the knee open.

The motives for the use of prophylactic knee brace are simply to protect our young men. That was the desire of the Charger's trainer when he first developed the lateral type of brace. We, however, need to base our assessment of protective athletic devices, not on hearsay, heartfelt expectation, or manufacturer's literature, but on good solid medical research. Sometimes all is not what it appears to be. Herbert Haupt, MD, one of the original clinical investigators of the brace, said "...the results are surprising because, at the outset of our study, we expected to see fewer injuries with the braces. The braces cost money, but the don't seem to work. We strongly feel that more research is needed before routine use of prophylactic knee braces can be advocated at any level of organized team sports."

District 4-H camp

Tips on buying and storing fish

When buying fresh fish fillets, look for firm flesh without signs of browning or drying around the edges, and a fresh and mild odor, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Marilyn Haggard. Whole fish should have bright, clear, full eyes and shiny skin. Fresh fish should, of course, be kept refrigerated and can be frozen in moisture-vapor proof material for months, she adds. "All crab meat is cooked before it is packaged and can be used without further preparation," Haggard says, "but crab meat must be kept refrigerated. It keeps well up to a week in the refrigerator, but does not freeze well. If freezing is necessary, use it within three weeks."

Our federal government probably spends as much accidentally now as it did on purpose 30 years ago.

Public hearing on 65 mile an hour speed limit set for May 1

The State Highway and Public Transportation Commission has scheduled a public hearing to receive public views and comments on proposed action raising the maximum speed limit on rural portions of Interstate highways in Texas to 65 miles per hour.

The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday, May 1, in the first floor auditorium (Room 101) of the Dewitt C. Greer State Highway Building, 11th and Brazos Streets, Austin.

The public hearing is the first legal step necessary to consider changing the speed limit in Texas. After the public hearing, the commission will review testimony. If the commission decides to change the limit, the order would be filed with the governor. If he concurs with the order, he will issue a proclamation. The earliest effective date would be eight days after the filing of the commission order with the governor.

Year End Track Results
8th Grade Boys
8th Grade Girls

These are the places and point totals our individuals earned during this years five track meets we attended. Team wise we were able to capture the District Championship for the third year in a row. We also had a 2nd place finish at Wall a 3rd place finish at Colorado City, 5th place at Ballinger, and a 6th place finish at Breckenridge. All the meets except Wall, were composed of higher classification teams and we held our own as we prepared for our district meet.

These places and points are somewhat interesting because some of our kids were in four or five events, while some of the others were only in maybe one. Some of our kids didn't place this year but their importance to our team can not be described in words. Countless times they made it to the finals in events and eventually came in 7th. They received no points or places for their efforts, but by getting to the finals, they knock some of which unquestionable helped our this year teams cause. They should be commended for their outstanding team contribution

Our girls had a respectable year at the five meets as they place 5th at district, third at Wall, 8th at Breckenridge, fifth at C-City and sixth at Ballinger.

What I said about the boys places and points is the same for the girls. Some of them weren't in as many events as others, therefore they don't have the opportunity to place as often.

If there were a spirit, determination and hard work award for our Jr. High track kids it would have to go to Susan Minzenmayer. Susan worked overtime to improve herself in every aspect of track. When others were maybe letting up during workouts, you could bet Susan was ne of the one's who was giving it everything she had. I am extremely proud to have such kids as her because that's what makes coaching pleasurable.

4-H'ers invited to special camps

4-H members interested in a summer camping program will want to look at the choices provided at the Texas 4-H Center at Brownwood.

There are two types of camps being offered this summer, points out Todd Swift, county 4-H program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A Special Interest camp will be conducted June 22-27 to offer older 4-H members (14-19) opportunities to learn, develop and expand project skills and leadership abilities. Among the special interest areas are food and fitness, photography, shooting sports, clothing, canoeing and sailing, computers, public speaking, tennis and recreation. Costs of the various areas differ due to resources involved.

The other type of camping at the 4-H Center is called "Prime Time '87" points out Swift. Prime Time concentrates on educational and recreational experiences that are out-of-the-ordinary. All participants will learn to be successful at new things with the hope of developing broader interests and becoming more involved in other 4-H activities.

Prime Time allows young people to learn more about themselves and other people, notes Swift. They learn interpersonal skills in working with others and adjusting to a new environment.

Each Prime Time camp is packed with fun and adventure and includes such activities as swimming, sailing, canoeing, shooting sports, crafts, cookery and recreation.

Prime Time camps are scheduled as follows: July 5-8, July 8-11 and July 15-18 for all ages 12-14.

Information on the costs of these camping opportunities and how to register is available at the county Extension office, says the Ass't County Extension Agent.

Wingate Community Center news

We had a business meeting to discuss our accomplishments and goals. We are very grateful to Kathy Dunn Boone for her generous gift of the Dunn Building to our Community for family entertainment.

We have received several generous donations of money, materials and time. Most recently we had Jerrel Walker and Jack Babb to install new lights and ceiling fans. Raymond Burns donated for us the money needed for fees to the Water District. Bob Webb has sent word he will come connect our meter to our breaker box, so we can have our lights turned on. So as you see, we have some outside interest in our community project for our center.

If you have time, talent and don't mind a little hard work we'd like your help. We would like someone with knowledge of plumbing to assist us in the installation of two restrooms and water in our kitchen. We have some material on hand but will get more as we know what all we need to do the jobs. We do have more painting to do also.

We would like to be able to have the Community Center open by May 1. When finished and ready it can be rented and used for Family gatherings, class reunions, private parties, any functions where a large building is needed. Our plans for everyone are Pot-Luck dinners, Musicals, Game Nights and any kind of family fun.

So won't you come out and help us who have worked so hard to get this building in shape for all of OUR enjoyment. Let's make our Community Center a very quality part of our family social entertainment center.

The kindness planned for tomorrow doesn't count today. Neark (DeL) Post
