We all know that the folks in the southern part of our county have a problem with their

The hospital is, and has been in serious trouble for some time

With efforts being made by the City of Ballinger along with many citizens, there may be some hope for the medical facility.

In the past week, a number of folks in Winters have received mail from someone down there, a person who is not proud enough of his letter to even sign his name.

The contents of the photocopied letter are not even worth repeating. In the four or five paragraphs there might be some small bit of factual information. I did not, however, find it.

There are two sides to the issue down there that folks are hearing from. There is another side that is not only not being heard from, apparently few folks have considered that group's

There are the folks who support the hospital and recognize the need for the facility and there are folks who, for lack of something better to do, oppose the hospital-either quietly or loudly.

That third group of folks are the ones who, perhaps are the most important. They are the very young and the elderly. The same folks that are most likely to need a hospital.

Over the years as a news reporter, I have had opportunity to observe many issuesgood, bad, and ugly.

The propaganda sheet I received must have been stolen from somebody's highly emotional, and totally rediculous campaign opposing a wet-dry

You know the kind of situation. One in which life-long friends become enemies. Where violent threats are made. Where the names of petitions signers - are read from church pulpits.

This kind of nonsense is something that is not needed. It can provide no positive influence what so ever.

By positive, I do not refer to either side of the issue. I mean the welfare of the entire community.

For those in favor of a few more tax dollars to support a hospital, they recognize the need and are willing to support

Those opposed to the proposal of pitching in a few more tax dollars for a hospital - they just might need to wake up and smell the coffee. One way, or another, if the hospital were to close, they would have to cough up those few tax dollars anyway. All these folks need to just take a look around and see how their neighbors did it, with much success, just working together. Up the other way, some of the county commissioners in Taylor County might better serve their constituancy by driving a road grader. It is apparent that some of those commissioners were elected by the majority of voters in their respective precincts who live in the city, and probably don't even know who they elected.

If those commissioners were elected by, and truly representative of those rural residents, there might not be the lifethreatening problems that now exist in the forgotten state of South Taylor County.

ture of the 1946 Blizzards Basketball team to the museum this week, the only Winters basketball team to enter the state play-off.

Carroll says that the picture belonged to his mother and as for as he knows it is the only picture of the team.

The players were Arnold Gene Baldwin, Captain, and State Team Honorable Mention; Clarence Wessels Center, 43-45 All-Regional Team; David Carroll, Forward, 44-45 All-Regional Team.

Guards were Charles Baker, Vollie D. Pierce, Gary Simpson and Donus Clark. Others were Herbert Kurtz, Jim McCartney, Von Rhea Frierson and Herman Baker, manager. The team was coached by Faris Nowell and Neal McLesky.

The write-up in The Glacier said that the Blizzards Basketball team started slow, and it seemed they would not have a chance in the district. The lads snapped out of it, after dropping the first game, and came on to win district, regional, and went to the state. The team played six conference games: Lakeview, two; Coleman, two; followed by two with Brady for district. After beating the Bearcats on David Carroll presented a pic- the home court, the Blizzards went to Ballinger and lost, followed by another loss the next week. But Ballinger withdrew because of ineligibility, throwing Winters in the lead for the championship. The scores for the games played for district are as follows:

- -Lakeview 15-Winters 18
- Coleman 26-Winters 30 -Ballinger 18-Winters 25
- -Lakeview 13-Winters 17 -Coleman 11-Winters 22
- -Ballinger 18-Winters 11
- -Brady 18-Winters 40
- -Brady 13-Winters 20 - Colorado City 18-Winters 31
- Monahans 16-Winters 20 -Ballinger 39-Winters 13

At regional play-off, the Blizzards played Colorado City for the opening game and won, 31-18, throwing Winters in the finals with Monahans, who lost to the Blizzards, 20-16.

The Winters Blizzards met the strong Quitman team in the opening game of the state playoff and fell hard to the Quitman five, 49-33. The team had plenty of fight but were too small to compete with the rival. Two men from Winters rated honorable mention for the allstate basketball team.

The team went to Bronte in a non-conference skirmish and won the tournament and a nice trophy by defeating Norton, Christoval and Bronte.

A basketball banquet was given at the end of the season, honoring Coach Nowell and Coach McLesky.

Dickson commends Lloyd Bentsen

Senator Temple Dickson (D-Sweetwater) sent a telegram Tuesday to U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen commending Bentsen on his rural health care initiative and pledging his help in fighting the decay of rural America.

"Senator Bentsen and I agree that the bedrock values of America are founded in our small towns," Dickson said Tuesday. "If we allow things to go on like they are, we are running the risk of letting our great heritage slip away."

Powderpost beetles

by Richard Minzenmayer

There are a large number of anobiid beetles that attack seasoned wood in the United States. These beetles range in size from less than 1/16-inch to over 5/16-inch. They have highly variable body forms but they almost all have a "bellshaped" first body segment (pronotum) that hides the head when viewed from above.

The furniture beetle is 3/16-inch to 1/4-inch long, cylindrical and red-brown to dark brown. They have a series of pits in rows that run lengthwise on the wing covers. These pits can be seen through the fine yellow hairs that cover the body. Furniture beetles have segmented antennae, the last three segments of which are longer than the first eight combined.

The adult deathwatch beetle is a little longer than 1.4-inch and is gray-brown with yellow, scalelike hairs on the back of the body.

Furniture beetle adults emerge in the spring from cells just below the surface of the infested wood. Soon afterward, mating followed by egglaying takes place. The female lays the oval pearl-like eggs in old emergence holes, or crack and crevices in the wood. Eggs hatch in six to 10 days and the larvae feed for about one year before pupating for two to three weeks. These insects infest both hardwoods and softwoods. The larvae normally follow the grain of the wood when feeding and fill their tunnels with cigar-shaped pellets of chewed wood.

Deathwatch beetles get their name from the habit the adults have of tapping their heads against the surface of the wood they are infesting. These beetles cannot infest wood unless it has been partially digested by fungi and therefore this beetle is most often found in poorly vetilated areas where the wood has moisture problems. They prefer hardwoods such as oak, but can move from these woods to softwoods.

Deathwatch beetle larvae are 7/16-inch long when mature, with tiny spines on the surface of the first eight abdominal segments. These beetles create large, "bun-shaped" pellets in their galleries.

that is infested by these beetles may go unnoticed until the round adult emergence holes appear in the suface. The characteristic pellets found in the frass in the tunnels is useful in determining what species is infesting the wood. The most effective way of controlling anobiid powderpost beetles infestations is by fumigation. Unpainted or otherwise unprotected wood can also be protected by applying appropriately labeled insecticides.

Dickson elected to board of Senate Democrats

Senator Temple Dickson (D-Sweetwater) was elected Wednesday to the board of the Senate Democratic Caucus. Dickson is the only first-term senator to be elected as a board member of the caucus, which includes all 23 Democratic state senators. He was elected by the caucus less than a month after being sworn into the Senate on January 10.

"I'm proud that my colleagues in the Senate have shown the confidence in me to give me this responsibility," Dickson said.

All the Democratic members of the Senate are members of the Democratic caucus. During the last campaign cycle the

The United States Postal Service has authorized a special cancellation to be used on letters or parcels which are mailed from the show. They will also have stamps available at the show.

There will be stamp exhibits from local and out of town collectors. The exhibits will be judged and awards given in several categories. Nine dealers from throughout the state will be present to sell, buy, trade, and discuss different phases of philately (stamp collecting).

The general public is invited to come by the Holiday Inn between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Saturday or 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge. The Concho Valley Stamp Club wish to share its enjoyment of collecting with others. Membership includes national judges, experienced collectors and the novice or beginning collector. The Club meets the 2nd Tuesday of each month at the Main Post Office and on the 4th Thursday at the Central National Bank. The meetings are at 7 p.m. in San Angelo and are open to the public.

Federal parks closure decision to be reviewed

At the request of U.S. Senator Phil Gramm, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed not to proceed on a plan to close or partially close 65 recreational parks throughout Texas.

Gramm said the Corps included the proposal in its Fiscal Year 1990 budget request submitted to Congress on January 9. The proposal targeted hundreds of parks across the United States

"While I believe we can save money through a more efficient operation and maintenance of federally-owned parks, I also know that these parks are economic building blocks which generate tax revenue and tourism for the cities and counties in which they are located," Gramm said. "An immediate abondonment of these parks could harm communities that aren't prepared for that type of withdrawal."

In a letter to Gramm, Assistant Secretary of the Army for Civil Works Robert Page promoised to "look at a way that we can work with the communities in order to arrive at alternate means of realizing the necessary cost savings that represent a and logical reasonable conclusion."

Page told Gramm he will have

Hospital -

Medicaid, insurance, and private payments.

The remainder of the hospital's $1.5 million budget, $310,000, is made up of tax dollars collected in the hospital district.

The hospital's fiscal condition can be attributed to good management of the hospital boards past and present, hospital administration past and present, and the hospital staff. Prewit termed it a "joint effort."

The administrator said that the patient census is up and that the hospital has been extremely busy. Prewit said that he had continued optimism that if the patient load continues at the present rate, the hospital district will be in "positive, excellent condition at the end of the fiscal year.

About 13 months ago, the hospital directors agreed to close the facility's nursery and obstetric department. Only weeks after the department was closed, North Runnels Hospital became the only hospital in Runnels County to provide obstetric services after two physicians from Ballinger joined the medical staff.

The Winters hospital administrator said that he had received numerous calls concer ning the apparent misinforma tion carried in the Abilene paper. The calls, he said, were from members of the community concerned about the condition of North Runnels Hospital.

Prewit emphasised that "Winters and the surrounding communities deserve the credit for North Runnels Hospital be ing what it has become, an asset we would hate to be without."

lot of fun this season and I en joyed the people I played with."

Tracey Grantham: "This is the first time in a long time that the Blizzard Varsity Girls have had a team that played with as much unity at times."

Melanie Smith: "This basket ball season was great. I'm proud to be a member of a team that can play as well together. I would give my 'soul' to play Coleman over and win!

Melissa Smith: "Having a winning season your senior year is something will always be remembered. I am proud to have been a part of the 88-89 Lady Blizzards Basketball Team."

Lisa Farias: "This was my first year in Varsity and it is one I won't ever forget. We went through good and bad times, but the good times were my best.'

Diana Farias: "It definitely felt great being on a team that worked together in order to accomplish our goals. It felt great to have a winning season."

Marie Pritchard: "This season has been one of the greatest. The feeling of almost going to district play-offs could never be surpassed."

Gracie Rodriguez: "I think our basketball season was GREAT! I also think my fellow team players played excellent and I wouldn't want to play on any other team.

positive action from the commissioners' court.

Commissioner Thompson, in a area-wide meeting several weeks ago said that his office had received only three calls about the issue, a comment that he repeated Tuesday.

Another South Taylor County resident, in response to the commissioner's comments on the calls said, "Why call somebody that won't listen to you much less get anything done for you. He just gives you lip service."

Randy Nolte said that he was notified of the commissioners' court meeting late Monday, not enough advance notice to enable him to attend the meeting. Nolte said the $500 subsidy was only a token and would not be adequate to staff one ambulance in Tuscola for a month.

The commissioners cited a lack of calls for ambulances in the area over the past few months and said that if the service received no calls that it would not cost so much to Nolte disagreed saying that the money has to come from somewhere to maintain service readiness. He said that the more calls received, the less subsidy needed. The fewer calls receiv ed mandated more funds from the county to maintain the service at the proper readiness

Nolte stressed that his service would respond to South Taylor County but he emphasised that the area needed its own service based in a central location, probably Tuscola.

The Winters Paramedic said that his service would be willing to help train and set up an ambulance service in that area and then turn the area over to the new service.

It is anticipated that the concerned citizens group will continue its efforts to convince the Taylor County Commissioners of their need in hopes of receiving funding for the area.
