Kindergartners accompany Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Pritchard from school to the Pizza Hut for further study of the sound of the letter "P." The pupils were enthusiastically following in line but did not know if they would get to partake of some of the pizza in order to sample the taste of a "P."

Chamber banquet will kick off Centennial celebration

The annual banquet sponsored by the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce will be Thursday night, Jan. 25, at the vacant building next to Winn's.

The banquet will be the "kick off" for the year of Centennial celebration. Decorations in the banquet hall will carry out the theme of 1890 to 1990. Dress will be casual and citizens are invited to dress in period costumes of the old days in Winters. Entertainment will be provided by Bruce Ayers of Plainview. Ayers is a speaker, singer, musician and impersonator.

All local and area people are urged to make plans now to attend the banquet, which will feature a barbecue dinner catered by the Deans of Wingate.

Council objects to EPA landfill regulations

The Winters city council met Monday night with the main item of business the adoption of a resolution seeking revisions to Environmental Protection Agency regulations concerning municipal landfills.

Council members said they felt the new regulations were excessive and were cost prohibitive for small cities. It was noted that insurance rates for the city have already increased substantially because of the proposed EPA regulations.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Texas Department of Health (the state agency responsible for the control of landfills), Senators Lloyd Bentsen and Phil Gramm and Congressman Charles Stenholm.

In other action, the council re-appointed Betty Pinkerton to a two-year term on the Winters Housing Authority. Two items -- setting the water rate for the North Runnels Water Supply Corporation and making salary adjustments for several city employees -- were tabled until a later meeting.

RESOLUTION 90-1

WHEREAS, the United States Environmental Protection Agency has proposed new regulations pursuant to Subtitle D of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (53 Fed. Reg. 33314, 8/30/88) which would establish nationwide minimum standards for municipal solid waste landfills; and

WHEREAS, those regulations are designed to eliminate small existing municipal landfills and encourage large regional state-of-the-art landfills; and

WHEREAS, in the arid portions of West Texas the extremely small amount of normal precipitation combined with existing soil conditions make the possibility of groundwater contamination from a landfill remote;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of Winters, Texas that:

RV hook-ups needed

ATTENTION: Anyone who has a RV hook-up which could be used during the Winters Centennial celebration is urged to notify the Winters Chamber of Commerce office. The CoC has received calls and visits from RV owners wanting to know if there will be hook-ups in town for the celebration.

"This is a great opportunity for Winters people to show their hospitality and friendliness," said Chamber manager Bonnie Lee.

Call the Chamber office at 754-5210 if you have an RV hook-up which might be used if you know of hook-ups now available in Winters.

"There is a great need for these all year long," added Mrs. Lee.

Junior Livestock Show Saturday

The Winters Junior Livestock Show, sponsored by the Winters Livestock Show Association, will be conducted at the Show Barn Complex Friday and Saturday. The show is open to 4-H and FFA members in the Wingate and Winters school districts.

Top prizes at the show include Champion and Reserve Buck, Champion and Reserve Doe, Grand and Reserve Grand Champion Lamb, Grand and Reserve Grand Champion Swine, Grand and Reserve Grand Champion Steer and Grand and Reserve Grand Champion Heifer. Senior (7-12) and Junior (K-6) Showmanship will be awarded in the Lamb, Swine and Cattle shows.

Judging will begin at 6 p.m. Friday with exhibitors showing their rabbits in competition. The Market Lamb show will follow. Dwaine Brown, ag science teacher at Lamesa, will judge the 19 Rabbit and 60 Market Lamb entries.

The show will continue at 9 a.m. Saturday morning with the Swine show featuring 60 head of market swine. James Bevel, ag science teacher of Haskell, will judge the swine entries.

The Livestock Association will serve a barbecue lunch at the Show Barn Complex following the swine judging. Association members will serve sliced barbecue with all the trimmings at a cost of $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

The final division of judging -- the Cattle show -- will begin at 1 p.m. Judge Rex Mayes, ag science teacher at Novice, will select the top cattle from 12 head of Market Steers and 11 head of Beef Heifers.

Prize money for the livestock show is provided by sale of shares by the Livestock Association. Shares are $20 each and are sold on a yearly basis. Shares are still on sale and the Association reported early this week that an additional $3000 was needed to meet funding goals.

In addition to the Saturday noon meal, the Association will provide a concession stand at the show. The concession stand will open both days at 8 a.m. and will provide coffee, hot chocolate, cold drinks, doughnuts and other sweets. A choice of frito pie, beans and barbecue plates will be offered during the noon and evening meals.

Scotty Belew is general show superintendent, assisted by Charles Allcorn. Other superintendents include: Marvin Gerhart, Cattle; R.Q. Marks and Preston Barker, assistant; Sheep; Zane Powers, Swine; and Greg Donica and Edward Bredemeyer, assistant, Rabbit.

Exhibitors registered for the show are:

RABBITS: John Austin, Danny Beechley, Gene Bentrup, Kristy Blackshear, Billy Clough, Tanner Donica, Tiffany Donica, Tamra Grohman, Austin Jobe, Lori Jobe, Julie Lancaster, Angie Lee, John McGallian, Stefanie McGallian, Josh Patterson, Michael Thornhill, Kenny Whittenburg, Sharon Willitout, Lori Bredemeyer.

WISD performance report adopted by school board

Members of the Winters ISD school board and school administrators reviewed and accepted the district's annual performance report during the board's Dec. 12 board meeting. The report is prepared in conjunction with the inspection results from the Texas Education Agency.

The report from TEA was mostly favorable and reflected better than average test results on the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) test. Student performance on TEAMS remained about the same as last year, but students in Winters continued to do better than the state average.

TEAMS results indicated that local students are improving their writing skills. The greatest increase occurred in the third grade, where mastery was 94%, compared to 79% in 1988. Seventh and ninth grade students exceeded statewide averages. Although fifth grade students scored lower than the state average in writing, the number of fifth graders passing did exceed the percentage passing last year.

"Although there are some areas that need improvement, we are pleased with the overall performance on the test," said Susie Johnson, Winters counselor. "Our teachers and students have worked very hard to attain the goal shown this year, especially in writing. The percentage of students writing outstanding essays has improved dramatically."

Juniors and seniors who failed to master either the Math or Language Arts section of TEAMS were scheduled for a class in basic skills. After taking this class all seniors and all but one junior had demonstrated mastery by May 1989.

Beginning with the 1990-91 school year, changes will be made in the TEAMS testing program. Testing will be done in October for grades 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11 with broadened objectives over the essential elements at each grade level. Tests for science and social studies will be added and national norms will be developed. Additionally, testing of first graders will be discontinued.

By testing in the fall, it is hoped that the new test will be used to focus on strengths and weaknesses for each student and will allow the local districts to shape instruction for the year accordingly.

The Metropolitan Achievement Test (Mat 6) was administered to grades K-11. Math scores ranged from the 52nd percentile to the 80th percentile. Reading scores in grades 2, 3, 7 and 10 fell below the 50th percentile, considered the norm or average score for a grade level, but the low score was at the 45th percentile. High reading score recorded in the district was the 71st percentile.

Like many other school districts its size, the Winters ISD continues to lose values due to the economic conditions of the state. Following an all time high of $143,897,006 in 1982, property values have fallen to the current $88,700,854.

The tax rate was raised to $1.06 per one hundred dollars of property value. Forty-one cents of the rate was designated for debt retirement and $.61 for maintenance and operation. There are four payments remaining on a $2.2 million bond issue passed in 1980 for school improvements. Last payment is scheduled for Aug. 1, 1991.

Total expenditure per student for the 1988-89 year was $3,844, higher than the statewide average of $3,766, but less than other districts falling in the same enrollment and wealth group. The overall instructional cost per pupil was $1,903.16. These cost per pupil figures continue to increase as state and federal programs continue to be implemented without state and federal financing.

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles

The oil patch is in its usual new year slowdown, and now is the perfect time to consider ways to improve your bottom line. What did I spend my money on? Can we do better? I don't know, let's look at a few things.

What kind of outfit are we? Let's talk about producers, first. Income is the first thing that comes to mind. Oil and gas volumes are critical here. Review 1/1/89 records now to compare to today's production. Is there an increase, no change, or a decrease?

Increases are obviously good and decreases are not so good, but look a little deeper. Investigate the source of that increase or decrease. It may require lease-by-lease evaluation or even well-by-well. Try to categorize the biggest contributors as drilling, recompletions, stimulation treatments, facility or equipment upgrades, acquisitions, etc. Also, categorize the decreases as shut time, equipment failures, well shut-ins, or natural decline. This will give you some insight into what has the greatest potential for improvement and the best return.

Since most oil and gas wells decline from an initial peak rate after initial completion, after stimulation, or after a waterflood response, eventual decline is imminent. So, a "flat decline" or "no decline" situation is a victory in itself. There are some finer points to managing decline. This can get a little complicated; and the topic of decline management and reserve base will be reviewed in this column later this year. Suffice it to say that adding new wells and leases to your portfolio is one good way to offset natural decline. Good maintenance of existing wellbores by wellwork and stimulation is another good decline management practice. Also, recompletion to another zone in an existing well can be like drilling a whole new well, if you're lucky. There now, the operator does have a few options to level out that decline as much as possible.

OK, we've examined the income side of the equation. Now, what about the expense part of it? Lease expenses, equipment maintenance, labor, overhead, and capital expenses are important categories to examine when trying to get the most for your dollar.

Electricity, gas fuel usage, and water disposal are the basic lease expenses that must be controlled to maintain a profit margin. It's very easy to lose control of these costs if they aren't monitored closely. Well-work costs also must be watched with a keen eye or you'll find that your profits are being eaten up by slow rig crews, faulty service equipment (like junky pulling units), and poor rod and tubular handling. If a floorhand beats your rod boxes with a small sledge hammer when you are coming out of the hole, chances are you will be pulling that same well in a month to replace a few boxes.

The same logic goes for equipment repair and maintenance. Close supervision of a contractor and expecting to pay for quality service and tools will go a long way in reducing the costs of these necessities of daily operations.

Labor and overhead are between you and your employees and contract hands. Hire quality people and treat them like it. Don't hire more people or contract service for more than you really need. That means that your pumper should be expected to know how to handle a 24" wrench.

Accountants and tax preparers don't really count capital expenditures for new or better equipment as an operating expense. These costs are amortized over the life of the equipment and you just charge off (depreciate) a part of the cost each year. On paper, that is the way to handle these costs, but I don't have to tell you that whoever sells you the equipment wants the money, today. All of it. So, shop for the best deal considering the product and the service and people behind it. Don't forget to also consider the cost of maintaining the equipment, since that will be something else you will have to deal with.

That's it for you operators. Contractors, you will have to wait until next week, as I have run out of room. I didn't get that new jacket freebie from my service company, so you guys will have to pay the price.

FROM A GOLDFISH BOWL

BY PASTOR STEVE BYRNE

The holidays are over. My well-intentioned idea of not putting on extra pounds is pretty well shot. And it is time to think about a diet. That is one of those things I am always going to go on - tomorrow.

There is a lot of pressure on us to be thin. Sometimes for medical reasons. Often, so we will LOOK GOOD! I grew up an obese child and withstood the hurtful chants of my classmates. "Elephantay" was one of the more devastating taunts I remember. So, I have always been fighting the Battle of the Bulge.

The other day I realized how devastating this pressure can be. I noticed that my self-esteem seemed to be locked in to what the scales told me in the morning. It set the tone for the day. If it was bad news, my self-esteem was low. I concentrated on MY weight. Being self-absorbed, I would be less-there, less-supportive of my family. Sometimes being a real bear to them. Thus, they, too, were forced to bear the effects of a few extra pounds.

Then I thought about my uncle. I can't remember him not having extra pounds to carry around-even when he was in high school. But some of my best times were spent when I was a pre-schooler, and he would come around in that army surplus Willis Jeep he had and haul me all over. I remember going to the lake and being hoisted on those massive shoulders. What diet books would call "too much flesh" felt good and warm and safe. When we went under the water together, I knew that those giant arms were going to hold me.

Those people that design weight charts for diet companies obviously never met Uncle Darrell. They don't know how much he is supposed to weigh!

Not every woman is supposed to be a perfect size 6. It would appear to me that God made mothers to have ample laps for children to sit on and feel secure. Maybe grandmas and grandpas, too. Maybe even especially.

Some say that genetics has a lot to do with it. Gravity begins to set in about my age. It seems that this preoccupation with weight gets too important to me, sometimes. God has made us all different. He accepts me like I am. It looks like I ought to accept myself, as well.

So, I didn't make a New Year's resolution to go on a diet this year. But, with the help of God, to accept who I am more. To become responsible about my weight without being obsessed. To be less self-conscious and more other-conscious.

I hope it improves my "serve."

VFW post announces Voice of Democracy winners

The Winters Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9193 and the Ladies Auxiliary sponsored the "Voice of Democracy" competition in Winters High School during December. The topic this year was "Why I am proud of America."

The first place winner was Kim Coleman, daughter of Ms. Mary Coleman. The second place winner was Julie Wheat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wheat. There was a three-way tie for third place among Otto Cortez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Santos Uresti, Chad Griwsold, son of Rev. and Mrs. Dale Griswold, and Chris Perez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Silva.

The first place winner will receive a $100 savings bond; the second place winner will receive a $50 savings bond; and each of the third place winners will receive a $25 savings bond. These bonds will be presented at graduation in May.

R.C. Kurtz is Post chairman and his wife, Mary, is Auxiliary chairwoman. Mrs. Kurtz presented certificates and pins to each of the winners.

Miss Coleman's winning speech follows, with other winning speeches to be included in subsequent issues. I am proud of America because of all the freedoms that are granted to me. I am able to attend a free public school and go to a college of my preference; I can vote at the age of 18; and I have the freedom to worship in the church of my choice.

Having all these freedoms helps me to create a more relaxed atmosphere in which to live.

Kim Coleman

Being able to attend a free public school is just one of the many freedoms "living in America" brings. I have had the opportunity to go through 13 years of free schooling to extend my knowledge. Unfortunately, in other countries free schooling is not offered to everyone like it is here in America. The local as well as the state government makes sure that students stay in school until they are at least 16, to guarantee a basic education. In other places the students would like to attend school this long, but the majority of the time the family is financially unable to pay the high tuition. I also have the opportunity to attend a college of my preference. In other countries schools are so expensive that only the elite groups are accepted, which means few attend. In America, grants, scholarships, and inexpensive loans are available to everyone, even the minority groups. It is unfortunate that this type of financial aid is not offered to students in other countries.

By living in America, I have the privilege to vote at the age of 18. In other places around the world, everyone is not granted this privilege. They may have some restrictions such as having to be a male or having to be a property owner. Being able to vote allows me to get more involved in the decision making and elections within my community, state and nation. Having this freedom requires me to weigh all sides of the issues and then decide which is the best choice.

I am most proud of America because of the freedom of religion granted to me. I am allowed to attend any church or worship in any way I wish. This freedom is one major reason why so many people came to settle in America. One religion should not be set as "the religion of a country. Everyone should have the right to choose the religion they want to and be able to practice it. I should not have to believe in something just because the government says I must. The freedom of religion is so widely accepted in America that even the government is involved in holding up this freedom; they have made national holidays out of Christmas and Easter, and look with favor over many other religious activities. By not having one religion set at "the religion" of America seems to help everyone get along better.

These are just a few of the many reasons why I am proud of America. Although being an American and having so many freedoms is often taken for granted by American citizens, I must stop and reflect that these wonderful things could be stripped from me at anytime. We should all take just a moment every day to stand PROUD and think how lucky we are to live in AMERICA!

Twain Talk

by Twyla Twain

Are you a basketball fan? Or you could just be a devoted parent who is willing to endure four games of basketball, four nights a week, who loves to eat supper at 10 p.m. Anyway, if you're caught up in our present basketball fever, I salute you. Especially if you spend so much time at basketball games that your backside is like a homing device and gravitates toward the bleachers every time you get within 100 yards of any gymnasium in any town. Sometimes I think we parents should go through some extensive training program to prepare us for four months of sitting. But it all seems worth it because we've had some really great games and a few that the coaches and players (and parents) would like to forget. Whichever the case may be, the competition and physical challenge are good for us - or are they?

How can you explain what happens to a perfectly normal, somewhat boring mother, who can turn into a screaming banshee just because some numbskull of a referee made a really stupid call, or because some overly developed kid plowed right into this mother's kid and destroyed $3,000 worth of orthodontic work in two seconds flat.

Yes, emotions can certainly run high in athletic competition - and they can also run extremely low. For kids, it's easy to feel as though they are on top of the world and feel indispensable (almost like Michael Jordan, huh?) but then turn around and feel that if only they had made that one free throw or blocked out that giant under the basket, the entire world of sports would have been different. And as parents, we sometimes tend to send out conflicting ideas to our kids and must always try to walk that fine line of telling them they should always play to win but that losing isn't the end of the world - that someone has to lose (but we say this through clenched teeth because we hate to lose at anything!)

We parents must also handle some pretty heavy emotions when watching our kids participate in sports. We are so anxious for them to get a chance at playing but then panic when they're put into the game at the most crucial time of all. We watch them as they join in the game, knowing they have pounding hearts and sweaty palms. They probably never know that we parents are sitting on the edge of those oh-so-comfy bleachers with pounding hearts and sweaty palms, all the while sending out all the prayers and positive vibes we can possibly muster, hoping our kid will come out a winner - not necessarily as the star of the game, but in the sense that our kid did his or her best - that they made that certain shot they practiced for hours in freezing weather or that played with the "big kids" and came out with all teeth and limbs intact. Such is the name of the game!

Ne'er the Twain shall meet!

Pirate Log

Students returned to school after the holidays with renewed energy. Everyone is rested and making preparations for six weeks and mid-term exams.

Several students have received return letters from the Service people they wrote to before Christmas. Those who received letters have shared them with the other students.

Wingate hosted the Olfen Mustangs in the Pirate gym on Thursday, January 4. The Olfen girls won their game. The Wingate boys defeated Olfen. Our next game will be Monday, January 8, when we will travel to Grape Creek. The Blackwell Tournament will begin Thursday, January 11, with our first game on the bracket to be at 7:30 against Novice.

Basketball and group pictures are scheduled to be taken January 26. Please bring your basketball uniforms to school that morning.

We have a new student who has moved here from Winters. We want to welcome Stephanie Martinez to school. She is in Mrs. Sneed's 4th grade class.

Hamilton candidate for Commissioner

Richard Hamilton of Winters has announced his candidacy for Runnels County Commissioner, Precinct 2. Mr. Hamilton is a local businessman, owner of H & H Tire & Muffler Service at 242 S. Main.

Mr. Hamilton and his wife, Beth, have four children and have been residents of Winters since 1958. He worked for Mansell Bros. for 22 years before opening his own business.

"I know what hard work is and I know what it is to save money and cut expenses. As your Commissioner, the only thing I can promise is hard work and honesty on the Commissioner's Court and in road maintenance. Commissioners must work with each other and the County Judge," stated Hamilton.

Presley announces for Commissioner

Ronald Presley of Winters has filed as a candidate for Runnels County Commissioner of Precinct 2 with Democratic Party Chairman, Cecil Darby for the March primary.

Presley is a stock farmer in the Winters area. He is a lifetime resident of Runnels County, graduating from Winters High School in 1967. Upon completion of high school he entered stock farming east of Winters. He has also owned and operated several businesses in Winters. He is a past board member and president of the North Runnels Water Supply Corporation and presently on the board of trustees of the Winters Independent School District.

Ronald and his wife, Mary Lynn, have two daughters who attend Winters school. They are members of the First United Methodist Church where he is currently serving on the Administrative Council.

"I would appreciate your support and vote in the upcoming election. If elected I would strive to be a fair, open-minded, conservative Commissioner. I will try to meet with each voter in the precinct before the election."

Crews News
By Hilda Kurtz

Always do right. This will gratify some people, and astonish the rest.

I'm so sorry to write that Pat Cooper tripped, fell and broke two bones, one in her ankle and another also in her right leg. She is in Abilene as I write having it set.

Our deepest sorrow and sympathy to Irene and Robert Gerhart and their families and relatives due to the death of Anita (Gerhart) O'Dell, she was buried Sunday.

Linda and Dale Duggan, Becky and Elwood Brown hosted the Chili and Stew supper including dessert the 1st Saturday in January. Games of dominos were played later in the Crews gym.

Hopewell WMU met Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the fellowship hall. Neitha Kirby served as director.

Pat Cooper received a phone call from her son Rennie and Corkey Bennett of Arkansas had a nice long visit.

Fairy Alcorn's brother, Jarrell Giles and a friend of Brownwoode spent Saturday with Fairy and Wilbert.

Bro. Oscar and Janie Fanning, Abilene and Louise Osborne of Winters were Sunday dinner guests with Nila and Therin Osborne.

Nila Osborne and Bernice Faubion visited the Robert Gerharts and the Carl Parks, carrying each a dish.

Wanda Sims and Adeline Grisom spent the weekend in Dallas with Katherine Thomas.

Pat and Cecil Hambricht, Winters, spent New Years Day with Cora.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ambrose, Ft. Worth, spent New Years Day with Doris and Marion Wood.

Selma and Hazel Dietz visited a while Friday night with Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion. Mike, Eileen Prater and children came and got some fire place wood one day at the Dietz.

Those helping Walter Pape celebrate with lunch on his birthday in Santa Anna were: Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion, Ruth and Bradley Pape, Bernice, Rodney, Gene and Brian Faubion, Eileen, Jeremy and Tiffany Prater and Gladys Cotton. Gene, Brian and Jeremy climbed Mt. Santa Anna.

I spent some time with Agnes Andrae Sunday afternoon.

Ruth and Bradley Pape were at Big Spring VA Hospital Wednesday seeing a doctor, found out Bradley has a nice case of arthritis.

Bro. Oscar Fanning and Therin Osborne visited in the Carl Parks home Sunday afternoon. Carl's frost bite hands are healing slowly.

Beverly VanZandt honored her son, Corey, on his 11th birthday Friday night with a hot dog supper, birthday cake and ice cream. Others enjoying the party were: Sharon, Jodie, Justin and Bryce Busenlehner; the Mike Kozelskys, Katherine, Scott and Jeanna. Brent Jacob, Bryce and Scott enjoyed their slumber party in the VanZandt home.

After Mike Prater spent three weeks here during the holidays, he returned to his base in Nebraska.

New Years Day with the Mike Praters were: Melvina, Marvin, Scott and Keith Gerhart; Bernice, Rodney, Gene and Brian Faubion; Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion; and Rozie Kelemen of San Antonio.

Margie Jacob spent Friday afternoon with Eileen.

New Brownies: On Thursday, December 14, The Winters Brownie Troop #178 had their Christmas Party and Induction Ceremony. The girls being inducted into the Brownie organization were: Erica Poe, Amanda Cooper, Lori Bredemeyer, Michelle Paschal, Jennifer Eubank, Tiffany O'Dell, Kendra Hope, Kayla Colburn, Misty Mahaffey. They each said the Girl Scout Promise and received the Brownie Pin. Also receiving Leaders Pins were: Sherry Cooper, Teresa Eubank and Jill Bredemeyer.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale to begin January 12

Winters Girl Scouts will kick-off the annual Girl Scout cookie sale on January 12.

The girls will be taking orders through January 29; then cookies will be delivered to customers from February 16 through February 26. Payment for cookies will not be accepted until cookies are delivered. The cookies continue to sell for two dollars a box. There are seven delicious varieties including: Old-fashioned shortbread Trefoils, crunchy peanut butter Do-Si-Dos, chocolatey Thin Mints, deliciously different Samoas, peanut butter Tagalongs, honey glazed Chocolate Chip, and new this year Cabana Cremes-vanilla and lemon creme sandwich cookies.

The Girl Scout cookie sale is a major fund raising project held annually to help enable the important work of Girl Scouting to be carried out in our community. The sale provides a sound program experience for girls.

This year's cookie sale will encourage girls to "Discover the Treasures of Girl Scouting", as the funds raised provide troops with many opportunities that they could not otherwise afford. While Girl Scouting is lots of fun for each girl, it is also a growing and learning experience. The cookie sale is designed to help girls learn about a variety of areas including: sales techniques, money management, planning and goal-setting. Girls become more responsible by serving their customers, handling money, and planning what they will do with the profit. Through the cookies that each girl sells, she can earn her way to camp and other Girl Scout program events.

Girl Scout council president, Janice Smith of Weatherford, says that the cookie sale is much more than a simple fund raising activity. "As we begin our sale this year, we realize that we are carrying forward a tradition of quality—quality program for the girls in our communities and a quality product for the hundreds of thousands of customers who enjoy Girl Scout cookies each year," Smith said.

There are currently more than 59 girls in 5 troops in Winters who are benefiting from the Girl Scout program. Volunteer leadership for the girls is provided by more than 22 adults in our community. Girl Scouts in Winters are part of the Heart of Texas Council which serves more than thirty-five hundred members in Central Texas.

While earning is a vital reason for the annual cookie sale, learning continues to be the value that takes precedence for the Girl Scout organization.

Girls establish their own sales goals. They have an opportunity to learn that a well-known product whose quality is carefully controlled is easy to sell; customers appreciate courtesy, promptness and reliable delivery of goods; effort and initiative are rewarded by the incentives and awards system; the hard work of each member contributes to the shared success of all members in reaching program goals.

Girls take pride in earning their own way for special events, including summer camp. Camping facilities were built and maintained through the cookie sale. Heart of Texas Girl Scout Council has operated a resident camp at Lake Brownwood since 1956.

Planning and decision making, an important part of the Girl Scout program, are also an inherent part of the cookie sale. It offers girls an opportunity to set goals for a special project, to make worthwhile choices for the use of money, to establish and live within a budget, to be responsible for management of their own bank account.

According to president Smith, the Girl Scout cookie sale is not perceived by the public as just another fund drive for very good reason. "Girl Scouts have been selling cookies for more than fifty years. In a sense, we have raised our own market. Grown up Girl Scouts who are wives and mothers today have fond memories of their cookie selling days. They remember being scared to death to knock on that first door to make that first sale, and they remember that each new sale made them walk a little taller as they discovered friendly, interested caring support of their Girl Scout aims," Smith said.

For more information about the Girl Scout Cookie Sale in our area, contact Marci McDonald at 754-4015.

Novice Stock show to be held

The Novice Livestock Show is set for 12:30 p.m. January 12 at the school agriculture barn.

Prior to judging, the concession stand will open at 11 a.m.

Hogs will be judged first, then lambs and rabbits.

Winters 8th Graders visit ASU planetarium

Eighth grade students at Winters High School visited the planetarium at Angelo State University in San Angelo on Wednesday, Jan. 3.

Students were shown a film about galaxies and were shown how to locate various constellations.

Several of those making the trip commented that the trip was enjoyable as well as educational. Coach Faltsys said the group has been invited to return to the planetarium later this year.
