Time short for ordering Girl Scout cookies

There are only 4 days left for the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale! Girl Scouts will be taking orders only until January 28 for those great tasting cookies. When you buy a box of Girl Scout cookies, you're investing in the community through a girl. Profits from the sale pay for year-round troop activities, and it enables girls to earn their way to summer camp. Girl Scout cookies are America's most rewarding cookies.

If you have not yet placed your order, don't delay! Perhaps you were not home when your neighborhood Girl Scout came to call on you. You can still order by phoning Cookie Chairman Teresa Davis at 754-5422; Easter Walden, Brownie Troop 162 at 754-5394; Sherry Cooper, Brownie Troop 178 at 754-4659; Deb Pritchard, Jr. Troop 180 at 754-5243; or Chris Parramore, Jr. Troop 161 at 754-4917.

4 OTs to clench tie for first in district half

By Susan Ripple

In what was the most exciting, but yet lengthy and exasperating, game of the year, the Blizzards surpassed the Stamford Bulldogs, 42 to 40, to tie for first place in District 7AA. This win advanced the Blizzards to 6-1 in the final first half standings of district play and entitled them to be in the playoffs after completion of district play.

Scoring for the blue and white Blizzard team were Keith Gerhart, Greg Tamez, Leo Campos, Craig Slaughter, Willie Belk, and Josh Bahlman making 13, 9, 8, 7, 3, and 2 points respectively. The team made 17 of 37 field goal attempts and 5 of 11 free throw attempts.

All quarters of the game remained closely matched. At the end of the first, the score was 9 to 10 in the Blizzards' favor. Winters held on to this one point advantage through the second and third quarters, but during the fourth quarter Stamford evened the score at 34 all. The teams were forced into overtime.

The first overtime was hard fought but neither team could get the ball up, out, and in for the much needed goal.

Both teams scored 2 points apiece in the second overtime and again in the third, ending in tie after tie.

The Blizzards clench the game in the fourth overtime when scoring 4 points to Stamford's 2 points.

Willie Belk had 13 rebounds. Keith Gerhart had 11 rebounds. Craig Slaughter, Leo Campos, and Josh Bahlman also had rebounds for the Winters Blizzards. Making steals for the Blizzard team were Craig Slaughter (6), Greg Tamez (2), Leo Campos (1), Willie Belk (1), and Keith Gerhart (1). Helping the team with assists were Greg Tamez, Leo Campos, Keith Gerhart, Craig Slaughter, and Brandon Boles.

The Blizzard team will play the winner of the second district half to determine overall District 7AA Champion.

June retirement set for Johnny Bob Smith

Superintendent's contract renewed

At the meeting of the Winters Independent School District Board of Trustees Tuesday, January 15, Johnny Bob Smith submitted his resignation, effective June 30. Smith has been Business Manager and Tax Collector for WISD for 37 years.

In announcing his retirement, Smith said in his letter that "Winters Independent School District has been an important part of my life for a long time." He said he spent 11 years in Winters schools and has been able to see his children and grandchildren get a good education in the Winters school system.

Lots of satisfying things have happened during his tenure at WISD he said but the biggest changes have come in the last five years. Government regulations and paperwork have increased tremendously since he first came to work for WISD.

After retirement, Smith and his wife plan to do some travelling with their fifth wheel travel trailer. He says he still enjoys snow skiing and water skiing.

In other personnel business at the meeting, the Board renewed

Superintendent Tommy Lancaster's employment contract. The new contract is effective July 1, 1991 through June 30, 1994. Lancaster's salary was increased from $52,160 per year to $54,560 per year for the new contract period. Also included in the contract renewal is the continuation of the present auto program for the Superintendent. The new contract was unanimously approved by the Board.

The Board also accepted the resignation of bus driver David Smith, effective immediately. In turn they approved the hiring of Leonard Pringle as a bus driver effective January 14.

Board President Gary Don Pinkerton appointed the entire Board as a canvassing committee for the bond election. The Board accepted the election report submitted by the election judge. The report showed a total of 428 votes cast with 354 for and 74 against. The date set by the Board for the bond sale is February 20 at 2 p.m.

Two final items of business were the approval of the two year lease of the baseball fields to the City of Winters and the payment of routine bills.

Gov. Ann Richards and Sean Byrne
Local student attends inauguration

Sean Byrne, 13, son of Rev. and Mrs. Steve Byrne of Winters, received a special invitation to attend the inauguration ceremonies of Ann Richards in Austin last week. The special invitation came as a result of Sean's work for the Ann Richards campaign in Winters and Runnels County.

Sean first became interested in Richards when he heard her speak at the 1988 National Democratic Convention. Following the announcement of her intentions to run for the governorship, Sean wrote a letter to Richards' campaign headquarters offering his services to the campaign.

Following a meeting with Richards at a campaign stop in Abilene in May, Sean was invited to attend the Texas State Democratic Convention in June at Fort Worth as a special guest.

Later in the summer Sean attended a meeting in Abilene to learn about running a campaign phone bank. Following that he was named phone bank chairman for Runnels County for the Ann Richards campaign. As part of his duties he set up volunteers in the Winters and Ballinger areas to make calls to voters to drum-up support for Richards. The main goal of the phone bank he said was to "get people committed to vote for Richards and to get out and vote on election day."

Byrne says he feels the grassroots campaign of Ann Richards made the difference in her win. He said he enjoyed participating in the campaign and felt his work had some effect on the results even though Runnels County is not a large population center.

When asked of his future plans, Sean said he remains very interested in politics. He would like to go into law and eventually run for an office such as state representative. He also said he would like to get involved in another campaign, possibly even a Presidential one.

In commenting on the inauguration ceremonies, young Byrne said there were so many people in attendance it was hard to see, but it was an honor for him to be able to attend.

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles

(As I write this, the United States and their allies have attacked Iraq. Something as grave as war seems to trivialize tasks such as writing or reading this column, but life goes on. Therefore, I will attempt to continue with business as usual. If the Lord wills it, I hope and pray that the war will be over by the time you read this.)

This will be our first installment of 1991's "Oil Patch Basics." As I promised, we will concentrate on the personnel that keep the oil patch running. I hope this will fill in the holes left by our "spud to plug" review last year that focused more on events and actions than personnel.

The topic will be "roughnecks" this month.

I am not sure where the term "roughneck" originated, but, for the uninitiated, the term generally refers to workers on a drilling rig. To be more precise, each of the roughnecks has a more descriptive name according to what job they have on the rig, but I will get to that in a minute.

Let's look at just what roughnecks do and the kind of people that fill this critical position in the network of professionals in the oil business.

Roughnecks, as I mentioned, work on drilling rigs. They are responsible for getting a well down to a specified depth. There are several jobs that must be performed by those roughnecks.

The Driller is the individual who is basically in charge of the hourly operations of the rig and the other roughnecks. He is the "Head Roughneck," so to speak. He controls the brake handle that controls the amount of weight on the drill bit and other downhole tools and tubulars. He supervises all work done by the other roughnecks and monitors measurement equipment that records weight on the bit, depth, drilling rate, etc.

The "Derrick Man" (only one of his titles) is up in the derrick handling pipe, if required, or down on the floor with the other roughnecks. There are at least two roughnecks in addition to the Driller, and there can be as many as four. The roughnecks on the floor are "Floor Hands" and they get the messiest. They are there when drilling mud shoots out at connection time (when a new joint of drill pipe is added), and when the Derrick Man kicks off some pipe "dope" on their heads.

The crew works a shift of 8 or 12 hours, depending on the contractor. Each shift is responsible for keeping the rig relatively clean, keeping the equipment in good maintenance and repair, and keeping the drilling mud in good shape. Being late for a shift or "tower" (spelled several ways), is the ultimate sin and will be punished at later shift changes.

A roughneck is a special breed. He is usually a loner and can tell good jokes—not always clean, but always funny. They know the value of a dollar and work hard for every one. That doesn't mean they don't have trouble holding on to one, though. Unfortunately, they don't always have a lot of time to enjoy life, especially the 12 hour crews. But, when they get a chance, they live it to the fullest—and pay for it later.

They learn games like horse-shoes and washers to pass the time when a well is being logged and such (the rig is not in use at these times). The night crew has to learn to sleep on sacks of mud and cement and look like they are checking the viscosity of the mud at the same time. They are also usually pretty adept at taking samples for a thousand feet of hole during only 10 feet of drilling (that is kind of subtle, but geologists will get it).

All in all, roughnecking is a tough job and requires special individuals to fill the bill. It is a good place to start learning about the oil patch, whether you are going to be an engineer or a roughneck. Like most jobs in the oil patch, it is usually held by salt-of-the-earth, honest, hard working, and just-plain-folk people. It is where things start, the drilling of a well. And, the people who do the job are usually indispensable.

Who says Bulldogs are mean?

On Tuesday, January 15, the true spirit of the Lady Blizzards came through even though losing to Stamford, 31 to 45. The Bulldogs might have won according to the scoreboard, but the Lady Blizzards played just as well, just as mean.

Kim Deike scored 12 points for the Blizzard team. Followed by Ashley Allcom, 7 points; Susan Bryan, 6 points; Shanna Poehls, Jennifer Boles, and Cara Bahlman, making 2 points each.

The team made 9 of 14 free throws for 64%.

Coach Shields states, "The girls are playing harder and improvement is being made each game."

Bearcats claw the Blizzards

Opening quarter of the game on Friday, January 18, saw the Lady Blizzards leading the Hawley Bearcats, 12 to 8. However, during the second quarter of the game, the Bearcats managed to keep the Blizzards from reaching the goal and allowed them to score only 4 points.

After the half and a much needed break, the Blizzards came back - ready to take on the cats! Hawley scored 13 points to the Blizzard's 12. The final quarter of the game the Bearcats took control of the ball and would not relinquish to the Blizzards. Again the Lady Blizzards scored only 4 points. Final score of the game was 32 to 53 in favor of Hawley.

Coach Shields states, "This was a very physical game, but the girls showed lots of courage and determination in staying in the game. This was a valuable experience - playing with a top notch class ball club."

Jamie Smith scored 12 points. Susan Bryan and Ashley Allcom each scored 7 points. Kim Deike scored 6 points.

The Bearcats only allowed the Blizzards to attempt 8 free throws; 2 of which were completed.

Blizzards lose to Bearcats

The Winters Blizzards and Hawley Bearcats met Friday, January 18, in Blizzard country for the first game of the second half in district play. The Blizzards were defeated, 30 to 43.

The first three quarters of the game the varsity teams played offensively much the same; however, the Bearcats did manage to take a 4-point gain.

The greatest point mount for Hawley came in the fourth quarter. Hawley added 17 points as compared to the 8 points made by the Blizzards.

Blizzard Greg Tamez scored 9 points for his team; Willie Belk 7, Craig Slaughter 7, Leo Campos 4, and Keith Gerhart 3. A 47/100 ratio of free throws were dropped in the basket and 23/100 of field goal shots were completed.

High rebounders were Keith Gerhart and Craig Slaughter, each recovering six. Making the most steals was Willie Belk. Only one assist was made during the game - by Keith Gerhart.

The Blizzard's record for the season is 15-6.

JV Blizzards hammer Hawley

The Winters junior varsity boys team faced Hawley on Thursday, January 17, 1991, defeating the opposing team, 49 to 27.

The Blizzards outscored Hawley all four quarters of the game. Anthony Thomas was high scorer with 12 points. Adding 6 points each to the Blizzards score were Chane Reagan, Ramie Reyes, and Scott Kozelsky. With 5 points were Zane Guy; 4 points, Kelly Thompson, 2 points each by Keith Richards, Nathan Collins, Lance Donica, and Heath Watkins. The team shot 6 of 17 free throws successfully.

This win gives the team a 4-3 record for the season.

Wingate School

Ms. Emry's kindergarten class made United States flags this week. They also colored pictures of Uncle Sam for Social Studies. They are beginning a foods unit so they are tasting different raw vegetables and fruit. They are having rutabagas, broccoli, radishes, and bananas. They will discuss how each is prepared before serving.

Mrs. Sneed's third and fourth grade class studied and practiced the technique for administering the Heimlich Maneuver for a Health activity. In Science they are studying plant and plant population. Students transplanted succulent plants and their offsprings.

This is the beginning of a new semester and the teachers all have fun and educational activities planned for their classes. Students should come to school each day for the last half of the year so you will be sure not to miss a thing. Learning can be FUN!

Young Farmers to tour Stephenville Area

The Winters Young Farmer Chapter annually makes a tour to areas of agricultural production and processing interest in Texas. Began as a Texas Bicentennial project in 1986, the Winters Chapter has toured the Rio Grande Valley/King Ranch, Junction Area, Lubbock Area, San Angelo Area, and the College Station Area. This year they will tour the Stephenville area, February 15-17.

Four members will travel in their own vehicles, leaving at 7:30 on Friday, February 15th. Tours that day will include Old Rip Cap Company--makers of "gimme" caps, Birdsong Peanuts--peanut processors, Universal Blanchers--peanut blanchers, Dr. Pepper Bottling-Dublin--only bottler still using cane sugar, and Pecan Valley Nut Co.--pecan processors. Lodging, tours, and admissions have been arranged by the Young Farmers and the total cost is $60.00 for the 3 days and 2 nights. This does not include transportation or meals.

Saturday's tours include the Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Lab, Aztex Dairy--a large milking operation, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station--center for peanut, dairy, forage, and horticultural research, and Tarleton State University. The tour group will enjoy entertainment Saturday evening and will return Sunday, February 17th, touring the Douglas MacArthur Academy of Freedom in Brownwood on the return trip.

The trip will be educational and entertaining, and will be an opportunity to get-away for the weekend. Anyone is invited to join the Winters Young Farmers on this tour -- for reservations or information, call 754-5373.

"Each time I look at my grandson I see the future. Will that future be held hostage by 'business as usual' in Austin?"

The "good ole boy" system has given our state staggering taxes, a chaotic education system, overflowing prisons and a non-functional business climate.

Are you ready for a change? Sending more "good ole boys" is not the answer.

Butterfield Trail was nation's longest

Of much historic interest is the old Butterfield Trail which traversed Coke County for about 35 miles. It entered the county near Fort Chadbourne and followed a southwesterly direction to a point on Grape Creek and then southwest to the county line. It was regarded as the "longest stage line in the world" and lasted until the outbreak of the Civil War.

Modern Highway U. S. 277 follows as nearly as possible the Overland Mail Route, and is designated as the Butterfield Trail Highway.

The Butterfield Main and Stage Route was established by a law of 1857 under which the postmaster general awarded a contract to John Butterfield. He was to organize and put into operation, a stage line extending from St. Louis, Mo., and Memphis, Tenn., to San Francisco, Calif. Branch lines from the two eastern terminals united near Fort Smith, Ark., and entered Texas at Preston Bend, near the present city of Denison, westward through Sherman and the line of frontier forts, including Fort Belknap, Fort Phantom Hill, Fort Chadbourne, and on west.

Scheduled time for the entire trip was 23 days and 23 hours of continuous driving. The only through passenger on the first stage west was W. L. Ormsby of the New York Herald and his series of articles describing the trip are considered the best source material to be had on the old trail.

There were two stations in Coke County; Fort Chadbourne and one on Grape Creek, site of which is unknown. It is generally accepted that the Grape Creek Station occupied a site on Grape Creek in the southwestern edge of Coke County.

It is recorded that in February 1861 the Grape Creek Station was besieged by some 30 Comanches, who took all the horses and mules and returned one month later to burn the station.

Local citizens said there were four people in the Grape Creek Station; Joel Pennington, Mrs. Pennington, Charles Cox (a brother-in-law of Pennington) and Elijah Helms. After the Indians were repulsed, Helms made his way to Fort Chadbourne for help, as Pennington had been severely wounded while trying to escape. He was taken to the post hospital where he was attended by the post surgeon and recovered.

The late Mrs. Jessie Yarbrough, Coke County historian, believed there was an alternate route from Fort Chadbourne west, probably used when the Indians were ram-paging on the other route. This theory that the other station was on Yellow Wolf Creek, 16 miles west of Chadbourne. She talked with old timers of that area and found that once there was an old road leading due west from Fort Chadbourne to the crossing on Yellow Wolf Creek. A huge oak tree on the site was burned on the side (which could have happened when the Indians burned the station.)

More to substantiate this belief came when the remains of an old stage coach were found in recent years in Pierce Canyon, tributary of Grubbs Canyon. It was found by oil developers on the land of Mrs. Nora Gee, about 12 miles west of Robert Lee, close to the Sterling County line.

This find seems to bear out the theory that there was an alternate route of the Butterfield Trail West out of Fort Chadbourne. The wheels of the coach were missing but the tongue was still intact. It has been placed in the Fort Concho Museum.

"Real" TV - sure thing.

Do you watch much TV? During our somewhat nippy weather, I've had the opportunity to actually watch some TV AND be in control of the remote channel changer! Can you believe that?

Anyway, after watching a few sitcoms and movies, I decided some of the writers of these programs have been chewing on their pencil leads too much and their good sense has been poisoned.

If you're wondering why I feel this way, just stop and think about some things that always happen the same way in lots of films and TV shows.

Haven't you ever noticed that the girl running away always falls down and sprains her ankle?

First, why is it always a female who falls down? Guess Clint Eastwood just wouldn't come across the same if he fell down and clutched his ankle, now would he?

But I don't even understand the injury itself. How come the Fall-Down Female never takes all the hide off her knees or elbows like the rest of us klutzes? Or do you ever see anybody fall flat on their backside, then jump up to see if anybody saw them fall down? Nooooo!

And I don't have to wonder about any woman who is alone in a giant house, hears a very suspicious noise, never turns on a light but feels totally safe to defend herself with a simple letter opener she happened to have handy. Hasn't anybody ever told this lady about calling 911?

While we're talking about scary stuff, the folks at my house tend to be a little weird at times but I don't believe I've seen any one of them walk backward into a darkened room.

The full length floral lace sleeves were puffed and tapered to the fitted wrists, fastened with small seed pearls. The front and back yokes of the dress were of point d'esprit; seed pearls closed the back yoke. The yokes and dropped waist were edged with lace appliques. Wide lace appliques encircled the dress and train with the edge of lace scallops along the lower edge of the dress. Descending from a floral lace overlay tiara was a waist-length tulle veil. Lace floral scallops on the tiara were accented with pearls. The veil was attached to the tiara with flower like puffs. The dress and tiara was designed and sewn by Mrs. Alan Everett of Menard. ## Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor;
I wish to thank a Good Samaritan who lives in Winters. Last Sunday afternoon at 1:00 my car stopped on Treadaway here in Abilene. This nice couple stopped and took me to a phone to call for help. I thought I had their name - Lugo or Luego - but in checking with the phone company and Chamber of Commerce am unable to locate them. I just wanted to say "Thank You" again for their very kind help. It was deeply appreciated.

Sincerely,
Rose B. Simmons

Who Cares???

By Wynette Halford,
Co-Pastor
Somebody Cares Ministries

On a dark, dreary night, someone cries. That someone is a young, once beautiful teenager. Now she looks beyond her seventeen years, hardened by years of abuse brought about not only from herself, but others. Now she cries. Something she has not allowed herself to do for years, afraid this show of emotion or humanity might weaken her or even bring about a more rapid destruction of her life.

She remembers the first time she was laughed at because her clothes were hand-me-downs. She remembers the tears welling up in her eyes as she fought the hurt and pain and refused to let anyone see her weakness. She remembers all the times other parents came to school events, but not her parents. She remembers her first beer and how she wanted to spit it out and how tears came to her eyes because it tasted so bitter. But she forced the tears back and pretended to enjoy the alcohol. She remembered all too well the numbing effect and the disorientation as she continued to depend upon the alcohol to wipe away, even though temporarily, the horrible reality of her life. It seems like an eternity now. "How long has it been? Five years already? Am I really seventeen?"

She can not make it through even one day without her "friend." Somehow though, her "friend" continues to disappoint her. He always leaves while she is asleep and when she wakes up she feels worse than before and all the problems, the reality of her life, still looms bigger than ever before. Her "friend" has added even more problems to her life. She can not even tell most people about him and he is really costing her financially.

So, she cries, as she realizes she is trapped in a vicious cycle and there seems to be no way out.

"Who cares, who cares, who cares?" She asks herself. Suddenly from deep within the recesses of her memories, she recalls a song. A simple, childlike voice softly sings, "Jesus loves me this I know, for the Bible tells me so." That same innocence and childlike faith from so long ago suddenly returns and floods her soul as the reality of this solid scriptural truth becomes a life saver in her raging battle against the waters that seek to destroy her. "Yes, someone loves me. Jesus loves me. Thank you, Jesus!"

"For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet per adventure for a good man some would even dare to die. But God commendeth His love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Romans 5:6-8

Many years ago on sea coasts around the world stood lighthouses. They were in remote places and dedicated people manned them to keep the lights burning at all times. If the lights were to go out - a ship sailing nearby could be tossed upon the rocks and wrecked. Many lives would have been lost on these rocks if not for these lighthouse keepers.

Today as Christians (and the word Christian is loosely used) we all should be keepers of the light; the light being Jesus Christ. If we cannot keep the light burning in our lives then many people will be tossed upon the rocks of sin and lost forever.

Most lighthouses are no longer in use and, many people feel that Jesus Christ (like the lighthouse) is obsolete. But if you ever experience the love of light in your life from knowing Jesus Christ as Lord of your life, you will never again have a desire to return to the darkness of the world.

"Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with Me."

On January 30 at 7:00 our youth group will be holding services (under the direction of Bro. Myron Halford) in place of our regular Bible study. I encourage all teens, adults, and children alike, to come and participate in this spiritual movement of enthusiasm, motivation, and the desire of God's children to spread His word.

On February 24 our Sunday School Classes will have a Parent's Day for Open House. We extend a welcome invitation to come and worship with us at Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church located at 1017 N. Crier in Winters, Texas, where a spiritual light is growing ever brighter in a seemingly darkened world. Reverend John Haley is Pastor.

FROM A GOLDFISH BOWL

BY PASTOR STEVE BYRNE

Christie got her Master's degree in December and has begun working full time since the first of January. Here in the Byme household we are all very proud of our wife and mother.

We are finding that having two professionals in the same family, which has a teenager and a pre-teen in it, is not a cake-walk. We just thought we had scheduling problems and time-binds before!

With no opportunities in Winters to pursue her career, she was fortunate to find a place in Abilene. Which she loves. Which means a two-hour a day commute. In addition to the actual work-week. Time is limited.

My profession and calling is not limited to the Winters area either, with at least half my hospital calls being made in either Abilene or San Angelo. Sometimes we meet ourselves coming and going.

As committed to these things as we are, there is no greater calling that we feel than that calling to the family. To each other. And to the boys. Which means being available to make sure that they have support in academics, as well as athletics and other extra-curricular activities.

We are not alone. We are just learning it all "first-hand." Which makes us much more understanding of those who have been "juggling" lives and commitments longer than we have.

Since both of us are in the "helping professions," neither of us have 8-5 schedules. We are grateful, in the absence of mass transit and other community services, to have something better. Friends. We couldn't do without them.

We trade out rides to and from for the boys. Housing and serving meals to our respective off-spring. Somehow, we get by. Because we have each other.

Jesus said, "Love one another." This love He was talking about was not a feeling, but an action. In the past, we have seen this reality as a good thing, a noble thing. But, in a small town, a caring community where neighbor helps neighbor is not just noble and good. It is necessity.

Making the necessary logistical arrangements is a hassle. Yet, at the same time, it is a great blessing. Helping each other (yes, even asking for help) draws us closer together. It makes community.

Relying on each other may be a hassle sometimes. But it is a much greater blessing.

Tuscola resident in Miss Abilene Pageant Jan. 26

Twenty young ladies from the Abilene area will be competing in the Miss Abilene Scholarship Pageant, Jan. 26th, at the Paramount Theater. The local pageant is an official preliminary for the Miss America Pageant system.

Two winners will be selected to receive scholarships and a trip to Fort Worth in July for the Miss Texas Pageant. Six of the contestants will vie for the title of Miss Abilene. Fourteen young ladies are seeking the title of Miss Teen Abilene.

Stephanie Parks of Tuscola will be competing for the title of Miss Abilene. She is currently a senior at Jim Ned High School and is being sponsored by Belle Femme Boutique.

Contestants compete in four categories. Scores are given through talent, interview, swim suit and evening gown competitions. The pageant production at the Paramount Theater begins at 5:30 p.m. and is open to the public. Admission to the pageant is $3.00 and tickets are available from any contestant or at the pageant office, Belle Femme at 274 Cypress. Tickets will also be available at the door beginning at 5:00 p.m. on the 26th. Judges for the pageant are from other parts of the state and are directly associated with the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant.

Sponsors for the local preliminary are Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems, West Texas Utilities and Abilene Auction. Each contestant is also sponsored by local and area businesses. Pageant directors, Nicki Harle, hostess of "Notes of Interest" on KRBC-TV, and Cindy Snyder, owner of Belle Femme, expressed their thoughts on the pageant. "We are trying to establish a first class local preliminary and opportunity for area girls to compete for the honor of representing Abilene at the Miss Texas Pageant. In the process we want to offer a training ground for young women who want to work on self-improvement, self-confidence and career goals."

Body Condition Scoring - another management tool

Last week we talked about that first critical week of life for old Bossy's new baby. We know now how important a time that is in the sequence of events of getting a calf on the ground and off to a roaring start. But that is just one of many critical areas in this cow-calf enterprise.

Body condition (or fat) if you want to call it that) plays a very important part in the reproductive cycle of the beef cow. We all want our cows in "good" shape most of the time if for no other reason than it just makes us feel better when our cows are carrying a little extra lard. However, there are actually several reasons, economically important reasons, for maintaining your cow herd with adequate flesh.

The single most important limiting factor which controls reproduction is energy! Inadequate energy consumption results in reduced reproductive activity by the cow which leads to fewer pounds of calf weaned which means less profit for the producer. Fat on the cow is a means by which we can measure the energy "bank" on which she has to draw to meet the added requirements of coming into heat, maintaining pregnancy, and milk production.

Let me interject a thought at this point. Some cows will produce milk to the point that they will lose a tremendous amount of weight. The calf is the big winner - he'll be fat and grow to his genetic potential. But without an abundant source of nutrition such as a good grain patch, a good green haygrazer field, or a lot of supplemental feed, it is really tough to get this kind of cow to rebreed. She can just eat so much. If it's not a lot of nutritious high quality feed, something is going to have to suffer. Don't get me wrong - I'm not knocking heavy milking cows. But they are not suited for everybody's operation, especially those calving in the wintertime on native pasture. They are just too hard to get bred back under this management scheme.

Getting back to the subject of body condition or fat, you may be wondering just how fat is fat enough? This question was addressed for several years by many researchers and finally a simple, easy to remember description of different degrees of fatness or body condition has been adopted. It is simply an estimate of the amount or degree of fat which covers the prominent bones of the body, such as the ribs, backbone, and hip bones. These descriptions are assigned a numerical classification and each classification is considered optimal for breeding or not optimal. Following this article will be the body condition score and description taken from the ABS Breeders Journal, Fall, 1990.

You will notice that the condition scores for optimum reproduction are 5, 6, and 7. Remember, the sooner a cow breeds back, the older her calf will be, and the older the calf is, the heavier at weaning it should be as compared to its herdmates. So it's important to breed that cow back as soon as possible.

If you can, it's important to separate cows with BCS of 5 or less from the main herd and give those cows a little TLC... additional feed, correction of parasites or disease or whatever the problem is. The bottom line is more profit for you, the producer, in the end when you utilize BCS as a management tool.

BCS	Description	Breeding Potential
1	Emaciated-very little muscle left	Poor
2	Very thin & emaciated-cons. muscle loss	Poor
3	Thin-fore ribs visible-some muscle loss	Poor
4	Fore ribs not visible-12th & 13th rib visible	Borderline
5	All bones covered, not fat not thin	Moderate
6	Smooth appearance-some fat/back & tail	Good
7	Smooth appearance/fat over back, tailhead	Very Good
8	Fat-blocky-bone over back not visible	Good to Moderate
9	Very fat-tail buried in fat	Poor

Tax renditions due by April 30

The Runnels Central Appraisal District has mailed renditions to income producing property owners. The law requires anyone who owns income producing personal property to file a rendition every year. If you own a business and fail to file a rendition, this could effect your legal right of appeal. The deadline for filing this rendition is April 30.

The Appraisal District would also like to inform property owners of the exemptions they can receive. They are a regular homestead, over 65, social security disability, and disabled veteran. However, these exemptions are not granted automatically, you have to apply for them. Mobile home owners, even on leased land may apply for the same exemptions.

Land owners of twenty acres or more may wish to apply for ag use appraisal if they are using the land for agricultural purposes. The deadline for this application is also April 30.

If anyone needs assistance regarding any of these matters the staff at the Appraisal District will be happy to help. The phone number is 915/365-3583 and the office is located at the corner of 6th and Strong in Ballinger.
