This tree beside the home of Louis Gonzales on Pierce street was struck by lightning during a recent thunderstorm. Gonzales said the falling limb shook the house, but luckily did not do major damage.

High winds hit Winters area

High winds accompanying a thunderstorm in the early morning hours of Saturday damaged some property and broke over some trees in Winters. A recently constructed roof structure over Winters Paint and Body Shop was blown into Wood Street by the high winds.

A large tree limb was blown into Hamilton street, causing the street to be blocked for a short time. No other damage was reported as the storm moved through.

Darby Lumber Company in Ballinger had a roof blown off a lumber storage shed and a barbecue structure on highway 67 was damaged by high winds.

Frequent thunderstorms in the area in the last two weeks have hampered wheat harvest operations and will cause some cotton to have to be replanted. Some wheat harvesting has been done between rains, but many fields are still too wet to harvest.

Pastures are in the best condition in several years according to cattlemen and stock farmers in the area.

Because of the frequent rains, mosquitoes have become a problem and the City of Winters is conducting spraying operations, but they also have been hampered by high winds and showers in the afternoon, according to City Administrator Charles Ludwick.

Mrs. Eula Mae Kruse, left, presents a certificate to Roeneal Boles, editor of The Winters Enterprise. The School Bell Award was given by the Runnels County Retired Teachers Association for outstanding media coverage of educational news.

School Board hears report on cafeteria

The Winters Independent School District Board of Trustees, meeting on June 11, heard a report from Superintendent Tommy Lancaster concerning the cafeteria. The school cafeteria is projected to lose $42,000-$46,000 for the 1990-91 school year according to Lancaster. The Board had voted earlier to bring in a consultant to try to help remedy the problems and put the cafeteria on a pay its-own-way basis.

Billy Thompson, retired food service director from the Aldine schools near Houston, spent several days looking at the Winters operation. He made a preliminary report before leaving and filed a written, detailed report later.

His recommendations included 1) cutting the hours worked by cafeteria personnel; 2) reorganization of the food service staff; 3) grocery supplies should be bid; 4) have better control on the per plate cost of lunches served; 5) install a snack bar, ala carte area; 6) better inventory control. The Board directed Lancaster to study the recommendations with the personnel involved and bring a recommendation to the Board as to changes to be made.

Resignations accepted by the Board included Kayla Anders, Alice Baugas, Kay Brown, Tanya Gray, Tammy Reeves, Janice

Johnson and Marla Schaefer. Superintendent Lancaster recommended the hiring of the Wingate school staff, including Ruby Emory, Marlene Hogan, Cheryl Sneed, Shirley Medford, Shirley Hall, Sue Baize, Mrs. Jack Babbs, Kelly Walker and Beverly Donica. The Board voted to hire the teachers and other staff on the Superintendent's recommendation. Penni Smith was also recommended and accepted to be hired as a teacher for the WISD for the next school year.

Charles Kidwell, High School Principal, appeared before the Board asking for approval to hire an additional special education teacher and an aide for the band director. Following some discussion, the Board approved the hiring of the additional personnel requested.

In other business, the Board opened bids for the air conditioning of the band hall. The successful bid, accepted by the Board, was submitted by Abilene Air Conditioning in the amount of $6900.

The most time-consuming discussion centered on the new County Educational District which was reported in last week's Enterprise.

Following a vote to pay routine bills, the Board adjourned.

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles ©1991

Heard of a new idea this week and thought I would share it with you.

It seems that a guy, who happens to be an advisor to OPEC, thinks that oil-in-the-ground should be traded like oil-in-the-tanks. (By the way, I am not going to give you this guy's name, as I should for proper credit, because I don't think I have enough letters on this keyboard to spell it, and you couldn't pronounce it anyway.)

His basic premise is this: oil cannot actually be produced but can only be 'transported' to the surface and on to sales facilities and customers. Therefore, it is not equitable that oil that just happens to be at the surface now should be traded, but oil still in the ground is not traded.

But, hold on now. What do I mean by 'traded'?

My definition (and this OPEC advisor's, too—I think) is free commodities trading (like for oil at the Merc), but it can also include transactions between companies, nations, etc.

Right now, only produced, —er 'transported', oil is processed and traded on the New York and overseas markets as a free commodity. If Mr. OPEC's idea were to become a reality, oil still in the ground could be traded in block sums, just like oil currently being produced.

The only oil-in-the-ground market that exists currently is the buying and selling of reserves between oil companies. This, however, is not a very big market, and it is not a public market like the New York Mercantile exchange.

Here is a summation of his reasoning behind such a market establishment.

- (1) Stability in the oil market is a good thing for producer and consumer.
- (2) Instability is created by uncertainties in supply and demand, mostly supply.
- (3) Much uncertainty is created by the one-dimensional economies of the oil exporting nations due to their inability to create wealth by any other means than oil production (transportation in his words).

(4) This uncertainty comes about through the exporters' (mainly OPEC) needs for cash that can only be satisfied by greater production and thus spoiling oil markets by adding too much supply. Even if the exporter's need for cash flow may be satisfied for the moment at a decent price (say $20/bbl), if a crisis comes along, i.e. country A invades country B, the exporter may get desperate for money and dump oil on the market, sending oil prices spiraling downward. This hurts not only exporters, but importers in the long run by making them even more dependent on apparently cheap oil.

(5) By providing another mechanism to raise cash, the exporters will be less likely to raise (or lower, for that matter) production when a cash crunch hits.

(6) The other mechanism could be the trading of oil in the ground. By enabling producing countries to sell the rights to oil-in-the-ground, the producers will be able to raise money based on the future instead of the present, thus keeping production (and prices) stable in the longer run.

There is some logic here, but I have a few reservations.

Despite the case that can be made for oil-in-the-ground as being just oil at another location besides the surface (just like in tanks, etc.), it is just not the same. One can estimate the volume in a tank but the volume in a reservoir (in the ground) is subject to much more error.

It also would remain in control of the country who owns the ground until brought to the surface. This could be a problem, as OPEC countries have established a track record of seizing what they perceive as theirs without regard to any prior legally binding agreement (i.e., nationalization of reserves and facilities in the 60's and 70's).

I like the ideas behind creating a stable market, but the whole thing needs a little investigation, and should be viewed with great caution outside of OPEC.

High-Rise is their new home

Modern senior adults don't fade away; they just move to high-rise apartments where they can enjoy life without the hassle of everyday living in houses that have to be maintained and yards to be mowed.

Such a place is available at the Baptist Memorials Center in San Angelo where a number of Winters people now reside. Among them are Tucker and Myrtle Duncan, Flora McWilliams, Melvin Mapes, and Mrs. Garland Shook. Ivy Wood lives in the apartment while her husband, Oliver, is in the medical center.

Memorials Village has a campus of 75 acres that is enclosed with a high wooden fence and has constant police patrol for protection. There are cottages, duplex units and many apartments that now accommodate 650 people; 270 of them are in the medical care program, including hospital and nursing home units.

The Triple L Club of First Baptist Church sponsored a bus tour to San Angelo Thursday to visit their friends and tour the facilities of the center. Twenty-one people made the trip under the direction of David Speegle, sponsor.

The greatest interest to us was the rooms of our friends in the high-rise apartment. The Duncans had a suite consisting of a living room, bedroom and kitchen, because Tucker likes to cook. When he grows tired of cooking, the cafeteria provides services for all the residents and snacks are available between meals.

Ivy's unit consisted of a combined living and bedroom and a kitchen. She enjoys cooking, too. Flora is content with a single room which has a small refrigerator to keep snacks. She can walk out of her door into the assembly room where Bible classes are held, and the Glory Choir of senior adults sings once a week.

All the single rooms and suites have private baths and storage space available. These units are available on a monthly rental basis to persons 62 years of age and above. The rooms can be rented either furnished or unfurnished, all at the same price.

Senior adults are always interested in the availability of medical facilities. At the center there is a hospital and a nursing home to provide long term care with a medical staff of 56 physicians and registered nurse supervision around the clock. Special services include x-ray, laboratory, physical therapy, recreational activities, its own drug store, and a chapel with strong emphasis on spiritual life.

The Winters group was escorted on a tour of the facilities and grounds of the Memorials Center by Mary Butts, administrative assistant; Alan, an intern for retirement home management; and Julie Baucum, new director of the activities program at the high-rise. Some of her promotions are "42" and bridge tournaments, croquet, walking, exercise class, movies, piano and music concerts. There will also be picnics, parties, cultural events and shopping trips, and anything that the residents can think of, Julie will coordinate and arrange it.

Mrs. Elsie Gayer, the founder and leader of Baptist Memorials for many years, has recently moved to a high-rise apartment and will teach some Sunday School Classes.

Mrs. Gayer worked her way through nursing school at Baylor University. She met her husband, Louis, at Baylor and because of his health problems they came to San Angelo. One of Elsie's patients asked her to start a tuberculosis hospital and, in 1948, left part of her estate for that purpose.

The 24-bed Memorials Hospital was opened in 1951. The hospital was full when Mrs. Gayer's brother, Dr. W.W. Wendt, told her of a new drug which was a cure for tuberculosis. By mid 1953 all the patients were cured and the hospital had no more patients.

With a hospital and no patients, Mrs. Gayer noticed an elderly woman whom a neighbor was caring for sitting in her wheelchair on the porch crying. She told Elsie she was crying because her neighbor was no longer able to care for her.

Mrs. Gayer asked her to come live at Memorials Hospital. In a few weeks the hospital was full of elderly people needing care.

In 1957 the hospital was given to the Baptist General Convention of Texas and this organization operates the center today through the Board of Trustees elected by the Convention.

In 1963 the Retirement Village was started and today consists of 82 individual houses and 53 duplex units. The five story retirement high-rise consists of 48 one and two bedroom apartments and 78 hotel-type rooms and suites with a full cafeteria.

After 45 years Elsie Gayer is "back home" where it all started - and loving every moment of it. She is always eager to talk about the day when a young nurse began a dream!

Local Tiger Cubs at Camp Tonkawa

Michael Franklin, son of Travis and Laurie Franklin, and Jacob Goetz, son of Mark and Rhonda Goetz, participated in a "Chisholm Trail Mom & Me Camp" this past weekend. The boys, accompanied by their mothers, set up camp early Saturday. That afternoon, they took part in archery, B.B.'s, catapulting water balloons, swimming, and nature trails.

Supper was cooked over an open campfire. After dark, campsite skits were presented at the group gathering.

Sunday morning the boys and moms attended the scout worship service. Then, it was on to outdoor games and leatherworking. All too soon it was time to break camp. Both boys and moms earned patches for completing this event.

First Baptist's Beat

Young adults take trip to New Braunfels

Last Saturday, six couples from the Solomon Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church left on the church bus at 6:00 a.m. to go to the Schlitterbahn Water Park in New Braunfels.

Making the trip were Randall and Jean Boles, Keri Lynn and Tobin Burns, Debbie and Garry Goff, Donna and Greg Donica, Jeri and David Speegle, and Randall and Debbie Sudduth.

When they arrived at the town of Boerne, the town was celebrating Burgfest, complete with a downtown parade which had Main Street blocked to through traffic. After a detour proved impassable too, the group waited for an hour for the parade to finish before getting back on the road.

Upon their arrival at Schlitterbahn, finding a parking place, unloading, carrying ice chests, and finding a place for everything, all were ready for the "cold" water rides.

Six hours later, exhausted, but with lots of remembered laughs and fond memories, they loaded back on the bus and headed for Winters, arriving home at 12:30 a.m.

A great time was had by all. They look forward to doing it all again next year.

Senior Adults tour Baptist Memorials

Last Thursday the Triple L Club of F.B.C. went to San Angelo to tour the Baptist Memorials Geriatric Center. The center is a facility designed for Senior Adults and their care.

The first area toured was the nursing/hospital facility. This area has all levels of health care, from short term to long term. From there the group went through the cafeteria of the center and then to the physical therapy wing. In the physical therapy wing there is an indoor swimming pool which is used for health benefits as well as recreation. In the pool room there is also space for those residents who enjoy working with ceramics.

The tour then moved on to the high rise apartment complex. This is a five story building which contains everything from one room "hotel style" apartments up to two bedroom apartments with a kitchen. The group ate lunch at the cafeteria in the high rise which also contains a beauty shop, library, game room, and post office.

For the final leg of the tour the group saw a two bedroom duplex and a two bedroom house on the grounds of the center. In all, the center covers more than 70 acres.

While the group was there they visited with many friends who have moved to Baptist Memorials from the Winters area.

LONE STAR STATE HISTORY BY DAN BROWN

LA REUNION

FRENCH DALLAS ...
In 1855 French aristocrat Victor Considerant, disenchanted with Napoleon III tyranny, established La Reunion in what became the Oak Cliff section of Dallas. La Reunion's population included a scientist, an agriculturalist, musicians, doctors, craftsmen, and soldiers. This French utopia had apartment style dwellings, a dining hall, a store and a factory. Everyone, even women, could vote. What killed La Reunion? Texas drought, freezing winters and grasshopper eaten crops.

VETERINARY UPDATE
by Jimmy Smith, DVM

Colic and Founder - Part II

Surgery is indicated in all cases of twisted gut, but it must be done early on in the treatment of the colic if it is to be successful. Delay in surgery allows degeneration of devitalized intestine followed by leakage of intestinal content into the abdominal or peritoneal cavity. The next step in the process is the development of peritonitis followed by death.

Pulse rate, intestinal motility, mucous membrane color and skin turgor are closely monitored when treating colics. It is necessary to keep the pulse rate at or below 40/minute if at all possible. Pain causes pulse rates to climb. So, by controlling pain, we can hopefully control pulse rates.

A pulse rate of 80 for over 30 minutes or uncontrollable pain for over one hour, even with pulse rates at or near 40/minute, are good indications for surgical intervention.

Intestinal motility of all areas of the gastrointestinal tract will usually accompany normal pulse rates. Intestinal sounds of flatulent or gas colic will include a "pinging" sound as the gas makes its way through the intestinal tract. Absence of intestinal motility in one or more sections of the GI tract usually gives you a good hint as to where the problem is.

Mucous membrane color is a good indicator of cardio-pulmonary function. "Muddy" membranes among other things indicate cardio-pulmonary dysfunction and shock. Purplish coloration indicates toxemia and often accompanies a twisted gut.

Skin turgor reflects the degree of hydration and circulating fluid volume (blood). With shock, circulating fluid volume will decrease and intravenous fluids/steroids are indicated.

Once the pain has been stopped, the motility of the intestinal tract will again resume. With assistance from the mineral oil, the impaction will be moved through the digestive tract.

There is a situation that sometimes follows colic resulting from grain overload. This situation is founder. Although grain overload is not the only cause of founder, it is the most common cause.

Anyway, we'll talk about founder in the next column. Hope this has been informative for you.

Spirit Filled Happenings
by Dixie Leverett Church Editor
Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church

WHEN WAS THE LAST TIME YOU:

1. Fell upon your knees and went humbly to God in prayer?
 2. Lifted your heart, head, eyes, and hands to praise God?
 3. Went to someone in need and offered your help?
 4. Walked carefree with the knowledge that God is always there?
 5. Had visions and dreams of a better tomorrow?
 6. Awakened refreshed from a peaceful night's sleep, anxious for the new day to begin?
 7. Looked forward to going to church to hear all of God's word?
 8. Knew in your heart God could heal all your illnesses?
 9. Enjoyed the love of a newborn baby, smelled a flower, or hugged your loved ones?
- If we could learn to place our priorities in order according to God's plan, then would we reap the benefits that are so graciously given.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
SPECIAL ELECTION
AUGUST 10, 1991

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 42 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the newly created county education districts to hold elections to exempt from ad valorem taxation a percentage of the market value of the residence homestead of a married or unmarried adult. The percentage exempted could not exceed 20% of such market value, and the amount exempted could not be less than $5,000. The amendment would also authorize county education districts to hold elections to exempt from ad valorem taxation not less than $3,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of a disabled person or a person sixty-five years of age or older. Finally, the amendment would authorize elections in county education districts for the taxation of certain tangible personal property exempted from ad valorem taxation by the legislature.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation for residence homesteads and to provide for the taxation of certain tangible personal property."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to pass general laws authorizing Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successor to issue and sell up to $300 million of general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to students. The maximum net effective interest rate to be borne by the bonds would be set by law. The amendment would also authorize the legislature to provide for the investment of bond proceeds and to establish an interest and sinking fund to pay the bonds and provide for the investment of such fund. Bonds authorized under this amendment would be paid from the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year that is not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, less any amount in an interest and sinking fund established at the end of the preceding year that is pledged to the payment of the bonds or interest.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans to students."

Twain Talk

by Tanya Twain

The Edge of Reality

Do you watch soap operas? Don't tell me you're one of those folks who plan their entire day around the "soaps" or set the VCR so you don't miss one of those exciting episodes in the continuing sagas of "real" people living "real" life situations.

C'mon now. Are we dealing with reality here? Call me narrow-minded but I have a little difficulty getting involved in the messy lives of twenty semi-related men and women who wear formal clothing round the clock and never get hayfever or have car trouble.

All the people in these time-consuming shows have perfect hair, perfect teeth, perfect clothes, and perfect jobs.

Maybe I could relate better if I could see some of these beautiful ladies in baggy sweatpants, a sweatshirt with grease stains on the front, mis-matched socks, and those big fuzzy house shoes. And to top off the "at home" look, let's see some of them cast aside their contact lenses and wear their 15-year-old glasses with ugly frames and thick lenses.

And what about their hair-dos? We never see these ladies in a beauty salon with brown hair dye slathered on their heads underneath a flattering plastic bag. Do any of these gals get home perms?

I have yet to see any one of them saunter through a messy kitchen with 3-day-old dirty hair held in a ponytail by a knee-high pantyhose. Do they ever have refrigerators covered with crayon drawings, appointment cards, shopping lists and overdue bills?

Do these ladies ever work? Do we ever see them carrying a toilet bowl brush and some cleanser? Do they ever vacuum or sweep or mop? I'd even settle for seeing them struggle to get kids dressed, fed, and off to school while planning the shopping, doing some laundry, starting the evening meal, and getting ready for their job away from home.

The "beautiful" men in these shows are just as unreal. Why are they all doctors or lawyers? Where are the taxi drivers, fishermen, plumbers, factory workers, grocery owners, or insurance salesmen?

Do these guys ever sweat or get dirty? Do they ever change the oil in the car or crawl under the kitchen sink to attempt repairs?

And do you notice that these guys always wear suits and ties? Where is the fella in the faded boxers, old undershirt, three-day-old beard and an armload of newspapers, sports magazines and TV remote control for intense entertainment purposes?

The more I think about these "perfect" people, I realize that maybe they spend so much time trying to look good that they don't know how to keep their lives from being outrageous messes.

Maybe I should be a bit more understanding.

Let's see if I can get this all straight...

As the World Turns, the Guiding Light shines brightly on the Bold, Beautiful, Young and the Restless as they wrestle with the Days of Our Lives in Another World. They have only One Life to Live, whether Loving All My Children at home or leading Another Life at the General Hospital in Santa Barbara.

The Crop Connection

by Richard Minzenmayer
Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)
Runnels-Tom Green Counties

General Situation - Higher temperatures and drier conditions have provided for excellent growth of area crops during the past week. Cotton growth ranges to still in the bag up to matchhead square stage. With the large variation of growth stages this year it will be very important to watch each field closely. Younger cotton will have to be watched closely for fleahopper damage. Fleahopper populations will build on the earlier planted cotton and as it matures they will move into the younger more succulent cotton.

Much of the cotton looked pretty rugged last week due to a combination of Ascochyta blight and thrips damage, but is now rapidly outgrowing the damage. It is very important that you aerate the soil as quickly as possible. The soil is water logged and crusted over and the plant is in need of air to grow. You will see a remarkable difference in plant growth once the soil is aerated.

Overwintered Boll Weevils - Trap catches this week are back up substantially. The cool, wet weather probably delayed some weevils from emerging earlier. Overwintered weevil populations will be substantially higher this year than last year. The overwintered weevil studies, which we are conducting in this area, has indicated that 15-20% of the weevils which entered habitat last fall survived. Any time over 10% survive the winter, potential problems exist.

Many fields are approaching, if not already approached, the time to start monitoring for overwintered weevils using pheromone traps. Remember that pheromone traps should be placed in the fields two weeks before square stage.

Grasshoppers - Producers need to check field areas adjacent to pastures closely for grasshopper damage. Grasshoppers can completely rip a stand of cotton in only a few days. Seedling cotton is very susceptible to damage. Suggested treatment levels for Jumbo grasshoppers is 2 per square yard in vegetation around fields or 1 per 3 row feet in cotton fields. For other types of grasshoppers the suggested treatment level is 20 or more per square yards in vegetation around fields or 10 per 3 row feet in cotton.

The most cost effective means of controlling Jumbo grasshoppers is to spray border vegetation, plus use a bait in a ditch around the field. The homemade bait which has been used successfully for years include the following ingredients:

- 10 lbs. wheat bran
- 7 pints water
- 1 pint Sevin XLR
- 1 pint cottonseed oil
- or
- 1 pint of molasses

Mix ingredients in a tub or cement mixer. It is best to spray the Sevin XLR and water mixture on the wheat bran as it is being mixed to insure that it gets on all the bran.

Place the mixture in handfull amounts in a one foot or deeper ditch along field margins. One handfull per 3 feet or so works well. Remember to wear rubber gloves.

Sprays which can be used on vegetation on roadsides, ditchbanks and turnrows include several formations of Sevin, Orthene, Asana XL, diazinon, malathion and others. Remember, Sevin has to be ingested to be effective. Insecticides that work well for quick knockdown when hoppers get into seedling cotton include: Bidrin, methyl parathion and Malathion ULV. Bidrin and Malathion ULV have longer residual action.

Scouting Program - The scouting program has cranked up and is off to an excellent start.

If you are participating in the scouting program, please contact your scouts or me if you spray a pesticide in a pest management field. We certainly do not want to expose anyone unnecessarily to any pesticides. It takes just a minute to make a phone call and let someone know you will be spraying.

Cotton Varieties - Producers are starting to ask questions about what cotton varieties to plant due to the delay in planting. Up to June 20th (maybe June 25th) it would be safe to plant Cargill HS-26, Rosebud PR-80, G7P 74+, Bronco 693, and others with similar maturities. After June 25th it will be necessary to consider varieties such as CabCS, All-Tex Quickie, TAMCOT CD3H, TAMCOT CamD, and others with similar maturities.

ACR non-grazing period

Haying and grazing of 1991 ACR and CU for pay acreage is not allowed during the non-grazing period of June 1 through October 31, 1991. Unlike previous years, special permission to hay and graze during this 5 month period has not been granted. The Department of Agriculture, Conservation Service, will be conducting spot-checks to see that the livestock are removed and that no hay is baled from June 1 through October 31, 1991. Failure to follow these rules could result in loss of program benefits.
