Rains help parched pastures

Welcome rains fell last week and during the weekend in the Winters area. With most pastures, hay and cotton needing a drink of water, rains ranging from a few tenths to over 2 inches were recorded in the area.

Temperatures also fell from above the 100° mark down to the lower nineties with the passage of a summer cool front.

Milo harvest has begun with early cutting yielding a little above average. With the rains, cotton should progress nicely according to agricultural authorities.

Jimenez pleads guilty to murder

Gilberto Jimenez, 20, of Winters, pleaded guilty last week to murder charges stemming from an incident occurring June 30. District Attorney Steve Smith said Jimenez was sentenced to life in prison after entering the guilty plea.

Jimenez was accused of murdering Jerry Munoz, 29, of San Angelo, at the home of his common law wife in Winters. He is also accused of kidnapping the woman, Mary Santoya, 27, following the stabbing incident. Munoz was apparently trying to prevent Santoya's

Nolte trial begins in Ballinger

The trial of Randy Nolte of Winters, who is charged with several counts of sexual assault of a child under 17 and indecency with a child under 17, began Monday in Ballinger. Selection of jurors in the trial began at 9 a.m. Monday and a jury of 7 men and 5 women was finally selected by about 8 p.m.

The prosecution began their case on Tuesday morning by calling one of the victims to the witness stand. Charlotte Harris, special prosecutor for the District Attorney's office, indicated the trial may last into next week with the number of witnesses scheduled to be called.

The case is being tried in 199th District Court with Judge John Sutton presiding.

Nolte was arrested and charged in July, 1990 and has been free on bond since shortly after his arrest. Nolte was the owner and operator of North Runnels Emergency Service located in Winters and had lived in Winters approximately six years prior to his arrest.

North Runnels Hospital offers Cholesterol Screening and Blood Pressure/Blood Sugar Clinic

North Runnels Hospital will sponsor cholesterol screening on Thursday, August 8, in addition to the regular Blood Pressure and Blood Sugar Clinic. This clinic will be held in the front lobby of North Runnels Hospital beginning at 7:00 a.m. and continuing through 12 noon.

By offering this service during these hours, NRH hopes to accommodate many of the local business people and employees before starting the day.

Fasting is not necessary to have a cholesterol screening done; however, a more accurate reading can be obtained if you have not eaten 8-12 hours prior to the test.

A small fee of $6.00 will be collected for each cholesterol screen. The blood pressure and blood sugar screening will, as usual, be a free service.

KIDS' KORNER

We love a parade!!!

Determined not to give in to the boredom of summer, eighteen kids who live on or near Roselane Street decided to liven up the neighborhood with the second annual Roselane Children's Parade on July 25.

Under the direction of parade coordinators, Brooke Tounget and Michelle Floyd, these youngsters, ages 2-12, planned and organized the colorful and unique event which was held before an enthusiastic gallery of lawnchair-toting parents, friends, and neighbors.

Following the parade, a variety show was held by the parade participants. Included in the program was a group singing of "Texas, Our Texas" followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

ROSELANE PARADERS - Left to right, Brandon Fields, Brooke Tounget, LaTasha Fields, Shanna O'Dell, Bradley Floyd, Diana Powers, Cody O'Dell, Matthew Tounget (with sign), Tracy Floyd, Amber Green, Allan Green, Amanda New, Naomi Torres, Javier Rodriguez, Monica Rodriguez, Ashley Gann, and Michelle Floyd. Celebrity waiters from all areas of the county have been recruited to serve those attending the dinner. Waiters leave their everyday roles and routines to become servants for the dinner.

Forty-five individuals have been recruited to serve and entertain those in attendance. Some waiters will work in teams. Waiters from the Winters area will be Susan Conner and Linda Duggan, Lanny Bahlman, Sherri Mikeska and Bernie Faubion, George Mostad, Larry Walker and Monte Angel, Jimmy and Ginny Smith, Sandy Griffin, Tommy Lancaster, Charles and Fran Kidwell, and Mike Davis.

Other servers will be from Ballinger, Miles, and Rowena. Randall Boles of Winters and Dub McMillon of Ballinger will serve as Masters of Ceremony.

The meal will be catered by Country Fare Catering of Ballinger with a fare of comish game hen, tossed salad, green beans, cranberry sauce, dinner roll, spice cake, tea or coffee. Seating will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner is to be served at 7 p.m.

Money raised will be used for medical examinations for the children, clothing and other medical expenses. The celebrity waiters will be suggesting their tables "tip" a little extra to help Runnels County kids.

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles ©1991

The Texas Railroad Commission has long been a strong-handed regulatory body that has gone from obscurity to world oil price setter and back to simply a strong national leader in the regulatory arena.

Let's retrace some of that history and report on the current status of this governmental agency that everyone in the oil business deals with at one time or another.

After the oil industry began to mature and the East Texas Field was discovered, oil prices dropped to pennies per barrel. Something had to be done or producers would go broke and the entire infrastructure of the oil patch would be destroyed, leaving a glut of oil but no one to bring it to market.

Also, some operators were trying to solve their cashflow problems by drilling wells 10 feet apart and producing them all-out to make enough to survive. The problem was, this damages the petroleum reservoirs and results in less overall recovery from a particular reservoir. (Seems that the complex relationship between oil and gas and how it flows through rocks is altered when it is produced too fast in certain situations, and the associated loss in pressure leaves oil in the ground with no economical way to get it out.)

In stepped the Texas Railroad Commission with a bold plan to control production through a proration system that set allowable production for production. In this way, the RRC could keep total production down for conservation's sake (oil conservation, that is) and keep prices at a reasonable level. Since Texas produced most of the U.S.'s petroleum, then the Texas RRC became an early OPEC.

They did a good job of it until someone with more oil took over.

That's right...the real OPEC. Unfortunately for producers, the real OPEC is a little more unstable than the real Texas RRC. You see, the RRC had no real direct interest in oil prices other than wanting to preserve stability. Their pay did not tie directly to oil prices, so there was no opportunity for greed to override good decision making.

I don't think I have to explain about OPEC and the problems greed has brought them—and those of us in the oil patch, too.

So that brings us up to now and the current Texas RRC. One with three Commissioners, of which one is Chairman. They are elected to oversee a large staff of lawyers, engineers, accountants and clerical workers.

The current RRC is headed by a Commissioner with six months experience as a Commissioner, and no prior experience in the petroleum business whatsoever. Her qualifications? She knows the governor and worked very hard on her campaign, and when the opening came up on the Commission when John Sharp left to become State Comptroller, she was the logical choice.

If it still doesn't make any sense to you, your letting your judgement be clouded by common sense and good judgement. You need to spend more time in Austin to understand these things. Anyway, the RRC has instituted new fees for conservation and environmental protection and laid the groundwork for new regulations regarding waste disposal, pit reduction, and liability for oil producers for incidental environmental damage. No rules to strengthen the oil and gas business have made it out of the Commission, yet, but I'm sure they will as soon as they have time.

If you note a sense of cynicism, here, you read me well. I am all for protecting the environment and all that good stuff. It is a must to make this world a decent place to live, but it is not necessarily supposed to be the focus of the Texas RRC.

As illustrated by its past, it is there to regulate and support the petroleum industry in Texas. The petroleum industry takes enough abuse from northeastern politicians who don't seem to understand or care that somebody has to make that gasoline they burn in their Lincolns. So, oil folks don't need one of their own beating them down financially with new fees and regulations ad nauseum.

Don't get me wrong. We need someone strong and principled to keep an eye on those of us in the oil patch, so that we don't destroy our business or our world. But, if, as the saying goes, you need someone to watch over the chickens, don't ask the fox to do it, for heaven's sake.

UNCLE JOHNNY SAYS GOODBYE - Part 4

A continuing series of articles on Johnny Ballew

"The Last of Uncle Johnnie's Musings from Mazeland's" appeared in the Banner-Leader on May 14, 1909:

For once Uncle Johnnie is feeling glum. The time has come for us to part hands. We have come to the forks of the road and however sorrowful the parting, we must keep to the right.

Fate, however cruel it may seem, bids one to go one way and another the other way. It matters not how closely we are bound by the ties of friendship and fraternalism, we are yet creatures of circumstances and environments.

Now I am tendering you, fellow citizens, my profoundest gratitude for every evidence of confidence and esteem that the best people of the best country of the best state have shown me during my sojourn with you.

As long as the red blood beats in Uncle Johnnie's bosom he will remember very gratefully the many obligations under which the noble people of Runnels County have placed him.

He will remember in choked silence when his pathway was swept with flames and afflictions, how his comrades along the dusty way of life came nobly to his warm side assuring him that "no good man suffers in Runnels County."

From the deepest recesses of his appreciation the briny tears start to his eyes when he remembers the tens and fives and silver dollars and halves and quarters piled down at his feet as a gracious gift.

It is not a matter of dollars and cents. Gentlemen there is something more to it. It is one thing to live. It is another thing to live in the confidence and esteem of noble men and women.

What Uncle Johnnie has written in this good paper came from his heart. I hope it has done no harm. I even hope that good may yet result. Some things may have seemed harsh. I harbor no animosity toward anyone and I can honestly say that I have a feeling for everyone and a sacred friendship for a number of splendid citizens of this splendid county.

Your soil and climate and citizenship is just as good since my interests are severed from yours as when I was directly interested in the rapid development of the splendid resources of your great possibilities. Gentlemen, your level, smooth, rich and fertile agricultural lands are going to continue to enhance from year to year. There is no power on earth that can hinder. Panics have already come. Dry springs have come and gone, insect pests have devastated the fields. My friends, the very worst that could come has already come and still prices of rich dirt grow, no more land being discovered.

A human being is born and wedged in between his brothers in this old world every second. Population is getting so thick that men of brain and brawn are looking to the golden west and pushing out further and further.

I have watched the development and wonderful advance of the price of land in Texas for 30 years. I lived on the black, waxy, hog-wallow land of Central Texas when it could be bought for $5 an acre. At that time land cracked open on the prairies so badly that it was dangerous to run a horse after cattle on the open range and pessimistic people said with a shrug of the shoulders that the land was too high. But dire predictions seemed to have no effect on the price and productivity and the price soared to $10 and then they hoated sure enough and said: "Boys, she's bound to go back." It has been that way all along. Today that land commands the cash at $60 per acre and the belief is that it will go to $100, and it will. Runnels County land will sell for $50 per acre all over the county. The undeveloped west will be populated. I repeat again that the air will blossom with melody. The soil of the western prairies has been analyzed. It is the richest in the world. It has been accumulating plant food and those elements that contribute to heavy yields for ages. The properties that feed the field crops have not been washed out as in humid sections.

Runnels County is on a sounder basis financially, socially and morally than ever before in history. Her wonderful resources are being developed faster.

To those who have holdings in Runnels County I can confidently say that a few more years will see land selling very much above present prices. Gentlemen, I bid you God speed.

Spirit Filled Happenings
By Dixie Leverett, Church Editor,
Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist

Charlie hurriedly opened the door; his sixteen year old son Charlie Jr. had left him a message to come home. Charlie Jr. was having problems; his school work was off, he walked the floor at night, he never wanted to eat, and he wasn't seeing his friends anymore.

Charlie went to the door of his son's room and sensed something was wrong. He opened the door and Charlie Jr. was sprawled on the bed with his face blown away from a self-inflicted gun shot blast.

According to statistics this happens a lot more than we want to believe. Why do our children kill themselves? Is the pain of living so intense they feel it will never pass? Is it society's fault? Do we put too much emphasis on succeeding, or being number one?

Our children have a tendency to take the easy way out. They will follow the leader, be with the in crowd, and may eventually turn to drugs, alcohol, or even suicide.

Someone, must make the effort to teach, encourage, and help individuals that are failing life expectancy. That someone is Jesus Christ!

Our Lord Jesus Christ, through his word, and our belief in Him, will put things in order the way they should be. There is hope, perfect knowledge, and divine truth in God's word. We must direct our children toward Jesus Christ; take them to church regularly and let them know that Jesus is the way, the truth, and the light.

Our children are crying for help. Can we afford to not know the answers ourselves, or give our children the guidance that is needed?

Proverbs 22:6 "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

To all who attended and supported our "Christmas in July" sale, it was a great success and we appreciate the help. Friday, August 30, at 7:00 p.m. will be our next Gospel Singing. Make plans now to come and be a part of this time of Christian fellowship.

Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church is located at 1017 N. Cryer in Winters, Texas and is a spiritual light growing ever brighter in a seemingly darkened world. Reverend John Haley is pastor.

Twain Talk
by Taryla Twain

Cross this line - I dare you!

From our earliest childhood days, we are taught to share. Share our toys, share our candy, share turns on the swings. For the most part this plan works pretty good and doesn't cause too much hardship on anybody. Most of the time, I said.

Somehow, that sharing thing gets to be a real chore. Especially when it comes to two kids sharing the seat of a car.

Now you'd think that the entire back seat would be plenty big for two kids. And it is, until one or both of the lovely children are stricken with that nasty plague that we mothers know as the "Restlessness-Aggravation Syndrome".

I haven't decided if it's worse for one kid to have it and the other remain semi-normal, or for both kids to have it at the same time. I'm sure you moms know what I'm talking about. It's when the kids decide they can no longer ride in a sitting position because all their extremities have turned to rubber and must now flail about in an uncontrolled fashion, no doubt crossing over onto the other kid in the same seat.

This rampant thrashing of arms and legs can be tolerated for a maximum of about six seconds before we hear that familiar outburst, "She's touching me!"

So in all our worldly wisdom we moms calmly take control of the situation with a very firm, "Stay on your own side!"

Because mothers' words usually fall on deaf ears (unless money is involved) the restless child attacks again. This time in a more subtle manner - just a sneaking hand or elbow at first, then a foot, then finally The Squimmer lowers the boom and lies completely outstretched across the entire length of the seat, knocking the victim onto the floorboard.

Uh-oh. At this point, things get serious. Because all the motherly commands have thus far been less than effective, some drastic measures must now be taken.

First, stop the car. Wheel your body around with great force (this technique is also quite effective against giggling kids during church services). Throw your right arm completely over the back of the seat and get within a half-inch of your kids' noses.

At this stage of the game, the kids might even believe you're serious for a couple of seconds, especially if that vein in your forehead is the right color of blue and is sticking out more than usual.

As you speak through clenched teeth, you ask that profound question, "What is the matter with you two?" (like you haven't heard or seen what's been going on for the past thirty minutes).

Both kids tell their sides of the story, usually at the same time. Neither is convincing and the problem is still at-large.

So you quickly go through the rolodex in your mind to the section of Great Motherly Solutions and come up with -- the sacred boundary line.

Now this line can be made from whatever is at hand - the cording line on the seat design, the dried gum stuck in just the right spot, or even the purple stain of unknown origin. It doesn't matter what you use as long as it's a visible marker of sorts.

This boundary can work magic. Especially when you convince your kids that the boundary includes all the air space to the top of the ceiling and neither kid can cross into the other's space for fear of suffering severe consequence (which will be thought of at the next episode of slamming on the brakes).

Ahhh. Peace has been restored in the land of the young and the restless. At least for a good ten minutes.

TEXAS TRAILS
LONE STAR STATE HISTORY BY DAN BROWN

THREE-FACED CLOCK ... The Ursuline Academy and Convent, in San Antonio, was built in 1868. Its tower has a three-faced clock. The north side has no dial. The reason for this omission? At the time the tower was being built, Union soldiers were camped on the north side of town; and the people of San Antonio didn't want those Yankees to know what time it was.

Girl Scouts attend Camp

Girl Scouts of all ages enjoy a special kind of fun as they participate in the resident summer camp programs. Girls choose the session that best meets their individual interests and age, giving them the chance to have a taste of camp life while making new friends.

Attending the Brownie Discovery unit at Camp Wood Lake in Brownwood July 7-12 were Lori Bredemeyer, Kendra Hope, Michelle Paschal and Fallen Perrie. Jackye Dexter enjoyed Brownie Discovery the week of July 21-26. These girls had the fun of discovering new things, and were able to earn the Brownie Try-It Badge Outdoor Adventurer.

Junior Girl Scouts Jeanna Kozelsky and Heather Watkins attended Camp Booth Oaks at Sweetwater the week of June 23-28. They learned about fashion and fitness, canoeing and did Junior badge work.

All girls worked with Certified Instructors and received Red Cross Certificates for their levels in swimming. The scouts enjoyed a variety of activities including hiking, singing, playing games, crafts, swimming, and cookouts.

Museum News

The Z.I. Hale Museum has been presented a memorial gift by Frances and Sheila Allen of Fort Worth for their uncle and aunt, James W. and Annie Emery Bright, pioneer and civic leaders who lived at Content in Runnels County.

The gift is to be applied to the restoration of the historic Rock Hotel, the outstanding project for the museum complex.

Recent additions to the Pioneer Memorial plaque in the museum are Will and Ellen Lloyd by Dickie Lloyd, Earl and Beatrice Harris by Mrs. Harris, Leonora Wilkerson by Mary Margaret Leathers. The Pioneer plaque has been completed but another has been ordered for those who would like to give an honorarium to friends or loved ones, living or deceased, who have been a part of the community.

Memorials to Mary Elizabeth Sykes were given by Helen Crenshaw, Jo Olive Hancock, Estella Bredemeyer, Charlise Poe, W.L. (Bede) and Edna England.

Billie Alderman and Selma Dietz are attending a grant writing school at Glenrose, July 22-25. These members will also be exploring the possibility of outside help in restoring the Rock Hotel for modern use as a place for receptions and other activities.
