streets, approves police reserve program

With a unanimous vote of the City Council, procedures were started to close two streets around Winters High School.

One block of Poplar between the high school and the agriculture building and one block of Fannin between the high school and the band hall were requested to be closed and deeded to the Winters Independent School District by the WISD trustees.

Procedures to close the streets include public hearings and public notice published in the local newspaper.

The Council understood the request was made to insure safety of students crossing to other campus buildings and to better control a closed campus.

In other business in the regular Council meeting on Monday, June 8, the Council approved a Police Reserve program with up to eight personnel to be enlisted. Both Council members and Police Chief Carey Balentine thought this would be a good program to help our present police force and allow possible future policemen to acquire training.

In other action, the Council approved a contract with Professional Services to apply for grants for the city.

David Carroll discussed the need to lower lake use fees for non-residents of Winters to one dollar per person from the present four dollars. Carroll stated that out of town fishermen were going to other lakes because they could fish free or for a dollar. He felt that with a reduced user fee that these fishermen would spend money in Winters and at Elm Creek Reservoir. Carroll is the present Lakekeeper. No action was taken.

The Winters Enterprise was designated as the official newspaper by the City Council for the City of Winters. This designation was needed to fulfil ordinances which require that a local newspaper be chosen to publish all ordinances and public notices.

In other business of the Council, a law enforcement liability insurance policy and a public officials liability policy were awarded to the Texas Municipal League Insurance providers.

Also a fax machine was approved to be bought by the City. Several other items on the agenda were tabled pending further discussion and investigation.

a challenge to other clubs and organizations to meet or exceed their donation of $200 to repair the bleachers at the Little League field. The response has been wonderful, and there are now sufficient funds to repair four of the six bleachers at the field. If more contributions are made, more repairs can be done.

Donations have also been made by the Woman's Club, Literary and Service Club, Fireman's Auxillary and the Wingate Lions Club.

Contributions collected will be used to purchase materials for the bleachers, and the labor will be done on a volunteer basis. The present frames of the bleachers will be used, however the wooden seats will be replaced with metal

OIL BIDNESS

Forecasting, as we have discussed on prior occasions, is tricky, even dangerous, especially in the oil patch.

But, never-the-less, people keep right on doing it.

In the late '70's and early '80's, the speil went something like: "oil prices are headed to $100/bbl, no doubt about it". In the '90's it's: "the domestic arena for oil exploration and production is dead, no doubt about it".

The similarities between the two prognostications goes beyond the "no doubt about it" statements. They both reek of smugness, and they both are wrong.

Oops! I guess I am being a forecaster of sorts myself when I say they are both wrong, but what I mean to say is that they are both inaccurate for the present. Both could eventually come true, but I believe that both predictions will not be realized anytime soon.

But, I am digressing from my original intent.

What I started to say before mymouth ran off with itself, is that there have been many cases of predictions that look silly in retrospect.

For example:

-"...statistics show that the period of exhaustion of supply has been entered...the production of natural gas will never again reach what it was ... " (from 1890 U.S. census)

-"...there is no chance that oil will ever be found in California ... " (from U.S. Geological Survey in 1885)

cating oil in Texas..." (1891 USGS)

-"...U.S. oil production will never be higher than in 1921 ... " (Mr. J.E. Pogue, oil expert of the day when production was 1 million bbls per day-its 7 million, 1959 ... "(U.S. Interior Department in 1939)

-"...oil resources will be gone in a matter of months in the U.S., so we must find a new fuel ... " (U.S. Interior Secretary, 1949)-...solar power will be in almost every home by 1990 ... " (California Congressman, 1960-I guess we all have windows?)

-"...at the current rate, our planet will have exhausted all fresh water, all forests, and most farmland by 1989..." (Ralph Nader in 1969)

-"...our marriage is solid as a rock that no man can put asunder..." (Tammy Faye Baker in 1988 concerning her devotion to Jim)

-"... President Bush looks unbeatable in November of '92..." (New York Times in March 1991 after end of Persian Gulf War)

This is just a sample of prognostications that didn't quite work out as the predictor's had hoped. I present them to you to help you keep current doomsayer predictions about the oil business, and the U.S. in general, in perspective.

Things are never as simple as they seem.

The other day one of my friends said, "It's supposed to rain this afternoon." That got me thinking. Who said, "it's supposed to"? Who ordered the rain? Especially at this time of the year when the wheat is ready to be harvested, and it's plenty wet already, who orders the rain? As we continued the conversation, it came out that the weather man had said, "There's a 60% chance of rain this afternoon". Well of course, that's different from saying, "It's supposed to rain". Chance and "supposed to" are two different things.

Who really is in charge of the weather? Who directs the wind and the air currents? Is it all chance? Russia, when it had some power and find some way of controlling the wind and the weather. With such percent. control one could really control the world. You could flood out your enemy. Or you could dry them out with a drought. It would be worse than nuclear power.

Is God in charge of the weather? That's a good question. The Bible says that God "causes the sun to shine and the rain to fall on the just and the unjust". He doesn't play favorites. And Jesus calmed the storm by standing up in the boat and commanding the unruly wind to "Be still". "To surrender".

Is it possible that at least some of the time, the weather like you and me get "out of control"? It's one thing to have a gentle rain. It's another to have a flood. It's one thing to have gentle breeze. It's another to have a hurricane or a tornado. When the weather is "out of control" is God in charge? I think not. And I believe that we are to put the weather back in His hands by praying, "From drought and famine; Good Lord, deliver us". Especially during harvest. When we put the weather as well as ourselves in His hands, we, and the weather are in good hands.

Spirit Filled Happenings By Jan Thompson Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church

As I was ministering a few months back in Alabama I began to study his passage of scripture and became very into its meaning. In the next few weeks I wish to share with you the reader what we feel is very important to each of us.

II Cor. 12:2-10, the words of Paul written to the Church of God in Corinth, and he said he had learned the secret whereby when he was weak, then he was strong. Today it seems quite different around the church: when people are weak, they are weak. The reason is that many have not learned this secret that Paul learned from Christ.

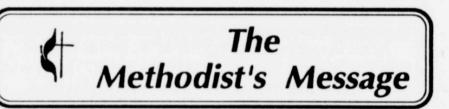

II Cor. 11:3 reads like this, "But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtility, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ."

Paul feared the falling away which was working among the people of God through the mystery of iniquity, and he feared that the devil would by some means corrupt their minds from the simplicity of the Gospel. When he used the expression, (lest by any means,) he meant just that. The devil will use any means he can to corrupt our mind. Confuse our thinking, and cause us to become divided on the simple teachings of Christ and the WORD of God.

We know that Paul did not fear something that was not real, because that which he feared did come to pass, and the minds of God's people were corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ. As Paul feared that it might happen, you and I know that it did and has happened. Therefore, it is necessary today to clarify some things that are certainly bringing confusion to the minds of God's people. At the last count that I had there are over 1200 different religions and beliefs, and right in the midst of these, we must take the Word of God and clearly present the one Bible Church.

We might as well face some old fashion brass facts. We can pray til we turn blue in the face, and we can wish things to happen, but the only way we will have victory over these conditions is to get back to the blessed old BIBLE, just as it is, in the simplicity. We have been corrupted by the philosophies and the traditions of men, and we should ask the LORD to give us pure truth. Tradition is a terrible thing. It can get such a hold on you that it will hold just as vital a place in your life as truth, and you will use some other ideas to cover up for the failures, the place where the Scriptures will not substantiate your teaching. However, the Word of God does not need any props!...

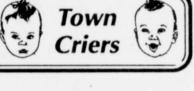

You are invited to come worship with us at Guiding Light Spirit Filled Baptist Church at 1017 N. Cryer Winters, Texas. Pastor W. Lindsey Thompson and church family.

Monte Reger on his trained steer named Bobbie.

1982 Cowgirl honoree Dixie (Reger) Mosley

"Anything can happen and usually does." This was brought home to me when a woman walked up to my booth at the Book Fair at Texas Tech and began thumbing through a picture album of cowboys and other scenes from the Booger Red collection of rodeo days.

An exclamation of surprise came from her lips as she said, "I can't believe it-here I am on the very first page."

She showed me a picture of three children on horses. Left to right-Buddy, Virginia and Dixie Reger-Juvenile Trick and Fancy Ropers. "I am Dixie and I was six at the time. Our dad, Monte Reger, is in the next picture on his trained steer named Bobbie," said the woman.

Dixie's lineage of rodeo performers began with her grandfather, who with her father put on the first rodeo in northwest Oklahoma in 1925, to help celebrate the arrival of the railroad. Her father continued in the rodeo business, and in 1936, the family joined the JE Ranch Rodeo and Wild West Show on the east coast. For the next five years the Regers worked fairs and contracted rodeos in the east.

the Girls Rodeo Association that formed February 28, 1946. She later served two terms as vicepresident. She contested in all the timed events as well as in bull riding. She worked as arena secretary for Butler Brother Rodeos, and with her sister, led the grand entries and parades at nearly every major rodeo in the country. She has performed in every state in the union and several Canadian Provinces.

The toughest job, Dixie believes, is in clowning. Her "funny acts' were performed with Rabbit, an educated mule.

The Reger family now raises registered quarter horses, and the family trophy room is full of trophies Dixie has won at every major show in the country. She competed in many events, but her best was calf roping, and she was known far and wide as the sure "catch."

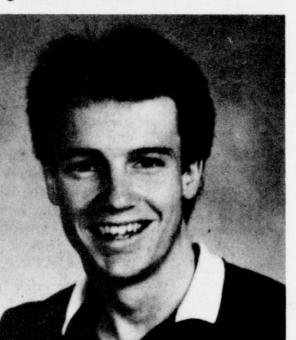

Dixie retired form rodeoing in 1953. She is married to W.C. (Bill) Mosley. They live in Amarillo

Keith Boles selected as outstanding rural scholar

Keith A. Boles of College Station and grandson of Monroe and Arlene Boles of Winters was selected as an Outstanding Rural Scholar in April. The Texas Outstanding Rural Scholar Program is designed to recruit healthcare workers to rural areas of Texas. It consists of two parts; recognition and financial support for education. Students are nominated by sponsoring communities and compete statewide for recognition as an Outstanding Rural Scholar.

Once recognized the students are eligible for forgivable loans which help cover expenses while pursuing a health-related education. Half of the loan amount is provided by the sponsoring community and half by the state of Texas. One of the main stipulations of the program is the student must return to the sponsoring community and practice for however many years he or she was given support.

Keith received a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering in May 1989 from Texas A&M. After working for three years as an engineer in Dallas and College Station, Keith decided engineering was not for him. "Most engineers," he says, "have to work in big cities and big city life is not for me. I started looking for a career which would allow me to live in a small town and discovered that doctors are in great demand in small towns."

Keith applied to medical school in the summer of 1991 and was accepted by Texas Tech in Lubbock in January. He will be starting school in August. The North Runnels Hospital Board has agreed to sponsor Keith through medical school. In return for this financial support, Keith will be returning to Winters to practice medicine when his education is complete. This will be approximately the summer of 1999 after four years of medical school and 3 years of residency.

Keith says, "I am very grateful to North Runnels Hospital for agreeing to support me through school. I can't wait to come back and practice medicine here and return the favor. I've spent lots of time in Winters and think it's the place for me."

Noel Gibbs Gibbs National Award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Noel Gibbs has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only Scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA.

Noel Gibbs who attends Oral Roberts University, was nominated for this National Award by her Education professor. Noel will appear in the All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the All-American Scholar Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement, "said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the USAA for other honors.

Noel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gibbs. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harce Gibbs of Rising Star and Norma Jo Sudduth of Winters.

Jim Lee graduates from Baylor

Jim Lloyd Lee, son of Dr. and Mrs. Yung Kee Lee M.D., graduated from Baylor University May 16, 1992. Jim graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in English and Political Science. His final grade point average was a 3.549.

Jim is currently at home preparing for his upcoming fall classes. This fall Jim will attend Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana. While attending Indiana University, Jim will pursue a Masters Degree in Political Affairs. After receiving his Master's Degree, Jim hopes to have a career in environmental affairs.

After leaving the JE Ranch shows, Regers and his three children had a show of their own. In 1940, the family returned to Oklahoma. Dixie learned to be a cowhand on a ranch near Woodward. She roped, broke horses, fed and doctored cattle, milked cows, built fences and made her own costumes for rodeo performances.

During the years with the wild west show, Dixie was educated by correspondence courses. She later entered Woodward High School and graduated at the age of fifteen while rodeoing fulltime. She continued her education and graduated form Enid Oklahoma Business College. Dixie was a charter member of and are the parents of three children. She is now involved with the activities of her children, church and home. She has also followed the growth of pro-rodeo and the American Quarter Horse Association, another field in which she excelled.

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center applauded the long list of Dixie's achievements by inducting her into its Halls in 1982. She, too, is the first woman rodeo clown that has been inducted into this Hall of Fame, and she may hold that honor for a long time!

Dixie invites everyone to come to Hereford, June 19-20, where new honorees will be inducted in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame during the Rhinestone Roundup and Benefit. Everyone is encouraged to nominate candidates with a resume of their lives and their contributions to the West.

Special state benefits for low-income beneficiaries are higher this year for the Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) program. "If your income was too high to qualify last year, you may want to reapply because the income eligibility guidelines were raised to conform with the new national poverty guidelines, " a Social Security official explained.

The QMB program is run by the Health Care Financing Administration, the federal agency that runs Medicare, and Texas Department of Human Services. Under QMB, state Medicaid programs are required to pay Medicare medical insurance (Part B) premiums, deductibles and copayments for certain elderly and disabled persons with low incomes and very limited assets.

Generally, to qualify for the Income eligibility guidelines QMB program in 1992, you must: be entitled to Medicare hospital insurance (Part A); have an annual income at or below the national poverty level; not have resources such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds in excess of $4,000 ($6,000 for a couple). The national poverty levels for 1992 are $6,810 for an individual and $9,190 for a family of two.

> If you think you qualify for assistance under this program, you should file an application at the Texas Department of Human Services. If you think you might qualify for assistance but do not have Medicare Part A, contact a local Social Security office or call the Social Security toll-free number 1-800-772-1213 any business day from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. to inquire about filing an application for Medicare Part

"This country wouldn't be in such a mess today if the Indians had adopted more stringent immigration laws."

Due to the stormy weather Saturday night the supper was short lived. After eating there was no business meeting. Everyone went home. I heard the hosts Jessie and Alfred Collom did a wonderful job hosting. Gladys Cotton of Ballinger and her sister were visitors.

I was told it's Eileen and Mike Prater's anniversary this week. Congratulations and many more happy ones.

Wilbert Gerhart, Lilly Presley and Brenda Watkins spent Sunday with Doretta and Charlie Gerhart in Lometa. Charlie isn't feeling too well.

Gladys Cotton of Ballinger and Walter Pape of Santa Anna visited with Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion Sunday evening.

Jerry, Jeri, Dusty, Cassy and Brandi Alexander of Tucson, Arizona spent a week with Helen and Norval Alexander.

Spending Sunday with Pat and Lanny Lacy of Grandbury and his two grandsons, Scary and Spencer; and Cherie, Ray, Amanda and J.T. Cooper from Dallas.

Doris Wood attended the track meet in Winters and watched her grandsons do their stuff.

Doris Wood's visitors Saturday and Sunday were Pat and Malsey Bryant of Abilene and Bobbie and Larry.

Selma and Tee Berry of Menard spent the weekend with Mildred and Howard Morrison.

Tuesday night Sherri, Bryant and Braden Mikeska of Wingate and Melvena Gerhart visited the Faubions.

On Wednesday Bernie, Betty and Linda spent time with Cathy and Danny Phillips in Abilene. They spent the night and the next day Betty and Linda headed for Oklahoma to visit more relatives.

Melvena Gerhart, Bernie and Brian Faubion attended her Farm Bureau Queen contest in the Ballinger Library.

I heard from the grapevine Linda, Dale, Will and Katy Duggan and Becky Brown also attended the contest.

Ruth Pape had a nice phone visit with daughter, Elaine, in Florida. She also talked to her son Craig who returned from his tour to St. Louis. I enjoyed Ruth's visit with me on Saturday morning.

Mike Prater's cousin Rozona Kelemancy of San Antonio spent Friday through Sunday with the Prater family. On Sunday, dinner guests with Mike and Eileen were Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion, Carolyn, Shad and Shawn Kraatz and Rozona. Sunday afternoon they attended the 4-H swimming party and hot dog supper in the Ballinger park.

Coleman Foreman attended the Perkins reunion in the home of Eugene Perkins in Comanche. Oldest aunt, 92, of the Comanche Nursing Home came. Families came from Lubbock, Abilene, Crews, Dallas, Arlington and around Comanche.

Brenda Jacob, Cookie, Corey and Brad Van Zandt and Margie Jacob spent last week in San Antonio touring the Fiesta Texas. The boys spent a couple of days riding horses, hay riding and tube swimming. They returned home on Monday tired but had fun.

On Sunday with Margie Jacob were the Mike Kozelsky family. and Cookie, Corey and Brad Van Zandt. Saturday Jodie Busenlehner and Meloney Mistiller came from San Angelo to visit.

Winters Housing Project Office Cotton producers can expect bad year for boll weevils

Anyone who wants to file a row may seem like heaven for Texas ranchers, but the state's cotton farmers likely will play hell with the boll weevil this summer.

> Texas Agricultural Extension Service says the boll weevil problem is shaping up to be at least two or three times worse this growing season than last year.

"It's not just here, but everywhere in Texas south of Lubbock," said Dr. Tom Fuchs of San Angelo, who has monitored weevil numbers since 1979.

Considered cotton's worst enemy, boll weevils in such high numbers could ruin millions of dollars worth of cotton and cost millions more to control.

Traps monitoring the emergence of boll weevils from diapause, their overwintering state, this spring are finding huge populations. For example, the 177 traps monitoring boll weevil activity in 15 counties south of Lubbock found 21,152 weevils in the last six weeks compared to only 123 during the same period a year news is that huge numbers of ago.

"If population growth continues on this plane, we will see an extremely serious problem by fall," said Roger Haldenby of Lubbock, coordinator for the Texas High Plains Boll Weevil Diapause Control Program for Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

Haldenby, however, does not expect the High Plains above years. The counts and weather Lubbock, where half of the state's data are computerized to help

Two mild, wet winters in a cotton is grown, to be hit by the boll weevil. The diapause control program, which carefully sets planting dates late enough to avoid the boll weevil, has been effective in preventing the spread of An entomologist with the the insect into that area for the past 28 years.

Fuchs said the last winter that knocked weevils back hard was in 1990. The coldest weather last winter came in early November after a disastrous October freeze. The icy blast stopped development on a crop already hampered by unseasonable rains.

"The good news about the freeze was that many weevils went into diapause early," said Extension Service entomologist Rick Minzenmayer of Ballinger, who monitors weevil numbers with Fuchs. "Those that didn't were left with little to survive on. Weevils entering diapause early usually emerged early this spring, when there was nothing to eat. Those that made the winter should survive for only a short time if cotton squares are not available."

Minzenmayer said the bad weevils moved from cotton fields to pastures and other overwintering areas last fall, which grew lush with the rains.

The two entomologists are the only ones in the state who annually conduct leaf litter surveys for weevils. These are done to compare likely overwintering boll weevil populations to previous cotton farmers decide how much land to plant, budget control expenses and establish a uniform planting date.

Overwintering areas remain a prime concern of the entomologists. These include fence rows and native pasture, but some of the worst culprits are old abandoned farmsteads. These threeto five-acre sites usually grow rank with weeds and create excellent overwintering areas. Weevils that survive in one of these small areas can infest from 100 to 500 acres of cotton, Fuchs said.

"Farmers in this area averaged $17 per acre for weevil control in 1989, a year comparable so far with this one. That amounted to $3.4 million expense over a ninecounty cotton producing area (around San Angelo).

"The only economical defense in breaking the cycle at this point is to plant Rolling Plains cotton uniformly after mid-May and pray that most weevils emerge early and die of starvation," Fuchs said.

The prime attack time for boll weevils is 40-45 days after the cotton is planted-or around July 1st in West Central Texas, he said.

"If this strategy doesn't work, then we can expect a repeat of 1989," Fuchs said. "That year, according to the National Cotton Council, the Rolling Plains lost an estimated 40,000 bales of cotton to the boll weevil alone. At just 50 cents per pound that's roughly $250 per bale or a $10 million loss to Texas farmers."
