Junior Livestock show winners

Beautiful fall-like weather set the mood of the day last Saturday as the Winters Junior Livestock Association held its annual stock show.

"This year's show was a total success. I've never seen a show run as smoothly as this one did. It was great," said Buddy Miller, president of the Winters Livestock Association.

Sixty-eight kids showed rabbits, pigs, sheep and cattle throughout the day. A new event, the "Little Britches" Pig Show for children up to third grade, was enjoyed by young and old alike as children and pigs tried to out-wit and out-maneuver one another.

Miller also added, "The Livestock Association really appreciates all the individuals and businesses who bought shares. This provides prizes for these youngsters which helps them go on to major shows down the road."

Other highlights of the show were special presentations to Mr. Gaston Boatright for his outstanding service to the Livestock Association and to Jeff Miller, WHS freshman, who received the Carroll Palmer Memorial Trophy, presented by family members of the the late Carroll Palmer.

Lance Brown showed the Grand Champion lamb Saturday at the Winters Junior Livestock Show. Brown's lamb received first place in the medium wool heavyweight division.

The Reserve Grand Champion was shown by Desiree' Mathis. Her finewool crossbred lamb took first place in the heavyweight division.

PARRAMORE ALL-AREA—Winters High School senior Russell Parramore has been named to the Abilene Reporter-News Class 2A All-Area football team. Parramore, son of Rhea Sue and Robert Parramore, Jr., and grandson of Mrs. Robert Parramore, Sr., all of Winters, was named to the first team as an offensive lineman.

Sometimes, you just think you've got things figured out.

But then, something happens that goes against what you thought were unbreakable rules, and you find out that things change at about the same rate as you decide you know it all.

A recent example might be ultra-deep drilling for gas (or anything for that matter). Not since the boom days of the late '70's and early '80's have any really deep wells (I mean deep- 20,000 feet +) been drilled in Texas. And, I think I understand why—there ain't no money in it!

Or, at least I don't think there is any money in it.

But, sure enough, someone has decided there is a future in drilling wells 20,000 feet or more. That somebody is a pretty big and wellrespected company—Continental Oil Company, or Conoco to those less educated in such matter of nomenclature.

Conoco has spudded an ultradeep wildcat in Pecos County (near Longfellow) aiming for the Ellenburger. The well is expected to be at least 28,000 feet, and it will be called the Big Canyon Ranch No. 1 (emphasis on the 'Big').

This is not too far from several gas fields that were drilled during the boom with total depths just under 30,000 feet that produced big reserves of natural gas from the Fusselman and the Ellenburger. The Ellenburger wells produced a wellstream gas with 50-percent Carbon Dioxide, but the wells were still profitable and are still producing, today.

'Profitable' is somewhat of an understatement. The profit one of these deep wells can generate is equivalent to a 1500 BOPD oil well and is equivalent to 10 shallow gas wells in profitability—all in one location. But, there are a few catches...

These deep tests are extremely hard to drill and require extensive research, calculation, and advance planning to pull-off successfully. The problems that can arise while turning drill pipe four miles below are numerous, as you can probably imagine. But, the wells can and are drilled successfully with profitable long lives afterward. It is certain, though, that any driller involved on one of these toughies says his prayers every night until the well is down and on produc-

There are also some operation problems that can come up over the life of one of these deep wells. Casing collapses, lost tubing, and fill problems can create headaches for the operator that are not simple to fix. Trying to patch a hole or latch a fish at 20,000 feet is a bit like pushing something with a rope. Thank goodness that these problems usually come later in the life of such wells after a profit has already been recovered.

When these late-life problems do arise, they present a dilemma to the operator.

The decision to attempt to fix an ultra-deep well is fraught with risk and reward. The repair bill can be big-in the millions-up to half the original cost of the well. The chance of success is only about 50-50. But, the reward is remaining reserves that would equal 5 shallow gas wells at the cost of about 1 1/2 shallow wells. The profit margin potential on a successful workover is very great and, despite the risk, is very en-

In summary, ultra-deep wells are expensive and difficult to drill, maintain, and repair, although the profit potential is very great. With gas prices being down, except for the last few months and the stability of prices extremely uncertain, it was easy for me to writeoff any such deep drilling prospects from now until forever.

But, as usually occurs in an economic system that rewards risk-taking, Conoco has found a way to make these things go. More power to them, I say, even though when three pickups collided on official said Tuesday afternoon. it makes me feel like I know a U.S. Highway 277 about 11/2 little less. I'll just have to keep my head up and look for the next idea that will 'never work' or that fool who thinks he or she can make money by doing something a little out of step of conventional wisdom.

(There is that term, again. Remember? CW or conventional wisdom is something 'everybody already knows the answer for', so there is no need putting any thought towards it. Although we all fall for it, we should know better by now.)

I hope this inspires some of you to dust off some good ideas that everyone else has discarded as 'no good' and make a successful attempt to prove the CW wrong.

Thursday was a special day with emphasis on Hawaii. Guests were presented a lei at the door. They entered a room decorated with brilliant colored birds flying in the air. (Artificial, of course.) In Hawaii, birds fly through open windows to swoop down and steal the diner's food. Shells, flowers and vari-colored napkins graced the tables. The decorating was done by Lillian Eubanks, Pat Simpson and Louis Wade. Louis said his fancy shirt came by airmail from Hawaii.

Fun-loving Hawaiians have a motto that was adopted for the day: "Just hang loose! Just have fun sipping on a drink, lying in the sun. Don't try to fight it, there ain't no use because, when you are in Hawaii, you just hang loose."

L.B. Watkins was disappointed because no one would dance the Hula. He was told that all grass skirts were packed away until warmer weather. We suggested that the grandmothers wearing their "moo-moos" could perform, but he wasn't interested.

Those attending enjoyed a Texas style luau without the ceremony of taking the pig from the underground oven. There was chicken and grits instead of poi. However, I'm sure we had as many pineapple dishes as the islanders. They also serve a great variety of local foods.

Mayola Cathey's lazy susan, centered with a carved pineapple, graced the dinner table. It was a gift sent by her son from Hawaii. Members take turns in serving the pot luck luncheon.

Anita Wood presided in the absence of C.R. Knight, President, and guests were welcomed. Two of the guests, Eula Mae Kruse and Noma Eoff, had taken tours to Hawaii. The husband of a member, Linda Morrison, was stationed on the island during the war.

Those having birthdays this month were recognized and honored by the group singing "Happy Birthday." Since L.B. Watkins was the only one, he finally had his moment of triumph, although he didn't get his request for the

The Dole Pineapple Cannery is a 58 acre plant started by Dole in 1901. The giant steel pineapple rising above the plant holds 100,000 gallons of water for the fire protection systems. As soon as the fruit arrives at the cannery, it is washed and graded. Machines cut away tough outer shells, remove the fibrous inner core and trim off the ends at speeds of up to 96 pineapples a minute. There are machines that can pick up the cans at the rate of 200,000 per hour for placement on conveyors that carry them to the labeling department. A very modern op-

A trip to the Polynesian Cultural Center at Laie, 40 miles from Waikiki, is a must. Here one will see the Pageant of the Long Canoes. Each canoe that drifts by is a show within itself: the Tahitian entertainers were singing, warriors of the Maori demonstrated the fierce look they use to ward off enemies, Tongas dance to a poem, Samoan dancers provide a little comedy by pushing a man overboard.

Tax abatement

As Mayor, I am a director for the newly formed Winters Area Industrial Foundation. Since its beginning the foundation has urged the City to initiate tax abatement for new business development in Winters. While I have always seen the merits of tax abatement, I have also felt an obligation to existing businesses, whose unassisted support has always been part of our tax base. However, if Winters is going to be competitive with other communities in attracting economic growth, I feel that tax abatement is a good and necessary incentive. Therefore, on behalf of the Industrial Foundation, I asked City Manager Aref Hassan to contact neighboring cities about their tax abatement policies. He found that many cities, including Abilene, Sweetwater and Ballinger, have adopted tax abatement. He then obtained information to draft a fair, reasonable, and comprehensive policy for Winters.

We went through a long process to get ready to give the Tax Abatement incentive to those opening a new business or expanding an existing business.

In accordance with provisions of the Texas Local Taxation Law, we had to follow the steps listed

1. Adopt a resolution indicating the Council's intent to participate in tax abatements. The resolution was approved by the Council on October 26, 1992, at our regular council meeting.

2. Adopt the Tax Abatement Guidelines and Criteria. This was a very important step for us. We wanted to have fair and easy guidelines that everyone could understand and afford. Most cities require high capital expenditures to be eligible for tax abatements. seminar We approved the amount of $5,000 as a minimum expenditure to be eligible for tax abatement.

3. After holding a public hearing, we had to approve an ordinance for a "reinvestment zone." Most cities have certain areas for reinvestment zones. We designated the entire city as a reinvestment zone to give everyone

Canterbury Villa News by Margie Clough

Everyone is looking forward to a good week. Tweety and Ann will be here Monday afternoon. There will be a popcom social on the 20th at 2 p.m. Also, our January birthday party will be held on the 21st at 3 p.m. Those with birthdays this month are Christine Ahrens (2nd), Henry Rose (6th), Edna Mae Grier (9th), Lula Belle Leeman (14th), Connie Forbus (16th), Julia Miller (19th), and Ethel Whitten (22nd). We wish them all a very Happy Birthday.

The residents of Canterbury Villa would like to thank several more businesses for providing the new '93 calendars. They are Cate, Spencer, & Trent Funeral Home; Rolling Plains Pharmacy; and Harris Drug. They are all located in Sweetwater. They really use them every day and appreciate your donation.

We would like to thank Newman Smith for presenting his program, "Days Gone By." Everyone really enjoyed the program, and we look forward to seeing you again next month. We would also like to thank TNT video in Ballinger for donating movies for everyone to enjoy.

The residents enjoyed a program put on by Anna Leach and her Mothers' Day Out program on the 14th. The little children were great, and everyone really had a good time.

We have a new resident in room 20B. Mary Hall is from Winters, and would enjoy visits and letters from friends and family.

As always I am interested in meeting new volunteers. Anyone wishing to give a little of their time for a great cause, and a lot of fun please call Margie Clough, at 365-2538.

the opportunity for tax abatement. This was an incentive for more investments within the city.

4. We had to prepare a Tax Abatement Application to include tax breaks for new businesses or reinvestment to expand existing businesses.

5. We had to prepare an agreement to describe all terms and conditions of the Tax Abatement, to be signed by the taxing entities and the recipient of the Abatelast documents approved by the Council in the regular council meeting of January 11, 1993.

All of our efforts have been coordinated with the other local taxing entities and tax abatement is in place and ready to go. Interby City Hall to fill out a tax abatement application. Every application will be taken into consideration. If the application is approved, the agreement will be signed by the taxing entities and the applicant. When the investment or reinvestment takes place, the Appraisal District will consider the application for tax abatement as approved.

I hope our business community will take advantage of this opportunity we have made possible. It took a lot of research and hard work to make the Tax Abatement Policy available for Winters. Taking advantage of this opportunity could boost the city's economy by bringing new jobs to Winters. In the long run, it will help our sales taxes and our ad valorem tax base.

Free educational

Parents and others who are interested are invited to attend a meeting at the First Baptist Church in Ballinger on Monday, January 25 from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m.

The program, to be given by Becky Tarwater, Area Development Director for Partnership for Assisting Texans with Handicaps, will be concerned with educational rights. The program is designed to help parents to take part in school meetings and to aid the individual educator in planning.

There is no charge for attending this seminar.

For the past few days, I have been reading a book called The Body. It's not a book on our physical bodies. It is a book on the spiritual Body, the church, the Body of Christ.

It is written by Charles Colson. Some of you may remember him, he was one of the ugliest and meanest professional politicians of all Items four and five were the times. He was one of Nixon's hit men. At one time he told the press, "If the president asked me to drive over the body of my grandmother, I'd do it." Awful! I hated Chuck Colson.

But God didn't. Through the prayers of a senator, a representative and an active Christian layman in Washington, D.C., Charles Colson was led by the Spirit of God to let go of his low down ways and let God into his life. Because of his involvement in Watergate, he was convicted and imprisoned. While in prison, he was convicted of the ested individuals need to contact spiritual neglect in the care of prisoners, and shortly after being City Hall for information or come released, started Prison Fellowship Ministries, a world wide organization that goes into the prisons with love and the Word of God to visit, listen, and share with prisoners the promise of a new life in Christ.

His main thesis in the book is that the church is undergoing an "identity crisis." Christians don't seem to know what the church is or what the church is to be doing. Is the church the building? A place one goes for weddings, funerals, or to drop in when it suits their fancy? What is the church to do? Worship? Evangelize? Feed the hungry, elect politicians, fight pornography? He goes on the write, "For most of us the church is the building where we assemble to worship, its ministries are the programs that we get involved in, its mission is to meet the needs of its parishioners, and its servants are the professional clergy we hire to shepherd us...when compared with precious generations of believers, we seem among the most thoroughly at peace with our culture, the least adapt at transforming society, and the most desperate for a meaningful faith."

Whew! Folks, Colson is right on. I don't like to read what he says. But, it is the truth. We don't make a difference, or, for sure, the kind of difference we would make if we really believed we were the Body of Christ and acted like it.

The problem seems to be that so many Christians concentrate on their personal relationship to Jesus Christ as if that were all that mattered. "Jesus and Me." But Christianity is not a solitary belief system. We are called into the fellowship of the body of believers, the church. It has to be "Jesus and us." All believers in Christ. Together. "All one body we."

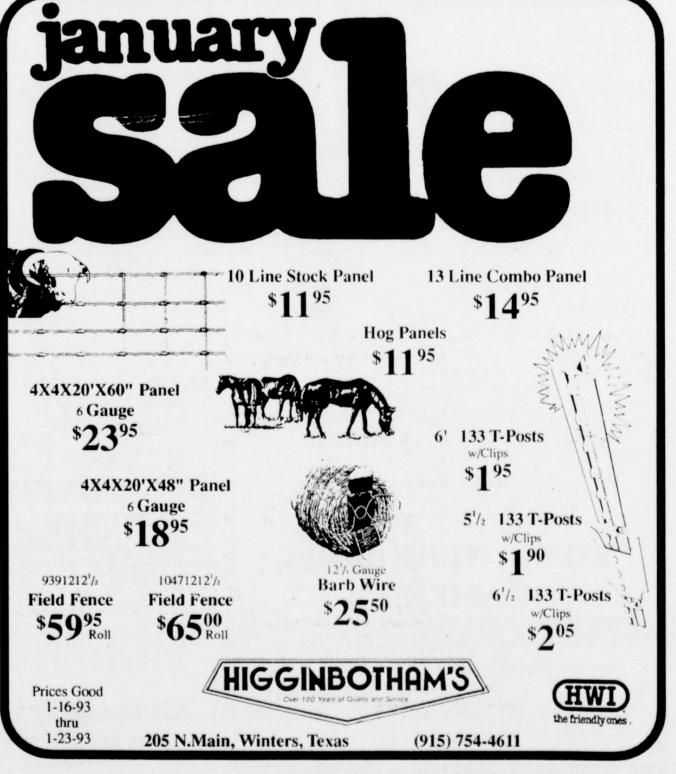

Colson is making a difference in my life. To begin with, I'm praying for all the churches. And looking for ways in which we can work together and become, indeed the Body of Christ.

Robert George "Robby" Pruser

John and Melody Pruser of Houston are proud to announce the birth of a son. Robert George "Robby" Pruser was born on January 4, 1993. at 10:53 p.m. in Houston Methodist Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds and 14 ounces and was 20 1/2 inches long.

Equally proud are paternal grandparents, Janice and Robert Pruser of Winters; maternal grandmother, Chris Salter of Houston and paternal great-grandmother, Theodora Frick of Winters.

Winters High School juniors joined 180,000 juniors statewide in tackling the TAAS (Texas Assessment of Academic Skills) test in late October. Locally, 98% of those juniors taking the writing test showed mastery of the skills tested. This was 15% higher than the state mastery level. Additionally, WHS juniors bested the state averages in reading (80%) and math (68%). The faculty and administration were elated at these outstanding results.

In September, third and seventh graders also participated in TAAS testing. Both groups showed remarkable improvement over scores from the previous year, with some areas improving as much as 13%. Outstanding scores in writing at all levels is a reflection of the intensive effort put forth by teachers and students.

ADD (Attention Deficit Disorder) affects many children today. ADD (or ADHD) children are unable to focus their attention on a task long enough to complete it. Many exhibit signs of inattention, Biscuits, sausage/gravy, mixed impulsivity, hyperactivity and anxiety. Teachers and parents become frustrated and upset when trying to work with an ADD child.

> Consultants for Kids will present their annual workshop. 'Attention Deficit Behavior Management Training," in San & Management Training," in San Angelo on Saturday, February 6. For registration details contact Susie Johnson at Winters High School, 754-5516.

Debt relief can be taxing surprise if he takes one of the debt relief programs available from FmHA or other farm lenders. A retirement or foreclosure may trigger even more IRS problems -even if the farmer doesn't have any cash income.

"Don't jump out of the debt frying pan into the IRS fire, warns Pete Morrow of the Southwest Farm Advocacy Group, who specializes in farmer debt problems. "Retirement or liquidation can be taxing literally." says Morrow. When a farmer quits he usually gets rid of some equipment or land and may settle out part of the debt. All these raise tax issues. Even worse, a foreclosure may be taxable. A farmer can be out of business, broke and still owe taxes."

The problem is, the IRS considers both voluntary liquidation, such as retirement, and foreclosure to be a sale of assets subject to capital gains taxes. Particularly where equipment is involved, it may have been fully depreciated and sales proceeds may taxable as a capital gain, even if no cash is received by the farmer.

Also, if any portion of debt is

A farmer can get a big tax not fully paid it may be subject to ordinary income taxes. If careful planning is not made, both taxes can be due upon retirement or foreclosure, or even in what may seem like a routine debt restructuring.

Fortunately the IRS rules allow many people to avoid these taxes with proper planning. The rules are complex and input from an experienced accountant will be important. But, a farmer should equip himself with a basic understanding of these taxes as he thinks through important decisions about his business. A new book, Income Tax and Farm Debt Restructuring is written in plain English and offers practical examples of how these taxes work. It is authored by Pete Morrow and David Bott, CPA and is available from Westwood Press, P.O. Box 34505, Phoenix, AZ 85067. $14.95 Prepaid.

"The key is to plan to avoid the taxes before retiring, liquidating or restructuring or getting the near future. Carey was instruforeclosed on" notes Morrow. "Tax planning is like a toothbrush. Don't take a trip without it, but it's no good after you get your teeth kicked in.'

City of Winters Employee of the Month for December

The City of Winters Employee of the Month for December is Carey Balentine. Currently serving as the Chief of Police for Winters, Carey is recognized for his performance and punctuality.

December was a trying month for Carey, as he was involved in finding a replacement for an officer that had resigned. Finding someone as quickly as possible, with good qualifications, who was willing to serve in a small department proved to be quite a challenge. Carey was equal to the challenge, and a new patrolman was added to the force within a short time.

Chief Balentine and his staff have put a great deal of time and effort into the development of an operational policy for the Police Department. This project is near completion. Also, Chief Balentine hopes to implement a Neighborhood Crime Watch program in mental in the acquisition of a new squad car which was recently added to the existing fleet of Police Department vehicles.

For these and numerous other accomplishments, Carey Balentine was selected Employee of the Month for December.

Chief Balentine, when informed of his selection, stated, "I would like to take the time to express my gratitude for being chosen as the Employee of the Month. I think the City of Winters is very fortunate to have the quality of people that are currently employed by the City. I am also very proud of the strides that the Police Department in Winters has made in the past year. I would also like to thank all of the officers of the Winters Police Department for the excellent job that they are doing. We at the Winters Police Department are dedicated to the maintenance of law and order for the citizens of Winters.'

Young Farmer's 39th annual convention held in Abilene

Chapter participated in the 39th annual convention, January 14-16, held in Abilene at the Civic center. Representing the local chapter were Scotty Belew, Dale and Linda Duggan, Randall and Susan Conner, and Rodrick, Jill, Lori and Leah Bredemeyer. Also representing Winters was the caterer for the event, Hollis and Betty Dean and their capable staff. In the exhibit hall, Winters was represented by WinTex wheat.

Young Farmer leaders from across the state met to hear speakers about agriculture and trade experiences, receive awards, and conduct the business of the organization. Texas Young Farmers are agriculturalists under 41 years of age who operate local organizations with objectives of education, leadership, community service, and recreation.

Keynote speaker for this year's convention was Congressman Charles Stenholm. He was also

The Cowpoke and the Rain

He sat and watched as a tumbleweed Made its way 'cross the dry, dusty plain, Then he asked the Lord of creation "Lord, why won't You just let it rain?

The pastures are dry and barren. Even goats can't find much to eat. I'm so tired of hauling them water. Buck and Jake's old bodies are beat.

In the Good Book, You told us to ask You And to trust You in everything. It's just hard to watch the stock suffer When all we need is some rain.

I never did gather much wisdom; Just a faith that Your love would endure. I'm not trying to run Your business. This old ranch needs some rain, now, for sure.

clude: removing the description eliminated. Red Durum wheat from the definition of Unclassed wheat; re- of his or her future Social Security 772-1213. ducing the U.S. sample grade teria for factors which may cause U.S. sample grade; reducing ergot limits; reducing the minimum criteria for the special grade light smutty wheat; and, reducing the grading limits for foreign material in grades 1, 2, and 3.

Foltz said these refinements in grading standards are part of meeting in Ballinger for the first of Christmas in April USA will FGIS' ongoing effort to respond to changing needs of the U.S. wheat marketing system. They will better define the quality of U.S. wheat subject to official inspection.

FGIS also revised the Cu-Sum statistical shiploading plan tolerances for wheat based on these changes.

The revisions become effective May 1, 1993.

USDA amends U.S. sorghum standards

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Grain Inspection Service today revised the U.S. standards for sorghum.

According to administrator John C. Foltz, the revisions reduce the maximum "broken kernels and foreign material" (BNFM) limits for U.S. No. 2 sorghum by 1 percent and for U.S. Nos. 3 and 4 by 2 percent; establish grade limits for foreign material; reduce the amount of Brown sorqhum allowed in Yellow sorghum from 10 to 3 percent; modify the classification terminology for the classes Yellow and Brown sorghum; and revise the definitions for all classes of sorghum.

These changes, Foltz said, will encourage the production and delivery of high quality U.S. sorghum and facilitate its orderly marketing.

FGIS also is changing the Cu-Sum statistical shiploading plan tolerances for sorghum based on these revisions.

These revised standards will become effective June 1, 1993.

Government pensions may reduce social security benefits

"Government employees benefits by filling out a request planning to retire soon should be aware that their Social Security benefits may be reduced by their government pension," said Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo.

Social Security benefits are generally reduced for people who also receive a pension from a job where they did not pay Social Security taxes. This usually applies to former Federal Government employees," said Upp, "although some State and local government employees didn't pay into Social Security so they also may be affected."

Benefits are reduced to eliminate a "windfall" that government employees received before the law was changed in 1983. Upp explained that Social Security benefits are geared to pay a higher rate of return to low wage earners. "For example," he said, "low paid workers could receive benefits up to 90 percent of their pre-retirement earnings. Highly paid workers receive considerably less." Before 1983, Social Security benefits for government employees were computed as if they were lowwage employees, giving them the The U.S. Department of advantage of the higher Social Agriculture's Federal Grain In- Security rate plus their spection Service today published government pension. However, Upp cautioned government employees that their estimates may not accurately reflect their actual benefit. "That's because Social Security cannot calculate other pensions at the time an estimate is issued," he said. "However, when a person actually files for retirement benefits, information he or she provides about other pensions is included in the computation process and benefits are reduced accordingly."

The estimate statement Social Security provides includes a section, "Government Pensions and Social Security Benefits," specifically designed to alert government employees that "...your Social Security benefits and those of your spouse may be lower than the amounts shown on this statement.'

People who want a free estimate of their benefits should contact Social Security for the request form. Government employees should also ask for the free fact sheet, "A Pension From Work Not Covered by Social Security," which explains in detail how the adjustments are made and should help the reader determine any reductions to make to his or her estimate.
