Council adopts city curfew ordinance

The proposed city curfew ordinance for minors was adopted by a unanimous Winters City Council, Monday, June 28th. The effective date for the ordinance will be announced later. All council members were present for this meeting.

Please see "Curfew ordinance" on page 3 for a detailed outline.

At the Monday night meeting, the ordinance was first discussed with an explanation given by City Attorney Kenneth Slimp. It was also mentioned by City Administrator Aref Hassan that some corrections had been made on the earlier draft.

There was a brief discussion concerning the Dispatching Service Agreement Winters has with the city of Ballinger. "The present agreement will expire as of September 30, 1993, and if any changes are to be made, then same should be discussed 60-days prior to expiration," Mayor Joe Gerhart explained.

The Dispatching Agreement was tabled unanimously by the Council for further study.

City Administrator Aref Hassan explained he needed the Council's approval to sign a letter of intent with Davis, Kinard and Co., P.C. to become the City auditors for the fiscal year 92-93 budget. This was passed by a unanimous Council vote.

The Council passed the Texas Municipal League Interlocal Agreement which deals with all the City's insurance needs.

A unanimous Council voted to begin the process to change to single member districts and recommended using the LULAC's lawyer, Rolando L. Rios. This method would cost perhaps $5,000 to $7,500 with a friendly lawsuit rather than $25,000 or more if the City had fought the suit.

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1993

People just keep getting smarter and smarter, it seems.

Some guys out in far west Texas have figured out a way to beat the electrical utilities at their own game: peak demand pricing.

For those of you who may not be familiar with peak demand pricing, it is a method of billing an industrial electrical customer for electricity used. It is designed to discourage (higher rates) use at peak demand times and reward (lower rates) usage at off-peak demand times. The only problem was, at least in the oil patch, only the electrical utility knew when the peak time was and so the operator just had to live with the higher rates whenever they were billed.

Another problem was that an operator needed to pump his wells for revenue whenever they most needed pumping without regard for when it might be cheaper to run the electric motor required to move the pumps up and down. So, if the peak demand time just happened to be between noon and 3 p.m. the operator was not able to know this for sure nor was he/she able to afford to stop pumping his/her wells at that time everyday.

It seems these guys were able to negotiate a 'dual demand rate' for their electrical charges from a rural electrical cooperative. This allows a charge for electricity to be based on a peak demand from the users standpoint and the peak demand for the utility as a whole. This combination leaves a window for the operator to keep his own demand from peaking (leaving out the load), and, if he/she is smart enough, to try to predict the utility's peak demand and avoid using as much electricity during that period.

The group in west Texas developed a computer system for a large number of wells centrally located that monitors the load requirement from the pumping wells and helps keep it lower. The system also has a component that allows a close estimation of when the utility's peak load will be, thus instructing the main control computer and the pump to schedule down time, etc. so as to minimize usage during that period.

The operator of a small number of wells will still have the same problem with not being able to shut down just to save electricity, but a larger operator with several wells in close proximity can schedule maintenance etc. to reduce their own demand during peak rate periods. In wells where a full 24 hours is not required to pump a well, the operator can also be creative to shift production time to maximize production but minimize peak load demands.

Of course, if the field installation has other electrical consuming components, that equipment can be shut down before any wells are shut down so as to minimize lost production and still meet load reduction requirements.

Estimating the utility's peak demand is tricky but has been done correctly consistently by the west Texas operators. It is done mainly by monitoring the temperature and weather data that is available from the utility and other sources. Historical load data also can be utilized to predict patterns that are inherent in a local area's usage patterns that will participate in peak demand episodes.

The evaluation of the program implemented to save these electrical costs can get complicated, especially when discussing the cost of deferred production during shutdown periods, etc. But, it is readily apparent that a lot of money can be saved. In this reported case, it amounted to one month's operating cost (everything-not just electricity).

That is nothing to sneeze at. That kind of saving can make a money-losing lease a money-making one. The tough thing will be applicability to smaller operators with more diversely situated wells.

It hasn't happened on such a broad scale just yet, but, who knows. Like I said, people just keep getting smarter and smarter...

A Special Day to Some

M.L. Dobbins and I have known each other for many years, but didn't know that we had the same birthday until Friday, May 28, when "Happy Birthday" was sung by the senior citizens at the Activity Center.

We were the center of attention as birthday cakes, cup cake size topped with miniature candles, were presented to us.

Although I discovered America several years before M.L., there is something exciting about finding a birthday Pal. He congratulated me and offered to let me read his birthday book sent by his grandson.

My first birthday pal was Mae Mills back in the 1930's. She and Bernice were our neighbors in the Independence community. We developed the custom of having cake and a freezer of ice cream on our mutual birthday. The word got around and we had so many visitors on that day we decided to discontinue the custom.

When we moved to town I discovered that Nadeen Smith and I have the same birthday. On one of Dean Smith's Magic Travel Tours, I was surprised that Dean and his bus driver have the May 28 birthday. Wayne and Virgil Roberts' son, Jim, has the same birthday. I'm sure there are many others.

From Dobbins' birthday book we see that some important events happened on May 28. In 1980, the United States Military Academy graduated the first woman in its 174-year history. President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed a bill inserting "under God" into the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag in 1954.

Back in 1957, the baseball National League clubowners voted to allow the Brooklyn Dodgers to move to Los Angeles and the New York Giants to San Francisco.

In 1959, the U.S. Army launched two female monkeys into a 15-minute sub-orbital space flight from Cape Canaveral. Navy frogmen rescued the monkeys 1,700 miles away.

There are many ways to celebrate your birthday, depending on your age. If it's 1915 and you've been a good kid, you might spend your birthday setting up your new electric train set. The new enamel sets from American Flyer are priced for everyone at $10. A year later you can spend your birthday working out the first crossword puzzles, created for the Sunday supplement to the New York Times.

By 1931, you can take a thrilling view from the top of the Empire State Building, dedicated this month. Two years later, you might be honored with a musical birthday greeting when you receive one of the first singing telegrams.

By 1935, the birthday present of choice is a new Mickey Mouse watch at a cost of $3.00. Little girls might receive an adorable Shirley Temple doll that sells for $3.00.

By 1945, if you want to get fancy, spend your birthday week on a dude ranch for $32.50. Three years later one can go wild with up to "31-plus" flavors available from the first Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor. Add another year and birthday party pictures can be taken with the new Polaroid Land Camera.

By 1964, you don't need a gourmet meal to make you happy, a 15¢ McDonald's hamburger will take its place.

Time marches on and so do prices, but senior adults can eat a home-cooked meal for $2.00 at the Activity Center, birthday or not.

From The Well

by
Pastor Jim Hanson
St. John's Lutheran Church

Sunday is the 4th of July. What really is supposed to happen that day? How am I supposed to celebrate this day? What feelings am I supposed to have?

I know what we are celebrating. July 4, 1776, was a most important day in the life of our nation. We declared our independence from England. We fought the most powerful nation on earth and won. "Give me liberty or give me death" was the way Patrick Henry said it. "Taxation without representation is tyranny" said a lot. The war cost us dearly in men and money. Our government has always been broke. But the issue was freedom and freedom costs. Democracy is expensive. Dictatorships are cheap.

The Declaration of Independence contains holy words. "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal...we do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be free and independent states...and for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor!"

In the debate that preceded the signing, John Adams stood up. He spoke with such quiet power and conviction, "Before God, I believe the hour has come. My judgement approves this measure, and my whole heart is in it. All that I have, and all that I am, and all that I hope in this life, I am now ready here to stake upon it. And I shall leave off as I began, that live or die, survive or perish, I am for the declaration. It is my living sentiment, and by the blessing of God it shall be my dying sentiment. Independence now, and independence forever!" Powerful words.

They paid. In bucks, in dollars and cents. Thomas Jefferson lent the government he helped establish so much money that he practically bankrupted himself. He was never paid off.

Such men. Such commitment. We are so blessed to live in such a great land. To be sure, we have problems, big problems. And there is never enough money.

But we are still "one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." We need to develop patriotism, a love of country again. Is taking a day off, going to the beach, picnicking, racing around the way to celebrate? Is lighting a few crackers and drinking a few beers the way to say "thank you", to express our appreciation to those founding fathers and their God for the freedom we enjoy?

How do I, how do we, best celebrate the 4th? Quite honestly, I know of no better way than to do it in church. This year the 4th falls on Sunday. From your well and from mine, let songs of thanksgiving and praise rise up for the privilege of living in "the land of the free and the home of the brave." I do believe it's how best to celebrate the 4th of July.

Crews News by Hilda Kurtz

Hardship is when we have to do without things our grandparents never heard of.

Very few attended the Hope-well Baptist Church service and annual fellowship dinner Sunday. Sharon Craft was a visitor.

Our sympathy goes out to the families of R.B. McKnight. He was laid to rest in Old Runnels Cemetery Saturday. R.B. and his wife farmed north of Crews for several years in their younger days.

Selma and Hazel Dietz attended the Martin reunion Sunday in San Angelo. There were 36 in attendance. Afterward they went by Shannon Hospital to visit Harvey Mae Faubion.

Georgia and Connie Gibbs were in Bronte Sunday afternoon to see their niece, Ouida Fay Scott, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schafer hosted supper and 42 Saturday night. Present were Herbert and Evelyn Jacob, James and Lorena Halfmann, Jerry and Frances Holly, Earl and Pat Cooper, Hattie Minzenmeyer, Margie Jacob and Lee Halfmann. Game winners were Lorena, Hattie and Lee.

Margie Jacob visited Bertha Gray and others at Our House on Monday.

Ruth Pape has returned home after six days in Houston with her daughter, Elaine Kennedy of Tampa, Florida and Ruth's sons, Lee Ueckert and David Craig, and her grandson. The men were working to repair Elaine's rent house in Houston.

Ruth got to hear David's band perform while she was in Houston. She has talked to Elaine since she returned to Florida.

Gary Hill of Eastland spent four days with Claudia Hill. Mike Hill and his friend, Judy, of Sweetwater spent the week end. Mr. and Mrs. James Lantham of Abilene came and brought a delicious watermelon.

Coleman Foreman is in room 348 at Shannon Hospital following quadruple bypass surgery Thursday evening. Lawan talked to him Sunday a.m. He has some good days and some not so good. They have him up and walking some.

Wayne and Eris Foreman of Arlington are spending several days with Lawan. Mary Warren of Winters comes out every day to help out.

Audine, Dennis and Roy McBeth are spending a while with Chester McBeth, who is recuperating nicely at home. Audine took Chester to Midland last week for his checkup with the doctor. Saturday night Gene Phillips and son, Paul, of Dallas visited. Others visiting during the week were Nila and Therin Osborne, Georgia and Connie Gibbs, Roland and Linda Phillips.

Hilda Kurtz enjoyed a visit with daughter, Hildegard Asbury, and granddaughter, Leila, and Homer Eggemeyer of San Angelo. Also Randall Kurtz, who had dinner with Hilda and helped with odd jobs.

Fairy and Wilber Alcorn attended church services at West Side Baptist Church in San Angelo on Sunday. After services there was an appreciation dinner for Linda and Johnnie Denson.

Jarrell and Mary Jane Gibbs of Brownwood visited Fairy and Wilber on Sunday evening.

Sharon Craft of Abilene spent the week end with Bernice, Rodney and Brian Faubion. Kathy and Dan Phillips of Abilene, Jason Harshman and his friend, Scott, of Bedford all visited Sunday afternoon. On Thursday Bernie met her friend, Patty Curnutt, in Ballinger for lunch and visiting.

Members of Harvey Mae Faubion's family are taking turns spending time with Harvey Mae in San Angelo. She remains in therapy.

Nila and Therin Osborne spent part of Saturday with Helen Brevard in Coleman.

Frances Mincy and her friend, Peggy Freeland, of Austin have returned from a trip to Bransom, Missouri.

Doris Wood and Frances Mincy visited with Bobbie and Larry Calcote in Winters Sunday night and enjoyed supper.

Tiffany and Jeremy Prater are attending 4-H encampment in Brownwood this week.

TxDOT provides scholarships to minority students

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) last fall began an engineering scholarship program to help minority students attend college. The Conditional Grant Program pays each recipient up to $2,500 per semester, depending upon the student's tuition, fees and verifiable financial need.

Ramon Navarro of Falfurrias graduated in May from Texas A&I University, becoming the first of the scholarship students to graduate. The Conditional Grant Program began with 38 students.

The program is conditional because students must agree to work for the department for two years immediately after graduation or pay back the grant. Students also must carry a minimum of 12 hours of coursework and maintain a 2.5 grade-point average. Navarro will put his civil engineering degree to use in TxDOT's new Laredo District office.

High school seniors and college students who are Texas residents and members of minority groups are eligible.

YOUR SAFETY FREE THINGS TO SEND FOR

Ideas for Safety from Grinnell College

Staying On The Road To Safety While Traveling

(NAPS)—Students at Grinnell College have compiled a booklet of advice for motorists who may become stranded on the highway. The pamphlet also contains a state-by-state comprehensive list of emergency telephone numbers.

Before You Leave:

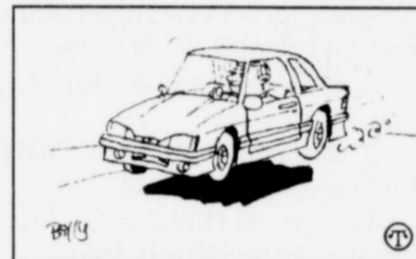

- Plan travel routes to avoid unsafe or unfamiliar areas.
- Fill your tank with gas.
- Check all fluids.
- Test air pressure in the tires.
- Tell someone your route and estimated time of arrival.
- Keep in your car a blanket, a "Send Help" sign, a spare tire and jack, basic tools such as a screwdriver and wrench, a flashlight, quart of oil, five dollars and a pen and paper.

When You're En Route

- Pay attention to your surroundings. Look for landmarks and highway mile markers.
- Park only in well-lighted areas where an attendant can see you.
- Lock your car at all times.
- Drive to a public place if you're bumped from behind and don't feel safe stopping.
- Don't get out of your car without looking for danger first.
- Don't pick up hitchhikers or ride with anyone you don't know.

If Your Car Breaks Down

- Park as far off the traveled portion of the highway as possible.
- Turn on the four-way emergency flashers.

If your car breaks down when you're on the road, stay in it. If anyone stops to help, ask him or her to send the police.

- Open the hood.
- Tie a light-colored cloth to the antenna or traffic-side door handle.
- Place a "Send Help" sign in your window.
- Try to stay with your vehicle until a police officer arrives.
- If anyone stops to help, stay in the car, crack open the window and ask him or her to help.
- If you do leave the vehicle, leave a note with your name, the date and time you left, the direction you're going, what you're wearing, a description and license number of any vehicle you get in and the driver's name.

Grinnell students formed the group Fearless to promote highway safety following the roadside slaying of a fellow student. To obtain a copy of the pamphlet, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Highway Safety Booklet, Grinnell College, 1119 Park Street, P.O. Box 805, Grinnell, Iowa 50112-0810.

AWARD WINNING WRITER — Brittney Rendon (left), age 8, was recently named First Place winner at Bear Creek Elementary School in Euless. Brittney won a state-wide writing contest in May sponsored by Rising Star Magazine. She received a ribbon and a certificate signed by Governor Richards in ceremonies held at Iden Payne Theater at the University of Texas. Several writers and publishers of children's books made the presentations. She is shown with her sister Heather, age 7. They are the daughters of Missy Rendon of Euless and John Rendon of Euless. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Rendon, Sr., of Victoria, and Mrs. Nadine Bedford of Winters. Brittney's story, The Three Lonely Monsters, appears below.

The Three Lonely Monsters

by BRITTNEY RENDON

First place winner-second grade

Long ago there lived three monsters. They were named Josh, Cody and Joey. They were friendly monsters but they didn't have any friends. They wanted a friend but since they lived in a gloomy dark cave no one lived around them. They were very sad.

One day they heard some noises that they never heard before. They heard a car a few blocks away. They looked and saw a little girl. But the little girl didn't see them. The little girl's name was Jacqui.

One day the monsters decided to go for a walk. They went right where the new girl lived. When they walked down her street all the boys and girls ran right in their houses. But the new little girl didn't run in her house.

She said, "Hello." The monsters said, "Aren't you going to run in your house?" "No," said Jacqui. "Well why not?" asked the monsters. "Because I want a new friend, so I guess it would be you three," said Jacqui.

They played hide and go seek and Cody was it. After that they played tag and Cody was it again.

Then Jacqui's mom called her to come and eat dinner. "Bye-bye," said Jacqui to the three monsters. "See you tomorrow," said the monsters.

The next day Jacqui and the monsters went to the park and played soccer. They had fun.

Then they walked back to their houses to get their roller blades.

When the three monsters got to Jacqui's house they asked, "Where's your rollerblades?" "I don't have any," said Jacqui sadly. "That's ok," said Josh, "you can borrow one of my pairs."

Josh went to get his other pair of roller blades. "I don't know how to roller blade," said Jacqui. "Hmm, I know," said Joey, "you can hang on to my tail!" "Ok, that sounds good!" Jacqui said excitedly. So the rest of the day they roller bladed until it was time to go home.

When they were roller blading the kids on the street saw Jacqui and the three monsters playing together. They saw that the monsters were nice and asked the monsters if they would be friends. The kids also asked Jacqui if she would be their friend. Jacqui and the monsters said yes they would be their friends.

So after that day the monsters knew everybody on the street and were very very happy because they weren't lonely anymore.

WCTCOG to conduct cancer survey over 19-county area

One in every three Texans will develop cancer in his or her lifetime. Since cancer is the second leading cause of death in Texas, the West Central Texas Council of Governments is concerned how this affects the individuals who reside in its 19-county region. Due to the minimal data that has been collected on surviving cancer-related cases, the extent to which cancer affect those in our region has been difficult to determine.

The West Central Texas Council of Governments is conducting a cancer survey throughout their region to measure 1) needs of cancer patients 2) resources available for cancer patients 3) the awareness of these resources. Those asked to participate will be chosen at random within the 19-county area. This is the first study of its kind in the Big Country and could mean additional funding toward cancer services in rural West Texas.

This survey is being conducted to document a need for more cancer services in our area. After the survey is complete and the primary needs are identified, the WCTCOG will bring together all county and city officials, resources, and concerned citizens to discuss solutions that address these needs. The information gathered in this survey will be made available to the public.

If you receive a survey please complete it to the best of your ability. This is an opportunity for your valued opinions to be heard on what is needed in cancer services in your area. Filling out the survey will be a great service to your community.

Bylaws of Coleman County Electric Cooperative ARTICLE II

Meeting of Members
Section 1. Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of members shall be held at such time, during the month of July as the Board of Directors may direct, and such meeting shall be held at such place in the Cooperative service area, as shall be designated in the notice of the meeting for the purpose of electing directors, passing upon reports covering the previous fiscal year, and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting. If the election of directors shall not be held on the day designated herein for any annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, the Board of Directors shall cause the election to be held at a special meeting of the members as soon thereafter as conveniently may be. Failure to hold the annual meeting at the designated time shall not work a forfeiture or dissolution of the Cooperative.

Section 2. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the members may be called by the President, by the Board of Directors, or by a majority thereof or upon a written request signed by at least ten per centum (10%) of all members and it shall thereupon be the duty of the Secretary to cause notice of such meeting to be given as hereinafter provided. Special meetings of the members may be held at any place within the County of Coleman in the State of Texas specified in the notice of the special meeting, or elsewhere within the area served by the Cooperative as may be designated by the Board of Directors.

Section 3. Notice of Members' Meetings. Written or printed notice stating the place, day, and hour of the meeting and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall be delivered not less than ten (10) days nor more than twenty (20) days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, or at the direction of the Secretary, or by persons calling the meeting, to each member, provided, however, that with respect to all meetings at which directors are to be elected such notice shall be so delivered not less than ten (10) days nor more than fourteen (14) days before the date of the meeting. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail, addressed to the member at his address as it appears on the records of the Cooperative, with postage thereon prepaid. The failure of any member to receive notice of an annual or special meeting of the members shall not invalidate any action which may be taken by the members at any such meeting.

Section 4. Quorum. As long as the total number of members does not exceed one thousand (1,000), at least fifteen per centum (15%) of the total number present in person shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings of the members. In case the total number of members shall exceed one thousand (1,000) then at least one hundred fifty (150) of the members present shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings of the members. If less than a quorum is present at any meeting, a majority of those present in person may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

Section 5. Voting. Each member shall be entitled to one (1) vote and no more upon each matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of the members. At all meetings of the members at which a quorum is present all questions shall be decided by a vote of a majority of the members voting thereon in person or by mail, except as otherwise provided by law, the articles of incorporation of the Cooperative or by these bylaws. If a husband and wife hold a joint membership they shall jointly be entitled to one (1) vote and no more upon each matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of the members.

Section 6. Voting by Mail. In addition to the method of voting for directors of the Cooperative as provided by the existing bylaws and by a member being present and voting in person, each member shall be and is hereby permitted to vote by mail for directors of this association. At the time notices of members' meetings are given as provided by Article II of these bylaws and with a notice of member's annual meeting, or any postponement thereof, there shall be sent to each member either personally or by mail a ballot which shall contain the names of all members who have been nominated as candidates for directors with a statement of the number to be elected and with appropriate instructions to the member to vote for such members; EACH MEMBER SHALL BE INSTRUCTED AFTER VOTING FOR THE REQUIRED NUMBER TO SIGN SAID BALLOT AND RETURN THE BALLOT TO THE CO-OPERATIVE AT ITS OFFICE PRIOR TO THE DATE OF SAID MEETING. Said ballots when so received shall be retained and placed in a locked ballot box until the date of the members' meeting at which time shall be delivered to the inspectors of Election and counted together with the votes cast in person at such members' meeting. The Directors who receive a plurality of the vote shall be elected. Drawing by lot shall resolve, when necessary, any tie votes.

Section 7. Order of Business. The order of business at the annual meeting of the members, and so far as possible at all other meetings of the members, shall be essentially as follows:

1. Report the existence of a quorum.
2. Reading of the notice of the meeting and proof of the due publication of mailing thereof, or the waiver or waivers of notice of the meeting, as the case may be.
3. Reading of unapproved minutes of previous meetings of the members and the taking of necessary action thereon.
4. Presentation and consideration of, and acting upon, reports of officers, directors and committees.
5. Election of directors.
6. Unfinished business.
7. New business.

"TV—the Battle for Control"

If you hear screaming coming from our house, please don't be alarmed or summon the police. We're just watching TV.

The shrieks of pain you hear are mine. My wife has probably got her dainty little hands around my throat, trying her best to choke the life out of me. We won't be arguing over money, romance, or even who has to wash the dishes. No, it's much more serious than that - it's who gets their mitts on the TV remote control!

It all started when we relocated to town from our previous home in the middle of a cotton field. Out on Route 1, television watching was a choice of three channels at best and that's about all there was to it.

Upon moving to town, we were looking forward to joining the rest of the 20th century. We had heard of exciting new concepts like streetside garbage pick-up, paved roads, yards with curbs, and best of all - cable TV!

Adjustments to town living have gone smoothly enough, I guess. But watching TV in the city has been somewhat tense from the moment the cable man flipped the switch on the pole outside.

Our daughter, a second grader, is pretty reasonable with the advent of cable in our lives. As long as she gets to watch Michelle on Full House and a few assorted cartoons, she is largely content in her television viewing. It's her mother that drives me crazy!

What other reason is there to have cable than to be exposed to new and different things? My wife took one trip around the cable cycle, called it quits, and went back to channels 8, 9 or 12 for keeps. I disagree. There is more to television life, I have discovered, than Knot's Landing or Oprah Winfrey.

My argument is that we could have watched that stuff when we lived out with the boll weevils. I want to see what lies on the other 32 channels. I want to see what I have been missing out on for all these many years.

Take today for example. We happened to both come home for lunch at the same time. Before I can get parked, my wife, who leaves her car running in the street, beats me in a foot race to "the control." The set comes on and it's channel 33 in all its glory. There's a guy showing all there is to know about framing a house and caulking a gutter.

Just as I'm pleading to watch how he centered the ceiling joist, she programs over to everyday-run-of-the-mill channel 8 and The Young and the Restless. Instead of learning how to rain-proof the basement, we get to watch Victor and Nikki fall in and out of love for about the ten thousandth time.

That remote control is a marvelous thing. By flipping through the channels like a dog gone mad, I can watch at least three basketball and/or football games, the Discovery channel, world and local news, a couple of John Wayne movies, Andy Griffith reruns, country music videos, Bonanza, a hockey fight, and the American Gladiators - all at the same time! It's just getting hold of the darn thing that counts.

If you're of the female sector, I bet you're saying to yourself, "What's the American Gladiators?" And therein lies the problem. For the most part, wives seem to possess little sense of adventure when it comes to TV watching. On the other hand, guys pretty much have a universal TV motto - "If there's a commercial or maybe even if there's not, we're flipping that baby to see what else is on!"

I'm not for sure how this will all turn out. My wife is determined, yet so am I. Aside from our house, I don't hear much screaming on our block. Apparently, other families have resolved the TV remote control dilemma.

Maybe the answer lies in what 1990's families seem to have the most of - two's. Two cars, two kids, two incomes, and now two TV's. Or maybe, for husbands, the newness of cable just wears off after awhile, I don't know.

But for now, in our family, it's a control thing. Whoever has that remote in their clutches has power and dominion throughout TV watching time. And whoever runs the most stop signs and gets home first is in prime position for control of "the control."

That's O.K. by me. I've already cleared it with my boss to get off early.....

Pest Management News

by Richard Minzenmayer
Extension Agent-Entomology (PM)
Runnels-Tom Green Counties

GENERAL SITUATION

Grain sorghum is looking great with few insect pest problems at this time. Cotton also looks great, but insect pressure is in a skyrocketing mode. Overwintered boll weevils could easily be found in area cotton fields this week. Cotton ranges from just emerging to approaching 1/3 grown square.

GRAIN SORGHUM

Milo producers will need to be alert to the potential pest "sorghum midge" as their sorghum begins to bloom. The sorghum midge is a tiny orange-colored fly. Damage results from larvae that hatch from eggs deposited by female midge in spikelets of flowering sorghum heads. Each female is capable of depositing about 50 tiny, yellowish-white eggs during her short life span of less than 24 hours. Feeding damage from this pest prevents kernel development.

Economic thresholds vary from 1 to 2 per head depending on the price of grain sorghum and the cost of the insecticide treatment. With grain prices currently low, treatment decisions become a little more difficult. The greater potential for return is when 20 to 90 percent of the field is blooming. If producers wanted to limit the number of applications, days 5-12 of a sorghum field blooming is when most of the crop is set, so two well-timed applications could cover 75% to 80% of potential grain production during those days.

Scouting should be done between 10:00 a.m. and noon. The single floret or seed is susceptible 1 day and a single head will bloom for 7 to 9 days. Susceptible grains are only those with yellow blooms or anthers.

Suggested insecticides for controlling sorghum midge are as follows: Lorsban® .5 pt/acre, Lannate® at 1-2 pt./acre, Malathion ULV at 8 oz./acre and others.

COTTON

Fields which were planted to cotton on or near the planting date will require overwintered weevil application the week beginning June 28th or sooner. Remember, treatments should be initiated at matchhead square stage. I would make it a point to go to each field and determine the growth stage of each and then make up a game plan on when you will start and what order they will need to be sprayed. Remember, spray applications must be applied prior to 1/3 grown square stage.

One nozzle over the row using a 20" band is adequate at this time. Many producers may choose to use Vydate CLV for the first application to kill both weevils and fleahoppers and use Guthion on the second application.

Insecticides recommended for overwintered weevil control include:

Insecticide	Amount/Acre	Acres/gal.
Guthion 2L	1 pint	8
Vydate C-LV	6.4-8.5 oz.	20-15
Vydate 2L	1 pint	8
Methyl Parathion 7.5E	4.3-8.5 oz.	30-15
Pennacp M 2F	1 pint	8
Malathion ULV (only)	8-12 oz.	16-11

How many applications will be necessary? No one can answer that question. We will just have to wait and see.

Fleahopper numbers remain fairly low and square sets remain high. Cotton really looks good and is responding well to the hot temperatures. Making of a bumper crop I bet!

I am currently trying to get around to all the pest management fields and this week I was able to visit Chris Bubenik, Stuart Gully, John Kocich, Nolan Niehues, Ripple Farms, Ralph Smetana Jr., Howard Pruser, Scotty Belew, Alvin Hallmark, and B. J. Colburn.

IN-FIELD SCOUT TRAINING CLINICS

There will be two in-field scout training clinics conducted by Richard Minzenmayer, Extension Agent-Entomology in July. These clinics will be held in Runnels and Tom Green counties.

The first clinic will be held on Tuesday, July 6 following the weekly 9:00 a.m. turnrow meeting held at Westside Gin in Wall. Clinic participants are asked to meet outside Westside Gin after the conclusion of the turnrow meeting.

The second clinic will be held on Wednesday, July 7 following the weekly 1:30 p.m. turnrow meeting held at Farmers Seed & Supply in Winters. Clinic participants are asked to meet outside Farmers Seed and Supply after the conclusion of the turnrow meeting. Turnrow meetings usually last about 30 minutes.

Topics covered will be scouting techniques, identification of cotton insect pests and beneficials, insect damage, square sets, and cotton plant development. Participants should bring questions and a magnifying lens (optional). Don't forget sunscreen, water, and a hat.

The clinics will last about 2 hours. These clinics are free of charge and open to the general public. All producers, scouts (sometimes called wives) and all persons interested in cotton production are invited and encouraged to attend.

For more information, please contact Rick Minzenmayer's office at 365-5212.
