Blizzard Booster Club to meet

Winters Blizzard Athletic Booster Club will be meeting August 2 at 7:30 in the Industrial Arts Building across from the gym.

All parents and fans are urged to attend.

The City of Winters has been awarded an "Urgent Need" grant in the amount of $350,000 by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs.

The grant is for emergency repairs to the Elm Creek Reservoir Dam, which was hit by extremely heavy winds and high water on December 20, 1991, causing damage to rip-rap, the built-up rock and stone along the dam. The damage is where the wind driven waves lapped at the rocks with fierce force constantly, over a period of time, and caused the rocks to literally wash away from the earthen dam and settle down into the lake bottoms.

David Swenemann, a member of the Dam Safety Team of the Flood Management and Groundwater Programs Section of the Texas Water Commission said in his May, 1993, report, "If the damaged upstream slope of the dam is not repaired, the dam will fail. A dam failure will drain the lake and result in loss of the city's drinking water supply. Floodflow resulting from a dam failure would be expected to cause loss of life and property in the city of Ballinger (15 miles downstream)."

This award is made through the Community Block Grant program of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Representatives of that office will assist the city in drawing up the contractual agreement.

In related action, Winters Mayor Joe Gerhart requested from the manager of the Texas Community Development Program, that Winters be granted an exemption from the professional services procurement requirements.

If the mayor's request is granted, this would allow the city to begin work as soon as possible on the reservoir dam improvements proposed and avoid the potential loss of water for the city.

"An exemption from the normal procurement requirements would enable us to immediately select a qualified grant program administrator and project engineer and begin the project," said the mayor.

Football tickets to go on sale

Sale of season tickets for the 1993 Winters High School football season will begin Monday, August 9, 1993, with a one week option period for people who had reserved seats last year and who wish to obtain the same seats this season.

Regular season ticket sales will begin Monday, August 16, 1993, and will close September 3, 1993, for fans who did not have season tickets last year. These season tickets will be sold on a first come, first serve basis.

Season tickets will be sold as a book of five tickets and will include all home games. Price per book will be $15.00. Tickets will be sold at the school business office between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on the dates specified.

Tickets for out-of-town games will be available at the business office on Wednesday morning until Friday noon prior to the game being played on Friday.

Tickets will also be on sale at each school secretary's office. Tickets for out-of-town games will be sold on a first come, first serve basis. Student tickets will be $2.00 if purchased at school before the game.

The first home game of the season will be September 10, 1993, with Wall.

OIL BIDNESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1993

It's time for our monthly feature on "Oil Patch Basics", and we are going to talk about investment benchmarks that one might expect to see in an oil and gas deal.

There are probably as many ideas on what makes a good deal in the oil patch as there are investors and promoters, but I will attempt to touch on the most common gauges of good value.

Usually, people rely on rules of thumb to allow them to think and deal "on their feet" to make quick decisions. Some of those to consider when deciding on oil and gas investments, acquisitions, etc. might include: the investment should not be any more than $25000 per barrel (or barrel equivalent of gas) of the expected initial production rate times the interest purchased; the expected monthly income from a drilling deal should not be less than 1/20th of the investment; or, the investment should not be any more than 365 times the current oil price times the expected initial production rate.

These are all just rules of thumb, which don't necessarily mean the deal is good.

The most rigorous method for determining good value requires lots of work to complete, but it gives the most scientific guess as to the financial expectations of a particular deal. This type of analysis is usually called a "cash-flow" or "present worth" evaluation, and it is not much different than similar analyses in other business ventures. It is simply the best guess as to what future income and expense to expect from an investment.

To reach a final answer, one must project a production stream from the proposed well or workover or whatever. Then, prices, operating expenses, taxes, etc. must be estimated and projected until the end of the production stream.

This type of analysis gives you two important results: future net revenue and net present value of the future net revenue.

The future net revenue is the money left over from the sale of oil and gas after capital expenditures and expenses (including production taxes but not Federal Income Tax). It is the profit.

Net present value is the (stick with me, here) value of that profit after accounting for how long you have to wait to get it. This concept is not an easy one to grasp if you are not familiar with it, but I'll try to illustrate it with an example.

If you had the choice of getting $1,000 today or $1,000 in five years, which would you select? The answer is obvious, but let's investigate why. By taking the money today, you can spend it on something you need now instead of waiting, but that is not the main reason it is worth more today than it will be in five years. The real reason is related to the investment power of that $1,000.

With $1,000 today, you could choose one of several investment vehicles: savings account, stock market, lemonade stand, etc. In every case, getting the money into the investment earlier gives you a better chance to make more money. The savings account is the easiest to illustrate by noting how much interest you could gain on that $1,000 in five years (about $150 at today's rates). If you don't get the money for five years, you lose that interest.

Net present value accounts for this time value of money by discounting the future net revenue according to a formula. This formula calculates how much money today would be required at some interest rate (think savings account) to be equivalent to the future net revenue.

Now, back to our main point. The net revenue and net present value are important as indicators of the return and profit potential on your initial investment in a deal. Some rules of thumb for a good deal: net revenue (profit) should be at least twice the initial investment; the net revenue in the first two years should be equal to the investment; and, at least two-thirds of the project's future net revenue should be collected in the first 5 years of a project.

Net present value directly indicates rate of return on an investment, so the only rule is that the investor is satisfied by how much money (discounted) he or she wants to make from a deal. This decision is usually made by comparing which investment alternative provides the most net present value at some selected interest rate (usually the prevailing prime rate).

All good value rules of thumb are 'first screens', at best. In other words, a deal is possibly good if it meets some indirect criteria, but the best indicator is a full present worth analysis. So, if you are making a deal, decide whether it is even worth considering by applying the rules of thumb, but go home and do a full present worth analysis before you lay down your money.

Uncle Rich Coffey

With the dedication of the historic Rich Coffey house recently at Lake Ivie, it is a good time to review the life of this sturdy pioneer.

According to H.D. Pearce, a Confederate veteran, who helped organize the county and served as its first postmaster, there were three families in the first little settlement called Pickettville. Houses were surrounded by picket fence enclosures for protection from the Indians. The Rich Coffeys, with their five children, joined the group a year later.

When a neighbor moved into the county, the area soon became too crowded for Rich Coffey, who was heard to complain that "If we had any more people it would be overcrowded. He's right in my backyard." The new neighbor's place was 13 miles from Coffey's ranch. "Uncle Rich," as he was known, later moved to a ranch on the Colorado River in Coleman County so isolated that a guard against Indians had to be maintained at all times.

When old-timers got together and began reminiscing, invariably the name of Uncle Rich Coffey was mentioned and several stories followed. Many of these stories were exaggerated versions of actual events and some were pure fabrication. It remained for a fellow Mason to write about him for the purpose of rescuing the real Rich Coffey for posterity.

Coffey was a strong man, about six feet tall and weighing over 200 pounds with an unusually thick chest and shoulders. His dress during the period of Civil War and afterward was picturesque indeed, a buffalo robe and cape to pull over his head with the buffalo tail attached for decoration.

A congregation in a log church near Dublin in the early seventies was startled by the sudden appearance of a large man dressed in bearskins. His long uncut hair and his clothing made him look more like a bear than a human being.

Rich Coffey was born in Georgia in 1823, where he grew to manhood and married Sallie Greathouse in 1854. The following year they moved to Texas and settled in Parker County. He engaged in cattle raising and also did some freighting.

In 1862, Rich Coffey bodily moved his family and cattle out beyond the most remote settler to Elm Creek near the present site of Ballinger. He soon moved farther into the wilderness.

The constant danger of Indian raids made it necessary to be on the alert at all times, and especially during "the light of the moon" each month when the Comanches usually made their invasions. Since the men were busy looking after the cattle, the care and most of the protection of the house was left to Mrs. Coffey and her daughters. In times of extreme danger "Aunt Sallie" kept a huge pot of lye soap boiling day and night to dash upon any redskin attempting to enter the ranch house.

By 1871, Rich Coffey had acquired a sizeable herd of cattle. He usually sold his cattle to neighboring ranchers, but on one occasion he let his own cowboys take a herd of 1,020 cattle "up the trail" to New Mexico. Nat Guest was placed in charge of the herd. John Coffey, the 15-year old son, was a regular cowhand while Bill, two years younger, wrangled the remuda of 54 horses. The herd was moved out on June 1, 1871.

The trail was stopped at noon at a large waterbed on the creek to water the cattle, when they were attacked by a band of some 100 Indians. After the fight was over, all the cowboys had escaped, save two, whose bodies were given burial.

The Indians had taken the entire herd of cattle and all horses in the remuda but two. A few months later, on Christmas Day, the Coffeys watched helplessly as the Indians drove away the remaining cows and horses. Without a word of self-pity for the work of nine difficult years gone, Rich Coffey set to work to regain his losses and was able to live his last years in comfort.

The sleepest mammal is said to be the armadillo, which spends up to 80 percent of its life sleeping or dozing.

Council tables cable request

The regular scheduled meeting of the Winters City Council met in the Council Chambers at City Hall, Monday, July 26. All members were present and the first item to be discussed in detail was agenda item four.

This was in reference to the FCC certification.

The mayor asked Marcus TV Cable manager Mark Poche to brief Council members on the proposed ordinance and agreement that he wants the Council to approve.

Poche stated that approval of the ordinance would save both the city and Marcus Cable time and money.

The Council voted to study this item further.

The matter of renewing the dispatch arrangement with Balingier was approved for another year.

The Mayor acknowledged William Corley to come forward and brief the Council on his view regarding the alley in the Grant Addition.

After much discussion this item was tabled for further study.

The next item for consideration by the Council was the matter of seal coating numerous streets in the city.

After a long discussion, it was voted affirmative to eliminate from the original list of streets to be seal coated, South Arlington Street from Floyd Street, south and to add State Street from South Church Street to South Arlington Street.

Other routine matters were approved, such as approval of bills payments and the acceptance of the minutes.

Council then adjourned.

I am writing this letter as a personal clarification of events that transpired at a public meeting held on July 15, 1993, and the letter to the editor by Mr. George Mostad published in the local newspapers. The public hearing was for public comments and was open to everyone. We (LULAC and Concerned Citizens) went to this meeting in order to express our views on the 5 & 2 plan as recommended by the present Board of Directors.

Mr. Mostad, your opinion that the 5 & 2 plan would be most beneficial to Winters I.S.D. was vastly outnumbered by those present at the public hearing and when asked for public comments during the meeting, I chose to speak on behalf of the 7 & 0 plan. No one spoke on behalf of the 5 & 2 plan. Two out of town people did ask questions, but I see nothing wrong with that because I would have asked them if they had not.

For the record, there are two things in life that I cannot tolerate and they are lying and racism. After the public hearing, George Mostad came up to me as I was turning to leave and asked "Why do you want to go 7 & 0?" Gary Pinkerton's mother and Mrs. Schwartz came to the sides of Mr. Mostad respectively. Charles Allcorn came over and said, "What hurt me, Yvonne, was why didn't ya'll sue the city like you did us? Why didn't you give the school the same deal you gave them?" I told Charles and all those present that "we had requested information from Mr. Lancaster in a letter, which was not given to us. If we (LULAC and Concerned Citizens) would have gotten the information we would have gone over it, chose spokespersons, and presented any questions or concerns to the school board. We couldn't shuffle fifty or so people into Mr. Lancaster's office to have him answer any questions that we had for the school board as he suggested in his letter. At this time, Michael Davis was standing to my left and Gary Pinkerton walked up and said, "None of us were ever contacted about this." Charles Allcorn agreed with him. Then Gary Pinkerton said, "we didn't even know we were being sued until we were served with the papers." I said, "you don't go tell someone you are suing them."

I asked Mr. Pinkerton if the school had insurance for litigation. He said, "yes, but it probably won't cover this." I then said well I'm sorry, we should have done this three years ago when we first began looking into single member districts. Mrs. Cathey asked me why we had waited and I told her so we could watch other cities that were going to Single Member Districts and see how well or bad they did. Mrs. Schwartz stated that there was no discrimination in the school amongst the students and that she had never seen a problem with it. When questioned with what is so bad about getting a Hispanic on the school board, she replied, "You know, since all of this started, the Hispanic students have been going around saying we're taking over the school board and we're going to fire you. I'm afraid of that happening."

Gary Pinkerton's mother then said that I had an attitude problem and shouldn't be messing the kids up. Our little Hispanic children are so happy in their own place, we don't need one of those on the school board." I told them they did not have very much faith in what our school system was putting out since they were so afraid of going 7 & 0. Mrs. Schwartz then told me, "Yvonne, you shouldn't be wasting your talents and energy on something like this, you should use them for something worthwhile."

Mr. Mostad, you neither asked me about any further contacts with Mr. Lancaster, nor about contacting the WISD trustees. I did not indicate that none of the trustees would talk to me as it would do no good as you stated in your letter in the 7/22/93 edition of the Winters Enterprise. As my husband stated after reading your remarks, "You don't just talk that little bit." I'm sure that anyone that really knows me would agree. I told someone that this was not personal with any of the school board, which it isn't.

I would like to note that this was all activity after the public hearing and Becky Ramirez was standing close by during these events and she may verify that this is a truthful recollection of this account. I still stand firmly behind my original recommendation at the public hearing that Winters ISD would benefit most by a 7 & 0 plan. In addition, I would like to stress that the lawsuit did not come about because of a personal vendetta against the school or someone at the school. It did come about because there has never been a Hispanic or other minority on the Winters Board of Trustees, and if this lawsuit were not filed then chances are there would never have been! In addition, I want the residents of Winters to know, that the implication Mr. Mostad made as to LULAC not being satisfied even if the school board agreed to go 7 & 0 is a BOLD LIE and MISREPRESENTATION. LULAC has been established in Runnels County for over 20 years and we have NEVER filed a lawsuit against the school or anyone else. We chose to file this one because we felt this was the only remedy to an extreme injustice against minorities and unequal representation. We also feel very strongly that the 7 & 0 plan will benefit low-income neighborhoods of Anglo and minority population as they will be afforded a better opportunity to get a representative on the School Board of Trustees. We were very much surprised during our visits with people in the community that a large number do not even know who the Board of Trustees are at Winters I.S.D.

The letter to the editor also gave the false impression that 7 new board members would be elected if the 7 & 0 plan was implemented and every three years all seats would come open. This is not true. While the implementation of the 7 & 0 plan would initially call for all seats to be elected, the elections would then be staggered just as they now are. Although it was implicated that the School Board could have 7 entirely new untrained board members that might not be able to handle a crisis, this is another exaggeration as the present board members would be entitled to run in their respective districts. I also realize that the Board relies heavily on the School Administrative staff for information and recommendations so it is not like new board members would be acting blindly.

One item that myself and Mr. Mostad do agree upon is that residents of Winters I.S.D. should voice their opinion, and this is what myself and many other residents of Winters I.S.D. were attempting to do at the Public hearing held July 15, 1993. I ask you to consider that there are two sides to every story and LULAC will gain nothing by this lawsuit. It is you the residents of Winters I.S.D. and your children that will benefit by formation of Single Member Districts by a greater opportunity to achieve Equal Representation! Respectfully,
Yvonne Blackshear

I am writing this letter regarding the formation of Single Member Districts for the Winters Independent School District. I attended the public hearing which was held on Thursday July 15, 1993, and was surprised by some of the comments that I heard.

I am not a minority, but I did take personal offense to what I would consider racial comments made by some. Prior to the meeting, I was just standing there and I had a gentleman approach me and ask me if there was anyone else coming to the meeting or was it just going to be those Mexicans. Other comments included I knew that this would be how this would turn out just a bunch of Mexican showing up. Also some present made statements that they represented groups that wanted to put a stop to this because they were afraid that they (meaning Hispanics) were going to take over.

I went to the meeting with the impression that it was a Public meeting designed to get public input, by Public I assumed it meant ALL. I was glad to see such a large attendance and it did not bother me that Hispanics showed up in such a large number to voice their opinion for a 7 & 0 plan. I would also like to note that although only Ms. Yvonne Blackshear, gave comment in favor of the 7 & 0 plan it was quite evident by the applause that the majority of the crowd favored this plan.

I also noticed that no comments were given on behalf of the 5 & 2 plan as proposed by the School Board. There were several in attendance that voiced comments after the meeting to the effect that they were not in favor of the 7 & 0 plan and it seemed they had fear concerning the change in the status quo that Single Member Districts would bring.

To those, I would like to remind them that studies have shown that within the next ten years Hispanics will become the MAJORITY in Texas. This changing trend is already evident by the fact that Winters I.S.D. school population is approximately 39% Hispanic and 41% minority population.

It seems to me that those in favor of the 7 & 0 plan are not interested in taking over, but just want Equal Opportunities and Representation. I also believe the large percentage of low-income residents should have the right for equal representation and I feel that the 7 & 0 plan would provide better opportunities for everyone.
Respectfully,
William Evrad

lyweds live in Oklahoma and were in attendance at the reunion. Donald and Nora Hambright also have a great-grandson, Christopher Lee Hambright, son of Aquilla Hambright and great-great-grandson of Clarence Hambright.

Commissioners pass resolutions

County commissioners passed several resolutions and conducted their normal routine during the regular scheduled meeting, Tuesday, July 13. Officials passed an Immunization Awareness Month Proclamation for the Texas Department of Health.

The proclamation designates July as Immunization Awareness Month. Commissioners also passed resolutions for the Texas Association County (TAC) and for bids on the sale of some property in Winters. Permission was granted for solicitation of sealed bids for property which is owned by Runnels County in the Winters area. This property was up for sale, but the bids received did not meet expectations and now officials will re-submit their sale of the land to be sold for the highest bid received.

TAC is a county organization that is made up by representatives from every county in the State of Texas. The group was asking Runnels County for their voting representative for the upcoming conference. Local officials voted to appoint Runnels County Judge, Michael B. Murchison, as the county representative. Murchison was asked to attend the meeting and cast votes on new bylaws and other TAC business.

Selected as alternate in case Murchison is unable to attend was Commissioner Skipper Wheelless.

Runnels County also entered into a new contract agreement with the City of Ballinger on an Inter-local 9-1-1 agreement. Murchison, along with Judy Miller, City Administrator, have been working together informally on a new contract according to Murchison. "Our current contract expires in October and we're just trying to stay ahead and get another contract in the works before this one expires," he said.

Officials were also scheduled to hear a presentation from a Pebco representative, but no representative showed up and no action was taken.

Also acted upon was the naming of election judges and alternates for the next election year.

Commissioners also heard reports by the auditor's and treasurer's offices, and approved accounts.

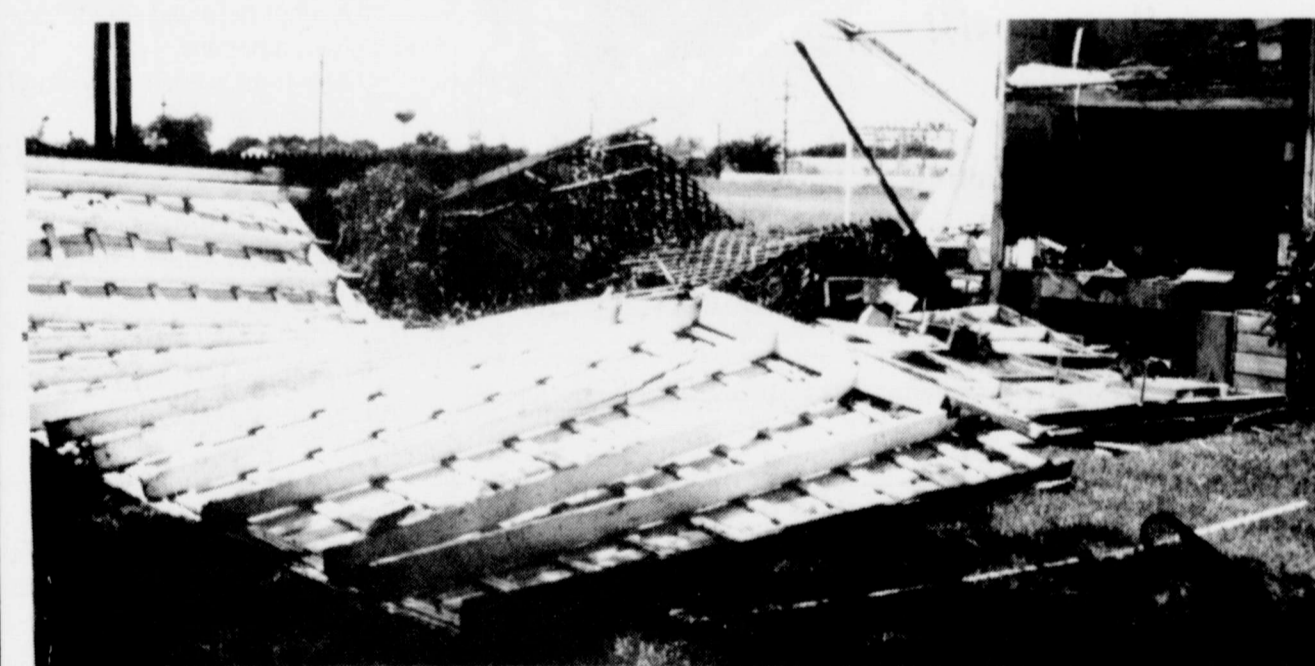

County officials then broke for lunch and returned for a public hearing on realignment of the Justice of the Peace Precincts in the District Courtroom.

Winters Police Beat

The information below is taken from reports on file with the Winters Police Department. Some of the information is provided to police by citizens, and in some cases, police have not finished investigating the reports.

Winters Police Department reports received and/or investigated from Sunday, July 18 through Saturday, July 24, 1993. Winters Police Officers:

- investigated a dog bite incident where two girls ages 11 and 13 were chased down and bitten by a dog. The dog was young and appeared to be in good health according to a veterinarian. The dog was quarantined for ten days.
- investigated a family violence disturbance call in the 200 block of West Pierce, the female victim left the scene prior to the arrival of police. The reporting officer determined that the offender and the victim were separated for the night and advised them of their right to file charges.
- investigated a criminal mischief incident which stemmed from the aforementioned family violence assault, where a son of the victim returned to the offender's residence and broke out several windows. This person was advised that he could prefer charges against the victim's son for criminal mischief.
- investigated yet another incident stemming from the above mentioned assault family violence call, where an individual threatened the person listed in the family violence call assault as the offender, and hit him several times with a baseball cap. Again persons were advised of their right to file charges.
- investigated a report from a local convenience store of internal theft. The investigating officer took the necessary information and advised the store/company officials that the case will be investigated, investigation continues.
- investigated an accident where Sonya Belk was driving a 1983 Buick Le Sabre eastbound on the Novice Road, and Nathan Collins was driving a 1977 Chevrolet pickup also eastbound. While Collins was attempting to pass on the left, Belk made a left turn and collided with Collins.

As stated in the last edition of the Police Report, all citizens were advised that there would be some address changes made to aid in response times for all emergency vehicles and departments. The Police Department is asking for your cooperation on this matter, and your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

The Winters Police Department would like to remind citizens to call 754-4121 for non-emergency calls and 9-1-1 for emergency calls. Using any other phone number to make reports causes delay.

Also, remember that the curfew went into effect July 8. The curfew pertains to juveniles (16 and under) between hours of 12 midnight and 6 a.m.

Runnels County Crimestoppers offers a cash reward for information which leads to the grand jury indictment or conviction of offenders and the caller does not have to give his or her name. To give a Crimestopper's tip, call your local law enforcement agency at:

504 program is aid to small businesses

Thanks to loans made by the Big Country Development Corporation, an independent arm of the West Central Texas Council of Governments, the dollar volume of the Small Business Administration's 504 program recently exceeded $2 billion in private funding through the bond market. The program has leveraged more than $2.5 billion in first mortgage loans from commercial banks.

Scott Davis, president of the National Association of Development Companies, stated "Because of the participation of the New York bond market, businesses with a net worth of less than $6 million get interest rates and terms that banks don't tend to offer to small firms. Also, participating in 504 gives banks incentive to make medium- to long-term commercial loans."

"The 504 program has helped more than 10 businesses in the West Texas region expand and create approximately 500 new jobs-jobs which are vital to our

Texas Sheep and Goat Commodity Board budget approved

The newly organized Texas Sheep and Goat Commodity Board, approved in a state-wide producer referendum late last year to raise funds for predator control, has had its proposed budget approved and can now seek ways to implement programs.

In a meeting held recently in Uvalde, board members decided that 85 percent of available monies would go toward "unique and specialized control" procedures that could be accelerated as funds permit. Of particular interest is more aerial hunting as well as increased ground level trapping personnel, reported Perry Bushong of Mountain Home, board chairman.

In a special report to members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association during its annual convention, Bushong said the board would consider program recommendations at its next meeting on Aug. 24. He asked producers to send in program ideas or call the board's San Angelo office with suggestions. The mailing address is TSGCB, Box 3543, San Angelo, Texas 76902, or telephone (915) 659-8777.

"We need producers to give us ideas. This is their board and we want them to have input in our decisions," Bushong said.

The board has discussed developing educational programs for land owners who have deer and other exotic game, but who are not presently participating in the control program.

"We believe they will want to work with us as well when they see what we are trying to do to protect our livestock," Bushong said.

Bushong reported that the board has received in excess of $100,000 in assessments since the board was set up earlier this year. Producers contribute 20 cents per head at the point of sale.

Bushong said the board would soon be able to contract with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal Damage Control program for additional flying hours and additional trappers.

"We want our money to enhance their work," Bushong said.

GENERAL SITUATION

Many producers are still looking for a rain. Things are very erratic in cotton right now. There is no pattern to what is happening. Scouting will be very important from now on out. Many cotton fields sustained heavy bollworm damage last week and the egg lay seems like it is going to continue for a while.

COTTON

Bollworm traps are still catching high populations of moths. Budworm trap numbers are very, very low which is a blessing. Hopefully they will stay near zero. Many fields have worm numbers in the range of 30 to 50%. These types of population will devastate the crop and in several cases have already severely damaged fields.

Runnels Co. Moth Trap Catches
Date	Bollworm	Budworm
July 13	221	0
July 15	78	0
July 19	112	0

The big question is "Do we load the crop now or wait until moisture condition improve?" That's a decision you must make, no one can make that decision for you.

Dipel® and Larvin® were used exclusively early on with good results for the most part. Where I saw most failures was where worm populations were very high. Biological insecticides are certainly not a rescue material and should only be considered when worm populations are around maybe 20% or less, and worms should be very small. If eggs are present an ovicide should be added. Larvin® has done a good job as well, but also requires good coverage. Both of these products should go out in 8 to 10 gallons of water/acre by ground or 5 gallons of water/acre by air.

The later part of last week we began using pyrethroids in situations where there were small, medium and large worms, high egg counts, and moderate to high infestations of aphids. Those fields look real good today. If a pyrethroid goes out an aphicide should be added. If you add Bidrin® the recommended rate is 4 oz./acre. If you choose Lannate® C-LV the rate is 8 oz./acre. I do not see using Furadan® for aphid control right now. I feel it should be used later in the season when aphid populations are at the highest levels.

You can expect good to excellent results from any of these aphicides the first application, but expect less results after the second application. The economic threshold for cotton aphids is when an average of 50 aphids per/leaf exist and populations seem to be increasing. The economic threshold for bollworms in blooming cotton should be 12 to 15 treatable worms/100 plants, or 5,000 to 7,000 treatable worms/acre.

GRAIN SORGHUM

Area dryland sorghum needed a two inch rain two weeks ago. Much of it will never head out or mature the head due to the dry conditions. I would expect some producers will resort to baling it. Early planted sorghum managed to sneak by the dry conditions and some fields look pretty good. I would expect some fields will be harvested within the next couple of weeks.
