Jackson honored on 100th birthday

Pearl Jackson, retired dedicated teacher, celebrated her 100th birthday with a reception on Sunday, February 6. More than 150 guests attended the celebration hosted by the Rebecca, Bethany and Good News Sunday School Classes of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Jackson retired from teaching at Winters High School in 1963, but continued to teach Sunday School at the First Baptist Church from 1925 until 1990.

She was born February 7, 1894, in Bell County and received her degree from Mary-Hardin Baylor in Belton. She taught two years in Belton before moving to Winters in 1925. She earned her master's degree from Hardin-Simmons University.

She married C.S. Jackson on August 23, 1914. He operated a drug store and bakery and was mayor of Winters for several years. Their son, C. S. Jackson, Jr., resides in Midland along with one granddaughter and two great-grandsons.

Mrs. Jackson is known for her strictness and ability to bring out the best in her students. She is a strong believer in education and has influenced many young lives.

Many of her former students have visited her throughout the years. She once stated to one of her former students that she didn't understand why God has let her live so long, and the student replied, "I do, Mrs. Jackson. He's not ready to give up being boss."

In 1982, Mrs. Jackson was crowned Coming Home Queen by the Winters Ex-Students Association. In 1986, the Class of 1940 established the Pearl Jackson Scholarship as their appreciation "to one who strove so valiantly for so many years to instill knowledge in the hearts and minds of restless students".

In addition to a host of former students attending Sunday's reception were six former educators who taught alongside Mrs. Jackson, as well as Virginia Schwartz who replaced Mrs. Jackson when she retired. Present were Charlsie Poe, Doris Stoecker, Eula Mae Kruse, Nina Hale, Tooter Harrison, and Corrine Gardner Buckner. Combined years in the teaching field for these eight professionals total 245.

One highlight of Sunday's celebration was the recitation of a poem by Mrs. Jackson, who, as is her fashion, held the complete attention of the entire room.

Alex Orr of Tyler and a 1943 graduate of Winters High School, presented Mrs. Jackson with a framed poem he wrote as a tribute to her many years of diligent teaching and guidance.

Dozens of cards from former students and friends covered the reception table, and approximately $1,000 was donated to the Pearl Jackson Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Jackson received a certificate from Governor Ann Richards and recognition by Willard Scott of NBC television. While some folks might be impressed by such recognition, Mrs. Jackson simply stated, "Those things don't mean that much to me. What really matters is that the people around me are still speaking to me."

She said the celebration was "certainly heart warming with enough memories to last another hundred years."

Time Reaches Out

*Time reaches out for all of us,
Some it passes by.
Don't give it thought or make a fuss
You won't even blink an eye.*

*Yesterday seems like long ago -
It really is, if you think that way
Our set of mind makes the unreal so,
Yesterday becomes today.*

*God gave each of us the choice
Of being joyful or quite sour
I choose calling out in a loud voice
"I'm making the most of each hour!"*

*God places some to bring love and joy
To those whom life has pushed around.
These special ones become annoyed
When a smile turns into a frown.*

*I am fortunate to know a lady with special gifts
Who brought out the best in me.
She always had encouraging words to lift
Me to heights I thought I'd never see.*

*Today I bring a special thought
To one so unselfish and giving -
What she gives cannot be bought
It's in her, just because she's living.*

*So here it is, One Hundred Years
Since the wonderful day of her birth.
Not even a million cheers
Begin to echo her worth.*

*Very few ever leave behind
Such a trail of good works done.
Far back in the reaches of my mind
Others like her, there are absolutely none.*

School board sets first single member district election

In the first election with single-member districts, the Winters School Board set May 7, 1994, as the election date. Districts three and four are up for election.

February 21 through March 23 are the dates available to file for election by candidates wishing to run for district three and four. District three is basically the southeast part of the city of Winters and the rural area between Highway 83 south of Winters and Highway 153 east of Winters.

District four is almost all the rural area bounded by Highway 83 north of Winters and Highway 153 west of Winters.

A map showing all districts of the Winters school district will be run in next weeks' paper.

Bob Prewit presently represents district three and Ronald Presley represents district four. Prewit lives in district four and Presley in district three.

The election rules state that a person does not have to live in a respective district to be a candidate but, if elected, must move to that district within ninety days of election.

Only persons living in districts three and four will be allowed to vote in this election.

In other business of the board, the high school principal, Charles Kidwell; the elementary principal, Terry Wyatt; the athletic director, Robin Byrd, and the business manager, Jim Butler, received one year extensions of their contracts. All except the athletic director received $100 a month raises.

The board also set the Driver's Education fee at $150.

All board members were present at the February 7 meeting.

Rodeo Association in need of support

The directors of the Winters Rodeo Association are facing the possibility of losing their rodeo arena. The association has fallen into serious financial difficulty and it has become the responsibility of a few interested individuals to keep the association afloat.

The board of directors will have their regular meeting on February 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Winters Community Center. They would like to urge any and all interested parties to attend this meeting, as community involvement and support are essential to the survival of the arena and Rodeo Association.

Winters schools respond to requests from concerned parents

The Winters Elementary School Campus Performance Council, in conjunction with parents of fifth and sixth grade students, is attempting to determine whether the school should offer instruction concerning self-responsibility and sex education. Principal Terry Wyatt states that the school has received several requests from parents to consider this issue. Upon receiving these requests, the campus council, comprised of parents, teachers and interested members of the community, elected to ask parents to join in the decision-making process.

The first meeting was held on January 24. Parents of fifth and sixth graders were asked to attend because the proposed curriculum is designed to be taught at those two levels. Copies of the complete curriculum were available to each parent and Mr. Wyatt reviewed several important points with those present.

1. The curriculum in question has been evaluated and amended, where necessary, to ensure that it is abstinence-based instruction.

2. Any elementary student would be required to have a consent form signed by a parent or guardian to enroll in any such class.

3. There would be separate classes for boys and girls.

4. The curriculum teaches from within the context of the traditional family structure.

Parents were asked to review the curriculum and bring any suggested amendments to the next scheduled meeting, which was set for Monday, February 7.

The campus council is seeking input from parents concerning the curriculum in order to determine if the curriculum is appropriate

Ag Commissioner Perry to speak in Winters

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry is to be in Winters for a town hall meeting on February 16. The meeting will be at Farmers Seed and Supply at 3 p.m.

This item was one of the topics discussed at the Winters Area Business and Industrial Corporation (WABIC) meeting on February 2.

A letter from Jerry Willingham of the Ballinger Industrial Corporation was read, thanking WABIC for the tour of Winters industries. WABIC extended a special thanks to Randall Conner for conducting the tour.

City Administrator Aref Hassan reported that the city has

Potato/Hot Dog Supper this Friday

The Women's Service League will be hosting a Baked Potato/Hot Dog Supper on Friday, February 11 from 4:30-7:30 at the school cafeteria.

Tickets for the baked potatoes with all the trimmings are $3.50 while tickets for hot dogs and chips are $2.50. Both include dessert and drink. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any club member.

joined the Highway 83 Association. This association is in support of NAFTA trade route from Mexico to Canada. The monies collected by the association are to be used for repair and maintenance of highway 83.

Interested parties from 40 rural communities have organized meetings designed to promote cooperation for industrial growth.

Meetings have been held in Ballinger, Anson, and Breckenridge and the last one is planned for mid-February in Sweetwater.

The City of Winters pledged a $2400 donation to the WABIC for 1993 and 1994.

It was mentioned that restoration work has begun on the Rock Hotel.

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1994

I've heard a lot of people asking about the strong earnings being reported by oil companies during the last quarter of 1993 despite the low prevailing oil prices. Most are confused as to how a company can have such great earnings while having to endure a 25% drop in product prices.

A lot of the confusion results from a subject we discussed in this column some time ago. We talked about how just about any company remotely related to the petroleum business can call themselves an 'oil company'. In this case, major oil companies are reporting earnings right along side the independents, despite one major difference between them. Majors, or most of them, have a fully integrated company, meaning they have oil wells and gas stations. Independents, or most of them, have only oil wells. Never-the-less, both are called oil companies.

The importance of this difference becomes apparent if you consider the circumstances surrounding low oil prices.

Gasoline comes from refineries. Refineries have to buy crude oil to refine into gasoline and other products. Considering the refineries as a separate business unit for a moment, these guys do pretty well when their raw material (crude oil) is cheap. The reason they do so well when crude oil is cheap is that gasoline prices drop slower than oil prices. They drop slower because the refineries are afraid to lower their products prices too soon if a major turnaround in the price of crude occurs.

Major oil companies own refineries, so they get to reap some of this benefit. Independents do not get this advantage, so they suffer on the price of oil and natural gas alone. This is the major case made for integrating a company-broaden the propensity for profit by owning both ends of the business.

Why don't all companies buy their own refineries?

Well, there is risk in being integrated as well. When oil prices are high, there is consumer resistance to gasoline prices that rise too fast. So, gas stations usually go slow on the increases simply to keep their competition from getting all of their customers. Thus, their profit is eroded by rapidly rising crude prices.

Ah yes, there is always an equally compelling downside, isn't there?

In any event, the oil companies claiming high profits are those with refineries. Why, there are some companies (like Sun Company) that are ONLY refineries--they own no domestic crude producing properties. Those with only the oil wells hope for better times and wish their counterparts in the refining business the best.

The one thing they do know is that all of this profit they are so loudly ballyhooing in the press is causing the general public to become even more convinced that all oil companies never suffer, no matter what the oil price.

The 'poor boy' outfit selling their best pickup to keep their wells pumping $13 oil begs to differ.

Crews News

by Hilda Kurtz

Those who get too big for their britches will be exposed in the end.

Nila and Therin Osborne and Linda and Dale Duggan hosted the well attended chili and stew supper Saturday night. There were a few visitors.

A brief business meeting was held with Bill Mathis presiding. The theme for the March supper will be "St. Patrick's Day." Wear something green or pay $1.00 fine.

Hosts in March will be Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Collom and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Faubion.

Eileen Prater and Kenny Cartwright were given surprise gifts of a towel set and a tool box. They say "thanks" to everyone.

Eileen also thanks everyone for the lingerie shower Monday night in the home of Lavera (Williams) Tharp in Winters.

Bill Mathis is to get the material needed to patch the gym roof.

A "Happy Birthday" phone visit went out to Bob Whittemore in Pueblo, Colorado from the Rodney Faubions on Sunday.

Having dinner with Rodney and Bernie Faubion after Sunday church services were Bro. Oscar and Janie Fanning; Nila and Therin Osborne and Coleman Foreman. Son Brian was home from Angelo State over the weekend.

Eileen, Jeremy and Tiffany Prater attended the Ft. Worth Stock Show and showed two pigs on Wednesday and Thursday.

Carolyn and Chad Kraatz; Eileen, Jeremy and Tiffany Prater spent Sunday afternoon shopping in Abilene.

Spending the weekend with Doris Wood were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Calcote, Jim, Aaron and Wes of Winters; Mr. and Mrs. Maloy Bryant, Robert and Douglas of Abilene.

Walter Pape of Santa Anna and Mike Boatwright of Anson spent Saturday afternoon with Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion.

Friends and family are invited to join in the celebration.

Birthday party a big surprise for Clarence Hambright

Was Clarence Hambright ever surprised!

On Saturday, January 22, 1994, five generations of Hambrights, 24 people in all, showed up to celebrate Clarence's 80th birthday. The five generations included his three children, Donald of Ft. Worth, Sam of Chandler, Arizona and Jerri Heathcott of Winters and their families. Also attending were his sister, Bessie Baldwin, and sister-in-law, Eunice Polk.

The celebration was in the form of a bar-be-que dinner with all the trimmings. Mr. Hambright was presented a birthday hat imprinted with the message "I'm the leader, which way did they go?" which he wore during the festivities. Four of his great-granddaughters and one great-great-grandson helped him to blow out the one matchstick candle atop his favorite chocolate cake and to open many birthday cards.

Attending were Jerri Heathcott, Lou, Eunice Polk and Bessie Baldwin of Winters; Jack, Trish, Sarah and Amanda Olvera; Donna, Lonnie and Whitney Brazzel; Donald and Nora Hambright; Rickey, Kaye, Aquilla and Christopher Hambright, all of Ft. Worth; Sam, Carol, Chris, Bill, Billy, Julie and Kendra Hambright from Chandler, Arizona.

"I don't worry about being bald and gray," Clarence remarked. "I'm just grateful I have lived long enough to be that way."

Stephen Patterson and Jennifer Bradshaw

Bradshaw-Patterson plan April wedding in Kerrville

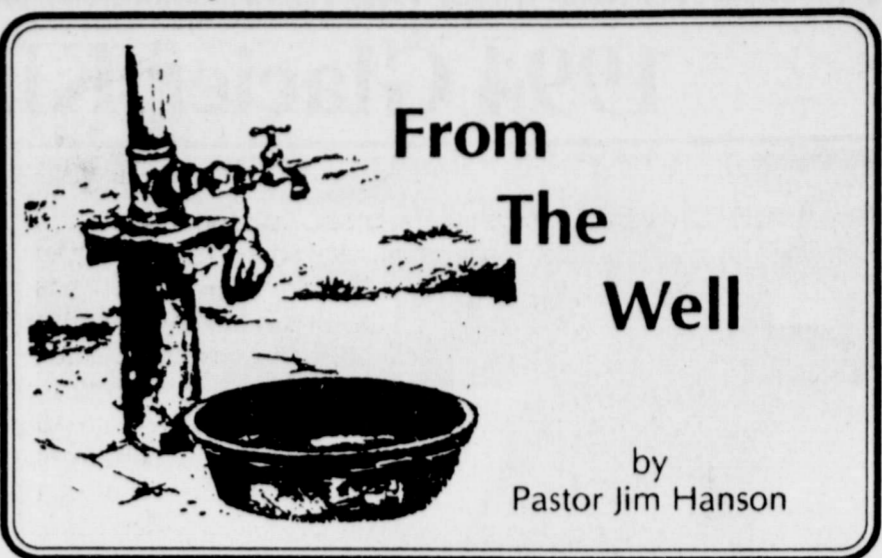

Miss Jennifer Elaine Bradshaw and Mr. Stephen Mark Patterson announce their engagement and approaching marriage.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, April 9, 1994, at 6 p.m. at Trinity Baptist Church in Kerrville.

Jennifer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven M. Bradshaw of Kerrville, is a 1989 graduate of Fredericksburg High School. She is employed at Security State Bank in Kerrville.

Stephen is the son of Ms. Theresa R. Patterson of Winters. He graduated from Winters High School in 1989 and from Angelo State University in 1993. He is employed with The Principal Financial Group in San Antonio.

"Jim's a good worker." My mother was talking to a friend. They were in the kitchen. I was in the living room. I overheard her say it. And a warm glow started in my heart and flooded my whole body with a sense of fulfillment. I had arrived.

More than anything else, in those days, work and being a good worker were a sign of maturity, of growing up. From the time I was four I wanted to grow up. To be big and strong. And to work. My hero was Harland Peterson. My cousin who lived on my Aunt Suzie's farm. He was at least six feet two inches tall and weighed over two hundred pounds. He could haul sacks of grain and ten gallon cream cans full of milk and walk with them forever. When he stuck his pitchfork into a mound of hay and lifted it into the wagon, it seemed to me that half the stack was on it. Big. Strong. Hard worker. My hero.

I got my first job away from home when I was in the sixth grade. My dad got me the job. I was to work on the farm for Jens Dahl. Jens was a young farmer with a wife and four kids-all younger than me. The pay wasn't much. And the hours were long. There were cows to milk and pigs and chickens to feed. There was a barn to clean and a garden to weed.

I'll never forget the day Jens and I went to the potato patch. Pig weeds had taken over, and some were six feet tall! It had rained for several days and the ground was soft. A good day to pull weeds. We attacked that patch with vengeance. After one hour or so, Jens said he had to go. Left me in charge. My plot to clean up. I was so proud. By noon I was half-pooped. By sun-down I was done in. But, even so, I was proud. I had done it. I had completed the work. Finished the job. That night at supper I was rewarded when Jens said, in front of the whole family, "Good job, Jim."

That's all he said. That's all he had to say. That's all he had to do to reward me. Just to know that I had done the job well was all it took to satisfy my soul.

That's the way we were raised. To do a good job. I got my first lessons, at home, from my mother. There were no girls in our family. Four boys. And so, part of, our job description when growing up was "to help mother." We started out learning how to pick up our clothes and make the bed. Soon it was "drying the silverware." Then, washing the floors. Since we were flexible-that made sense. My mother worked right along side of me. And, about the time I figured the job was done, she'd say, "You've done a good job, Jim, but you're not finished." Then she'd take me to the corners where I had failed to dig out that inch or so in the corner. "You're not done until the job's done. And the job's not done until you get the corners." Wow! What a lesson. Maybe that's where the expression came-we've got to cut corners." Well, not mother. Corners were part of the job!

My mother and dad were part of that great number of religious people that built America. One of the basic beliefs they had was "our work matters to God." I'm so grateful that I had such an upbringing. Hard work usually never hurts anyone. It can help them to grow up. And, become a "workman who has no need to be ashamed." II Timothy 2:15.

Memories Photography to have Grand Opening

Angela Brewer, photographer, invites everyone to visit her studio.

Portfolios will be on display for public viewing. These will include wedding, graduations, proms and general photography and portraits.

Phone number, after 5 p.m., is 754-5324.

Guess Who's 60?

Our Boss (Former?)

Birthday Boy #1 is revealed elsewhere in this issue.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to Editor:
I would like to take this time to say Happy Birthday to Mrs. Pearl Jackson.

All those who went through hertyping classes at Winters High School respected and loved her.

I never was her star student as were many of my relatives, but she took time with me and I became accurate, though never fast, at the keyboard.

It meant a lot to me to go to the same school, walk the same halls, and have some of the same teachers that my dad did. He used to tell me stories of his school days and of Mrs. Jackson.

Thank you, Winters, for being the greatest place in the world to grow up and thank you, Mrs. Jackson, for being there for us. Happy Birthday!

Linda Bedford Sullivan

Letter to Editor:
Thank You Lord for Mrs. Pearl Jackson!

What that dear lady has meant to me as well as many Winters High School graduates cannot be put into words.

I graduated from WHS in 1954 carrying with me "tools" for my future--whatever future could be put together with what I had to offer. Forty years later those "tools" continue to direct my everyday life. The skills Mrs. Jackson so diligently taught me have enabled me to supplement my family's income for several years prior to becoming co-owner and co-manager with my husband in our company--Cross Timbers Computing. For almost twenty years we've had the privilege of providing jobs to employees and services to clients.

With a warm heart, may I say HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MRS. PEARL JACKSON, and a great big THANK YOU for a gift given to me many years ago--a gift that keeps on giving!

Sweethearts

Bill and Josie Hoppe: Married 63 years

Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe have known each other all their lives and had their first date on April Fool's Day. They were married on January 11, 1931. The Hoppes believe that church and family help to hold couples together. Bill says, "When things get rough in this fast world, turn off your hearing aid."

Wayne and Virgil Roberts: Married 58 years

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts went to school together. Wayne asked Virgil for a date while she was on a date with someone else. They were married on June 30, 1935. The Roberts' learned to laugh at a lot of things. They worked hard and played hard and prayed a lot, too.

Floyd and Halley Sims: Married 56 years

Mr. and Mrs. Sims met when Halley came to Winters to teach tap dancing. They were married in Ballinger on June 30, 1937. The Sims stated that they worked hard together all these years. Floyd stated that Halley "became a truck driver to help me out in my gasoline hauling business."

..... for a lifetime

Bill and Katie Minzenmayer: Married 66 years

Mr. and Mrs. Minzenmayer grew up together and went to school and church together as children. They were married on January 15, 1928, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Stoecker. They attribute the longevity of their marriage to "a lot of give and take."

W.D. and Louise Waggoner: Married 66 years

Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner met when she came to Winters to visit her brother and sister. They were married on December 10, 1927 and moved to Winters in 1943. The Waggoners think their marriage has survived all these years because of the patience and respect they have shown each other. Also, "We just don't quarrel."

Loy and Edna Jackson: Married 63 years

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were children together in Shep. They were married on January 7, 1931. This marriage has lasted 63 years because they have sometimes tended to each other's business and sometimes left each other's business alone. Mr. Jackson was a rancher and stated that although Edna couldn't ride horses when they married, she learned and "made a good hand."

Poe's Corner by Charlsie Poe

Corn Dogs and Many Things

The Abilene Writer's Guild was a part of the first non-profit Showcase held at the Mall of Abilene on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Luby's hosted a breakfast for all participants.

Members of the guild thought this would be a good time to publicize their work and enlist new talent. We could also tell them about our writing contest that would end in mid-March. Not to mention the possibility of selling some of our books.

Mary Sherry, president, helped set up our booth. Nancy Robinson and I supplied the books: everything from airplanes to cowboys and Indians. About mid-morning we took advantage of the Continental breakfast Luby's had so graciously provided.

Before we had the booth ready, my cousin, Ramona Cooke, came by on her morning walk. She gave me a quick hug and bought my book, Booger Red, then went merrily on her way. I had already introduced my driver as nephew Harold Poe.

When Dennis and Barbara Rodgers, their children and families showed up it was quite a crew. We were so excited to meet again, it was like a family reunion. My co-laborers looked startled and one said, "Is she kin to everybody?"

I assured them that not all were my relatives. Dennis Rodgers was my daughter-in-law's cousin.

At noon I needed a break and not being very hungry, I looked across the Mall at the corn dog stand where son Dennis and I once ate a corn dog along with a cup of coffee while we were waiting on my glasses to be repaired. It happened to be his birthday.

Two friends, Thelma Ledbetter and Hazel Badgett, strolled by. They asked us what we were doing in Abilene. "We're celebrating Dennis' birthday. Come join us," I said. They thanked us, but declined.

Not everyone appreciates corn dogs, but there must be some in Heaven because they have a Heavenly smell.

Hamburgers and hot dogs have been around for a long time, but it wasn't until corn dogs came on the market that I got excited. Perhaps it's because of the cornbread coating. As a child I ate cornbread for breakfast if there was any left from supper.

The placemat on my tray gave the information that corn dogs had been selling since 1949. Corn Dog 7 was incorporated in 1978 and opened its first outlet in Abilene the day after Thanksgiving in 1978. The owners do not claim to be the first party to introduce corn dogs to the market, but they believe they were the first to call their product "Corn Dog."

In 1982 Corn Dog 7 started a franchising program which has been successful. There are companies and stores totaling in excess of 100 locations spread over 21 states. Of course, there are other goodies to accompany the main fare.

After lunch the crowds in the Mall began to grow and we were busy distributing material and selling books for several hours. About the time I decided to call it a day, Barbara Damall, my daughter Jeannine's roommate at Baylor, came by and we had a conversation that lasted for some time. She had lost track of Jeannine and we had lost track of her.

Barbara was the daughter of Laura and Del Barber, who once lived in Winters, where Laura taught. Myrtle Barber, her aunt, was also an English teacher in Winters High School. Myrtle helped her mother, a widow, to educate several boys in the family. Most of them became lawyers. Barbara is married to Joe Damall, a professor in the psychology department at Hardin-Simmons University since 1975.

She and Jeannine should have a lot to discuss when they meet again.

This world is full of so many wonderful things, that we all should be as happy as kings!

NRH offers monthly screenings

North Runnels Hospital will have the monthly blood pressure/blood sugar clinic on Tuesday, February 15, 1994.

The clinic is held from 8 a.m. to noon in the hospital lobby. This service is free. The public is invited and encouraged to come.

For more information call the North Runnels Hospital at 754-4553.

Dorcas Class has study on love

The Dorcas Class of the First Baptist Church met on February 3 in the home of Ella Mae Sawyer with Parrie Carwile as co-hostess. Linda Morrison led the opening prayer. Roll call was answered with the word "love."

Minutes were read and a general discussion held. The class agreed to provide Valentines and refreshments for the Head Start children. A collection was taken for the Love fund.

Charlsie Poe gave the devotional on love. Dorothy Long presented the Diversion concerning a visit to a glass factory showing things made of glass and how they were made.

In attendance were Billie Whitlow, Lillian Eubanks, Freida Roberson, Parrie Carwile, Eunice Polk, Lynda Morrison, Dorothy Long, Dortha Lawrence, Charlsie Poe, Ella Mae Sawyer.

"Schools"

for Winters students. The school intends only to provide what the community feels is necessary. If the parents respond in a positive way to this issue, the council will refer the curriculum, with any changes recommended by the parents, to the WISD school board for consideration.

Principal Wyatt again stresses that parental concern brought about the consideration of this type education. The local school board is entirely responsible for deciding whether or not sex education is taught. The Texas Education Agency has only one real requirement for elementary sex education and that is that the local school board must approve any curriculum that is used, if such classes are taught.

Mr. Wyatt requests that anyone with questions or opinions about this vital subject call him at 754-5577.

Senior Citizens Nursing Home News

by Billie Ruth Bishop

Mrs. Imma Ueckert was honored by her daughter, Nelda Voss, and other members of her family with a surprise birthday party last Tuesday at Sr. Citizens Nursing Home. The residents and employees were invited and treated with cake and punch. Congratulations, Mrs. Ueckert.

Thank you to Elaine Miller for the popcorn cake and to Omer Hill for bringing turmps to the Nursing Home.

Next Monday, February 14, we will crown King and Queen of the Nursing Home. We will celebrate with a special Valentine Party at 3 p.m.

Mrs. Pearl Jackson, a resident of Sr. Citizens Nursing Home, was honored with a reception in recognition of her 100th birthday. The reception was held Sunday, February 6 at First Baptist Church and was hosted by friends and former students of Mrs. Jackson.

Congratulations, Mrs. Jackson, from all of us at Sr. Citizens Nursing Home.

Mrs. Gladys Joyce is a patient in North Runnels Hospital. We hope she has a good day today.

Mrs. Maggie Pillion of Shep is a new resident in Sr. Citizens Nursing Home. She is in room 2B. She would enjoy cards and visits.

Our monthly birthday party will be Thursday, February 17 at 3 p.m. Hostesses for the event will be ladies of Drasco Baptist Church. Honorees are Pearl Jackson, Imma Ueckert, Frank Collins and Manuel Esquivel.

February is National Children's Dental Health Month. The American Dental Association encourages parents to have their children's teeth checked.

Boll Weevil Eradication Program explained

Following is the third in a series of questions and answers concerning the Boll Weevil Eradication Program:

Q. Where and when will I pay?

A. Assessments may be collected at a point of handling or at the ASCS office. Payments will be required by the Foundation on a zone-by-zone basis, e.g. at crop certification time or at the conclusion of ginning. In the Southern Rolling Plains zone, for example, funds will be collected at the county ASCS office at the time you certify acres. Other zones may vary from this.

Q. Can I request a refund?

A. There are no provisions for refunds to farmers during the term of eradication. However, once eradication is completed, remaining funds will be distributed to contributing growers on a pro-rata basis.

Q. Will my landlord be able to vote, even though he doesn't pay for any of the program's cost?

A. The operator responsible for paying for the program is the official voter for that acreage.

Q. How can I make my opinions known to the people who run the program?

A. You may telephone 1-800-687-1212 for information. Or you may wish to contact the interim board member in your proposed zone directly.

Q. Who is eligible to be a candidate for the Foundation board?

A. Eligibility requirements are as follows:

1. Must be eligible to vote in the referendum and be a resident within the zone.
2. Must file an application with the Foundation 30 days prior to the referendum.
3. Must file a petition with signatures of ten eligible voters from zone.
4. Write-in candidates will be counted, but must include name and county of residence.

5. The board candidate that receives the highest number of votes will be elected.

Q. How will the program's directors notify me of when and where spraying will occur?

A. You will be notified by the field unit supervisor prior to the initiation of treatments. The spray schedule will be explained to you or your manager.

Q. I'm chemically sensitive. How will I know when and where spraying will occur?

A. You will contact the Program Manager to advise the program of your sensitivity. The program will make every effort to contact you when spraying will occur in your area. This may be frequent in the early stages of the program but will gradually decrease until spraying will cease altogether after three to four years.

Q. What if I don't want to participate in the eradication program?

A. Once a zone is approved by cotton farmers, there are no means of exemption for any grower in the zone. The program's success lies in total cooperation among all cotton growers.

Q. What is the boll weevil eradication program going to cost me?

A. Prior to initiation of a program in your area, an estimated budget will be developed by a team comprised of growers, USDA, Texas A&M and the Foundation. Growers will be advised of the estimated program costs at public hearings and on the ballot when they vote on the referendum for an eradication program in your zone.

Q. What happens if there are no USDA funds available to the state?

A. The decision to initiate an eradication program is a producer decision, with or without USDA funds.

Eagle Court of Honor ceremony February 20

A ceremony will be held at St. John's Lutheran Church Sunday, February 20, 1994, at 2:00 p.m. for Robert Matthew Bedford, son of Mrs. John B. (Nadine) Bedford; Mark Lynn Deike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Deike; Christopher Allen Dry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Dry; and Walter Dean Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Evans.

These four young men will be honored with the Eagle Court of Honor.

After the ceremony a reception will follow.

The church is located at 1100 W. Parsonage Street in Winters.

4-H Club report: Members choose craft projects

by Kelly Walker

The Winters 4-H Club met on Monday, January 24 at the activity center of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church.

Amy Heathcott, President, called the meeting to order. Kelli Slimp led the Inspiration. Michelle Paschal led the U.S. Pledge and Kendra Hope led the 4-H motto and pledge. Chanda Hoppe called the roll with 35 members being present.

Special recognition was given to new members. The club welcomed Fallen Perrie. Chanda Hoppe read the minutes from the November 23 meeting.

A report on Christmas gift baskets was given by Kelly Walker and Misty Pritchard read "thank you" notes received from the recipients of the baskets.

A display of craft projects was shown to the club by Patricia Hohensee. Members signed up for the project they preferred. Craft meetings are scheduled for February 5 and February 12 at the St. John's Lutheran Church Activity Center. Members should bring their craft supplies to these meetings.

Winters Cub Scouts do well in district derby competition

by Chris Parramore

Fast cars and excited little boys proved to be a winning combination for some Pack 249 Cub Scouts at the White Buffalo District Pinewood Derby Race. Approximately 400 area scouts turned out with Derby entries on Saturday, February 5 at the VFW Post in Abilene.

Out of five rank divisions, Winters scouts walked away with three first place titles, places in the overall competition, as well as numerous other awards.

In the Wolf racing division, Wacey Cason took the first place spot, going on to win fifth in the overall competition. Out of the Bear entries, Brandon Davis' car won first place in the racing division and second place in the overall competition.

Winters took it all in the fourth grade Webelos racing division. Joseph Joeris won first place with his car, advancing to the overall competition, where he took fourth place. Christopher Kraatz took the second place spot in the division, followed by Wade Parramore, winning third place. Ryan Bland's car came in fourth, with Jeremy Hope and J.T. Davis finishing in the top ten cars.

Cars were also judged for design awards in each division. In the Webelos division, Jeremy Hope won first place for Best Design. Wade Parramore won first place in Aerodynamics, second in Most Unusual and second for Best Paint Job. Ryan Bland took second place in Aerodynamics.

From the Bears division, Matthew Meyer won third place for Most Unusual. Brandon Davis was awarded a third place ribbon for Most Original.

In the Open Racing Division for older Boy Scouts and adults, Eric Joeris won second place.

Derby participants were Tiger Cubs Aaron Cook, Jeremy Mendoza and Zak Wall; Wolves Wacey Cason and Justin Laird; Bears Lincoln Edwards, Guy Slimp, Matthew Meyer and Brandon Davis and Webelos J.T. Davis, Ryan Bland, Christopher Kraatz, Jeremy Hope, Joseph Joeris and Wade Parramore.
