VOLUME FIVE WINTERS, TEXAS 79567 THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1994 PRICE 50 CENTS NUMBER 19

Winners named in WRA pickup drawing

Members of the Winters Rodeo Association can breathe a lot easier these days. In an effort to save their rodeo arena and facilities, WRA members sold 400 chances at $100 each to win a 1994 pickup or $18,000 cash, along with $1,550 in other cash prizes.

Winners were drawn at the conclusion of the Mayfest Celebration Saturday afternoon.

Winning the grand prize was a ticket purchased by eleven employees of the City of Winters: Tommy Thormeyer, Charlie Grenwelge, Donna Donica, Sheila Paschal, Bob Palmer, Jack Burns, Felix Gonzales, Ouida Nichols, Jack Davis, Jr., Tony Torres and Louis Ramirez.

As an expression of their gratitude, the pickup winners bought a $100 savings bond for 7-year-old Amber Green, who drew their winning ticket on Saturday.

Other winners are as follows:

- Janet Jutt, Hawley — $250
- Eula Culwell, J. B. Culwell and Linda Teague of Novice — $200

- Aubrey Faubion, Ballinger — $200
- Connie Stevens, Lawn — $175
- Greg Lange, Rowena — $175
- Benny Boatright, Winters — $150
- Jeryl Priddy, Caroline Priddy, Judy Crouch, Red Gerhart and Bobbie Collom, Winters — $150
- Ray Alderman, Winters — $125

WRA Board member Archie Jobe expressed appreciation to all those who bought tickets to help the Rodeo Association.

"We at the WRA would again like to express our thanks to those who have donated to our cause. Once again the people of Winters are coming together to support a community organization," said Jobe.

BIG WINNERS ALL AROUND are these happy folks. Wendell Lee (far left) and Archie Jobe (far right) represent the Winters Rodeo Association which sold 400 chances to win a 1994 Chevrolet pickup or $18,000 in cash, as well as $1,550 in cash prizes. The successful fundraiser will allow the WRA to keep the rodeo arena which had fallen into financial difficulties. Winning first prize were these employees from the City of Winters. Beginning second from left are Felix Gonzales, Jack Davis, Jr., Luis Ramirez, Bob Palmer, Tony Torres, Donna Donica, Charles Grenwelge, Jack Burns, Ouida Nichols, and Tommy Thormeyer. Not pictured is Shelia Paschal. See related article for complete list of winners.

Confusion, apathy evident at Saturday's elections

Last Saturday's elections brought only a light turnout of voters.

Some voters expressed confusion and unhappiness over the new redistricting changes which limited voting to specific districts for Winters City Council and School Board of Trustees.

This new plan is a result of a lawsuit filed by the League of United Latin American Citizens against the Winters Independent School District in May of 1993. The lawsuit claimed that the election system previously used by the WISD violated the Federal Voting Rights Act and discriminated against the minority community.

The City of Winters faced a similar lawsuit from LULAC which prompted the new redistricting changes.

Candidates running for North Runnels Hospital Board of Directors were at-large positions.

One disgruntled voter was overheard to say, "This is the first time in my life I've been denied the right to vote. I'm a taxpayer and I resent not being able to choose our leaders."

Results of the May 7 election are as follows:

- City Council — District 5

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1994

Sometimes, it's good to keep up with what the competition is thinking and saying and doing.

In the current market situation, the OPEC producers are mainly responsible for the level of oil prices we are experiencing. Not that they necessarily planned it this way, but, never-the-less, they have the most poker chips at the table.

They have huge reserves, low-cost production and ample productivity. This combined, allows them to influence the market even when they aren't trying.

Right now, the market perceives that there is an oversupply, so prices are low. OPEC keeps them low by continuing to sell their oil and at whatever rate they can. Whether that is their intention or not is a question for another day.

As a result of this market condition, these guys basically compete with the domestic producer. And, since they can afford lower prices better than the higher cost domestic production, they are formidable competitors.

Now, competition in this case is not like in the classical case. Both groups can sell every drop they can produce, so there is no one taking away market with lower prices, at least not directly. The situation is that it becomes uneconomical for the domestic producer before the average OPEC producer, so the low cost Middle East oil would be the last standing in an extended period of low prices.

So, competition it is and competitors they are.

And, what are OPEC producers thinking and saying and doing?

In Arab Oil & Gas, a publication out of Paris that reports on OPEC producers and their neighbors, a recent editorial has some interesting thoughts for the domestic U.S. producer.

The comments are buried in a discussion about the amount of capital it will take to meet world energy demand in the next decade and the next century.

The basic statistics say that about 30 million barrels per day of additional oil will be needed in the next 15 years just to keep up with demand. Interestingly enough, this is about equivalent with the total current OPEC capacity.

Note I said capacity.--the current ceiling, the max, the most from the available stream. Not current production but current capacity.

The deal is that work may have to start very soon to meet that demand level. That includes mainly facilities in the Middle East, as the reserves are there. So, we are not talking development, but, rather, infrastructure.

Further, experts estimate that about 30 trillion dollars will be needed to meet this demand. That is about 1.5 times the WORLD Gross Domestic Product in a year.

The bad news is that it is hard to get there from here at $17 per barrel. At $30 per barrel--maybe.

After reviewing all of these facts, the editorial writer makes a point (and this is where we should perk up and listen).

"The solution is not hard to imagine...Either...the world accepts lower rate of demand increase for oil and ...gas...or it has to expect a fresh energy shortage within 5 to 10 years...to...stimulate investments that would be impossible at prices under $20-25/barrel."

Bearing in mind that all of these guys are hoping for higher prices, and thus their opinion may be affected by wishful thinking, it is still significant to note that the largest producers in the world expect higher prices.

Mayfest '94—a festive occasion for all to enjoy

by Dawn Green

Mayfest '94 was a day of entertainment, excitement, sports and good old-fashioned fun. The festivities got under way with the raising of the six flags of Texas by Boy Scout Pack #249 and Girl Scout Troop #178. Todd Felty and Jim Lincycomb played the National Anthem as a trumpet duet.

Near-perfect weather prevailed for most of the day, with an overcast sky holding back the heat.

The softball tournament held throughout the day was won by The Regulators, with The Avengers taking second place and Most Wanted, third.

The volleyball tournament started at 8 a.m. and ended with OUCH in first place. The Rebels placed second.

Due to the large number of entries in the tennis tournament, it has not yet been completed.

The First Mail Run at Ft. Chadbourne

The arrival and departure of the first west bound mail at Fort Chadbourne late in the afternoon of September 23, 1858, was an occasion for a celebration on the part of the drivers, station men and soldiers, all of whom according to Ormsby, New York Herald Feature Writer, appeared to have "been having a jolly good time," which probably began in the settler's store kept by a Mr. Lee.

J.B. Nichols of Crocker's Division was to drive the next stage west. Mr. Mather, conductor on Glover's Division was to act as guide, riding on ahead on horseback to point out the way near the new piece of road.

The mules were unusually wild, and Nichols was unable to control their contortions. The mules reared, pitched, twisted, whirled, stood still and cut all sorts of capers. They finally dashed off in a mad plunge, each one trying to go in a different direction.

Ormsby was tumbled out of the wagon just before the unruly animals bolted among the trees where the frame top of the wagon, with its canvas covering, was completely demolished. Mr. Mather lost his hat and his temper and declared in no uncertain terms that he would take the mail on alone with only the two wheel mules, which he did after they managed to get the two beasts untangled and harnessed again. Ormsby was rescued by Lee, who brought him back, riding double with him on his horse, and the mail finally got under way.

Buffalo Stampede

Lt. P.M. Boehm, Col. Beaumont's First Lieutenant, was on duty at Ft. Chadbourne with his troops, while the colonel was absent from the post, out hunting.

Mrs. Beaumont, as was the custom of many Army women, whether in camp or on post, attached a lariat to the waist of her small daughter Natalie and fastened it to a stout stake. She was then allowed to play about the quarters in sight of her mother.

Natalie had a thirty-foot radius in which to romp. Thus securely "staked out" for safety, there was little thought of fear, for Indian raids had been less frequent since the post was established.

Immense herds of buffalo were grazing as usual a mile or two away; they had approached no nearer while the company was stationed there, but as their sharp-cut trails to Oak Creek for water had led in this direction before, the low plateau upon which the post was located had evidently been their favorite grazing ground.

All was quiet when suddenly something alarmed the buffalo. Crazed with fright they came rushing toward the post, converging as they ran. Other herds joined in the terrific stampede; the ground fairly shook with the shock of the thousands of maddened animals.

Mrs. Beaumont heard the ominous sound and stepped to the door believing it to be the rolling of distant thunder. At a glance she took in the situation. The countless huge beasts were heading for the parade ground and her little one was directly in their path. She felt powerless to act.

Lt. Boehm had heard the noise and had also seen the herds' rapid approach. He was rushing for the child, who was busily picking flowers at the end of her lariat. The shaggy monsters were even then thundering upon the parade ground; any hesitation for an instant and she would be trampled by the animals.

A mesquite tree stood near the stake, or picket pin, with limbs hanging low. Boehm reached the child with a few bounds and instantly pulled the picket pin, and drawing in upon the lariat as he ran, gathered the child up in his arms. He sprang into a tree and clung to it as he continued to protect the child until the last herd of buffalo had passed. He shouted at the animals and they divided at the tree as they plunged along, thus breaking up the stampede. Lt. Boehm's quick thinking prevented a tragedy.

After the minutes and financial statement were read and approved, President Nelan Bahlman opened the business session.

Pesticide dealers must record distribution

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry reminds pesticide dealers that under Texas pesticide laws and regulations dealers are responsible for documenting all federally restricted and state limited-use pesticides that they distribute. By law, "distribute" means offer for sale, hold for sale, sell, barter or supply.

"We've had some dealers who unload to customers right off the distributor's truck," Perry said. "People have been unsure about who is responsible for recording the distribution. The dealer has placed the order and is getting the money from the customer, so the dealer is responsible for record-keeping."

In addition to recording distribution and keeping it on file for two years, dealers can only distribute a restricted use or state limited-use pesticide to a licensed or certified pesticide applicator. In Texas, dealers who distribute pesticides that are restricted under state and federal laws must be licensed by the Texas Department of Agriculture on an annual basis.

Commercial and non-commercial applicators must also be licensed annually, while private applicators must renew their license every five years.

For more information about dealer licenses or pesticide use training, contact TDA's Pesticide Programs Division at (512) 475-1657.

Science Fair displays students' knowledge and creativity

by Janis Hounsel

Winters students displayed the results of many hours work, both in planning and actual preparation, on Thursday afternoon, May 5. The occasion was the annual Science Fair, held in the WISD gym.

Grades 9-12, sponsored by Beth Wortham, had a total of 24 entries with 48 students involved and the combined 5th and 6th grades, sponsored by Brilla Magee, 16 entries exhibited. Judging was done by Tamela (Mrs. Wayne) Hennington of Abilene.

Mrs. Hennington studied the exhibits individually, discussing them with their creators, then made her decision. Prior to the awarding of places, she had all contestants to gather in the stands and explained how her decisions were reached.

Points considered in the judging process were:

- What was the hypothesis or objective of the exhibit?
- Was the objective brought to a conclusion?
- Did the display follow a logical procedure?
- Did the student(s) describe the exhibit well and with enthusiasm?
- Was the display attractive?
- Finally, Mrs. Hennington said, she considered her personal opinion of the exhibit.

In the combined 5th and 6th grades, third place was won by 6th grader Kristin Goff with "Penicillin, A Miracle Medicine"; second place went to Lori Bredemeyer, 5th grader, with "Vacuums" and first place was won by 5th graders Kayla Colburn and Jade Richards who displayed "Electromagnetism—Building a Wheelless Train."

High school winning exhibits were: third place, Leslie Webb and J.G. Heidenheimer, "Fish Behavior" - what kind of food causes the greatest behavioral changes?; second place, Alisa Presley and Jamie Brown, "Preserving Cut Flowers" - which additives keep flowers alive longer? and first place, Scott Kozelsky and Charlie Burton, "Solar Panels" - does surface area affect production?

Results of Regional Golf Tourney

by Coach Robin Byrd

Bad weather forced the Regional Tournament to be a one-day tournament. Chris Dry of Winters was the 7-AA District Medalist.

Chris played under some adversity. Wednesday night he came down with a sore throat and had to have a shot, along with some medication. Thursday was not a good day for playing golf while being ill. Chris shot an 89. Friday's round was rained out after five holes.

San Saba's Medalist won the Regional Tournament and Memphis and Albany are the two teams going to the State Golf Tournament.

Chris had a good year and played well. Being the District Medalist is something to be proud of. It is too bad that Chris became sick when he did.

Pre-K and Kindergarten can still pre-register

The kindergarten round-up held on April 19 provided some invaluable information and a big "thank you" is due all the parents who attended.

If you were, for some reason, unable to attend this pre-registration for pre-kindergarten and kindergarten, you will still have the opportunity to register your child for school.

The Winters Elementary Office will be open on Tuesday, May 17, from 4 to 5:30. This time has been set aside for the convenience of those who were working or out of town at the time of the round-up in April.

It is very important for pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students to pre-register in order to determine the number of students per teacher for the following year. It can save your child the trauma of being changed from one classroom to another, in case we have to add another teacher at the beginning of the school year. This has happened in the past and should be avoided, if at all possible.

Parents' cooperation in obtaining this vital information will be very much appreciated.

Good luck at the State Meet, Cody!

Webb takes first place in State 2A keyboarding competition

Leslie Webb, WHS senior, placed first in 2A Keyboarding at the 1993-94 University Interscholastic League State Academic Meet held May 7 at the University of Texas at Austin. Leslie was coached by Virginia Schwartz.

Leslie qualified typing 73 words per minute with 2 errors. His total score was better than scores of students from 1A, 2A and 5A schools who competed on the same copy at the same time. During the award presentations, it was pointed out that of the top four places in Keyboarding, three went to Winters, Post and Ranger. These schools are in the same region.

Through participation at the State Meet, Leslie qualifies for the Texas Interscholastic League Foundation scholarships. Since its inception in 1958, the TILF has provided over $8.6 million to approximately 8,300 students. This year, the TILF expects to award an estimated 608 new and renewed grants valued at more than $750,000. These are funded by grants and donations from foundations and individuals.

This year's Keyboarding contest was the final one. Beginning in 1994-95, it will be replaced by Computer Applications, which is essentially an extension of key-boarding using a computer.

Governor Ann Richards stated, "Many years ago, my debate partner and I won the State UIL championship. It was the highlight of my high school years. The opportunity to compete in the UIL provided the best possible training for public speaking, thinking on my feet and research preparation on topics of importance."

Virginia Schwartz has been highly successful coaching this event. During the past five years, she has had two students, Leslie Webb and Jimmy Hernandez to place first, with Hernandez placing second during the 1992-93 competition.

Leslie has been accepted to attend West Texas A & M in Canyon.

Deike offered scholarship to attend TCU

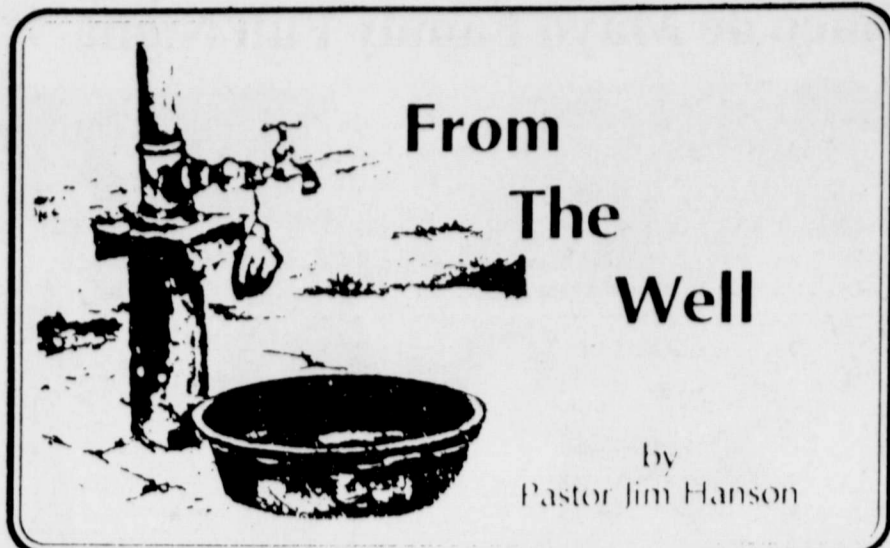

Kristin Elaine Deike of Winters is among 933 high school seniors chosen as recipients of academic scholarships at Texas Christian University. The honorees successfully competed in an initial group of scholarship applicants from across the nation.

Applicants were judged primarily on the basis of their strong academic records with consideration given to leadership and community service. Based upon continued accomplishments at TCU, the awards are renewable through completion of the baccalaureate degree.

TCU's unique commitment to the individual also is demonstrated when these outstanding students are the first invited to participate in an intensive leadership development program conducted each year, according to Leo Munson, assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs and dean of admissions. "This combination of academic challenge and leadership training is directed at students with identified potential for distinguished lifetime service and careers," he added.

Kristin was offered a Deans Scholarship and has indicated a preference for studies as a communication graphics major. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Deike of Winters.

Good memories, memories of good times, linger longer in the well-spring of my soul. It's been about three weeks, now, since Mac Sayles invited Aref and me to go on a "Trail Ride for Rehab", and to ride in his wagon behind "Doc" and "Duke", his two beautiful and powerful Percherons. We were to ride about five hours, up and down the trails on the Chadbourne Ranch. Rugged, beautiful, scenic. Lots of history, lots of memories connected to this place. Fort Chadbourne was built in 1852, over 140 years ago. Used in our skirmishes with the Indians until 1864. It is said that Robert E. Lee spent some of his career stationed there.

We arrived at the Camp Headquarters about 10:00 a.m. on Saturday morning. The camp site was already filled with trailers, wagons, pickups and cars. There was the smell of coffee in the air, and still a little left-over smoke from some open fires. There were over 20 wagons in the train, and many more horsemen who had saddled up for the ride. It was time to "move 'un out," and I was privileged to be seated in the lead wagon. I had the best seat in the whole train, because I could sit looking back over the whole company-following. The sky was blue, the air was fresh, and crisp, and the gait was just right. To see that group of horses or mules and wagons, and folks saddled up - brought up some deep stuff from my well.

I remembered my grandmother telling me about how she and her husband spent their honeymoon in a covered wagon, moving from Wisconsin to Iowa - before fences. Each night she would put together some bread for baking and during the night the dough would rise. As they hit the trail in the morning, she and grandpa would look for a settler's hut where there was smoke coming from the chimney. When they saw smoke, there was a pretty good chance of a wood stove alive with fire. And, an oven. They would stop, and grandma would ask the woman of the house, "Could we please use your oven to bake this bread. I'll give you a loaf in exchange." She literally "baked her way" across that trail.

As we moved on, my mind wandered back to the days of the forts, when soldiers were stationed there in that lonely outpost. And the Indians, who roamed the prairie, and who fought and resisted the change that was coming. My mind went deeper, to the days of the settling of this country, and the move westward, when wagon trails were dim. Before roads and super highways. And, before that - all the way back to that first trail ride into Western civilization when God called Abraham and told him to sell his holdings, pull up stakes, and go to a land "that I will show you." And Abraham went, responding to voices that came into his soul, and told him to move on in faith.

I don't think my mind would have been capable of such a trip if it hadn't been for the trail-ride and the people who came. I thought about it. "Why do they come? Why do they put in all this work and all these hours just getting ready? Why do they pay for it - and donate so generously? Over $6,000 was raised by these over 200 people! For the West Texas Rehabilitation Center!

My conclusion is - these folks, like Abraham, are listening to the same voice as Abraham. A voice calling them to remember where they came from, who they are, and where they are going. For a few hours to slow down to a horse-walking gait, to smell the fresh air, to see the prairie. To get back "down to earth", and be re-connected with the Creator, His creation, horses, and people. To be re-habilitated and renewed. Life is a journey. Life is a trail ride. Thanks, Mac. Thanks, folks. Thanks for the memories. Thanks, God.

Attention beef cooks!
 Cooks who have a winning way with beef can still enter the 1995 National Beef Cook-Off—but not for long. Entry deadline is just around the corner.
 Until June 1, 1994, the National Beef Cook-Off® is seeking original, convenient and delicious beef recipes to compete for $45,000 in prizes. That includes a $25,000 cash grand prize for the recipe named "Best of Beef."
 For almost three decades, the National Beef Cook-Off has encouraged nonprofessional cooks to share their winning main dish beef recipes that are easy to prepare and fit the time demands of today's busy schedules. Many National Beef Cook-Off entries reflect "hot" dining trends with ethnic or innovative flavors.
 Enter now, to beat the deadline. For entry details, call the National Beef Cook-Off hotline, 800/621-7011. Or, send favorite beef recipes to National Beef Cook-Off Entries, P.O. Box 3240, Chicago, Ill., 60654.
 Fifteen selected finalists will win expense-paid trips to compete at the 1995 National Beef Cook-Off, Sept. 21-23, 1995, in Little Rock, Ark.

Fruit thinning...important for size and quality

By RICHARD MINZENMAYER

Thinning is one of the most difficult tasks for most home gardeners to face. They often plant radishes and every seed seems to come up twice. Then when radishes don't form normal size roots they wonder what happened. It's important to thin radishes to one inch apart within a week for germination if you expect to have good size roots.

It's also important to thin developing fruit like peaches, plums, apples, etc. as soon as possible. Developing fruit should really be removed when it's less than the size of a dime and spaced so that the peaches, for example are 6-8 inches apart. If you leave too much fruit on the trees, you may damage them and you are bound to have smaller fruit. It takes 191 peaches that are 2 1/2 inches in diameter to make the same half bushel.

The earlier you can thin the better, so start as soon as you can even if the tree hasn't completely finished blooming. If you only have a few trees in the backyard it's early enough to remove them by hand—just give them a little twist and off they come. Commercial growers go a step further and tie an 18-24 inch length of rope or rubber hose on the end of a broom handle and knock the fruit off with this device. There is usually some natural drop of fruit later on in the year whether you've thinned or not, but even with this it's important to do the preliminary thinning.

It's also important to begin spraying fruit trees if you haven't already. As soon as 3/4 of the blooms have dropped off, begin to put on cover sprays of an insecticide like malathion plus a fungicide like Daconil or Captan. Regular applications of these pesticides early in the season will guarantee that you will have high quality fruit free of the fungus brown rot and plum curculio. These unfortunately are common when fruit trees aren't sprayed. As long as you follow label recommendations, you'll find that the end product is still very safe to eat.
