Son of Winters natives killed in one-vehicle accident

Shae Rae Scott, 19, son of Sam and Judy Scott of Wink and formerly of Winters, died as a result of injuries sustained in a one-vehicle accident near Midland last Friday morning.

Scott, a former all-state quarterback for Wink and Garden City, was killed about 2:55 a.m., according to the Department of Public Safety report.

He was a passenger in a car that veered off the highway and struck a sign post, Highway Patrol Trooper John Barton reported. He was not wearing a seat belt.

Scott was pronounced dead at Midland Memorial Hospital by Justice of the Peace R. H. Pine.

Eduardo Gonzales of Andrews, who was driving the car, was not injured, Barton reported.

Shae Rae Scott

He was a Baptist.

Survivors include his parents, Sam and Judy Scott of Wink; his grandparents, Jon and Lavoy McNeill of Wingate and G.W. and Flo Scott of Winters; three brothers, Jodie Scott of San Antonio, Codie Scott of Amarillo, and Jim Bob Scott of Amarillo; and a sister, Brande Scott of Wink.

Graveside services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Crews Cemetery under the direction of Harkey Funeral Home of Monahans.

Shae Rae Scott was born May 17, 1975, in Winters. During his high school career, he led Garden City to the state playoffs in 1990 and 1991, and Wink in 1992. At the time of his death, he was working in Midland and attending Midland College.

A CLOSE CALL for Santos Reyna of Winters occurred during the early morning hours of July 20, when he apparently lost control of his 1976 Chevrolet and ran off a bridge, ending up in the creek. The accident occurred about 9 and 1/2 miles south of Winters on FM 2887. Reyna, who declined medical treatment, was arrested for driving while intoxicated and taken to Runnels County jail.

Council has ten minute meeting

In almost record time, the Winters City Council handled three agenda items in the regular meeting on July 25.

A public hearing was held on amending a water and sewer grant with no comment by the public. This hearing was necessary to petition the state for a change in the grant that the Council wanted.

With little discussion, the council also accepted a bid from the Texas Municipal League regarding insurance. The bid for property and workmen's compensation was $42,213.00. This was $200 less than last year.

The Council rejected "Expanded Local Calling" (ELC) by GTE. ELC would allow calling between Winters and Ballinger without paying long distance charges. The Council voted this down because a fee of $7.00 per phone line per month would be added to all Winters area phone bills.

After approval of the bills and the minutes, the meeting was adjourned.

Council members present were Nelan Bahlman, Shirley Hall, David Evans, Manuel Esquivel, and Mayor Joe Gerhart. Absent was Garry Goff.

The Winters High School Varsity Cheerleaders for 1994-95 attended cheerleading camp at Angelo State University June 7-10.

Cheerleaders attending camp were Seniors Brooke Killough, Head Cheerleader, LisAnne Smith and Alisa Presley and Juniors Gayla Clough, Rachel Edwards and Janabeth Bryan. Blizzard mascot Brandi Gray and sponsor Beth Wortham also attended.

Evaluated during the camp in seven different areas, the WHS squad received seven ribbons for superior performance.

The girls were awarded a spirit stick at the end of each day and at the conclusion of the camp were awarded a special spirit stick for overall great spirit during their stay.

Mascot Brandi Gray received superior and excellent ratings and a spirit stick at the camp's closing ceremonies.

Trophies were presented at the Awards Ceremony. Only five trophies for superior performance were awarded, with the WHS Varsity Cheerleaders receiving one of the five.

The cheerleaders would like to thank all of the businesses, families and individuals for the support already shown to this group and look forward to a great year.

Resignations and hiring highlight school board meeting on July 19

The resignations of Sheila Hankins, Kim Sinclair, and Phyllis Eacker were accepted by the Winters Independent School Board trustees during a regular meeting on Tuesday, July 19.

Ms. Sinclair was the elementary counselor; Ms. Eacker was the music teacher; and Ms. Hankins was a third grade teacher.

An additional special education teaching position became necessary because of more students and more requirements. This additional position was approved by the board.

Upon the recommendation by Elementary Principal Terry Wyatt, the board hired Liz Anderson as elementary counselor, Sharon Thomas as special education teacher, and Hattie Brewer and Sherry Hardy as teachers.

High School Principal Charles Kidwell recommended Cindy Davis as high school English teacher and Charles Wilson as counselor. The board approved unanimously.

In other business, the board accepted the architectural drawing for the elevator in the high school building. The estimated cost is expected to be approximately $125,000. The school will advertise for bids.

Tennis Coach Biff White made a presentation to the board asking for more funds and accessibility to an ever expanding tennis program. No action was taken.

A report was given that the TEA approved exemptions for final exams for ninth through twelfth grades.

Lunch prices were set for the coming year to be the same as last year.

Somebody Cares Ministries was the only bid for the sale and removal of the elementary special education annex building. The bid of ten dollars ($10.00) was accepted unanimously.

The only bid for the old field house (varsity dressing room) was also by Somebody Cares Ministries. The bid was five dollars ($5.00) and was rejected by the board.

Discussion by the board was of using it for a visitors dressing room. Head Coach Robin Byrd and Superintendent Tommy Lancaster are to report at a later date what it takes to be used as a dressing room.

Board members attending were Gary Pinkerton, Ronald Presley, Bob Prewitt, Joe Pritchard, and Charles Allcorn. Joe Bryan and Bob Webb were absent.

OIL BUSINESS . . .

By Reg Boles ©1994

It's time for Oil Patch Basics, again, and we are going to talk valves this time.

Valve is not a term that is exclusive to the oil business like say "roughneck" or "BS&W" (Basic Sediment & Water). It is a term that is used to describe any number of instruments, tools, and gadgets in industries as varied as the oil patch, hospitals, and the automobile mechanic shop.

A valve is simply defined as the device that allows or prevents movement of some substance in one direction only in a passage or flow path. (Many thanks to Merriam-Webster for this definition.)

Most of us are familiar with valves in a faucet or hydrant that we turn on to get water.

In the oil patch, there are gate valves, globe valves, ball valves, check valves, and so on.

The most basic valve is one that is opened or closed by simply rotating a handle parallel or across a length of tubing or whatever. It could be a gate valve, which utilizes a flat piece of metal or ceramic that blocks flow in a line. Or, it could be a ball valve which uses a part of a sphere to block flow (ball valves have better precision and sealing because the internal workings of the valve utilize the fitting advantages of a smooth curved surface). Globe valves are just a particular type of ball valve that utilizes the entire ball in some fashion to block flow.

The check valve is one that will allow fluid movement in one direction, but automatically closes if flow attempts to change directions (thus the term "check").

Ask any roustabout how red his face got when he put his first check valve in backwards and all of the oil from a well ended up in the water tank.

All of these valves can be actuated by manual manipulation by humans or by mechanical or electronic means relying on some action to cause them to open or close without human intervention.

The automatic valves that sense some condition and then open or close are used to empty tanks when they get full, divert water to its proper place, or even maintain a constant pressure in some vessel.

Valves come in all sizes. There are the small one-inch (or smaller) valves used on control lines at separators, and there are the 16-inch valves used on some flowlines from central gathering stations.

Regardless of their size, they are all relied upon to move the oil, water, and gas to its proper place. They are so commonly used, that most oil field hands don't think about them until something goes wrong with one of them. Then, their importance in the larger scheme of things becomes all too plain.

Sr. Citizens Nursing Home Employee of the Month

Sheri Jordan is the Employee of the Month for Winters Senior Citizen Nursing Center. She was born in Pennsylvania and has been in Texas fourteen years. Graduating from Central High School in San Angelo, Sheri has worked at nursing homes for about 4 years and here in Winters Nursing Center for 5 months.

She is an EMT and is in the intermediate class now and wants to go on to paramedic classes. Her dream is then to go to RN school and follow in her mother's footsteps. Her mother is Jenny Jordan.

Working with older people is sometimes frustrating, but she does enjoy her work.

She enjoys the outdoors, fishing, camping, and horseback riding.

Members of WFVD attend school at A&M

Several members of the Winters Volunteer Fire Department are presently attending a week-long intensive fire training school on the campus of Texas A&M.

Robert Doty, Kenneth Doty, James Hamilton, Jerry Mac Jackson and Johnny Merrill are among hundreds of firemen from across Texas receiving credit for training in fire prevention and fire fighting.

Continuing credit received by the Winters firemen is necessary for the City of Winters to maintain a key rating which in turn affects the insurance coverage and premium rates for area residents.

When to contact Social Security

There are a number of different times in your life when you should contact Social Security. Here are some of the most common reasons:

-  You need a Social Security number for yourself or your child or a replacement card;
-  You are age 62 or older and planning to retire;
-  You are disabled and will not be able to work for at least 1 year or longer;
-  You have a child with a disability;
-  You want to sign up for Medicare and it is 3 months before you will be age 65, even if you are not planning to retire;
-  Someone in your family dies;
-  You, your spouse, or your dependent child(ren) have permanent kidney failure.

You can get help in any of these situations by calling Social Security's toll-free telephone number, 1-800-772-1213, business days between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. The best times to call are early in the morning or late in the afternoon, late in the week, and toward the end of the month. Or, contact your local Social Security Office. When you call, it helps if you have your Social Security or claim number ready. And, if you're calling about a change for a beneficiary or family member, it helps if you have that person's Social Security or claim number available.

It's cooler in Alaska

Summertime is the best time to go to Alaska even if it is only an armchair visit, just as the senior adults took at the Triple L Club meeting Thursday in fellowship hall at First Baptist Church.

From Dallas, we take a plane to Vancouver, British Columbia, which provides for a day's sight-seeing in Canada before we board our ship, Sun Princess, to travel the inside passage to Alaska.

Vancouver is a delightful surprise. It is a city of 650,000 and a million and a quarter in the urban area. We visit the 1,000 acre Stanley Park and the smaller Queen Elizabeth Park with its conservatory and sunken gardens. The Grouse mountain skyride is for adventurers. We stand and gaze at its 3,760 foot elevation.

The city has 72 inches of rain a year. This makes for great forests and lush beauty of plants and flowers. A lumberman's arch shows the size of the trees. The massive size of the Indian totem poles at Prospect Point is unbelievable. Each totem figure, animal, and head depicts some phase of the early coastal Indian life or belief.

The salmon fish hatchery is a delight as visitors can see the salmon perform their strange habit of swimming upstream to spawn. We must hurry on before we lose some passengers who love to fish.

Our first port of call in Alaska is Ketchikan where there is rain, rain, and more rain so get out your raincoat and galoshes. Last year's total rainfall was 176 inches. An average year has only thirty days of sunshine.

Despite the weather, the scenic sight-seeing is worthwhile: Saxon Totem Park, the Totem Bight State Park with more totem poles, Tongass National Forest with its Rain Forest, correctly named.

There are many things to see in Juneau, the capital city, but the big attraction is Mendenhall Glacier, 15 miles from the city. It is backed up by the 1,500 square mile Juneau icefield and is 1,000 feet thick.

We continue on to Skagway where we disembark and check in at the Klondike Hotel. A gold rush atmosphere prevails here where boardwalks, unpaved streets, and frame buildings are reminders of the turbulent years when streets were choked with gold-crazed stampedeers rushing to the Klondike.

In its heyday, Skagway was the gateway to the Trail of '98 and the Klondike gold fields. Once a city of more than 20,000, it is now a quiet town of 750 people.

It is interesting to see numbers of young people with 30 pound packs on their backs getting ready to go up the Trail of '98, a favorite pastime.

We tour the museum and the Gold Rush Cemetery where Soapy Smith is buried. He was an Indian fighter who wanted an easier way to make a living so he came to Skagway and began some of his "con" games. One of these games was wrapping some bars of soap in bills of denominations from $5 to $100 and selling them for $5 a bar. Only a few of those who bought soap got any money and Soapy had a short life. He was killed at the age of 38. He was buried outside the cemetery so as not to contaminate the other graves.

We'll ride the narrow gauge railway through the mountain to Whitehorse. The seats run parallel with the train and take your choice. You will either sit looking at the side of a mountain or down into a bottomless valley.

A stop at Lake Bennett is most welcome. It provides a tasty lunch of moose meat, stew, beans, sourdough biscuits, apple pie, cheese, and coffee. This was the meal the sourdoughs ate when going up the trail. It was served in an old fashioned depot.

We will get to Whitehorse about 5 o'clock in time for us to attend the Frantic Follies, with superb actors and musicians.

(Next week, we begin a two-day trek by motorcoach for Fairbanks.)

This information was provided from notes and slides that were taken on my trip to Alaska in 1976, sponsored by the Abilene Reporter News.

From The Well

by Pastor Jim Hanson

It's summer-time. It's hot and dry. Easy to work up a sweat. A drink of cool water really tastes good - better than any other drink. Sometimes a swallow of it will sink down to the bottom of my soul, to the deep part of my well. It connects me to all those thirsty ones in all of previous history who have come to a well, thirsty, and, having drunk from its treasure - store, move on - satisfied. One of my favorite stories in the Bible is the meeting Jesus had with the woman at the well. They met there, at Jacob's well, at noon. Jesus asked her for a drink of water. And before the meeting was over, her soul was filled with the water of eternal life.

I can remember, as a boy down on the farm, being fascinated with pumps. You know, the hand operated pumps, where you had to work the handle to lift the water to the spout. Maybe it was because it was one of my first real jobs. Aunt Suzie would ask me to go fetch her a pail of water. Off I would go, down to the well. If it was a dry summer, sometimes I would have to prime the pump with a can of water left there for that purpose. Anyway, after a few strokes of my pumping, the water, cool water, would splash into the bucket. And, before long, I would be trudging back up to the house, carrying a bucket of water with both hands, hoping not to splash too much over the sides. It was a chore, to be sure, and hard work for a six year old boy. But - so satisfying. Real work.

On one occasion, while visiting Aunt Hannah, who lived just a half-mile away, I was pumping away and, quite literally, pumped up a frog. Came right out of the spout and started to splash all over the bucket. Somehow the frog got out of the bucket and started to hop all over the place. I yelled out, "Aunt Hannah, Aunt Hannah, I pumped up a frog!" Almost as if I had found gold - so excited was I. For years later - even today - my relatives in Wisconsin remind me of that day - and chuckle.

When we lived in Montana, after Ramona and I were married and had our five children, we would often go up into the bad-lands near Glendive. This area later was named MAKOSICA State Park. A dear friend of ours, a little old lady, had a cabin there. It was really run down, but was a quiet place for us to go. There was no electricity, no telephone, and we had to walk a quarter of a mile to fetch water from a pump. We loved it there, at McCarty's cabin. Some of our best times as a family were spent there, getting back to the basics, where everybody works together just to live. And we carried water in a bucket.

I'm sure that's the reason I have the drawing of the spigot and the cup above this column. My daughter-in-law Ruth sketched it from a place somewhere up in the Panhandle of Texas. There is something about a well, and cool, clear water that draws me to soul. There is some kind of mystical connection. When the land is dry and thirsty, so am I. I feel the parchedness in my soul. I plead for rain, and when it does rain, a smile comes up from deep within me. Do you suppose there really is a connection?

And, maybe, yes, for sure - an even deeper connection, like when Jesus says, "those who drink of the water that I will give them will never be thirsty...will become in them a spring of water gushing up to eternal life." And how come some of the last words of the Bible in Revelation 22:17 are, "Let everyone who is thirsty come. Let anyone who wishes take the water of life as a gift."

Winters Elementary summer activities receive high marks

There was a lot going on at Winters Elementary this summer and everyone involved agrees that Summer TIPS, Camp Learn-a-lot and the Summer Challenge Camps can all be rated a high success.

Children participating enjoyed everything from field trips to weekly swimming and skating trips to playing fun floor games and eating yummy snacks. Classes were small and children received a great deal of T.L.C.

TIPS will resume on Monday, August 29. However, early morning care will be available beginning Tuesday, August 16 in room 32 of the Elementary School.

The TIPS staff wishes a happy summer to all the children and are looking forward to a wonderful school year.

Free breast and cervical cancer screenings for area women

Screenings to detect two cancers common among low income women are available at no cost at various regional sites to eligible women.

The screenings include a clinical breast examination and mammogram to detect breast cancer and Pap tests to detect cervical cancer. These tests detect the cancers in their earliest stages when treatment is most successful and death is most preventable.

The National Cancer Institute (NCI) recommends annual mammograms for women over 50. The NCI recommends a Pap test for women over 18 or women of any age who are sexually active. Women past menopause also should have an annual Pap test.

To be eligible for free breast cancer screenings, a woman must be over 40. To be eligible for free Pap tests, a woman must be over 18 or sexually active. To qualify for either screening, the woman must have a monthly income of less than $1,162 if she is a "one-person family" or a monthly income of less than $1,572 if there are four people in her family. She also must have no other way to pay for the screenings.

For more information on breast and cervical cancers, the public can call the Cancer Information Service in Texas and Oklahoma toll-free at 1-800-4-CANCER. Free cancer education publications in English and Spanish are also available.

In Abilene, screenings are available at YWCA of Abilene, 1350 North 10th Street. The phone number is (915) 677-5321.

In San Angelo, screenings are done at Texas Department of Health Public Health Regions 9 & 10, 1702 West Avenue N. Phone number is (915) 944-9545.

The Origin of Beef Cuts

Know where popular cuts of beef got their names? Bob Oros of Edmonton, Okla., in an article in the March 1994 issue of Restaurant Hospitality, indicates that each cut's name has its own interesting history.

—Steak derives from the Saxon word steik (pronounced stick), which means steak on a stick.

—Chateaubriand, a tenderloin for two, is named for the French statesman of the Napoleon era, Francois Chateaubriand.

—Filet mignon combines two French words. The noun "filet" means boneless meat; the adjective "mignon" means small.

—London broil is flank steak that's marinated and broiled or grilled. It gets its name from the city of London.

—The Porterhouse steak is a strip loin and tenderloin. Its name comes from a porterhouse or coach stop, where travelers ate steak and drank ale.

—The T-bone is the same as a Porterhouse, but with a smaller tenderloin. Its name derives from the shape of the bone.

—The Delmonico, a ribeye, was named for Delmonico's Restaurant in New York.

—Sirloin received its name from King Henry VIII, who knighted his favorite cut of beef.
